The street was lined with two rows of austere and solemn trees. In one way it was like parading between the plumes on an immense hearse. These trees, lowly sighing in a breath-like wind, oppressed one with a sense of melancholy and dreariness. Back from the road, behind flower beds, controlled by box-wood borders, the houses were asleep in the drowsy air. Between them one could get views of the fields lying in a splendor of gold and green. A monotonous humming song of insects came from the regions of sunshine, and from some hidden barnyard a hen suddenly burst forth in a sustained cackle of alarm. The tranquility of the scene contained a meaning of peace and virtue that was incredibly monotonous to the warriors from the metropolis. The sense of a city's battle. The Binkses were vaguely irritated and astonished at the placidity of this little town. This life spoke to them of no absorbing nor even interesting thing. There was something unbearable about it. "I should go crazy if I had to live here," said Mrs. Binks. A warrior in the flood-tide of his blood, going from the hot business of war to a place of utter quiet, might have felt that there was an insipidity in peace. And thus felt the Binkses from New York. They had always named the clash of the swords of commerce as sin, crime, but now they began to imagine something admirable in it. It was high wisdom. They put aside their favorite expressions: "The curse of gold," "A mad passion to get rich." "The rush for the spoils." In the light of their contempt for this stillness, the conflicts of the city were exalted. They were at any rate wondrously clever.

But what they did feel was the fragrance of the air, the radiance of the sunshine, the glory of the fields and hills. With their ears still clogged by the tempest and fury of city uproars, they heard the song of the universal religion, the mighty and mystic hymn of nature, whose melody is in each landscape. It appealed to their elemental selves. It was as if the earth had called recreant and heedless children and the mother word, a vast might and significance, that was troubling the baby's temple. When she straightened up she saw that Binks, too, was absorbed in the contemplation of Tommie. They looked at each other presently, exchanging a vague smile. Through the silence came the voice of a plowing farmer berating his horses in a distant field.

The peace of the hills and the fields came upon the Binkses. They allowed Jimmie to sit up in bed and eat cake while his clothes were drying. Uncle Daniel returned from a wagon journey and recited them a ponderous tale of a pig that he had sold to a man with a red beard. They had no difficulty in feeling much interest in the story.

Binks began to expand with enormous appreciations. He would not go into the house until they compelled him. And as soon as the evening meal was finished he dragged his wife forth on a trip to the top of the hill behind the house. There was a great view from there, Uncle Daniel said.

The path, gray with little stones in the dusk, extended above them like a pillar. The pines were beginning to croon in a mournful key, inspired by the evening winds. Mrs. Binks had great difficulty in climbing this upright road. Binks was obliged to assist her, which he did with a considerable care and tenderness. In it there was a sort of a reminiscence of their courtship. It was a repetition of old days. Both enjoyed it because of this fact, although they subtly gave each other to understand that they disdained this emotion as an altogether un-American thing, for she, as a woman, was proud, and he had great esteem for himself as a man.

At the summit they seated themselves upon a fallen tree, near the edge of a cliff. The evening silence was upon the earth below them. Far in the west the sun lay behind masses of corn-colored clouds, tumbled and heaved into crags, peaks and canyons. On either hand stood the purple hills in motionless array. The valley lay wreathed in sombre shadows. Slowly there went on the mystic process of the closing of the day. The corn colored clouds faded to yellow and finally to a faint luminous green, inexpressibly vague. The rim of the hills was then an edge of crimson. The mountains became a profound blue. From the night, approaching in the east, came a wind. The trees of the mountain raised plaintive voices, bending toward the faded splendors of the day.

This song of the trees arose in low, sighing melody into the still air. It was filled with an infinite sorrow—a sorrow for birth, slavery, death. It was a wail telling the griefs, the pains of all ages. It was the symbol of agonies. It celebrated all suffering. Each man finds in this sound the expression of his own grief. It is the universal voice raised in lamentations.

As the trees huddled and bended as if to hide from their eyes a certain sight the green tints became blue. A faint suggestion of yellow replaced the crimson. The sun was dead.

By a new device recently patented in U. S. and Canada by CHAS. CLUTHE

ESTABLISHED 1871

RUPTURE CAN BE CURED WITH NO INCONVENIENCE

WITHOUT A TRUSS

CHEAP BY MAIL

Your name to us means comfort to you. A card and I will do it.

Age of person or size in inches.

CHAS. CLUTHE
134 KING ST. WEST
TORONTO - - - - CANADA

WANTED-SALESMEN. We want a few men to sell a Choice Line of Nursery Stock. We cannot make you rich in a month but can give you steady employment and will pay you well for it. Our prices correspond with the times. Write us for terms and territory to

THE HAWKS NURSERY CO.
Rochester, NY
11 1m

THE ART OF CURING SCIATICA, RHEUMATISM NEURALGIA PAINS IN BACK OR SIDE OR ANY MUSCULAR PAINS LIES IN USING The D&L MENTHOL PLASTER.

IN AIR TIGHT TIN BOXES
SOLD EVERYWHERE 25c

M. STORMS,
MOSCOW

has been over fifty years in the undertaking business in the county, and can turn out work equal to any in the Dominion.

A large stock of Coffins, Caskets, Robes, Crape Gloves and Badges, constantly on hand, and sold at reasonable prices.

Embalming a Specialty. Every facility on hand for doing the work.

25 per cent cheaper than any in the trade. Give me a call at Moscow.

M. STORMS, Prop

Carscallen & Bro.,
Low Priced, No Combination
Undertaking Establishment.

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of all the latest designs to be found in which we are prepared to sell 25 per cent. cheaper than any house in the county. We use the best deodorizer, thus obviating all unpleasant odors. Embalming a Specialty. Having purchased one of the Handsomest Hearses at the Toronto exhibition we are prepared to attend personally funerals in the most satisfactory manner. The public will do well to call and examine our stock, and be convinced that ours is the place to buy.

COFFINS, CASKETS, ROBES, Etc.

We have also added a full line of the newest tainguin Wall Paper, Ceiling Decorations, Window Shades and Picture Railing, Paints and Oils Paint Mixed. Persons wanting anything in this line will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere. Remember the place, Centre-street one block south of Main

CARSCALLEN & BRO

Minard's Liniment cures Garget in Cows

connection of all manner of outrages and rebellions and powers

Binks felt the falsity of her emotion in a vague way, but at that time he only made a sullen gesture. Later, however, he cried out in a voice of sudden violence: "Look at Tommie's dress! Why the dickens don't you put a bib on that child?"

His wife glared over Tommie's head at her husband, as she leaned around in her chair to tie on the demanded bib. The two looked as hostile as warring redskins. In the wife's eyes there was an intense opposition and defiance, an assertion that she now considered the man she had married to be beneath her in intellect, industry, valor. There was in this glance a jeer at the failures of his life. And Binks, filled with an inexpressible rebellion at what was to him a lack of womanly perception and sympathy in her, replied with a look that called his wife a drag, an uncomprehending thing of vain ambitions, the weight of his existence.

The baby meanwhile began to weep because his mother, in her exasperation, had yanked him and hurt his neck. Her anger, groping for an outlet, had expressed itself in the nervous strength of her fingers. "Keep still, Tommie," she said to him. "I didn't hurt you. You needn't cry the minute anybody touches you!" He made a great struggle and repressed his loud sobs, but the tears continued to fall down his cheeks and his under lip quivered from a baby sense of injury, the anger of an impotent child who seems as he weeps to be planning revenges.

"I don't see why you don't keep that child from eternally crying," said Binks, as a final remark. He then arose and went away to smoke, leaving Mrs. Binks with the children and the disheveled table.

Later that night, when the children were in bed, Binks said to his wife: "We ought to get away from the city for awhile at least this spring. I can stand it in the summer, but in the spring——" He made a motion with his hand that represented the new things that are born in the heart when spring comes into the eyes.

"It will cost something, Phil," said Mrs. Binks.

"That's true," said Binks. They both began to reflect, contemplating the shackles of their poverty. "And besides, I don't believe I could get off," said Binks after a time."

Nothing more was said of it that night. In fact, it was two or three days afterwards that Binks came home and said: "Margaret, you get the children ready on Saturday noon and we'll all go out and spend Sunday with your Aunt Sarah!"

When he came home on Saturday his hat was far back on the back of his head from the speed he was in. Mrs. Binks was putting on her bonnet before the glass turning about occasionally to admonish the little Binkses, who, in their new clothes, were wandering around, stiffly, and getting into all sorts of small difficulties. They had been ready since 11 o'clock. Mrs. Binks had been obliged to scold them continually, one after the other, and sometimes three at once.

"Hurry up," said Binks, immediately, "ain't got much time. Say, you ain't going to let Jim wear that hat, are you? Where's his best one? Good heavens, look at Margaret's dress! It's soiled already! Tommie, stop that, do you hear? Well, are you ready?"

Indeed, it was not until the Binkses had left the city far behind and were careering into New Jersey that they recovered their balances. Then something of the fresh quality of the country stole over them and cooled their nerves. Horse cars and ferry-boats were maddening to Binks when he was obliged to convey a wife and three children. He appropriated the vast expanse of green, through which ran golden hued roads. The scene accented his leisure and his lack of responsibility.

Near the track a little river jostled over the stones. At times the cool thunder of its roar came faintly to the ear. The Ramapo Hills were in the background, faintly purple, and surmounted with little peaks that shone with the lustre of the sun. Binks began to joke heavily with the children. The little Binkses, for their part, asked the most superhuman questions about details of the scenery. Mrs. Binks leaned contentedly back in her seat and seemed to be at rest, which was a most extraordinary thing.

When they got off the train at the little rural station they created considerable interest. Two or three loungers began to view them in a sort of concentrated excitement. They were apparently fascinated by the Binkses and seemed to be indulging in all manner of wild and intense speculation. The agent, as he walked into his station, kept his head turned. Across the dusty street, wide at this place, a group of the universal thing whose power no one escapes. When a man hears it he usually remains silent. He understands then the sacrilege of speech.

When they came to the third house, the white one, with the green blinds, they perceived a woman in a plaid sun bonnet, walking slowly down a path. Around her was a riot of shrubbery and flowers. From the long and tangled grass of the lawn grew a number of cherry trees. Their dark green foliage was thickly sprinkled with bright red fruit. Some sparrows were scuffling among the branches. The little Binkses began to whoop at sight of the woman in the plaid sun bonnet.

"Hay-oh, Aunt Sarah, hay-oh!" they shouted.

The woman shaded her eyes with her hand. "Well, good gracious, if it ain't Marg'ret Binks! An' Phil, too! Well, I am surprised!"

She came jovially to meet them. "Why, how are yeh all? I'm awful glad t' see yeh!"

The children, filled with great excitement, babbled questions and ejaculations while she greeted the others.

"Say, Aunt Sarah, gimme some cherries!"

"Look at th' man over there!"

"Look at th' flowers!"

"Gimme some flowers, Aunt Sarah!"

And little Tommie, red faced from the value of his information, bawled out: "Aunt Sahwee, dey have horse tars where I live!" Later he shouted: "We come on a twain of steam tars."

Aunt Sarah fairly bristled with the most enthusiastic hospitality. She beamed upon them like a sun. She made desperate attempts to gain possession of everbody's bundles that she might carry them to the house. There was a sort of a little fight over the baggage. The children clamored questions at her; she tried heroically to answer them. Tommie, at times deluged her with news.

The curtains of the dining room were pulled down to keep out the flies. This made a deep, cool gloom in which corners of the old furniture caught wandering rays of light and shone with a mild lustre. Everything was arranged with an unspeakable neatness that was the opposite of comfort. A branch of an apple tree moved by the gentle wind, brushed softly against the closed blinds.

"Take off yer things," said Aunt Sarah.

Binks and his wife remained talking to Aunt Sarah, but the children speedily swarmed out over the farm, raiding in countless directions. It was only a matter of seconds before Jimmie discovered the brook behind the barn. Little Margaret roamed among the flowers, bursting into little cries at sight of new blossoms, new glories. Tommie gazed at the cherry trees for a few moments in profound silence. Then he went and procured a pole. It was very heavy, relatively. He could hardly stagger under it, but with infinite toil he dragged it to the proper place and somehow managed to push it erect. Then with a deep earnestness of demeanor he began a little onslaught upon the trees. Very often his blow missed the entire tree and the pole thumped on the ground. This necessitated the most extraordinary labor. But then at other times he would get two or three cherries at one wild swing of his weapon.

Binks and his wife spent the larger part of the afternoon out under the apple trees at the side of the house. Binks lay down on his back, with his head in the long lush grass. Mrs. Binks moved lazily to and fro in a rocking chair that had been brought from the house. Aunt Sarah, sometimes appearing, was strenuous in an account of relatives, and the Binkses had only to listen. They were glad of it, for this warm, sleepy air, pulsating with the sounds of insects, had enchained them in a great indolence.

It was to this place that Jimmie ran after he had fallen into the brook and scrambled out again. Holding his arms out carefully from his dripping person, he was roaring tremendously. His new sailor suit was a sight. Little Margaret came often to describe the wonders of her journeys, and Tommie, after a frightful struggle with the cherry trees, toddled over and went to sleep in the midst of a long explanation of his operations. The breeze stirred the locks on his baby forehead. His breath came in long sighs of content. Presently he turned his head to cuddle deeper into the grass. One arm was thrown in childish abandon over his head. Mrs. Binks stopped rocking to gaze at him. Presently she bended and noiselessly brushed away a spear of grass songs of the trees awe. They had remained motionless during this ceremony; their eyes fell upon the mighty and indefinable changes which spoke to them of the final thing—the inevitable end. Their eyes had an impersonal expression. They were purified, chastened by this sermon, this voice calling to them from the sky. The hills had spoken and the trees had croned their song. Binks finally stretched forth his arm in a wondering gesture.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

"I wonder why," he said; "I wondor why the dickens it—why it—why——"

Tangled in his tongue was the unformulated question of the centuries, but Mrs. Binks had stolen forth her arm and linked it with his. Her head leaned softly against his shoulder.

STEPHEN CRANE.

IT ALL DEPENDS.

This is the waiter when a guest enters.

This is the way he looks when a guest leaves if he has been paid a generous tip.

And this is when a guest leaves without tipping the waiter.—Fliegende Blaetter.

A telephone wire is carried a mile and a half without support over Lake Wallen, between Quinten and Murg, in the Canon of St. Gallen, Switzerland. The wire is two millimetres in diameter.

Keep Minard's Liniment in the House

PLAN OF DAIRY BARN

NEAT AND UP TO DATE

Obtains in Iowa—Convenience, Comfort, Economy of Labor, and Cheap Construction are Its Commendable Features.

The plan of a barn shown above will accommodate 10 to 25 cows, a few horses, tools and machinery. No one barn can be just what will meet the needs of different farmers, differently situated, but the above plan has been found very convenient after several years' use. The plan presented is one employed in the dairy region of Iowa, and will apply elsewhere. The strong points in its favor are convenience, comfort, economy of labor in filling, feeding, cleaning out, easy access to the different kinds of forage and cheap construction.

GENERAL PLAN OF BARN FOR DAIRY FARMERS.

First, make the main part, or hay barn, long enough to hold all the hay, clover, timothy, millet, sheaf oats, corn fodder or other similar food. The frame is spiked together, the posts and braces being of 2x8 in. stuff and the rafters 2x6 in. The posts are 6 ft and the rafters 3 ft. apart. The braces are 12 ft. apart, and fastened to every second post and fourth rafter. The roof will not sag, and the walls will not spread, fastened together in this way. A hay fork runs the whole length and there are no crossbeams in the way. The braces or ties, partially divide the whole haymow into 12-ft sections. These sections are easily filled in any desired order and fed out in any order just as easily. For convenience in feeding this plan is unsurpassed as the forage from each section can be thrown direct into the feeding alley. Hang a steel track for hay fork in the peak of the roof.

Another feature of this plan is that only so much of the barn need be built at first as is needed. The additions for stock and machinery can be built when desired. The room for grain or tools can be suited to each farmer's needs. Windows are not shown in the sketch—put them in wherever needed. Plenty of doors to the cow stable. They are extremely handy for ventilating in hot weather. In cleaning the advantage of numerous doors is also strongly felt, as the manure can be thrown direct from the stall into a wagon, shed or manure boat. The posts of the leantos need be no heavier than 2x6 in. In my barn they are of 2x4 in. stuff and answer every purpose. Make the hay barn any height desired. Look at the "rear view" cut and see how it is protected from the wind.

Suppose you have 20 cows. A hay barn 60 ft. long will give you room on one side for the 20 cows. If the hay barn is but 24 ft. wide it is easier to fill and easier to feed from than the wide;

FARM AND GARDEN.

An Improvement in the Formula for Making Bordeaux Mixture—Less Injurious to Foliage.

This was first suggested by M. Perret at a meeting of the National Agricultural Society of France, and it was designed to remove certain objections to the use of the old mixture. It has the advantage over that famous mixture in being less injurious to foliage, less liable to be washed away by rains, and less likely to choke the nozzle of the spraying machine. The new formula is as follows: Quicklime, 4 pounds 6 ounces; sulphate of copper, 4 pounds 6 ounces; molasses, 4 pounds 6 ounces; water, 22 gallons. The essential difference between the new and old formula is the presence of the molasses, which has a greater influence than would at first be suspected. The prescription, as given by M. Perret, is to add the molasses to 13 gallons of water, then slack the lime and add four and a half gallons of water to form a milk of lime. Pour this slowly into the sweetened water, stirring briskly in order to mix intimately. Next, in the third (wooden) vessel, dissolve the bluestone and pour this into the previous mixture, stirring well. In this blending of materials chemical changes are taking place. When the milk of lime and the sweetened solution are intimately mixed together, then saccharate of lime is formed. Next, when to this is added the solution of sulphate of copper a double decomposition takes place, sulphate of lime is formed on the one and soluble saccharate of copper on the other. This saccharate of copper is only formed in presence of an excess of lime, and its formation is indicated by the mixture assuming a beautiful greenish tinge. Thus the mixture is rendered alkaline and the acid is neutralized by the lime.

Preventing Swarming.

A paper on how to keep bees from swarming, written by Mr. F. W. Clarke of Guelph, Ont., was read at a recent bee-keepers' convention at Albany. After much study of the causes of swarming, he had come to consider it abnormal and experimented much to prevent it. He took six of his strongest colonies, gave them plenty of room and a comb, and only one was induced to swarm. In one case a colony started to swarm; he checked it, and found the frames full of sealed honey. He gave them fresh frames, and they went to work again. Sometimes bees get too hot and swarm; after cooling off, they return. This is not a new idea; in 1814 a writer notes the need of more room to keep bees quiet. One or two non-swarming hives have been put upon the market, but the problem is not yet solved. There is such a thing as a swarming mania. Mr. C. had cured it by catching the swarm in a bag of cheese-cloth, twisting the top and hanging it to the fence over night. In the morning the bees were glad to return home. Mr. Crane had tried all methods known to him and had failed. Mr. Coggshall uses a queen excluder, and removes brood from the lower to the upper story. A member had made the same change for three years, and without swarming. He makes extracted honey, and does not think the plan applicable to comb honey. Mr. Doolittle said that preventing swarming is a simple matter for extracted honey, but not for a comb. He had never succeeded. The desire to swarm is instinctive, and it is not possible to produce a non-swarming race of bees. More honey can be had by conforming to this instinct. Mr. Cornell described the device of a Canadian bee-keeper, a revolving platform, which effectually mixed the bees in the hives and prevented swarming. President Elwood selected 400 swarms from 600, took queens away, cut out queen cells and returned queens in 20 days, and swarming was prevented.

Live Stock Notes.

Hens should never be fed so well that when they are given a good range they will not forage a good portion of the time.

It is best that a cow should be given a rest every year and not milked continuously, as she will do better if given this chance to recuperate.

If your cows get the habit of stopping at night on the dry land in the back end of the pasture, make a road and a bridge so they will not dread to come home.

WOMEN CLAD IN WOOD

A NEW PROCESS BY WHICH SILK IS PRODUCED FROM WOOD.

Already Extensively Used—The New Material Costs Less Than Natural Silk and is Said to be Beautiful.

A process has been discovered by which a material closely resembling silk may be manufactured from wood. Even now women are walking about the streets of European cities in the most elaborate gowns of silk in the manufacture of which the worm had no part. In fact, the silkworm has lost its occupation.

The palm for this valuable discovery in chemical science must go to Switzerland, for a native of Zurich, Dr. Lehner by name, is the inventor of the process.

Some years ago he began to make observations in the habits and physical characteristics of the silkworm and became deeply interested in the subject. He discovered the chemical action which took place in the worm in producing its cocoon, and at odd times sought to counterfeit the work of nature. So convinced did he become of the feasibility of his ideas that he soon abandoned all other work and devoted his time to this single study, in which he has achieved a signal triumph.

In the process of manufacturing the new fabric the principal ingredients used are sprucewood pulp, cotton or jute waste, etc., combined with a large quanity of alcohol. The use of the substantial or solid materials mentioned creates a market for what was hitherto of no use whatever, being burned in factory furnaces to get it out of the way.

Spruce sawdust now has a market value, for this, as well as the other materials, are digested by a chemical process in which alcohol plays an important part. The material thus digested is so much like the cocoon spun by the silkworm that when the two are placed side by side in a finished state it takes an expert to determine which is which.

The artificial material at one state is in a liquid state, and of a density about equal to the ordinary syrup of commerce. When in this state a machine of Dr. Lehner's invention, which may be called an artificial silkworm, comes into play. This machine, which is very simple in construction, requiring so little attention that it can be kept at work with about as much labor as is devoted to a twenty-four hour clock, performs exactly the same mechanical work that a silkworm does. It draws from the liquid a continuous unbroken thread of even diameter and unlimited length. As this thread is spun another portion of the machine takes it up and twists it into any desired thickness of yarn with perfect regularity.

Thus the fabric can be made of any desired weight or thickness, so that it will be seasonable at all times.

This artificial silk has been spun in Bradford, England, and worked up into a large variety of fabrics. In the dying, weaving and finishing of these no special treatment has been found necessary. It has been dyed in all imaginable shades and colors, and owing to the peculiar qualities of the material it takes a dye more readily and gives a more brilliant effect than the natural article. In texture it is the equal of the best of Chinese and Italian silks, being soft and silken to the touch. It is expected that it will be used largely in combination with natural silk and cotton for producing brocaded effects. These latter have been so expensive lately as to be out of the reach of all but the fattest purses. The new invention will reduce the cost.

It would seem that this new process would give an immense impetus to the manufacture of textile fabrics all over the world, and it probably will, but Dr. Lehner also differs from the average inventor in that he combines financial cunning with his remarkable genius, so that every yard of this new material made will put many pennies into his pocket.

Patents on the process have been obtained in most of the European countries, and an application for one in the United States is now on file at Washington, as well as in the patent office of the Canadian Government. A company with a capital stock of $1,500,000 is about to be formed in Montreal to manufacture the material. There has already been formed in England a company having a capital stock of $540,000, the inventor receiving $160,000 in cash and $180,000 in full-paid shares, the remaining $200,000 being used as a working capital.

It was originally intended to manufacture the article in England, but when the demonstrating plant was established at Bradford it was found that there was a prohibitive tariff on alcohol used for manufacturing purposes. For that reason the plant was located at Glattburg, near Zurich, Germany, where there is no tax on alcohol used in manufactures. From this place the raw material is sent to England for manufacture.—New York World.

His Young Highness.

"I want to see the boss of the house," said the pedler to Mrs. Darley, who had answered the ring.

"I'm sorry," she replied, as she gently closed the door, "but baby is asleep just now."—American Hebrew.

An experimenter once drew out of the body of a spider 3,480 yards of the thread—a length but little short of two miles.

THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE

IS HAPPY, FRUITFUL MARRIAGE.

EveryMan Who Would Know the Grand Truths; the Plain Facts; the New Discoveries of Medical Science as applied to Married Life; Who Would Atone for Past Errors and Avoid Future Pitfalls, Should Secure the Wonderful Little Book Called "COMPLETE MANHOOD and How to Attain It.

"Here at last is information from a high medical source that must work wonders with this generation of men."

The book fully describes a method by which to attain full vigor and manly power.

A method by which to end all unnatural drains on the system.

To cure nervousness, lack of self control, despondency, etc.

To exchange a jaded and worn nature for one of brightness, buoyancy and power.

To cure forever effects of excesses, overwork, worry etc.

To give full strength, developement and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Age no barrier. Failure impossible. 2,000 references.

The book is purely medical and scientific, useless to curiosity seekers, invaluable to men only who need it.

A despairing man, who applied to us soon after wrote:

"Well, I tell you that first day is one I'll never forget. I just bubbled with joy. I wanted to hug everybody and tell them my old self had died yesterday and my new self was born to-day. Why didn't you tell me when I first wrote that I would find it this way?"

And another thus:

"If you dumped a cartload of gold at my feet it would not bring such gladness into my life as your method has done."

Write to the ERIE MEDICAL COMPANY, Buffalo N. Y., and ask for the little book called "COMPLETE MANHOOD." Refer to this paper, and the company promises to send the book, in sealed envelope, without any marks and entirely free, until it is well introduced.

PERHAPS

Some day someone somewhere will make cumbrous, expensive barns built for show and the expenditure of money. Do not board up the hay barn on the sides where the lean-tos are. Leave it all open so hay can be thrown direct into the alleys in front of the mangers. If the cow stable proves too cold, put a partition between the feeding alley and the manger, made of drop doors which can be closed when blizzards blow and opened for ventilation in mild weather. Don't put the manger close up to the hay barn. Build it 3 or 4 ft. away so as to leave a good feeding alley.

All the timbers of the barn have to support is the roof. If incredulous in regard to this kind of frame, make a similar one out of laths and test its strength. You will be surprised. The short pieces nailed from the long brace to post and rafter may be of fencing. They are apt to keep the brace from twisting or "buckling." Make your barn any length you desire, put the hay in the center part, the stock in the additions, and if you can't find a carpenter to do the work, take a saw, a square and a hammer and build it yourself. The above suggestions are not for millionaire farmers, but for where economy, convenience and comfort are important considerations.—Farm and Home.

Unquestionably.

"Doctor, I called to see you about my mother-in-law. I have a presentment she was buried alive again. The last time we buried her she came to life, kicked off the lid of her coffin and burrowed to the top of the grave."

Doctor (proudly)—Don't be alarmed this time, sir; I am sure she is dead, for I attended her in her last illness."

It is said that the rays of the arc light have a decided therapeutic value and that the arc unprotected by a glass globe is a very useful disinfectant agent. It is asserted that bad odors are dissipated by the direct rays.

A novelty in bicycles is shown in the window of a New York dealer. Its entire frame, including the handles, and in fact, every part, save the saddle, spokes and tires, is of iron, cast in imitation of the branches of trees with the bark left on.

Cut a common radish in two, hollow the interior slightly, then rub it gently upon a dinner plate. In a moment you can lift the radish by the tail and the plate with it, for the plate will adhere as tightly as if the two objects were pasted together.

Quite a profitable business is done in some large towns in England by lending turtles to restaurants for exhibition purposes.

The coast of Japan is well protected with light houses, light house lightships, beacons and buoys. Its channels are well charted and well sounded.

Turin has just opened a great public bath, where for 3 cents a hot or cold bath may be had in a separate room with service and linen.

Cheek pads for improving the contour of the face cost $30 a pair in London. They are made of corallite, and have to be moulded with great care.

Since the Brooklyn Bridge was opened it has been crossed 30,000,000 times a year.

Berlin is one of the most cosmopolitan of European cities. Though it is the capital of Germany, only 37 per cent. of its inhabitants are Germans by birth.

The longest unbroken stretch of telegraphic cable in the world is the one which connects the Red Sea with India, 3,590 knots being the total length of cable used.

A tunnel under the Clyde at Glasgow has just been finished, and will be opened to traffic shortly. It is 16 feet in diameter and 700 feet long. It has been five years building.

home.

The Nebraska Farmer very aptly says that it is nature's way to permit of not stop-offs on the route traveled by the pig from the farrowing nest to the packing house, and that regular development must occur for the highest profit. Feeding the dam is said to be feeding the pigs, and the food of the mother should be prepared in view of this fact.

When buying a horse for use on the farm seven years is the age that the animal is worth most. If well broken then and never injured in any way the buyer escapes many chances of mishap, while the seven-year-old horse has fully as many years of effective work as the average of horses bought younger. If kept exclusively on the farm and not fed heavily with grain a horse may do good work till it is 25 or 28 years old. It is fast driving on the road that shortens the years of usefulness of a horse. Not only are the feet injured by such work, but the nervous system is stimulated unnaturally.

For feeding in bulk clover hay is objected to by many farmers because it is liable to be dusty. It is so rich in nitrogen that it heats very easily if bad weather occurs while the clover is curing, and in the barn there is apt to be some heating of clover hay in the mow. Horses are very fond of clover, and will gorge themselves on it so as to be unfit to do hard work. But for cut feed to be used with moistioned corn and oatmeal and bran, the clover hay is very much better than is timothy, and a less number of pounds will be needed to keep the horses in good condition for working.

There is always a good demand for thrifty breeding sows. It pays farmers to grow sows for this market. About half the pigs of a litter will be sows, but the young males can be fattened early and turned off at a good profit. The sows should not be fattened, but kept in thrifty growth, and be given milk and wheat middlings to promote the growth of bone. Sows thus grown will be long bodied, will be ready for breeding early, and will produce larger litters than those kept over fat. It is not unusual that a young sow with pig, if of good breed, will sell for twice what she would be worth to fatten, and she will give a good profit to the buyer at that price.

Weak and Nervous

Whenever the body has been weakened by disease, it should be built up by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this:

"About two years ago I suffered with a very severe attack of inflammation of the bowels. When I began to recover I was in a very weak and nervous condition, and suffered intensely with neuralgia pains in my head, which caused loss of sleep, and having no appetite, I and weak. Fortunately a friend who had used Hood's Sarsaparilla with great benefit, kindly recommended me to try it. I did so and a perfect cure has been effected, I am now as well as I ever was, and I would not be without Hood's Sarsaparilla in my house for anything." MRS. G. KERR, 245 Manning Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Became Very Thin

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Only

True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye today.

Hood's Pills easy to buy, easy to take, easy to operate. 25c.

Some day, someone, somewhere, will make a better mach than E. B. Eddy makes,—but up to this date no one has done so.

Meanwhile, and until a better one is produced, use

E. B. Eddy's Matches.

Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company

GENERAL PASSENGER TIME TABLE,

Eastern Standard Time. No. 9. Taking effect October 8th, 1893

Tweed and Tamworth to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2 A.M.	No.4 P.M.	No.6 P.M.
Lve	Tweed	0	7 00	....	3 00
	Stoco	3	7 08	....	3 10
	Larkins	7	7 20	....	3 25
	Marlbank	13	7 35	....	3 40
	Erinsville	17	7 50	....	3 55
	Tamworth	20	8 00	2 00	4 10
	Wilson*	24	....	....	....
	Enterprise	26	8 18	2 20	4 30
	Mudlake Bridge*	28	....	....	....
	Moscow	31	8 30	2 35	4 43
	Galbraith*	33	....	....	....
rr	Yarker	35	8 43	2 50	4 55
Lve	Yarker	35	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	39	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills	40	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	41	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	43	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	49	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee	49	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	54	....	....	6 30
Arr	Desetonto	58	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Tamworth and Tweed.

	Stations.	Miles	No.1. A.M.	No.3. P.M.	No.5 P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	9 00	12 45	5 05
	Galbraith*	25	....	....	....
	Moscow	27	9 15	1 00	5 22
	Mudlake Bridge*	30	....	....	....
	Enterprise	32	9 30	1 15	5 35
	Wilson*	34	....	....	....
	Tamworth	38	9 50	1 35	5 35
	Erinsville	41	10 00	....	6 05
	Marlbank	45	10 15	....	6 18
	Larkins	51	10 30	....	6 35
	Stoco	55	10 50	....	6 50
Arr	Tweed	58	11 00	....	7 00

Kingston and Sydenham to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2. A. M.	No.4. P.M.	No.6. P M.
Lve	Kingston	0	6 45	....	3 30
	G. T. R. Junction	2	6 55	....	3 40
	Glenvale*	10	7 17	....	....
	Murvale*	....	7 27	....	4 18
Arr	Harrowsmith	19	7 40	....	4 30
Lve	Sydenham	23	8 00	....	....
	Harrowsmith	19	8 20	....	4 30
	Frontenac*	22	8 32	....	4 42
Arr	Yarker	26	8 40	....	4 50
Lve	Yarker	26	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	30	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	31	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	32	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	34	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	40	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee, West End	40	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	45	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	49	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Sydenham and Kingston.

	Stations.	Miles.	No.1 A.M.	No.3, P.M.	No.5. P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburg	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 15
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 22
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 35
	Sydenham	34	....	....	5 50
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Murvale*	35	9 17	....	....
	Glenvale*	39	....	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 50	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

R. C. CARTER, Asst. Gen. Manager — G. A. BROWNE, Gen. Pass. Agent — H. B. SHERWOOD, Superintendent.

INSIST UPON A

HEINTZMAN CO. PIANO

WHEN you are ready to purchase a Piano for a lifetime, not the makeshift instruments for a few years' use, but the Piano whose sterling qualities will leave absolutely nothing to be desired, then insist upon having a

Heintzman & Co. Piano.

Its pure singing tone is not an artificial quality soon to wear away, leaving harshness in place of brilliancy, dullness in place of sweetness, but an inherent right of the Heintzman. Forty five years of patient endeavor upon this point, non-deterioration with age, has made the Heintzman what it is—the acknowledged standard of durability.

CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION

HEINTZMAN & COMPANY, 117 King st. West, Toronto.

The Napanee Express

$1.

The Weekly Globe.

BEST CLUBBING OFFER EVER MADE.

By paying one dollar in advance these two popular and reliable papers will be sent post free to the subscriber's address. Call at the "Express Office" and secure this bargain.

A Few of the Many Summer Bargains

.....AT THE GREAT.....

Cheap Dry Goods Store!

Grey Cotton, 34 inches wide, worth	5c	for 3c
" 36 " "	8c	5c
" 36 " "	9c	6c
Black Henrietta, worth	30c	19c
" "	65c	42c
" "	75c	48c
Serge Dress Goods, All Shades, worth	35c	24c
Cashmeres, all shades, extra wide, worth	50c	39c
Tickings, worth	15c	10c
" "	20c	14c
" "	25c	19c
Flannelettes, extra wide, worth	12½c	8c
Ladies' Cotton Vests, 5c each or 6 for 25c.
" " worth	12c	8c
Ladies' White Hemstitched Hdkfs., worth	10c	5c
Men's White Straw Hats, worth	75c	36c
Men's Pants, made to order, worth	$7.00	$4.90
Men's Scotch Tweed Suits, made to order	20.00	15.00
Men's Overalls, worth	60c	48c
" "	$1.00	75c
Fast Black Cotton Hose, all sizes, worth	10c	5c
" " (Ladies), worth	15c	10c
" " " worth	25c	19c
" " " worth	35c	24c
Prints, Fast Colors, worth	8c	5c
" " "	10c	6½c
" " "	12½c	9½c
" " "	15c	12½c
Silkaline, all shades, for Waists, worth	25c	16c
Cottonades, worth	17c	12½c
" "	20c	15c
" "	22c	17c
" "	25c	19c
Special new make Cottonade at		25c
Shirting, Fast Colors, worth	8c	5c
" " "	10c	7½c
" " "	12c	9½c

Wide Awake Store Keeping.

Up-to-date Methods

A 1 Values in every line.

We want your trade.

THE ROBINSON CO'Y.

COAL

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient. 25.

Cakes always fresh and in great variety at Davis'.

A hand organ man dispensed music in town on Tuesday.

It is said there will be a large huckleberry crop this season.

A Thurlow man has been fined for unmercifully lashing and jerking his horse.

Jersey Ice Cream 40c. per quart in pails or 50c. packed in Bricks at Davis'

The choir of the Presbyterian church assisted at a concert in Sillsville last evening.

Rev. H. B. Patton, B. A., of St. John's church, Deseronto, has removed to Prescott.

Consecon manufacturers of phosphate and fish oil from lake shad have done well this season.

The will of the late Ira French, of Tyendinaga township, has been probated. Estate $650.

Mr. C. E. Britton of Gananoque was re-elected High Chief Ranger of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

G. W. Dawson, M. P., Addington, has built and started six cheese factories around Plevna this spring.

Mothers Should Read. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup cures worms of all kinds in children or adults. No cathartic is required as it both destroys and expels the worms.

Don't forget Labey & McKenty's cut-price Dress Goods Sale. The largest and newest stock to choose from at The Big Store.

Kingston and Belleville sports engaged in a cocking main near Shannonville on Friday night, thirteen birds fought on both sides. Belleville won.

David Russell Sharp, youngest son of John Sharp, Bloomfield, kicked by a horse at the patrons' picnic, on June 8th, died from the injuries on Sunday, 16th.

Mr. Thos. Leach, Belleville road, near Napanee, who had his arm broken as the result of a king bolt coming out of his waggon, is progressing favorably.

Miss Henrietta Aykroyd, of Railton, was married last week to Mr. John Wartman, son of the late Henry Wartman, and nephew of Dr. C. Wartman, Napanee.

The change of time on the G. T. R. whereby the mail from Toronto arrives here in time to be distributed at noon is very acceptable to the business men and public generally.

A Renfrew clergyman married a couple the other day for which he received the munificent fee of 40 cents. Truly the lot of every preacher is not as pleasant as that of the Rev. Manly Benson.

Cyclists who find the bearing of their wheels becoming clogged with old oil should pour kerosene or benzine in them and turn the wheel rapidly, when all the sand and dirt will be cut and run out.

A Denver clergyman says that "there are 10,000 men going to hell on bicycles." We trust the Napanee fellows are not counted in as they are presumably among the other thousand on the right road.

Rev. W. W. Johnston, of the Western Congregational church, Toronto, is threatened with trial for heresy, on account of his having expressed the conviction that in the next world there will be no punishment by hell fire.

A Boon and a Blessing. A boon and a blessing to mankind is Hagyard's Yellow Oil the great pain destroyer and healing remedy for external and internal use. Yellow Oil cures aches and paines, rheumatism, lame black, sore throat, croup, deafness, cramps, contracted cords and lameness.

The greatest flesh and blood maker in existence and a life saver to consumptives is Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "the kind that cures" bronchitis, coughs, colds and all lung troubles. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at druggists.

Consupmtion Was Feared. Dear Sirs,—Over three years ago I was troubled with a nasty cough and really thought I would go into consumption. A friend advised me to try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and one bottle gave me great releif. After taking four bottles I can truthfully say Ihave never had a cough since.
MARY SHINGLES, Wallaceburg, Ont.

Rev. Dr. Eby, the Methodist missionary, told a Guelph audience the other evening that militarism, plutocracy, protection and jingoism are the chief hindrances to the spread of brotherhood among the nations of the earth.

A strong looking young tramp was begging around town on Tuesday. His wrist was red and sore looking as if he had been applying Croton oil to it, but sympathy for him was lacking, and what seemed to bother him more no money was forthcoming.

Instructions on The Piano.

Miss Laura G. Ward is prepared to give instructions on the piano to a limited number of pupils. Terms on application. 28d.

Napanee Woollen Mill.

White Agent.

Just arrived in town. Note, No. 5 prices are $1.50, 10 quart pail White Agent. T. H. WALLER. 90c. &c.

Bicycle.

Agent for the Mon[illegible]

Wanted.

A first class Cook, apply after June 3rd to Mrs. S. C. Warner, Dundas Street, Napanee.

Handsome Badges.

For any society can be had of Miles S. Plumley, agent, Napanee. Call and see samples, Orangemen's badges a speciality. 27c.

New Paint Shop.

E. R. McCabe has opened a shop opposite Perry's Woolen Mill, Dundas Street, where he will be pleased to receive orders for house or carriage painting. Orders promptly attended to at moderate prices. 12cm.

New Shoe Shop.

Mr. O'Brien has commenced business on his own account at the old Seven Cent Store, and should secure a liberal share of public patronage, being well-known, and for years employed at Wilson's shoe store. 24f.

Bicyclists attend Church.

The bicyclists of Napanee and Kingston rode over to Odessa on Sunday to attend church in a body. The Rev. F. T. Dibb preached a special sermon to them, and our local wheelmen are loud in praise of the excellent and practical discourse delivered to them by this eleoquent and rising young divine.

Another Opportunity, Don't Miss It.

Prof. Dorenwend advertises another visit to our town with a full line of his celebrated human hair coverings. We would advise all whose hair has become thin or who are bald to take adantage of this visit and inspect his display of Art goods. He will be at the Paisley House on Friday 12th July.

DOLLARS AND SENSE

Have a little sense and save dollars by having your wearing apparel of all kinds cleaned or dyed to look like new at a very small cost, as work is done well by Parker's Dye Works, Toronto. The representative will be here with their rig to receive orders. Agency at Pollard's "Express" Book Store.

Disabled.

Shortly after leaving Deseronto on Saturday last the main shaft in the machinery of the Steamer Reindeer broke, completely disabling her. The Steamer Merritt on her way to Picton with the Belleville excursion gallantly came to her rescue, and in a short while about twenty passengers were transferred to the Merritt, and the Reindeer towed into Deseronto by a tug, which came out in response to her whistles. The damages to the Reindeer are in the neighborhood of $200. The Nellie Cuthbert will run on her route until she is repaired.

Dame Durden Society.

The lawn social on Friday evening of last week given under the auspices of the Dame Durden Society was highly successful, and a most enjoyable evening was spent. The beautiful lawn of Mr. T. G. Carscallen was brilliantly illuminated with Japanese lanterns, and the music of the 47th Batt. Band was greatly appreciated. The entertainment was gotten up for charitable purposes, and the young ladies taking part in it are deserving of great praise. It is to be regretted that the number of people who took in the entertainment from the outside of the lawn to avoid the formality of paying the nominal admission fee of 15c., outnumbered those on the inside three to one.

Canada's Great Fair for 1895.

"Greater and better than Ever," "Excelling all others," and "It draws like a Magnet," are terms very appropriately applied to Toronto's Great Industrial Fair, the seventeenth of which will be held from the 2nd to the 14th of September next, and the Directors announce their determination to make this year's Fair eclipse all former ones. They have issued a very neatly gotten up prize list, a copy of which can be procured by anyone who so desires, by dropping a post card to Mr. H. J. Hill

Scranton Coal

Don't be misled. This Coal can only be purchased at who has the Sole Agency. One trial is sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical that this is the best Coal mined.

THOS. STEWART'S

All under cover, and well screened immediately before delivery.

A. R. Boyes

AGENT.

OFFICE AND YARDS foot of Centre st.

JOHN POLLARD,

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Express Office. Napanee.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, JUNE 28, 1895

All local reading notices or notices announcing entertainments at which a fee is charged for admission, will be charged 5c per line for each insertion, if in ordinary type. In black type the price will be 10c per line each insertion.

Russet Floridas or Bright, at Davis, sweet, 25 to 40 cents.

Relief in Six Hours.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder disease relieved in six hours by the "NEW GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN KIDNEY CURE." This new remedy is a great surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46j

Biliousness and Liver Complaint, Headache, etc., are cured by Burdock Pills.

Fresh meat always on hand at Lawson's, Telephone 31.

town on Tuesday.

Mr. J. W. Shane, aged 34 years, died at Wolfe Island last week.

Bicycle clubs have been organized at Havelock, Hastings and Trenton.

Wanted at once. Choice Potatoes, Apples and Onions, for which I am paying highest market prices. W. C. BRUTON.

Nearly 1,000 pounds of milk were spilled on Wolfe Island on Wednesday last The accident occurred at the cheese factory.

Miss Tweedle, Trenton, sued Dr. Simpson, of Trenton, for $200 for assault for slapping her face. The jury gave her a verdict for $1.

Druggists say that their sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla exceed those of all others. There is no substitute for Hood's.

The barge Puritan ran aground in the river last week on her way to Deseronto. She was lightened by a schr. and got afloat without much difficulty.

They do not Despair. An utter loss of hope is not characteristic of Consumptives, though no other form of disease is so fatal, unless its progress is arrested by use of Scott's Emulsion, which is Cod Liver Oil made as palatable as cream.

Gas stoves, gas stoves, we got them, agents for the Jewell and Dougler, the up to date stoves for 1895. Consumes the smallest amount of gas and lay over all others in style and improvements, call in and see them. BOYLE & SON.

Mrs. Simon Warner, always in advance of her neighbors in matters of this kind, gave us a call last week and laid on our desk for the delectation of the staff a sample of raspberries that she had gathered on June 21st. Mrs. Warner informs us that she gathered strawberries on the last day of May.

A Boom to Horsemen.—One bottle of English Spavin Liniment completely removed a curb from my horse. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or calloused lumps, blood spavin, splints, curbs, sweeny, stifles and sprains. GEORGE ROBB, Farmer, Markham, Ont. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y,

DAFOE & PAUL,

Undertakers

EVERYTHING NEW AND FIRST-CLASS.

$12.50 $12.50

Buys a nice Tweed Suit, made in the latest Style, good Trimmings and work guaranteed.

ED. HUFF,

Carson Block. Tailor.

Cash and One Price Only. 15tf

MEN SWEAR.....

that they will never take another drink—that they will stop smoking—that they will never play the races again, but then they don't always live up to their swear. But when a man says that he will never go past us for he is pretty sure to stick to it. That is one of the swears it pay him to keep.

MEN'S WEAR = = =

Swell Straw Hats 50 Cents.
Summer Coats and Vests $1.25

Radford & Son

The Clothiers.

Napanee Woollen Mill.

I have on hand flannel sheetings, white and gray, flannel shirtings and a good stock of yarns, too ply, three ply and single ply, horse blankets, home made and foreign tweeds, Come early with your Roll-carding and spinning before the water fails. Cash or trade for wool. J. PERRY.

Slightly Disfigured.

Nellie Cuthbert lost her rudder and broke a flange off her wheel on Tuesday. She was towed into Deseronto by the steam yacht "Avis" the Nellie left Deseronto with an improvised rudder in the shape of a plank out behind, and a beam to hold it in place.

A Pleasant Visit.

On Sunday last the congregations of St. John's church, Selby, and St. Jude's, Kingsford, were delighted with the presence of their former pastor, the Rev. Mr. Forester, and his wife, of Prince Edward The rev. gentleman stopped off on his way home from the Synod, renewing old acquaintances and preaching at both appointments to very large congregations, in the absence of their pastor, Rev. R. Atkinson.

The Bicycle Race.

A large crowd congregated at the Park on Friday evening last to witness the bicycle race between Messrs. H. McDougall and Ed. Douglas. Mr. Douglas took the lead and kept it until about half way round the track when Mr. McDougall passed him and beat him by quite a distance. Mr. Douglas was not in very good shape for the event, and another race will, no doubt, take place between them at no remote period. The bicycle club propose holding races every Friday evening to stimulate the boys to greater effort.

A Painful Accident.

A painful accident occurred at Consecon on Saturday. A number of young men went on Mr. Johnston's wharf to swim, and one young man, six feet three inches and weighing 215 pounds, jumped off the wharf and did not come up. His comrades seeing something wrong, jumped to the rescue and found him unable to move. They got him out of the water and summoned Dr Shurie, who found him paralized. He struck his head on the bottom, the water being only three feet deep, and hurt his spine. He is alive yet, but his death is expected at any time. He was a fine young man. His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, have the sympathy of the whole neighborhood.—Trenton Courier.

Death of Mr. P. O'Connor.

The Deseronto Tribune states that Mr. Patrick O'Connor one of the best known residents of Deseronto, passed away on the 29th inst., after a long illness, the disease being cancer, which had seated itself in the neck. Deceased was born in Ballyfin, Queen's County, Ireland, on July 10th, 1840. In 1869 he went to Deseronto where he started in the hotel business. By careful attention he worked up an excellent business and in time enlarged the hotel, which, known as the O'Connor House became one of the most popular hostelries in Ontario. Few hotelmen were more held in esteem by the travelling public. He is survived by his wife and five of their six children, viz;—Mrs. (Dr) Moher, of Trenton, William, Fred, Lulu, and Frank.

Coxey's Army

Tramps are getting altogether too numerous in this vicinity and chief of police Storms intends arresting all suspicious looking characters in the future, or, running them out of town. On Tuesday evening he arrested two young healthy looking tramps who had been around begging all day. The chief came across them at the foot ball ground up near the collegiate institute. One of them resisted arrest, and ran down the road towards the railroad track at a good pace. A number of the boys, who were playing foot ball at the time, let out after the fleeing knight of the road, and Ed. Hayes, whose foot ball training stood him in good stead, easily overtook him, and brought him back to the chief, who manacled him to his companion, and towed them down to the police station where they spent the night. Two other tramps were arrested at the G. T. R. station the same evening, but on their consenting to remove themselves outside of the corporation, they were allowed their liberty.

Don't ever look the fact that we sell Ladies and Men's fine shoes at Dry Goods Prices at Lake & McKenzie's.

procured by anyone who so desires, by dropping a post card to Mr. H. J. Hill, the Manager, at Toronto. Already many applications have been received from manufacturers both in Canada and from abroad for space to exhibit their products, and present indications point to a greater and grander Exhibition than any of the previous ones. Cheap excursions will as usual be run on all railroads, and this will undoubtedly be the most popular holiday outing of the year. Numerous new and interesting attractions will be provided. Almost everyone who claims to keep posted on the progress of our country goes to the Toronto Fair, which is generally admitted to be the best on this continent.

N-a-p-a-n-ee-Napanee, Rah! Rah! Rah!

The Scarlet foot ball club of Napanee accompanied by thirteen enthusiastic friends boarded Mr. Geo. Snider's trim and ship shape steam yacht on Friday, 21st inst. at 2.30 p. m., and journeyed to Glenora to play a match with the team of that place. The run to Glenora was made in good time, and about 7 o'clock the opposing teams lined up on the football ground, which is situated on the mountain. The Glenora team was a good deal the heavier of the two; but this did not appear to be much of an advantage to them as whenever it came to a "check" the Glenora man invariably went down. The Napanee boys presented a fine appearance in their scarlet shirts and white knickerbockers, and lined up as follows: Forwards, Wagar and Grieve, Fox, Preston and Exley; half backs, Skates, Trimble, Grange; backs, Scott, Ashley; goal, Hayes. W. B. Haines, the captain, was unable to play owing to the effect of a sprained back, but he was an interested spectator. D. Henwood acted as referee in an impartial manner. The first goal was scored by Fox, after a brilliant bit of combination work by the Napanee forwards. After this the Glenora team fell back and played largely on the defence. Time and again Napanee brought the ball up to their opponent's goal, but errors at critical periods prevented them from scoring. Forneri of Picton, who played back for Glenora, put up an excellent game and stopped many a hot shot. The goal scored by Glenora was purely an individual play. The Glenora men were all bunched around their goal, and the Napanee boys were playing well up, the backs being stationed over the centre line, when the ball was shot out to one of Glenora's swift men, who with a quick rush passed the backs, and with no one between him and goal but the goal keeper, scored. After this the game got a little rough. Charging was freely indulged, and the Glen men went down like ninepins before their more experienced checks. The combination work of the Napanee boys was splendid, but they seemed sadly deficient in shooting on goal. Shortly before time was called Napanee rushed the ball down to the goal but were prevented from scoring by one of their opponents deliberately fouling the ball in goal, a very unsportmanlike action. In the penalty kick which followed, Fox made a poor kick, and it was easily stopped by the Glenora goal keeper. Where all did well it is perhaps invidious to particularize, but the playing of Messrs. Frank Grieve, C. Fox, C. Trimble and Wm. Grange is worthy of special note, the rest of the boys put up a good game also, and altogether the Napanee foot ball club is all right, yes, you bet! After the match an adjournment was made to the Glen House, where mine host Cornell had caused to be spread an excellent repast, to which, it is needless to add, due justice was done. After the boys had given evidence that their vocal organs were unimpaired, and a number of them had demonstrated that if they couldn't sing they could yell anyway, the dance hall was visited, and the light fantastic tripped with the pretty girls of Glenora for several hours, until in response to the warning whistle of the captain the boys repaired to the yacht and reluctantly bid adeau to Glenora amid the hearty cheers of the good people of the Lake on the Mountain. Owing to the difficulty of navigating the river at night a halt was made at Deseronto until 3 o'clock. When about a mile out of Deseronto the Captain was forced to drop anchor owing to the density of the fog, the heaviest that has risen in this district for many years we have been informed, and there he was forced to lay until about 5 o'clock, the time being whiled away very pleasantly with songs, recitations, impromptu poetical effusions and divers other ways unnecessary to recapitulate. About fifteen minutes to six on Saturday morning the yacht pulled into the dock, the boys joining unanimously in voting Capt. Snider a jolly good fellow, and congratulating themselves on having had one of the

E COMMENCE

THIS WEEK AT

The BIG STORE

A CUT PRICE SALE

OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF

NEW DRESS GOODS

Which is very much too large for Midsummer, and would ask the Ladies to kindly come early, as we are sure to have an unusual rush in that department.

OUR CLOTHING STORE

Is humming with business. Those $9 Tweed Suits, made to order, are causing much excitement in the tailoring trade. We are selling stacks of Men and Boys' Readymade Suits and Hot Weather Garments. Right prices and styles do the business.

IN OUR SHOE STORE

You will find Ladies' and Men's Fine Shoes, bought for cash from the best manufacturers in the land, and which we are selling at dry goods prices.

THE BIG STORE

LAHEY & McKENTY

Church of England Notes.

Parish of Camden.

Base Ball.

On Saturday, June, 22nd, the South-Fredericksburgh base ball club played their first match of the season with the Election of Officers.

Court Lennox, Canadian Order of Foresters, elected the following officers on Tuesday evening:

Delicious California Orange Cider on draught at Davis'.

How do you like the knee breeches and the "artful" buttons—"it is English,

Parish of Camden.

Services Sunday next: St. Luke's, Camden East, Morning Prayer and Holy Communion 11 o'clock, Evening Prayer 7.30; Centreville 3 o'clock; Napanee Mills 10.30 a. m.; Holy Trinity, Yarker, 3 o'clock; St. John's, Newburgh, 7.30 p. m. Confirmation class, St. Luke's, Camden East, 10 o'clock Sunday morning, open to all.

Wanted.

A general servant, highest wages paid, small family. Apply to Mrs. G. F. Ruttan.

Change of Time on G. T. R.

Trains going west: Express, 4.15 p.m. 2.30 and 3.43 a.m. Mixed 10.22 a.m. and 8.26 p.m.

Going East: Express 11.49 a.m. 1 p.m. and 1.37 midnight. Mixed 7.40 a.m. 7.05 p.m.

Another Branch Added.

As we go to press we hear a rumor that C. E. Bartlett has purchased from the Dominion Bank the property known as the Downey estate, and will carry on the coal business with his other businesses. This should be a very convenient property for him and we hope he may be able to receive the old time trade there.

Church Notes.

By recent changes made in the Stations, Rev. Jas. Anderson goes to Tamworth and Rev. J. J. Rice, to Belleville North, Rev. Mr. Anderson comes highly recommended as a pulpit and platform man

Rev. Mr. Stratton has announced that he will D. V. preach next Sabbath evening at Selby on "The battle with Ram's horns." His Sermon last Sabbath on "The fixed gulf, or every man the Arbiter of his own destiny," was one of his best efforts and highly appreciated by the crowd who listened.

The Empey Hill Church has been closed for repairs and will (D. V.) be re-opened for Service on Sabbath July 7, Sermons at 10.30 and 7.30 P. M. Liberal offerings Solicited for repairing fund.

A Fatal Accident.

Mr. Lyman Moore, a popular young drug clerk of Belleville was fatally injured at Madoc Junction at 9.40 o'clock Wednesday morning. He was on his way to Peterboro with the I. O. O. F. excursion when the accident occurred. At the Madoc Junction station Mr. Moore got off the rear end of the train, and, in attempting to get on the front of the train while it was in motion he missed his hold and fell to the ground, rolling under the car. One pair of wheels passed over both his legs. The right leg was severed near the body and the left leg was severed just below the knee. He was conveyed to Belleville, and died in the hospital there at 12.25. He was a jovial, kind hearted young man, and highly popular wherever known.

Eastern Methodist Church House Class Recognition Services.

Next Sunday will be Sunday School and House Class Department Recognition day and special services will be held. In the morning the sermon will be appropriate to to the occasion. A number of scholars under the direction of Mrs. C. H. Wartman, will assist the choir. Sunday School session as usual at 11.45.

EVENING.

1 Organ Voluntary,
2 Doxology.
3 Hymn 23, "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty."
4 Prayer.
5 Anthem, (selected) full choir.
6 Scripture Lesson, Joshua I 1-9. Eph. VI 10-24.
7 Hymn 296, "I love to tell the Story"
8 Report of Home Class Department.
9 Hymn 263, "Hark 'tis the Shepherd's voice I hear."
10 Sermon, Subject, "The Mission of the Home Class Department" Rev. W. G. Clarke, B. A., Yarker.
11 Hymn 335, "Homes there are of want and sorrow" Solo and Chorus.
12 Offertory.
13 Hymn 245, "When we get home to that beautiful land."
Benediction.

Strangers welcome, courteous ushers in attendance.

"Serve the Lord with gladness, come before his presence with singing." Ps. C. 2.

W. A. ROCKWELL, Choir Master. N. A. MCDIARMID, Pastor.

Ladies, have you seen our bargain Lace Table? Don't delay if you want new lace Fredericksburgh base ball club played their first match of the season with the Cressy team. Notwithstanding the fact that both teams have had but little practice a fairly good game was played, resulting in a score of 21 to 25 in favor of Fredericksburgh. Mr. F. Connors, of Pryner, umpired the game, giving perfect satisfaction. It might also be said that Fredericksburgh was never visited by a quieter or more agreeable club. On July 2nd a return match will be played at Pryner's Cove. As a picnic will take place there on the same afternoon a general good time may be expected.

Our Enterprising Bill Poster.

Mr. J. J. Minchinton has just erected a new bill board on Centre Street, which commands a good view and will prove an important addition to his already extensive and prominently situated bill boards. Mr. Minchinton is an enterprising citizen and is fully conversant with the bill posting businesss. He owns or controls all the bill boards in town, and has had them conspiciously erected on almost every prominent street. The work is done in a practical and businesslike manner, and we are safe in saying that no town in the central district commands a larger, better distributed or as well displayed set of bill boards as Napanee. Since he took control of the bill posting the business has picked up wonderfully, and extensive advertisers tell us that, outside of newspaper advertising, there is no form of advertising that pays them as well.

A Shocking Disaster.

The Picton Times gives the following additional particulars of the disaster that befell Mr. Robert Goodwin: On Friday afternoon Robert Goodwin, of Athol had his barn, drivehouse, hog pen, with their contehts, destroyed by fire and himself severely burned. He was with his oldest boy at work in a back field and his wife and children had gone to Cherry Valley. He saw the fire in the barn and ran to save his goods. He got a horse out and opened the door to get out a waggon. The flames burst out fiercely. He got the wagon out, and he was so severely burnt and dazed that he could not take his clothes off Neighbors came to the assistance and Mr. Goodwin was found to be terribly burnt throughout his body, particularly on the neck where there is a dangerous burn near the jugular. He is kept rolled in sweet oil. Hopes are entertained of his recovery. He is a brother of George Goodwin of Napanee, Miss Martha Goodwin, Mrs. John Moore, and Mrs. David Shannon. The origin of the fire is unknown. There was a fire in a field eighty rods away and a fair wind was blowing in the direction of the barn. There is said to be $1,100 insurance.

Electric Light.

During the session of the Dominion Parliament of 1894 an Act was passed for the inspection of electric light, its provisions being somewhat similar to the gas inspection Act. It requires electric light companies to provide electric energy of a certain voltage; to maintain their lines, fittings and apparatus in a condition fit to supply the needed energy; prohibits their using any meter until it has been inspected and stamped; requires these meters to be re-inspected every five years; provides the infliction of heavy penalties upon anyone "who maliciously or fraudulently abstracts, causes to be wasted or diverted, consumes or uses any electricity," determines the kind of meters that may be used and the kinds of apparatus that are to be supplied to make the tests. His Excellency in Council has now put the act in force, has prescribed the geographical boundaries of each Inspectoral Division and appointed the Division officers. Under these Orders in Council this province is divided into five divisions viz., Belleville, Hamilton, London, Ottawa and Toronto. The Belleville Division comprises the Inland Revenue Divisions of Belleville, Kingston, Prescott, Cornwall and Peterborough, embracing the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington, Leeds and Grenville, Dundas, Glengarry, Prescott, Stormont, Northumberland, Durham, Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton. At each chief office for the division elaborate testing apparatus will be provided, and portable instruments for inspection at other points. Mr. Wm. Johnston has been appointed the Divisional Inspector for the district.—Intelligencer.

Captain Holmes house boat is expected from Kingston on Saturday.

Have you seen the new Japanese Crinkles for waists and evening dresses

Foresters, elected the following officers on Tuesday evening:

C. R. —Bro. H. E. Loucks,
V. C. R.—Bro. E. H. Sills,
T. S. —Bro. J. G. Fennell,
R. S. —Bro. D. Fralick,
Treas —Bro. P. M. Anderson,
Chap.—Bro. J. T. Canniff,
S. W.—Bro. S. Dryden,
J. W. —Bro. C. Botting,
S. B. —Bro. Chas. Greer,
J. B. —Bro. John Wilson,
Court Phys.— Bro. R. A. Leonard,
D. D. H. C. R. — Bro. A. W. Wagar,

Cricketers.

Victory perched on the banner of the Chicago club in every game they played in this district, and on their way home they stopped over at Toronto to administer a defeat to the Rosedale cricket club by a score of 151 to 53. They know how to play the game, and their exhibition of it in this district last week will do much to enhance its popularity. The final match in Napanee on Saturday resulted as was generally expected in a victory for the visitors by an innings and 7 runs. The only changes made in the Napanee team defeated by Chicago on Monday of last week by an innings and 3 runs were Widdifield, of Picton, Ince, of Belleville, and W. and H. Daly, of Napanee. Some good playing was indulged in by both sides, the superb fielding of the Chicago team being a pleasing feature. The following is the score:

FIRST INNINGS.

NAPANEE

G. Maybee, b. Henderson	2
Dr. Leonard, b. Henderson	19
Ince, b. Fraser	3
Richardson, c. Fraser, b. Henderson	3
Widdifield, b. Henderson	0
Merritt, c. Speer, b. Fraser	0
Trimble, c. C. Ballingall b. Henderson	0
W. Daly, b. Henderson	12
Wilson, c Helliwell, b. Henderson	15
F. Maybee, b. Henderson	0
H. Daly, not out	0
Extras	12
Total	64

CHICAGO.

T. O. Stokes, c. Ince, b. Merritt	12
W. Bolster, c. Richardson, b. F. Maybee	21
J. Cummings c. Trimble, b. Merritt	25
R. W. Fraser, stumped by Richardson	11
A. Henderson, b. Merritt	19
C. Ballingall, b. Trimble	3
T.D. Phillips, c. W. Daly, b. F. Maybee	14
T. Ballingall, b. Merritt,	3
R. A. Helliwell, not out	6
H. V. Speer, c. F. Maybee, b. Merritt	0
M. Shawe, b. Merritt	0
Extras	15
Total	129

SECOND INNINGS.

NAPANEE.

G. Maybee, b. Fraser,	12
H. Daly, c. C. Ballingall, b. Fraser	1
Leonard, c. Speer, b. Henderson	0
Ince, c. Bolster, b. Henderson	2
Richardson, c. Speer, b. Fraser	8
Merritt, b. Henderson	1
W. Daly, stumped by Cummings	7
Trimble, c. Cummings, b. Fraser	13
Wilson, c. Speer, b. Fraser	10
C. Maybee, c. Fraser, b. Henderson	1
F. Maybee, not out	3
Extras	1
Total	58

NOTES.

Although the Napanee cricket club could not beat their opponents at cricket, they can and did surpass all the other teams in the district in hospitality.

Saturday was a bad day for getting together a district team. A number of able cricketers who would otherwise have taken part were unavoidably absent owing to the demands of business.

The Chicago team defeated the Picton cricketers by 71 runs to 44.

The Gentlemen of Chicago intend making this an annual trip, and they will visit this district about this time next year.

Rev. T. D. Phillips preached in S. Mary Magdalene's church on Sunday evening.

The visitors left on the midnight Sunday for home. They professed to be delighted with the trip and were much taken up with the scenery along the Bay of Quinte.

Capt. Holmes brought the Chicago team from Picton to Napanee in his yacht on Friday evening last. On Sunday he treated the team to a delightful cruise down the Bay as far as Adolphustown, where they stopped to attend church.

Dr. Leonard gave an elegant six o'clock dinner to the visitors on Saturday.

Mr. S. C. Warner gave a reception in honor of the Chicago team at his beautiful residence on Saturday evening. A number of Napanee's pretty ladies were present, and dancing was indulged in, and a most enjoyable time spent.

How do you like the knee breeches and the "artful" buttons—"it is English, you know—quite English."

Mr. Wm. Hayes met with a serious accident Thursday. He was splitting wood when his axe caught in a clothes line and came down on him inflicting a deep and painful gash on his head.

The fourteen year old son of Mr. T. B. Chamberlain, Belleville road, who had his leg amputated above the knee last week is progressing favorably. About six weeks ago he struck it with a hatchet while playing, blood poisoning ensued and it was found necessary to amputate it.

A cat belonging to Mrs. Butland gave birth to a decided curosity last week. Its head resembles an ordinary kitten, but there the resemblence ceases, as the rest of its body has all the points of a genuine rabbit, and has the short tail peculiar to that animal.

The report that horse-flesh, masquerading as good cow beef, is being sold by the ton in Chicago, will be good news to owners of race-horses which have tnrned out to be no good. When the horses fail to win prizes on the turf, they can be turned into prize beef.

Information has been received that a dappled grey horse hitched to a top buggy has been stolen from Picton by a horse thief named Wiggins. Wiggins is described as being 5ft. 8in. in height, slim and of fair complexion.

The Salvation Army here ran an excursion to Belleville per Steamer Merritt on Thursday evening of last week. It was well patronized, but owing to the difficulty of navigating the river at night the excursionists did not land in Napanee till six o'clock the next morning.

Two cars loaded with butter ran off the track at the G. T. R. station on Tuesday. The box heated on the front car twisting the axle off, derailing both cars. The auxiliary from Belleville came down in the afternoon and they were patched up sufficiently to be taken to the Round house for repairs.

The Tribune says: George Deroche, of the well known office of Messrs. Deroche & Madden, Napanee, will open a law office in Deseronto. Mr. Deroche has passed most successful examinations and being a young man of excellent character there is no doubt he will merit a large share of public patronage.

Mrs. Hartley, who was tried for the murder of her husband, of New Durham, has now received $3,000 of the $4,000 insurance which her husband had upon his life, the remaining $1,000 has been paid into court by the Home Circle and a fight for its possession will take place between Mrs. Hartley and her son.

It may not be generally known that new milk cans when exposed to the rays of the sun will rapidly cause a fire. A farmer near Athens recently discovered that the platform about a well on his grounds was on fire. It was noticed and extinguished but to the surprise of the family it was found the next day to be burning in precisely the same place. For some time they were at a loss to discover the reason, but it was afterwards found that the new milk can which had been left standing on the platform was the cause.

B B. B.

Purifies and regulates the entire system, thus curing Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Rheumatism, Dropsy and all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It also removes all impurities from the system from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

THE NAPANEE

Vol. XXXIV] No 31—JNO. POLLARD, Editor and Publisher. NAPANEE, ONT. CAN

BEFORE STOCK-TAKING

Having gone through my stock of

Crockery, China and Glassware

and finding it much too large for this season of the year I have decided to put the whole stock on the market

For the Next 60 Days.

at a large discount, or in other words, sharing up my profits with my customers, and in Dinner and Tea Sets, of which I have a fine assortment, I will give a special discount in order to clear them out to make room for New Goods arriving in the early part of April.

W. Coxall

CORN.....

We have a full stock of the leading varieties in hill and Fodder Corn comprising: Early Yellow Dent, Mammoth Cuban, Leaming, Stowell's Evergreen, Rural Thoroughbred, Salzer's Giant White Dent, Canada Yellow, Angel of Midnight, Early Red Blazed.

Tomato, Cabbage and Celery Plants.

Mangel, Carrot, Turnip and a full line of Garden Seeds.

Onions for Planting.

Flour, the best that can be made from the best grades of Wheat, at reasonable prices.

The Rathbun Co'y

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A GREAT DROP IN PRICES IN MEN'S BOY'S AND CHILDREN'S CLOTHING

Ask to see our $5.50 Men's All-Wool Suits, they beat any Suit you have seen for price and quality.

We sell a Fine Shirt for 50c, worth double the money.

Anything in Men's Furnishings away down in price.

A new lot of Felt and Straw Hats just to hand to be sold at Clearing Prices.

Men's and Boy's Caps from 5c up.

Neckwear—Ties worth 40c to be cleared at 25c.

Come and see for yourself.

A. M. VINEBERG,

The Wonderful Cheap Clothier, Dundas st., Henry Block, Napanee

IMPORTANT TO INTENDING PURCHASERS OF FARM IMPLEMENTS

SPECIAL SH

We have just cleared out the of White Shirts.

You can buy them from us at Unlaundried Shirts 38c, 55c 75c and $1.00. All sizes.

Laundried Shirts 50c, 75c, $ $1.25 lines.

You are invited to call and

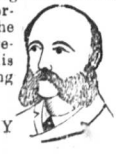
McALISTE

Protect and Adorn Your Head.

PROF. DORENWEND, of Toronto,

Is coming and will be at the PAISLEY HOUSE on Friday, 12th JULY.

With a large stock of Ladies' and Gentlemen's Wigs, Toupees, Bangs, Switches, Waves, and other Hair Goods Styles. Every lady or gentl man who is bald or whose hair has become thin should take advantage of this visit and consult him. If there is any chance of restoring the growth he will advise those preparations best adapted in each case. His goods are worn by thousands with gratifying results



Remember at PAISLEY HOUSE, FRIDAY JULY 12th.

Moonlight Jubilee

EXCURSION

VARTY LAKE, SATURDAY NIGHT, JULY 6th

Leave Napanee 8 o'clock p.m.

Fare Round Trip, 25c, to Camp Ground

Rev. J. A. Mason, Lecture, "Shadows of Moonlight."

Miss Ham Astrachan Solo from Ishmael, Cato Thomas Celebrated Jubilee Chorus.

OF FARM IMPLEMENTS,

The best is always the cheapest. Therefore, before purchasing elsewhere, call at Sylvester Bros'. Machinery Hall, (west end Campbell House Block) and inspect their samples, consisting of their Celebrated Shoe or Press Drill. Hoe Drill. Broad Cast Seeder and Spring Tooth Cultivator Combined. Single Spring Tooth Cultivator. Diamond Harrow. Mower, etc.

Also be sure and see the Wartman & Ward Spade Harrow, (the Queen of Pulverizers). Every farmer should have one. Different Patterns of Disc Harrows for sale. Don't you want a new Lumber Wagon this season? If so, buy none but a CHATHAM, with patent Grain and Stock Rack combined. The best in the Market.

BLANCHARD & POTTER,

AGENTS.

HERRINGTON & WARNER,

Barristers, etc.

MONEY TO LOAN AT LOW RATES

Office—Warner Block, East-st Napanee. 5y

DEROCHE & MADDEN,

Barristers,

Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.

Office—Grange block,

Money to Loan at "lower than the lowest" rates

H. M. DEROCHE, Q. C. 5-1y J. H. MADDEN.

MORDEN & RUTTAN.

Barristers, Solicitors, etc.

Office over Merchant's Bank, Bank of Canada Dundas Street, Napanee.

A. L. MORDEN, Q. C. G. F. RUTTAN.

County Crown Attorney.

Money to loan at 5, 5½ and 6 per cent.

DENTISTS

C. D. WARTMAN, L.D.S.

C. H. WARTMAN, D.D.S.

Graduates of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario and graduate of Toronto University.

OFFICE—LEONARD BLOCK,

Visits made to Tamworth the first Monday in each month, remaining over Tuesday. Rooms at Wheeler's Hotel.

All other Mondays C. D. Wartman will be in Yarker.

Napanee office open every day.

R. A. LEONARD, M.D., C.P.S.

Physician, Surgeon, etc.

Late House Surgeon of the Kingston General Hospital.

Office—North side of Dundas Street, between West and Robert Streets, Napanee. 5-1y

---

A. S. ASHLEY,

DENTIST

16 Years in Napanee.

34 Years Experience.

Rooms, - Albert Block, - Napanee

JAS. AYLESWORTH,

General Business Agent.

Conveyancer,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses,

Commissioner, etc., in H.C.J.

Clerk, 7th Division Court, of the County of Lennox & Addington

Grand Trunk Railway Ticket Agent

TAMWORTH.

A. R. DAVIS,

Ontario Land Surveyor and Civil Engineer.

Office with T. G. Davis, Insurance Agent 39 Coates Block

C. H. FINKLE,

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER, Newburgh, Ont. Orders left with Ewart and Vanluven, Yarker, will have prompt attention. Telephone communication.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS

COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY

ADVERTISEMENT FOR CREDITORS.

Pursuant to a judgment of the High Court of Justice, Chancery Division, made in a cause Wolfe vs. A. Wolfe, the creditors of Calista Ann Wolfe, late of Township of Camden, in the County of Lennox and Addington, married woman, who died on or about the 27th day of April 1894, and all persons holding general or special liens upon her estate or upon the interest of the parties entitled therein, are on or before the 10th day of July, A.D., 1895, to send by post prepaid to Herrington & Warner of the town of Napanee, Solicitors, their christian names and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their security (if any) held by them. In default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said judgment. Every creditor holding any security is to produce the same before me, at my Chambers, in the Court house, in the town of Napanee, on Saturday 13th day of July A. D. 1895 at 2 p.m., being the time appointed for adjudication on the claims,

S. S. LAZIER, L.M.

Dated this 7th day of June A. D. 1895. 28d

JUDICIAL SALE.

CHANCERY DIVISION

WOLFE vs. A. WOLFE.

Pursuant to the judgment made in this action on the sixth day of June, 1895, there will be sold by public Auction with the approbation of the Local Master at Napanee, at the Court House in the town of Napanee, on at 2 p.m., the following valuable farm and village property.

Saturday, July 13th, 1895,

PARCEL NUMBER ONE—That portion of lot number 45, in the second concession of the township of Camden, county of Lennox and Addington, containing about 100 acres, lying south of the Napanee river and easterly of the road from Wilton to Colebrooke leading across the Colebrooke bridge and that part of the south half of said lot lying westerly of said road known as village lot "A" on plan of Colebrooke made by M. P. Rombough, P.L.S., save and except therefrom village lot lettered C. on said plan.

PARCEL NUMBER TWO—Village lot lettered "C" part of lot number 45 in the second concession of Camden aforesaid.

Upon parcel number one is erected a good frame house and barn, driving house and two tenant houses. The property is well watered and lies in the village of Colebrooke.

Upon parcel number two is erected a large stone house and a frame store or storehouse, and a drive house. The village lot contains about 1¼ acres and was the home of the late Mrs Wolfe.

The property will be sold subject to a reserve bid fixed by the Master.

TERMS OF SALE:—A deposit of $10 for every $100 of the purchase money at the time of sale, the balance within one month thereafter without interest. In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale of this court.

For further particulars apply at the law offices of Herrington & Warner and Morden & Ruttan at Napanee.

S. S. LAZIER, L.M.

Dated June 7th, 1895.

HERRINGTON & WARNER,
Plaintiff's Solicitors. 28d

THE ROYAL HOTEL,

Dundas Street, Napanee.

H. HUNTER, Prop.

This commodious hotel is centrally situated having every convenience for the travelling and business public. Large yard and sheds for farmers.

Good table, best of wines, liquors, and cigars

The comfort of guests is made a first consideration.

FOR SERVICE.

THOROUGHBRED GUERNSEY BULL

AT THE

ROYAL HOTEL STABLE

NAPANEE

TERMS, - $1.00.

The verdict of the people is that Davis' makes Jersey Ice Cream and no mistake. Don't be deluded into eating frozen custard when you can get the proper article at the same price. Our pure cream arrives every day by Lost.

Celebrated Jubilee Chorus.

Returning leave Varty Lake 11 o'clock,

Entirely Moonlight.

Refreshments on the Grounds.

ADMISSION TO GROUNDS, - 10 CENTS.

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned offers for sale the well-known Williard Huffman farm near Bath, seven miles from Napanee, being south east quarter lot No. 3 south half lot No. 4, and six acres of lot No. 5, all in 3rd concession of Ernestown, county of Lennox.

This is one of the best farms in Central Ontario, with good orchard, fair buildings and fences.

No herrick on this farm.

Terms Liberal.

Possession of land this fall; buildings first of March next.

For particulars apply to

FRANK VANSLYCK, Morven P. O.

or

HARVEY WARNER, Box 215, Napanee P.O.

Napanee, July 3rd, 1895. 311

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT

The Board of Audit

FOR THE COUNTY OF

LENNOX AND ADDINGTON

will meet to audit the Public Accounts at

THE COURT HOUSE

—IN THE—

TOWN OF NAPANEE

—ON—

SATURDAY, JULY 6th, 1895

at the hour of 10 o'clock a.m.

All accounts for audit must be delivered to the Clerk of the Peace on or before the 1st day of July 1895.

A. L. MORDEN,
Clerk of the Peace.

Napanee, June 21st, 1895.

On Saturday To-Morrow

We Start a Special Hat Sale

NOW that the season is far advanced we offer the balance of our stock at prices away below cost during July.

Don't miss this Sale of Hats,

Don't Forget Saturday.

First Choice Always Best.

We are offering some Special Bargains in White Waists, Children's Dresses, Underwear and Baby's Bonnets.

S. E. ALLEN,

HENRY BLOCK.

Machine Oil, Paris Green, Hay Fork and pullies at BOYLE & SON'S.

Fifty years of success in curing Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Cholera, Colic, Cramps, bowel complaints of summer and fall, etc., stamp Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry as the best remedy in the market. It saves children's lives.

Window Screen's, Screen doors, spring hinges, screen wire, largest variety, lowest prices. BOYLE & SON.

Catarrh Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes

One short puff of the breath through the Blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this Powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves instantly, and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tonsilitis and Deafness. 60 cents. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—467.

Minard's Liniment is the Best.

About Chattelle and Education Again

To the Editor of the Napanee Express.

Sir.—In your last issue is a communication from "J. A. D." of Bath whom I recoguise as James A Ducentre, B. A.—my old apponent in the Jarvis—Tighe—Ducentre—Pringle diccussion in your columns some fifteen months ago. It is a pleasure to differ in opinion on great questions with a controversialist like your learned correspondent, Mr. Ducentre, who is always fair and courteous and writes with evident sincerity. But these commendable qualities and qualifications do not save our friend from limping badly when he attempts to get down through the cobble stones and boulders of error—mossy and mouldy with the ages of centuries—to the bed rock of causes and first principles. While Mr. Ducentre finds himself "agreeing with some" of my positions on the educational question and "differing from others," his communication is not a direct criticism bnt is so by implication. There is "one conspicuous omission" in my Chattelle article (which by the way, was not fully quoted by THE EXPRESS) and this omission was "the power of habit." Of course I fully concede the great power of habit as a factor in moulding character and determining future conduct, but could not in a brief review go into all phases of so broad a subject. That part of the subject is more fully dealt with in an address on "Education" given last winter in Stratford at the annual convention of the O. B. K. As. which has since been published in full in connection with the official report, and which I shall be blessed to mail to those who may have sufficient interest in the subject to send me their names and addresses.

With very much of Mr Ducentre's interesting letter I heartily agree, especially as to the desirability of inculcating into the minds of youth "the great ordinary rules of correct ethical, social, political and legal conduct, and the great general principles sanctioning these rules." I also agree in the main with the methods he suggests for doing this, so far as they are practicable. But while I agree with him as to "the power of habit" I must differ from him radically as to the power he ascribes to early training and education. He says no one becomes a great criminal at once—that in early childhood the tendencies to crime "can be easily conquered and restrained within proper and normal limits." He quotes the proverb, "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." With due deference to the author of that proverb and to Mr. Ducentre himself I must say broadly and bluntly that neither the proverb nor Mr. D's dictum just above it is true. Not only are the facts against them but the philosophy is against them. What are the facts? One is that children who are brought up by the same parents and trained and educated together under the same circumstances and conditions, even in Christian Clergymen's homes and in sunday schools, turn out sometimes to be totally different in character, some of them becoming good exemplary citizens and others of them just the reverse—thieves, rogues, drunkards and murderers. This in his necessarily any reflection on parents or teachers, because "you can Shoemake a silk purse out of a sow's ear" and of two children of the same parents one may be at birth a "sow's ear" metaphorically

NEE EXPRESS.

CANADA—FRIDAY, JULY 5, 1895. $1 per Year in advance; $1.50 if not so paid.

Geo. Hebbe
Goldbrook

SHIRT SALE

t the balance of a Factory Stock us at exactly manufacturer's prices

55c, 75c, regularly sold at 50c,

c, $1.00 regular 75c, $1.00 and

nd look them over.

TER & CO'Y.

speaking, while the other is the genuiue silk fabric—or, at any rate, the "raw material" for the "silk purse"! Education and moral training may do a great deal, but nature also has a deal to do with the matter. All that the very best system of education and the most exemplary moral and religious training can do is to make the best of the "raw material" —such as it is—in every child. If the raw material is good and the molding just right a good specimen of humanity will be turned out every time. If the material is bad the product will not be good, no matter how passable he may appear in fair weather. If the material is a sort of average quality a fairly decent citizen may be produced by the right method. But, my friend, you can no more make a first class man or woman out of bad material than I can make a first class whiffletree out of a basswood tree. Were your philosophy true both things could be done. You may take the basswood stick, and, by applying mechanical art, make a splendid looking whiffle tree out of it, and, finished off with paint and varnish, nobody could tell without close inspection or a test that that whiffletree was very weak and no good at all for a heavy load. So long as you leave it on the hook as a sample, or use it very tenderly, it will do fairly well and never reveal its weakness, but put it to the [illegible] whiffletree is designed to do [illegible] in two. Make your [illegible] properly out of oak, or iron-[illegible] and it will do its work and stand the test. But as whiffletrees are made of trees and as basswood is a tree why should basswood not make a good whiffletree? Simply because "can be easily conquered" if taken in hand in time in early childhood. Very well: we seek out a young darkey born of parents who have been for generations robbing hen roosts and melon patches. The youngster's cranium fairly bulges with Secretiveness, Acquisitiveness, and Alimentiveness, while above that region of his pate and front of it are regular cranial valleys which ought to have been filled in with some of that "grey matter" which goes to produce honesty and intelligence. We take this dusky and dubious young specimen of the genus homo to our learned friend and ask him to put his educational theory into practice on him and make him up (and over) into a good, honest citizen. Mr. D. puts in, say, fifteen years on his charge in a faithful, well directed, and even desperate attempt to reduce those "bulges" and fill up those "valleys." But at the end of the long tuition and persistent training the bulges are there all the same, and the valleys are there; and were I a betting man I would go ten thousand to one that that darkey gets the "bulge" on his foster-father the first chance he gets at a melon patch on a July day!

Bear in mind I am not disparaging the utility and power of early education and moral training. Far from it. I am only showing that they will not do what our friend says they will—impossibilities. Suppose we give Mr. D. a better subject—one whose ancestors had not done so much in the melon and roost business, and whose cranium showed up fair to middling, but one who, under bad training and surroundings would develop into a

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY

ROBLIN

Special open air services are to be held, during the summer season, on the site of the proposed new Anglican Church at Roblin, the first of the series being announced for Wednesday night next at 7,30. These services will very probably proven to be satisfactory and we wish the promoters much success in their work.

CENTREVILLE

Having is nearly finished, the only labor being in cutting it. It is only about one quarter of a crop around here. The grain crop will also be light if the present dry weather continues.

Statute labor is about all completed. Our contractors, Missrs Perry and Donnelly, are busily engaged at present filling their contracts.

Excursions are all the rage now.

The majority from around here attended the R. C. Picnic at Varty Lake on the 25th inst. Several attended the races at Napanee on Monday and Tuesday also.

School has closed for vacation. The School house will be repaired during the holidays.

Fred Burr, Deseronto, had the palm of his hand severely cut in the match factory; Chris. Cronk had his left knee badly strained by a fall, and D. Gilchrist had his eye injured by a brand in the chemical works.

HAY BAY.

Strawberries in this section are about finished, the dry weather has shortened them up.

The news from here is scarce at present as people do a lot of talking and very little doing and not much going.

Mr. Albert Moore, of Napanee Mills, was the guest of Mr. J. A. Moore, of this place during the past week.

It is talked of that Mr. Perry Brown intends going to Rochester some time this summer.

The young man who keeps cutting and carving at the new boat house that has been built on the island had better be a little careful as what he is doing allow me to tell him it is a piece of penitentiary business.

Mr. and Mrs. Byard Young, of Napanee, was the guest of Mr. M. E. Post on Sunday last

Mr. Joseph Howie, of Westbrooke, has completed the carpenter work in John Hambly's new house.

There is to be a wedding in our midst just as soon as the paint gets dry on the new house.

It is rumored that our minister Mr. McEachern is going to purchase a pair of horses from from a certain man in our midst

PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY.

Mrs. Robert Milligan, Napanee, was the guest of Mrs. Bruce Johnson, Dominion Day.

When returning home from town Monday evening a horse belonging to Mr. A. Taylor, Sophiasburgh, becoming frightened ran away. Miss Annie Taylor in attempting to jump from the waggon was thrown with great force to the ground, breaking her arm above the wrist. What might have been a more serious accident was averted by the presence of mind of one of the little boys, who, clinging to the reins guided the horse with great skill in and out among the numerous carriages on the road, and finally brought him to a standstill! after an exciting half mile run.

Ettian Unger, Napanee Road, spent Sunday and Monday in the County ostensibly to visit friends and attend the military demoustration in Picton, but, sub rosa, there was a far greater attraction here for him

The entertainment held in Picton on Dominion Day was a most successful and pleasant affair. The day was all that could be desired, fair and cool, and our town, always a pretty one, excelled itself in beauty. Flags fluttered everywhere, beautiful arches spanned the principal

SANDHURST.

Having a little spare time at present I thought I would do credit to our little village by sending a few of the most important events to the Editor.

Our base ball team played their annual match on Saturday last, coming off victorious. Take off your caps ye citizens.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Walker, Harrowsmith, were the guests of Mr. John Brown on Sunday last.

Hay seems to make a great growth when sown in rows. Farmers should practice this, especially those who have loamy hills.

Mr. John Brown has a very fine garden. He says one has plenty of time to garden, as the saying, "more rain, more rest," is out of place this year.

A little visitor at Mr. Fred Wiskin's. It will stay.

The Presbyterians held their strawberry festival at Sillsville on Thursday evening. The ladies deserve credit for the style in which it was gotten up.

Mr. Morris Sills had the misfortune to lose a horse while visiting at Mr. Fred Sills', it being stung to death by bees.

This little song seems to be Tom's favorite.

The moon shines bright as we drive on
Amid increasing happiness and bliss,
But the greatest joy will come to me
Because I am familiar with Lee.

Messrs. Galt and Joyce are doing a rushing business.

Pete says times are better now as Joe cannot take a short cut to the shop. He says if Joe got on the hill he would be lost, not being used to the wilderness.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Council Chamber
July 3rd, 1895.

A special meeting of the town council was held on Wednesday evening for the transaction of general business, Mayor Stevens in the chair, present Symington, Alexander, Burns, Miller, McAlister, Carson, Ward, Madole.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication from the Provincial Government directing attention to a new clause in the law governing the appointment of Boards of Health was read and referred to the Police committee.

A communication from W. G. Wilson, county clerk, was read stating that the county rate for Napanee was $2,450.

A communication was received stating that the Government grant to the Napanee public schools was $371.

Coun. Lowry entered.

A petition from Mrs. Orvie Lyn asking for help until she became able to work was referred to the Poor and Sanitary committee.

The report of the Finance committee was read and adopted.

The treasurer's statement showing the amount to the credit of the corporation up to date to be $839.42 was read and adopted.

The reports of the Street, Fire, Water and Light, Market, Poor and Sanitary, and Police committees were read and adopted.

A by law to raise by loan an amount not to exceed $3,500 was read a first, second and third time, numbered, signed, sealed and finally passed.

The Finance committee was empowered to have a surveyor run the main lines on the town's lots, at an expense not to exceed $10.

Coun. Burns gave notice that at the next meeting he would introduce an amendment to by law 512. This is the by law governing livery licenses.

$50 was ordered placed at the disposal of the Poor and Sanitary committee.

John street from the market down to Mill street was ordered to be sprinkled in response to a petition signed by the requisite number of ratepayers.

A number of accounts were ordered paid or referred.

Council adjourned.

FACTS OF ALL SORTS.

A whale, when struck by a harpoon, cannot swim faster than are made of trees and as basswood is a tree why should basswood not make a good whiffletree? Simply because there is a natural difference in the quality of the different trees, as the timber varies in fiber from the hard and strong to the coarse and weak. And, bear in mind, no matter what cultivation and care you bestow upon a young basswood even from the seed you can never do more than make a good basswood of it; you cannot harden or refine the fiber. No amount of cultivation will make hard wood of it.

Now, sir this comparison holds good with human beings. There is just as much difference naturally in them as in trees, and a much greater variety. Not only is this fact patent, prima facie, but science proves it. All experience proves it. Take your human basswood sprout and educate, and train, and cultivate him as you like—do your best, and you can only make a good basswood man of him. The timber will be soft in spite of everything. He may be varnished and polished off nicely by education and training, and, like the whiffletree, look first rate, and get along passably well, especially in the sunshine of prosperity; but let adversity come, let the cold blast from the north strike him fiercely and he goes down, while the man of oaken fiber stands firm and strong and defies all the winds of adversity and all the wiles of the tempters.

Mr. Ducentre refers to the horse to illustrate and prove his position as to the transforming power of early training and education. Unfortunate is that for him and fortunate for me, as I would ask no better illustration and proof of my own position than the case of the horse. I fully agree with Mr. Ducentre that the proper time to begin to train a horse is when "the horse is a colt." I have raised them and trained them to do the ordinary duties and common work of a good horse and I know whereof I speak. I also agree that you cannot make the most and the best of the horse unless you begin the education and training when he is young. There is no disagreement here, but that is not the vital part of the question at all. No matter how early you begin the training or how good your system may be all you can do is to make the best and the most of the raw material before you in the colt. You can develop no trait, or power, or ability, in the colt or horse of which his natural organization is or was incapable. That is my contention and that is all I am contending for in these premises. But Mr. Ducentre is contending for more in the case of both the human and the lower animal, if I rightly understand him. And now let us put his philosophy to the practical test. I take a Clyde colt to Mr. Ducentre or, if you please, to the most expert horse trainer in the world, and I say to him "here is a colt—a likely, fine colt. I want you to take and raise him and train him for the ring and the turf. I want you to develop and draw out the speed that is in him so that he may become a famous trotter and beat the record." The horse-trainer looks at me with a smile of contempt. He says—"Do you take me for a fool? There is no speed in that colt to develop, so how can I develop speed in him"? I reply—"Is not that a fine colt? Are not all famous trotters developed from colts? Why then, can you not make a trotter out of this one? My friend D. here says the thing can be done." "I cannot do it." he replies, "simply because nature has not done her part to begin with. This colt is not built for speed, but for strength. I can make a famous draft-horse out of him." Mr. D. goes off to think the matter over and to re-construct his philosophy. But hold a minute! We have not done yet. Mr. D. says, speaking now of the human, crantium showed up fair to middling, but one who, under bad training and surroundings would develop into a first rate thief and liar. We give this subject over to Mr. D.; and I have no hesitation in admitting that he might in the fifteen years of training make of him a pretty fair specimen, who would not think of visiting the coop or the melon patch surreptitiously provided you gave him chicken and melon in reasonable quantity; but if you failed to do this, and there was a melon patch convenient, and the days were dog days, and, the opportunity was present in good shape, I would not undertake to be responsible for the result. The temptation being so strong the basswood timber would in all probability give way.

Yours etc.
ALLEN PRINGLE.

Selby, Ont. June 27th, 1895.

Grinding Tuesdays Thursdays and Saturday forenoons at Close's Mills.
20c. JAS A. CLOSE.

Why Not

give your house a coat of paint. If you buy your material right it will cost you only a small amount. Call or write to Napanee Paint works for sample color cards and prices, and, if you wish, we will furnish you with a sample of the White Lead we use and will pay one hundred dollars for every ounce of adulteration found in it. We use nothing but the best lead, oil and coloring materials, and as we have the best machinery for grinding and mixing paints we can save you money, if you intend to paint your house. If you want a can of Pure Ready Mixed Paints, any size, ask your dealer for Madden's, it will please you.

In Your Blood is the cause of that tired feeling which afflicts you at this season. The blood is impure and has become thin and poor. That is why you have no strength, no appetite, cannot sleep.. Purify your blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla, which will give you an appetite, tone your stmach, and invigorate your nerves.

A PRACTICAL COLLEGE.

We have received a copy of the annual announcement of the Veterinary College to be opened October 1st, in Kingston, in connection with Queen's University. The new school is intended to give young men such a knowledge of the diseases of domestic animals as will qualify for the practic of the profession of veterinary surgeons. It is also intended to give to farmers' sons and stock raisers such a knowledge of veterinary science as will enable them to treat their stock intelligently, bread them scientifically, and, in case of serious sickness, administer temporary relief until the services of a regularly qualified verterinary surgeon can be obtained. Geo. W. Bell, V S., Kingston, will be glad to furnish any of our readers with further information regarding the College, or the Dairy School, which stands beside it.

M. Napoleon Garant

CURED OF DYSPEPSIA.

A Severe Case Cured by Burdock Blood Bitters after other treatment had Failed.

GENTLEMEN—After being treated by three doctors for Dyspepsia I decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters. By the time I had taken two bottles of the B. B. B. I was completely cured and have since been strong and well. When I was suffering from dyspepsia was so weak and thin I could hardly walk, but I now weigh over 160 pounds and feel as well as ever I did in my life.

could be desired, fair and cool, and our town, always a pretty one, excelled itself in beauty. Flags fluttered everywhere, beautiful arches spanned the principal roadways, bright bunting and mottoes of welcome were to be seen in all directions. Early in the morning the town was full of people all eager to see the visiting battalions. At 10.30 the park was crowded and the three battalions, viz., the 57th, Peterboro Rangers, the 15th, Argyle Light Infantry, Belleville, and the 14th, Princess of Wales Own Rifles, of Kingston, were drawn up for review. Then forming in line they marched through the principal streets, returning to the park about 12 o'clock. In the afternoon athletic exercises was the order of the day, and in the evening a band concert and the march to the boat. The day ended in a grand ball given by the officers of the 16th battalion, Picton, in honor of their guests. Everyone was apparently well pleased with the day and we felt like helping some of the boys sing "For they are jolly good fellows."

CONWAY.

Well Mr. Editor as you have not heard from me from me for some time I will send you a little news from Conway and its suburbs.

Crops around here are looking badly, and rain is needed very much.

What is that song we hear Martha singing. This seems to be it:

I long to see that hour when I hear the clock strike four
For then it is the time that teachers work is o'er,
And very soon I see the dust, and then R. S.'s wheel
And then it is not very long before our game is sealed
But then my great desire which I would not reveal
That bicycle not yet invented, the one that is built for two.

Charlie wears a broad smile. It's a boy.

George is busy breaking his colt; it is a dandy. He says it will have good eyes to help him hunt crabs, as it is fun catching them when you know where they are.

Farmers are busy with their hay; it is a light crop.

John says stock raising is a poor business but if calves were plentiful he would not mind it as long as he did not get afraid.

Rheumatism seems to be prevalent around here. It must be bad for one's health to be out in the evening air viewing flowers, especially those called the Sweet Williams.

Quite a number from here attended the festival at Sillsville on Thursday evening. It was a success.

Mr. Henry Sheppard, Toronto, was visiting at Mr. Tom Wiskin's on Thursday.

DENBIGH.

After weeks of hot, dry weather we have at last been favoured on Wednesday last with a good rain, and our growing crops have a much improved appearance, though it came too late to do the old meadows much good, which are mostly so dried up that they will hardly pay for cutting.

"Raising bees" has been the order of the day lately.

Herman Glasser has built a fine frame barn. Reinhold Retzold a few days ago raised the frame of a similar one (45 x 60ft) with basement stables under it. Last Saturday Adolpha Fritsch raised a new barn and drive house 28x68 feet. Dwelling houses and additions to houses are being built by William Chatson: kitchen and additional bedrooms to the Chatson House. Michael Ready: frame dwelling house. David E. Youman: frame dwelling house. E. Berndt: frame kitchen. A Crabtree and E. Stein are building a new frame barn for L. Goddin, Griffith.

Rev. G. Brackebusch, of Eganville, conducted the services in the Lutheran church last Sunday forenoon, and formally put his successor, Rev. E. Weber in charge of this mission. Rev. E. Weber conducted the evening service.

Mr. W. Knight left Denbigh last week and started for his new field of labour. Mr. Sheppard, his successor has arrived and conducted services in the Methodist Sunday afternoon.

Visitors—Messrs J. T. Ewens of Belleville and R. E. Jones, of Flinton, at the Denbigh House. Mr. Joseph Joyce of Griffith at the Chatson House. Rev. G. Brackebush, and Mrs. Brackebush of Eganville and C. Lembe, of Plevna, at Adolph Fritsche. Mr. C. Hartman, of Ardoch, Albert L. Stein and Lee, of Renfrew at P. Stein's. Mr. and Mrs. Kossmack and Miss J. Kossmack, of Sebastopol Township, at E. Warlich's.

The oil of the Norwegian Cod Liver is nature's grand restorative, and is only found in its entirety and purity in Miller's Emulsion, "the kind that cures" colds, coughs, bronchitis and all affections of the throat and lungs. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at druggists.

A whale, when struck by a harpoon, cannot swim faster than nine miles an hour.

Some of the condors shot in the Andes Mountains have a spread of wing from 15 to 20 feet.

Signor Bonomi, one of the Panama Canal engineers, who was in New Orleans recently, said the work would begin on the canal on a large scale about July 1.

The London Economist says that any reduction of wages in England in 1894 was more than offset by the fall of prices, and that on the whole it was a year of prosperity for the poor.

The natives of Sumatra have a visiting card consisting of a piece of wood about a foot long, decorated with a bunch of straw and a knife.

The mole is not so blind as many persons suppose, according to an English authority. Its eye is hardly larger than a pin head, and is carefully protected from mist and dirt by means of enclosing hairs.

In Mexico two substitute jurymen act with the regular jury, so that sudden illness will not effect the verdict.

The skeleton of an average whale is said to weigh no less than 50,000 pounds.

The production of aluminium has increased from 150 pounds in 1884 to 339,-000 pounds last year. During this time the price has dropped from $5 a pound to about 70 cents.

The albatross has been known to follow a ship for two months without even being seen to alight in the water to take a moment's rest. It is believed to sleep on the wing.

A SEASON
Of Dread And Fear for Thousands of People.

If You Would Banish the Blues and all Your Other Distresses USE PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

Yes, this is just the season when we hear men and women lamenting about their halfdead condition. They find that physical and mental energy has deserted them, and they are sinking deeply into the pit of despondency.

The hot weather invariably produces thousands of miserable feeling mortals. They lack nerve force, strength and vitality. They are usually tormented by dyspepsia, flatulence, biliousness, heart trouble, constipation, nervousness and sleeplessness, they cannot rest day or night, and life becomes a burden heavy and intolerable.

The great recuperator, strength and healthgiver for such weary, worn-out and suffering people is Paine's Celery Compound, now so universally approved of by medical men.

Paine's Celery Compound in its peculiar composition, combines the best producers of healthy and pure blood, the first essential to perfect health, strength and activity. When the great medium is used in summer languor, irritability, nervousness and sleeplessness are permanently banished, and men and women go about their duties with a vim, will and energy that indicates health and robustness. Use Paine's Celery Compound at once, if you would enjoy life in the hot weather.

The Dominion Bank

ESTABLISHED 1871.

CAPITAL — $1,500,000.00
RESERVE FUND — $1,450,000.00

Deposits received and interest allowed
Drafts on all parts of Great Britain and United States bought and sold.

E. H. BAINES, Agent.

READ THIS ITEM.

The Bearer has decided to go out of the Note Business. All Notes past due must be settled between now and the First of July. Notes falling due must be paid or secured by Mortgage.

HARVEY WARNER,
Box 215.

Napanee, March 22nd, 1895 15cm.

GRAND TRUNK
RAILWAY
Home Seekers' Excursion to Manitoba.
June 25, July 9 and 23

Good to Return in 60 days.

Deloraine, Reston, Estevan, Binscarth, Moosomin $28
Regina, Moosejaw, and Yorkton .. $30
Prince Albert and Calgarry $35
Red Deer and Edmonton $40

For Tickets apply to

J. L. BOYES.
Agent, Napanee.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

UPPER LAKE

S. S. ALBERTA

Sails from WINDSOR for FORT WILLIAM

EVERY SATURDAY

On arrival of morning train, about 3.00 p.m. calling at

SARNIA
MACKINAC ISLAND
SAULT STE. MARIE

EVERY WEDNESDAY

At 9.00 p.m. a through sleeping car leaves Toronto for

PORTLAND AND THE SEASIDE

Passing through the WHITE MOUNTAINS by daylight.

E. McLAUGHLIN,
Agent at Napanee.
1y

ALL MOTHERS WHO HAVE USED PALMO-TAR SOAP KNOW THAT IT IS THE BEST BABY'S SOAP for healing the Delicate Skin of Sores.

ONLY 25¢ BIG CAKE

Baby was troubled with sores on head and legs. I tried "Palmo-Tar Soap." In a very short time the sores disappeared, skin became smooth and white, and the child got perfectly well.

MRS. HOLTZMAN, Crediton

Only 25c. Big Cake.

IRISH AND SCOTCH WHISKY.

For sale by the undersigned the following well known brands of Irish and Scotch whiskey :—

Bushneills ..... Irish
James Watson & Co. ..... "
Henry Thomson & Co. ..... "
Mitchell & Bro. ..... "
Burke & Co. ..... "
J. Brown & Co. ..... "

Bernard & Co. Encore ..... Scotch
Watson's, 3 Star ..... "
Dewar's, Extra Special ..... "
Usher's, O.V.G. ..... "
Sheriff's ..... "
Claymore ..... "
B. Lade & Co. ..... "
Mitchell Bro. ..... "
Glengowan ..... "

M. W. PRUYN & SON.

Napanee, 12th Dec. 1894.

Consumption.

Valuable treatise and two bottles of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. T. A. SLOCUM CHEMICAL CO., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

FOWLER'S

stuff that is selling for that. To show the hollowness of this contention we published an article from the Montreal Star, containing the statement of Thos. Fox, Inland Revenue Inspector, that he had tested two samples of American coal oil, one from Rochester and the other from Boston, and they were a first rate oil and stood a test much higher than the Governmental requirement. At the time that the test was made, Dec. 8th 1892, the oil tested was retailing in Boston and Rochester for from 8 to 10 cents per gallon, while the same oil was being sold in Montreal for 28 cents per gallon. The Beaver displays its ignorance of the question by referring to the absurdity of claiming that the duty of 100 per cent on coal would cause oil to be retailed in Canada for 28 cents per gallon while it was being retailed in the streets of Boston at from 8 to 12 cents a gallon. It asks : "If the oil would stand our Canadian flash test, as it is claimed, what was there in the duty to double and treble the retail price of it between the two countries?" It is plain that the bare duty as it stood at that time could not do it all ; but there are other ways of taxing commerce than the levying of duties. For the information of the Beaver writer we will note roughly how this enormous advance in price was built up. The duty stood at the time at 7 1-5 cents per Imperial gallon. There was the addition of freight when Montreal is compared with Boston ; and the inland revenue officer's inspection fee of 30 cents a barrel. Then there was the requirement that the Canadian importer must bring in his oil in barrels containing not more than 50 gallons each. The effects of this was enumerated as follows by the Montreal Star :

(a) It prohibits the importer taking advantage of the universal method, both in Canada and the States, of having his oil pumped into tank cars at the refiners, and dealing with it in large tanks down to the retailer's door.
(b) It compels him to buy high priced barrels in the oil regions, thus entirely shutting out the Canadian cooper.
(c) It makes him pay freight on these barrels from Pennsylvania to Montreal.
(d) It hinders him from having economical terminal facilities at Montreal, which do so much to lower the price of oil in large American cities.
(e) It brings losses in leakage and deterioration, and compels extra handling several times over.
(f) It mulcts him of the duty on the barrel (40 cents each.

Its other statements re the bonused sugar monopolists are hardly worth noticing. The Beaver maintains that a 100 per cent duty doesn't raise the price of coal oil on the Canadian consumer to any perceptible extent, yet it speaks of the relief afforded the Canadian consumer when the Tory Government was forced to lower the duties on sugar because the American Government abolished them altogether.

UNGRATIFIED DESIRE.

He Failed to Meet the New Yorker He Was Most Anxious to See.

One day on a Broadway car I took a seat beside an old chap whose every look told of Uncle Josh and haystacks, and I was scarcely down before I noticed that he was eyeing me very sharply. By and by he put his hand up to his mouth and whispered behind it :

"Say ! I want to ask ye sunthin !"

"All right."

"Won't get mad and hit me on the nose ?"

"Certainly not."

"Wall, I want to ask if you're a pickpocket !"

"Why do you ask ?"

"Because I'm allus readin' about 'em, and afore I left home I told the old woman I was goin' to keep my eyes open and try and ketch onto one."

"You want to see what he looks like?"

"That's it—that's it !"

"Well, I'm sorry to disappoint you, but I'm no pickpocket."

"Pshaw ! but I jest hoped you was!" he exclaimed, in disappointed tones. "When you came in the door I said to myself that you was a reg'lar pickpocket, and I'd better take a good look at you. It's not your fault, of course, but I kinder feel put out about it."

"If I were a pickpocket it would be an easy matter to get that watch of yours."

MR. AND MRS. BOWSER

NOW THERE'S A NEW TROUBLE IN THE FAMILY.

Mr. B. Buys a Book and Brings It Home —Mrs. B. Will Have Nothing to do with It—Young Bowser Decides the Case Against the Old Man.

"Last night," said Mr. Bowser, as he looked up from his paper and broke a silence which had lasted a quarter of an hour—"last night I heard our child moaning in his sleep, and I noticed that he looked pale and hollow-eyed this morning. I suppose you know what ails him?"

"Nothing ails him, Mr. Bowser—nothing but too much play. You can't find a healthier child in the whole town."

"I hope it is true, but I doubt it. Having him under your eye every hour in the day, you do not notice a change as I do. This afternoon a woman came into the office selling a book on 'How to Bring Up Children.' I had only to glance at it to see that it was just what you wanted. It is full of—"

"Who wrote it ?" sharply demanded Mrs. Bowser.

"I'll show you the book. It tells all about mumps, measles, chicken-pox and everything else likely to ail a child, and also prescribes the cure. Let's see ? It's by Annie Katherine White. Did you ever hear of her ?"

"DO YOU KNOW THAT YOU ARE TALKING TO THAT CHILD'S FATHER?"

"Never, and I don't want to ! It's ten to one that she never was a mother and doesn't know a case of mumps from falling off a fence ! For the land's sake don't get the idea that our child wants dosing !"

Our child may be all right, Mrs. Bowser, or he may be all wrong. It won't hurt anything to read what the woman says. For instance, she gives the premonitory symptoms of measles, and says that a mother——"

"He had measles three months ago!"

"Well, here's all about whooping cough. Twenty-four hours before the cough comes the patient is restless, the tongue coated and the whites of the eyes——"

"I know all about that, and it will be quite useless for you to go up to his bed to see if the whites of his eyes have turned blue or green. You have hardly looked at him for three months past, and now all of a sudden you are greatly worried over his condition !"

"Mrs. Bowser !" said Bowser, as he stood up and flourished the book in his hand, "do you know that you are talking to that child's father ?"

"Of course I do !"

"Then don't talk in that way ! As that child's father I naturally love him. I feel anxious about his health. A woman who has probably reared a dozen children of her own writes a book on how to treat children. I buy it and bring it home to you to save worry and doctor's bills, and you take it as a grevious insult. Here is what the book says about mumps. I was reading it on the car coming home, and as near as I can make out our boy will be down with mumps before sunrise to-morrow. It says that the premonitory symp——"

"How many times do children have the mumps ?" quietly asked Mrs. Bowser.

"H-how many times ? Why do you ask ?"

"Because he had 'em six months ago. Your natural anxiety about your offspring should have made you remember and sigh and sob ? Perhaps not, but I have, and this book says those are the premonitory symptoms of spinal meningitis. Before the clock strikes midnight we may be childless !"

"And before the clock strikes ten I'll throw that book into the stove!" she hotly replied. "The idea of an old maid writing a book to tell mothers how to bring up children! And the idea of your paying two or three dollars for such nonsense !"

"Am I in my own house, or am I not?" shouted Mr. Bowser, as he rose up and glared at her.

"Yes, of course," she answered.

"And am I the father of that child?"

"Of course."

"Then I am going to see him and determine for myself whether he will live the night out or die before another sun rises. If you wish to accompany me to his—"

But just then young Bowser, who had been awakened by his father's loud talk, came down stairs in his night-dress, and he presented such a picture of good health that Mr. Bowser sat down with the feeling that he had lost his case. It wasn't until Mrs. Bowser was leading the boy back to bed that the father found words to say :

"Death may not have actually placed its mark upon his brow, but it can't be far off. I'll look him over in the morning."

"And the lawyers—the alimony—custody of the child, and so forth ?" she queried as she paused on the stairs.

He glared and glared, but made no reply, and when she was out of sight he opened a window and threw the book at a cat on the fence, and then sat down and whispered to himself :

"That's another close call for me, and if I don't put my foot right down I'll be turned right out of my own house inside of a month."

A Natural Curiosity.

"Charley, dear," said Mrs. Hunnimune, "I don't think I take enough interest in things that men care for. Won't you tell me someting about baseball ?"

"Of course. Anything that I can."

"I've noticed that sometimes when a club gets beat it's because the umpire doesn't do right."

"Yes."

"And sometimes because the weather isn't right."

"Yes."

"And sometimes because the audience doesn't do right."

"Yes."

"Well, Charley, dear, what I want to know is, what the players have to do with the game."—Washington Star.

A Complimentary Insult.

Smith—Sir, you are no gentleman.
Jones—Are you one, may I inquire?
Smith—Of course I am, sir.
Jones—Very well, then; I accept the compliment—I am not.

Speaking of Bloomers.

No woman ever looked contented in bloomers.—Los Angeles Express.

No man will ever buy bloomers and woman willingly.—Galveston Tribune.

Are not this year's sweet girl graduate, and the next, and the next, in favor of bloomers ? Let the nation to not kept in suspense.—Denver Times.

A number of the members of Yale

DR. FOWLER'S EXT. OF WILD STRAWBERRY

CURES
COLIC,
CRAMPS,
CHOLERA,
DIARRHOEA,
DYSENTERY,
CHOLERA MORBUS,
CHOLERA INFANTUM

and all Summer Complaints and Fluxes of the Bowels. It is safe and reliable for Children or Adults.

For Sale by all Dealers.

WANTED ENERGETIC MEN to sell our choice and complete line of Nursery stock and seed potatoes. Highest salary and commission paid weekly, paying and permanent position guaranteed and success assured to good men. Special inducements to beginners, experience not necessary. Exclusive territory and your own choice of same given. Do not delay. Apply to ALLEN NURSERY CO. Growers & Propogators, ROCHESTER N. Y.

WANTED

Young Women and Men

or older ones if still young in spirit, of undoubted character, good talkers, ambitious and industrious, can find employment in a good cause, with $60.00 per month and upwards, according to ability.
3lf REV. T. S. LINSCOTT, Brantford, Can.

THE - MERCHANTS - BANK
OF CANADA
Head Office, — Montreal
Capital paid up, $6,000,000
Surplus, $3,000,000
INTEREST AT CURRENT RATES PAID ON DEPOSITS.
A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.
T. E. MERRITT.
Manager, Napanee Branch

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, JULY 5, 1895.

COAL OIL AGAIN.

The Napanee Beaver, in an article about a column and a half in length, endeavored last week to controvert our statements of the previous week. The attempt was lamentably weak, for not one of our contentions was successfully met, although the Beaver writer succeeded admirably in evading them. Our contemporary, some time ago, published the canard that American coal oil was of a dangerous quality, and that coal oil lamp explosions in Canada were due in almost every instance to the using of cheap American coal oil. It cited the fatal accident that befell Mrs. Tovell, of Toronto Junction, as a case in point, and we have asserted and again repeat that it had no more knowledge of the brand of oil used by the deceased lady than the man in the moon. American coal oil coming into Canada is subjected to a higher flash test than Canadian oil, and instead of being cheap it is dearer here than our own oil.

We pointed out that American coal oil was retailing in the border cities of the United States for 8 and 10 cents per gallon, and the Beaver met this by saying it is only the cheap and nasty easy matter to get that watch of yours."

"Would it !" he chuckled. "Wall, mebbe so, but the chain is tied to my pocket with a string and the watch is in my left bootleg. I've got an old wallet here, but she's empty, and them $27 is down in t'other boot-leg with my jack-knife and five nickels. Say ! It's too blamed bad you hain't a pickpocket. I jest wanted ye to fumble around fur about half an hour, and then I was goin' to tickle ye in the ribs and ha! ha! ha! and ask if yer mother knew ye was out to-day, and if ye smelt anythin' like new mown hay around here !"—Detroit Free Press.

Inference.

"Mother," said little Tommy, "was Sam on a football player ?"

"No, dear. What made you think he was ?"

"Cause he wasn't any good after he got his hair cut."

AN ARTFUL DODGER.

The Chicago Man Tells How He Escapes From Legal Service.

"I'm going down to Ohio to-night," said the first business man.

"I thought you had over a dozen people with writs of ne exeat waiting for you," remarked the second business man.

"So I have."

"Then how in thunder do you expect to be back in Chicago on Tuesday to attend that directors' meeting ?"

"Easily enough. You see I have written to an old friend to meet me a few miles outside of the State line with a horse and buggy. I have timed my trip so that I shall arrive about 11 o'clock at the place of rendezvous, and I shall have a nice quiet drive, reaching town just after midnight on Saturday. According to the law, that will be Sunday —a day when they can't arrest me."

"That's a pretty bright idea, but how are you going to get away again ?"

"Promptly at one hour before midnight on Sunday my friend with the buggy will be at the hotel, and I shall depart as I came, getting outside the State just in time to escape service." I have been dodging in and out of Ohio in this way for about a year. People who are perfect strangers to me come up and shake their fists in my face and say:

"'Just you wait until Monday morning. I'll put you in the jug, sure !'"

"Doesn't it get rather monotonous ?"

"Yes, but there isn't anything else to be done. I went to Ohio to negotiate a deal during the gas boom, and when the deal failed every fellow who had invested ten cents in the enterprise wanted my heart's blood. Fortunately I owned the patents, and when they all showed the white feather I promptly removed the concern to Chicago. Some day I shall surprise these fellows by coming into town on a Pullman and paying them dollar for dollar, and then they'll every one of them declare they were always my best friend. That's the way of the world."—Chicago Dispatch.

Her Idea of It.

Thomas Planter—Here, you see tobacco as it grows in the field.

Miss Calls—Charming ! How long will it be before the cigarettes are ready for picking?

C. C. RICHARDS & Co.

My son George has suffered with neuralgia round the heart since 1882, but by the application of MINARD'S LINIMENT in 1889 it completely disappeared and has not troubled him since.

JAS. MCKEE.

Linwood, Ont.

Your natural anxiety about your offspring should have made you remember the circumstance."

"Y-e-s—Um! Yes, I do remember that he had the mumps, or what you called the mumps. I suppose he has also had the chicken-pox ?"

"Certainly he has !"

"And the whooping cough ?"

"Yes, when he was only eight months old."

"Mrs. Bowser, when I looked into that boy's face this morning I was shocked. I tell you his system is all out of gear, and he needs something to brace him up. As near as I can make out from this book he has some ailment of his liver, and I propose——"

"You propose to give him some of your dope !" she finished, as he hesitated.

"My dope ! You said dope, didn't you! What do you mean by dope ?"

I mean the barrel of stuff you have bought and taken a dose or two of and

"CAME DOWN STAIRS IN HIS NIGHT DRESS."

then put away. If anything is wrong with that child we'll call in a doctor."

"Mrs. Bowser, if that child has worms—if the seal of death has already been stamped—"

"But he has no worms," she interrupted. "If anything ails the child he is too healthy. If you want to take 400 different sorts of sarsaparillas, invigorators, tonics, cures and all that I have no objections, but for mercy's sake don't get a fad about our child."

"Fad ! Fad !" he echoed. "When it's a fad, is it, to discover the symptoms of a deadly disease and apply the remedy in time. As a loving father of that child it is not only my duty but my privilege to look him over and guard him. That hectic flush on his face this evening did not escape my notice. For all you know he may be coming down with scarlet fever.

"That hectic flush was caused by his playing circus and standing on his head," replied Mrs. Bowser. "He gets ten hours' sleep every night, eats like a man, and never even has a sore throat."

"Have you heard him moan out in his sleep, Mrs. Bowser—moan and groan

In the DOMINION OF CANADA

DIAMOND DYES

are the great favorites with the ladies for home dyeing.

Why they are Popular.

They are the easiest to use; they give the brightest colors; they make colors that last till the goods are worn out; the colors never crock or fade, and will stand soap and washing.

Ask your dealer for the "DIAMOND"; refuse imitations.

Sold everywhere. Direction Book and forty samples of colored cloth free.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO., Montreal, P.Q.

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

A number of the members of Yale graduating class have publicly expressed a determination never to marry. Is the bloomer girl responsible for this ?—Washington Star.

A Man for Her.

The villian gnashed his gleaming teeth with the grating sound of the breaking up of an ice gorge.

"Ha, ha! my proud beauty," he hissed, "I will yet bring you to the dust.

The proud beauty smiled a wan little smile.

"Never," she twittered. "You are on the wrong tack. The man to win me must bring the dust to me."—Cincinnati Tribune.

Six and Half a Dozen.

THE WOMEN.

Scene: The Boudoir. Time, 3 P.M.

The Guest—Well, I must go now ! Oh, say, did you hear of Glady's engagement ?

(The full details for another hour.)

The Guest—Really, now, I must hurry home ! Oh, about those challies ! You can get them at Styles & Warem's.

(More discourse about the latest spring fashions; clock chimes 6.)

The Guest—Dear me ! How the time flies ! Well, good-by, dear—you heard about Mrs. Flytle ?—oh, dreadfully talked about, and—

(Exhaustive resume of the lady's failings.)

The Hostess—Tea is served. Won't you stay ?

The Guest—Well, I'm sure I oughtn't, but I might as well.

(Does so.)

THE MEN.

Scene: The Club. Time 3 A. M.

The Deal—Say, I thought we were to stop at 2 o'clock ! Here it's 3 already; suppose we have three rounds of jack pots and quit ?

(Jackpots fill up the time till 4.)

The Age—Well, I hate to quit so much ahead. What do you say to just one more round ? See if I can't lose this stack !

(Shuffling, cutting, dealing and bluffing for another half hour.)

The Bet—I'm the victim, it seems. Suppose we have a $2 jack as a wind-up ?

(Two dollar jack gets under way.)

The Cut (looking at watch)—5 o'clock! Well, there's no use stopping at this hour. Let's play the day in.

(They do.)

Can't Give 'Em Up Now.

Reuben—Say, Silas, guess you'll hafter git th' ole woman one o' them bicycles. All th' gals has 'em.

Silas—No, indeed, I've been wearin' th' pants in this family too long ter give 'em up now.

Only a Question of Time.

"That little bill ?" said the debtor, pleasantly. "Oh, yes, of course. Well, you need not worry about that any more. I've got things down to a system now."

"You've been a long time doing it," suggested the creditor.

"I realize it," returned the debtor, "but it's all right now. You see, $30 is more than I can afford to let go of at any one time, but now I can get it together without missing it. You see, a man never misses his small change, so I've bought a little bank that I can drop it into every night. You've no idea how fast it accumulates."

"I've heard of the plan before," said the creditor. "If a man lives up to it and doesn't hold out on the bank it mounts up rapidly."

"Oh, I live up to it," protested the debtor. "I put every cent of small change into it every night, and it's all for you."

"I may hope, then——"

"My dear sir, you may more than

PICK - NICK - ERS!

Keep your Feet Cool.

Canvas Shoes.

RIGHT STYLES AT RIGHT PRICES.

HAINES & LOCKETT

4 Big Shoe Stores.

No Credit. Only One Price.

Holidays

Do You Want a Bag or Trunk for Your Summer Outing?

See Our Stock of Bags and Trunks!

Our new Boston and London Club Bags for Gentlemen are splendid value for any person wanting a real good article.

Prices: $6, $7.50, $9.50.

JAS. H. DOWNEY,

McRossie's Old Stand, South Side Dundas Street.

COLIC, Cramps and Cholera Morbus, Diarrhœa, Dysentery and Summer Complaints, Cuts, Burns, and Bruises, Bites, Stings, and Sunburn can all be promptly relieved by PERRY DAVIS' Pain Killer.

ONE THING IS CERTAIN, PAIN KILLER KILLS PAIN.

DOSE—One teaspoonful in a half glass of water or milk (warm if convenient).

THE DESERONTO NAVIGATION CO'Y

(LIMITED)

SUMMER TIME TABLE

Taking effect May 1st, 1895. Steamers will run as follows Daily, except Sunday.

STEAMER ELLA ROSS

D. B. CHRISTIE, Master.

GROWING PRECIOUS STONES.

Pellets of Earth Forced Into Oyster Shells Develop to Pearls.

A pearl is the result of an oyster's effort to remove a source of irritation. If a grain of sand or some other hard substance finds its way into the shell the oyster begins coating it with nacre, which gives the irritating intruder a smooth exterior. The oyster deposits over the offending object as long as it remains a source of irritation, and the Chinese have taken advantage of this peculiarity of the solitary mollusk. They make little pellets of earth which has been dried and powdered with the juice of camphor seeds, and during May and June plant these in the oyster. The shell is opened with a mother-of-pearl knife, care being taken not to injure the oyster, and the earth peas are laid under the oyster's beard. The treated mollusks are then placed in canals and pools, and left undisturbed until November, when they are dredged up, opened, and the nacre-covered pellets removed with sharp knives. The pellets are usually found fastened tightly to the inner surface of the shells.

The Chinese pearl farmer then turns jeweler. He drills a little hole into the shell and removes the dirt. ed to th shell and removes the dirt. The cavity is filled with yellow rosin, and the opening sealed neatly with a tiny bit of mother of pearl.

But a Frenchman has improved on this method. He found that the Chinese killed many oysters by forcing the shell open to deposit the earth pellets. The ingenious Frenchman bored holes in he shells of pearl oysters with a small drill and then introduced through the opening little globules of glass. He plugged the holes with corks and then left the oysters alone to manufacture pearls. In six months the glass nucleus was covered with a pearly deposit, and the Frenchman reaped a beautiful harvest of pearls. He did not have to bore holes in the pearls to remove the centre, and the pearls brought higher prices than the pearls made by the Chinese.

These artificial pearls have much of the lustre and beauty of the real gems but are sold at a much lower rate by honest jewelers. Experts can color pearls black, pink, gray and other colors by the use of chemicals. For instance, a pearl put in nitrate of silver turns black. But pearl rasers know a trick worth two of that. Certain kinds of fresh water mussels bear

BRISTOL'S Sarsaparilla

Cures Rheumatism, Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Scrofula, Sores, and all Eruptions.

BRISTOL'S Sarsaparilla

Cures Liver, Stomach and Kidney Troubles, and Cleanses the Blood of all Impurities.

BRISTOL'S Sarsaparilla

Cures Old Chronic Cases where all other remedies fail.

Be sure and ask your Druggist for

BRISTOL'S Sarsaparilla

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

CURES

DYSPEPSIA,
BAD BLOOD,
CONSTIPATION,
KIDNEY TROUBLES,
HEADACHE,
BILIOUSNESS.

D. B. CHRISTIE, Master.

Trenton, Belleville and Deseronto to Picton.

Leave	Trenton.....	1 00	P.M.
"	Belleville....	3 00	"
Arrive	Deseronto.....	5 00	"
Leave	Deseronto :....	5 15	"
Arrive	Picton.....	6 50	"

Picton to Deseronto, Belleville and Trenton.

Leave	Picton.....	6 00	A.M.
Arrive	Deseronto.....	7 25	"
Leave	Deseronto.....	7 30	"
"	Belleville.....	10 00	"
Arrive	Trenton.....	11 30	"

.....3 30 A.M.
.....5 00 "

Calling at intermediate ports.

This Steamer makes connections at Deseronto with morning trains going East on G. T. R., East and West on C. P. R., and with night trains East and West on Grand Trunk Railway. Arrangements have been made whereby a boat will leave Picton every evening at 9 p.m. for Deseronto. This service will not in any way interfere with the regular daily service, and will prove a great convenience to commercial men and the public generally.

STEAMER DESERONTO.

WM. SKILLEN, Master.

Napanee and Deseronto to Picton.

Leave	Napanee	6 00	A.M.
Arrive	Deseronto.....	6 45	"
Leave	Deseronto.....	7 00	"
"	Houghs.....	7 20	"
"	Thompson,s Pt.	8 00	"
Arrive	Picton.....	8 30	"

.....12 30 P.M.
..... 12 50 "
..... 1 30 "
..... 2 00 "

Picton and Deseronto to Napanee.

Leave	Picton.....	9 30	A.M.
	Thompson's Pt.	10 05	"
"	Houghs.....	10 35	"
Arrive	Deseronto.....	11 00	"
Leave	Deseronto.....
Arrive	Napanee.....

..... 2 30 P.M.
..... 3 00 "
..... 3 35 "
..... 4 00 "
..... 5 00 "
..... 6 00 "

Close connections with G. T. R. trains for all points East and West. Call for tickets reading "via Deseronto."

---

hope. The system makes the payment in full an absolute certainty. It overcomes all obstacles and it's only a question of time——"

"How much time ?"

"Well, that's rather difficult to say. You see, the amount of small change I find in my pockets varies, and——"

"What do you call small change ?"

"Pennies. I—What's that ? Oh, well, sue if you want to. That's what a man gets for trying to do the right thing."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Foiled.

Conductor—Madam, you don't mean this nickel for th' crowd ?

Madam—Yep; them two ain't, three yet, an' this one is in arms.

The Modern Woman.

"Now, the modern woman," began Snifter, "is really attracting more attention than modesty will permit——"

"If the foolmen would mind their own business there would be no trouble," replied Mrs. Snifter.

"That's it ?" responded Snifter. "I'm impressed more and more every day with the forwardness of the modern woman."

"There's certainly room enough in the world for all to live."

"Yes, my dear, but the modern woman is destined to destroy all that is lovable in the very thought of woman ——"

"It seems to me,' said Mrs. Snifter, "that there is not that sympathy between men and women that ought to exist——"

"Ah, my dear, I have thought of that," but you know the modern woman has rendered such a thought distasteful——"

"But cannot men be gentlemanly ?"

"Ah, my dear, you don't understand. The modern woman——"

"Who is the modern, woman ?'

"Eh ? What ?"

"Who is she ?"

"Why—er—huh ?"

"That's what I thought, Snifter. To ask a man what he's talking about is to find out he's an idiot !"

And, somehow, Snifter hasn't thought so much about the modern woman since. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Too Risky.

Dentist—Will you take gas ?

Uncle Hacedo—No, I might blow it out, and I've heerd of too many fellers losin' thar lives that way.

Fireflies in the Grass.

Some people never think about religion until they come in sight of a graveyard.—Ram's Horn.

Adam was proudly conscious that he never made a mistake in his boyhood.—Tammany Times.

The average critic is a man who couldn't have done it himself.—West Union Gazette.

"I am too much of a gentleman, sir, to tell you what I think of you here," exclaimed the irate politician, "but if I ever catch you in Congress, I'll call you a liar, sir."—Chicago Evening Post.

Hypnotism and Crime.

The Judge (severely)—This poor man says that you, prisoner, hypnotized him into committing the crime. What have you to say for yourself ?

Prisoner—He's right, your Honor. Another man hypnotized me into hypnotizing him.—Chicago Record.

Heart Disease Relieved in 30 Minutes

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gives perfect relief in all cases of Organic or Sympathetic Heart Disease in 30 minutes, and speedily effects a cure. It is a peerless remedy for Palpitation Shortness of Breath, Smothering Spells, Pain in Left Side and all symptoms of a Diseased Heart. One dose convinces. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y tain kinds of fresh water mussels bear pink pearls, and pearl oysters produce different colored pearls according to the part of the oyster which is irritated by the foreign substance. The artificial pearl producer knows this, and plants his seed accordingly. In Washington is an artificial pink pearl as large as a pigeon's egg, and its heart is a bit of beeswax.

Perfectly round pearls which weigh over twenty-five grains each, are scarce and command large prices, but such pearls are natural. Artificial pearls are usually flat on one side.—Chicago Record.

Old Men and the Bicycle.

Not less pleasing than the sight of the young women and young men on their bicycles is the sight of the old chaps. Lots of graybeards can be seen along the up-town avenues wheeling at a speed that must be admired. Two or three of them challenged a squad of their juniors to a race yesterday, and beat them badly, beat even the energetic damsels who joined in the race. They sat erect, got a good grip, and worked their thews from the finger tips to the shoulder blades, from the big toe to the ilium, and even, it seemed, up to the ribs. A determined old chap on a bicycle can often give points to the youngsters.

A good time for bicycling at this season of the year is the early morning, as early perhaps, as 4 o'clock, when the air is cool and the weather fair. One may start at that hour, or at 5, after a solid sleep of eight or nine hours, and after taking a cup of coffee, or a tumbler of hot water, with a crust of bread or a hrad ship cracker, or, better still, a half of one of those little round hard and crisp crackers It is best not to take too long a run then—well, say a half hour's run; for the business of the day must be attended to, and one should not waste his strength before beginning it. It is far better and healthier for a bicycler to go out soon after dawn than at night, when it is dark. A spectacle of 5,000 or 10,000 wheelers, men and women, on the Boulevard, at 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning, would be worth looking at.—New York Sun.

The First Railroads.

The Stockton and Darlington line in England (the first complete railroad in the world), was open for traffic on the 27th of September, 1825, and one of Geo Stephenson's engines was tried. It was attached to a train consisting of six waggons loaded with coal and flour; after these came twenty-one passenger coaches, and, lastly, six more waggons of coal, making in all a train of thirty-eight vehicles. The first railroad in America was the Mohawk & Hudson railroad. The length of this road was sixteen miles, and it extended from Albany to Schenectady, N. Y. A charter was granted the company until 1830. It was finished in 1831. Both locomotive engines and horses were used on this road. At first stationary engines were used. They were placed on the top of the hills, and the train was hauled up the hill or let down, by a strong rope. The brakemen used hand-levers to stop or check the train. The first steam railroad passenger train was run on this road in 1831. The engine was named John Bull. It was imported from England; its weight was four tons. The engineer was John Hampson, an Englishman. Among the fifteen passengers who rode in the two coaches were James Alexander, president Commercial Bank; Charles E. Dudley, of the Dudley observatory; Jacob Hays, high constable of New York; ex-Gov. Joseph C. Yates and Thurlow Weed.

Pale Pink Gowns for Evening Wear.

Pale pink is the popular color in undressed kid gloves for evening wear, and pale yellow and very light tan are worn in the afternoon, with a darker shade of tan for morning and traveling. To be quite fashionable all gloves must fit loosely. Summer gloves for bicycling purposes are of silk and lisle thread, with leather on the inside of the hand to make them serviceable.

Refrigerators, ice cream freezers, garden hose, nozzels, all new goods prices right, BOYLE & SON.

B.B.B. unlocks all the secretions and removes all impurities from the system from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

BURDOCK PILLS act gently yet thoroughly on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

Robert Light

Manufacturer and Dealer in

Rough and Dressed Lumber

Screen Doors,
Mouldings,
Bee Hives,
Stairs, Blinds,
Turned Work,
Wood Drapery,
Sash,

and Interior Finish for Buildings.

NAPANEE . . ONT

COAL

Much heat at little cost when you burn our Coal.

If you have not been a customer in the past a trial will convince you that you ought to have been.

All coal under cover and thoroughly screened before delivery.

Prices as low as good Coal can be sold, at

The Rathbun Co.

Try my Bread

J. F. SMITH

HAS BOUGHT OUT

W. H. Davis' Bread Business but you can get all you want on the premises and at his store where he is selling

GROCERIES.

Cheaper than ever

J. F. SMITH.

Brisco House Block Napanee.

Cash Saved

By ordering your Suits from DAVIS & Co. Entire new stock at bottom prices to select from.

Call and see our prices before ordering.

Davis & Co.

T. G. DA[illegible]. R. FORD.

Summer Bargains

Croquet Sets, 4, 6, and 8 ball. Children's Waggons.
A lot of Hammocks, all new. Doll's Carriages. All Leather School Bags.
The New Unbreakable Slate. Novels for Summer Holidays.
Scribblers, 1, 2, 3, and 5c.—Our " Pen and Ink " 5c. Scribbler is a dandy.
Memorandum Books in great variety.
Footballs, Baseballs from 5c. up, Rubber Balls, &c. Dolls of all kinds. Doll's Heads.
A Lot of Purses very Cheap. Hundreds of Trinket Boxes.
Toothpicks, 2,500 for 10 cents.
Presentation Books at Cost. Japanese Parasols at Cost. Large Stock of Mouth Organs.
Wallpaper and Borders to match. A few fine Accordeons.
New Fancy Notepaper and Envelopes, in boxes, five different and delicate tints.

The Pollard Company

EXPRESS BOOKSTORE, NAPANEE.

Anæmic Women

with pale or sallow complexions, or suffering from skin eruptions or scrofulous blood, will find quick relief in Scott's Emulsion. All of the stages of Emaciation, and a general decline of health, are speedily cured.

Scott's Emulsion

takes away the pale, haggard look that comes with General Debility. It enriches the blood, stimulates the appetite, creates healthy flesh and brings back strength and vitality. For Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Weak Lungs, Consumption and Wasting Diseases of Children.

Put up in pink wrapper. Mail FREE.

Scott & Bowne, Belleville. 50c. & $1.

I CURE FITS!

Valuable treatise and bottle of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. H. G. ROOT, M.C., 186 West Adelaide Street, Toronto, Ont.

In the system, strains the lungs and prepares a way for pneumonia, often-times consumption.

PYNY-PECTORAL

positively cures coughs and colds in a surprisingly short time. It's a scientific certainty, tried and true, soothing and healing in its effects.

LARGE BOTTLE, C[illegible]

CHAPTER I.

A TASTE OF RICHES.

It is wonderful how little benefit some men derive from a good morality and a sound philosophy. Defective observation leads the best philosophy astray, and allows virtue to grope in vain for its reward. The good man who avoids evil only because he does not see its allurements, will also miss a great deal which is both desirable and permissible in this world.

With so much by way of preface it may be safe to say that the young man who will now be introduced had led an exemplary life without finding any satisfaction in it. He had taken for his guiding rule the advice of Schiller that happiness is to be found in the daily performance of a task of routine. It will be remembered that the same eminent gentleman advised writing with one's feet in a tub of ice water, but most of us do not like it. There is, however, a great deal of value in the routine idea, but the trouble with it in practice is that many people do not know what to occupy themselves with after the daily task is done.

William Russell was one of these. He had held a clerkship for eight years, on a slowly-increasing salary, and had been temperate, frugal, and industrious. He had as much interest in his work as if he had been a car-horse; but he would rather have been employed than idle. Thinking he regarded as an unsafe occupation for a man who knew how to analyze the facts of existence, as he did. That was the trouble; he knew how to analyze them but he didn't know the facts. He had long ago given up ambition, friendship, love, and many other sweet and profitable things because he regarded them as delusions.

Then came a day when he began to regard the consolations of his daily task of routine as delusions also. He was as good a sample of the discouraged young man as could have been found in New York. He had hitherto maintained a certain contentment bolstered up by prejudice in favor of his own philosophy; and when this thin support gave way there was no bending it. About this time [illegible]'s clerkship, naturally enough, perhaps, for a man in that condition of mind is not a valuable employe. He did not regard the loss of the position as a calamity, and he made no attempt to get another. He simply lived on his small savings without any plan whatever for the day when they should be gone. If any suggestion of a life worth [illegible] to him, he would man behind him stamped impatiently as if a personal injury had been inflicted upon him, and not upon the man who ate the pie.

An unprejudiced observer would have said that there was no cause for complaint. The men on the stools ate fast enough. Indeed it seemed as if nothing but choking to death could save from dying of indigestion. Quick feeding has been brought to such a science in New York that the philanthropist might well doubt which to pity more, the rich who eat so much in a minute or the poor who eat so little in a year.

The small tables in the Cafe Napoleon were besieged almost as hotly as was the lunch-counter. But Russell succeeded in securing a seat opposite a rusty old fellow who had just ordered a piece of apple pie and a glass of milk. Behind Russell were the four young men whom he had followed into the cafe. He duplicated the order given by one of them, and thereby laid himself liable to the proprietor of the Cafe Napoleon in the sum of $4.75. This lunch was the first extravagance the young man had committed in a good many years. The pint of good wine which was included in it was the first he had ever tasted. He enjoyed the experiment thoroughly. He was glad that he had decided to be a rich man for half an hour.

A LUNCH COUNTER

By and by the rusty old fellow finished his pie and milk, and departed. Russell learned who he was by a remark made by one of the young men.

"Did you see old Gilbert Ray take his usual frugal repast?" were the words he overheard. "He will leave four millions for his heirs to quarrel over, and his chief regret will be that he can not remain to take part in the controversy."

"He didn't leave any of that pie," said another. "I watched him chase the last little piece of crust all over his plate. He couldn't get it with his fork—had to shovel it in with his knife. I figured that his income while he was chasing it would buy a cart-load of pie."

"He isn't a bad old fellow after all," said the first speaker. "The story is that he started on a hundred dollars and had to borrow that. But he paid it on time and kept his credit up. There's the whole secret of the lender has an equal lack of confidence in final restitution.

BORROWING A QUARTER.

When Russell closed in upon his tenth man he had begun to be discouraged. This person's name was Rawson, and he had been a clerk with Russell in the old times, but being of an ambitious disposition, he had abandoned salaried work for the real estate and mortgage business, wherein he had prospered to such an extent that he was reputed to be eating widows' houses at the rate of three square meals a day.

Russell hardly expected to find Rawson in his office as late as five o'clock, but there he sat surrounded by aggressive evidences of prosperity. Russell was embarrassed. He tried to remember some of the formulas with which Rawson himself used to approach the subject, but none of them seemed to fit the case in hand, so he said good afternoon, and hoped Mr. Rawson found business good. That prosperous gentleman, remembering a small balance against himself in their old accounts, supposed that Russell had come to collect it, and the thought excited his resentment. He blew a great cloud of smoke in Russell's direction and replied that business was bad, and he was much pressed for ready money.

"That's unfortunate for you," said Russell, "and for me, too, because I called—"

"I'm sorry, old man," said Rawson, "but I haven't a red cent. I just borrowed my car fare from the office boy, but I'm expecting a big boodle next week, and if you'll call Tuesday"—he made a benevolent gesture and added, in an inaudible tone: "I'll be in Buffalo."

Then Russell went out with a feeling of desperation in his heart, and, meeting on the stairs a man whom he had [illegible] but once before in his life, [illegible] Forks Being Unkn[illegible] er with ease. He made [illegible]ingers Do Valiant Duty was to be returned the[illegible]

This was a beginni[illegible]ery large circular tray o[illegible] placed on a coarse wood[illegible] dollar, and as an investme[illegible]ot high, served as [illegible] bought a five-cent cigar with [illegible] of this valuable exterior. Then he lay in wait in front of a tobacco store which was much frequented by men whom he knew.

Within five minutes an acquaintance approached with the evident intention of entering the store.

...RUSS

...in U. S. and ...

...THE

...RUPTURE CAN BE CURED

...WITHOUT A TRUSS

...comfort to you. ...to it.

CHAS. CLUTHE

Age of person ... 134 KING ST. WEST

... TORONTO ---- CANADA

WANTED-SALESMEN. We want a few men to sell a Choice Line of Nursery Stock. We cannot make you rich in a month but can give you steady employment and will pay you well for it. Our prices correspond with the times Write us for terms and territory, to

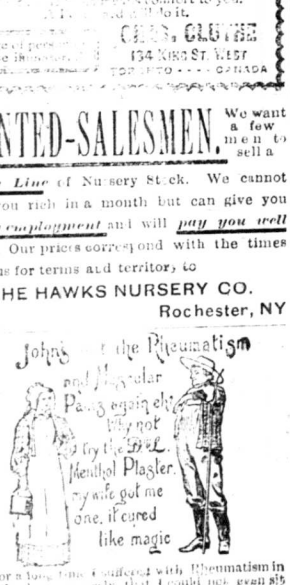
THE HAWKS NURSERY CO.

14dm Rochester, NY



For a long time I suffered with Rheumatism in the Back so severely that I could not even sit down. I was advised to try B. & L. Menthol Plaster. I tried it and was soon going about all right. D. C. BUNTIN, Sandy Corners.

Price 25c.

M. STORMS,

MOSCOW

has been over fifty years in the undertaking business in the county, and can turn out work equal to any in the Dominion.

A large stock of Coffins, Caskets, Robes, Crape Gloves and Badges, constantly on hand, and sold at reasonable prices.

Embalming a Specialty. Every facility on hand for doing the work.

25 per cent cheaper than any in the trade. Give me a call at Moscow.

M. STORMS, Prop

Carscallen & Bro.,

Low Priced, No Combination

Undertaking Establishment.

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of all the latest designs to be found in which we are prepared to sell 25 per cent. cheaper than any house in the county. We use the best deodorizer, thus obviating all unpleasant odors. Embalming a Specialty. Having purchased one of the Handsomest Hearses at the Toronto exhibition we are prepared to attend personally funerals in the most satisfactory manner. The public will do well to call and examine our stock, and be convinced that ours is the place to buy.

COFFINS, CASKETS, ROBES, Etc.

We have also added a full line of the newest things in Wall Paper, Ceiling Decorations, Window Shades and Picture Railing, Paints and Oils Paint Mixed. Persons wanting anything in this line will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere. Remember the place, Centre-street one block south of Main be gone. If any suggestion of a life worth striving for should come to him, he would awaken his energies; if not, they should sleep.

CARSCALLEN & BRO

Minard's Liniment cures Garget in Cows

He occupied the time in strolling about the city studying life in various forms. In reality he knew but little of what was going on in the world. He had given most of his leisure to books, and had continued studies of a philosophical nature which he had begun at college. He cultivated the acquaintance of few men and no women. There was not a single household in the great city where he was ever a guest. If there had been doubtless he would have obtained new and better ideas of many common comforts and pleasures. But his early life had been so unfortunate that he had no recollections with which to stimulate a desire for domestic scenes. Indeed it was his special infliction that he had no desire for anything.

The impression made upon such a man by a first sight of the interior of the New York stock exchange was wonder that the game of stocks was played with so great an exercise of physical activity. He had expected to see a calm, cool-headed assembly of gamblers, and this is not what the stock exchange looks like from the gallery, on a lively day. It bears more resemblance to a foot ball match where the crowd has broken upon the field with the intention of killing the referee. Russell was surprised to find himself much interested in the athletic side of a broker's business. He was a muscular young man, and the sight appealed to him strongly. For more than an hour he watched the busy scene, and played the game of stocks in his mind—a method much to be preferred to any other.

He had a five-dollar gold piece in his pocket, and not another penny in the world. It did not occur to him to seek out a bucket-shop and take a desperate chance with his last coin; he was only wondering what a broker's life was like, and whether it was worth the living. He strolled down to the door, and observed with genuine curiosity those who passed in and out. The younger men especially interested him, they were so much superior in every way to his expectation. Instead of the victims of a nerve-destroying life, he saw a lot of jolly fellows who were apparently full of mental and bodily vigor.

It may have been the revolt of a healthy body against a sluggish mind, or simply the contagion of the activity around him; but, whatever the cause, he felt for the first time a suspicion that he had discovered a career which would please him. He had a general idea that the social life of these men was not what he would desire, but he began to be in doubt whether he really knew much about it. He was conscious of a desire to learn what it really was. Only one way suggested itself, and that was by inquiry, but he had a natural hesitancy about stopping one of these favored young men on the street and asking him whether he found existence satisfactory on the whole, and if so, why. He wondered if any truthful picture of a broker's life could be found in a book, and whether in that case his five dollars would keep him alive long enough to read it.

His attention was distracted from these ideas by the sound of a conversation behind him. Three or four young men whom he immediately placed in the general Wall street class, were talking in an animated manner on general topics far removed from business, and better still; from politics. Presently one of them suggested lunch and they all walked away. Russell followed mechanically. He was thinking that if they had continued to talk in his hearing he might have learned a great deal about the real objects of interest to young men of wealth who are popularly supposed to be absorbed either in squandering their possessions as fast as possible or by adding to them by every means that ingenuity unhampered by honesty can suggest. But the words which Russell had overheard referred to art, and were evidently uttered by one who understood the subject. There was something in the language and bearing of these men which led Russell to believe that they would be congenial associates. Would he care to be one of them, to live their life, since it was not so shallow, after all? Perhaps; he was not quite prepared to say.

He found himself at the door of the Cafe Napoleon on Wall street. The others entered. Should he follow? He took out the five-dollar gold piece and looked at it. "You can make me a rich man for half an hour," said he, "or a poor man for a week. As a matter of experiment I will choose the former."

The Cafe Napoleon was crowded, as it always is at one o'clock in the afternoon. All the stools before the lunch counter were occupied, and a score of men waited for places, staring hungrily over the shoulders of those who were being fed. There was the same rush and bustle as in the stock exchange, but there was less of good nature. When anybody on a stool ordered pie the

PISO'S CURE FOR

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.

Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

CONSUMPTION

his credit up. There's the whole secret of many a man's life on the street. If half of the younger men down here had to settle at a minute's notice the other half would go broke on account of their bad debts. Its a borrowing game."

Russell heard this and muttered to himself: "I should like to negotiate a small loan and get into it." The atmosphere of the place and the food, and especially the wine, were beginning to have an effect upon him. He wanted to continue the experiment.

"I am not prepared to believe," he said to himself, "that this life would be permanently agreeable, but a half hour of it is too little. I would like two years. I believe that if I could borrow the life of one of those young fellows for two years I should know a great deal more at the end of that time than I do now, and should be willing to give it all back to him when it was due. I should like to make a contract with the devil to that effect."

He looked about him as if he expected the fiend to appear with a document ready for signature, but no such phenomenon occurred. The slight odor of brimstone in the air proceeded from a match with which the young man behind him was lighting a cigar. Whether the contract was signed elsewhere may be a matter of controversy. If so, it bore the date May 12, 1888.

CHAPTER II.

SMALL LOANS.

Of all the gifts that are bestowed by the children of men upon their fellows none so little deserve the good name of charity as tips to waiters. Russell bestowed his last quarter upon the man who had served him with as much personal good will as he would have felt if he had dropped it in the slot of a machine for the dissemination of chewing gum. The action was a part of his assumed character, and so was the cordiality of the accompanying feeling, if he had only known it.

He walked out of the restaurant and leaned against a building which cost a million dollars. Then he looked across the way at another of equal magnificence, and reflected that he hadn't a cent in the world. He tried to estimate the value of the land they stood upon, and wondered whether he had ever had money enough to buy a lot with two feet frontage and six feet depth for a grave.

But these gloomy speculations were merely the first fruits of his penniless condition. The influence of new ideas and a good meal triumphed over despondency. Already he was working out the details of a scheme full of novel experiences and large profits. Gilbert Ray had begun life with a borrowed hundred dollars, and was worth millions. Would not a smaller initial loan answer for a man with moderate expectations. If money could be made to grow at all, why not indefinitely; and, if so, what practical difference did it make how small the start was? He did not know anybody who would lend him a hundred dollars, but he thought he could borrow a quarter somewhere. With that in hand, he might borrow a half dollar; pay the quarter, and then borrow a dollar to pay the half. The possibility of such a progression evidently depended upon the careful use of each successive loan, and if the series were carried far enough it would end in riches and an established credit.

The wine of the Cafe Napoleon must have been strong, for the scheme looked plausible to him. He immediately began to run over the list of his acquaintances in order to select the man who should furnish the first loan. Russell had never been a borrower; in fact he could not remember when he had asked such a favor of anybody. But he had often lent money, and that ought to give him an advantage. He made out a list of ten men whom he had frequently supplied with lunch-money during the last six years. To the best of his recollection they were all indebted to him for certain forgotten loans, but he resolved not to make any claim upon them for past favors.

If Russell had known more about the subject he would have chosen any ten men in the world rather than these. The more money one lends to a man, the less one can borrow of him. So it happened that in three hours he had called upon nine of these men and had found them all unable to accommodate him. His method of address was not good. It is a difficult thing to ask for a loan, and the man who hasn't had practice in the art is at a great disadvantage. The confirmed borrower who knows that the chances are ten to one against his paying, always, has a tact which carries him through, even when tering the store.

"Have a cigar with me," said Russell, stepping in front of him.

"Thanks, my boy," replied the victim of this confidence game. "How are you, any way? Haven't seen you for a month."

"To answer your question frankly," said Russell, "I'm broke, and I was looking for a man who had half a dollar to spare."

"Glad to oblige you. Come around to-morrow and lunch with me."

"Thank you. Here is my I. O. U."

"Never mind that, old man."

"Take it, if you please," Russell insisted. "I am very particular about small loans. They are easily forgotten. I will pay you to-morrow at noon."

It was six o'clock when Russell negotiated his second loan. He had begun to discover with regret that the power of a five-dollar luncheon to relieve hunger is limited as to time equally with less expensive meals. He wanted his dinner. He had been living at a boarding-house, but the week for which he had paid ended at breakfast that morning, and he did not think it would be right to partake of his landlady's cheer again until payment for it became less problematical. Moreover, he had plans which could best be executed down-town; so he entered a cheap restaurant and ordered a meal which contrasted so unfavorably with his last that his appetite well nigh vanished at the sight of it. The society, too, was not what he had enjoyed at the Cafe Napoleon. He observed with surprise that his taste had been educated in many ways by that luncheon. He had long been accustomed to such eating houses as the one in which he sat, and had never before been afflicted with such harrowing doubts as to the clean and wholesome nature of the viands.

THAT'S PLUGGED.

A healthy appetite had always hitherto triumphed over any such thoughts easily. He had never before been so powerfully conscious of the offensive character of a fork with bow-legged prongs and a knife with a sticky handle. The distinction between oleomargarine and butter now for the first time stood out as wide as the mouth of the pit.

He was made by these things the more determined to persevere and escape them. And the food, coarse as it was, brought a feeling of confidence. He consumed thirty cents' worth of it, and then approached the sharp-faced female at the cashier's desk, to whom he gave the half dollar. He grieved to think that his dinner would make such a big hole in it. But there was already a hole in it, which was far more grievous, and because of which the keen-eyed cashier rejected it altogether. The half dollar was plugged.

CHAPTER III.

A RUN OF LUCK.

Russell held the half-dollar up to the light and made a pretense of examining the spot of baser metal in it. In really he was studying the advisability of making a rush for the door. He decided to remain. It was bad enough to have such a dinner on his stomach without having it on his conscience also. Evidently he must postpone payment. He did not like the idea. Borrowing dinners in this way had formed no part of his original scheme. He removed his eyes from the plugged coin, and turned them upon the cashier.

"Pretty work," said he; "I took it for a good one."

"Thirty cents, please," said the cashier in a tone calculated to discourage conversation.

"I regret to say that I haven't that amount with me," Russell began apologetically.

"You ought to have thought of that before," was the response.

"Your remark bristles with wisdom," said Russell, "but it does not contain a suggestion as to a course of action."

"Settle up," said the cashier, by way of supplying the deficiency. A fat man in a white jacket and a traditional cook's cap who had been engaged in the manufacture to the griddle-cakes by the window as a tempt to the passers-by, overheard this co...nts, etc. I [w... and strolled up to the desk ar... spade which he used to turn his ... half dozen newsboys from the sid... some waiters and customers join...

"Put him on the griddle. Sho...

Keep Minard's Liniment in the House

one of the urchins to the cook, and the suggestion was received with applause. The situation was becoming embarrassing, but just then a young man connected with the press, whom Russell knew, stepped into the restaurant to see whether any thing worthy of record was transpiring.

"What's the matter, Mr. Russell?" inquired this young man.

"I have just feasted upon the biceps of a dried ostrich and a cup of strange fluid called 'draw one,'" replied Russell, "and the only coin in my pocket happened to be plugged. If I understand the situation correctly the gentleman with the little shovel intends to make a griddle-cake of me."

"I thought somebody was getting killed," said the reporter, looking disappointed, "but if that's all the trouble, I can lend you a dollar easily enough."

"Thank you," said Russell, taking the dollar. "I will leave it at your office at four o'clock to-morrow." Then he made out an I. O. U. on a leaf of the reporter's note-book, paid the check and went out upon the street. He walked slowly along thinking of the queer incident. It was nothing in itself, and yet he found a new sensation in it. Three months ago it would have annoyed him. The thought that he had been unable to pay for so poor a meal would have oppressed him with a sense of poverty. But he had escaped that feeling altogether, and he wondered why.

The reason was plain enough, though he could not see it. Living as he had done, wholly in a monotonous routine, such small mishaps had always assumed exaggerated proportions. Trifling embarassments and the necessary self-denials of economy had given a false and somber color to his life because he had never had the tact to counterbalance them with the small pleasures which are within the reach of everybody. But he viewed life differently now. This preposterous idea of money-getting had taken him out of the present and a false hope offset a false despondency.

"PUT HIM ON THE GRIDDLE."

"Hello! Russell," said a voice at his elbow; "come and play a game of billiards."

"How are you, Lane!" and Russell shook the young man warmly by the hand. "I'd like to play with you, but to tell the truth, I couldn't afford to pay if I lost. I've less than a dollar to carry me through to-morrow."

"Never mind that," was the cheerful response. "I'll lend you a couple of dollars if I beat you."

"I think you'll do it," said Russell, as he followed Lane in the direction of a billiard saloon. "Indeed," he added, mentally, "if that's the condition of the game I fell pretty sure you will."

It had been about five years since Russell had handled a billiard cue, and he had never been an expert. However, being out of practice did not worry him any, for it appeared to be a case where defeat was preferable to victory. But he wished to avoid the appearance of throwing the game away, and therefore tried to miss all the shots by a narrow margin. In this way he executed some of the most brilliant "runs" of his life, and was half a dozen points ahead when the game was near its end. Then the interest of the sport got the better of him; he played his level best; missed almost every shot, and was defeated by two points in a hundred.

"Tight game, that," said Lane, as he extracted a two-dollar bill from his vest pocket. "I had no idea you could play so well. If y[illegible] but.

Unknown, the t Duty.

tray of tinned
e wooden stool
d as a table.
another bi by such mates are

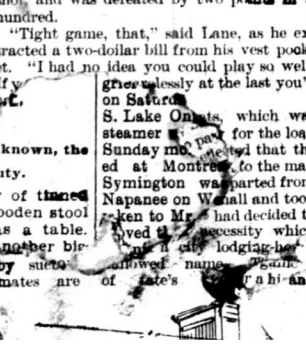
gree tolessly at the last you'd on Saturd
S. Lake Ont[illegible], which was steamer [illegible] for the loan Sunday mo[illegible] ed that the ed at Montre[illegible] to the man Symington was parted from Napanee on W[illegible]all and took [illegible]ken to Mr[illegible] had decided to [illegible]ved t[illegible] necessity which [illegible]ne a city lodging-he[illegible] followed name[illegible] Gallic



SAFETY OF TRAINS.

In What Part Should the Cautious Ride?

One of the unsolved problems in railroading is the question as to the safest place on a train. Many have contended that it is just as safe on the engine as it is in the cars, and point to the fact that in many instances the engine has passed over a broken bridge while the balance of the train went down. Others insist that the rear car is the safest, because there are fewer rear end collisions than any other kind. There are people who are strong in the belief that there is no place of safety on a train, and that one runs as much risk in one spot as in another. On some roads special cars are always placed in the centre of the train, but for what purpose is not clear "That is a hard question to answer," said General Manager Bradbury, of the Lake Erie & Western, when interrogated, "for it is like asking where is the best place for a man to fall. The question of safety depends, in a measure, on the length of a train. A train made up of a smoker and a day coach could have no particularly safe spots, and the passenger would be in as much danger in the event of a collision in one car as in the other. On long trains I think that if there is any difference there is more safety in a car or two from the rear of a train. However, I generally ride in the rear car. Men have become old and grey as conductors and engineers, and yet young men are killed as often as any other."

"I should say two or three cars from the rear of a long train," said General Superintendent Van Winkle, of the Big Four. "If there is a head collision, the cars in front of the train take the brunt of the crash, and the cars are so well built that there is not much danger close to the rear of the train. This holds good in the event of a rear collision. Cars used in our fast trains are so heavily vestibuled that they could not spring over each other, as used to happen with the light coaches in use years ago. They are solidly coupled, and that fact prevents them from crushing each other. An engine plunging into a train could not go through two or three coaches. It might get part way into one coach, but that is all. The danger from crossing collisions, where one train strike another on the side, is small. There are few such accidents nowadays. We all know that sometimes the rear car of a train running at high speed is 'whipped' from the rails on a sharp curve, but that seldom happens."

"The second car from the rear is about as safe as any," said General Manager Barnard, of the Peoria and Eastern. "I think myself the rear end of a train is safer for a passenger, for the reason that there are fewer rear-end collisions than there are butting collisions. As to derailments, it has been demonstrated that the engine and one or two cars leaving the rails seldom pull other cars with them. When they go off the track, they break the train line. This sets the brakes, and stops the other cars. I usually ride at the rear end of the train, but I have never considered the question you have asked,"—Indianapolis News.

TARTAR ON THE TEETH.

A Peculiar Disease That Makes Trouble for Many.

"People are losing their teeth from a new cause nowadays," said a dental surgeon to a Washington Star reporter. "It is a complaint which seems to have become common only within the last fifteen years or so. 'Recession of the gums,' it is called. Tartar is deposited at an abnormal rate, and this carbonate of lime secreted from the saliva pushes the gums back from the teeth.

"It is a very peculiar disease. So far advanced it can hardly be cured. That is to say, the tendency to an accumulation of tartar cannot be stopped. All that can be done is to prevent it from accumulating by scraping it away at intervals and by medicinal applications to the gums. In an early stage, however, the complaint is perfectly curable, and the tendency in most cases can be overcome. But much care and continual attention are required. Otherwise the person will have lost some of his teeth by the time he is forty years old, and after that the

THE ELECTRICAL AGE.

1—Fresh Clerk: You see, I press this button for the messenger, and—

2—When I press this one, the policeman comes.

3—Uncle Reub: Thet's wonderful; What does this button bring?

4—(And then he pressed the fire alarm button.)

Business Before Pleasure.

Briggs—Miss Poplin beat me three straight games of cribbage the other night.

Griggs—Is that what you do when you call on her?

Briggs—That was before her mother went up to bed.—Smith, Gray & Co.'s Monthly.

A Roundabout Story.

The following story of a German Diogenes is perfectly authentic. When King Frederick William IV. visited the Rhine provinces in the year 1841 he made a short stay at Wesel, where he called at the house of the oldest man in the kingdom, aged 106 years. He found him comfortably seated in an old armchair, smoking a pipe—his inseparable companion. On the King's arrival he rose to his feet and stepped forward a few paces, but his Majesty made him sit down again, and talked to him with the greatest freedom, the old man puffing away at his pipe all the time. When about to leave, the King asked him if he had any wish that it was in his power to gratify.

"No, thanks, your Majesty; I have all I want in this world," was the reply.

"Really! Just think for a moment. We mortals generally have some particular desire or aspiration."

"Well, sire, now I come to think of it; I might have a favor to ask. My doctor insists on my taking a walk every day on the ramparts. Every time I pass the powder magazine the sentry shouts to me from afar: 'Take the pipe out of your mouth,' and as I walk very slowly, my pipe goes out every time. Now, if your Majesty would be good enough to order the sentry to let me smoke my pipe in peace all the way, I should consider it the greatest kindness you could confer on me for the rest of my natural life."

The order was given, and the old fellow enjoyed the privilege for more than two years, and died at last with his pipe in his mouth.—Buch fur Alle.

Not in It.

Boston Girl—She is a very superior person. She belongs to the Mayflower family.

Minneapolis Girl—Pshaw, that isn't in it a minute with one of our Minneapolis flour families.

Rather Mean.

"Speaking of dinners," said Hawkins, reminds me of something I overheard in these very rooms not two nights ago. I always knew Snooks was of a saving nature, but I never believed that the fellow was downright mean."

"How's that?" asked Bluffkins, indifferently.

"Well, it was like this. Tuesday night Snooks came in and began talking with Webb. 'I hear you're going away on Saturday,' said Snooks.

"'Yes,' answered Webb. 'For three months.'

"'And what are you doing to-morrow night?'

"'Wednesday,' said Webb. "I have no engagement for Wednesday.'

"'And the next night?'

"'That's Thursday. 'I dine with the Blakes on that day.'

"'Dear, dear! That's a pity,' said nooks, with a good bluff at disappointment. 'I wanted you to take dinner with us on that day.'"—Boston Budget.

WEAKNESS OF MEN

Quickly, Thoroughly, Forever Cured

by a new perfected scientific method that cannot fail unless the case is beyond human aid. You feel improved the first day, feel a benefit every day, soon know yourself a king among men in body, mind and heart. Drains and losses ended. Every obstacle to happy married life removed. Nerve force, will, energy, brain power, when failing or lost, are restored by this treatment. All small and weak portions of the body enlarged and strengthened. Victims of abuses and excesses, reclaim your manhood! Sufferers from folly, overwork, early errors, ill health, regain your vigor! Don't despair, even if in the last stages. Don't be disheartened if quacks have robbed you. Let us show you that medical science and business honor still exist; here go hand in hand. Write for our book with explanations and proofs. Sent sealed, free Over 2,000 references.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

PERHAPS

A GOOD LOSER.

they usually maintain as cordial relations with each other as do those strange and uncongenial animals which the keepers of menageries drive into the "Happy Family" cage. Grizzly suspicion born of hard experience usurps the place of kindly mutual interest, and the preservation of an armed neutrality is the sole condition of peace. But a man may sleep there if he has a willing conscience and a quiet neighbor.

It was a beautiful evening—so much of it as could struggle down between the tall buildings. The land of stars over Russell's head shone bright, but it was very narrow. Space is so valuable in the city that one can not have enough even of the sky. But the influences of the night may be felt in the city if a man has a sensitive soul.

At one o'clock many of the down-town streets recognize the fact that the day is done. They give to the solitary wanderer a powerful impression of rest, but it is very different from that of sleeping woods and fields. The slumber of the city is oppressed, the air is heavy like that of a close room, and the grumble of traffic in the streets that are only half asleep resembles the groans of an uneasy dreamer whom the cares of the day pursue beyond the setting of the sun.

His Idea of Grace.

A young Chicago drummer was taking a vacation with his uncle in the country, and was suddenly called upon to ask the blessing, and not being accustomed to it he promptly tackled the difficulty in the following style: "We acknowledge the receipt of your favor of this date. Allow us to express our gratitude for this expression of good will. Trusting that our house may merit your confidence, and that we may have many good orders from you this fall, we are yours truly, amen." The old man will say grace hereafter.—Sea Coast Echoes.

A Little Gossip.

First Gossip—So you was nivver axed to the funeral?

Second Gossip—Nivver as much as inside the house. But you just wait till we hev' a funeral of our own, an' we'll show 'em.

Change of Diet.

"I guess I'll have one of those Methodists broiled to-day," said the King of Mbwpka.

"May it please your Royal Highness," ventured the high chief steward, "the Presbyterian batch is much the fatter."

"You do what I tell you," thundered the monarch. "I have been eating Presbyterians for a week now, and the court physician has ordered a change of diet." ave".

...hat less ...le of blood ... child promptly ... had Extract of ... to be ready for ...dren in summer ... I would just as ...eye as being dep... of Wild Straw... thanks for the ...ily have received

H. GARROLD, ... Hamilton, Ont.

Severe Comrades.

"... to be done to prematics from going out ... exclaimed the ner... Ye...

"Ur..., madam," replied ... Each is in good com... ... is the man who rocks ... the other is the man who ... how far from shore he lost some of his teeth by the time he is forty years old, and after that the rest of them will go rapidly.

"The making of false teeth has arrived at great perfection, but at best they are poor substitutes. As I have said, this may be regarded as a new disease. At all events, it is only in recent years that it has become prevalent. It is important that people's attention should be called to it. From 7 years to 20 care must be taken of the teeth lest they decay. There is little danger of that after the 20th year is passed. But from that time on one should look out for tartar. A mouth affected in the way I speak of is almost worse than a badly decayed mouth. The trouble means certain loss of the teeth unless looked out for and treated.

How the Chinese Gamble.

A Chinaman, when his heart is in the business, makes an ideal gambler. He never gets excited or loses his nerve and no expression of feeling ever shows itself in his face. He wins or he loses with apparent indifference. Some of the ways in which he risks his money are novel and amusing. The other day a Gleaner representative happened to be in the Chinese club in this city and was introduced to a form of gambling which was exceedingly simple, yet one in which the participants seemed to take a great deal of interest. The reporter was given permission to write about what he saw. To commence with, those who wish to enter the game pay two or three shillings and write their names on separate slips of paper. These slips are shaken up in a hat and one is selected and placed in a small basket. This basket is suspended from the ceiling and the Chinaman make their bets as to whose name is in the basket. The basket remains suspended for a fixed length of time. The lucky man whose name fate has selected, wins the pool.—Kingston, Jamaica Gleaner.

Welsbach Lamps in the Ballroom.

After a satisfactory experimental trial Welsbach lamps have been definitely adopted in the Sophienbad ball rooms, the most fashionable assembly rooms of Vienna. This would seem to dispose of the idea that ladies do not like this form of gas lighting any more than they like the electric light, because it makes their faces appear too pale. The first theatre in Germany to introduce the Welsbach lamp was one in Hamburg.

Mr. Jacob Wilcox of St. Thomas, Ontario, is one of the best known men in that vicinity. He is now, he says, an old man, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has made him feel young again.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a Terrible Condition.

I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. I continued taking it until I used twelve bottles and today I can honestly say Hood's Sarsaparilla has restored me to my former health." JACOB WILCOX, St. Thomas, Ontario.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Only

True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye today. It cures when all other preparations fail.

Hood's Pills the after-dinner pill and

Some day, someone, somewhere, will make a better mach than E. B. Eddy makes,—but up to this date no one has done so.

Meanwhile, and until a better one is produced, use

E. B. Eddy's Matches.

Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company

GENERAL PASSENGER TIME TABLE,

Eastern Standard Time. No. 9. Taking effect October 8th, 1893

Tweed and Tamworth to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2 A.M.	No.4 P.M.	No.6 P.M.
Lve	Tweed	0	7 00	....	3 60
	Stoco	3	7 08	....	3 10
	Larkins	7	7 20	....	3 25
	Marlbank	13	7 35	....	3 40
	Erinsville	17	7 50	....	3 55
	Tamworth	20	8 00	2 00	4 10
	Wilson*	24	....	....	....
	Enterprise	26	8 18	2 20	4 30
	Mudlake Bridge*	28	....	....	....
	Moscow	31	8 30	2 35	4 43
	Galbraith*	33	....	....	....
Arr	Yarker	35	8 43	2 50	4 55
Lve	Yarker	35	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	39	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills	40	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	41	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	43	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	49	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee	49	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	54	....	....	6 30
Arr	Desetonto	58	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Tamworth and Tweed.

	Stations.	Miles	No.1 A.M.	No.3, P.M.	No.5 P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	9 00	12 45	5 05
	Galbraith*	25	....	....	....
	Moscow	27	9 15	1 00	5 22
	Mudlake Bridge*	30	....	....	....
	Enterprise	32	9 30	1 15	5 35
	Wilson*	34	....	....	....
	Tamworth	38	9 50	1 35	5 35
	Erinsville	41	10 00	....	6 05
	Marlbank	45	10 15	....	6 18
	Larkins	51	10 30	....	6 35
	Stoco	55	10 50	....	6 50
Arr	Tweed	58	11 00	....	7 00

Kingston and Sydenham to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2. A.M.	No.4. P.M.	No.6. P.M.
Lve	Kingston	0	6 45	....	3 30
	G. T. R. Junction	2	6 55	....	3 40
	Glenvale*	10	7 17	....	....
	Murvale*		7 27	....	4 18
Arr	Harrowsmith	19	7 [illegible]	....	4 30
Lve	Sydenham	23	8 [illegible]	....	....
	Harrowsmith	19	8 20	....	4 30
	Frontenac*	22	8 32	....	4 42
Arr	Yarker	26	8 40	....	4 50
Lve	Yarker	26	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	30	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	31	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	32	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	34	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	40	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee, West End	40	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	45	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	49	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Sydenham and Kingston.

	Stations.	Miles.	No.1 A.M.	No.3, P.M.	No.5. P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburg	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 15
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 22
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 35
	Sydenham	34	....	....	5 50
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Murvale*	35	9 17	....	....
	Glenvale*	39	....	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 50	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

R. C. CARTER, Asst. Gen. Manager

G. A. BROWNE, Gen. Pass. Agent

H. B. SHERWOOD Superintendent.

INSIST UPON A

HEINTZMAN CO PIANO

WHEN you are ready to purchase a Piano for a lifetime, not the makeshift instruments for a few years' use, but the Piano whose sterling qualities will leave absolutely nothing to be desired, then insist upon having a

Heintzman & Co. Piano.

Its pure singing tone is not an artificial quality soon to wear away, leaving harshness in place of brilliancy, dullness in place of sweetness, but an inherent right of the Heintzman. Forty five years of patient endeavor upon this point, non-deterioration with age, has made the Heintzman what it is—the acknowledged standard of durability.

CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION

HEINTZMAN & COMPANY, 117 King st. West, Toronto.

The Napanee Express

$1.

The Weekly Globe.

BEST CLUBBING OFFER EVER MADE.

By paying one dollar in advance these two popular and reliable papers will be sent post free to the subscriber's address. Call at the "Express Office" and secure this bargain.

A Few of the Many Summer Bargains

.....AT THE GREAT.....

Cheap Dry Goods Store!

Grey Cotton, 34 inches wide, worth	5c	for 3c
" 36 " "	8c	5c
" 36 " "	9c	6c
Black Henrietta, worth	30c	19c
" "	65c	42c
" "	75c	48c
Serge Dress Goods, All Shades, worth	35c	24c
Cashmeres, all shades, extra wide, worth	50c	39c
Tickings, worth	15c	10c
" "	20c	14c
" "	25c	19c
Elannelettes, extra wide, worth	12½c	8c
Ladies' Cotton Vests, 5c each or 6 for 25c.
" " worth	12c	8c
Ladies' White Hemstitched Hdkfs., worth	10c	5c
Men's White Straw Hats, worth	75c	36c
Men's Pants, made to order, worth	$7.00	$4.90
Men's Scotch Tweed Suits, made to order	20.00	15.00
Men's Overalls, worth	60c	48c
" "	$1.00	75c
Fast Black Cotton Hose, all sizes, worth	10c	5c
" " (Ladies), worth	15c	10c
" " " worth	25c	19c
" " " worth	35c	24c
Prints, Fast Colors, worth	8c	5c
" " "	10c	6½c
" " "	12½c	9½c
" " "	15c	12½c
Silkaline, all shades, for Waists, worth	25c	16c
Cottonades, worth	17c	12½c
" "	20c	15c
" "	22c	17c
" "	25c	19c
Special new make Cottonade at		25c
Shirting, Fast Colors, worth	8c	5c
" " "	10c	7½c
" " "	12c	9½c

Wide Awake Store Keeping.

Up-to-date Methods

A 1 Values in every line.

We want your trade.

THE ROBINSON CO'Y.

CARLETON WOODS.
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
31y Roblin, Ont.

JOHN POLLARD,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Express Office, Napanee

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy in action and sure in effect. 25c.

Jersey Ice Cream 40c. per quart in pails or 50c. packed in Bricks at Davis'.

Wanted at once. Choice Potatoes, Ap-

Hogs Wanted.

I will ship hogs again on Monday next the 8th inst. and will pay 4½c. per pound for all choice hogs weighing from 150 to 250 lbs. and 4c. for ordinary quality of light hogs, and good quality of heavy weight hogs will be taken at their honest value. You need not be afraid to bring in your hogs as I am prepared to take any quantity. I also want a car or two of good sheep.

C E. BARTLETT.

Biliousness and Liver Complaint, Headache, etc, are cured by Burdock Pills.

Who is the American Consul here? He did not run up his flag on the 4th.

A successful lawn social was held at A. W. Grange's and W. A. Rockwell's last evening.

A good appetite and refreshing sleep are essential to health of mind and body, and these are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

There was 730 colored, and 635 white boarded at the cheese board this week. Only 100 white were sold and they brought 8½c.

Mr. Morden, science master at the collegiate institute, tendered his resignation and it was accepted by the School Board last evening.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry cures Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Cholera, CholeraInfantum, Cholera Morbus and all summer complaints and fluxes of the bowels in children or adults.

While passing through Morven on the 3rd July the Rev. Mr. Dibb's horse took fright at a fire cracker which a boy had foolishly thrown at it; and sprang for the fence, upsetting the rig and throwing Mr. and Mrs. Dibb out. Mr. Dibb sustained a sprained wrist, but Mrs. Dibb fortunately escaped unhurt.

Miss S. Mills, who has had charge of the primary department of the Odessa school for the past two years, tendered her resignation to accept a position as assistant in the East Ward school here. She was made the recipient of a very pretty lady companion of brown celluloid trimmed with satin by her pupils on her departure.

When the system is all run down, and no hope of obtaining nourishment by the ordinary food supply, then take "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "Miller's Emulsion, the great flesh and blood maker, "the kind that cures" colds, coughs, bronchitis and all diseases of throat and lungs. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at druggists.

A spark from the smokestack of an engine started a fire upon the first grade on the G. T. R. track on Monday evening. It burnt the fences and telegraph poles for about half a mile. The fire started about 7.30 and it was well on to 12 o'clock before it was extinguished. The farmers along the track turned out and assisted the railroad men to fight the flames. The fire ran along till it came to a burnt spot where some tramps had started a fire a few days before, and as there was nothing further to feed it, it burnt itself out. Everything was so dry that the men were unable to stop the progress of the flames, and if it had not been for the burnt spot spoken of above it is impossible to say how far it might have spread.

Instructions on The Piano.

Miss Laura G. Ward is prepared to give instructions on the piano to a limited number of pupils. Terms on application. 28d.

In A Local Hardware Store.

Customer. "How much for the rakes"? Clerk. "Twelve cents a piece." Customer. In an aggrieved tone, "couldn't you let me have two of them for a quarter?" Clerk. Yes, certainly.

On the Glorious 12th.

Take the Steamer Ella Ross to Belleville and return. Steamer leaves her dock Napanee on that day at 7. a m. returning leaves Belleville at 6.30 p. m. Fare for the round trip 50c. The usual weekly excursion will be held on Wednesday instead of Friday of that week.

Napanee Woollen Mill.

I have on hand flannel sheetings, white and gray, flannel shirtings and a good stock of yarns, too ply, three ply and single ply, horse blankets, home made and foreign tweeds, Come early with your Roll-carding and spinning before the water fails. Cash or trade for wool. J. PERRY.

Last Notice.

The collector has been instructed by the council to place in the hands of the Bailiff

White Agate.

Just arrived from Germany, and the prices are away down. Note, Number 9 White Agate Kettle $1.50, 10 quart pail 90c. &c.

T. H. WALLER,
Agent for the Monarch Bicycle.

Wanted.

A general servant, highest wages paid, small family. Apply to Mrs G. F. Ruttan.

Wanted.

A first class Cook, apply after June 3rd to Mrs. S. C. Warner, Dundas Street, Napanee.

Another Opportunity, Don't Miss It.

Prof. Dorenwend advertises another visit to our town with a full line of his celebrated human hair coverings. We would advise all whose hair has become thin or who are bald to take adantage of this visit and inspect his display of Art goods. He will be at the Paisley House on Friday 12th July.

A Specialty.

Do you have imperfect vision, sore eyes, chronic headache, or any eye trouble. If so go to Smith & Bros, and consult their Optical Specialist, any advice will be given and your eyes examined by the most improved methods free of charge. Do not neglect the childrens eyes as theirs are most important, and of these eyes we make a specialty. Satisfaction guaranteed to all.

Russet Floridas or Bright, at Davis, sweet, 25 to 40 cents.

Another Victory.

Our Fredericksburgh correspondent writes us as follows: At noon on 2nd inst. four boats loaded with our base ball men accompanied by several ladies started from our shore for Indian Point. Owing to a contrary wind we were obliged to have resource to the oar yet we reached our destination at about 2 p. m. Here we found several of Prince Edward's people assembled to a picnic. Soon after our landing we began the game with the Perry team, which resulted in a score of 15 to 49 in favor of Fredericksburg. Mr. Frank Connors umpired the game in his usual fair manner. Much of our success was due to our pitcher, Mr. I. Roblin. After the game our men were escorted to a table spread with all that even the most greedy appetite could desire. About sunset we returned home well satisfied with the very courteous treatment we received and proably a little conceited over our success.

Napanee Demonstration.

Beautiful weather favored the Napanee Driving Park Association in their two day's celebration here this week, and the demonstration was a pronounced success. About 11 a.m. on Monday large crowds of people poured into town by boat, rail and vehicles. The Citizen's band of Picton brought over a large excursion per steamer Merritt, and the G. T. R, and B. Q. R. brought in large loads of excursionists from Kingston, Belleville, Trenton, Deseronto, Brighton, and other outlying points. The races were held in the Napanee Driving Park, which is unsurpassed in beauty by any park in Canada. It possesses lovely, shady groves of trees, a comfortable and commodious grand stand, one of the best race tracks in the Dominion, an excellent cricket crease, an ample ground for the playing of base ball or other games. The committee of management are deserving of great praise for the efficient manner in which the celebration was conducted, everything passing off without a single hitch. The races were conducted under the rules of the American Trotting Association, and Mr. S. A. Sewell, professional starter, of Oswego, was engaged to start the horses, and gave excellent satisfaction. The following is a summary of the first day's races:

2.50 Class—Purse $150—

Aileen of Rideau, F. A. Fo[illegible]entleman.
[illegible]ston..... may I inquire?
Miss Strader, H. A[illegible] am, sir.
[illegible]son Landing..[illegible]; I accept the Island Maid, E[illegible]t.
Fawn, W. Robe[illegible]
Advancer, A. A. [illegible] of Bloomers.
Jessie Stanton, O[illegible] looked contented in Time: 2.33, 2.31, 2[illegible]s Express.

2.28 Class—Purse $200.

Beethoven, A. A. H[illegible]s, Pic[illegible] 1 1
Demand, S. H. Thackeberry, Brighton..... 2 2 2

Time: 2.27½, 2.28½, 2.32,

½ Mile Running Race—Purse $200.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Express Office, Napanee.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, JULY 5, 1895.

All local reading notices or notices announcing entertainments at which a fee is charged for admission, will be charged 5c per line for each insertion, if in ordinary type. In black type the price will be 10c per line each insertion.

Cakes always fresh and in great variety at Davis'.

August 5th, Napanee Bicycle Races I'm going. Are you? Well, you needn't guess again.

Mr. Thos. Debow, ailing for some time with consumption, died at the Hub Hotel on Wednesday morning.

We have received a letter from the Rev. T. D. Phillips re the visit of the Chicago cricketers which will appear in our next.

Mr. A. S. Moore, of the business staff of the Kingston News, was married to Miss A. M. Famblyn on Dominion Day. We extend congratulations.

The Steamer Reindeer, who sustained an injury to her machinery, has been dry docked at Kingston for repairs. She will start running her regular trips again on Monday.

Ernest Bishop was arrested in Kingston on Dominion day. He confessed that he set fire to two barns in that vicinity. He did the acts to secure his return to prison, so he said.

Gas stoves, gas stoves, we got them, agents for the Jewell and Dougler, the up to date stoves for 1895. Consumes the smallest amount of gas and lay over all others in style and improvements, call in and see them. BOYLE & SON.

Anna Morrison, formerly of Deseronto, died at Watertown last week from the effect of an overdose of oil of cedar. She was a servant girl, and it is alleged, was lead astray by a livery stable keeper in Deseronto.

They do not Despair. An utter loss of hope is not characteristic of Consumptives, though no other form of disease is so fatal, unless its progress is arrested by use of Scott's Emulsion, which is Cod Liver Oil made as palatable as cream.

Thomas George, Eganville, was on the 19th inst., charged by license inspector Connolly with selling liquor without a license along the line of the O., A. & P. S. RR. Defendant was fined $100.

Daniel Donovan, harness-maker, Kingston, took in the celebration at Napanee on Dominion Day. He got considerable of a "jag on" while here, and claims that he was relieved of $30 by friends.

Relief in Six Hours.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder disease relieved in six hours by the "NEW GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN KIDNEY CURE." This new remedy is a great surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy Sold by W. S. Detlor.—41y

Wanted at once. Choice Potatoes, Apples and Onions, for which I am paying highest market prices. W. C. BRUTON.

Are you going to the Napanee
Bicycle Races
on August 5th?

That bright and ever welcome visitor the Guelph Herald came to hand this week in an entirely new dress. The Herald has dropped into line with other leading dailies and its news matter is now set up with a Rogers Typograph. A new dress of advertising type has also been put in and the Herald presents a clean and pretty appearance. Mr. H. Gummer, the present proprietor, assumed control of the paper 10 years ago, and under his management it has developed into a live, well edited successful journal. The EXPRESS is pleased to see these fresh evidence of prosperity in our western contemporary.

Great Faith In It. DEAR SIRS,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for nine years when required, and think it is the best remedy to be had for all kinds of summer Complaints. It has never failed in our family to cure any Summer Complaint, so we have great faith in it.
MRS. FRANK STEPHENS, Chatham, Ont.

About 8 o'clock Monday evening two young men were driving a horse through the crowd which congregated at Grange's corner where the Salvation Army was holding forth. Both men were considerably under the influence of liquor, and chief Storms stepped forth and caught the horse by the bridle. The young man driving the horse hit the animal with the whip and it turned on to the sidewalk, by the Tichborne House, breaking the shafts of the buggy, the wheels of which passed over a little girl named Sedore from the neighborhood of Odessa, injuring her back seriously. Chief Storms was hurt somewhat also but he clung to the horse. The young men were hustled out of the road by their friends.

A Boom to Horsemen.—One bottle of English Spavin Liniment completely removed a curb from my horse. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or calloused lumps, blood spavin, splints, curbs, sweeny, stifles and sprains GEORGE ROBB, Farmer, Markham, Ont. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y.

DAFOE & PAUL,

Undertakers

EVERYTHING NEW AND FIRST-CLASS.

$12.50 $12.50

Buys a nice Tweed Suit, made in the latest Style, good Trimmings and work guaranteed.

ED. HUFF;

Carson Block. Tailor.

Cash and One Price Only. 15tf

Moonlight Jubilee.

A moonlight excursion will be run over the Bay of Quinte Railway to Varty Lake, on Saturday night July 6th. This excursion to the colored camp meeting ground will leave Napanee at 8 o,clock p. m. sharp, stopping at Napanee Mills, Newburgh, Camden East and Yarker. Fare for round trip from all points except Yarker, 25cts. From Yarker 15cts.

Child Saving Work.

Any person desiring to adopt a Canadian child will hear of some very suitable cases by writing Rev. C. W. Watch, Brighton, Ont. who has several children placed in his care for adoption into good christian homes. He has some bright little boys of three and under. They are Canadian children and are deserving of good homes. Persons applying will please send name and address of their pastor.

Bicycle Meet.

The Bicycle races in Napanee on August 5th promises to be the most successful and interesting that have ever been held here. A number of the fastest riders in Canada have signified their intention of being present and taking part in the proceedings. The races will be held on the beautiful grounds of the Napanee Driving Park, and the track is in an excellent condition for the making or breaking of records. The committee in charge are sparing no effort to make this one of the grandest events in the history of Bicycle meets in the central district. Paste the date in your hat, August 5th, 1895, for future reference.

Fire at Tweed.

About 1 o'clock on the morning of the 28 th ult. fire started in the Albion hotel stables, Tweed, destroying the following; Albion hotel and stables, owned and occupied by P. L. Clairmont, loss on buildings about $5 000, insured—stables $1,000, on hotel $1,800; Thos. McCann's livery stables and store, loss about $4,000. no insurance; Craig's law office, loss not known; Busby's shoe shop; Hugh Coulter's harness shop, loss about $300, no insurance; Alex. Turcott's shoe shop. loss on shop about $200 stock saved, no insurance; George Easterbrook's barn, loss about $200; Felix Dyoume's barn, badly damaged; Felix Dyoume's out-buildings destroyed, shop and dwelling badly damaged by fire and water, loss about $500, covered by insurance in the Globe Co.; several other buildings and property slightly damaged; John Shaw, grocer. plate glass front badly damaged, loss $75, no insurance.

A Bogus Agent.

The firm of T. Milburn & Co., manufacturers of proprietary medicines, have for some time past been in receipt of letters from correspondents in and about Orangeville and Medowvale stating that a man has been operating in these districts, representing himself as their agent, and has been peddling medicines from house to house offering them as the medicines—Burdock Blood Bitters, etc.—put up by this well-known and reliable firm. A Globe reporter, having been placed in possession of these statements, called at the office of Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., on Colborne street. and was shown a number of communications from merchants in the localities indicated, all of which confirmed the information at first received and as given above. Not only had his firm been in receipt of communications, Mr. Milburn said, but some of his customers from Peel County had called at the office in Toronto and had informed him that this bogus agent had sold stuff at several houses which had necessitated the calling in of the doctor to treat the members of the families who had used his compounds. In closing the interview, Mr. Milburn, the head of the firm, said: "We have no such agent, nor do we sell our medicines through peddlers or agents, other than druggists and general merchants, and on this account we are desirous that farmers and others buying our remedies should understand that any persons peddling from house to house cannot represent us. They should, therefore, be on their guard against bogus medicines being foisted on them for those of our manufacture. I may say that we are willing to defray any expenses incident to the detection and conviction of this man, or of anyone falsely representing himself as our agent—The Globe

SUITS
AZES
SUITS

Fictitious values are often placed on suits.

All milk looks alike, but by standing at the pump you'll find the quality cannot be told by the whiteness. Same with clothes. Our Mens' Suits at $3.00 $4.40 $5.00 are honest Suits.

Radford & Son

The Clothiers.

The Council has been instructed by the council to place in the hands of the Bailiff all taxes remaining unpaid on July 11th. This is positively the last notice as the roll must be returned on the above date.
THOS. EMPEY,
Collector.

½ Mile Running Race—Purse $200.

Beefeater, R. J. Hewett, Brighton..	1	1
The Kelp, M. Flynn, Prescott.....	2	3
Nettie Wood, F. E. Jones, Peterboro	2	3
Glorialli, J. D. Petrie, Kingston....	4	4

Time: 1.04½, 1.05,

½ Mile Local Running Race—Purse $75.

Nellie M. B., Andrew Madden, Napanee.....	3	1	1
King William, Stephen Madden, Napanee.....	1	2	2
Rocket, E. P. Branigan, Kingston..	4	3
Prince Charlie, A. J. Stewart, Erinsville.....	2	dis	q

Time: 54, 55, 57.

In the second heat of the above race Walter Fralick rode Prince Charlie in place of the colored Jockey "Abe" and Prince Charlie won the heat by about a length, but was disqualified for two reasons, viz; chagning riders without permission of the judges, and coming in four lbs under weight. It appears that at the last moment it was discovered that the saddle young Fralick had been weighed in with was broken, and another one was substituted without waiting to weigh it. It proved to be four pounds lighter than the first one, and Prince Charlie was consequently disqualified for the race, much to the regret of the judges and spectators.

In the base ball match Newburgh beat Odessa by a score of 34 to 21.

SECOND DAY.

The weather on the second day proved favorable, and there was a large crowd in attendance.

The Deseronto band furnished excellent music throughout the day. The races were swift, and followed with close interest. The following is a summary of the second day's races:

2.40 Class—Purse $150.

Aileen of Rideau, F. A. Folger, Kingston.....	1	1	4	1
Miss Strader, H. A. Wallace, Dickinson Landing.....	2	2	1	2
Fawn, W. Robertson, Kingston..	4	3	3	3
Island Maid, Ed. Kinney, Picton	3	4	2	4

Time: 2.32, 2 30, 2.36¼, 2.40.

In the third heat of this race Aileen came in first, but was set back to fourth place for making four breaks.

2.20 Class—Purse $250.

Lady Watson, Wm. McNeil, Toronto	1	1	1
Little Belle, Jas. Hughes, Wales....	2	3	2
Daisy S., J. L. Boyes, Napanee....	4	2	3
Demand, S. H. Thackbury, Brighton	3	4	4

Time: 2.24, 2.23¾, 2.26.

Half Mile Free for all run—Purse $150.

Beefeater, R. J. Hewett, Brighton..	1	3	1
Nettie Wood, F. E. Jones, Peterboro	3	1	1
The Kelp, M. Flynn, Prescott.....	2	2
Glorialli, J. D. Petrie, Kingston....	5	4
Nellie M. B., Andrew Madden, Napanee.....	4	5
Prince Charlie, A. G. Stewart, Erinsville.....	6	6

Time: 51½, 52¼, 51¾.

In the second heat of this race Prince Charlie bolted off the track and Walter Fralick, his rider, was thrown violently to the ground. He landed on his head and was rendered insensible. Beyond a bad concussion it is not thought his injuries are anything serious. After the second heat of this race The Kelp went lame and was forced to withdraw from the third heat.

A cricket match between teams captained by Dr. Leonard and Mr. G. E. Maybee occasioned some interest. The match was won by Mr. Maybee's team by a score of 71 to 64.

NOTES.

Picton and Deseronto are blessed with excellent bands. The music furnished by them was much appreciated.

A laughable incident occurred at the second day's races. A horse attached to a buggy went sound asleep in the park, and fell over on its side. The animal looked foolish when it was assisted on its "pins."

Dennis Black, of Belleville, could not start Black Jessie in the 2, 50 class, as he was unable to put up the necessary $100. S. H. Thackabury, of Brighton, had to put up $100 before he could start Demand in the 2.28 class. They had previously participated in a disqualifying "no[illegible]race.

It is impossible to put up a g[illegible]t I can baseball and watch the race[illegible]e no idea the same time. This p[illegible] for the size of the score [illegible] before," said refreshment booths were [illegible]ives up to it did a thriving business. [illegible] the bank it

It was hardly fair of [illegible] pass over our excellent [illegible]rotested the they were placing engage[illegible] of small musical part of the program[illegible]nd it's all

Fresh meat always on hand at Law[illegible]

WE COMMENCE

THIS WEEK AT

The BIG STORE

A CUT PRICE SALE

OF OUR MAGNIFICENT STOCK OF

NEW DRESS GOODS

Which is very much too large for Midsummer, and would ask the Ladies to kindly come early, as we are sure to have an unusual rush in that department.

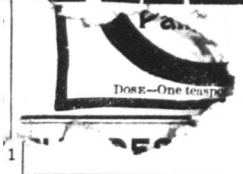
OUR CLOTHING STORE

Is humming with business. Those $9 Tweed Suits, made to order, are causing much excitement in the tailoring trade. We are selling stacks of Men and Boys' Readymade Suits and Hot Weather Garments. Right prices and styles do the business.

IN OUR SHOE STORE

You will find Ladies' and Men's Fine Shoes, bought for cash from the best manufacturers in the land, and which we are selling at dry goods prices.

THE BIG STORE



LAHEY & McKENTY

Church of England Notes.

Church of S. Mary Magdalene

PERSONALS.

Miss Hypatia Fox, of Toronto, is home for the holidays.

H. Laplante, of Gananoque, was in town this

BETWEEN YOU AND I.

I have often thought, that there are

Rev. Amos Campbell is to preach at the reopening of Empey Hill Church next Sabbath 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Public

Church of S. Mary Magdalene.

Sunday, July 7th—Morning prayer with Holy Communion 11 a.m., evening prayer 7 p.m. Rev. F. D Woodcock will officiate.

Parish of Adolphustown.

Services next Sunday—S. Paul's Sandhurst, at 11 o'clock; Holy Communion Sunday; St, Alban's, Adolphustown, at 3 o'clock; St. Jude's Gosport, at 7 30 o'clock.

Parish of Selby.

Sunday, July 7th. At St. John's church, Selby, Catechising of children at 10.15 a.m.; At St. Jude's church, Kingsford, Evensong Prayer and Sermon at 3 p.m. Subject for the day, "Things temporal and "Things eternal."

A special open-air service will be held by the side of the new church, Roblin, on Wednesday, July 10th, at 7.30 p. m. All welcome.

Parish of Camden.

Services sunday next: St. Luke's Camden East 11 o'clock; Holy Trinity, Yarker, 3 o'clock; Hinch P. O., 3 o'clock; St. John's, Newburgh, 7.30; Napanee Mills, 7.30; Confirmation class St. Luke's Monday evening 8 o'clock —Mr. Wm. P. Reeve, of Cambridge, Mass Divinity School, who has charge of Napanee church at present will exchange with the incumbent on Sunday next.—The Rev. F. D. Woodcock will preach on "Protestantism" what is it"? in St. Mary Magdalene on Sunday evening next.

Mission of Ernestown.

The most Reverend the Archbishop of Ontario held a confirmation at St. Alban's church, Odessa, on Sunday June 30th when 23 persons received the Apostolic Rite. The Candidates were all adults, 8 being men and 15 women. The church was completely filled with reverent worshippers who listened with close attention to the strong, helpful and loving address which the Archbishop gave to the candidates. The Rev. Canon Spencer acted as Chaplain. All the candidates made their first Communion at the same time.

Services next Sunday July 7th, Matins and Holy Eucharist at Odessa at 11 a.m. Evensong at Thorpe, 3 p.m; Evensong at Odessa 7. p.m.

Song Sermon.

The regular monthly Song Sermon will be given by the pastor in the Western Methodist church on Sunday evening next. A pleasant and profitable hour for all is assured.

The New Man.

Trilby was out in bloomers, red ones at that, at the celebration on Monday and Tuesday. To set the minds of the ladies at rest we will state that the "horrid" thing was a man.

Coming. What?

Crossley and Stratton's annual church excursion to Islands. When? August 10 and 17, by boat, and 10th by B. Q. train. Two days to avoid crowd. Get ready and wait for it. Particulars later.

A Precocious Crower.

Mr, J. W. Frair, of Tamworth, put a week old chicken in a cage alone with a canary bird last week. The bird welcomed the chick by hopping down beside it, and singing lustily. The chicken showed its appreciation of the welcome and the music by standing up and crowing the first crow of its life. This is the youngest crowing chicken on record.

The potato bug is dodging the Paris Green sprinkler.

Go to Symington's for the Flour that makes the Big Loaf, Rogers patent, the best in Canada.

The News says that a great sensation was created in Tweed last week by the appearance of a lady bicyclist.

The Paper Mills, at Napanee Mills, have commenced operations again under the management of Messrs Christie and Crab tree.

[illegible]hur Darlington, aged about twenty, [illegible]ted suicide at Camden East on the [illegible]y jumping off the bridge into the [illegible] found he was unconscious, [illegible]covered.

Call[illegible]

Cured in a Day.—South [illegible]matic Cure, for Rheumatism [illegible]dically cures in 1 to 3 days. [illegible] the system is remarkable and [illegible] removes at once the cause and [illegible] immediately disappears. The first [illegible] greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by W. [illegible]

H. Laplante, of Gananoque, was in town this week.

Mayor Stevens has returned from his trip to the old country looking greatly improved in health.

Miss Mary McDonald, daughter of Mr. John McDonald, near Napanee, is very ill at present and but slight hopes are entertained of her recovery.

Arthur Fraser, Odessa, was in town on Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. Arthur Van Schryver, of Northport, was in town this week.

Mr. S. A. Hogle, of Odessa, attended the races.

Miss Nellie Root, of Belleville, was visiting friends in town this week.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Bath, was in town attending the races.

Mr. Fred Allison, a former townsmen, was in town on Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. Will Warner, of Trenton, spent Tuesday in town.

C. H. Corbett, governor of Kingston gaol, attended the races on Monday, and was the guest of Mr. Geo Vanliven while in town.

Mr. Wm. Oliver, of Lindsay, was in town during the races.

Mr. Wm. Reeve, divinity student and a former townsman, is conducting the services in S. Mary Magdalene's church during the absence of Rev. Arthur Jarvis.

Mr. Albert Root returned to Watertown on Wednesday, after two week's visit in the town.

Miss Mamie Hope, of Newburgh, is visiting Miss Luella Finkle, of Centre street.

Mr. Collins, high school teacher, of Lindsay, formerly of our town, is visiting friends in Napanee.

Mrs. Maria Huffman and Miss Vic Huffman returned on Friday evening after a two weeks visit with Mrs. Ed. Kaylor, Morven.

Miss Winnie and Miss Maggie Templeton left for Montreal on Wednesday where they will spend a month visiting friends.

Sperry Shibley and wife, of Portland, were in Napanee on Monday and Tuesday attending the races.

Miss Luedna and Miss Flossie Wolfe, of Sydenham, were visiting Mrs. Finkle, of our town on Monday and Tuesday.

Messrs. H. Warner and Arnold Wolfe, took in the excursion to Sydenham on Thursday.

Miss E. Laplante, of Napanee, is visiting her grand-father at Violet.

Mrs. E. A. Benson, of Sophiasburgh, has been visiting her daughter Mrs. Levi Moore.

Master Charley Meagher left on Tuesday with his uncle, S. J. Fox, to spend his holidays with friends in Lindsay and Sturgeon Point.

Miss Nellie Herring, of Napanee, has been the guest of Miss M. Lawrence, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Fox, of Lindsay, were the guests of W. H. Meagher this week, on their return from a trip to the Thousand Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Skinner, of Lindsay, spent a short time at home with her parents Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Meagher, on their return from the Thousand Islands.

Miss Ida Fields, of Gretna, spent last week in town with her cousin, Effie Vanalstine.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meagher, of Marysville, were the guests of D. H. Meagher, on Monday.

Miss Helen Robertson, of St. Mary's, is visiting her friend, Miss Lotta Warner, John Street.

Miss Daley, of Kingston; is visiting Miss Edith Hooper of town.

The Misses Webbs and Mrs. Webb of Brighton, are visiting at Mr Marcus Parrotts, John Street.

Miss Baker, of Ayr, is visiting Miss Ray McDonald, Centre Street.

Miss Mabel Caton returned to her home in Napanee to spend the holidays.

Miss Mamie Garrett, of Erinsville, spent a few days in town the guest of Miss Lillian Caton.

Mr. Ashley made a professional call to Newburgh on Sunday.

Mr. J. Frank Empey, of Detroit, paid a short visit to his mother, Mrs. A. J. Empey, Mill street last week.

Capt. Holmes and party left on Thursday afternoon with his house boat and yacht Dorothy for a six weeks sojourn among the Thousands Islands.

Miss Belle McKenty and brother, of Kingston, were the guests of her brother Mr. John McKenty Dundas st, on Dominion Day.

Mrs. Chas. Henderson and her sons John and Chas, were the guests of Mrs. Geo E. Maybee, Dundas st, on Dominion day.

Mr. Chas. Ross, of Chippawa, was in town on Dominion day.

Mrs. Joseph Willison and family, were visiting friends in Belleville last week.

Mr. George Hill, of Belleville, was visiting her sister, Mr. Joseph Willison, this week.

Fred. O. Allison and mother, of Peterborough, were in town for a couple of days this week

Mr. Wm. Woodcock is home for a visit of some weeks. He comes from Bracebridge.

Mr. James Friskin attended the C. W. A. bicycle meet at Waterloo this week

Mrs. M. A. Asselstine, Kingston, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. Bicknell, John street, last week.

Mr. Ed. Miller, a rising young barrister of New York city, is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. Henry Taylor and Mrs. Clark, of Belleville, are visiting with Mrs. M. S. Madole, Napanee, this week.

Mr. Hellwell, of the Chicago cricket club is rusticating in town.

Miss Sarah Armstrong, of Denver, Colorado, is visiting at Mr. C. W. Bowen's.

Mr. Charles McMullen, of Belleville, was in town attending the races.

Mr. George Francisco, of Kingston, spent Monday in town the guest of his cousin Effie Vanalstine.

Mr. P. A. Maybee, of Odessa, was in town Saturday and favoured us with a call.

Mr. Harry Hunter, returned from his hunting exhibition last week.

Miss Mary Hunter, was visiting in Belleville last week.

Miss Madole, was the guest of Miss Florence Dafoe, Belleville, last week.

On Sunday next, July 7th, Mr. Rev. Woodcock, of Camden East, will officiate in St. Mary Magdalene's Church, morning and evening.

Mr. Wm. Martin, of Moscow, gave THE EXPRESS a call on Monday.

Mr. Nathaniel Graham, of Portsmouth, spent Monday in town the guest of Mrs. Nicholas Vanalstine.

Miss Maggie Demorest has been the guest of her sister, Dr. Demorest, for the last week.

Misses Carrie and Edith Bean of Newburgh, spent a couple of days in town last week the guests of Effie Vanalstine.

MARRIED.

REID—COUSINS—By Rev. D. O. Crossley, at the Western parsonage, on July 4th Mr. Robert S Reid, of Camden, to Miss Louise Cousins, of the same place.

I have often thought that there are somequeer specimens of human nature, but the most odd are those who set their minds on beating down a merchant on the price of goods, and yet if you want to buy anything from them, they always ask the highest price.

∴

Regarding the canidate for a "sit" at Ottawa as senator, the following fits the case, "Some are born great, some achieve greatness and some have greatness thrust upon them.

∴

There are wanted a few young men to sit around in the shop fronts, in the evenings and on Sundays a few being left yet unoccupied. Only those who can spit tobacco juice need apply.

∴

Wanted, a few nails. They must be long enough to go through a two inch plank. Contributions will be received by the side walk repairer any time this summer.

∴

Trilby cut quite a figure Dominion Day.

∴

Judging from the reported trouble in some churches in Ontario, the passage "Peace be within thy walls" is not very appropriate. DAGON.

Honor Rolls.

S. S. NO. 8 SHEFFIELD.

IV Class—Total 1200. Edward Garrett 1,164, Agnes Walsh 1,026.

III Class—Total 1200 Mamie Garrett 1,174, Thos. Gaffney 1,169, Ada Bell Sexsmith 1,163, Carrie McGarvey 1,161, Delbert Polmateer 1,146, Robert Finn 1,053, Jas. McWilliams 824, Nellie Polmateer 800, Mary McWilliams 780, Thos. Quinn 750.

II Class —Total 475. Albert Sexsmith 431, Jno. Gee 416, Henry Anderson 412, Angeline Walsh 403, Frank Quinn 379, Stephen Garrett 309, Geo. Anderson 309, Edward Donohoe 284.

Part II Sr.—Total 100. Albert Donohoe 78, Leo McWilliams 47.

Part II Jr. —Total 100. Eddie McKeown 94, Maggie Garrett 87, Mary Quinn 85, Thos. Anderson 82, Thos. Walsh 80, Anastatia Gaffney 73, Arthur Garrett 60.

Part I Sr.—Total 100. Walter Anderson 79, Michael Watters 73, Mary Gaffney 67.

Part I Jr. —Total 100. Thos. Whiteman 82, Maurice Lawlor 75, Victoria Lawlor 67, Martin Donohoe 52, Michael McKeown 52, Grace Finn 44, Maggie Palmer 41, Joe Palmer 38.

MABEL I. CATON, Teacher.

S. S. NO. 1 ADOLPHUSTOWN.

Sr. 4th—Bertie Roblin 1428, Gertie Baker 1,423.

Jr. 4th—Raymond Allison 833, Amos Pollard 608; Nathan Airhart 542, Alwyn Forneri 526; Arthur Allison 342, Ethel Fournia 260.

Third—L. Pollard 909, Florrie Forneri 882, Dace Cadman 753, Carrie Pollard 742, Luella Kellar 412.

Second—John Duffett 530, H. Duffett 514, Milton Peterson 264, Kate Forneri 262; Helen Vincent 189, John Ruttan 188

First—Lucy Butler 84, Ethel Lucas 68, Rose Butler 50, Gerald Pollard 49, Myra Pollard 48, Arthur Peterson 38, Ray Lucas 28 Luella Thibault 10, John Butler 8. John Allen 5.

AUGUSTA SCOUTEN, Teacher.

NEWBURGH.

Jr. Second Reader—Bertha Loucks, Evelyn Grange, Earl Shorey, Harry Shorts, Johnnie Benn, Carrie Mastin, Fred Shane, Anna May Sutton, Bert Conway. and Carry York.

Passed to Jr. second—Tillie Ashe, Harry Beeman, Mary McKay, Pearl Nesbitt, Evelyn Storms, and Mattie Welbanks, Passed to Sr. pt. 11.—Ray Farley, Juanita Johnston, Stella Finn, Pearl Patterson, Jessie Wilson, Gertie Conway, Annie O'Connor, Leonard Yorke, and Bert Paul.

Passed to jr. pt. 11.—Harold Stone, Lauda Sutton, Annie Mastin, Nettie Fox.

Sr. pt. 1,—Pearl Wood.

Passed to Sr. pt. 1.—Harry Dann, Robbie O'Connor, Willie Kellar.

Medium pt. 1,—Charlie Whelan,

Passed to Medium pt. 1.—Louella Frye, Gertie Nesbitt, George Shorey, Hattie Mastin, Elsie Moore, Ida May Sutton.

Sr. pt. 1,—Vera Benn, Johnnie Fox, Alfred Fox.

[illegible] Division, Newburgh.

Sabbath 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Public invited.

The authorities have received reliable information that John Mack who broke gaol here on the 17th June last has been arrested for grand Larceny near Baldmin-ville, New York State, and is now in the penitentiary at Syracuse awaiting action of the grand jury.

At the late convention of Endeavorers in Deseronto a district union was formed with these officers:—President, Rev. R. Taylor, Deseronto; Vice-President, D. A. Shaw, Kingston; Corresponding Secretary, Miss J. Redmond, Picton; Recording Secretary and Treasurer, J. Matheson, Newburgh: Executive Committee—Rev. Dr. McDiarmid, Napanee; Rev. G. McCullough, Newburgh; Miss G. Sutherland, Belleville; Miss M. C. Hopkins, Picton; G. Ovens, Kingston; County Secretaries, Miss Phelps, Belleville; Miss E. Godwin, Kingston; Miss Fairburn, Newburgh; Miss Edwards, Napanee; D. L. Stafford, Rednersville. A convention will be held yearly at the different centres.

Last week's Beaver contained a paragraph giving the reason that lead the cricket club to deny the football team the use of the Park to play matches on. The reason given is: Taking possession of the cricket ground to practice football on without even asking the consent of the cricket club. The cricketers say had the footballers asked their consent in the first place they would have had no trouble in securing the grounds to play matches on. An article in THE EXPRESS, abusing one of the members of the cricket club, together with other stories, are given as the final reasons that settled the cricket club in their decision, "and the present football club need never expect to be permitted to play on the grounds." We may just state here that THE EXPRESS does not deal in abuse, and did not abuse any member of the cricket club. We simply questioned the wisdom of the actions of one of the cricketers. It was not so much what he did we found fault with, but rather they way he took of doing it. The football boys were in no way responsible for the appearance of that article and the cricketers should not have allowed it to weigh against them in arriving at their decision. That they are in earnest in this decision is borne out by their action in bringing pressure to bear on the Driving Park Association to prevent the football match on Dominion Day that the secretary of the Association had authorized the captain of the football team to arrange for, and which was arranged for and advertised on the bills. The match had to be declared off almost at the last moment, because the cricket club informed the secretary of the Napanee Driving Park Association that they would not allow the Napanee football club to play on the Park, although they were not adverse to any other club playing there. Even if the cricketers would allow the foot ball team to play matches on the Park, suitable ground for practising on is badly needed, and we hope that immediate steps will be taken to provide the boys with a place suitable to practice and play matches on, for until that is done they will be forced to go outside of town, whenever they have a match on, for that meed of courtesy which is denied them at home.

B B. B.

Purifies and regulates the entire system, thus curing Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Rheumatism, Dropsy and all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It also removes all impurities from the system from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

THE NAPAN

Vol. XXXIV] No 35—JNO. POLLARD, Editor and Publisher. NAPANEE, ONT. CA

BEFORE STOCK-TAKING

Having gone through my stock of

Crockery, China and Glassware

and finding it much too large for this season of the year I have decided to put the whole stock on the market

For the Next 60 Days.

at a large discount, or in other words, sharing up my profits with my customers, and in Dinner and Tea Sets, of which I have a fine assortment, I will give a special discount in order to clear them out to make room for New Goods arriving in the early part of April.

W. Coxall

CORN.....

We have a full stock of the leading varieties in hill and Fodder Corn comprising: Early Yellow Dent, Mammoth Cuban, Leaming, Stowell's Evergreen, Rural Thoroughbred, Salzer's Giant White Dent, Canada Yellow, Angel of Midnight, Early Red Blazed.

Tomato, Cabbage and Celery Plants.

Mangel, Carrot, Turnip and a full line of Garden Seeds.

Onions for Planting.

Flour, the best that can be made from the best grades of Wheat, at reasonable prices.

The Rathbun Co'y

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

GREAT CLEARING SALE

of Ready-Made Clothing, Men's Furnishings, Hats and Caps

For the next 30 days we will offer our stock of Clothing, Men's Furnishings, Hats and Caps at prices that is sure to clean out the whole stock.

This is a chance which shonld not be missed.

We do this to make room for our new fall stock.

The following are a few of the many bargains offered:

Boy's School Suits $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50, worth double the money.

Men's and Youth's Suits from $3.50 up.

Men's good strong Pants at $1.00, worth $1.50.

Shirts, Collars, Cufis, Suspenders, Socks, Neckwear and Gloves.

Underwear, Handkerchiefs, Armlets, Hats and Caps.

All at clearing prices. To be convinced call and see the bargains offered.

A. M. VINEBERG,

The Wonderful Cheap Clothier, Dundas st., Henry Block, Napanee

IMPORTANT TO INTENDING PURCHASERS OF FARM IMPLEMENTS.

SPECIAL SH

We have just cleared out th of White Shirts.

You can buy them from us a

Unlaundried Shirts 38c, 55 75c and $1.00. All sizes.

Laundried Shirts 50c, 75c, $1.25 lines.

You are invited to call and

McALIST

BIG PROFITS Small Investments ON

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who, by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50.000 to $100,000 or more by those who invests a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest throug brokers who throughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOFS, also our Manual on successful speculation and our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our Manual explains margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our stauding success.

For further information address

THOMAS & CO., Bankers and Brokers.

241-242 Rialto Building, CHICAGO, ILL.

FOR SERVICE.

THOROUGHBRED GUERNSEY BULL

AT THE

ROYAL HOTEL STABLE

NAPANEE

TERMS, - $1.00.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.—IN THE MATTER OF DALY, GRANGE & CO.

Notice is hereby given that Daly, Grange & Co., of the town of Napanee in the County of Lennox and Addington carrying on business as tea merchants having made an assignment under R. S. O. 1887 Chapter 134 and amending acts of all their estates credits and effects to the undersigned for the general benefit of their creditors. Creditors are requested to file their claims with the said trustee with the proofs and particulars thereof ready on or before 20th day of August 1895. And notice is hereby futher given that after the said 20th day of August 1895 the said trustee will proceed to distribute the assets of the said debtors amongst the parties entitled thereto

A Remarkable Cure.—J. W. Jennison, Gilford—Spent between $200 and $300 in consulting Doctors; tried Dixon's and all other treatments but got no benefit. One box of Chase's Cattarrh Cure did me more good than all other remedies, in fact I consider myself cured and with a 25 cent box at that.

DINING IN PALESTINE.

Knives and Forks Being Unknown, the Fingers Do Valiant Duty.

A very large circular tray of tinned copper, placed on a coarse wooden stool about a foot high, served as a table. In the centre of this stood another big tray, with a mountain of pilaff, composed of rice boiled and buttered and upon it. This was the [illegible] though there were other smaller dishes both meat and vegetable. Ten persons sat around the table, or rather squat-

OF FARM IMPLEMENTS,

The best is always the cheapest. Therefore, before purchasing elsewhere, call at Sylvester Bros'. Machinery Hall, (west end Campbell House Block) and inspect their samples, consisting of their Celebrated Shoe or Press Drill. Hoe Drill. Broad Cast Seeder and Spring Tooth Cultivator Combined. Single Spring Tooth Cultivator. Diamond Harrow. Mower, etc.

Also be sure and see the Wartman & Ward Spade Harrow, (the Queen of Pulverizers)- Every farmer should have one. Different Patterns of Disc Harrows for sale. Don't you want a new Lumber Wagon this season? If so, buy none but a CHATHAM, with patent Grain and Stock Rack combined. The best in the Market.

BLANCHARD & POTTER,

AGENTS.

THE - MERCHANTS - BANK

OF CANADA

Head Office, — Montreal

Capital paid up, $6,000,000

Surplus, $3,000,000

INTEREST AT CURRENT RATES PAID ON DEPOSITS.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

T. E. MERRITT,

Manager, Napanee Branch

DEROCHE & MADDEN,

Barristers,

Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.

Office—Grange block.

Money to Loan at "lower than the lowest" rates

H. M. DEROCHE, Q. C. 5.1y J. H. MADDEN

MORDEN & RUTTAN.

Barristers, Solicitors, etc.

Office over Merchant's Bank. Bank of Canada. Dundas Street, Napanee.

A. L. MORDEN, Q. C., G. F. RUTTAN.

County Crown Attorney.

Money to loan at 5, 5½ and 6 per cent.

HERRINGTON & WARNER,

Barristers, etc.

MONEY TO LOAN AT LOW RATES

Office—Warner Block, East-st, Napanee. 5y

DENTISTS

C. D. WARTMAN, L.D.S.

C. H. WARTMAN, D.D.S.

Graduates of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduate of Toronto University.

OFFICE—LEONARD BLOCK,

Visits made to Tamworth the first Monday in each month, remaining over Tuesday. Room at Wheeler's Hotel.

All other Mondays C. D. Wartman will be in Yarker.

Napanee office open every day.

R. A. LEONARD, M.D., C.P.S.

Physician, Surgeon, etc.

Late House Surgeon of the Kingston General Hospital.

Office—North side of Dundas Street, between West and Robert Streets, Napanee. 5:1y

A. S. ASHLEY,

DENTIST

16 Years in Napanee.

34 Years Experience.

Rooms, - Albert Block, - Napanee

JAS. AYLESWORTH,

General Business Agent.

Conveyancer,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses,

Commissioner, etc., in H.C.J.

Clerk, 7th Division Court, of the County of Lennox & Addington

Grand Trunk Railway Ticket Agent

TAMWORTH.

A. R. DAVIS,

Ontario Land Surveyor and Civil Engineer.

Office with T. G. Davis, Insurance Agent, 39 Coates Block

THE ROYAL HOTEL.

Dundas Street, Napanee.

H. HUNTER, Prop.

This commodious hotel is centrally situated having every convenience for the travelling and business public. Large yard and sheds for farmers.

Good table, best of wines, liquors, and cigars

The comfort of guests is made a first con-

MORTGAGE SALE OF VALUABLE GRIST MILL, RESIDENCE AND WATER POWER.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage, which will be produced at the time of sale, there will be sold by Public Auction, at the Town Hall, in the Town of Napanee, in the County of Lennox and Addington, on Thursday, August 8th, 1895, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon.

All and singular those certain parcels or tracts of land and premises, situate, lying and being in the Township of Camden, in the County of Lennox and Addington, and Province of Ontario and being parts of the village plot of Yarker as laid out on a part of lot number forty-two, in the first concession of the said township of Camden beginning at the northwest corner of lot number thirty-one on the east side of Centre street in the said village plot, thence easterly along Mill street one hundred and forty-four feet, thence southerly ninety feet, thence westerly to the south west corner of lot number thirty-one, thence northerly on and along the east side of Centre street to the place of beginning. Also beginning twelve feet west of the south west corner of the Grist Mill now standing south of above described property and running in a north westerly direction on a line one foot west of the north west corner of the former office of the said Grist Mill until it strikes the south end of above mentioned village lot number thirty-one, thence easterly along the south end of said lot number thirty-one and lot number thirty-two until it strikes the west side of lot number thirty-four, thence southerly along the west side of said lot number thirty-four to the canal, thence westerly on and along the north side of the canal and flume to the place of beginning, together with an undivided one half interest or share in the water power on the north side of the Napanee river in the Village of Yarker.

The said property will be offered for sale in parcels or the whole to suit purchasers.

On the premises is said to be the following improvements; on village lot No. 31 a valuable Brick Dwelling House and Frame Drive House; on Mill Plot a valuable Grist Mill known as the "Yarker Mill."

Terms and conditions of sale made known at time of sale.

For further particulars apply to ENGLISH & PERRY, Vendor's Solicitors.

Dated at Napanee, this 8th day of June, A.D. 1895

AUCTION SALE OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTIES.

Under and by virtue of the powers of sale contained in two certain registered mortgages, which will be produced at the time of sale, and upon which default in payment has been made, there will be offered for sale by Public Auction, at the Campbell House, in the town of Napanee, in the county of Lennox and Addington, on at the hour of one o'clock p.m., the following valuable land and premises, viz.:

Monday, August 5th, 1895,

Firstly: The East half of lot number two, in the fifth concession of the township of Ernestown in the County of Lennox and Addington, excepting thereout about three acres sold for village lots.

The property lies in a well settled district, and is distant from the town of Napanee about four miles. There are said to be erected thereon frame dwelling, frame barn, with stable and driving house. Soil is a good clay loam.

Secondly; All that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate in the Township of Fredericksburgh, in said county, containing by admeasurement one Hundred acres, more or less, and composed of the west half of lot number thirteen, in the sixth, (sometimes called fifth) concession of the said Township on the Napanee River, together with all the woods and waters thereon, lying and being under the reservations, limitations and conditions expressed in the or ginal grant from the crown, which said one hundred acres of land are butted and bounded, and may be otherwise known as follows, that is to say; Commencing in front upon the south side of the Napanee river, at the centre of the said lot, then south thirty-one degrees, east, one hundred and five chains, twenty-seven links, then south fifty-nine degrees west, nine chains, fifty links more or less to the limit between lots numbers thirteen and twelve, then north thirty-one degrees, west, to the Napanee River, then north easterly along the water's edge to the place of beginning.

The property is distant about one mile from the town of Napanee. There are erected on same a brick dwelling and frame barn.

Terms. Ten per cent of purchase money to be paid down at time of sale. Terms for payment of balance will be made known at time of sale.

For further particulars apply to

REID, OWENS & WOOD,

Vendor's Solicitors, Freehold Loan Building, Toronto.

324

C. H. FINKLE.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER, Newburgh, Ont. Orders left with Ewart and Vanluven, Yarker, will have prompt attention. Telephone communication.

20th day of August 1895 the said trustee will proceed to distribute the assets of the said debtors amongst the parties entitled thereto having regard only to the claims of which notice shall then have been given and that he will not be liable for the assets or any part thereof so distributed to any person or persons of whose claim he shall not then have had notice T. D. PRUYN Assignee. & Trustee.

DEROCHE & MADDEN, Solicitors for the abovenamed Assignee and Trustee.

Dated July 11th, 1895.

VOTER'S LIST 1895

Municipality of the Township of Denbigh, Abinger and Ashby, County of Lennox and Addington.

Notice is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in Section 5 and 6 of the Ontario Voter's List Act, 1889, the copies required by said section to be so transmitted or delivered of the list, made pursuant to said Act, of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at elections for members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal elections and that said list was first posted up at my office at Denbigh, on the 22nd day of July 1895, and remains there for inspection.

Electors are called upon to examine the said lists, and if any omissions or any other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

PAUL STEIN.

Clerk of the Municipality of the Township of Denbigh, Abinger and Ashby.

Dated at Denbigh, in the said Municipality, this 22nd day of July, 1895.

VOTER'S LIST 1895.

Municipality of the Village of Bath in the County of Lennox and Addington.

Notice is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in Section 5 and 6 of the Ontario Voter's List Act, 1889, the copies required by said section to be so transmitted or delivered of the list, made pursuant to said Act, of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at elections for members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal elections and that said list was first posted up at my office, at Bath on the 8th day of July, 1895, and remains there for inspection.

Electors are called upon to examine the said lists, and if any omissions or any other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

D. T. FORWARD.

Clerk of the Municipality of the village of Bath.

Dated at Bath, in the said Municipality, this 8th day of July 1895.

Catarrh Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes

One short puff of the breath through the Blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this Powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves instantly, and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tonsilitis and Deafness. 60 cents. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y.

The End of a Historic Jail.

The supervisors of Ontario county have just sold at auction the historic old jail of that county, the property bringing $100, and the bidder being obliged to remove it. This jail was widely celebrated in its day because of the so called "Morgan cell" therein, in which, previous to his mysterious disappearance in 1826, Morgan, the author of a book purporting to reveal the secrets of Freemasonry, was placed for protection. After his disappearance Morgan was never heard of again, and it was charged that the Masons had made way with him, some holding that he was drowned in the Niagara River above the falls, and another story being that he was banished to Australia, never to return on pain of death. The only thing that was ever proved was that he disappeared as effectually as though the ground had opened to swallow him.

This incident was widely discussed. This incident was widely discussed, and it aroused fierce animosities and bitterness at the time. It entered into politics, and the late Thurlow Weed and others utilized it to the political advantage. The pharse "good enough Morgan till after election" dates back to this anti-Mason agitation period of 70 years ago. Western New York especially, the home of Morgan, was a hot-bed of anti-Masonry, and the records of Genesee commandery, No. 14, K. T., one of the oldest in the state, now located at Lockport, but then at Batavia, relate how on St. John's day the parade of Sir Knights was stoned by the people. Whole counties were carried to the anti-Mason issue in those days.—Albany Argus.

This is Concentration --One pill a dose, one box 25 cents. One pill relieves constipation. One box cures an ordinary case. One pill taken weekly neutralizes formation of uric acid in the blood and prevents Bright's Kidney disease and Diabetes. True only of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills.

Minard's Liniment is he Best though there were other smaller dishes, both meat and vegetable. Ten persons sat around the table, or rather squatted on the carpet, with their knees drawn up close to the bodies. Each had before him a plate of tinned copper and a wooden spoon, which some used without the plate. Most, however, preferred to use the fingers of the left hand, several dipping their hands together into the dish as the disciples did at the Last Supper.

As soon as anyone had finished he rose and went into another room, to have water poured over his hands to wash them, and the vacant place at the table was instantly filled by a newcomer. The bread, I may say, was laid on the mat under the tray, so as to be easily reached; and a jar of water the only beverage used during the meal stood within reach. Besides rice, stews of beans or cracked wheat, with thick soup or sauce poured over them in the great central bowl, are also in fashion. Spoons, though sometimes provided, are often wanting—pieces of thin bread, doubled, serving instead. Knives and forks are unknown; and as there is no special dining-room, there is no furniture suited for one. Hence tables and chairs are never seen. The meat being always cut up into small pieces, there is no need for a knife, and chickens can easily be torn asunder with the hands. So far, indeed, are Orientals from thinking it strange to dip their fingers into the common dish, that it is a special act of politeness to grope in it for the visitor, and lay nice morsels before him, or even to insist on putting them into his mouth.

Bees That Make Bad Honey.

"Lovers of the product of the busy bee will find it a wise precaution to have their honey tested as to its purity before they eat it, or use it in a culinary way." Prof. Remington gave a warning or something like this at a recent meeting of pharmacists, and at the same time told of a German who was extensively engaged in bee culture, and who had his apiary close to a sugar refinery. A lot of rank molasses was accessible to the bees, and they gorged themselves on it. The result was their honey was equally rank and unfit for use. On another occasion the bees fed on blooming digitalis, and their honey proved to be poisonous. Natural honey, therefore, is liable to vary very much, and occasionally, when it looks best and is sweetest, it may be loaded with poison. Unscrupulous bee-farmers are accustomed to forcing their bees to increase their output by feeding them sweetened water. The honey, of course, is scarcely fit for use.

Bacteriology of the Sea.

Dr. B. Fischer, bacteriologist of the 1894 Plankton expedition, in his report on the "Microbes of the Sea," says that microbes capable of a germination are everywhere to be found in sea water except at great depths. They are more numerous in the Canary, Florida and Labrador currents than they are in either the Guinea or equatorial currents. They were not detected with certainty in the ooze of the ocean's bed, but were abundant at all depths shallower than 1,300, and some were found at a depth of 3,500 feet. Like the bacteria of the different diseases, those of the ocean are found in all shapes and forms, the spiral predominating. Nearly all were found provided with hooks or suckers, and one large family are reported as being phosphorescent.

REDUCED TO A SHADOW.

Saved by Strawberry Extract.

GENTLEMEN,--Feeling it my duty to give you an unsolicited testimony for the direct benefit I have received in my family from the use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, let me say that while we resided at Fenwick, Ont., my little daughter had an attack of Dysentery or Bloody Flux, by which she was reduced to a mere shadow and became quite helpless. Fortunately my family physician advised the use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, as he neither had nor knew of anything better for this dreadful disease, and therefore we gave it an impartial trial. I am happy to say that less than quarter of a bottle caused the flow of blood and clots to cease, and the child promptly recovered. We always have had Extract of Strawberry in the house since to be ready for emergencies common to children in summer from the effects of fruits, etc. I would just as soon think of losing my right eye as being deprived of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. This is a testimony of thanks for the untold benefit my self and family have received from this great remedy.

MRS. W. H. GARROLD,

St. David's, formerly of Hamilton, Ont.

NEE EXPRESS.

CANADA—FRIDAY, AUGUST 2, 1895. $1 per Year in advance; $1.50 if not so paid.

SHIRT SALE

the balance of a Factory Stock is at exactly manufacturer's prices

55c, 75c, regularly sold at 50c,

c, $1.00 regular 75c, $1.00 and

nd look them over.

TER & CO'Y.

LAID AT REST.

FUNERAL OF A. L. MORDEN, Q. C.

After reaching Edinburgh in safety Mr. Morden complained of a pain in the chest and side. A physician was called in who pronounced the disease to be pleurisy, saying also that the action of the heart was bad; but if this regulated the sufferer would rally. On Sunday, July 14th, a turn for the worse was noticeable, and grave doubts were entertained as to a recovery. Death took place that night, and a sincere christian passed away to "that bourne from whence no traveller returns."

Friend after friend departs,
Who hath not lost a friend,
There is no union here of hearts
That finds not here an end.

"And God shall wipe away all tears from thier eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain."

According to an expressed wish the remains of A. L. Morden, Esq., were brought to Napanee for interment. The body was therefore first placed in a shell casket, draped, then enclosed in a metallic casket, hermetically sealed. Thus prepared all that was mortal of the deceased was placed in a heavy, plain oaken casket, ornamented with brass fittings.

All preparations having been made the grief stricken party sailed from Liverpool on Saturday, the 20th, at 1.30 p.m., per S. S. Lake Ontario, of the Beaver line. The steamer was sighted at Father Point on Sunday morning, and the sad party arrived at Montreal on Tuesday, where Mr. Symington was waiting. On arrival at Napanee on Wednesday, the remains were taken to Mr. Symington's house, being removed thence to the church on Thursday morning.

The funeral would not have held a larger number of people assembled to pay a last tribute of respect to Mr. A. L. Morden, even if it were twice its present size, for so large a concourse of people pathy and condolence, and earnestly pray that she and her husband may be sustained by the grace and presence of God in this hour of their sore trial and bereavement. Signed—The Teachers Meeting.

The flag on the town hall, court house and collegiate institute were flying at half mast during the week.

The rooms of Napanee Lodge 86, I.O.O.F. were appropriately draped in black, with motto over the N. G. chair. "A Departed Brother." Mr. Morden was a Past Grand Master of Grand Lodge of Ontario.

The various stores and places of business in town were closed from half past one until the funeral was over.

Mr J. S. Hullett took an excellent photograph of the decorations in the Western Methodist church placed for the late A. L. Morden's funeral, including the coffin and the floral offerings. The picture is now on exhibition in Mr. Hullet's show window, and is coming in for much favorable comment.

THE FAMILY A SOCIAL CENTER.

Its Members, When Together, Should Avoid Unpleasant Topics.

"I do not know why members of a family, whenever they are left alone, should settle down to talking about dismal family topics," says Mr. Woodberry, in "The Errant Wooing," and the readers wonder with him. When the family is left alone the tendency is to resolve itself into a critical body, a committee of ways and means, or an executive committee. It is only in a rare instance that the impersonal, outside matters that would lead and control the conversation of a body of friends control the family conversation and yet valuable as when the family is alone. We take it for granted, even between mothers and daughters and fathers and sons, that the fact of blood relation makes exchanges of courtesy, approval,

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY

CENTREVILLE.

Times are dull at present. Everybody is busy harvesting and report a favorable crop.

A runaway from town last week. Mr. Reuben Milligan's horses took fright and broke loose in front of Mr. Hinch's store and almost broke the waggon to atoms.

Mrs. D. Kennedy's little baby boy took a very bad turn on Tuesday of last week which nearly proved fatal but is now recovering.

A meeting of the agricultural and institute members was held in Kennedy's hotel on the 27th inst. Everything was satisfactory.

Our show will be held in Centreville on September the 28th this year and as the track is well fitted a good turnout is expected.

BELLROCK.

We had a heavy rain on Saturday.

The hay crop is about harvested. It is not quite up to the average in this section.

Some of our farmer's sold their hogs to Bicknell at $4.25 per cwt. He will ship them to-day from Enterprise.

Quite a nnmber from here attended the show in Kingston.

Mr. Fred Clark surprised the people of Bellrock by bringing home a wife last week.

There was a very good attendance at church yesterday. Rev. Mr. Meredith preached a good sermon from John XIX, 18th verse.

Visitors: Mrs. Joseph Wheeler and daughter, of Tweeed, at T. B. Wheeler's returned home on Saturday accompanied by Minnie Wheeler. Mr. and Mrs. Hannah York, of Tamworth, at Stewart Percy's. E. W. York and family at Tamworth. Louise Turpah at A. Perault's.

Consumptives, cheer up! You are not going to die, if you will but take Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "the kind that cures" coughs, colds, bronchitis and all pulmonary diseases. Every bottle warranted. No oiley taste like others. In big bottles, 50c and $100, at druggists.

GULL CREEK.

We have had great rains recently. Early Tuesday morning it rained very heavy, with heavy thunder and lightning. The grain that stood out in the shock on the fields, and the hay in the cocks must be greatly soaked. A few weeks past the cry was for rain, but now it is the reverse with many,

It seems that the vicinity of Gull Creek is coming to be a noted place of resort, parties from Tamworth and Centreville spent a few days merry time here last week. Welcome friends, we like to see your faces gleaming with your usual smiles with the enjoyment of having a good time.

Mr. Chas. Whalen has been cutting his hay, but it is still in the cocks, and laying about. Too bad that it was not stacked before this heavy rain.

The men in Rathbun's drive have returned. It is evident that they have got it through at last, because the dam on Clare River has been opened and the water has had its natural course. For this many here are glad as it will help the marshes to harden up that the people may go and cut the hay on them. Hay is likely to be scarce around here next winter. Corn and potatoes and late crops have improved greatly since the recent rains.

The Rev. Mr. Rice, Tamworth, is announced to preach at our school house next Sunday at 2.30 p.m.

Window Screen's, Screen doors, spring hinges, screen wire, largest variety, lowest prices. BOYLE & SON.

DENBIGH.

Owing to frequent showers of rain lately crop of grain have materially improved, but our hay crop is without exception the lightest ever grown in this part of the country and all the wild grass on every available marsh for miles around has been

NEW AND TERRIBLE.

ANOTHER HORRIBLE FIGHTING PIECE FOR USE IN WAR.

Powder, Gun and Projectile Which Combined Could Destroy a Ship at a Range of 10 Miles—To be Used on Men-of-War or for Coast-Defense Purposes.

A gun that can sink a big ship at 10 miles range is worth keeping out of the way of. Maxim, the gunmaker, and Dr. Schupphaus, the gunpowder expert, have just invented a new cannon and torpedo powder which will knock all modern war vessels to pieces like eggshells. This big gun will throw a huge cannon ball full of explosives 10 miles and where it strikes it will smash into kindling wood everything within hundreds of feet. In fact, this new terror doesn't even have to hit a warship to do this. If the shot lands in the water near by it will sink the ship and stun everybody on board from the force of the explosion. At any rate, these are the things claimed for this veritable engine of destruction.

The special powder employed is almost pure gun-cotton, compounded with such a small per cent. of nitro-glycerine as to possess none of the disadvantages of nitro-glycerine powders, and preserved from decomposition through a slight admixture of urea. It is perfectly safe to handle, and can be beaten with a heavy hammer on an anvil without exploding.

The secret of its remarkable power lies in a simple mathematical truth which no one had previously thought of. High explosive powder is now loaded into cannon in the form of strips, small cubes or solid cylindrical rods from one-half to three-fourths of an inch in diameter, several feet in length, and looking like a bundle of sticks of dark beeswax. When the powder is touched off the ends and circumference of each rod of powder ignite instantaneously and burn towards the centre.

The volume of gases generated by combustion grows constantly less, because the burning surface is less, and as it is the volume of gas which gives velocity to the projectile shot from the gun, a loss of velocity is the inevitable result. The projectile does not go so far as it would if the pressure of the gases had increased, or had at least been maintained.

In each piece of the Maxim-Schupphaus powder is a lot of small holes running through the entire length of the rod. When the powder is ignited the flame spreads instantaneously, not only over the circumference of each rod, but throughout the perforations as well. These little holes are burnt out with such rapidity that the difference in the volume of explosive gases generated at the beginning and at the end of the bore of the gun is about in the ratio of 16 to 1.

This new death-dealing powder has been fired in field guns and in the heavy coast-defense rifles at Sandy Hook with surprising results. From a 10-inch gun, loaded with 128 pounds of this powder, a projectile weighing 571 pounds was thrown eight miles out to sea.

To test by a large gun the actual destructive work of this new powder would be impossible in a civilized community. The force of the high explosive thrown would be too great. It would be necessary to withdraw to the Great Sahara Desert, the wilds of Siberia or some equally unfrequented locality in order to see just what would happen if 50 pounds of explosive should hit something. Schupphaus propose [illegible] and will be a 20-inch gun especially adapted for coast defense. This gun will show some peculiarities. It will not be built up, that is, composed of many

...y a last tribute of respect to Mr. A. L. Morden, even if it were twice its present size, for so large a concourse of people gathered in town that no building hereabout could have accommodated them. The two lodges of Oddfellows met in the rooms of Napanee Lodge No. 86 and augmented by representatives from Belleville, Picton, Kingston, Deseronto and other places walked in procession to the church, and thence to the cemetery; as did also the town council which met in the council chamber. While the church was filling Mr. Jewell played "Nearer my God to Thee," and the opening hymn was 855, "Servant of God, well done." Rev. Stratton, of Selby, offered up a touching prayer, followed by a very impressive anthem sung by the choir of the church. Rev, McDiarmid read the 90th psalm. Hymn 851 was next sung, "Unveil thy bosom faithful tomb." Rev. Dr. Carman, general superintendent of the Methodist church, here delivered a very impressive and appropriate address, taking as a foundation, Psalm 39, v, 4, "Lord, make me to know mine end, and the measure of my days, what it is; that I may know frail I am," and Psalm 90, v, 12, "So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom" The rev. gentlemen enlarged on these words with burning eloquence, and after alluding to the late Mr. Morden as "pre-eminently a man," closed an affecting peroration with the words "a man beloved of us all, precious in our memory." Dr. Dyer, Rev. J. P. Wilson, and Mr. Crossley spoke in highly enlogistic terms of the life of the deceased, especially of his faithfulness in connection with the Western church. Hymn 784, "Abide with me, fast falls the eventide," was then snng, and the procession to the cemetery was formed up outside, the various representative bodies preceding the hearse, and a very long line of vehicles containing representative citizens and friends from the country following. On reaching the cemetery the burial service of the church was read, and the body of an esteemed citizen, trusted friend and loving relative, was consigned to its last resting place.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Deroche, Ruttan, English, S. C. Warner, Preston and Madden, brethren of the legal profession; Messrs. Hall and Fralick of the High School Board, of which Mr. Morden was for some time a much respected member.

Floral offerings and tributes of affection were numerous, and were tastefully arranged around the coffin in the church.

Among the gifts were: a floral pillow by the Grand Lodge of Oddfellows; an anchor, wreath, and three links, by the Sabbath School teachers; a floral heart, by Mr. Morden's Sunday School class; a floral circle, by Mr. G. F. Ruttan; a floral cross, by Mrs. Tilly; a floral pillow, by Lodge 86, Napanee; a wreath by Mrs. Chas. Stevens. Flowers and vines were also presented by Mrs. Wilkison, Jno. Gibbard, the Official Board of the church and many others.

The Western Methodist church was draped and decorated by the S. S. teachers.

The following expression of sorrow, sympathy and condolence was ordered by the regular Teachers Meeting of the Western Methodist church on Monday evening July 22nd.

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God in His wise providence, to remove by death our dear brother and fellow worker A. L. Morden Q.C., a man greatly beloved and trusted amongst us, a true and loyal son of the church, and faithful man of God. Therefore be it resolved that while we bow humbly and without complaint to the will of God in the removal of our brother, we cannot refrain from expressing our deep sorrow and sense of personal loss at his death. And we are pained because we shall see his face and hear his voice no more.

We recognize that in him we have lost a true and faithful yoke-fellow in the work of the church and Sabbath school. One who could always be depended upon and who was ever ready to help forward the cause of God in every possible way.

We shall greatly miss him in every department of Sabbath school work, his place cannot easily be filled. But we shall long remember his kind and gentle spirit, his sincere reverence for the word and house of God, and his deep and true piety. These have left an impress on our minds and hearts not soon to be forgotten.

"Peaceful be his silent slumbers
Peaceful in his grave so low,
He no more shall join our numbers
He no more our songs shall know
Yet again we hope to meet him
When the days of life are fled,
Up in heaven with joy to greet him
Where no farewell tears are shed."

To our sister and co-worker Mrs. Symington we extend our deepest and truest sympathy.

mothers and daughters and fathers and sons, that the fact of blood relation makes exchanges of courtesy, approval, encouragement and common interest obligatory. The family circle should never be a stage for the display of bad manners, ill temper and lack of self-control. One sometimes hears it said that it is the duty of the mother to create this atmosphere of sociability in the home. It is a common duty. Family life is a conglomerate, a many-sided crystal, and to be perfect it needs the contribution of good temper, good manners, and sympathy from the members in their relations towards each other and toward the family as a whole. Watch any family where there is a common intellectual interest—a family spoken of as a musical family, for instance—and see how the mutual relations differ from those of the family where each member has separate and individual interests apart from the others. Character commands as much respect from the individual members of a family as it does from the world at large.

What we need in the hurry and rush of to-day more than anything else is family life in its perfection, and that we can have only when each member of a family contributes his or her share towards its beauty, peace and intellectual development. Family life should be the social centre for each member of that family, the place where each can bring his friends with freedom, and the place where his friend will receive a ready welcome from all because of the friendship existing between him and a member of that family. While all may not be able to find the same bond of sympathy or the same common interest because the stranger is the friend of one, he should be received sympathetically by all. Life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment, but too often the family life seems to accept the two facts of food and raiment and exclude all others, and where this is done one always finds the elements of unrest, dissatisfaction, criticism and lack of sympathy.—The Outlook.

All philosophy lies in two words. "sustain" and "abstain."—Epictetus.

The world is only saved by the breath of the school children.—Talmud.

Troubles spring from idleness, and grievous toils from needless ease.—Franklin.

Love is precisely to the moral nature what the sun is to the earth.—Balzac.

Indiscretion, rashness, falsehood, levity and malice produce each other. —Lavater.

THE FARMER'S COLLEGE.

The Dairy School, which last winter had an attendance of 109 students, and the new Veterinary College, which will adjoin the Dairy School and be opened next October, are pre-eminently the farmers' colleges of Eastern Ontario. Three of the teachers in the Veterinary College are professors in Queen's University, and farmers sending their sons to this college will know that the teaching will be as good as that given to the regular students of the university. Young men intending to farm or engage in stock breeding should spend a winter or two at the Veterinary College, Kingston, so as to qualify themselves for being veterinary surgeons or for scientific stock raising and stock breeding.

Fifty years of success in curing Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Cholera, Colic, Cramps, bowel complaints of summer and fall, etc., stamp Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry as the best remedy in the market. It saves children's lives.

Minard's Liniment cures Garget in Cows

lightest ever grown in this part of the country and all the wild grass on every available marsh for miles around has been cut this season.

Notwithstanding the hard times, building operations continue lively at and around our village. William Chatson of the Chatson House is increasing his accomodations by adding a two story addition 20x24 feet to his house. Jas. Lane the popular proprietor of the Denbigh House has put up a new and attractive sign board and is effecting diverse improvements in the interior of his establishment. He also intends to build another stable this season.

C. Murlock and Chas. Anderson, of Eganville, are rushing the carpenter work of the new Lutheran parsonage which is also a two story building and will when finished add materially to the appearance of our village.

Court Cedar Lake of the I.O.F. will hold a grand picnic in John W. Lane's Grove on Thursday the 8th of August next for the success of which preparations are already being made.

Rev. C. T. Lewis, of Tweed, passed through Denbigh on Tuesday last and favored Paul Stein and family with a call.

Visitors; At James Lane's, Miss Jennie Lane, of Ottawa.

At Wm. Lane's, Mrs. James Youmans, of Sudbury.

At Marshall Storings', Mr. and Mrs. James McLaren, of Lanark.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ferr are off for a week or so to visit their friends in Prince Edward County.

Why not you. When thousands of people are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to overcome the weakness and languor which are so common at this season, why are you not doing the same? When you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla has power to cure rheumatism, dyspepsia and all diseases caused by impure blood, why do you continue to suffer? Hood's cures others, why not you?

CENTREVILLE.

The rains of Saturday and Monday have proved very beneficial to vegetation and on the whole the yield will not be so bad as was at first anticipated. Oats and peas are said to be a better crop than they were last year.

A meeting of the directors of the township fair was held here on Saturday for the purpose of arranging prize lists, appointing judges, etc. The fair will be held on Sept. 28th. In addition to the prizes mentioned on list a couple of special prizes will also be given, one trotting and one for running. Every effort will be put forth in order to make it a success

William Whelan is having his new barn painted, which adds greatly to the appearance of his premises.

A McMullen is very sick at present.

A number from here attended the circus at Kingston on the 26th.

Our fishing parties all returned safe. They brought home with them some fine specimens of the finny tribe. They also saw a large sea serpent.

The whistle of the steam thresher is once more within hearing.

Some of our young ladies take delight in travelling westward on Sunday evenings Perhaps those large boats that were on exhibition out there was an attraction for them.

We wonder what has become of Centreville West correspondent. Perhaps he has gone north again. We would caution him to be careful back there.

Our agents are both keeping quiet at present. They have had a successful season.

Several parties from here have been camping at Beaver Lake.

Women in Business.

There are few occupations in which women outnumber men. The women teachers outnumber the men nearly three to one, and the same is true of boarding house keepers. The disparity is still greater, of course, among nurses, launderers and laundresses, housekeepers and stewards, seamstresses and servants. The total number of servants in the country is 1,025,000, of whom only 237,000 are males. Women take the lead numerically in typewriting, in dressmaking, millinery, flower-making, box-making, as cotton mill operatives, in silk mills, in making corsets and buttons and hosiery.

The best advertisement. Many thousands of unsolicited letters have reached the manufacturers of Scott's Emulsion from those cured through its use, of Consumption and Scrofulous diseases! None can speak so confidently of its merits as those who have tested it.

...will be a 20-inch gun especially adapted for coast defense. This gun will show some peculiarities. It will not be built up, that is, composed of many pieces of steel bound together, but will consist of a single thin steel tube about 30 feet long, with walls not over two inches in thickness, in marked contrast with the mortars whose walls are made eight or ten inches thick in order to resist the pressure of the discharge. The recoil of the gun will be offset by hydraulic buffers underneath containing water and oil.

When the gun is fired some of this water and oil will be displaced by the shock and it will rise into the side chambers. The entrance of the water and oil into the chambers will so compress the air in them that on the cessation of the recoil the air will force the water and oil back into their buffers and the gun will again be in position for firing. On account of the simplicity of its construction and the lightness of its walls this gun will not be expensive to build.

A 20-inch gun of this type, using the new powder, could be planted at the entrance of New York harbor, either in Fort Washington or Fort Wadsworth and command the entire sea for a radius of ten miles. So uniform are the pressures and velocities obtained, says the New York World, that a wonderful accuracy of fire is possible. It would only be necessary to train the gun upon any ship sighted by the range

GEMS OF THOUGHT.

Hatred is the madness of the heart.

However disguised, wrong is always wrong.

Fidelity is seven-tenth os business success.

You can judge a man by what he laughs at.

To live the gospel is the best way of preaching it.

ARE YOU ONE OF THE UNFORTUNATES?

Are you Suffering when You Should be Well?

Paine's Celery Compound will Bestow the Health You Need.

Men and women during the heated term of summer, who have those tired, languid and despondent feelings that indicate depleted blood, and a feeble condition of the nervous system, need Paine's Celery Compound, that remarkable nerve strengthener and flesh builder now so generally prescribed by the best physicians.

Sick headaches, nervous prostration, irritability, languor, sleeplesness, and a general feeling of mental and physical depression are prevalent and common in the hot weather. Life is made miserable, and thousands suffer intense agony.

Paine's Celery Compound quickly and surely repairs the wasted, worn-out, nervous tissues, calms and regulates nervous action, and brings that sweet rest and refreshing sleep that makes recovery easy and quick.

Men and women all over Canada are regularly using Paine's Celery Compound for renewing their systems and storing the nerve centres with strength and energy. The medicine that in the past has done such grand work for others, is certainly what you should use. Paine's Celery Compound cures positively and permanently.

The Dominion Bank

ESTABLISHED 1871.

CAPITAL — $1,500,000.00
RESERVE FUND — $1,450,000.00

Deposits received and interest allowed.
Drafts on all parts of Great Britain and United States bought and sold.

E. H. BAINES, Agent.

GRAND TRUNK
RAILWAY

Home Seekers' Excursion to Manitoba.

June 25, July 9 and 23

Good to Return in 60 days.

Deloraine, Reston, Estevan, Binscarth, Moosomin $28
Regina, Moosejaw, and Yorkton .. $30
Prince Albert and Calgarry $35
Red Deer and Edmonton $40

For Tickets apply to

J. L. BOYES.
Agent, Napanee.

IRISH AND SCOTCH WHISKY.

For sale by the undersigned the following well known brands of Irish and Scotch whiskey :-

Bushneills ..... Irish
James Watson & Co. ..... "
Henry Thomson & Co. ..... "
Mitchell & Bro. ..... "
Burke & Co. ..... "
J. Brown & Co. ..... "

Bernard & Co. Encore ..... Scotch
Watson's, 3 Star ..... "
Dewar's, Extra Special ..... "
Usher's, O.V.G. ..... "
Sheriff's ..... "
Claymore ..... "
B. Lade & Co. ..... "
Mitchell Bro. ..... "
Glengowan ..... "

M. W. PRUYN & SON,

Napanee, 12th Dec. 1894.

Consumption.

Valuable treatise and two bottles of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. T. A. SLOCUM CHEMICAL CO., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

DR. FOWLER'S EXT. OF WILD STRAWBERRY

CURES
COLIC,
CRAMPS,
CHOLERA,
DIARRHOEA,
DYSENTERY,
CHOLERA MORBUS,
CHOLERA INFANTUM

and all Summer Complaints and Fluxes of the Bowels. It is safe and reliable for Children or Adults.

For Sale by all Dealers.

Scott's Sarsaparilla

I WAS SUBJECT to frequent attacks of nervousness that seemed to sap all my vitality and left me in a state of weakness and misery. I could not relish food and such a thing as a good night's rest was unknown. Incapable of any exertion and with an ever present tired and despondent feeling life seemed hardly worth the living. Medicines that I took did not do any good; it was a case thousands more for just such work than would be necessary under a proper tender system.

BUILDS UP

Mr. Haggart, as Minister of Railways, explained that all such money was expended upon an Order-in-Council, which of course means that it was given to the favorite Government organs and was divided between Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec, the chief organs in those Provinces being thus liberally subsidised in this round about way, and the people paying the shot. The jobs thus handed out, ostensibly for this railway work alone, amounted last year to nearly a round fifty thousand dollars. The Halifax Herald is the principal government organ in the maritime Provinces, and, as usual, it got the lion's share. No party job has been too bad for it to defend. We never knew that it made a wry face in swallowing the worst of these cases. Its share of this favorite work last year amounted to $6,111. The Yarmouth Times, a small town weekly, published in the remote corner of the province, got $1.173. But then, it did all that it could to prevent the election of Mr. Flint, who has been a strong government opponent.

* * *

The two favorites among the New Brunswick organs have been the St. John Sun, which received $10, 292 and the Moncton Times $14,473. The counties in which both these papers are published are represented in the Commons by staunch supporters of the Government, and of course the Sun and the Times are faithful supporters of these gentlemen.

Quebec does not fare so well. Its papers have claims that are not overlooked by those who have access to the public purse, but their pap comes from other directions than through Intercolonial railway printing. The Quebec Chronicle got $2,306 in this direction.

These are not the only journals, however, who get good advantages from that railway source. Pap was scattered with a liberal hand for some years by those who had the giving out of these railway jobs. We remember one little patent first side weekly, published a hundred miles from Halifax station, and many miles from any railway at all, that received regular Government pay for publishing the Intercolonial time-table of Halifax station. Other out-of-the-way sheets were similarly favored. Of course they all were reliable advocates of "the old policy." They realized there were substantial advantages—to them, at least—in it.

* * *

Here are some interesting facts, gleaned from the Auditor-General's reports, regarding the pap given to newspaper favorites of the Government during the last eight years. They, in part, account for the fact that the Finance Minister finds it impossible any more to "restore an equilibrium" between public receipts and public expenditure. They also serve to account for the fact that certain newspapers are convinced at all times and in all seasons that "the country is prosperous" and that "the old policy" is just the one needed to ensure prosperity. Of course they have their own personal experience to convince them of all this. It is doubtful if these same organs would prove so "prosperous" under any other "policy."

The total sums paid newspapers for printing and advertising were as follows; In 1887, $303,199.09. In 1888, $326,928.74; in 1889, $243,716.84; in 1890, $182,447.25; in 1891, $275,821.11 in 1892, $236,975.20 ; in 1893, $231,-939.97; in 1894, $269,626.20. Totals for 8 years, $2,070,654.80. Average per year, $258,832.

All this, too, in the face of the fact that an Official Gazette, for the publication of all important Government notices is published weekly, at a very large public expense and that a Government printing office has been estab-

BRITAIN'S NEW PREMIER.

Lord Saulsbury's Third Call to Office as Prime Minister—The Head of the Cecil Family.

Lord Salisbury's summons from Queen Victoria to form a new Ministry to succeed that of Lord Rosebery, makes him for the third time Prime Minister of Great Britain. He succeeded Gladstone in June, 1885, but was turned out of office in February, 1886. Gladstone had a very brief season of power, for the faction now known as the Liberal-Unionists deserted him, and Salisbury became Premier again in August. Salisbury's second Ministry lasted until August, 1892. He carried on a vigorous foreign policy and opposed Home Rule. Three years ago the Irish issue became too much for him, and Gladstone exchanged places with him once more. Cataract proved too much for the Grand Old Man, and he resigned office in March, 1894. Lord Rosebery succeeded him, but has not had what could be called a very good time. Rosebery's Administration has not been remarkable for any settled policy; it has been on the retreat most of the time, and it was probably with relief that its leader resigned office on June 22.

Robert Arthur Talbot Gascoyne Cecil, Marquis of Salisbury, is the head of the old historic family of Cecil. Queen Elizabeth's Lord Burley belonged to this family. One of the Cecil characteristics is a bitter tongue, and Lord Salisbury possesses it. He was a younger son, and began life as a colonist beneath the Southern Cross. Then his elder brother died, and his plans of life were changed. He assumed the title of Lord Cranborne, took a prominent part in Parliament as a debater, became a member of several Cabinets, entered the House of Lords on the death of his father, and when Disraeli died became leader of the Conservatives. He is strong and domineering and there is nothing of the trickster in his nature.

Trees and Health.

It has been noted that the first settlers in heavily-wooded sections of the country have generally been healthy, despite their many privations. The reason for this is that trees and plants of all kinds possess the power of absorbing poisoned air from decaying vegetation, besides which the exhalations from evergreens and the smoke from burning resinous woods are noted for the relief they give to those suffering from pulmonary diseases.

New heavily-wooded countries, as already noted, are the most healthy for settlers, and they continue so for some years, as only a small portion of the forest can be cleared away each year. After the forest is removed and sunlight is admitted, the soil fills rapidly with vegetable mold, which decomposes more rapidly than it can be absorbed by the scant vegetation, and as a result the atmosphere is rendered impure and malaria becomes a common complaint. In view of these facts, people are beginning to understand the value of trees as disease absorbing and health-giving agents. Naturally, this leads to the question as to what trees are best for protection against disease.

On Long Island and in New Jersey there are localities surrounded and hemmed in with pitch pines, which are famed for their curative qualities in consumption, and the pines are thus indicated as valuable surroundings in pulmonary complaints. It would seem reasonable to suppose that trees having the largest leaves and the most of them would be the best for this purpose, as such trees would undoubtedly have the most absorbing power. We have seen the eucalyptus tree mentioned as of special value as a purifier of the atmosphere.

Linen for Liners.

There are no laundries on board ship; they take up too much room. So the chief steward lays in thousands of pillow slips, sheets and towels. These come on board tied up in bales of a dozen each, and are stored in the linen locker, a cubbyhole of a place, on the main deck; the ventilator pipes from the engine room run through it and keep it hot.

There is no danger of linen getting mildewed there. The linen which has been used is thrown into another room provided with the same atmosphere, and is kept thoroughly dry. Where

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING.

The Salina (Kan.) girl who telegraphed invitations to her wedding, knows what to do with a bird in the hand when she gets him.

Emily Faithful combined her work for the cause of women with a love for strong cigars, of which she was an inveterate smoker. She took to tobacco at first to relieve her asthma.

The fact that 62 literary women sat down to dinner together in London recently is viewed by a leader writer for an English daily as ominous and portentous to the future of man in literature.

Little Flossie Siosoco, the 8-year-old daughter of the turnpike superintendent of Yonkers, who saved the life of the infant son of Millionaire Doolittle last month, by pushing him off the railroad track, where he had wandered while his nurse was shopping, has just received the odd reward she asked for. It consists of a white pony, a white goat, a white dog, a white rat and a white mouse.

The Princess Maud has lately appeared in Battersea Park mounted on a balloon-tired "safety." The Duchess of Connaught, being yet a learner, prefers to take her daily practice for the present in the secluded walks of Buckingham Palace gardens. Meanwhile the Marchioness of Londonderry, Lady Brassey and the Princess Henry of Pless rank among the most graceful and expert of riders.

Alphonse Daudet was not complimentary in his references to Englishwomen. "Not only is she not handsome in features," he says, "but there is nothing seductive in her physical form, and, moreover, she is an utter stranger to elegance and good taste. The Englishwoman whom you encounter in Paris, with her flattened-down hair and huge feet, differs in no single particular from the English lady of rank whom you meet in salons, on the turf and at the play. It gave me a real thrill of pleasure on reaching Paris to behold our pretty Parisiennes, with their fascinating toilets."

THE BRIDAL GARTERS.

Good Luck in Matrimony Follows the Girl Who Makes Them.

At all times garters have been considered very important details of woman's dress, and always associated in some manner with matrimony. Down through half a dozen centuries comes to us the custom practised to-day of having the garters as a finishing touch to a bride's toilet. The particular girl friend who is permitted to slip them into place is considered to stand the best possible chance of wedding happily before twelve months are out.

A prospect of near and blissful matrimony is also shared by the friend who secures the privilege of making a bride's garters, the proper pattern for which is now a circle of white silk elastic covered with embroidered white satin and clasped by a small gold buckle enamelled in white bow knots. The garters of Marie Antoinette were pretty pink silk bands elaborately embroidered on the upper half in tiny jewels and gold thread. In an American family are preserved the bridal garters of a titled English ancestress. These are of white silk, nearly two inches broad, and decorated with round buttons made of seed pearls, from which suspend pearl cords and tassels two inches long.—Philadelphia Times.

BADGES OF MATRIMONY.

American Women are the Only Ones Who do not Wear Distinctive Insignia.

Americans are the only women in the world who do not exhibit some sign of matrimony. Of course, those who follow in the wake of European etiquette would not appear with their daughters wearing a hat without strings, but the universal American woman buys what she likes, regardless of whether it be matronly or not, and, what is worse, her daughters will select articles of dress only suitable to married women.

In no other country is this the case. Among the Germans the badge of married woman consists of a little cap or hood of which they are very proud, and "donning the cap" is the wedding day ceremony. Brigh-took did not do any good; it was a case of gradually becoming weaker and weaker. Hearing of Scott's Sarsaparilla and its success with similar cases to mine, I used it, and from the first few doses began to get better, appetite returned, got natural and refreshing sleep. I grew stronger, in fact life seemed to be fanned into activity.

WEAK WOMEN

LOTTIE GRAHAM,
174 Crawford Street,
TORONTO

SCOTT'S SKIN SOAP BEGETS CLEAR SKIN

S. E. ALLEN,
& CO.

All this month we're offering Hats for Ladies and Children at very low prices, no regard being paid to cost or value, our only object being to clear the tables entirely of Summer Goods.

50 Ladies' Hats, Trimmed, worth from $2.50 to $3.00, sold on Saturday for $1.50.

50 Children's Hats, Trimmed, for One Dollar.

Sailors in White, Black, Mixed Straw Best quality, 35 cents and 50 cents.

Children's Dresses in White and Fancy Percale, sold at half price.

Everything in Ladies' and Children's Summer Clothing goes at very little over half price.

Fancy Shirt Fronts, 50 cents, were 75 cents.

nothe lot were $1.25, now go at cents.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, AUG. 1, 1895

THE PAP-FED ORGANS

The Intercolonial railway, which extends across the Maritime Provinces, is a Dominion Government railway. That fact represents a serious loss of tens of thousands yearly to the general tax-payers, but it appears to represent a very important item of profit to favorate Goverment newspaper offices, in the matter of advertising and job printing. Recently in the House, Mr. Flint, M. P. for Yarmouth, N. S. brought up the question about how this railway printing patronage was served out. Of course it turned out that though the work amounts to thousands of dollars every year, no tenders for such printing are asked for. Of course too, all the fat jobs are served out to those papers who most strongly defend the old party and the old policy, through thick and thin. That is just the way Government pap is usually served out to the party organs, no matter which of the old parties happens to have the ladling out of the pap for the time being. That is the very reason why the tax-payers are, every year, being compelled to pay many times more than is necessary for the government printing office has been established and maintained at great public cost to do the official printing.

The people's money is being thus handed out with a lavish hand and the party organs are being thus rewarded for faithful and dutiful services rendered.

* * *

Here are the sums paid to nine favorite organs for printing and advertising during the eight years mentioned. They are specimen bricks of the whole corrupt structure:

Toronto World	$ 7,855 74
Mail and Empire	41,143 12
Montreal Gazette	44,408 24
Halifax Herald	62,603 49
Yarmouth Times	22,608 47
Quebec Chronicle	32,365 61
St. John Sun	88,036 08
Moncton Times	83,908 87
Charlottetown Examiner	12,377 56
Total for nine	$395,307 18
Average for each favorite	43,923 00

* * *

The Mail and Empire we have grounped together. The Mail was the recognized government organ during 1887, 1888 and 1889, and then during those three years got Government patronage to the amount of $26,547.16. Then came the period of its independence, when it became more popular and widely circulated than ever before, but its usefulness was gone as a party donkey-engine and its average of nearly nine thousynd a year was at once entirely cut aff,—clearly indicating how these Government jobs are given out solely in consideration of party services rendered.

The Empire was then established, and among its well known shareholders and officers were the old Chieftain, and a number of leading M.P.'s in the Government party ranks. It only got $14,595.96, or some three thousand a year, but it was a heavy drain on its Government party stock holders from start to finish, and was therefore again amalgamated with the Mail. What the two thus united, will get from the Government chest will be a matter of much interest to the tax-payers in the years to come.

The Montreal Gazette has had among its leading shareholders and editorial managers during the time thus covered two of the White family. One of them was a member of the government at the time of his death. The other is now in the front ranks of the Government supporters in the House and an expectant of a fat Government office, as soon as his services can be dispensed with there. It is well understood that the office of Collector of Customs at Montreal has been kept dangling before him for sessions past. It is the best paying office at the disposal of the Department.

How many members of the Government and their faithful supporters in Parliament both in the Commons and Senate, are stock-holders and managers in the other favorite organs we do not pretend to know. It would not surprise us, however, if the list is large.

These facts go to show how "public opinion" is being manufactured, and how much it really represents as expressed by these organs. They go to show, two, how it is our public expenditure keeps mounting up beyond the ability of the people to meet it:—Farmer's Sun.

C. C. RICHARDS & Co.

My son George has suffered with neuralgia round the heart since 1882, but by the application of MINARD'S LINIMENT in 1889 it completely disappeared and has not troubled him since.

JAS. MCKEE.

Linwood, Ont.

provided with the same atmosphere, and is kept thoroughly dry. Where there are clean napkins every day, frequent changes of stateroom linen and an everlasting replenishig of towel racks, the demands upon the linen locker are ver yevtensive.

A liner like the New Yorks puts to sea with about 9,000 serviettes, 1,000 towels, 6,000 or 7,000 sheets, 8,000 pillow slips and about 1,000 table cloths. Most of these find their way to the soiled linen locker in the course of the voyage. When the vessel arrives they are carted off to a laundry.—Tit-Bits.

Dr. Patton on the Bible.

A few ultra conservative Presbyterians are startled and alarmed at a recent utterance of Dr. Patton, who has always been looked upon as one of the most able of all the conservative leaders in the church. In speaking of the Bible he said: "The great question of our time is simply this, What is the Bible? There are two ways of dealing with this question—one is the ecclesiastical way! one is the way of scholarship. It is the prerogative of the court of last resort to say whether this or that utterance does or does not contravene our confessional statements regarding inspiration. The church in her judicial capacity cannot settle the great debate upon this question. She cannot stop it. The debate is going on and will go on, and it must be in the hands of men who have special aptitude for the work.—New York Tribune.

COOKING ON A TABLE.

The Kitchen Range can be Entirely Dispensed With Hereafter.

Electricity has worked changes as great in the kitchen as anywhere else. Below are shown two views of the latest methods of cooking. All operations of cooking except baking are performed on a moderate-sized table and the oven for baking is shown in the second cut. On the table in the first cut are an electric griddle, for which great efficiency and cleanness are claimed; frying pans and chafing dishes, a plate warmer, broilers and stewers.

COOKING ON THE TABLE.

To show the efficiency of the outfit and to prove how far-reaching the general introduction of cooking by electricity would be, a company of a dozen friends was invited to a dinner of six courses, which was cooked in the dining-room of the host by the lady of the house, with the help of a butler, the entire preparation consuming less than an hour and a half, during which time the lady found time to converse with her guests and superintend the setting of the table besides. It must certainly be admitted that while taking up very little space, and insuring absolute cleanness, this way of cooking is superior to the old way in many respects. The total absence of heat in the room where the cooking is done cannot be praised too much, as every housewife will testify with pleasure.

THE BAKE OVEN.

the wedding day as is right of certain localities.

The married women of Little Russia are always seen, even in the hottest weather, with a thick cloth of dark hue twisted about their heads. In New Guinea a young woman lets her hair hang about her shoulders, but when she is married this is cut short. Chinese matrons braid their hair like a helmet. In Wadai the wives color their lips by tattooing them with the thorns of the acacia and rubbing them with iron filings; in parts of Africa the married women perforate the outer edges of their ears and their lips and stick rows of grass stalks in them, and among a certain Mongolian tribe of people, the Manthes, the women wear suspended from their ear a little basket full of cotton, to which a spindle is attached. Thus in every country, savage and civilized, but our own, there is a sign or symbol of some kind that distinguishes the matron from the spinster.

England Has a Community of Empires.

England leads the world in acuteness in finding out the better portions of the earth that are attainable and in her enterprise and energy in possessing herself of them. She has, quietly as it were, but apparently successfully, laid the foundation for another vast empire in Africa. It extends from the Cape of Good Hope to Lake Tanganyika and is as large as all Europe. Besides he valuable gold mines there, coal and iron have also been found in large quantities, and civilization is advancing in that region as rapidly as it did in California after the gold discoveries, so it is said. England is truly a wonderful nation. In comparison with what she has done in spreading her influence throughout the world, civilizing and leaving her impress on it and accumulating wealth, the achievements of Rome are almost commonplace. What is thus said of the empire of the Caesars might also be said in like comparison of England with the other nationalities, ancient and modern. While Russia, as the most conspicuous in the number, is a vast empire and alike impressive in its area and population, it has exerted very little influence outside of its own domain; not a tithe of what England has. England is indeed a great force, morally and intellectually, in commerce and manufactures, as well as a great power considered in her geographical extensions and military prestige. The British Empire is a community of great empires, of which the latest, but by no means least interesting acquisition is, as said, the vast area, as large as Australia, seized upon by her within the last few years in Africa. A striking illustration of England's comparative commercial supremacy is found in the fact that more than two-thirds of the world's commerce through the Suez Canal is carried on under the British flag and in British bottoms. England is the great trader, the great banker, the great monopolist, the great colonizer, the great conqueror of the earth. What a picture of her colossal achievements is afforded in the mere grouping before the mind's eye of such children of her loins or brain as the United States, the Dominion of Canada, Australia, India, her new and vast African seizure, not including Egypt, and the countless islands of the sea over which floats the Cross of St. George as the sign manual of English supremacy.—Oswego Times.

Cheers for the Tail-Ender.

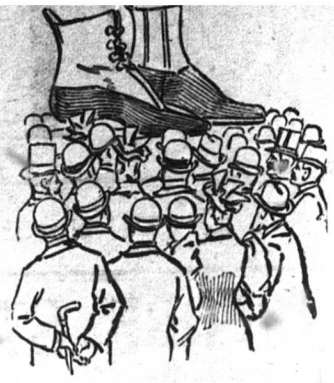
The young men who stand at the foot of their classes in the graduating exercises now in progress in all the institutions of learning in the country need not fear the ordeal, after the experience of the tailender at West Point. We are told that when the first cadet in the class went up to receive his diploma the applause was generous and hearty, but when the name of the cadet who stood at the foot of the class was called the vast audience got on its feet and fairly yelled, and the adjutant-general shook his hand warmly and complimented him on getting through successfully. Oh, no, the laggards need not despair.—Boston Herald.

Soon to be Shattered.

"I hear that you are engaged to a girl with an ideal. You are likely to find that sort of a girl pretty hard to get along with."

"Oh, I guess I am all right. You see, I am the ideal."—Cincinnati Tribune.

Our store will be closed Fridays at 12 o'clock noon during July and August.



OUR BOOTS - -

TAKE THE LEAD.

Good Solid Leather

BOOTS AND SHOES AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

HAINES & LOCKETT

NEXT DOOR TO EXPRESS OFFICE. 4 BIG SHOE STORES.

No Credit. Only One Price.

Holidays

Do You Want a Bag or Trunk for Your Summer Outing?

See Our Stock of Bags and Trunks!

Our new Boston and London Club Bags for Gentlemen are splendid value for any person wanting a real good article.

Prices: $6, $7.50, $9.50.

JAS. H. DOWNEY,

McRossie's Old Stand, South Side Dundas Street.

Cuts, Scratches, Sprains,

and all pains, external or internal, are instantly relieved by

PERRY DAVIS' Pain Killer.

This old remedy is known, used and sold everywhere. Get it and keep it by you.

THE DESERONTO NAVIGATION CO'Y

(LIMITED)

SUMMER TIME TABLE

Taking effect May 1st, 1895. Steamers will run as follows Daily, except Sunday.

STEAMER ELLA ROSS

D. B. CHRISTIE, Master.

...ston, Belleville and Deseronto to Picton to Deseronto, Belleville and OTTAWA'S TRIBUTE.

A Monument of Noble Dignity Perpetuates the Name of Sir John Macdonald.

The model for the Macdonald statue, which was unveiled at Ottawa on Dominion Day, was selected as the best work out of the 51 submitted. It is the work of Mr. Philippe Hebert, the Canadian sculptor. It possesses a noble dignity and simplicity fitting as a memorial to perpetuate the name of the deceased premier. It represents Sir John Macdonald upon a somewhat elaborate pedestal, in the attitude of one addressing a public assemblage, his eyeglasses held between the thumb and finger of the right hand, a scroll in his left hand, and at his feet a pile of books and portfolios. The great coat is thrown back slightly from the shoulders, disclosing the long double-breasted frock coat beneath. The features are a good likeness. At the foot of the pedestal is seated a female figure representing Canada with her right hand upon the shield of the Dominion and in her left a furled flag.

MACDONALD MONUMENT, OTTAWA.

GRAB BAG ASSORTMENT.

A Dozen Different Topics Lightly Touched.

Mrs. Beardsley, the mother of the ar-

BRISTOL'S PILLS

Cure Biliousness, Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Sluggish Liver and all Stomach Troubles.

BRISTOL'S PILLS

Are Purely Vegetable, elegantly Sugar-Coated, and do not gripe or sicken.

BRISTOL'S PILLS

Act gently but promptly and thoroughly. "The safest family medicine." All Druggists keep

BRISTOL'S PILLS

For a long time I suffered with Rheumatism in the Back so severely that I could not even sit straight. My wife advised a D. & L. Menthol Plaster. I tried it and was soon going about all right. S. C. HUNTER, Sweet's Corners. Price 25c.

BURDOCK BLOOD

D. B. CHRISTIE, Mas'er.

...aton, Belleville and Deseronto to Picton.

Leave	Trenton.....	1 00 P.M.
"	Belleville.. ..	3 00 "
Arrive	Deseronto.....	5 00 "
Leave	Deseronto :...	5 15 "	.....3 30 A.M.
Arrive	Picton.....	6 50 "	.....5 00 "

Picton to Deseronto, Belleville and Trenton.

Leave	Picton.....	6 00 A.M.	.....9 00 P.M.
Arrive	Deseronto	7 25 "	..... 10 30 "
Leave	Deseronto	7 30 "
"	Belleville	10 00 "
Arrive	Trenton.....	11 30 "

Calling at intermediate ports.

This Steamer makes connections at Deseronto with morning trains going East on G. T. R., East and West on C. P. R., and with night trains East and West on Grand Trunk Railway. Arrangements have been made whereby a boat will leave Picton every evening at 9 p.m. for Deseronto. This service will not in any way interfere with the regular daily service, and will prove a great convenience to commercial men and the public generally.

STEAMER DESERONTO.

WM. SKILLEN, Master.

Napanee and Deseronto to Picton.

Leave	Napanee .....6 00 A.M.
Arrive	Deseronto .....6 45 "
Leave	Deseronto .....7 00 "		.....12 30 P.M.
"	Houghs..... .....7 20 "		..... 12 50 "
"	Thompson,s Pt. 8 00 "		..... 1 30 "
Arrive	Picton..... .....8 30 "		.. ... 2 00 "

Picton and Deseronto to Napanee.

Leave	Picton.....	9 30 A. M.....	2 30 P.M.
"	Thompson's Pt.	10 05 " ...	3 00 "
"	Houghs..... ...	10 35 " : ..	3 35 "
Arrive	Deseronto	11 00 "	4 00 "
Leave	Deseronto.....	.....	5 00 "
Arrive	Napanee.....	.....	6 00 "

Close connections with G. T. R. trains for all points East and West. Call for tickets reading "via Deseronto."

ELECTRIC THIEF CATCHER.

Two Wires Baited With a Tempting Purse.

On the fifth floor of a large manufactory on the West Side of Chicago is a department employing a number of girls, who have been complaining for several months of thefts committed in their dressing room on the sixth floor while they were at work. Silk handkerchiefs, veils and money disappeared from time to time with increasing frequency, until the management began to realize that it was time steps were taken to detect the thief. As the dressing room was kept locked, the key being accessible only to those employed in the department where the losses were reported, it was decided that one of the girls using the room was rifling the pockets of the others.

Accordingly, a trustworthy girl was taken into the confidence of the management, a double wire was sewed in the lining of her cloak, connecting a spring jaw in the pocket with the two hooks on which the cloak hung. The jaws were placed in contact with one of the wires and insulated from each other by a small tongue of leather placed between them while forced apart, and this tongue was sewed to the bottom of a purse. Each of the two hooks (which were of brass) supporting the garment was held in place by a long brass screw which went through the partition and connected with a wire on the outside of the dressing room. Here the wires were carried along under a moulding, through the floor, to a single cell battery, and a bell, placed in series, were hidden in the room where the girls were at work, 50 feet away. A switch was placed in a convenient position, which broke the circuit, until the other arrangement were completed. After closing the switch the only opening in the circuit was at the spring jaws, which would be brought together by removing the purse and insulating tongue. The trap had been set but three hours when the bell rang, and the owner of the cloak hurried to the room, where the garments were kept and there found the guilty girl; and upon this evidence the girl was immediately accused and ischarged, after she had admitted her guilt.—Western Electrician.

It is proposed to build a railroad from Port Said, at the mouth of the Suez Canal, across Northern Arabia, through Persia and Beloochistan, to Kerrachee, India, a distance of 2,400 miles, at a cost of $75,000,000.

What She Lacks.

Score one for the old-fashioned woman! She has a sphere of usefulness from which the new woman is barred. She cannot ride a bicycle so well, possibly, but that is not a particularly useful accomplishment, no matter how much enjoyment there may be in it. And to offset that the old-fashioned woman has given an illustration of something she can do that is nearly as far beyond the new woman as it is beyond man.

A boy in New York fell through the opening in a fire-escape landing at the fifth floor; an old-fashioned woman was sitting on the steps below. The child caromed on the coping over the doorway and landed in the woman's lap. That saved his life, and beyond a bruise as the result of striking the coping he was unharmed.

Of course, the question immediately arises: Of what use would a man have been under such circumstances? Clearly none. He has no lap. And of what use would a new woman in bloomers have been? Just as little, and for the same reason.—Chicago Evening Post.

A Good Excuse.

When the French troops were in Mexico during the days of Maximillian a private soldier was brought before General Geningros, who was in command at Monterey.

"You are charged with having stolen the golden slipper from the foot of the Virgin in the cathedral," said the General sternly.

"I didn't steal it," replied the soldier.

"But the slipper was found in your knapsack."

"I know it was, but I didn't steal it."

"How, then, did it come in your possession?"

"The Virgin gave it to me."

"How so?"

"You know, General, how she sits there with one foot over the other, sticking out a little?"

"Well?"

"She didn't tell me to take the slipper, but she held out her foot as if she was saying, 'Take the slipper if you want it,' so I took it, more as a matter of accommodation than anything else."—Texas Siftings.

Heart Disease Relieved in 30 Minutes

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gives perfect relief in all cases of Organic or Sympathetic Heart Disease in 30 minutes, and speedily effects a cure. It is a peerless remedy for Palpitation Shortness of Breath, Smothering Spells, Pain in Left Side and all symptoms of a Diseased Heart. One dose convinces. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y

Mrs. Beardsley, the mother of the artist Aubrey Beardsley, is a gentle, old-fashioned English lady, who lives entirely for her son and his beautiful young sister. They keep house together in South Kensington, London, and his mother entertains his set with great hospitality. She is sure her son is the greatest genius of the age, but people who know him say he does not take himself so seriously, and that he is a very nice boy.

The World's Population.

The entire population of the globe is upwards of 1,400,000,000, of whom 35,214,000 die every year; 95,000 every day; 4020 every hour; 67 every minute and one and a fraction every second. On the other hand the births amount to 37,792,000 every year; 100,800 every day; 4200 every hour; 70 every minute, and one and a fraction every second.

Cats in a Tree.

Do cats often live in trees? Two cases are recorded—one recently and the other in the summer of 1891. The latter was in St. James' Park, London, when a stray cat made a nest in a tree, some forty or fifty feet from the ground, and her kittens were seen to be disporting themselves in the branches like so many squirrels.

The Shades of a Carnation.

As a flower giving greatest diversity in shades of color the carnation is perhaps unique, having flowers of a self or single color in pure white, lemon, yellow, buff, terra-cotta, pink, rose, crimson, brilliant, scarlet, red, maroon, brown, bluish-purple, gray and all intermediate shades.

Origin of an Odd Expression.

To "dance attendance" is an expression borrowed from the mediaeval custom which compelled the bride at a wedding to dance with whoever asked her. No matter how low his condition or how objectionable the person, the bride could not refuse.

The Newmarket Race Course.

At Newmarket race course there are two courses, the long and the round. The first is 4 miles and about 380 yards —i. e., 7,420 yards. The second is 6,640 yards. Childers, the swiftest horse ever known, has run the first course in seven minutes and a half, and the second in six minutes and forty seconds; which is at the rate of more than 49 feet in a second.

The Growth of a Lion.

When a young lion reaches the age of two years he is able to strangle or pull down a horse or an ox, and so he continues to grow and increase in strength till he reaches his eighth year, when he grows no more. For 20 years after his fangs and talons show no signs of decay, but after that he gradually becomes feeble, and his teeth fall him.

Australia's Strange Moths.

Australia does not possess many butterflies, but it has many varieties of moths. Wonderful creatures are some of these, which, at best, so exactly resemble a withered leaf that you would never suppose them to be anything else unless you chanced to see them move, which they are very careful not to do while you are looking or.

Dangers of Mountain Climbing.

Mountain climbing in Switzerland was attended last summer with an unusual number of accidents. Since July 1 there were 52 deaths and 13 cases of serious injury. These figures do not include four climbers who disappeared, leaving no trace behind them, and who probably have also been killed.

Australian Mining Companies.

There have been registered in England no fewer than 178 West Australian mining companies and kindred concerns. Several millions sterling of British capital have been invested in them, and the list of such undertakings is gradually increasing.

Refrigerators, ice cream freezers, garden hose, nozzles, all new goods prices right. BOYLE & SON.

Cash Saved

By ordering your Suits from DAVIS & Co. Entire new stock at bottom prices to select from.

Call and see our prices before ordering.

Davis & Co.

T. C. DAVIS. R. FORD.

BLOOD BITTERS

CURES

DYSPEPSIA, BAD BLOOD, CONSTIPATION, KIDNEY TROUBLES, HEADACHE, BILIOUSNESS.

B.B.B. unlocks all the secretions and removes all impurities from the system from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

BURDOCK PILLS act gently yet thoroughly on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

COAL

Much heat at little cost when you burn our Coal.

If you have not been a customer in the past a trial will convince you that you ought to have been.

All coal under cover and thoroughly screened before delivery.

Prices as low as good Coal can be sold, at

The Rathbun Co.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

CAN GIVE YOU A CHOICE OF 1000

Cool Tours for August

....BY....

RAIL LAKE RIVER AND OCEAN

Call upon or write to any Agent of the Company

E. McLAUGHLIN,

Summer Bargains

Croquet Sets, 4, 6, and 8 ball. Children's Waggons.
A lot of Hammocks, all new. Doll's Carriages. All Leather School Bags.
The New Unbreakable Slate. Novels for Summer Holidays.
Scribblers, 1, 2, 3, and 5c.—Our "Pen and Ink" 5c. Scribbler is a dandy.
Memorandum Books in great variety.
Footballs, Baseballs from 5c. up, Rubber Balls, &c. Dolls of all kinds. Doll's Heads.
A Lot of Purses very Cheap. Hundreds of Trinket Boxes.
Toothpicks, 2,500 for 10 cents.
Presentation Books at Cost. Japanese Parasols at Cost. Large Stock of Mouth Organs.
Wallpaper and Borders to match. A few fine Accordeons.
New Fancy Notepaper and Envelopes, in boxes, five different and delicate tints.

The Pollard Company

EXPRESS BOOKSTORE, NAPANEE.

LOSS OF FLESH

is weakening. You cannot afford to fall below your healthy weight. If you will take Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda when your friends first tell you you are getting thin, you will quickly restore your healthy weight and may thereby prevent serious illness.

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce a day of Scott's Emulsion. This seems extraordinary; but it is absolutely true.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!

Scott & Bowne, Belleville. 50c. and $1.

I CURE FITS!

Valuable treatise and bottle of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. H. G. ROOT, M.C., 186 West Adelaide Street, Toronto, Ont.

DON'T FOOL

With a cough, cold or sore throat. Use a remedy that relieves from the start, soothes and heals the inflamed tissues of the larynx or bronchial tubes.

PYNY-PECTORAL

is a certain remedy based on a clear knowledge of the diseases it was created to cure.

LARGE BOTTLE 25 CENTS.

STOP WEARING A TRUSS

CHAPTER XIV.

A LOAN CALLED IN.

Russell's campaign had cost Gilbert Ray quite a sum of money, but he did not take the result hardly. On the contrary he declared that he had had fun enough out of the affair to more than compensate him. And he proceeded to get as much more as he could by making game of Russell, who was exceedingly sensitive on the subject.

Motor stock was booming by this time, and Russell could have considered himself a rich man, except that his interest was a mere loan payable to Deering, the inventor, on demand. This fact was known only to the two parties to the agreement, and so Russell could take what comfort he could get out of the knowledge that he was generally supposed to be on the highway to prosperity. In reality it made his position doubly dangerous. Living constantly beyond his means, he now saw himself surrounded by opportunities for borrowing. His personal note was considered good by those who knew—or thought they knew—his connection with the Motor Company.

Deering remained a mystery to Russell. In their conversations, which were not frequent, the inventor expressed no gratitude for what Russell had done in developing the motor. He seemed to think that all the credit was due to the machine, and to be continually suspicious lest justice might not be done to this creature of wheels and pinions. Russell believed more than once that the inventor was on the point of claiming possession for some violation of the honesty contract. It would have been useless to resist such a claim, for the two years during which their agreement was to run were now drawing rapidly toward their end.

Reflecting upon the approach of that time, Russell became more deeply despondent than ever. He could form no plans. He had made no valuable connections except his acquaintance with Ray, and he was resolved not to seek any more favors at his hands. To suppose he was never tempted to end his financial troubles by seeking a marriage with Alice Ray, who was rich in her own right without regard to her father's millions, would be to imagine a better man than Russell. He was surrounded by men who would have regarded such an alliance as the last possibility in the way of good fortune, who thought of marrying for money as a business against which nothing could be said except that it was difficult. But Russell had never ceased

It has appeared to some men that an attempt to turn over a new leaf was a signal never neglected by the spirit of malevolence. Russell had often experienced this sensation. And now, when he had hope that the time allowed him, though short, would suffice to enable him at least to free himself from pecuniary obligations, came the crowning misfortune of all. Deering demanded the invention. He accused Russell of certain manipulations of the stock for which, in reality, Ray was responsible. Deering said that such operations would ruin the company, and he intimated that such was the intention, in order that the interest which would soon revert to him might be cheaply purchased.

In vain Russell endeavored to show him the true state of the case. The man was as hard as a cast-steel pinion in his own machine.

DEERING DEMANDED THE INVENTION.

He would take the matter into the courts. Russell had no heart for such a contest. He promised that in a week's time he would deliver over all his title and his books, and with this promise Deering grumblingly consented to be satisfied.

And so Russell was brought face to face with his destiny. If it had come naturally at the time which he had kept in mind, he might have met it with resignation, but this hurry of fate seemed like a personal injury, and it embittered him. In this emergency his mind turned to Alice, and gently as he had often thought of her in their last days when his better impulses were awakened, and all seemed traceable to her, but in a way of which he was inwardly ashamed. He thought of her as a means of escape from his troubles. He withdrew into a wretched corner of his own soul, and counted her money, like a miser who knows the love of it to be a sin, but can not shake himself free of it. Death had removed his obligation to his friend. He fixed his eyes upon this little myth and did not see the great falsity of his position when he should offer a love that was half covetousness.

A thousand sophistries rose to his aid, and helped him overthrow the weakness of his resolution. He had loved her for herself; he would strive all his life to make her happy; if she loved him what did the motive of his proposal matter?

counterfeited the emotion which I am now struggling to suppress. I should have met, no doubt, the contempt which I deserved, but which I hope to escape by asking you no more than to bid me a fair good-bye, and to think of me as trying to deserve the very small share in your kindly remembrance which is all I dare to hope for."

Alice had preserved the semblance of composure during most of this conversation, but there is something in the word good-bye which strikes straight at a woman's heart, if she loves. And Alice loved Russell. There will be no mystery with the reader on that point. She saw the serious purpose in his looks, and the tears blinded her eyes. She sank into a chair and covered her face. Russell saw the sign, and he was overwhelmed with consternation.

"I am a brute to have grieved you so," he exclaimed. "I was a madman to have come here at all, bringing my miserable story of weakness and irresolution to your ears."

He began to pace the room, but as he approached the door, she looked up, hastily crying: "Oh, please, not yet; I have much more to say."

"Alice, what do these tears mean? Is it possible that you have thrown away your heart upon so poor a creature as I am?"

"Don't talk so of yourself. It is possible. It has been true I can't say how long, and I thought—"

Russell groaned aloud.

"If there were any possible atonement, but what can I do? I could promise a hundred reformations. I could picture a dozen ways of life in every one of which I should certainly fail."

"My father does not think so of you. What have you done to make you so hopeless of yourself?"

"For two years I have led a life wholly artificial, which, as I look back upon it, seems to have contained no act that was better than half-honest. Part of it, I admit, has been up to the standard of the ethics of business, and when I say that another part has fallen below that standard, I use language which could hardly be stronger. There is this that I may say: I have so arranged my affairs that I can right every financial wrong that I have done, but I shall have nothing left. The two sides of the account balance with an accuracy that is little short of miraculous. But when I have done that, I shall have nothing—certainly, I shall have neither courage nor opportunity to begin any life but the dullest of salaried drudgery."

"My father—"

"Has already been too kind. I could not permit him to help me. Come, Alice, say good-bye. The time has come."

"William Russell, I have confessed to you the most intimate secret of a woman's heart, If you now tell me that your poverty must

By a new device recently patented in U. S. and Canada by CHAS. CLUTHE

ESTABLISHED 1871

RUPTURE CAN BE CURED

WITH NO INCONVENIENCE

WITHOUT A TRUSS

CHEAP BY MAIL

Your name to us means comfort to you. A Post Card will do it.

Age of person or case immaterial

CHAS. CLUTHE
134 KING ST. WEST
TORONTO - - - - CANADA

Robert Light

Manufacturer and Dealer in

Rough and Dressed Lumber

Screen Doors,
Mouldings,
Bee Hives,
Stairs, Blinds,
Turned Work,
Wood Drapery,
Sash,
and Interior Finish for Buildings.

NAPANEE . . ONT

M. STORMS,
MOSCOW

has been over fifty years in the undertaking business in the county, and can turn out work equal to any in the Dominion.

A large stock of Coffins, Caskets, Robes, Crape Gloves and Badges, constantly on hand, and sold at reasonable prices.

Embalming a Specialty. Every facility on hand for doing the work.

25 per cent cheaper than any in the trade. Give me a call at Moscow.

M. STORMS, Prop.

Carscallen & Bro.,

Low Priced, No Combination

Undertaking Establishment.

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of all the latest designs to be found in which we are prepared to sell 25 per cent. cheaper than any house in the county. We use the best deodorizer, thus obviating all unpleasant odors. Embalming a Specialty. Having purchased one of the Handsomest Hearses at the Toronto exhibition we are prepared to attend personally funerals in the most satisfactory manner. The public will do well to call and examine our stock, and be convinced that ours is the place to buy.

COFFINS, CASKETS, ROBES, Etc.

We have also added a full line of the newest things in Wall Paper, Ceiling Decorations, Window Shades and Picture Railing, Paints and Oils Paint Mixed. Persons wanting anything in this line will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere. Remember the place, Centre-street one block south of Main which nothing could be said except that it was difficult. But Russell had never ceased to regard such a thought as a treachery to his friend. He could not help thinking now and then that Alice had improved wonderfully during the two years since Brown went away. She had developed more rapidly than even the man who loved her could have hoped. "If Brown attributes any part of that to me," thought Russell, "he will overwhelm me with mistaken gratitude."

In the last days of winter, when such thoughts as these were often in Russell's mind, there came to him a startling piece of news. He took a morning paper from his desk one dry with no intention of reading it; he was thinking only to lay it aside and make room for something else. But as he held it in his hand a dispatch not four lines long seemed to stare at him out of the page more conspicuously than all the large type and screaming headlines. It announced that Walter Brown, in the employ of the——company which had been engaged in operations in Central Africa, had died of fever in Cape Town on his way home.

Within an hour, and before Russell had fairly come to realize what he had read a man who had known Brown well came in to tell the news. He, too, had seen the item. They spoke together kindly of the dead, and in a moment Russell was left alone. He was sincerely grieved. In thinking of the character of Brown as he had often done since their memorable conversation, he had come to have a higher appreciation of his genuine good qualities than he had ever felt when they were together. He had looked forward with pleasant anticipations to Brown's return, in spite of the thoughts that would come when the face of Alice entered into such fancies.

EVIDENTLY IT WAS HIS DUTY TO CARRY THE NEWS TO HER.

Evidently it was his duty now to carry the news to her. He closed his desk, and took a train up-town at once. The unusual hour and the serious look in Russell's face alarmed Alice at once. She feared that some mishap had befallen her father. When she learned the truth, she expressed great sorrow and spoke with deep feeling of her high opinion of the man whose career had been cut off so suddenly. But there was something in her words which made Russell's heart beat strangely. Surely not thus would she have heard what he had told her if she had ever loved or could have loved his friend.

The following days brought no new facts regarding the death of Brown, except a general confirmation of the report. There was no ground for hope, and Russell reflected sadly that he had lost a friend in the hour of his utmost need.

For all things were not well with him. He had been making a strong effort to stem the tide, and could make some headway, but the time was short, and the debts which must be met were heavy and pressing. However, he had had a good fortune in one or two investments recommended by Ray, and with care might hope to make an even showing in his personal accounts before long. But after that, what? He did not know; and, if the truth must be told, at times he did not care. Yet now and then the life he had been leading, with its luxury and leisure, would take hold upon him. True, he had found little satisfaction in it, but could he not do better with a longer opportunity? He shuddered to think of a return to the monotonous existence he had led two years before, and yet, in all his pondering on the problem which confronted him, he was conscious of a feeling that all things were uniting to push him back into the old way. At such times he would remember the wish he had made to borrow this luxurious life for two years, and the thought that he should be ready to deliver it up when the time expired. Had that wish been granted, and was the creditor, fate, to call him to a speedy account? He hoped he might be ready to meet the de-make her happy; if she loved him what did the motive of his proposal matter? Thus he reasoned, but in reality a fear of poverty was stronger than love; his steps were urged by cowardice when he turned them toward her. Well, it was not the first time that the little winged god had had to stop his ears to shut out the jingle of gold.

CHAPTER XV.

LOVE'S WORD IS LAW.

When Russell stood in the presence of Alice Ray the various sophistries by which he had persuaded himself that he had a right to ask her to be his wife, took their proper shapes like so many hideous genii at the touch of the good enchantress in the old stories of the East. He saw that they were hollow and false; he saw himself, too, for what he was.

There was an honest vein of romance in his nature. He had often dreamed—without the hope of realization, as the blind dream of seeing—that he should some day stand before a woman he could love, offering her the services of his life, the love of his whole heart, and asking in return what all men hope to win but few deserve. The hour for such pleading had come; and Alice—he had never framed a fancy half so worthy. And yet how different was the scene from all that he had pictured. He shuddered at the thought of offering his wretched heart to her.

A woman seldom lacks a premonition when a moment such as this has come. Alice saw Russell stand staring at her without speaking; she marked the intensity of his gaze and the pallid excitement in his face. She was much disturbed, and yet she waited for his words with an appearance of calmness.

"Alice," said he, "the life I have been leading fills me with disgust. I want to change it for something better."

"I hope, in deed, you may," said Alice, "if it has failed to satisfy you."

"It has failed in a hundred ways," he replied. "It has failed to give me peace of mind or liberty. I have been the slave to it. It has failed of any good object except one, which I now see was far too high—was never to be reached by any path that I have found."

"Get into the better path at once, then," said she, smiling. And then gravely: "I think, perhaps, you have not been in the right road during the last year. Forgive my saying so; we have been—we are—very good friends, and it has given me pain to see that you have been unhappy. I have seen far less of you than formerly, but it has been enough to show me that you were careworn and weary. A great many young men grow old very fast in these days, and I have feared that you would be one of them."

"I feel as if I were old. Perhaps it is because I have lived two lives already, and have made failures of them both. You know that before I met you I had for seven or eight years lead the most monotonous existence ever endured by mortal man, outside a prison. I thought that there was happiness in blind routine, but one day I awoke to find that it was misery. Then, in a wild determination, I threw myself into a life, of the most restless activity. That has burned itself out, and I hardly know what remains."

"There remains the middle path," said Alice. "Many wise men have thought it the best."

"I fear I can not walk in it," said Russell, sadly. "It requires caution which I have lately thrown away, and a faculty of rationally hoping, which I do not think I ever possessed. Moreover, the middle path in these days can hardly be said to exist. It is overgrown, because so few travel in it. If I give up my present life, I must go back to poverty, and that means isolation."

"It means no isolation as far as we are concerned," said Alice, warmly. "Whatever life you choose our doors will be always open to you."

"Alice, they must be forever closed to me. The reason, I will not insult your intelligence by pretending to conceal. You read it in my face, as I can read the knowledge of it in yours. I love you; and you know it: and you also know a thousand reasons why I should not say it."

"I know not one," said Alice, in a voice that struggled to be calm, "if it be true."

"It is all the truth I know. It has been the one cidar certainty in a myriad of chimeras. It has been the influence that has kept the little good in me alive to fight its lost battle with the evil. If I had not loved you, I should have come here to-day and asked you in set phrases to be my wife. I should have separate us because I am rich, you do me a deep injustice. If your past has not been all it should, I, at least, have confidence in your future, and I am willing to wait till it develops what I know lies in it."

HE TOOK HER TENDERLY IN HIS ARMS.

Russell was only a man, and rather a weak one after all, as has appeared. He was not proof against the beauty and the love of this sweet girl. He took her in his arms with a tenderness that reverence exacted of passion, and kissed away her tears, though he did not confine his attention wholly to the source of them.

"I dare not ask you to wait;" said he, releasing her, at last; "I can not find a hope to share with you. I can plead no more than my most deep sincerity. I can promise only such endeavor as my weakness has often made to fail, though never with such inspiration as has come to me in your love."

CHAPTER XVI.

THE END OF BORROWED YEARS.

It was May again. Russell had spent some days in putting his affairs in order. And now he had paid his last loan, and had come to the end of such business as had occupied him. He had no prospects; no money; nothing to do. He found himself by chance at noon upon the very spot where he had stood, and thought for the first time that a life of activity in the pursuit of money might have some interest. He had tried it. The two years he had asked for had been granted him, and they were ended. It was the twelth of May.

He had taken from the interview with Alice some fresh hopes, which had all faded now. Courage to renew the battle would not come at his call. He even meditated ending it by his own hand, as he had thought of doing two years before. As to his love he was filled with the insane idea that that, too, had been lent to him and had gone, with the years, beyond recall.

He stood in a doorway, looking out upon Wall street, but seeing nothing of the hurrying throng, until at last he was conscious that one face, not moving like the others but standing immovably, was growing clear upon his vision out of the general confusion. He looked again; it was the face of Walter Brown.

There could be no doubt about it; the wanderer had returned—returned from the grave it almost seemed, for months had passed since Russell had believed him dead. Yet there he stood talking with an acquaintance whom he had stopped at the edge of the pavement.

"I can not meet him; I can not look him in the face," murmured Russell, and he turned hastily to lose himself in the crowd. He nearly ran into the arms of Gilbert Ray.

"Hold on my boy," said the man of millions, grasping Russell's arm. "I haven't had a talk with you in many a day, and I've got something almighty important to say. Come to my office at once."

He dragged Russell away in spite of all resistance.

"In the blues again, I see," said Ray, as soon as they were seated in the office. "Well, so are your friends when they view your conduct. What did you mean by letting that lunatic, Deering, cut you out of every thing in that way? I know what you'll say. The invention was his; you deceived me—and all that. Of course you did, and mighty shrewdly too. I don't care a cent about that. I've more than got my money back out of the motor already, and I'd have had a million for us two if that fool hadn't stepped in to ruin his own prospects and yours. For, mind you, although his machine is a good thing, it can't sell itself; and he is such an uncommonly queer sort of fellow that he never can do any thing with it. I'm done, of course, as soon as you step out, and the consequence is that Deering will be just where he started from in no time."

"I am sorry for it," said Russell; "he is an honest man and has a home of which anybody could be proud. I have seen him in it."

"Well, that's neither here nor there," continued Ray. "I've heard about your squar-

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR 25 CTS.
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

Keep Minard's Liniment in the House

THAT ACHING HEAD.

What Causes It and How Overcome.

How often the remark, "Oh, my head aches," and there are so many varieties of aches and pains the head is subject to all along the line from the dull and heavy and oppressed feeling over the eyes to the persistent, racking and torturing misery of Sick Headache. The cause is in most cases the same, the overflow of poisonous uric acid is not extracted from the blood by the Kidneys, and accumulating in the blood, causes high and irregular pulse, headaches, mental depression and nausea. Chase's K. & L. Pills tone and restore the Kidneys, excrete poisonous matter from the blood, sending it on its way pure and health-giving, curing Headache, and removing all the attending symptoms from its wake. Mrs. G. Bird, Harriston, Ont., while attending the 1894 Fall Exhibition at Toronto, was taken very ill with Sick Headache and dizziness. She was subject to these attacks for years, compelling her to take to her bed. In this case by using Chase's Pills relief was immediately obtained, and the usual days of misery and prostration avoided. Thousands of such cases can be referred to where Chase's Pills have cured Sick Headache and its attendant symptoms. 25 cents a box, of all dealers, or by addressing Edmanson, Bates & Co., 45 Lombard St., Toronto.

"RUSSELL, HERE'S MY CHECK."

ing up accounts and putting every dollar you've got into your debts. Now, that sort of thing I really can't approve of. If it should spread, it would ruin the street. But, that's not to be feared, although I know the malady's contagious. I knew it, because I've caught it myself. There's a little debt, almost thirty years old, which I'm going to pay to-day. Do you remember your father?"

"My father, said Russell, startled by the question. "I can scarcely say I do. He died when I was a little boy."

"Well, I remember him. I knew him here in this city. He was a good man, but not too sharp in business. He had accumulated some money, but he lost most of it at the last."

"I knew that," said Russell; "I felt the effects of it during my boyhood. What he left sufficed only for my bringing-up, and for such education as I have."

"Did you—that is, you didn't actually want for anything?" asked Ray, moving uneasily in his chair, while he regarded the young man anxiously.

"No; I had food, and clothes, and shelter. The things I wanted no money could supply. They were ideals, far too high for me."

Ray seemed relieved.

"The truth is," said he, "that if your father hadn't known me, he might have kept his money. Now don't be alarmed; I didn't exactly rob him. We were on opposite sides of a little business affair. One of us had to go down, I was going up, just at that time; persistently going up and nothing could stop me. He had a strong tendency in the other direction. Perhaps some of my methods at that time were a little—well, not what so vigorous a moralist as you would approve of. I have thought of that affair once or twice myself, and not just easily, though it was all in the game."

"I don't understand you," said Russell coldly.

"Don't, my dear boy, don't use that tone of voice. It makes me feel badly. I'm glad I decided to do this thing."

"What is it?"

"Why, you see, the amount your father lost in that little deal with me was about $12,000. I've kept the account, and I'd of[ten] glad it in my mind to look you up before [I] threw you in my way. I was glad to [see] you—doubly glad when I found [out] how mellow you were; trebly glad [to] know how you and Alice were getting

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

Fly nets for horses are a profitable investment to the farmer.

There is no excuse for keeping poor fowls, when a good flock can be secured at a small outlay.

Growing a mass of fat in the shortest time possible is not all that is necessary to make a pig profitable.

Wrap every fowl for a private customer in a pure white napkin and let the buyer remove it and return it with the pay.

It is reported that at recent sales in Kentucky of standard-bred horses and Jersey cows, the cows averaged $5 more per head than the horses.

When the hot sun pours down by and by on the pasture think how pleasant a little shade will be for the flock. A few spreading trees or a few rough sheds for the sheep to shelter under will be a relief to them under their heavy woollen coats. These little things go a great way to insure success with the flock.

In grazing or feeding sheep, the shepherd should always remember that variety is essential to the highest success. Sheep are fastidious enough to tire of long grazing in the same field on one kind of herbage, or feeding at the rack or trough on a single variety of grain or hay. Variety in grazing and feeding is health to the flock and profit to the owner.

In estimating the cost of feeding a flock, either on dry food or pasture, the rule may be taken that the sheep will live as well as may be desired on one-third less food in proportion to live weight as any other animal. Thus, if a cow or steer needs 30 pounds of food daily for its subsistence for 1,000 pounds live weight, the same weight of sheep may be sufficiently fed on 20 younds of food. This is one of the reasons why sheep are the most profitable of all the domestic animals.

It is believed by some persons that a young animal may be starved and stunted by insufficient feeding, but later will make up for this loss by better feeding and care. This is wholly contrary to science and fact, if not to reason and common sense. The condition of any young animal is like time—what is lost can never be regained afterwards. Then it is the business of the shepherd to push on the lambs from the day they come into the world, first through the ewe, and then by direct feeding.

In these days, when horses are cheaper than they have ever before been known, it is not the original cost of working teams, but the burden of keeping them, that makes the hardest problem for the farmer. It is, indeed, now a stronger temptation than ever to provide too little team help, for if the horses cost less originally there is greater difficulty in disposing of them when their use lessens. Little as they may cost, no one likes to give away his teams when for months there may be no use for them, nor does it pay to kill them, as did Mayor Pingree ofDetroit, last fall, when he found in the city stables a number of horses used during the summer, but not worth the cost of keeping through the winter.

An Egg and a Cannon Ball.

A certain magician held up before his audience an egg and a cannon ball, and after expatiating on the strength of a perfect arch, and, still more, of a perfect dome, remarked that few people know how strong an egg is.

In proof of that, he said that he purposed placing the egg, without covering of any kind, in such a position that no one could break it with the cannon ball. The accompanying il-

SMASH THE EGG WITH THE CANNON BALL.

He Believed in the Game.

She—Do you believe in football for ladies?

He—Yes, indeed I do.

She—Then you're a new man, I suppose?

He—No; I'm a surgeon.

For Contempt of Court.

Opposite the stage station and hotel was a shanty with a sign of "Jale" over the door, and I strolled over there and asked of a man sitting at the door and smoking a pipe:

"Can I take it that this is the County Jail?"

"You kin, sir," he promptly replied.

"Not much of a jail."

"No, sir; but it's a new county, you know."

"Any prisoners inside?"

"No, sir. I'm the only prisoner, and they allow me outside."

"Where's the sheriff or jailor?"

"Gone off hunting."

"And left you alone?"

"All alone. I'm purty comfortable, however, and my time will be out in about six months."

"But I should think you'd run away," I said, as I offered him a cigar.

"Whar to?" he queried in reply. "If I go to Grass Valley, the boys will hang me fur hoss stealing. If I go to Ridge City, they'll hang me fur stealin' a mewl. Over to Euchre Bend they want me to pull hemp fur robbin' Bill White. I might git up into the mountains, but the durned Indians would try fur my scalp. The safest place fur me is right here, and I hain't sayin' a word."

"My friend, would it hurt your feelings if I should ask why you were sent here?"

"Not a bit, sir. I killed a man."

"You did, eh? But how—how"—

"How did it happen I was sent to jail fur a y'ar instid of bein' hung?"

"Yes?"

"Oh, they didn't keer nuthin' about the killin', and gin me two hull months to walk off in. As I wouldn't go, the Jedge he said it was contempt of court, and sent me up here for ay'ar, so he could hev the use of my coyuse and guns free gratis. Don't happen to hev a new deck of keerds with you, eh?"

"Sorry to say I haven't."

"I was in hopes you had. The Jedge will be up this way to-morrer, and I'd hev the keerds all marked and play him the best three out of five to see whether I drawed pay as jailor or scrubbed along as a prisoner."—St. Louis Republican.

Whipcracks.

Gadzooks—It seems to me that the wheelman of the world ought to adopt a motto. Zounds—Well, they couldn't do better than adopt the saying already in common use, "It's a good thing; push it along."—New York Tribune.

Visitor (to attendant friar in the refectory of a convent)—Are we allowed to smoke here? Friar—No, sir. Visitor—Then where do all these stumps of cigars come from that I see lying about? Friar—From those gentlemen who didn't ask.—Tagliche Rundschau.

Little Willowdean, walking with her mother, stumbled several times over the pavement. Her mother said: "What is the matter, daughter?" "Nothing's the matter with me," she indignantly replied, "It's the ground is too thick in places."—New York Advertiser.

THE WORLD-REFORMER AND HIS W

Said Farmer John to Joiner Ned:
"Come put a back door on my shed."

Says Joiner Ned to Farmer John:
"I cannot put your back door on.
The Guild I'm interested in
For the abolishment of sin,
Meets at my house this very day,
And so I cannot get away."

"Well, after you've abolished sin
Come down to-morrow and begin;
I want that back door in my shed,"
Said Farmer John to Joiner Ned.

"To-morrow, neither, can I come,
The Friends of the Millennium
Meet at the house of Deacon Kent,
And I am first Vice-President."

"Well then, next Wednesday, without doubt,
When your millennium's started out,
Just let it take its course and spread,
And put that back door on my shed."

"I read an essay Wednesday, John,
Before the Culture Club, upon
'The Easiest Method to Restore
Our Long Lost Eden Here Once More,'
To foster peace, abolish war,
And render virtue popular."

"Well, get you Eden here all right
By sundown prompt, next Wednesday night;
And then, next Thursday morning, Ned,
Come put that back door on my shed."

"The Anti-Hunger Club convenes
Next Thursday, down to Hiram Green's,
And I have promised to orate
On how to crush and extripate
Man's tendency for fish and meat,
His grovelling desire to eat."

"But won't you come down by-and-by,
We'll say two years from next July?
You'll have your various schemes put through,
You'll have the universe built new;
Come down then, with your tool-kit, Ned,
And put that back door in my shed."

"I think," says Ned. "I'll take that chance
If you will pay me in advance;
For my wife says that we've no meat
And no flour in the house to eat;
This cash may save domestic strife,
And kind of pacify my wife."

—SAM WALTER FOSS.

An experimenter once drew out of the body of a spider 3,480 yards of the thread—a length but little short of two miles.

Milwaukee tried the experiment of turning over the vacant land in the city limits for potato patches to be cultivated for the benefit of the poor. Seventy-five acres of land was tendered for this purpose, but only six men appeared to till it.

VIGOR OF MEN

Easily, Quickly, Permanently Restored.

Weakness Nervousness, Debility, and all the train of evils from early errors or later excesses, the results of overwork, sickness, worry, etc. Full strength, development and tone given to every organ and portion of the body. Simple, natural methods. Immediate improvement seen. Failure impossible. 2,000 references. Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

PERHAPS

Some day someone somewhere will make

...how you and Alice were getting ... And now I'm quadruply miserable to see ...u give up every thing and go mooning round the streets, as if you couldn't decide whether to drown yourself in the East river or the Hudson. Now, what I want to do is to restore that money to you. It isn't much; it won't affect me in the least financially; but it will make me feel a great deal better in my mind. It will give you a chance to go off and take a pleasure trip. You need one badly. I had thought to make the money a present to you on a certain very interesting occasion, but it can't wait. I don't believe in hanging on till Christmas with a barrel of flour for a poor man who may starve during the fall. Russell, here's my check. Don't let any foolish scruple prevent your taking it. It's yours, and I feel in giving it as if you were my own son."

The world spun round before Russell's eyes. It was not the idea of the money, but of what its possession would give him. As to his right to it he had very little doubt. If the events had been of such a nature as to weigh upon the business conscience of Gilbert Ray, perhaps it would be better for the old gentleman's soul to relieve it of a burden such as that.

"Mr. Ray," said he, "I ought to tell you Alice—"

"I know all about it, my boy. You have had my consent and her mother's for many a day."

"I would take this money," said Russell, rising excitedly, "for, though I thank you deeply, I will not feign to doubt that is is rightfully mine. Some rumor of that old story must have reached me, for I find that it is not new to me, though your name was never connected with it. I would take this money, as I have said, and I would also accept the priceless gift your daughter offers me, but there is something between us. Mr. Ray, I was made to know her by my friend who loved her. I thought him dead when I made my mad confession to her. To-day I have seen him alive. How shall I face him having stolen the love he coveted, the prize he worked for in the heat of Africa, braving a separation for her sake?"

"I don't know," said Ray, looking up from a card which a boy had brought him, "but you might try it in advance. The man is here."

And he handed Russell a card which bore the name of Walter Brown. A minute later the owner of that name entered the room. Russell would have turned away, but Brown sprang forward, grasping his hand.

"Dear old fellow," he exclaimed, "why don't you speak to me? Do you think I'm a ghost? That seems to be the prevailing impression among the men I've met to-day. It all grows out of the fact that there was another Walter Brown with the company, but he had a middle name which I haven't. It seems the papers omitted to state it."

"CONSOLE YOURSELF, MY GOOD FRIEND, HE SAID.

"I can't look you in the face," said Russell; "I have been false to you."

"What does he mean?" asked Brown, turning in surprise to Ray.

"He means that he had been falling in love with my daughter," said Ray, dryly.

Brown laughed.

"Console yourself, my good friend," he said, pressing Russell's hand again. "I was married in Cape Town to the sweetest woman in the world."

[THE END.]

A Question of Comfort.

"I should think," remarked Mr. Lushforth, "that a woman would be clear miserable carrying around those swelled sleeves."

"They are not half so uncomfortable as a swelled head," said Mrs. L. in so sweet a tone that he deemed it wise to close the discussion.—Cincinnati Tribune.

that no one could break it with the cannon ball. The accompanying illustration shows how he did it. Snugly ensconsed in a corner of the room, it was safe from all the attacks of the ball, for the sides of the wall gave it absolute protection.

The Pink Wild Rose.

An old log house in the pasture stands,
Shattered, forsaken and brown.
Its windows gone, its broken door
And its doorstep tumbled down;
But a spirit lingers near the spot
With a sweet, old-time repose,
For in the tangled masses round about
Blossoms the pink wild rose.

I gather a bunch of the fragrant flowers,
And a picture seems to rise;
I stand in the past a hundred years
And see 'neath the sunset skies
The housewife stands by her spinning wheel,
Toiling at twilight close;
An old brown jar on the window sill
Is filled with the pink wild rose.

The husband sits on the doorstep there,
With the children playing near,
And then time marches with silent tread
Till it passes year by year,
And the old log house deserted is,
A prey to the rains and snows,
While the only voice of the days gone by
Is the voice of the pink wild rose.

—Florence Josephine Boyce.

Americans in Paris.

The man without a country was no more unfortunate than they. It is true they have Henry's bar, where they can get real American cocktails, and the Travelers', where they can play real American poker; but that is as near as they ever get to anything that savors of our country, and they do not get as near as that towards anything that savors of the Frenchman's country. They have their own social successes, and their own salons and dinner parties, but the Faubourg St.-Germain is as strange a territory to many of them as though it was situated in the heart of the Congo Basin.—Harper's.

Regular Course.

Arriving Missionary—May I ask what course you intend to take with me?

Savage King—The regular one. You'll follow the fish.—Life.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease because it is liable to result in loss of hearing or smell, or develop into consumption. Read the following:

"My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years and the disease had gone so far that her eyesight was affected so that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered severe pains in the head and at times was almost distracted. About Christmas, she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it." W. H. FURSIER, Newmarket, Ontario.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Only

True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye today.

Hood's Pills cure habitual constipation. Price 25c. per box.

Some day, someone, somewhere, will make a better mach than E. B. Eddy makes,—but up to this date no one has done so.

Meanwhile, and until a better one is produced, use

E. B. Eddy's Matches.

Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company

GENERAL PASSENGER TIME TABLE,

Eastern Standard Time. No. 9. Taking effect October 8th, 1893

Tweed and Tamworth to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2 A.M.	No.4 P.M.	No.6 P.M.
Lve	Tweed	0	7 00	....	3 00
	Stoco	3	7 08	....	3 10
	Larkins	7	7 20	....	3 25
	Marlbank	13	7 35	....	3 40
	Erinsville	17	7 50	....	3 55
	Tamworth	20	8 00	2 00	4 10
	Wilson*	24	....	....	....
	Enterprise	26	8 18	2 20	4 30
	Mudlake Bridge*	28	....	....	....
	Moscow	31	8 30	2 35	4 43
	Galbraith*	33	....	....	....
rr	Yarker	35	8 43	2 50	4 55
Lve	Yarker	35	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	39	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills	40	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	41	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	43	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	49	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee	49	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	54	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	58	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Tamworth and Tweed.

	Stations.	Miles	No.1. A.M.	No.3. P.M.	No.5 P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	9 00	12 45	5 05
	Galbraith*	25	....	....	....
	Moscow	27	9 15	1 00	5 22
	Mudlake Bridge*	30	....	....	....
	Enterprise	32	9 30	1 15	5 35
	Wilson*	34	....	....	....
	Tamworth	38	9 50	1 35	5 35
	Erinsville	41	10 00	....	6 05
	Marlbank	45	10 15	....	6 18
	Larkins	51	10 30	....	6 35
	Stoco	55	10 50	....	6 50
Arr	Tweed	58	11 00	....	7 00

Kingston and Sydenham to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2. A.M.	No.4. P.M.	No.6. P.M.
Lve	Kingston	0	6 45	....	3 30
	G. T. R. Junction	2	6 55	....	3 40
	Glenvale*	10	7 17	....	....
	Murvale*		7 27	....	4 18
Arr	Harrowsmith	19	7 40	....	4 30
Lve	Sydenham	23	8 00	....	....
	Harrowsmith	19	8 20	....	4 30
	Frontenac*	22	8 32	....	4 42
Arr	Yarker	26	8 40	....	4 50
Lve	Yarker	26	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	30	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	31	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	32	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	34	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	40	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee, West End	40	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	45	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	49	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Sydenham and Kingston.

	Stations.	Miles.	No.1 A.M.	No.3. P.M.	No.5. P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 15
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 28
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 35
	Sydenham	34	....	....	5 50
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Murvale*	35	9 17	....	....
	Glenvale*	39	....	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 50	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

R. C. CARTER, Asst. Gen. Manager

G. A. BROWNE, Gen. Pass. Agent

H. B. SHERWOOD Superintendent.

INSIST UPON A

HEINTZMAN CO. PIANO

WHEN you are ready to purchase a Piano for a lifetime, not the makeshift instruments for a few years' use, but the Piano whose sterling qualities will leave absolutely nothing to be desired, then insist upon having a

Heintzman & Co. Piano.

Its pure singing tone is not an artificial quality soon to wear away, leaving harshness in place of brilliancy, dullness in place of sweetness, but an inherent right of the Heintzman. Forty-five years of patient endeavor upon this point, non-deterioration with age, has made the Heintzman what it is—the acknowledged standard of durability.

CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION

HEINTZMAN & COMPANY, 117 King st. West, Toronto.

The Napanee Express

$1.

The Weekly Globe.

BEST CLUBBING OFFER EVER MADE.

By paying one dollar in advance these two popular and reliable papers will be sent post free to the subscriber's address. Call at the "Express Office" and secure this bargain.

89c.

PER PAIR.

See the display of Blankets in our west window this week at 89c. per pair. We have them in three shades, white, grey and tan.

FIne Ordered Clothing

JAS. WALTERS, CUTTER.

This week we have to hand a large shipment of Suitings, Pantings and Overcoatings, which are the very newest things in the trade and away down in price. If you are in need of clothing we have the goods to please you and prices that will interest you. Mr. Walters is just as skilful as ever, and can make you a better suit than any tailor in town; but this year he has made a new departure in prices. His prices are now the lowest- He will make you suits to order for $12 that were worth $15 and $16. He will make you suits to order for $15 and $16 that are simply magnificent. We hope to be favored with a call when you are in need of clothing.

Grey Cottons.

People say that our Grey Cottons beat the world. If you will examine them we think you will say so too.

Flannelettes.

There is no necessity to quote you prices in Flannelettes. If we don't sell you cheaper than any other house we won't ask you to buy.

NOTICE--During the balance of August our store will be closed on Friday afternoons.

THE ROBINSON CO'Y.

CARLETON WOODS.
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
31y Roblin, Ont.

JOHN POLLARD,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Express Office. Napanee.

Jersey Ice Cream 40c. per quart in pails or 50c. packed in Bricks at Davis'.

The recent freak of two Americans is to walk around the world on stilts.

Major General Herbert, commandant of the Canada Militia, has resigned.

The schooner Mary brought in a cargo of Fresh meat always on hand at Lawson's Telephone 31.

Belleville's rate of taxation for 1895 is 20½ mills on the dollar.

Russet Floridas or Bright, at Davis, sweet, 25 to 40 cents.

Go to Symington's for the Flour that makes the Big Loaf, Rogers patent, the best in Canada.

Now see that your blood is pure. Good health follows the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla which is the one great blood purifier.

Madam Vermilyea, the former Belleville and Toronto corset manufacturer who was arrested at Cleveland on a charge of smuggling has been fined $200.

A Dominion Convention of Christian Endeavor is to be formed composed of representatives from every provincal union. The first session will probably be held next year at Ottawa.

M. E. E. Ingalls, teacher of junior English and junior commercial man at the Collegiate Institute, Windsor, has resigned to accept the principalship of the Trenton High School.

"Jimmie" Peirson, while under the influence of liquor, fell down the stairs in the rear of Mr. Cobb's laundry, about two weeks ago, sustaining injuries that may terminate fatally.

A Puny and Fretful Baby. This is now quite unnecessary! Like many others you may have your baby fat, laughing and happy, if you give it Scott's Emulsion. Babies take it like cream.

Prof. Wiggins is credited with the statement that the water in the great lakes is yearly lessening in quantity, and that Niagara Falls will soon be a thing of the past. This is just like Wiggins.

Jenkins' livery stable on Church st., Belleville, owned by Mr. T. S. Carman, was burned during the night of July 27th. Mr Jenkins' loss is about $1 000. Stock insured for $400. Building insured.

Sir Adolphe Caron has entered an action for twenty-five thousand dollars damages against the Montreal Herald on the ground that he has been libelled by that journal in connection with recent political events.

Bears have again made their appearance in the township of Hinchinbrook, and men watch for them daily with loaded guns Women on berry-picking tours have returned and said they saw bears in the berry-field.

Master Edward Miller, of Deseronto, Ont., a lad of fifteen years, secured first prize for a poem in regard to the story of Lundy's Lane. Five of these had been received from scholars of public and high schools of Ontario.

Mr. C. S. Hymans eleven of Canadian cricketers, who will play a series of matches with the Chicago cricket teams, defeated Mr. Helliwell's eleven at Chicago on July 29th. Mr. Hellewell's team was composed of the same players that visited Napanee a short while ago.

Mrs. Sophia Amey, who lives on a farm in the township of Kingston, was fined by K. Freeman, J.P., $1. and costs for raking hay on Sunday. In her defence she claimed that she observed Saturday as the Sabbath day. The decision will be appealed against.

Dr. E. W. Wright, Brooklyn specialist in diseases of the eye, ear, throat and nose, who was announced to make his 4th anuual visit to Napanee on Saturday August 3rd, finds its impossible to be here on that date, but will be at the Paisley House on the following Saturday, Aug. 10th. Glasses supplied.

Wheat is down and so is Keewatin Flour. You better get Kimmerly's prices for Flour before buying. Our 25 cent Tea beats the world and don't you forget it. 22 lbs. best granulated sugar for $1 cash, 10 Bars Soap for 25c. Finest Pearl Topioca 5c, per lb, 4 lbs. Crackers 25c.

The largest petition ever seen in Port Hope is the one being circulated by Joseph Hooper, under sentence of twenty-five years for an alleged attempt to drown his wife. This petition is sixty-five feet long and the names are written double column. It contains two thousand three hundred signatures.

A correspondent writes that a number of the Gananoque people intend coming to Napanee on the 5th of August, to witness the lacrosse match between the Crescents of Kingston and the Gananoque team. It will no doubt be an interesting game, as the teams have met twice this season, resulting in a game for each.

Off to Camp.

The members of Camp Le Nid left on Saturday last for camp where they will spend a month. They have laid aside

White Agate.

Just arrived from Germany, and the prices are away down. Note, Number 9 White Agate Kettle $1.50, 10 quart pail 90c. &c.

T. H. WALLER,
Agent for the Monarch Bicycle.

Oddfellows' Excursion will carry children between ages of 5 and 12 years half fare.

Lantern Parade.

Watch for the bicycle club lantern parade on this Friday evening. It will be a big sight. Don't miss it.

Early Closing.

The hardware merchants have agreed to close their places of business at 6 o'clock, commencing on Tuesday next, Aug. 6th.

A Cold Dip.

On Tuesday night the mercury fell many degrees, and on Wednesday people took to their winter clothes. The weather this summer has been quite cool, and it has not been an uncommon sight to see people wearing furs during July.

Popery and Partyism, Canada's Curse.

The Rev. John Coburn, of Toronto, (young thunderer) will lecture on the above subject in the town hall, this Friday evening, at 8 o'clock. Seats will be reserved for the ladies. Every person should hear this lecture. Silver collection at the door.

Garden Party at Switzerville.

The ladies of Switzerville will give a garden party at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Haycock on Wednesday evening August 7th. Refreshments will be served and a good programme rendered. Admission 10cts. Proceeds in aid of church funds. Come and enjoy a treat Bay Circuit.

The Business meeting of the circuit will be held in the Bethany Church on Saturday the 2nd of August at 2.30 in the after noon, Quarterly meeting in the Gretna Church on Sunday morning at 10,30 Rev. C. Snowdon will preach, Lovefeast and sacrament. A large attendance expected Wonderful Horsemanship.

Everybody should remember Aug. 12th and 13th and be sure to attend the Napanee rnces and see the grand exhibition to be given by the Myrtie Peek Company consisting of 10 trained horses. This special attraction has never exhibited in this section before and reflects great credit on the driving park officials in securing such an expensive high class entertainment.

A Bad Fall.

On Tuesday morning last master Willie Hicks, who drives a pacel wagon met with an accident. He had driven up to Paisley's grocery and in getting out of the wagon put his feet on the wheel. Just then the horse stepped ahead and the wheels being wet he fell on the walk on his left side. His head struck the pavement with force which rendered him unconscious, and upon recovering was taken home.

A Specialty.

Do you have imperfect vision, sore eyes, chronic headache, or any eye trouble. If so go to Smith & Bros, and cousult their Optical Specialist, any advice will be given and your eyes examined by the most improved methods free of charge. Do not neglect the childrens eyes as theirs are most important, and of these eyes we make a specialty. Satisfaction guaranteed to all.

Re-Opening Services.

The re-opening services of the Moscow Methodist church were held on Sunday, July 28th. The Rev. G. S. White, Napanee, was the preacher and preached with great power and acceptance both morning and evening. He will always be a welcome visitor to our pulpit. The church presents an artistic appearance inside, and reflects great credit on those who planned and those who executed the work.

Hello, What Now?

Getting ready for the Stratton and Crossley Excursion to the 1000 Islands. When? Saturdays Aug. 10th and 17th over the B. of Q. Railway to Kingston by morning train thence to the Islands by the popular excursion steamer Merritt at 3 p. m. The profits are for the church too, so I guess I'll go. That is right, come along and bring your friends.—Tickets at [illegible] Napanee. Boat also calls at [illegible] 9 a.m., fare $1; Bath 12.30, fare 75c;

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, JULY 26, 1895

All local reading notices or notices announcing entertainments at which a fee is charged for admission, will be charged 5c per line for each insertion, if in ordinary type. In black type the price will be 10c per line each insertion.

Cakes always fresh and in great variety at Davis'.

Machine Oil, Paris Green, Hay Fork and pullies at BOYLE & SON'S.

A merry go round has come to town and now the small boy is happy.

Prof. Wiggins attributes the low level in the Canadian lakes to the numerous telegraph and telephone wires lately erected, as they carry away the electricity which otherwise would precipitate the vapor in the atmosphere.

Here is a fish story from Goderich: "Last fall a gentlemen fishing on the Maitland losth is gold watch over the boat from which he was fishing. The other dav he caught a three pound bass. His astonishment can be imagined when he found his watchin the throat of the beauty. The watch was running and the time correct It being a stem winder, the supposition is that in masticating its food the fish wound up the watch daily.

Gananoque is to have a new two story high school. The materials used will be Don Valley pressed brick, with limestone basement and trimmed with terra cotta, and moulded brick. It will contain five class-rooms, library, teachers' rooms, two cloak-rooms and a large assembly hall. It will have an entry for the teachers, one for boys and one for girls, and will be heated by steam and ventilated by means of fans. The lavatories, lunch and recreation rooms will be in the basement, as will also be the furnace and boiler.

A good story is told of a barber in an eastern Ontario village who was recently converted by the Hornerites. It was pointed out to him that it was his duty to interest himself in the souls of his customers. Next morning his first customer was a nervous looking stranger, who noticed the barber's preoccupied manner. The lather was put on, and he strapped the razor, the barber, who was evidently struggling between inclination and duty muttered to himself: "Will I do it? I don't like to, but I guess I will have to." Fortified by this resolution he turned quickly towards his customer and inquired: "My friend, are you prepared to die?" The nervous gentleman in the chair waited no longer. With a yell that would have done credit to a Comanche brave, he bounded from the chair and out of the shop with towels, lather and all. The barber has since resolved not to in quire about the souls of his customers until they have been shaved.—Morrisburg Herald.

The schooner Mary brought in a cargo of coal for C. E. Bartlett this week.

The Oddfellows band of Belleville are arranging for an excursion to Napanee on August 13th.

A bloomer ball was recently held in Chicago and was largely attended. Will the fad come eastward?

The Sons of Scotland of the Quinte district, are to have a gathering at Massassaga Park on August 9th.

It is reported that chief Justice Meredith will resign from the bench and enter the Bowell Ministry. Quite a come down.

All those who have not been murdered by Holmes will please rise and remain standing until counted.—Buffalo Express.

The Belleville Electric Railway was formally opened on Saturday afternoon of last week. The bay city is now in the swim.

Mr. A. C. Baker, formerly one of the masters at the Ontario Business College, has received the appointment of commercial master at Albert College.

Rev. J. L. George has resigned from the pastorate of John St. Presbyterian church Belleville. It was owing to differences between the pastor and the Session.

The Ontario prohibition appeal case was set down for hearing before the British Privy Council yesterday. Sir Oliver Mowat attended in connection with the case.

A Brockville tippler says he will sue anybody who gives him intoxicating drink. This is better than Gold Cure for it will prove a source of revenue instead of expense.

The body of Prof. McGee, of Toronto, University. who was drowned at Hamilton last week has been rescovered. It was brought to the surface by explosion of dynamite.

It is reported that Mr. Moody has made an evangelist out of a New Jersey man who had been a politiclan for thirty seven years. This thoroughly vindicates the lamp spoken of in the good old hymn.—If Mr. M. could only get a chance at the Dominion Cabinet.

Relief in Six Hours.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder disease relieved in six hours by the "NEW GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN KIDNEY CURE." This new remedy is a great surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y

DAFOE & PAUL,

Undertakers

EVERYTHING NEW AND FIRST-CLASS.

A Surfeit of Toughs.

By the visit of the circus, Belleville and Kingston have had all the pick pockets and faikirs they will want for the next few years. In Kingston a lady had her pocket picked, and a man whom she claims to be the thief was captured. The crowning act was the capture of a satchel from the safe of Mr. Nesbitt, which was placed there by a circus ticket seller. The satchel contained $300. It was found in the porch of a vacant house in the city, but the money way gone: In Belleville some four or five were captured. The prisoners in each place were remanded for a week. In Kingston a woman went to the circus ticket office and presented $5. The ticket seller claimed the bill to be no good, and as the lady thought, handed it back to her, but a policeman standing by told her to examine the bill and upon doing so found it to be $1. The policeman made the genial (?) ticket seller "deliver up" which he did along with two free tickets for the circus, but she would not take the comps.

The Bicycle Meet.

The committee have arrangements completed for the bicycle meet on Monday next Many of the best riders in Ontario and northern New York have entered, and some exciting races will take place. Some of those who are coming are, McIntosh (5 mile champion,) Wells, McKellar, Davidson, H. and W. Hultz, McLeod (class B champions,) Gibbons and others from Toronto, and Smith from Oswego. There have been six entries from Kingston, five from Picton, one from Galt, one from Smith's Falls, three from Belleville, and others yet to hear from. It is expected that there will be some five or six tandem riders here. There will probably be four or five bands here with excursions, A hard times parade will be held in the morning at 11 o'clock, which will be worth coming miles to see. In the evening a grand concert will be held in the opera house, when the prizes will be awarded. The Fostelle Concert Co., of Cleveland, will be present and assist in the programme. Mayor Stevens will occupy the chair.

Two tandem teams will pace in the five mile race and all the class B results.

A Fatal Blow.

On Thursday of last week Wm. Castell, a butcher, of Elginburg died at his home as a result of a blow on the head from a base ball bat struck by R. Wycott of Odessa. Father McWilliams' Picnic was held on the day previous at Mace's Point, and in the afternoon the baseball clubs of Odessa and Elginburgh played a game for $5 a side. During the day Castell had a quarrel with Wycott During the game Wycott was about to strike the ball when Castell saw him. He placed himself on the line over which Wycott would likely run if he struck the ball, and threatened to injure the player. He told the pitcher he would not strike the ball while Castell was in the way. When Castell saw that Wycott was determined to stand on the home plate, he threw off his coat and ran towards Wycott intending to strike him. Wycott swung the bat and struck Castell over the forehead The men clinched and a fight ensued, during which Castell tore the shirt off Wycott and caught him by the throat. The men were separated and Castell was led away. He did not complain much about his head, and friends took him to a spring and washed his face and head. He then went to Switzer's hotel, where he went to sleep From there he was taken to his home in Elginburg and allowed to sleep in the waggon on the way. He was unconscious when he reached the house and died at three o'clock next morning. A great many lay the blame on Castell, who acted most desperately. Several times he made assaults on Wycott, who luckily dodged the blows aimed at him. When he was driven into a fight he used the club in self defence. Castell was a fine athletic man, while Wycott was small in stature, but quick in action. An inquest was held and the Jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter against Wycott. He has been arrested and placed in jail at Kingston to await his trial at the fall assizes.

Robert Wycott was convicted of manslaughter before Judge Price, at Kingston on Wednesday for the killing of W. H. Castell but the Judge released him on suspended sentence.

Napanee Cricket Club go to Ottawa on Aug, 14th on the Oddfellows' Excursion to play return match.

ports on signal.

Cricket.

On Monday our team visited Kingston and played their return match with the club of that city. Play commenced at 11 a. m. and ended before 4, the shortness of time being due to a combination of circumstances, viz.: the excellence of the bowling of both teams and the dampness of the ground, due to the previous rains. The batting of the teams was somewhat under the mark, only Messrs. White, Pierce and McLeod, of Kingston, and Merrett, Baines and F. Maybee of our team doing anything near what should have been done in that department. It is to be hoped, and should be looked for, that the young members, of which there are a goodly number on both teams and indeed in the whole district, should improve in their batting after taking part in and witnessing the excellent batting of some of the Chicago players during their recent trip. Batting at cricket is indeed a science, every ball coming through requiring its own particular treatment. It is not something that can be done haphazard with any success, but requires study patience and practice to be successful at it, and there is no better way for the young players than to copy the form and style of the best players they chance to see and patiently work at it until they master it. The feature of the game on Monday was the smallness of Kingston's score in their second innings only five men of the eleven having touched the ball, and not one of those for more than three runs, the whole innings tatalling only 12 runs, the smallest in the history of cricket in Kingston. Indeed Napanee did not do much better for with only nineteen runs to win it took five of her wickets to pull the game off. Messrs F. Maybee and Richardson doing the trick. Too much praise cannot be given to Messrs Merritt and F. Maybee for the excellence of their bowling, especially the latter who is as yet only a boy at it but bids fair to make his mark as an all round cricketer. The bowling of Galloway as it always is was excellent, and many a time throughout the game did he have the pleasure of seeing an outer stump fall. Pierce also bowled well for Kingston. The fielding of which there was not much to do on either side was up to the mark. Appended is the score.

FIRST INNINGS.

KINGSTON

White, c and b, F Maybee	23
Ireland, b, Trimble	0
Furgeson, c Richardson, b Trimble	5
Cunningham, b F. Maybee	5
Galloway, c Merrett, b F Maybee	0
Pierce, c Detlor, b F Maybee	7
Dyde, c Maybee, b Merrett	1
McLeod, b Merrett	11
Bayly, run out	2
Blacklock, b F Maybee	4
Nelson, not out	1
Extras	2
Total	61

NAPANEE

G. Maybee, run out	1
J. Herring, c Blacklock, b Pierce	0
Leonard, b Galloway	4
Richardson, b Galloway	2
Merritt, run out	16
Trimble, b Galloway	5
C Maybee, c White, b Galloway	2
Baines, b Galloway	6
F Maybee, b Galloway	7
W Detlor, b Ireland	3
Harrison, not out	0
Extras	9
Total	55

SECOND INNINGS

KINGSTON

White, b Merrett	3
Blacklock, run out	0
McLeod, b F Maybee	2
Ferguson, stumped by Richardson	0
Bayly, b Merritt	0
Cunningham b F Maybee	1
Pierce, b Merritt	0
Nelson, run out	2
Galloway, b F Maybee	3
Dyde	0
Ireland, b F Maybee	0
Extras	1
Total	12

NAPANEE

G Maybee, run out	4
Dr Leonard leg before wicket	0
C Maybee b Galloway	9
Merritt, c Ferguson, b Galloway	4
Trimble, c Ferguson, b Galloway	2
Richardson, not out	1
F Maybee, not out	8
Extras	1
Total for 5 wickets	20

ONE OF THE FINEST

things in the world. The Men's Tweed Trowsers we sell

For 98c.

GOOD WEAR
GOOD FIT
GOOD LOOKS

Radford & Son

THE OUTFITTERS.

- - THE BIG STORE - -

MID-SUMMER - BARGAIN - TIME

In Dress Goods,
In Blouses and Corsets,
In Blouse Materials,
In Boy's Clothing,
In Laces and Veilings.
In Men's Summer Shirts.

Another Tailoring Bargain

Men's Black Venetian Worsted Suits made to measure and made to please you. Merchant tailors price for this quality $20.00. We are making them just now for $15.00.

Children's School Boots

Thoroughly good Boots are our specialty. At Dry Goods Prices they don't cost you more than the shoddy kinds. Any size of boy or girl can be neatly and satisfactorily shod at small cost before school commences. If you haven't tried us suppose you do so now.

- - AND - -

Once again we ask our friends to kindly remember that ours is a Cash business wholly. It is not possible to give you the very best for your money always and sell goods on credit. Please do not ask for what we must refuse. We cannot give Credit.

LAHEY & McKENTY

...g Sermon.

...ular monthly song sermon will ... given by Rev. D. O. Crossley in the Unique Performers.

Everybody should remember Aug. 12th and 13th and be sure to attend the Napanee races and see the grand exhibition to

Church of England Notes.

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient. 25c.

Dr. Wright, specialist, will be at the Paisley House on Saturday, Aug. 10th, in-Western Methodist church on Sunday evening next. Subject "The need of a right faith." The service will be characterized by delightful music and song.

A Pointer.

A veteran fisherman advises never putting a fish in water after it is dead, as nothing will tend to putrify it quicker. If a fish is strung on a fine wire when freshly caught and uninjured it will keep in water for a week, but once dead it should not be allowed to be even damp if possible, unless iced.

Great Attraction.

Everybody should remember August 12th and 13th and be sure to attend the Napanee races and see the grand exhibition to be given by the Myrtie Peek Company consisting of 10 trained horses. This special attraction has never exhibited in this section before and reflects great credit on the driving park officials in securing such an expensive high class entertainment.

Obituary.

On Sunday last about noon Miss Jane Tait died at her residence, Dundas street after a lingering illness. Something over a year ago deceased slipped on a banana peel on the side walk, and falling sustained injuries from which she never recovered. She was from near Centreville, and about twenty five years ago moved with her sister to Napanee where she conducted a dress making establishment. Deceased was an earnest christian worker, being connected with the Presbyterian church and was held in high esteem not only by the congregation but by all who knew her. The funeral took place on Tuesday, when her remains were buried in Camden.

Wire in Hay Objected to.

The Department of Agriculture is in receipt of information from Mr. Ebenezer Wells, of Croydon, England, to the effect that the system adopted by shippers of binding Canadian hay with wire, has led to losses among the live stock, to which it is fed. He states that seven or eight cases have been brought under his notice within the lasi six months, where horses and cattle have died from perforation, caused by swallowing pieces of wire with their food. Mr. Wells is anxious that the matter should be brought to the notice of Canadian agriculturists, with a view of remedying what he styles, in regard to our hay, "its only defect."

Laid at Rest.

On Friday last at the residence of Mr. E. Edwards, west Centre Street, Miss Elizabeth J. Way, daughter of Mr. W. Way, of Thurlow, died at the age of sixteen years after a short illness. She was a victim of consumption, and although marked for death she kept up with great courage, and was about the house up to within a few days of her death. Being of a kind and genial disposition she was beloved by all who knew her, and will be missed by her many young friends in town. The funeral took place on Sunday last from the residence of her uncle and proceeded to Thurlow, where a funeral sermon was preached by Rev. H. C. Garbutt after which her remains were laid to rest in the family plot.

Took Them in

On Saturday night last Chief Storms received word from the G. T. R. station that his services were required. He at once went up there and found a crowd about the residence of Mr. John McGuinness, who works the Gibson farm in north Napanee. James Richardson pointed out two men whom he wished the Chief to arrest, one of the party the Chief noticed as a man whom he had ordered out of town one day last week, but evidently had not gone. It was claimed that they had stolen from the premises of Mr. McGuinness. Both the men were placed in the lockup and on Monday were brought before James Daly, P.M. Mr. McGuinness swore that he had seen them for the past few days coming out of the big barn on the Gibson farm. They were sent up for thirty days.

The Oddfellows' Excursion on Aug, 14th. will carry a Pullman day coach. Application for seats should be made to the secretary or J. L. Boyes.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—South American Rheumatic Cure, for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by W. S Detlor, Druggist.—46y.

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

nee races and see the grand exhibition to be given by the Mertie Peek Company consisting of 10 trained horses. This special attraction has never exhibited in this section before and reflects great credit on the driving park officials in securing such an expensive high class entertainment.

Route of Illuminated Bicycle Parade on this Friday evening.

Leave Market Square about 7.30 p.m. proceed up John St. to station, thence over to Centre St., down Centre to Bridge, up Bridge to T. H. Waller's residence, thence over to Dundas St., down Dundas to Stone Bridge and up Bridge St to the Post Office and disperse.

Helped Himself to the Change.

On Friday night last some person gained an entrance to the Express Office by a back window and not finding anything in the printing department sufficient to satisfy his avaricious disposition, turned his attention to the book store, where he relieved the till of all the change, not leaving even an American cent. He did not think of sliding the tray for underneath it were some bills. He showed himself to be an amateur for he left the till open and the window up.

Painful Accident.

O Thursday last Mr. Fred Peterson met with a painful accident. He was assisting in the unloading of a cargo of coal at J. R. Dafoe's, and the work was completed about six o'clock. He started to come down from the tressel, which is about seventeen feet high, when a board which he was holding to became loose from the nail and he fell. Feeling himself going he turned and jumped thinking by this means he would save his life. He struck on the ground on his feet, but the distance of the descent was so great as to dislocate both ankles and break a small bone in the left leg.

A Sensation Story.

Mr. William Croskey, who lives near Westport, while returning home from attending the Prentice Boys' Lodge, near Bedford Mills, was apprehended by five masked men near Halladay's Corners. One of the gang caught his horse by the head and asked if he was a P. P. A. Mr. Croskey said he was not. He was then called a liar. They asked him who were P. P. A.'s, and his answer was. "I do not know." He was called a liar again. Several of the neighbors' names were mentioned, and he was asked if they were members of the society. "I do not know," was his reply. He was told if he did not tell who were P. P. A.'s they would kill him. Mr. Croskey said, "Very well; if it is any satisfaction to you to kill me go on with the work." Finally the masked men let him proceed with a warning that if they ever caught him coming from a P. P. A. meeting they would kill him, and if they could find out what night they met they would burn the hall and all in it. This dastardly act has aroused the indignation of all classes around this section. The P. P. A.'s. who it is said number about 300 in one lodge, are in a high state of excitement

Multum in Parvo.

They that govern must make the least noise.—Selden.

Uncertainty and expectations are joys of life.—Congreve.

As sight is in the eye, so is the mind in the soul.—Sophocles.

There is none so homely but loves a looking-glass.—South.

There is a pleasure in poetic pains which only poets know.—Cowper.

Covetous men are mean slaves and drudges to their substance.—Burton.

If fame is to come only after death, I am in no hurry for it.—Martial.

The greatest learning is to be seen in the greatest plainness.—Wilkins.

In our world death deputes intemperance to do the work of age.—Young.

Sweeping.

If there are any particularly dirty places on the carpet, it seems wise to take the small whisk broom and dustpan and sweep up those places first before beginning the general sweeping. Then we shall not have to sweep this additional dirt all over the carpet. After the sweeping is done and the dust allowed to settle a little, if the broom is dipped in clean cold water, all shaken out that can be, and the carpet then lightly brushed, the broom being dipped into fresh water every few moments, it will take up the surface dust that has fallen back on the carpet after being disturbed by the sweeping.

Church of St. Mary Magdalene.

Eighth Sunday after Trinity. Contrary to announcement, there will be no Holy Communion. Service by Mr. W. P. Reeve. Matins 11 a. m. Evensong 7 p. m.

Parish of Adolphustown.

Services on Sunday next: Sandhurst, S. Paul's, at 11 o'clock; Adolphustown, S. Alban's, at 3 o'clock; Gosport, St. Judes, at 7 30 o'clock. S. School excursion to Stella per Hero, on Wednesday, Aug. 7th.

Parish of Camden.

St. Luke's Camden East, Morning prayer Holy Communion 11 o'clock; Confirmation Lecture 10 o'clock; Holy Trinity, Yarker 3 o'clock; St. John's, Newburgh 7.30 p.m.; Napenee Mills, 7.30 p.m. The new Church at the Napanee Mills will (D. V.) be opened and dedicated on Sunday, Aug. 18th. The Archdeacon of Kingston will be the preacher. Holy Communion Sermon 10 30 a. m., S. S. Service 3 o'clock, evening service sermon 7.30.

PERSONALS.

Mr. George Goodwin, of Picton, was in Napanee on Thursday attending the funeral of the late A. L. Morden.

Miss Bertha Benn returned home this week after visiting friends in Newburgh.

Mrs. I. J. Lockwood and daughter Ethel and Miss Murdoff spent Saturday in Belleville.

Miss B. Chisholm, of Belleville, is spending a couple of weeks with her uncle, Mr. I. J. Lockwood.

Miss Helena C. Mallory and brother Fred, of Campbellford, are spending a few days in town the guests of Mrs. Murdoff, Bridge st.

Mrs. Dorland, of Dorland, spent Sunday with her daughter, Miss Murdoff.

Miss Ethel Murdoff, left on Tuesday for Adolphustown, where she intends camping for two or three weeks.

Mrs. Mike Normile, of Chicago, is visiting her mother Mrs. James Boyd.

Miss Thurza Welbanks, of Newburgh, is visiting Miss Lunda Fretts.

Miss Addie Chinneck is spending a week visiting Miss Grace Chalmers, Adolphustown.

J. H. Huff, Montreal, was the guest of Mr. F. Chinneck, last week. He was formerly an employee of Mr. Chinneck.

Mr. and Mrs. James Clarke, of Gananoque, are visiting friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Judge Wilkison have gone to Hotel Friske, Old Orchard Beach for their annual outing.

Mr. L. Lochheed M. A. who wheeled from Hamilton last week in company with Mr. H. S. Lochheed, of Queen's, left for Goderich this week, to visit his nieces, the Misses Bertha and Clara Scott.

Mr. James Wheeler has returned to Napanee from Southern California.

Mr. Lester Scott, is confined to the house through illness.

Mr. Frank Empey is home on a visit to his mother.

Mr. John T. Wilson is spending his holidays in town.

Miss Flora Tracy, of Kingston, is spending a few days with Miss E. Fraser and Nettie Pringle.

Miss Flora Tracy, Miss Florence Rowsom, Miss Eveline Fraser and Miss Nettie Pringle are spending a few days with friends in the country.

Miss Leeve, a graduate of the Conservatory of Music, Toronto, has been appointed principal of the music Department at the state college, Lake city, Florida. This ready recognition of the musical attainments of Miss Reeve who left for her new home but a few months ago is alike a tribute to herself and the ability of her late instructor.—Saturday Night. Miss Reeve is a daughter of the late W. A. Reeve, a former resident of Napanee and has many friends in town who will join with us in congratulating her on her appointment and wish her unbounded success.

Messrs. Frank Carson, Stanley Wales and B. Edgar took in the circus at Kingston on Friday last.

MARRIED.

KILGORE—BURDICK—On 10th July, at Los Angeles, California, Miss Laura Burdick, Picton, Ont., to J. M. Kilgore, general superintendent of the Globe, saving and loan company, Toronto, Canada.

DEATHS.

WOODCOCK,—At Kingston, on July 22nd. Margaret Woodcock aged 73 years. Remains buried at Mount Pleasant.

DAFOE—In South Fredericksburgh, on July 25 Cecelia Sophia wife of Milson Dafoe, aged 68 yrs,

GROOMS—In Richmond, on July 25th, Allen Grooms aged 62 years,

TAIT—At Napanee, on Sunday, July 26th Miss Jane Tait. Buried at Camden.

WAY—At Napanee, at the residence of her uncle Mr. E. Edwards, on Friday, July 26th. Elizabeth Way, aged 16 years. Remains were buried at Thurlow.

MORDEN—In Edinburgh, Scotland, on July 14th Amzi Lewis Morden, Q. C., County Crown Attorney, aged 64 years.

Now is the Time.

While the wife and children are away for a holiday even if it is only a Friday excursion you can do that little piece of work you have so often promised her you would do, paint the kitchen and veranda with Madden's Paint. It dries hard in a day. No walking around on boards. She will come home and give you a smile and a thank you that will remind you of old times. I have a full stock of Madden's Celebrated Paints, and my stock of hardware is now complete and by selling honest goods at right prices I hope to win your patronage. John G. Fennell, Hardware Paints and oils.

Paisley House on Saturday, Aug. 10th, instead of Aug. 3rd, as previously announced.

The regular quarterly meeting will be in the Eastern Methodist church on Sunday morning. The pastor Rev. Dr. McDiarmid will be home for services morning and evening.

A carpenter named George Brown, of Newburgh, was struck and instantly killed by the Grand Trunk railway west bound express early Tuesday afternoon, about a mile from Napanee.

Gas stoves, gas stoves, we got them, agents for the Jewell and Dougler, the up to date stoves for 1895. Consumes the smallest amount of gas and lay over all others in style and improvements, call in and see them. BOYLE & SON.

A very strange thing happened at the Gilmour mills, Trenton, the other day. A man culling lumber, a Frenchman, had his arm broken and doesn't know how it was done. There were a lot of men about at the time but none of them either had any idea how the accident happened. Nothing fell and as far as is known nothing was thrown.

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Tightness of the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Summer coughs are more dangerous than Winter coughs.

S. R. Break, superintendent of the Detroit railway has resigned. Mr. Break is a prominent church worker at his home at London, Ont, and resigned because as superintendant of the road, it would be necessary for him to make arrangements to carry crowds to Sunday-picnics and excursions. He prefers to live in Canada, where Sunday work is not allowed. He was getting $2.500 a year.

Brantford officials have adopted the system of killing dogs by electricity. Hereafter, all tagless dogs found running at large will be executed by electricity. at the back of the police station. The system has been tested and found to work very satisfactory. The animals are disposed of in an instant, apparently without pain.

A Boom to Horsemen.—One bottle of English Spavin Liniment completely removed a curb from my horse. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or calloused lumps, blood spavin, splints, curbs, sweeny, stifles and sprains. GEORGE ROBB, Farmer, Markham, Ont. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y.

Two Irishman bought a little barrel of whisky in partnership to trade with at a fair. They agreed that neither should drink without paying. On the way one drank a glass and paid his partner three pence; the other then had a glass, and returned three pence. They kept up this alternation until, when they reached the fair, the whisky was all gone, and they had honestly paid for every drink, and were bewildered to find that they only had three pence between them. We can state that this did not occur in Napanee.

B B. B.

Purifies and regulates the entire system, thus curing Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, Rheumatism, Dropsy and all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It also removes all impurities from the system from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

Good Fitting, Trimmings and Sewing

is what you get when you order your Clothing from

ED. HUFF,

Carson Block. Tailor.

WORK GUARANTEED.

Cash and One Price Only. 51tf

THE NAPAN

Vol. XXXIV] No 37—JNO. POLLARD, Editor and Publisher. NAPANEE, ONT. C

BEFORE STOCK-TAKING

Having gone through my stock of

Crockery, China and Glassware

and finding it much too large for this season of the year I have decided to put the whole stock on the market

For the Next 60 Days.

at a large discount, or in other words, sharing up my profits with my customers, and in Dinner and Tea Sets, of which I have a fine assortment, I will give a special discount in order to clear them out to make room for New Goods arriving in the early part of April.

W. Coxall

CORN.....

We have a full stock of the leading varieties in hill and Fodder Corn comprising: Early Yellow Dent, Mammoth Cuban, Leaming, Stowell's Evergreen, Rural Thoroughbred, Salzer's Giant White Dent, Canada Yellow, Angel of Midnight, Early Red Blazed.

Tomato, Cabbage and Celery Plants.

Mangel, Carrot, Turnip and a full line of Garden Seeds.

Onions for Planting.

Flour, the best that can be made from the best grades of Wheat, at reasonable prices.

The Rathbun Co'y

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

GREAT CLEARING SALE

of Ready-Made Clothing, Men's ..Furnishings, Hats and Caps...

For the next 30 days we will offer our stock of Clothing, Men's Furnishings, Hats and Caps at prices that is sure to clean out the whole stock.

This is a chance which shonld not be missed.

We do this to make room for our new fall stock.

The following are a few of the many bargains offered:

Boy's School Suits $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50, worth double the money.

Men's and Youth's Suits from $3.50 up.

Men's good strong Pants at $1.00, worth $1.50.

Shirts, Collars, Cufis, Suspenders, Socks, Neckwear and Gloves.

Underwear, Handkerchiefs, Armlets, Hats and Caps.

All at clearing prices. To be convinced call and see the bargains offered.

A. M. VINEBERG,

The Wonderful Cheap Clothier, Dundas st., Henry Block, Napanee

IMPORTANT TO INTENDING PURCHASERS OF FARM IMPLEMENTS

SPECIAL S

We have just cleared out t of White Shirts.

You can buy them from us

Unlaundried Shirts 38c, 5
75c and $1.00. All sizes.

Laundried Shirts 50c, 75c,
$1.25 lines.

You are invited to call an

McALIST

BIG PROFITS on Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who, by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50.000 to $100,000 or more by those who invests a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest throug brokers who throughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOFS, also our Manual on successful speculation and our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our Manual explains margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our stauding success.

For further information address

THOMAS & CO., Bankers and Brokers.
241-242 Rialto Building, CHICAGO, ILL.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.—IN THE MATTER OF DALY, GRANGE & CO.

Notice is hereby given that Daly, Grange & Co., of the town of Napanee in the County of Lennox and Addington carrying on business as tea merchants having made an assignment under R. S. O. 1887 Chapter 134 and amending acts of all their estates credits and effects to the undersigned for the general benefit of their creditors. Creditors are requested to file their claims with the said trustee with the proofs and particulars thereof required by the said acts on or before the 20th day of August 1895. And notice is hereby futher given that after the said 20th day of August 1895 the said trustee will proceed to distribute the assets of the said debtors amongst the parties entitled thereto having regard only to the claims of which notice shall then have been given and that he will not be liable for the assets or any part thereof so distributed to any person or persons of whose claim he shall not then have had notice T. D. PRUYN Assignee. & Trustee.

DEROCHE & MADDEN, Solicitors for the abovenamed Assignee and Trustee.

Dated July 11th, 1895.

MORTGAGE SALE OF VALUABLE FARM

The best advertisement. Many thousands of unsolicited letters have reached the manufacturers of Scott's Emulsion from those cured through its use, of Consumption and Scrofulous diseases! None can speak so confidently of its merits as those who have tested it.

Jersey Ice Cream 40c. per quart in pails or 50c. packed in Bricks at Davis'.

Consumptives, cheer up! You are not going to die, if you will but take Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "the kind that cures" coughs, colds, bronchitis and all pulmonary diseases. Every bottle warranted. No oiley taste like others. In big bottles, 50c and $100, at druggists.

BICYCLE AND HORSE.

Less Work for the Latter [illegible] Livery-Man Not Afraid [illegible] bon... wais...

OF FARM IMPLEMENTS,

The best is always the cheapest. Therefore, before purchasing elsewhere, call at Sylvester Bros'. Machinery Hall, (west end Campbell House Block) and inspect their samples, consisting of their Celebrated Shoe or Press Drill. Hoe Drill. Broad Cast Seeder and Spring Tooth Cultivator Combined. Single Spring Tooth Cultivator. Diamond Harrow. Mower, etc.

Also be sure and see the Wartman & Ward Spade Harrow, (the Queen of Pulverizers)- Every farmer should have one. Different Patterns of Disc Harrows for sale. Don't you want a new Lumber Wagon this season? If so, buy none but a CHATHAM, with patent Grain and Stock Rack combined. The best in the Market.

BLANCHARD & POTTER,

AGENTS.

THE - MERCHANTS - BANK

OF CANADA

Head Office, — Montreal

Capital paid up, $6,000,000

Surplus, $3,000,000

INTEREST AT CURRENT RATES PAID ON DEPOSITS.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

T. E. MERRITT,

Manager, Napanee Branch

DEROCHE & MADDEN,

Barristers,

Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.

Office—Grange block.

Money to Loan at "lower than the lowest" rates

H. M. DEROCHE, Q. C. 5.1y J. H. MADDEN.

MORDEN & RUTTAN.

Barristers, Solicitors, etc.

Office over Merchant's Bank, Bank of Canada Dundas Street, Napanee.

A. L. MORDEN, Q. C., G. F. RUTTAN, County Crown Attorney.

Money to loan at 5, 5½ and 6 per cent.

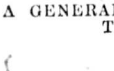
HERRINGTON & WARNER,

Barristers, etc.

MONEY TO LOAN AT LOW RATES

Office—Warner Block, East-st, Napanee. 5y

DENTISTS



C. D. WARTMAN, L.D.S.
C. H. WARTMAN, D.D.S.

Graduates of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduate of Toronto University.

OFFICE—LEONARD BLOCK,

Visits made to Tamworth the first Monday in each month, remaining over Tuesday. Rooms at Wheeler's Hotel.

All other Mondays C. D. Wartman will be in Yarker.

Napanee office open every day.

R. A. LEONARD, M.D., C.P.S.

Physician, Surgeon, etc.

Late House Surgeon of the Kingston General Hospital.

Office—North side of Dundas Street, between West and Robert Streets, Napanee. 5:1y

A. S. ASHLEY,

DENTIST

16 Years in Napanee.
34 Years Experience.

Rooms, · Albert Block, · Napanee

JAS. AYLESWORTH,

General Business Agent.

Conveyancer,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses,

Commissioner, etc., in H.C.J.

Clerk, 7th Division Court, of the County of Lennox & Addington

Grand Trunk Raitway Ticket Agent

TAMWORTH.

A. R. DAVIS,

Ontario Land Surveyor and Civil Engineer.

Office with T. G. Davis, Insurance Agent, 39 Coates Block

THE ROYAL HOTEL,

Dundas Street, Napanee.

H. HUNTER, Prop.

This commodious hotel is centrally situated having every convenience for the travelling and business public. Large yard and sheds for farmers.

Good table, best of wines, liquors, and cigars The comfort of guests is made a first consideration.

C. H. FINKLE.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER, Newburgh, Ont. Orders left with Ewart and Vanluven, Yarker, will have prompt attention. Telephone communication.

FOR SERVICE.

THOROUGHBRED GUERNSEY BULL

AT THE

ROYAL HOTEL STABLE

NAPANEE

TERMS - $1.00.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE CHANCERY DIVISION.

BICKNELL vs. BICKNELL.

Pursuant to the judgment made in this action on the 21st day of June, A.D. 1895, there will be sold by public auction, with the approbation of the Local Master at Napanee, at the Court House in the Town of Napanee, on at the hour of 2 p.m.

Friday, Sept. 13th, A.D. 1895

The following valuable farm lands in one parcel, situate lying and being in the township of Ernestown, in the County of Lennox and Addington, consisting of the south quarter of lot No. 17 and the south quarter of lot No. 18, both in the 7th concession of the said township of Ernestown, the North half of lot No. 17 in the sixth concession, and all that portion of the north part of lot No. 18, containing 25 acres more or less as conveyed to Richard Bicknell, deceased, by Calvin W. Miller, deceased, by deed bearing date the 6th day of April, 1865, and being in the said sixth concession of the said township of Ernestown, containing in all 200 acres more or less.

Upon the said lands are erected a substantial frame farm house one and one-half stories high, with wood house and drive house attached, also two frame barns, and the whole land is well fenced, and upon the lands are two orchards containing in all about 200 apple trees

The land is conveniently situated, being two miles from Switzerville P.O., three and a half miles from Camden East, and about 8 miles from Napanee.

The property will be sold subject to a reserved bid fixed by the Master.

TERMS OF SALE.—A deposit of $10 for every $100 of purchase money at the time of sale, balance within one month without interest. In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale of this court.

For further particulars apply to the law offices of Messrs. Morden, Ruttan and Morphy, and Messrs Deroche & Madden at Napanee.

Sgd. S. S. LAZIER, L.M.

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY, Solicitors for Plaintiff.

Dated this 28th day of June, A.D. 1895.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE COMMON PLEAS DIVISION.

HARDING VS. SPAULDING.

Pursuant to the judgment made in this action on the 29th day of November, A.D. 1894, and in pursuance of the final order for sale made herein on the 5th day of August A.D. 1895, there will be sold by Public Auction with the approbation of the Local Master at Napanee, at the Court House in the Town of Napanee, on at the hour of 2 p.m. The following valuable farm land in one parcel: situate lying and being in the Township of Tyendinaga in the County of Hastings and Province of Ontario, being composed of that part of the north half of lot No. 36 in the first concession of the said township of Tyendinaga situate lying and being north of that part of the said lot occupied and used by the Grand Trunk Railway Co. for their railway track and south of the gravel road commonly called the Napanee and Belleville Road, containing by admeasurement 90 acres, be the same more or less.

Friday, Sept. A.D. 13, 1895,

Upon said lands are erected a substantial frame house also a large framed barn and other out-buildings, and the whole farm is fairly well fenced and upon the land there is considerable small timber.

The land is conveniently situated at the corner of the Belleville and Napanee Road and the side road leading to the front of the township of Tyendinaga, being about 6 miles from Napanee and 3 miles from Deseronto.

The property will be sold subject to a reserve bid fixed by the Master.

TERMS OF SALE.—A deposit of $10 for every $100 of purchase money at the time of sale balance within one month without interest. In every other respect the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale of this Court.

For further particulars apply to the law office of Morden, Ruttan & Morphy.

Sgd. S. S. LAZIER, Local Master.

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY, Solicitors for the Plaintiffs.

Dated this 9th day of August, A.D. 1895. 37d

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE CHANCERY DIVISION.

BICKNELL vs. BICKNELL.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Mortgage, which will be produced at the time of sale, there will be sold by Public Auction, at the Court House, in the town of Napanee, on

Monday, September 2, 1895,

at the hour of 2 o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises, situate, lying and being in the township of Adolphustown, in the County of Lennox and Addington, and province of Ontario, and being composed of the east half of the west half of lot number fourteen, in the first concession of the said township of Adolphustown, save and except about 20 acres owned by Alexander Heaslett. On said premises is said to be a frame barn. The soil is good The farm is beautifully situated on the North side of Bay of Quinte. Terms and conditions of sale made known at the time of sale.

For further particulars apply to

ENGLISH & PERRY,
Vendor's Solicitors.

Dated at Napanee this 6th day of August, A. D. 1895.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE MATTER OF WAY & CO. OF TAMWORTH, INSOLVENTS.

Notice is hereby given that Way & Co. of the village of Tamworth in the county of Lennox & Addingington, carrying on business as Merchants have made an assignment under R. S. O. 1887 Chap. 125 and amending acts, of all their assets, credits and effects to the undersigned for the general benefit of their creditors.

Creditors are requested to file their claims with the said trustee, with the proofs and particulars thereof required by the said acts on or before the 10th day of September next.

And notice is hereby given that after the said 10th day of September 1895 the said trustee will proceed to distribute the assets of the said debtors among the parties entitled thereto having regard only to the claims of which notice shall then have been given and that he will not be liable for the assets or any part thereof so distributed to any person or persons of whose claim he shall not then have had notice.

JAMES AYLESWORTH
Assignee and Trustee.

DEROCHE & MADDEN, Solicitors for above Assignee.

Dated at Napanee August 1st, 1895.

"There's the devil to pay in the country," said the Major. "Hang him!" cried the Colonel; "money's too tight; let him wait like everybody else!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Apron for the Garden.

Many a dainty demoiselle who has spent the winter weeks in a constant round of social functions elects to spend some of her leisure summer hours in "grubbing" in the garden. This brings back the roses lost from lack of sleep during the party season, and gives the fair gardener the elexir of health and strength unobtainable from either sugar-coated pills or allopathic messes.

GARDEN APRON.

The pretty apron portrayed in the accompanying sketch serves a double purpose in the garden; it protects the wearer from soil and adds a delightfully piquant touch to the gown with which it is worn. Figured gambric, with a draped silk sash and sundry saucy ribbon bows, provides the meagure of daintiness required in the personal belongings of the fin de siecle maiden.

This is Concentration—One pill a dose, one box 25 cents. One pill relieves constipation, One box cures an ordinary case. One pill taken weekly neutralizes formation of uric acid in the blood and prevents Bright's Kidney disease and Diabetes. True only of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills.

Minard's Liniment is the Best.

Livery-Men Not Afraid of the Horseless Carriage.

The race of horseless carriages held in France last week, and the bicycling craze, which includes more than 100,000 votaries in Greater New York, have set the keepers of livery stables to thinking. They find their horses less busy at certain times of the day than they formerly were.

"Bicycling has interfered with our business beyond a doubt," said an uptown livery stable keeper yesterday. "Persons who have the strength and inclination to take exercise, and who are not fond of walking, were in the habit of coming to us frequently in the afternoons for carriages. The persons I mean are those who have a good deal of leisure time and money enough to hire carriages, though not enough to keep their own horses.

"Now whenever I happen to be in Central Park I see too many of my former customers mounted on bicycles and riding as if they were possessed. This change in the habit of the class of persons who hire carriages must make a great difference to the livery stable keepers. When horses have to be kept for evening work alone they run up a good deal of expense for feed and care and the income from afternoon drives is always like so much pure profit in our business. So we don't like the bicycle business, though we can't help it.

"As for these horseless carriages, I think they are nothing but a pack of French nonsense. I see that petroleum is used in most of them, and I guess they must have plenty of accidents with it. If the thing was any good we would have had it here long ago.

"Why, I remember 25 years ago that Mr. Dudgoon had a steam carriage in this city. He got a permit from the Park Board to run his machine over the roads in Central Park. It used to whizz around, puffing and blowing, with six or seven people on it. That machine was to be the death of horses, but it never amounted to anything. The best days our business ever saw followed the appearance of this steam carriage."

"Suppose such machines should become fashionable here, how would it affect your business?" asked the reporter.

"Well you cannot put a four-wheeled vehicle on your front stoop, and you cannot leave it on the street for less than $10 a night, so you have got to have a house for it somewhere. The livery stable keepers have all the best sites in the city for the storage of vehicles in their own hands, and I see no reason why they should not keep horseless carriages as well as any other kind of vehicle.

"Then they would require to be cleaned, the same as other carriages. After a sudden shower or on a muddy day you cannot expect that a man who has money enough to own or hire such a machine will take off his coat and do a two hours' job in cleaning it.

"But as long as we have funerals we shall always have plenty of horses. There's no dignity about a horseless carriage. Unless they go back to walking on foot at funerals, we shall never give up horses for that purpose, in my judgment."—New York Times.

In London only a twelfth of the post-office people are employed on Sunday duty, and the average length of Sunday duty is six hours.

An average of three British seamen lose their lives every day by drowning, and 300 British steamers and sailing vessels are lost yearly at sea.

A practical test of raising sunken ships has been made by attaching air bags to the hull and then inflating them until the wreck gradually floats to the surface.

The largest telephone cable is said to be that from Thirty-eight street, New York, to Long Island; the outside diameter is 2.5 inches, length 15 miles, weight 21.5 tons.

The Stanford farm, at Vina, Cal., has a vineyard of over 400 acres, feeds 40,000 sheep, 200 horses of the best stock, 400 work horses and 1,200 head of Holstein cattle.

For the first time in the history of Cleveland wheat has been brought from the east for grinding. One company brought 125,000 bushels from Buffalo, which had been designed for export to Europe.

EE EXPRESS.

CANADA—FRIDAY, AUGUST 16, 1895. $1 per Year in advance; $1.50 if not so paid.

HIRT SALE

the balance of a Factory Stock

s at exactly manufacturer's prices

55c, 75c, regularly sold at 50c,

, $1.00 regular 75c, $.100 and

nd look them over.

TER & CO'Y.

THE YOUNG CZARINA.

SOMETHING THAT NICHOLAS II. HOPES TO SEE SOON.

Ceremonies at the Christening—Anointment With Oil Brought From Constantinople—Baby Grand Dukes Shown Without Clothes at Their First Public Function.

The young Carina of Russia is super intending just now the preparation of a layette, and all the world is interested in the expected advent of an heir to the Russian throne.

Elaborate ceremonies always surround the birth of a royal child in Russia, perhaps more conspicuously than elsewhere. The christening, according to the ritual in the Greek Church, must take place as soon as possible after the birth. The baby's christening robes are marvels of the needleworker's art. The first godfather, who is always a high and mighty person, gives the child a gold cross inlaid with jewels, and the godmother provides the little white shirt which is used before the ceremony is completed. The occasion requires gifts from all persons connected with the court. These gifts are often the toys most likely to amuse a tiny infant, although many are suitable for a grown child. Other gifts may be funds or jewels.

At the christening the child is carried in the arms of the godmother to the church or chapel. A crowd of royalty and nobility glittering in brilliant the church and are replaced with other oil, so the quantity never decreases. Wine, roses, lavander, balsams and spices are mixed with the oil.

Forty days after the birth of the child, its mother, the Empress, is churched, and the infant is received visibly into Christ's church by the giving of its first sacrament. When the royal gates are opened during mass, the deacon appears with the chalice. The baby is carried to the steps, and the priest, coming forward, puts a drop of wine into its mouth with a spoon, saying: "The servant of God communicates in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost."

There is no such ceremony as confirmation in the Russian church, but the child continues to receive the sacrament from its baptism, twice a year, at Easter and on its saint's day, until it is seven years old, when it is brought to the confession on Good Friday.

HIS VIEW OF IT.

It Differed Materially From That of the Little Girl's Mother.

The wheelman who was scorching through Washington Park rounded one of the curves just as a little girl about four years old started to run across the road in front of him. He set his teeth, turned his bicycle sharply to the left, and flew out of the saddle in one direction, while the machine went tumbling in another, the little girl escaping by a hair's breadth.

"You careless brute!" exclaimed a sharp-voiced matron who came running up. "You monkey on two wheels! What do you mean by racing about the park in? this dare-devil kind of a way Haven't you got any consideration for other folks? Don't you know you're always liable to run over somebody? Do

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY

HAY BAY.

Things have been very quiet here for a few days, the rain making things very wet and damp. It is bad for travelling.

Mr. Harvey Ontwaters, of Watertown was the guest of Mr. John F. Parks for a few days last week.

It is our sad duty to state in this week's issue the sudden illness of Mrs. M E. Post although we are glad to state that she is slowly recovering.

Masters Gilford and Wilmot Post entertained a number of their young friends from Napanee, Adolphustown, and this neighborhood on Thursday evening, Aug. 8th. The day was all that could be desired.

At early twilight Mr. J. S. Hulett arrived and took a fine view of the group in three different styles. Each guest wore a bouquet of flowers presented by the good lady of the house. At 8 o'clock a lunch was served on the lawn in excellent style, after which the young people repaired to the inner apartments and enjoyed themselves until a late hour of the evening.

Master Elmore Burnip, of Watertown, is spending a few days with his cousin, Fred Moore at this place.

PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY

Along the roadside, like the flowers of gold,
That tawny Incas for their gardens wrought,
Heavy with sunshine, droops the golden rod.
—Whittier.

Frank Gordon, traveller for Davis & Lawrence, wholesale druggists, Montreal, spent Saturday and Sunday at his home in Picton.

In many hop yards in the country the hops have been completely ruined by small green worms.

W. F. Johnson, photographer, Picton, returned home Saturday from Detroit, where he had been attending the meeting of the Photographer's Association. Mr. Johnson is an excellent artist and keeps abreast of the times.

Miss Mamie Youmans, of Toronto, is spending her holidays with friends in the county.

Since my last communication, Mrs. Lois Fox, an aged resident of Sophiasburgh, has joined the silent majority. Mrs. Fox had reached the advanced age of ninety three years and six months, and until the last three months of her life had enjoyed good health.

Another old resident, Mr. E. Gordon, Demorestville, after a long and painful illness, departed this life Friday, August 9th. His remains were interred in the Demorestville cemetery on Sunday, last. Rev. W. H. Buckler conducted the services.

Corn, buckwheat and potatoes are flourishing luxuriantly owing to the frequent showers of late. These will is a measure make up for the loss in the hay crop, in this county.

BATH.

The present aspect of our town is one of pleasure and delight, arising more especially from the genial and pleasing appearance of our visiting friends, hailing from New York, Hamilton and Kingston. The season thus far has been more than usually pleasing because of the above associations, the remembrance of which time alone can efface.

The ball game of to-day between the granites, of Kingston, and the Bath team is expected to be a close contest.

There are openings in Bath for enterprising business men. Mr. Overton Ball having decided to move to Moorhead next month, a baker will be required in his place. Mr. Wm. Gill has also vacated the store on corner of Dover st.

A goodly number took in the Oddfellows' excursion to Ottawa on Wednesday.

We are sorry to record the illness of Mr. D. Wemp, who is confined to his room for the past few weeks.

Visitors: Miss Milligan, of Toronto, at Mr. D. T. Rouses; Miss Birdy Hope, of Toronto, at Mr. F. W. Armstrong; Miss Moore, of Rochester, at Mr. John Chapman's.

Miss Georgie Wemp, has returned after

DAIRY SCHOOL AND VETERINARY COLLEGE.

The new Veterinary College to be opened next October in connection with Queen's University will occupy the building on the corner of Barrie and Clergy streets, the gift of the City of Kingston to the Governors of the Schools, and valued at $20,000. It adjoins the Dairy School Any farmer's son, 18 years of age and possessing a good public school education, may enter the college and graduate as a veterinary surgeon in two sessions, if he has the ability to pass the reqnired examination. William Mason, Esq., Kingston, the Bursar of the new institution, will gladly furnish any other information required. Dr. Herald, ex-Mayor of Kingston, will teach materia medica in the new college, and Dr. Knight Professor of Physiology in Queen's University, will teach the physiology.

The value of the sea fisheries of the United Kingdom last year reached the total of $160,000,000.

The Columbia River output of salmon this season is estimated to be worth more than $2,000,000.

Cooking with cottonseed oil in place of lard is to be one of the exhibits in the Atlanta Exposition.

Elks broken to harness may soon cease to be a novelty in the Northwest, and perhaps even in the East.

The American system of registering and forwarding baggage will probably be widely adopted in France.

The total cordage required for a first-rate man-of-war weighs about 80 tons, and exceeds $15,000 in value.

Over one-half the population of Rhode Island and nearly one-half that of Connecticut is employed in the mills.

How They Managed It.

"You and Miss Highfly appear to swim together pretty well. How do you manage it?"

"Oh, we squeeze along somehow."

His Friend John.

A man was having his fortune told. "I see," said the "seventh daughter of the seventh daughter," contracting her eyebrows, "I see the name of John."

"Yes," said the sitter, ndicating that he had heard the name before.

"The name seems to have given you a great deal of trouble."

"It has."

THE CZARINA OF RUSSIA.

uniforms and gala toilets, fill the body of the church aud stand grouped round the font. The priests wear magnificent robes, with gold crosses, and sacred banners are bourne before them. Two deacons carry portraits of Christ or the Virgin Mary.

The godfathers give the priests nine wax candles, which are lighted and fastened across the font. The priest incenses the godfathers and godmothers and consecrates the water with many ceremonies. Then a procession is formed round the font by those taking part in the ceremony, each one bearing a lighted wax taper. The name of the child is given in writing to the priest, who puts the paper on an image which he holds on the child's breast, meanwhile saying a prayer. When the priest asks if the child forsakes the devil and his works, the godparents turn their backs to the font to show their horror and aversion to the question and answer "yes." They again face the font, and the priest takes the child, which is quite naked, and, holding it by the head, so his thumb and finger stop the ears, dip it three times in the water, pronouncing the words: "I baptize thee in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost."

The chrism, or baptismal unction, which is called the seal of the gift of the Holy Ghost, immediately follows baptism. In performing this ceremony the priest annoints the child with holy oil; on the eyes, in order that it may see only good; on the ears, that these may admit only what is pure; on the mouth, that it may speak as becomes a Christian; on the hand, that it may do no wrong, and on the feet, that they may only tread in paths of virtue. At the end of this ceremony, the shirt, which the godmother has provided, is put on the child by the priest, who says "Thou are as clean and as clear from original sin as this shirt; thou art baptized; thou art sanctified, thou art washed in the name of the Trinity." The cross, which has been given by the godfather, the child is under obligations to wear all its life. If this cross be not found upon the child at death, the priest says to the godparents, the child may not have Christian burial, even though he be the son of a hundred kings. A particular saint is also assigned to the child, whose image he is charged to cherish with special devotion.

Holy oil, or chrism, which is used at royal baptisms, coronations and consecration of churches, is prepared with elaborate ceremony. There is a copper vase, overlaid with pearl and called the alabaster, in which is kept the original oil sent from Constantinople when Christianity was introduced into Russia. A few drops are taken to prepare

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Tightness of the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Summer coughs are more dangerous than Winter coughs.

Relief in Six Hours.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder disease relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y you want to scare people to death? Some people haven't got the sense they were born with. If I had my way about it I'd stop this business mighty quick. You might have killed my child!"

"Yes, ma'am," replied the young man who had gathered himself up and was making an inventory of his damages. "But I didn't. She gets off without a scratch, while I've got a skinned elbow, a bruised knee, a sprained angle and a lame shoulder. There's a piece of skin as big as a half dollar gone from the palm of my hand, my hair is full of dirt, I've ruined my suit of clothes, and it will cost me $15 to have the machine mended. If I'm not kicking, ma'am, I don't think you ought to kick."

He picked up his broken bicycle, put it over his shoulder, and limped slowly away in the direction of the nearest repair shop.

Window Screen's, Screen doors, spring hinges, screen wire, largest variety, lowest prices. BOYLE & SON.

Catarrh Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes
One short puff of the breath through the Blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this Powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves instantly, and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tonsilitis and Deafness. 60 cents. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y.

Aggravating.

He what's the matter, darling? What are you kicking about?

She—Well, it's enough to make anyone kick. Three girls on bases, two hands out, the score a tie, and I punched out by that hateful Smith girl.

What She Wanted.

"I swear——" he cried passionately.

"Don't," she interrupted. "It's wrong to swear."

"Why mock me?" he asked bitterly. "I am old, it is true, but I love you fondly, truly, devotedly."

"Prove it," she said coldly. "I am young and beautiful and have had many men at my feet—young men in the flush of manhood. You are old enough to——"

"Stay!" he cried. "Do not think of my age! Think only of my love! Think of all I would do for you, all I would give to——"

"What would you give?" she interrupted.

"Anything, everything. I would give my life——"

"I don't want it."

"What more can I do? What would you have?"

"Well, I was thinking of your insurance. How much is it?"

Then he knew that she was not for him; that there was something about the heart he had been after that made it resemble an automatic lightning calculator, and he went sadly out into the cold world, although the thermometer registered 95.—Chicago Evening Post.

A Remarkable Cure.—J. W. Jennison Gilford—Spent between $200 and $300 in consulting Doctors; tried Dixon's and all other treatments but got no benefit. One box of Chase's Catarrh Cure did me more good than all other remedies, in fact I consider myself cured and with a 25 cent box at that.

Two Grain Savers.

I have two Grain Saver Thrashing Machines in very good running order (worked up to date) that I will sell cheap. First comes first served. Don't lose this chance.

Miles S. Plumley,
Napanee.

a few week's absence at Charlotte, N.Y.

Mr. Harry Hogle, of Kingston, is spending his holidays at home.

Mr. A. Vanslyck has already threshed out about 900 bushels of barley.

Rev. W. B. Tucker is expected home on Saturday from Europe.

A repitition of Sabbath desecration by boys bathing as was witnessed last Sabbath will not go unpunished. A word is sufficient.

CAMP LE NID.

Our camp in former years has been a success, but never before have we had such numbers rushing in upon us to join our ranks and spend a few days under canvas as this season. Twenty two have already put in an appearance and we have been obliged to request from others to postpone their arrival until next week as we are now crowded to our utmost capacity. The arrivals during the past week are James Kernahan, Daniel Walsh and Ed. Scott, of Toronto, E. C. S. Huycke, H. J. Snelgrove, and D. Hooey of Cobourg. Several of the first arrivals who intended remaining only ten days have extended their stay a week longer.

Perhaps the red letter day of the past week was 'Ladies' Day' as a member of camp styled it. A party of friends mostly ladies came down from Napanee to see us on Thursday. They numbered fiftsen and were a jolly crowd with prodigious appetites. We were however equal to the occasion and prepared a dinner for them in genuine camp style, and we heard no complaints. Perhaps this latter fact can be accounted for on the ground that it is a heinous crime in camp to do otherwise than flatter the cooks, and a rag dummy suspended by his neck from one of the trees and labelled "The man who complained of his grub," has the desired effect upon visitors and new-comers who might be disposed to make comments upon the various dishes.

We have more fishermen this year than ever before and they are demonstrating the fact that there are lots of good fish in the bay. This is to be wondered at too, when we consider that the shores are lined with gill nets from which large quantities are taken every morning. We presume the fishermen who make a living out of catching fish are entitled to all they can catch, but to people who look upon fishing as a sport and not a means of livelihood, it does seem a pity to allow the use of these nets. From a business point of view too it can be argued with considerable force that if this mode of fishing were entirely prohibited for a time at least it would be money in the pockets of all the people of this district Tourists and sportsmen will go where there is good fishing and the better the fishing the more tourists and the more tourists the more money will be spent in our midst. However the fishing so far as Camp Le Nid is concerned is better than ever before We have so far been successful in getting some fine bass and two mascos. The first one was a small one weighing only 9½ pounds and it took some time to settle whether it was a pike or a masco, but Admiral Snider settled the question by catching a pike and laying the two side by side. The second masco was a fine specimen weighing 21 pounds. The boys who hauled him in had a big tussle and owing to the want of a gaff hook did not claim him as their game until he had chewed their spoon and hooks out of all shape.

Mr. Geo. W. Snider was so infatuated with our camp that he has decided to put in the entire week with us and the best of it is he has his yacht with him.

Mr. Edward Scott has brought his boys with him and as we have several good singers in our party our moonlight concerts on the green are of an interesting character.

The Carmona, of Belleville, with a small party on board inspected our camp from the yacht on Sunday.

Mrs. W. S. Herrington chaperoned a party from Picton on Tuesday. They paid us a flying visit and joined in the eulogy that Camp Le Nid is all right.

Mr. C Fessenden will join us this week for a short time. His vacation would not be complete without spending a few days in Camp Le Nid.

Camp Le Nid presented Mr. Elisha Ruttan with a silver mounted walking stick as a token of their appreciation of his many acts of kindness toward us. He always makes us feel that we are welcome here.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—South American Rheumatic Cure, for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by W. S Detlor, Druggist.—46y.

Minard's Liniment cures Garget in Cows

it has."

"This John is an intimate friend."

"That's so," he said, wonderingly."

"And often leads you to do things you are sorry for." P

"True; every word."

"His influence over you is bad."

"Right again."

"But you will soon have a serious quarrel, when you will become estranged."

"I'm glad of that. Now spell out his name."

The fortune teller opened one eye and carefully studied the face of the visitor. Then she wrote some cabalistic message, and handed it to him in exchange for her fee.

"Do not read it until you are at home," she said solemnly. "It is your friend's whole name."

When he reached home he lit the gas and gravely examined the paper. There he read, in picket-fence characters, the name of his friend: "Demi-John."—Ram's Horn.

How He Got Ahead.

"Come on, uncle, if you want to catch this train."

"How long do it take dis train to go, sah?"

"This is the express train. One hour."

"How long do it take de nex' train

"Accommodation. Two hours."

"Den I take de nex' train, sah."

And he turned away to remark to those standing by, "Dese big corp'rations ain't gwine to git de wurf of my money, I is."

Both Served a Useful Purpose.

"The human race is divided into two classes—those who go ahead and do something and those who sit still and inquire 'Why wan't it done the other way?'"—Dr. O. W. Holmes.

Men and Women

FORGET THEIR OWN FETTERS.

Paine's Celery Compound Banishes Disease and Releases all captive Sufferers.

Men and women forget their own fetters and shackles. They permit themselves to be completely bound and enchained by the common ills of life, and the result is misery and intense suffering.

The laws of health, when disregarded, bring severe penalties; and it is well to know that unless effective means are used to remove these penalties, chronic ailments result, and life is in danger.

Medical experience proves that the common ills of life, such as dyspepsia, indigestion, headaches, neuralgia, rheumatism, insomnia, kidney and liver troubles, and blood diseases, can, in a short time, be effectually banished by that wondrous medicine, Paine's Celery Compound.

Weak, nervous and suffering men and women are soon made strong and vigorous when Paine's Celery Compound is used. The life blood is purified and courses through the body in a healthy state.

For pale, sallow, nervous and overworked women, Paine's Celery Compound is a God-send.

It is just the medicine that makes people healthy and strong during the heat of summer. Paine's Celery Compound has cured thousands and will surely meet your case.

The Dominion Bank

ESTABLISHED 1871.

CAPITAL — $1,500,000.00
RESERVE FUND — $1,450,000.00

Deposits received and interest allowed. Drafts on all parts of Great Britain and United States bought and sold.

E. H. BAINES, Agent.

FARM Laborers' Excursion

TO CANADIAN NORTHWEST

AUGUST 13th and 20th

FARE $10.00.

with Certificate to return Nov. 1st for $18

Buy your ticket on Monday, as t is necessary to take the early train Tuesday morning to catch excursion train in Toronto.

J. L. BOYES.
Agent, Napanee.

IRISH AND SCOTCH WHISKY.

For sale by the undersigned the following well known brands of Irish and Scotch whiskey :—

Bushnells	Irish
James Watson & Co.	"
Henry Thomson & Co.	"
Mitchell & Bro.	"
Burke & Co.	"
J. Brown & Co.	"
Bernard & Co. Encore	Scotch
Watson's, 3 Star	"
Dewar's, Extra Special	"
Usher's, O.V.G.	"
Sheriff's	"
Claymore	"
B. Lade & Co.	"
Mitchell Bro.	"
Glengowan	"

M. W. PRUYN & SON,

Napanee, 12th Dec. 1894.

Consumption.

Valuable treatise and two bottles of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. T. A. SLOCUM CHEMICAL CO., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

WANTED

Young Women and Men

or older ones if still young in spirit, of undoubted character, good talkers, ambitious and industrious, can find employment in a good cause, with $60.00 per month and upwards, according to ability.

31f REV. T. S LINSCOTT, Brantford, Can.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

AUGUST 13 AND 20

WILL RUN

LABORERS' EXCURSIONS

To all points west of Winnipeg to

MOOSEJAW, ESTEVAN, ... $10

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, AUG. 16, 1895

HANDSOMEST WOMAN IN LONDON.

Lady Helen Vincent's Charms—She Comes From a Handsome Race.

It is now ten years since the beautiful Lady Helen Venitia Duncombe made her bow to London society under the chaperonage of her sister, the Duchess of Leinster. Her grace's death leaves Lady Helen Vincent as she has now become, the most beautiful woman of London society. She is of slender figure, with a perfect bust, full arms, and a face exquisitely chiseled and denoting intelligence of a high order. Her skin is white with the whiteness of snow, her eyes are a light blue. Her husband, Sir Edgar Vincent, not so many years ago was voted the handsomest man in the household troops, to which he belonged in the capacity of captain in the Coldstream Guards. At present he occupies the lucrative position of financial adviser to the khedive and director-general of the Ottoman bank.

Lady Helen comes from a stock that has given England many beauties. Her great-grandmother on her mother's side was known as "the beautiful Miss Linley" and became the wife of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, author of "The Rivals," himself a very good-looking man. Other descendants of Sheridan noted for their beauty were Lady Seymour, afterwards Duchess of Somerset, at one time England's crowned "Queen of Beauty," and the mother of the present Marquis of Dufferin. And all these women not only inherited the good looks for which their brilliant ancestors were noted, but also some, at least, of the wit that made his fortune.

Lady Helen Vincent was the brightest of the Duncombe sisters and did not make the mistake of marrying for love and position alone, like her late sister, the Duchess of Leinster. Her grace, while in the flesh, was always hard pressed for money, and was very glad of the several hundred pounds per year which the enormous sales of her photographs yielded her. Sir Edgar is a millionaire, and is growing richer every day.—Munsey's Magazine.

The Girl of Thirteen.

The girl of 13 is the future woman and a very important piece of humanity. She is a child and just growing into womanhood, and this translation which, to grown-ups, means only a sudden shooting up beyond all bounds and a tendency to stoop shoulders, is much more to the girl who leaves childhood behind and is not yet a young lady. Fast growing is a very great drain on any child's strength, and as at 13 she usually has considerable work at school, both mind and body are called upon to do double work. That is why she needs care.

Good food, rest and congenial company are some of the things necessary for the girl of 13. She should not have too much excitement or books to read which tax her thoughts too much, as her mind develops only too quickly at this age, and everyday life and lessons are enough to occupy her. She should go to bed early and sleep ten hours. For breakfast she should eat strengthening, bone-making food, oatmeal, oranges, brown bread, eggs and milk. For her midday meal she should have something more sustaining than a bread and butter lunch, if she is to grow up into a strong woman. Hot soup and a chop and a baked potato every day for three months will make her stand up straighter than braces will.

She should have a walk in the open air every day; if she does not get this she will grow nervous and sleepless, have fantastic notions about an early grave and running away from home, or, worse still, grow sentimental and write morbid little verses and weep over the poor. These are all true symptoms of the girl of 13. She begins to think she is very old as soon as she gets into her teens, and the responsibilities affect

TERRIBLE BLACK FLY.

The Great Pest of Camping Parties in Our Forests.

Summer boarders who make night hoarse with execrations at the tuneful mosquito should tackle the black fly of the American wilderness before so outrageously damning the Jersey insect. Although it is smaller than the mosquito, yet when a brace of black flies are about the mosquito isn't in it.

In its diet the black fly is not fastidious. It lunches where it lands, without formality or by your leave. When it departs the tortured flesh rises in bumps calculated to destroy the reason of the most level-headed phrenologist. The centre of the sweling is marked by a minute point, which, if investigated closely, proves to be a chunk of cuticle cut bodily from the victim. The swelling lasts a day always. Sometimes it stays a week, and with its departure goes the salvation of the victim. The aftermath of the black fly bite is an angry red bump like unto the rash of the measles. Sometimes it is situated in the middle of a camper's nose.

The black fly loafs about all the great forests of northeast America. But it has no home, it is always abroad. Like the vulture, it soars in the crystal atmosphere looking for whom it may devour. But unlike the carrion bird, it unfortunately does not wait for the death of its prey. It prefers it alive. A city man once asked an Adirondack guide what the people in the woods had to keep themselves occupied when there were no city folks about.

"Oh, well," answered the guide, "some of us die sometimes, and we fight each other, and some of us get shot, maybe, and then"—brightening up—"we has the black flies. They keep us busy."

And so they do. They come on snowshoes and go away on skates, and while they sneak about the woods, campers and guides and forest-folks spend the days fighting them off, and at night pour them out of the shoes and pockets and give the poor mosquitoes a chance to keep from starving.

There are three ways of obtaining intermittent peace from the assaults of the black fly. One by sitting in the stifling, blinding fumes of punk wood smudge, the second by painting your face with tar oil, the third by keeping away from the woods. The last really the only successful method, for where there are Adirondacks there are black flies.—New York World.

A Newspaper Creation.

The "New Woman" is a creation of the press. To be sure there are a few live specimens of her about the world, though not a hundredth part as many as the Old Woman, or the British Matron, or whatever epithet may be used to note the ordinary member of society; but her importance to the newspapers cannot be gainsaid. There can (almost) always be something found to say about her. You can laught at her, jeer, despise, criticise, tell stories of her, to the production of endless copy. There are very few subjects, indeed, that hold out so long. After the upper classes are tired of her there are the others to fall back upon, to see her tossed over and over agin in the blanket with unabated delight. Thousands of pages and of pounds, so ready is the public in a bad cause to part with its money, must have been made out of her. The press, in fact, for a long time has not been able to do without her. She was started some 30 years ago—or is it more? as the Girl of the Period, either by a literary lady of note or by an historian of still greater distinction. The present young men of the evening papers fondly hope that they discovered or invented her, but it is not so. Probably another 30 years before that there was something like her in existence, but no—at that time there was very much les copy required and fewer columns to fill. Year by year the exigencies of the press have grown.—The Looker-On, in Blackwood's Magazine.

The Last of the Great Wooden Ships.

The Aryan, the last of her race, was launched on July 13, 1893, from the yard of Charles V. Minot, Phippsburg, Me., and is owned by her builder, Jos

YE OLD TIME DOCTOR.

Physicians of a Hundred Years Ago Were Men of Marked Importance.

At the universities medical students were not permitted to go out without their scholastic cloaks, a regulation that still obtains in Spain. That the number of students has enormously multiplied may be seen from the fact that the little University of Giessen, with scarcely any medical school at all, has always more students than had Haller in the days of the famous Hoffmann. In the middle of the last century Wurzburg had at one time but three medical students, while to-day it has in the neighborhood of 500. Even then it was complained that on account of the number of students there was an educated proletariat arising, and in 1791 it was proposed, in Austria, that the rush for study should be repressed.

Among the continental students the revels and bad behavior of past centuries were not to any extent corrected. Fights and debauchery were very common, and all sorts of orgies and bacchanals prevailed. The professors were, in a large measure, independent of the state, and a single individual often represented a number of branches now taught by special chairs. When indisposed to lecture they simply posted upon the blackboard "Hodie non legitur," and this was the end of the matter. In 1777 Vienna had 147 medical teachers, and in Germany there were two to every 39 students. That in the last century one man often accomplished more than a great number of average teachers do to-day is amply demonstrated by the lives of Boerhaave, Haller and others. Then, too, the Latin tongue was generally employed for purposes of instruction, though surgeons, for the most part lectured in the vernacular. Cullen, in 1770, was the first in Great Britain to deliver purely medical lectures in English, and as the clergy gradually retired from the ranks of the profession, Latin more and more fell into disuse. Strange to say, as the clerical influence waned the Jews began to enter medicine, the movement beginning about 1791 in France, under the promulgation of "civil equality" ideas. Previously the Hebrews had been an almost universally suppressed people, and in Berlin were permitted to enter and leave the city by only one gate and were forbidden to learn or write pjure German, in consequence whereof their dialect was a Hebraic Teutonoc jargon that even to-day prevails in some portions of Western Europe. Educated Jews were few in number, since attendance upon universities was ordinarily denied them, although long before they had been admitted at Salamanca, Toledo, Salenum and Montpellier. In Austria the prohibition was not removed until 1789, and even then so bitter was the prejudice against the Semitic race that the clergy protested vigorously. It was the same clerical body that in 1667 protested with the greatest vehemnence against allowing Hebrew physicians to pass through the gates of Wurttemberg without paying toll, declaring that it was "better to die with Christ than be cured by Jews who were aided by the devil."

The physician of the last centruy was, at least on occasions of moment, very different from other men, and to be recognized by his dress. A cap was placed upon his head when he graduated, in recognition of the fact that physicians at an earlier period belonged to the learned or clerical profession, and in later life he wore a purplish or scarlet cloak to distinguish him from lawyers, whose professional color was yellow, and from theologians, who then as now sported the sombre black.

The regulation full dress costume of the English physician of the last century demanded a well powdered wig, silk coat, knee breeches with stockings, buckled shoes, lace ruffles, cap and gold headed cane, to which, in cold weather, was added a muff—to preserve his delicacy of touch.—Medical Age.

"Woman," said the sentimental boarder "is a little lower than the angels." "She does come high," assented the cheerful idiot.—Indianapolis Journal.

Marriage Undeceives Them.

turned to starting point on payment of $18.00.

E. McLAUGHLIN,
Agent at Napanee.

1

FOWLER'S
EXT. OF WILD
STRAWBERRY

CURES
COLIC,
CRAMPS,
CHOLERA,
DIARRHOEA,
DYSENTERY,
CHOLERA MORBUS,
CHOLERA INFANTUM
and all Summer Complaints and Fluxes of the Bowels. It is safe and reliable for Children or Adults.
For Sale by all Dealers.

BRISTOL'S
Sarsaparilla
Cures Rheumatism, Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Scrofula, Sores, and all Eruptions.

BRISTOL'S
Sarsaparilla
Cures Liver, Stomach and Kidney Troubles, and Cleanses the Blood of all Impurities.

BRISTOL'S
Sarsaparilla
Cures Old Chronic Cases where all other remedies fail.
Be sure and ask your Druggist for

BRISTOL'S
Sarsaparilla

S.E. ALLEN,
& CO.

All this month we're offering Hats for Ladies and Children at very low prices, no regard being paid to cost or value, our only object being to clear the tables entirely of Summer Goods.

50 Ladies' Hats, Trimmed, worth from $2.50 to $3.00, sold on Saturday for $1.50.

50 Children's Hats, Trimmed, for One Dollar.

Sailors in White, Black, Mixed Straw best quality, 35 cents and 50 cents.

Children's Dresses in White and Fancy Percale, sold at half price.

Everything in Ladies' and Children's Summer Clothing goes at very little over half price.

Fancy Shirt Fronts, 50 cents, were 75 cents.

Another lot were $1.25, now go at 75 cents.

of them—Philadelphia Times.

The Wheel is Unromantic.

If the virtuous lady who fears that bicycling is demoralizing to young couples knew how hard it is to converse even with one's companion on a bicycle, to say nothing of gazing into his eyes, and if she were aware that one squeeze of the hand might result in a dangerous somersault over a rear ing bicycle and that only experts can ride near enough together to be very confidential, and then only when both wheels are geared exactly alike, and that the attention of both tete-a-teters is even then concentrated on keeping the pedals from clashing, she would realize that a bicycle trip discounts walking, driving, horseback riding or even sitting in a room, for difficulties in the way of spooning. The only way to indulge in a desperate flirtation when bicycling is to get off your wheel, and even a lady of great religious ferocity, combined with suspicious intelligence, does not have to be told that it is not necessary to buy a bicycle nor, indeed, hire one for the sake of sitting on a bench by the lake with a loved one or wandering through secluded paths of the park. It is a great deal easier to flirt at tennis or badminton or golf or croquet. And far easier to keep one's temper.

News and Happenings of Special Interest in the Various Fields Where Mechanic and Artizan Hold Sway Night and Day.

Buffalo has 26 railroads.

Fifty-cent gas is talked of.

Check pads give plumpness.

There are 110,000 locomotives.

Meat is preserved by electricity.

Uncle Sam has 1,956 daily papers.

Aluminium neckties are in vogue.

Brussels has a paper-mache dome.

Peat is replacing coal in engines.

There are 400 kinds of car fenders.

Vanderbilt boasts a $75,000 fireplace.

Japan has eleven electric companies.

Boston is to have a 2,250-room hotel.

A Paris warehouse has a glass door.

Luana, Ia., has a co-operative creamery.

The Saratoga bridge is 4,372 feet in length.

Bordeaux exhibits a 115-foot high bottle.

China-Japan war boomed camphor prices.

The South will hold an irrigation congress.

Marblehead reports a 290-pound sturgeon.

Malay furnishes the bulk of the world's tin.

In France tobacco is a government monopoly.

Electricity will propel Chicago elevated trains.

Wool in the Memphis, Mo., market, is at the lowest figure known in forty years.

France is the greatest wheat-growing country in Europe, not excepting even Russia.

The sale of alcoholic beverages is controlled by the Swiss Government. Last year it made over $1,000,000 by this monopoly.

The largest telegraph office in the world is the general post office building, London. There are over 3,000 operators, 1,000 of whom are women. The batteries are supplied by 30,000 cells.

Every mineral and metal of value in the arts or industries is found within the limits of the United States. Every precious stone known to the lapidary has been found within the limits of the United States.

C. C. RICHARDS & Co.

My son George has suffered with neuralgia round the heart since 1882, but by the application of MINARD'S LINIMENT in 1889 it completely disappeared and has not troubled him since.

JAS. McKEE.

Linwood, Ont.

late of the shipentine Rappahannock, who commands her. The dimensions of the vessel are as follows: Length, 248 feet 6 inches; beam, 42 feet 2 inches; depth, 26 feet 3 inches; net tonnage, 2,017; gross tonnage, 2,123. She costs about $45 per ton ready for sea. Her crew number twenty-five men. Her cabins are airy, commodious and pleasant, finished in oak and with great taste. Her captain's room is a model of beauty and convenience. Mr. Minot superintended her construction personally, and he is also a most excellent master builder, having built about 30 vessels. There are no wooden sailing ships now building in the United States or Canada. On this subject Mr. Elwell said: "There will be just as many wooden as iron (steel) ships built in this country."

The Aryan left San Francisco on April 21, bound for this port. She can carry 3,400 tons of wheat, but is loaded with general cargo. She is due about the middle of August.

The building of the Nicaraugua Canal completes the work of extinction, although our veteran shipping merchant friend, Mr. Elwell, does not agree with us upon this last point, Mr. Elwell contending that the canal will benefit sailing ships.—American Shipbuilder.

She Resented the Insult.

"I couldn't help it, papa!"

She looked up into his face with her frank blue eyes, and it was impossible to doubt her.

"But you didn't seem to be protesting very much," said the old gentleman.

"But it was so sudden, papa, that I couldn't," she insisted.

"Tell me about it," he said.

"Well, he adopted a very clever ruse, you see. He got me to look the other way, and then, before I knew it, he had kissed me on the cheeks."

"The scoundrel!"

"It was wrong of him, of course."

"What did you do then?"

"I was very angry. I told him it was an insult."

"Indeed it was, and you should have ordered him to leave the house. Did you?"

"N-no; not exactly."

"Well, what did you do?"

"I told him it was an insult, and that he must take it back."

"And then?"

"He was taking it back when you came in and saw him."—Chicago Post.

The Thoughtful Chauncy.

A good story is told of Chauncey Depew. He received a letter from a young married friend in Albany asking for a pass for his mother-in-law, who was coming to make him a visit, and closing with the delicate hint, "Don't forget to have the return coupon attached." Mr. Depew is nothing if not worldly wise and sympathetic, and in sending the pass he wrote: "I have not neglected the return coupon, and have limited it to three days."—Minneapolis Journal.

Quite a profitable business is done in some large towns of England by lending turtles to restaurants. They are permitted to remain in the windows for a few days, and are then taken to different parts of the city as advertisements for other eating houses.

A single page in an issue of the Century taken for advertising purposes, costs $500; in Harper's, $400 down to $100. A yearly advertisement in one column of the New York Herald costs $30,300 for the lowest and $130,000 for the highest priced column.

A model (?) newspaper is to be printed in Chicago. It will have no Sunday issue, and the Monday issue will be set up on Saturday night. Crime will be ignored completely, and only things which shall picture the world as a thing of sunshine and goodness will be printed.

Boston has a unique exhibition in the shape of a display of lilacs which is probably the largest ever seen in this country. The collection contains from 125 to 150 varieties of the Syringa vulgaris, which have been obtained from all parts of the world. The display includes every known species of this fragrant flower in cultivation.

"Men are conceited creatures; they imagine they know everything."

"Yes, dear, but marriage undeceives them."

On Missionary Ground.

Good Lady—Now, little boy; who made you?

First Kinky-headed boy (with a charming, toothy smile)—Dunno'm.

Lady—God made you, child.

Lady (to second boy)—Who was the meekest man?

Second Boy—Dunno'm.

Lady—Why, Moses—Moses was the meekest man. You must really try to remember Moses, for I shall ask you again.

Second Boy—Yes'm.

Lady (to third boy)—Who was the strongest man?

Third Boy—Dunno'm.

Lady—Why, I told you last Sunday! Samson! Samson!

Third Boy—Yes'm.

Lady (recapitulating)—Now, tell me who made you?

Second Boy—Moses.

Lady (in despair)—Oh, no! no!

Second Boy—Yes'm; Moses did make me. Dat ar boy what Gord made, he done gone to git er drink.—Puck.

A Summer Emotion.

O for the sight of a Summer girl,
From Beersheba to Dan,
Who doen't smile,
With intent to beguile,
The heart of a nice young man.

O for the voice of a Summer girl,
Whose rhythmic language flows
By day and night,
In an endless flight,
But who never talks of her beaus.

O for the name of a Summer girl,
Enrolled with a golden pen,
Who will confess
She hasn't said "yes."
To a dozen or more young men.

O for the heart of a Summer girl——
But I'm talking through my hat.
Who ever heard
Of a thing so absurd?
She hasn't any use for that.
—W. J. Lampton.

Heart Disturbance

There is more heart disturbance now than ever. Present day modes of living, hurry, excitement, worry, promote it. You needn't have heart trouble, because you can keep from having it.

Scott's Sarsaparilla

Palpitation or fluttering of the heart, smothering spells at night, swelling of the feet and ankles, shortness of breath, pain in the left side, fainting spells, mean that the heart is oppressed—circulation is out of order.

DELAY IS DANGEROUS

Note the papers daily chronicling the demise of some one by neglect of these warnings—result, total heart failure. Scott's Sarsaparilla cures heart disturbance by equalizing the circulation, restoring nerve power, supplying pure blood and relieving the heart of its burden.

USE SCOTT'S SKIN SOAP In Your Bath.

Our store will be closed Fridays at 12 o'clock noon during July and August.

OUR BOOTS - -

TAKE THE LEAD.

Good Solid Leather

BOOTS AND SHOES AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

HAINES & LOCKETT

NEXT DOOR TO EXPRESS OFFICE. 4 BIG SHOE STORES.

No Credit. Only One Price.

Holidays

Do You Want a Bag or Trunk for Your Summer Outing?

See Our Stock of Bags and Trunks!

Our new Boston and London Club Bags for Gentlemen are splendid value for any person wanting a real good article.

Prices: $6, $7.50, $9.50.

JAS. H. DOWNEY,

McRossie's Old Stand, South Side Dundas Street.

COLIC, Cramps and Cholera Morbus, Diarrhœa, Dysentery and Summer Complaints, Cuts, Burns, and Bruises, Bites, Stings, and Sunburn can all be promptly relieved by PERRY DAVIS' Pain Killer.

ONE THING IS CERTAIN, PAIN KILLER KILLS PAIN.

DOSE—One teaspoonful in a half glass of water or milk (warm if convenient).

THE DESERONTO NAVIGATION CO'Y
(LIMITED)
SUMMER TIME TABLE
Taking effect May 1st, 1895. Steamers will run as follows Daily, except Sunday.
STEAMER ELLA ROSS

PEDALING MADE EASY

The Genius of Edison Goes to the Aid of Bicyclists.

It has been stated repeatedly that Thomas A. Edison had invented an electric attachment for propelling bicycles. The Wizard denies it.

"I know how the story started," he said to an Associated Press reporter the other day. "I have been experimenting with any attachment to a bicycle for my own personal use and for special conditions. My house in Llewellyn Park, Orange, is about one-sixth of a mile from my laboratory and 80 feet higher up on the mountain side. So, in order to save myself a heavy pull when I went home in the middle of the day, I designed a heavy spring, just large enough for the purpose, which was to be wound up by power from the laboratory engine, and attached to the bicycle before I started up the hill. I wanted this spring to supply most of the energy for the ascent. Of course there is nothing electrical about it at all; it is a purely mechanical construction.

"The device is to be so arranged that when riding down hill, or even on a level, the rider can at will throw the spring into gear, and by degrees wind it up to its limit. Then, when a hill is to be climed, or the rider wishes to stop working for a short distance on the level, he can turn on the power and let the spring give back some of the energy stored up in it. It can be arranged so that the spring can be wound up gradually, so as not to make pedaling much heavier when on the level, and should, I think, be of sufficient power to carry a rider a thousand feet or so on a good road with no upgrade without his doing any work."

THE HORSELESS AGE.

New York Firms May Try a Gas Motor Delivery Service.

The horseless age is almost upon us. The fact is heralded by the needless improvements in the modern methods of locomotion, the cable, trolley, car, gas motors, the bicycles. Whether our useful equine friend will object to such a state of affairs remains to be seen, but certainly some of the cruelties such

To Prevent War.

If it is possible to solidify the English-speaking people, the final question is, What would be the gain to them and to mankind?

To all intents and purposes war would by degrees die out from the face of the earth—it would become impossible. The armed camp, which burdens the nations, and impedes progress, would disappear. If you had the Anglo-Saxon race acting on a common ground, it could determine the balance of power for a fully peopled earth. Such a moral force would be irresistible and argument would take the place of war in the settlement of international disputes. Why, if there was a race great enough by a single word to prevent it, should any two nations throw the world into disorder, by fighting with each other? If the arbitrament of war, it will at once be seen what a new and noble world is unveiled.

Substantially the fighting machinery of the old world—the arsenals and the battalions—have been kept out of the new. But mutterings sometimes threaten, which excite the young nations of the new world to think they must prepare means for their own defence against some of the nations of the old. Therefore, unless Anglo-Saxon union is realized, the doubt arises whether war can long be kept out of the new world; so, you see, unity makes for the prevention of war in the old and obviates any probable causes of war in the new. An element not fully dreamed of which is being introduced, will immensely strengthen the federation idea. The influence of woman, now coming to be a real factor in the world, will tend, probably as much as any other cause, to make nations unwilling to plunge into scenes of bloodshed and useless destruction of life and property. That will be a blessed assistance toward the peace of the world in this time of excitement, and so a bulwark for federation, which is the creator of peace.

Lake Ontario yielded 32 per cent. less fish last year than during the previous year. The yield of herring was very poor, especially near Niagara, where the water is polluted by sewage from Buffalo and refuse from the Niagara River mills.

A triumph of art over nature was illustrated recently when a well-known English artist made a painting of some old beech trees in a Kent pasture which ha sold for $1,400. The owner of the pasture sold his land and the trees together for $500, and called it a good

Leave Trenton.....	1 00 P.M.	Leave Picton.....6 00 A.M.	.....9 00 P.M.
" Belleville...	3 00 "	Arrive Deseronto .....7 25 "	..... 10 30 "
Arrive Deseronto.....	5 00 "	Leave Deseronto .....7 30 "
Leave Deseronto :...	5 15 "	" Belleville .... 10 00 "
Arrive Picton.....	6 50 "	Arrive Trenton..... 11 30 "

Calling at intermediate ports.

This Steamer makes connections at Deseronto with morning trains going East on G. T. R., East and West on C. P. R., and with night trains East and West on Grand Trunk Railway. Arrangements have been made whereby a boat will leave Picton every evening at 9 p.m. for Deseronto. This service will not in any way interfere with the regular daily service, and will prove a great convenience to commercial men and the public generally.

STEAMER DESERONTO.

WM. SKILLEN, Master.

Napanee and Deseronto to Picton.		Picton and Deseronto to Napanee.
Leave Napanee .....6 00 A.M.		Leave Picton..... 9 30 A.M.....	2 30 P.M.
Arrive Deseronto .....6 45 "		" Thompson's Pt. 10 05 "	3 00 "
Leave Deseronto .....7 00 "	.....12 30 P.M.	" Houghs..... ... 10 35 "	3 35 "
" Houghs..... .....7 20 "	.....12 50 "	Arrive Deseronto .. ... 11 00 "	4 00 "
" Thompson,s Pt. 8 00 "	..... 1 30 "	Leave Deseronto.....	5 00 "
Arrive Picton..... ....8 30 "	.. ... 2 00 "	Arrive Napanee.....	6 00 "

Close connections with G. T. R. trains for all points East and West. Call for tickets reading "via Deseronto."

PASSING PLEASANTRIES.

Brethless Messenger—Ruggles, I have been looking for you everywhere. Your house is on fire." Ruggles (intently watching something across the street)—I'll be along in a minute. I want to see how they're going to get that safe into that fourteenth storey window.—Chicago Tribune.

"I have never yet heard Bunkins say a kind word about anybody," remarked the gossipy citizen. "Neither have I," was the response. "He's worse for running people down than a trolley car."—Washington Star.

"Oh, yes," said the young woman with the babe-like face, "I know he is ever so much older than she. When they were married she was 23 and he 32. I remember it because the figures were reversed. That was three years ago, which makes her now 26; so he must be 62."—Boston Transcript.

"I would kiss you if I had the cheek to do it," said a bashful young man to his sweetheart. "What's the matter with your lips ?" queried she.—Detroit Free Press.

The widest canal in the world is said to be the Chenab Irrigation Canal, in the northwest province of India. It is 110 feet broad, and will be 200 feet when finished. The main canal will be 450 miles long. The pricipal branches will have an aggregate length of 2,000 miles, and the village branches of 4,000 miles, 250,000 acres are already irrigated.

It is said that there are in Kansas 28 well-built towns without a single inhabitant. Saratoga, in that State, has a $30,000 opera house, al arge brick hotel, a $20,000 school house and a number of fine business houses, and yet there is not a single person to claim that city as his home. At Fargo, a herder and his family constitute the sole population of what was once an incorporated city.

A belting company of Hartford, Conn., has just made the largest belt that the firm or any other company ever made. It is for the Washburn & Moen Iron Company of Worcester, and will be shipped in a few days. The belt is six and one-half feet wide and 120 feet long. It is made of four thicknesses of leather, being 15-16 of an inch thick. All complete it weighs a little over 3,200 pounds. It is expected to transmit 2,000 horse-power.

Denial.

"Villain !" she hissed. "Depp-dyed villain!"

The tattooed man looked hurt. "Indeed, ma'am," said he, "I hasten to assure you that it is only skin deep."—Indianapolis Journal.

The Egotist's Danger.

Cawker—I am very much afraid that Snodgrass will go blind. He's such an egotist.

Cumso—How can egotism produce blindness ?

Cawker—He overworks his I.—Detroit Free Press.

The French are experimenting with a single-track temporary railroad that can be laid on a country road or across the fields. They expect to use it in military operations, and in harvesting crops. The barrows and cars used are on the bicycle principle, and they can be operated either by hand or horse power. The gain in the use of the single rail is the great diminution of friction.

What is destined to excite the public to quite the extent the well-remembered gold discoveries of Cripple Creek did but a few years back, is the brilliant mining prospect found in the neighborhood of this small place, the lead of which is clearly defined, being well stored with mineral, and which is supposed to be the same gold belt upon which Cripple Creek is situated, says a Palmer Lake special to the Denver News.

Apart from the danger of explosions, which, by the way, are less frequent than is generally supposed, gunpowder mills are exceedingly healthful places. Such a thing as a workman dying of consumption is unheard of, the explanation being that the constant breathing into the lungs of dust containing charcoal, sulphur and saltpetre is beneficial to them. As to the death rate in powder mills, the popular ideas are much exaggerated, the average freight yard being vastly more fatal than they.

The father of young Burden, who married Miss loane, gave the 1,500 employes of the Burden Iron Works a banquet in honor of his son's marriage. In his speech to the men Mr. Burden said that twenty-seven years before his father had given the men a banquet in

Heart Disease Relieved in 30 Minutes
Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gives perfect relief in all cases of Organic or Sympathetic Heart Disease in 30 minutes, and speedily effects a cure. It is a peerless remedy for Palpitation Shortness of Breath, Smothering Spells, Pain in Left Side and all symptoms of a Diseased Heart. One dose convinces. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y

Cash Saved

By ordering your Suits from DAVIS & Co. Entire new stock at bottom prices to select from.

Call and see our prices before ordering.

Davis & Co.

T. G. DAVIS. R. FORD.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

heavy street car, or the clumsy truck, will think the Millennium Dawn is surely here. Societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals will also have to seek other fields for their energies.

It is whispered in New York that an attempt is soon to be made to operate the department store delivery wagons by gas motors. The feasibility of such a move has been demonstrated by the numerous races for horseless carriages held quite recently in France. Some of these unique vehicles maintained an average rate of over fifteen miles an hour.—Hardware.

Art of Flesh Reducing.

It is much easier to acquire flesh than to lose it. There is no royal road to beauty for those inclined to plumpness, and many are the things they are obliged to do to scare off fat.

An Englishman reduced his weight in one year from 202 to 150 pounds, and kept it there. He lived on beef, mutton, fish, bacon, dry toast, poultry, game, tea, coffee, claret and sherry.

Dr. Schweninger, the famous German physician, who has established his reputation as a flesh-reducer through his succes in ridding Prince Bismarck of forty pounds avoirdupois in three months, without the slightest deleterious effect upon his distinguished patient's physical condition, restricts the consumption of liquids at all times, and deprives the patient entirely of fluids during or within an hour of meals, forbids starch and sugar and advises most heroic physical exercise.

Physical exercise will, we all know, reduce flesh. The reason is, that in unusual exercise, such as rapid walking, horseback riding, gymnastics or bicycling, the blood is more rapidly oxygenated and the result is the destruction or burning out of the fat; and you may have noticed that great walkers are never fat, and that people who live in high altitudes and mountainous countries, where they walk a great deal and consume quantities of oxygen, are always slim.

Salisbury's Manners.

The change in the English Ministry recalls an old mot about the Marquis of Salisbury and Mr. Henry Manners, now the Marquis of Granby. Lord Salisbury, who is distinguished by his rudeness and brusquerie, had Mr. Manners as private secretary at one time, and as the latter is particularly suave and gracious, he was nicknamed "Salisbury's Manners." The English people are famous for fastening nick-names on their public men, but no matter how hard they strike home the men themselves never wince; but on the contrary, rather like the wit. Even the g.o.m. is said to have a collection of his caricatures that would make a sensitive, thin-skined American subject have a fit, and yet no one will say that Mr. Gladstone is lacking in feeling, or that he belongs to the pachyderms of society. Lord Salisbury looks the rude bear. His face, beside the milk-sop countenance of Lord Rosebery tells the whole story. In this instance, at least, nature has marked her work so a.l who run may read.—Boston Herald.

Been There.

Ham—What struck yer the most, Uncle Hiram, on yer visit ter New York?

Uncle Hiram (mournfully) — Bunco steere.s, my son.

Refrigerators, ice cream freezers, garden hose, nozzels, all new goods prices right. BOYLE & SON.

TRY IT FOR BACKACHE RHEUMATISM LUMBAGO NEURALGIA

USE IT FOR MUSCULAR PAINS AND ACHES

EACH IN AIR TIGHT TIN BOX. 25¢

D&L MENTHOL PLASTER

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

CURES

DYSPEPSIA, BAD BLOOD, CONSTIPATION, KIDNEY TROUBLES, HEADACHE, BILIOUSNESS.

B.B.B. unlocks all the secretions and removes all impurities from the system from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

BURDOCK PILLS act gently yet thoroughly on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

FOR DANDRUFF GENTLEMEN FIND PALMO-TAR SOAP EXCELLENT

IT CLEANSES THE SCALP RELIEVES THE DRYNESS AND SO PREVENTS HAIR FALLING OUT.

BIG CAKES HANDSOMELY PUT UP 25¢

COAL

Much heat at little cost when you burn our Coal.

If you have not been a customer in the past a trial will convince you that you ought to have been.

All coal under cover and thoroughly screened before delivery.

Prices as low as good Coal can be sold, at

The Rathbun Co.

SCRIBBLERS !

We manufacture the best Scribbling books for School use in Ontario. The paper is of a superior quality. Have you tried the PEN and INK SCRIBBLER, only 5 Cents.

200 Page SCRIBBLERS -

68 Page Scribbler, One Cent.

100 Page Scribblers, 3 cents, 2 for 5 cents

All Kinds of School Books and School Requisites kept in Stock.

THE POLLARD CO'Y.

EXPRESS BOOKSTORE, NAPANEE.

My Baby

was a living skeleton; the doctor said he was dying of Marasmus and Indigestion. At 13 months he weighed only seven pounds. Nothing strengthened or fattened him. I began using Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites, feeding it to him and rubbing it into his body. He began to fatten and is now a beautiful dimpled boy. The Emulsion seemed to supply the one thing needful.

Mrs. KENYON WILLIAMS,
May 21, 1894. Cave Springs, Ga.

Similar letters from other mothers.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!
Scott & Bowne, Belleville. 50c. and $1.

I CURE FITS!

Valuable treatise and bottle of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. H. G. ROOT, M.C., 186 West Adelaide Street, Toronto, Ont.

In the system, strains the lungs and prepares a way for pneumonia, oftentimes consumption.

PYNY-PECTORAL

positively cures coughs and colds in a surprisingly short time. It's a scientific certainty, tried and true, soothing and healing in its effects.

LARGE BOTTLE, ONLY 25 CENTS.

STOP WEARING A TRUSS

CHAPTER II.

Vane rode on in the best of spirits. It was a lovely view—the open sea, greenish grey, on his right, wild cliffs and grassy headlands on his left; but he had not much oportunity of admiring it for a time, for the young horse demanded—and got—all Vane's attention. He tried hard to "chuck" his rider, but Tempest, as the man at the inn had remarked, could ride, and after awhile the horse gave the thing up and went along pretty steadily. Vane rode on, thinking of nothing in particular, singing and whistling.

He was up to his neck in debt; he was going to see a man who would probably be anything but glad to see him, and the road before him was, so he had been emphatically told, a remarkably bad one.

But he was young—oh, blessed Youth!—and he was strong—oh! more blessed Health; and he was heart-whole; which is, perhaps, the most blessed condition of all three.

As regards the road, the account the landlord had given him did not trouble him in the least. He would reach Vale Hall sooner or later—sooner, he hoped, because he was beginning to fel hungry—and, well, there was no good in meeting trouble half-way.

He reached the turn of the road and took it, and presently the way became wilder. But it was very beautiful, and he looked about him and admired it. He fell to thinking a little of Senley Tyers and the strange side of his character which he had so suddenly revealed.

"Poor old Sen!" he said to himself. "They say all clever men have got a tile of some sort or other loose. Never heard him talk like that before, though. By George! he looked a perfect demon for the moment. He'd make his fortune on the stage. I'll tell him so. And so Florence wouldn't take the handkerchief from him! That's like her—yes. I expect she meant it. It's just what she'd do if she weren't in a particularly sweet humor."

He smiled a little as he said this to like this that you run out, or find you've forgotten your pipe, or used your last match."

He dropped the reins to get a light, and as he did so, the horse, which had stood perfectly still—the storm, and the distance had taken all the mischief out of it—moved forward slowly and steadily, and his doing so sent a sensible idea into Vane's head.

"Right!" he said. "You know the way, perhaps. Anyhow, I don't; so you can't make it worse than it is, old man. Go your road"; and let the reins hang loose.

The horse picked its way at a steady trot over the moors, through the narrow valley, and up the steep hill, and Vane Tempest let him go.

"Heaven only knows where you'll land us!" he said, aloud; "but, anyhow, we must arrive at somewhere, if we keep on long enough."

The road grew steeper, and suddenly they entered what looked to Vane like a simple rift in the rocks leading to nowhere. He was going to pull the horse up and dismount, when he saw just below them a rough wooden bridge across the cleft.

"Bravo!" he said, patting the horse's wet neck. "Here's the bridge, at any rate, and I suppose this is the Caldron. Come up, young 'un; we'll soon reach oats and hay now."

He touched the horse with his heel, and they trotted along the steep path and were almost on the narrow bridge when the horse shied and stopped.

Vane had been looking down into the depths which the bridge spanned, and was riding so carelessly that, if the truth must be told, he was nearly off. He recovered himself, however, almost immediately, and looked up to see the cause of the animal's fright.

He had not far to look. On the other end of the bridge stood a young girl. He pulled up with a tight rein and stared at her. Clouds of rainy mist drove down the valley between her and him so that she looked weird and phantom-like, and Vane thought for a moment that she was a spirit. She was dressed in a long, dark cloak, which fell from her head and shoulders, and her hair, which was very long and thick, hung down her back in a heavy plait. She was very pale, and her eyes looked unnaturally large and dark.

Vane thought all this in a moment, and then he saw that she was real flesh and blood, and that she was looking at him with a look of terror and dismay.

"I beg your pardon!" he said, hastily. "I'm afraid I frightened you. I'm very sorry. I'm a stranger in these parts, and I'm afraid I've lost my way."

The girl looked at him, and then at the horse, and then, with a sudden movement, she turned and ran down the path on the other side of the bridge.

Vane looked after her in surprise, and then, as she disappeared, he dismounted and led the horse over the bridge. As he did so, he saw the girl lying on the ground at the foot of the path, and he hastened to her side.

She was lying on her face, and Vane bent down over him. She looked at his face, at his hands, at his clothes, and on her own face dawned an expression of surprise and slowly gathering horror. She drew back and looked at him thoughtfully for a time, then she dropped the bridle and scooping up some water in her hands, hung it on the white face. Presently she drew nearer, and sitting on the ground beside him, raised his head and unfastened his collar and shirt, and after a moment's hesitation placed her hand on his heart.

As she did so, the fine texture of the linen, the gold albert, the thick ring on his little finger, seemed to attract her attention, and her dark brows met in a puzzled frown. She reached for some more water, and laid her cold hand on his forehead, and presently her primitive efforts for his recovery were rewarded.

Vane Tempest drew a long, painful breath, and slowly opened his eyes. There was no intelligence in them at first, but they began to clear, and his lips opened and quiveringly muttered:

"Sen, what's happened?"

The girl bent over to catch the words, and at the sound of his voice her expression of surprise and bewilderment grew intensified.

As he came still nearer consciousness, she gently put his head from her knee and laid it on the grass, and, drawing a little way from him, sat, half crouching, and watched and waited.

Vane sighed and stretched himself, then painfully raised himself on one elbow and looked around with dazed inquiry.

Presently his eyes fell upon the figure opposite him, and he stared at her with blank amazement.

The moon was clear and bright enough for him to see her quite distinctly; and her loveliness, her half-wild, barbaric attitude, the silent, intent gaze of her splendid eyes, fascinated him and drove the wandering sense almost out of him again.

In that moment he noticed that her eyes were not really black, as he had thought, but a dark, brilliant grey. This fact, in his half-delirious condition, seemed to attain most ridiculous importance in his mind.

She looked at him fixedly, remaining as motionless as if she was a carven image, but for the tresses of dark hair which moved with the wind.

Vane found his voice at last.

"What has happened?" he asked. "Where's—where's my horse?"

She raised her hand and pointed to the horse, who was limping and grazing at a short distance; then her hand fell into her lap.

"What was it?" asked Vane, putting his hand to his head. "The bridge gave way, didn't it? I seem to remember—ah, yes! that was it."

He looked up to where the [illegible] bridge spanned

A new device recently patented in U. S. and Canada by CHAS. CLUTHE

ESTABLISHED 1871

RUPTURE CAN BE CURED

WITH NO INCONVENIENCE

WITHOUT A TRUSS

CHEAP BY MAIL

Your name to us means comfort to you. A Post Card will do it.

Age of person or case immaterial

CHAS. CLUTHE
134 KING ST. WEST
TORONTO - - - - CANADA

Robert Light

Manufacturer and Dealer in

Rough and Dressed Lumber

Screen Doors,
Mouldings,
Bee Hives,
Stairs, Blinds,
Turned Work,
Wood Drapery,
Sash,

and Interior Finish for Buildings.

NAPANEE - - ONT

M. STORMS,

MOSCOW

has been over fifty years in the undertaking business in the county, and can turn out work equal to any in the Dominion.

A large stock of Coffins, Caskets, Robes, Crape Gloves and Badges, constantly on hand, and sold at reasonable prices.

Embalming a Specialty. Every facility on hand for doing the work.

25 per cent cheaper than any in the trade. Give me a call at Moscow.

M. STORMS, Prop.

Carscallen & Bro.,

Low Priced, No Combination

Undertaking Establishment.

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of all the latest designs to be found in which we are prepared to sell 25 per cent. cheaper than any house in the county. We use the best deodorizer, thus obviating all unpleasant odors. Embalming a Specialty. Having purchased one of the Handsomest Hearses at the Toronto exhibition we are prepared to attend personally funerals in the most satisfactory manner. The public will do well to call and examine our stock, and be convinced that ours is the place to buy.

COFFINS, CASKETS, ROBES, Etc.

We have also added a full line of the newest things in Wall Paper, Ceiling Decorations, Window Shades and Picture Railing, Paints and Oils Paint Mixed. Persons wanting anything in this line will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere. Remember the place, Centre-street one block south of Main were several women in London and elsewhere whose hearts reflected this young man's handsome face; but there was none who loved him more than Florence Heathcote; and, though he did not know it, he had only to go to her and say, "Florence, be my wife," and—well, all his troubles would have been over.

CARSCALLEN & BRO

But he was young, and full of strength, and heart-whole, and he could not have done so. He was an idle, careless, ne'er-do-well young man, but deep down in his heart was a feeling which would have prevented him from telling himself even to Florence Heathcote. In all his life he had not seen the woman—the one woman in all the world—for him.

And so he rode on to the Witches' Caldron and his fate.

He found the cairn of stones after a time, and rode across the moor. As he did so the sky became very black. It had been growing gradually darker for the last hour or so, but he had not noticed it; now it was pitchy, and presently the rain came down—not in a pleasant summer shower, but with all the force of an autumn storm.

Notwithstanding his boast, he felt that even his vaunted Irish frieze would not withstand such rain as this, and he cantered up to a shelving rock at the entrance to the valley and got into as much shelter as he could.

He lighted his pipe, turned up his collar, and made himself as comfortable as possible. The storm came on, and broke in real earnest; the thunder rolled along the hills and through the mountain-gorge with the roar of a park of artillery, and the flashes of lightning revealed a scene of grim solemnity which made him—alas! he was not an artist—think of the opening scene in a pantomime, when, to the weird squeaking of the fiddles and the double bass, the demons and ghouls flit about the stage and threaten things portentous.

The comparison had scarcely crossed his mind when, to his amazement, he saw, on a ledge of rock in front of him, the figure of a young girl.

For a moment he thought he must be dreaming. He had not passed a house, had not seen a sign of one; the only road was the one from which he had just turned off. It was impossible that a young girl should be walking, in what seemed an unconcerned manner, along the side of the cliff upon which a goat would find it difficult, in such a wind and rain, to keep its footing.

He strained his eyes through the darkness, but the flash had almost blinded him and he could see nothing.

Suddenly he heard a cry. It was something like that of a curlew. But Vane did not spend all his life in his chambers in St. James' street. He had stalked wild fowl too often not to know a counterfeit "cur-loo" from the real cry. It came from the spot—a little higher, perhaps—on which he had seen the figure; and as he stared curiously, another flash came, and he saw the girl again.

"Anyway, they're not afraid of a storm in these parts," he said to himself, keeping his eyes fixed on the cliffs opposite; but the figure did not appear again, though he fancied he heard the curious "cur-loo" still higher up the mountain.

The storm subsided, and he rode out on to the moor again. He was wet through, notwithstanding the rock, and his horse was as wet and cold as himself.

To make matters worse, he discovered, after half an hour, that he had lost his way. The slight moor track had disappeared, and he was riding at haphazard, without anything to guide him.

He pulled up and looked round. It was growing late, and through the rifts in the clouds the moon was shining in a watery fashion, which foreboded another storm presently.

"Well, of all the beastly places!" he began. Then he swore a little, but finished up with a laugh. "I would give anything if Sen were here," he said. "He hates this kind of thing so heartily. What's to be done? Go back, I suppose; but it seems to me that it would be as difficult to find my way back to the inn as to the Hall. What it really means, I expect, is a 'camp-out' in the most sheltered spot I can find. Thank goodness, there's food for the horse; but oh, Lord! what would I give for a chop and a glass of Bass! It's lucky I've got some bacca; it's generally on occasions

She stood quite motionless, and though he could not see her face, for at the moment the moon was obscured, his sophisticated eye took in the grace of the slim figure and its free, erect pose.

Suddenly, as he sat and looked at her, the moon came out and fell full upon her face, and Vane started.

In all his life he had never seen one half so beautiful.

Two great eyes, dark and luminous, were fixed upon him; a tress of hair blown free from the shapely head, floated one moment in the wind and lay like a snake the next across her bosom. Her lips were half parted, as if she were speaking, but he could hear no words.

He sat spell-bound. If he had met her at a ball in London he would have been struck by her beauty; but here, in this wild, heaven-forsaken place, her presence was—well almost appalling.

He recovered his presence of mind after—perhaps it was only a second or two though it seemed an age to him—and raising his hat, shouted:

"Will you please tell me if this is Garth's Hollow?"

She raised her hand, which had been resting on the bridge, and waved him back.

"No?" he said. "I beg your pardon, but I was told to cross the bridge."

She was motionless a moment, her eyes flashing on to his face; then she repeated the gesture: her lips opened, and in a clear voice, that was at once sweet and stern, she called:

"Go back!"

"No, thanks," he said to himself. "There must be a house somewhere near, or you wouldn't be here, and I shall have to ask shelter for the horse at any rate."

"I can't," he shouted. "This must be Garth's Hollow."

"Go back!" came the cry, thrilling across the chasm; and Vane fancied that there was a tone of warning in it.

He hesitated, the horse's hoofs just on the verge of the bridge.

"Is there another path around?" he said, looking about him.

Either she did not hear him, or did not choose to reply, and Vane sent the horse forward.

The hoofs beat on the wooden planks, raising a weird echo amid the howl of the wind, and the horse had got rather over the centre of the bridge when Vane, whose eyes had never left the girl's face, saw her spring a few feet up the rock behind her, saw her lift her arm—all gleaming white in the semi-darkness—and the next moment he was conscious that the bridge was giving way beneath him.

He felt himself falling, heard the horse scream in an agony of fright, saw the wall of rock rise, as it were, from the depths right up to heaven, and ingulfing, swallowing him and the horse in its strong jaws. Then all was blank.

But in that swift space of time, that flash of a second before the brain reeled into nothingness, he looked up and saw distinctly the lovely face of the girl—the dark, shining eyes—as, clutching the extreme edge of the rock, she bent over and watched him.

CHAPTER III.

The girl bent over the edge of the rock for a minute, looking into the ravine into which horse and rider had been precipitated; then she sprang to her feet, upright as a dart, and listened. All was silent below her. She stood motionless for a time, then, with firm and steady steps, descended by the narrowest of tracks down the rock.

A stream ran at the bottom of the valley and beside it she saw the horse struggling to rise. She sprung lightly from stone to stone, and cleared the bridle, which had got round his leg, and the horse, shaking and trembling, rose. Holding it, she peered round for the man. He lay a few feet from her, his face turned up to the angry sky, his tall form stretched its full length.

She hesitated a moment or two, but after awhile, leading the horse, went toward the man. The scurrying clouds left the moon clear for a space and lighted up Vane's face and form.

The girl looked, stared slightly, then

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

of the bridge ought to have fallen, but the bridge was in its place, and apparently whole.

He stared at it; then smiled ruefully.

"Oh! I say, you know, I must be dreaming," he muttered to himself. "But—how—on—earth—did I come here?" He tried to rise, but fell back. "I must have fallen, after all," he said, half to her, half to himself. "I wonder what part gave way, and how much is broken. Perhaps I'm smashed up altogether." Then he looked at the girl questionably. "It was all my own fault," he said. "I remember now—you tried to warn me that the thing wasn't safe. I wish I'd taken your advise and kept clear of it." Her delicately cut lips drew into a thin line and her eyes drooped. "Yes; it was all my own fault," Vane repeated, sitting upright and feeling his sides and arms. "Is the horse hurt, do you happen to know? But I beg your pardon; I expect you are too much upset to know anything about it."

"The horse is not much hurt or he would not graze," she answered.

Vane noticed the music in her voice—noticed, too, that there was a suggestion of refinement in the tones which was strangely inconsistent with her manner, her garb, and the wild spot in which she was sitting.

"I'm glad of that," he said. "How did you come down here?" and he looked curiously at the almost perpendicular rocks.

She pointed to the nearly indistinguishable track.

"Down there!" said Vane. "Good heavens!"

She watched him gravely, her eyes meeting his scrutiny without a waver in them; then she said, slowly:

"Is your leg broken?"

Vane laughed shortly.

"I don't know yet. Judging by my feelings, I should say that everything was broken." He got up gradually and found that he could stand. "No; I'm all right, apparently," he said, with evident relief and satisfaction. "We—the nag and I both—ought to have been killed; but I suppose this soft stuff saved us"; and he pressed the boggy grass upon which he had fallen.

"Yes," she said, simply. "But you struck your head," and she pointed to a stone against which his head had hit in his descent.

Vane smiled.

"If that's all, I'm all right," he said, lightly. "I'm pretty thick-headed, thank goodness. But here am I thinking only of myself. You must have been awfully upset. It's very good of you to take so much trouble, and I'm very sorry that my stupidity should have caused you so much inconvenience."

Her eyes fell before his, and she plucked a blade of grass and put it to her lip.

"Why did you come?" she asked, lifting her eyes to his face with a sudden flash. "You were warned."

"Warned," said he. "Oh, you mean by the landlord at the other place. Where is it—Trelorne? Well, he did remark that it was a rough road, but he said nothing about the bridge being so rotten that it might give way in the middle."

"The landlord?" she repeated, with a frown. "It was not he that warned you. We sent word to you to tell you that you came at your peril."

Vane stared at her, and put his hand to his head.

"I beg your pardon," he said, with a short laugh. "I think I must be half dazed still. You say you sent to warn me—sent direct to me?"

"You are the 'ciseman?" she said, but with a tone of doubt.

"The what?" he demanded.

She rose, her dark eyes fixed on him.

"You threatened us," she said, half fiercely, half sullenly.

Vane looked at her with a half bewildered expression.

"I think there must be some mistake, or else I am delirious and don't know what either of us is talkin about. You seem to know me, or think you do. What did you say I was?"

She shirked the question.

"Tell me your name?" she said.

"Tempest—Vane Tempest," he replied.

The color rose to her face, and she bit her under lip.

"That isn't the name," she said, as if to herself. "And—and—you are not the new 'ciseman?"

"Cise?—oh, exciseman, you mean?"

Keep Minard's Liniment in the House

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY--LIVER PILLS
CURE
BACK-ACHE
ONE PILL A DOSE-25¢ A BOX

he said.

He dropped on the ground and laughed grimly.

"No; I certainly am not."

"Is that a lie?" she demanded, in a low voice. "Are you tricking me? If so—"

Vane was wet and cold, and very much shaken, and his laugh was rather a rueful one.

"I don't in the least understand why you should suspect me of deceiving you," he said. "I am not only not the exciseman, but I scarcely know what an exciseman means. I was never in this part of the world before, and the whole business is a perfect mystery to me. Won't you explain what it is you are driving at?"

As he spoke he was conscious of a buzzing in his ears and a peculiarly inconvenient throbbing at the back of his head, and he felt himself growing pale and faint.

She came toward him and touched his arm with a curious mixture of shyness and command.

"I won't talk any more," she said. "Come with me. Give me your hand. You'd better close your eyes, or you'll be giddy and fall."

"No—no," he said, with all a man's dislike to being led about blindfolded—and by a girl!

"You'll fall for certain and drag me with you," she said, with almost stony calmness.

Tempest put out his hand, and her own closed over it. He noticed that hers was small.

"Where are you going to take me?" he asked, not unnaturally.

"Home," she replied, after a pause.

They ascended the narrow track, the girl taking the outside, and as they rose, she said:

"Close your eyes now."

Vane glanced down and obeyed. As they got higher and higher he asked himself if he were really awake, or dreaming.

Only two nights ago he was in London; had dined at his club, and gone to a dance afterward; and here he was—if he were really awake—clinging to a girl's hand and climbing a hill in a wild spot which suggested Corsica, the Rockies—any desolate, man-forsaken region, rather than mild, prosaic England, and being led whither he knew not.

In the midst of his speculations and wonder he was conscious that the small hand which inclosed his had grown warmer. The sensation of the firm, soft fingers was a strange one, and should have dispelled any apprehension that he might have felt. The sweep of a colder wind told him that they had reached the top of the hill.

"You may look now," said the low clear voice.

Vane opened his eyes and looked round. Before them was the wide expanse of sea, and waves ran high, their crest shining in the fitful moonlight.

"Oh, no!" said Vane.

She smiled grimly.

"You are as white as a sheet of paper," she said. "And you have cut your head; it is bleeding. You had better stay here till morning. I will see to your wound and get you some supper."

Vane protested.

"I wouldn't think of giving you so much trouble," he said, earnestly.

But she waved her hand again and motioned him to a seat by the fire.

Vane sat down, and was glad enough to do so, for he had felt well-nigh exhausted, and the dull pain at the back of his head was in full force again.

The woman went outside and brought in a basin of water and bathed the wound, the water feeling like ice on Vane's burning head.

"You must be strong, sir," she remarked, significantly.

Vane laughed faintly.

"Pretty strong; and I've got a thick head," he said. "That reminds me—my horse."

"My niece tells me that he is not much hurt," she said. "And he will not stray from the grass by the stream. You will find him there in the morning, if—"

She stopped and looked at him intently; then said something to Nora, who had been standing by the fire watching with grave eyes and compressed lips.

She started slightly, bent her dark gaze on Vane's pale face, then went through a door-way behind him, which Vane had not hitherto noticed. In a minute or two she reappeared with a mug.

"Drink some of this brandy, sir," said the woman.

Vane took the mug, and was surprised to find that it shook in his hand. The girl put out her hand and held the mug firmly for him.

"Some water," he said; and he knew that his voice was faint.

The woman shook her head.

"Not with this; it does not need it," she said; and Vane, sipping it, noticed that it was soft and mild.

"That's — very — good — brandy," he said, with some difficulty, for he felt dizzy, and would have fallen but that the girl leaned forward and caught him in her arms. He had fainted.

DECAY OF BOHEMIANISM.

Practically Dead, Though Some People Make a Fad of It.

Bohemianism is dead, and those who call themselves bohemians at the present day wear their rue with a difference. Sometimes they mistake the attendant circumstances for the cause, and think themselves entitled to a reputation for ability, merely because they refuse to go to bed at the same time as ordinary humanity. Such men, of course, have no right to call themselves after a distinguished and not unhonorable name. The mere habit of large suppers and late hours and loose ways of life generally has nothing which associates itself with that ready aptitude for all kinds of work, and that disciplined though somewhat fitful activity, which were the marks of the true bohemian.

There is no more significant proof of the change that has come over the artistic and literary world than the fact that every attempt to revive the old bohemianism in its former shape has invariably resulted in failure. The demand for the "good old" sanded floor and clay pipe of the past is limited to an undistinguished few, and the supply of these obsolete luxuries, when wanted, meets with no general appreciation. In like manner eccentricities of conduct which were once regarded as virtues rather than vices are no longer tolerated, and the so-called bohemian of these days is expected to pay, and does pay, his club subscription and his just debts. He is not so picturesque as he was, but he is much more punctual.

The causes of these changes is not far to seek. Nowadays the standard of life has risen in all the social spheres, and while the British workman demands his higher wages and more ample leisure, the artist would clothes himself in purple and fine linen and requires to be surrounded with all the comforts and extravagances and palatial clubs. Only there is no eight-hour limit for the contemporary inhabitant of this non-

"You can always guess a woman's age if she'll give you three guesses," remarked Sinnick. "I don't believe it," "It's true, though. It's bound to be sixteen, twenty-six or sixty."—Washington Star.

Found the Missing Word.

A hotel clerk told this story: Three men from the country came into the hotel and registered for lodging, and a few minutes later two of them went out to see the town. "I will stay here," said the third, "and look at things," and he took a seat near the door.

At 10 o'clock, a half an hour later, the man who was left went up to the clerk.

"I want to remain," said he.

"All right sir," answered the clerk. The man stood back and looked at the clerk and finally went back to his chair near the door.

He sat still another hour and returned to the desk. "If you please, I'll remain," he said.

"That's all right sir," was the response. "We hope you'll be with us some time." The man hesitated and went back to the chair.

It was after midnight when he went up to the clerk for the third time. "I think I'll remain, sir," he said.

"We have no objections," answered the man behind the desk.

The guest did not go back to his chair, however, but stood still. Shortly afterward another guest came up and asked the clerk for his key, "and I'll retire—"

"Retire! Retire! That's the word I've been trying to think of for three hours. For heaven's sake let me retire," interrupted the man who had desired to remain, and he was at last happy.

First cycler (nearing a road house)—Do you suppose we can get anything to drink there? Second cycler—Just look at the enormous aggregation of wheels in the carriage shed.—Life.

Walk O. Nights—Doctor, what is a simple remedy for sleeplessness? Doctor—Let the person count until he is asleep. Walk O. Nights—He can't count. It's the baby.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"O, yes, my husband has been a collector of curios and such things for a number of years." "Was he in that business when he married you?" "Yes indeed." "I thought so." — Atlanta Constitution.

PERFECT MANHOOD!

How attained—how restored—how preserved, Ordinary works on Physiology will not tell you: the doctors can't or won't; but all the same you wish to know. Your are the Key to Life and its reproduction. Our book lays bare the truth. Every man who would regain sexual vigor lost through folly, or develop members weak by nature or wasted by disease, should write for our sealed book, "Perfect Manhood." No charge. Address (in confidence),

SEXUAL POWERS

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

"No," she said; "down below"; and she pointed to a cleft on the opposite side of the hill to that which they had left. "Follow me, and mind how you come; it is not so bad as the other path, but a false step—" She paused.

"I'm a pretty good climber," said Vane; "but hadn't I better go first, in case I should fall and knock you over?"

She shook her head and began to descend, springing quickly from point to point. Then she appeared to remember that he was not so familiar with the road, and slackened her pace.

The track gradually wound round toward the shore, and Vane caught glimpses of the sea now and again. But suddenly it turned inland, and the girl, stopping at the door of a rough cabin built of the debris of wrecks, knocked twice, and, as it semed to Vane, in a peculiar way. He heard a sound as of the shifting of an iron bar and the click of a heavy lock, and the door was opened by a woman.

"Is that you, Nora?" she asked, peering out at them, the light of a huge wood fire making a red background behind her. Then she caught sight of Vane, and added something in the local dialect, and so quickly, that he could not distinguish a word; then her hand went up mechanically to the door as if to close it.

The girl made some reply, unintelligible to him for the same reason, which appeared to reassure the woman, and she stood aside. The girl signed to Vane to enter, and he stepped in.

The interior was of the roughest description, but looked snug and comfortable enough. Great logs burned on the stone hearth and afforded more light than the single oil-lamp, which hung from the low rafter formed by the middle seat of the upturned fishing-boat that served for roof.

Vane took off his drenched cap.

"I am very sory to intrude—" he began.

But the girl's voice broke in, and in clear, rapid tones she gave some account of the adventure to the woman.

Vane caught a word here and there, but that was all.

As the girl proceeded, the woman fixed her eyes searchingly upon Vane, then she clicked her tongue with an expression of annoyance and turned to him.

"You've had a narrow escape," she said.

Vane noticed with surprise that her voice had the same tone of refinement in it which rang in the girl's, and he looked curiously at her.

She was past middle age; her hair was white as snow; but there was still fire in her eyes, and her lips were firm and resolute; she was as tall and gaunt, and dressed like a fisherwoman of the district. But for her voice there would have been nothing noticeable about her.

"Yes," said Vane, "it was a very unpleasant incident, and but for your daughter's pluck and kindness—"

The two women exchanged a curious glance, and the girl turned to the fire and hung a kettle on the crook.

"She is my niece, not my daughter, sir," said the woman, "and she tells me she did very little except bring you here."

"But for her I should now be lying at the bottom of—what do you call it?—Garth's Hollow," said Vane. "I am very grateful to her."

The woman waved her hands as if desirous of cutting short his thanks.

"It was foolish to attempt to cross the Witches' Caldron at this time of night, in such weather," she said, gravely.

The weird name struck Vane, and he looked from the woman to the girl. Which was the witch?

"Yes," he said. "I was told that the road was rough; but I think I should have managed all right if the middle of the bridge hadn't caved in. I suppose there is another road besides the narrow track we came up by—I mean to Vane Hall."

"You are going to Vane Hall, sir?" she said.

"Yes," said Vane; "and now I have thanked you, I had better get on my way."

The girl looked round quickly, and, as if in response to her look, the woman said, but with a slight hesitation:

"It is late, and very rough. You wouldn't be able to find the road; besides, you are hurt."

hard-hearted proprietors and managers. Although his dinners and his suppers are much more costly than they used to be in the old days, he does not work less hard, nor is his labor less worthy of ungrudging praise.

Meanwhile both actors and journalists have transformed the whole miseen-scene of their lives; there is no more sackcloth nor locusts and wild honey for them; they are clad in the broadcloth of the ordinary world and have soared into a social sphere which their predecessors neither knew nor cared about. Possibly this may be the effect of that general equalization of conditions which accompanies the whole course of our modern democracy. We all dress alike, live alike, acknowledge the same social rules, adopt the same luxurious or extravagant tastes. The point to notice, however, is that the worth of the individual has not grown less, despite this democratic tendency. On the contrary, his value, both to himself and to others has enormously increased. The modern dramatist makes if he be not maligned, an extremely respectable fortune, and Mr. Gosse has informed us recently—and has, of course, suffered for his rashness—that the profits of certain of our more popular authors have gone up by leaps and bounds.—London Telegraph.

At Their City Cousin's.

"Goll durn me, Eph, bue Jeems can't have a boy big 'nuff to wear pants thet size."

That Tired Feeling

Means danger. It is a serious condition and will lead to disastrous results if it is not overcome at once. It is a sure sign that the blood is impoverished and impure. The best remedy is

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

Which makes rich, red blood, and thus gives strength and elasticity to the muscles, vigor to the brain and health and vitality to every part of the body. Hood's Sarsaparilla positively

Makes the Weak Strong

"I have used six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a general tonic and have enjoyed the best of health. Although I had a strain of work I have had no sick spells for many months and no lost time, so I am doubly repaid." THOMAS S. HILL, 261 Brussells St., St. John, New Brunswick.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Only

True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye.

Hood's Pills cure habitual constipation. Price 25c. per box.

"E. B. EDDY."

This name we naturally associate with the Best Matches.

Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company

GENERAL PASSENGER TIME TABLE.

Eastern Standard Time. No. 9. Taking effect October 8th, 1893

Tweed and Tamworth to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2 A.M.	No.4 P.M.	No.6 P.M.
Lve	Tweed	0	7 00	....	3 00
	Stoco	3	7 08	....	3 10
	Larkins	7	7 20	....	3 25
	Marlbank	13	7 35	....	3 40
	Erinsville	17	7 50	....	3 55
	Tamworth	20	8 00	2 00	4 10
	Wilson*	24	....	....	....
	Enterprise	26	8 18	2 20	4 30
	Mudlake Bridge*	28	....	....	....
	Moscow	31	8 30	2 35	4 43
	Galbraith*	33	....	....	....
rr	Yarker	35	8 43	2 50	4 55
Lve	Yarker	35	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	39	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills	40	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	41	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	43	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	49	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee	49	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	54	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	58	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Tamworth and Tweed.

	Stations.	Miles	No.1 A.M.	No.3, P.M.	No.5 P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	9 00	12 45	5 05
	Galbraith*	25	....	....	....
	Moscow	27	9 15	1 00	5 22
	Mudlake Bridge*	30	....	....	....
	Enterprise	32	9 30	1 15	5 35
	Wilson*	34	....	....	....
	Tamworth	38	9 50	1 35	5 55
	Erinsville	41	10 00	....	6 05
	Marlbank	45	10 15	....	6 18
	Larkins	51	10 30	....	6 35
	Stoco	55	10 50	....	6 50
Arr	Tweed	58	11 00	....	7 00

Kingston and Sydenham to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2. A. M.	No.4. P.M.	No.6. P.M.
Lve	Kingston	0	6 45	....	3 30
	G. T. R. Junction	2	6 55	....	3 40
	Glenvale*	10	7 17	....	....
	Murvale*		7 27	....	4 18
Arr	Harrowsmith	19	7 40	....	4 30
Lve	Sydenham	24	8 00	....	....
	Harrowsmith	19	8 20	....	4 30
	Frontenac*	22	8 32	....	4 42
Arr	Yarker	26	8 40	....	4 50
Lve	Yarker	26	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	30	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	31	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	32	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	34	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	40	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee, West End	40	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	45	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	49	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Sydenham and Kingston.

	Stations.	Miles.	No.1 A.M.	No.3, P.M.	No.5. P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburg	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 16
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 22
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 35
	Sydenham	34	....	....	5 50
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Murvale*	35	9 17	....	....
	Glenvale*	39	....	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 50	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

B. C. CARTER, Asst. Gen. Manager

G. A. BROWNE, Gen. Pass. Agent

H. B. SHERWOOD Superintendent.

INSIST UPON A

HEINTZMAN CO. PIANO

WHEN you are ready to purchase a Piano for a lifetime, not the makeshift instruments for a few years' use, but the Piano whose sterling qualities will leave absolutely nothing to be desired, then insist upon having a

Heintzman & Co. Piano.

Its pure singing tone is not an artificial quality soon to wear away, leaving harshness in place of brilliancy, dullness in place of sweetness, but an inherent right of the Heintzman. Forty-five years of patient endeavor upon this point, non-deterioration with age, has made the Heintzman what it is—the acknowledged standard of durability.

CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION

HEINTZMAN & COMPANY, 117 King st. West, Toronto.

The Napanee Express

$1.

The Weekly Globe.

BEST CLUBBING OFFER EVER MADE.

By paying one dollar in advance these two popular and reliable papers will be sent post free to the subscriber's address. Call at the "Express Office" and secure this bargain.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

89c.

PER PAIR.

See the display of Blankets in our west window this week at 89c. per pair. We have them in three shades, white, grey and tan.

FIne Ordered Clothing

JAS. WALTERS, CUTTER.

This week we have to hand a large shipment of Suitings, Pantings and Overcoatings, which are the very newest things in the trade and away down in price. If you are in need of clothing we have the goods to please you and prices that will interest you. Mr. Walters is just as skilful as ever, and can make you a better suit than any tailor in town; but this year he has made a new departure in prices. His prices are now the lowest- He will make you suits to order for $12 that were worth $15 and $16. He will make you suits to order for $15 and $16 that are simply magnificent. We hope to be favored with a call when you are in need of clothing.

Grey Cottons.

People say that our Grey Cottons beat the world. If you will examine them we think you will say so too.

Flannelettes.

There is no necessity to quote you prices in Flannelettes. If we don't sell you cheaper than any other house we won't ask you to buy.

NOTICE—During the balance of August our store will be closed on Friday afternoons.

THE ROBINSON CO'Y.

CARLETON WOODS.
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Hogs Wanted.

I will ship hogs on Wednesday next the Fresh meats always on hand at Lawson's Telephone 31.

Russet Floridas or Bright, at Davis, sweet, 25 to 40 cents.

Don't forget that J. F. Smith is handling fresh salmon trout and whitefish. 36cp

Close's Mills will shut down for repairs for one week, commencing Wednesday, Aug 21st. J. A. Close.

Impure blood is the cause of boils, pimples and other eruptions. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, and cures these troubles.

Miss Louise Daly, Soloist in Christ's church Cathedral, Montreal, will sing in the Eastern Methodist church, at Sunday evening service.

Walter Pringle, of Belleville, son of Lewis Pringle, died on August 15th. He was well known in town and was a most popular young man in Belleville.

Take Bay of Quinte excursion to 1000 Islands and Alexandria Bay on Saturday Aug 24th from all Stations on the line. Fare $1, on regular morning train. Returning leaves Kingston, 6 p.m.

The gathering of the Sons of Scotland at Massassaga Park on Friday last was a grand success. It is said that there was the largest number of people on the Point since the Indians camped there in 1492.

Wheat is down and so is Keewatin Flour. You better get Kimmerly's prices for Flour before buying. Our 25 cent Tea beats the world and don't you forget it. 22 lbs. best granulated sugar for $1 cash, 10 Bars Soap for 25c. Finest Pearl Topioca 5c, per lb, 4 lbs. Crackers 25c.

A certain magazine says: It was clearly meant that all men, as well as all women, should marry; and those who, for whatever reason, miss this obvious destiny are from nature's point of view failures. This may be very true, but as far as the man is concerned it depends upon whether he has money enough to keep a wife properly.

Did you ever Think. That you cannot be well unles you have pure, rich blood? If you are weak, tired languid and all run down, it is because your blood is impoverished and lacks vitality. These troubles may be overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla because Hood's Sarsaparilla makes pure, rich blood. It is, in truth the great blood purifier.

The residence of Mr. H. C. Taylor, of the firm of Taylor & Green, dry goods merchants, Gananoque, was entered by burglars last Thursday night. The room in which Mr. Taylor was sleeping was entered and all the jewellery consisting of diamond rings, two gold watches, and numerous other articles were secured. All the silverware in the house was also taken. The thieves went to the cellar and helped themselves to pies, etc., and had a very good lunch. It has not yet been ascertained what really was taken from the house, but in value it will probably amount to $600. There are no clues to the perpetrators of the robbery.

Ladies' Aid Excursion.

The Ladies' Aid of the Western Church will run an excursion to Glen Island, on Friday Aug 23rd per Steamer Reindeer. Leaves Napanee at 1 p.m. Tickets 25cts.

Niagara Falls and Return, Fare, $3.25.

Niagara Falls and return, Fare $3.25. Tickets good to go by p. m. trains August 19th, and a. m. trains Aug. 20th, and return August 23rd. For tickets and all information apply to

J. L. Boyes, Napanee.

A Cheap Trip.

Court Deseronto I. O. F. runs an excursion to Thousand Islands park on Saturday Aug. 24th, by Str. Merritt. You will have a good time if you take this trip. Bay Ports and return, only $1. Below Picton 75c. Kingston 35c.

Salvation Army.

Dont fail to attend the musical meeting led by the "Naval Brigade" of the Steam Yacht, "William Booth" on Tuesday evening Aug 20th. An excellent brass band, lots of music and a special treat for all. Every body come.

Selling Out.

I take this opportunity to thank my nnmerous friends for their liberal patronage, and announce that on or abount Oct. 1st I will close out my business. Good bargains in many lines may be looked for in the mean time.

Yours truly,
Thos. Symington.

Should be Investigated.

In the interest of the citizens would it

White Agate.

Just arrived from Germany, and the prices are away down. Note, Number 9 White Agate Kettle $1.50, 10 quart pail 90c. &c.

T. H. WALLER,
Agent for the Monarch Bicycle.

Uncle Tom.

The Walker troupe were in town on Monday with Uncle Tom's Cabin and secured fairly good patronage.

A Return Visit.

Dr. E. W. Wright, Brooklyn, specialist in diseases of eye, ear, throat and nose, will visit Napanee again on Saturday, August 24 th, at the Paisley House.

Fixing up a Bit.

Our genial barber Andy has been fixing up a bit in his barber shop. He has put in a new case with large plate glass mirrors which adds very much to the appearance of the shop. Andy is a hustler and bound to be in the swim.

Civic Holiday.

Napanee's Civic holiday was well observed. Quite a number went on the Oddfellow's excursion to Ottawa. The Ella Ross took out a big load to Picton to see the bicycle races. We supposed those who went to Ottawa visited the "boodlers' den" and also the "divorce incubator."

Excursion to Manitoba.

G. T. R. Ry. Excursion to Manitoba, August 20th. fare $10. Tickets must be purchased Monday, Aug. 19th, and passengers leave on morning train Aug. 20th. Tickets good to return up to Nov. 30th upon payment of $18 extra. For tickets and all information apply to

J. L. Boyes, Napanee.

A Bad Tumble.

On Monday morning last a young lad in company with his father was coming down the stairs in the Albert block leading from the second flat to the street, when his foot slipped and he fell from top to bottom. The boy was stunned by the fall and was bruised about the body and face. It was first feared that he was badly injured but after a short time he recovered and seems none the worse for his fall except a bruise on his face.

Two Good Bands.

Napanee was visited this week by two first-class musical organizations in the band of the 14th Batt. Kingston, and the Oddfellow's-Military band, Belleville. One feature of the Kingston band was their "big drummer" who wielded the stick in a most artistic manner. The Belleville boys looked neat and tidy in their white coats and hats. As to the playing one was appreciated as much as the other. Both places have a band of which they have every reason to feel proud.

Sold the Outfit.

On Friday week a man giving his name as John Smith drove in from Napanee to Kingston put up his horse and rig at McRae's livery stable. He wanted to sell the outfit on Saturday, and Mr. Hub Lewis driver of the bath stage seeing a good bargain, took him up. Lewis paid thirty-eight dollars for the outfit. The same afternoon Smith left for down the river on the str. Empire State. Last Wednesday John Esford came down from Napanee looking for the horse. He said he had loaned it to Smith. The owner left for Bath to claim his property.

Burglaries.

For the past two weeks this town has been pestered with some person who is too proud to beg, but not possessed of a sense of honesty which would keep him from stealing. We have of late heard of some cases of burglaries which have been committed in town, and business men have been the losers. It seems to be the work of an amatuer in nearly every case. Robinson & Co's, John Paisley's and M. W. Pruyn & Son's have been visited. In the latter place the large sum of ten cents was secured. Some of these fine days whoever the thief is, he will run the length of his rope, and be brought up with a sharp jerk.

A Free Library.

On Monday evening last Dr. S. P. May, of Toronto, superintendant of Mechanic's Institutes and public libraries visited Napanee, and met with the directors of the public library and Town Council, for the purpose of instituting a free library under the provisions of an act passed at the last session of Ontario Legislature. For a number of years the institution has been

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Express Office, Napanee.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, AUG. 9, 1895.

All local reading notices or notices announcing entertainments at which a fee is charged for admission, will be charged 5c per line for each insertion, if in ordinary type. In black type the price will be 10c per line each insertion.

Cakes always fresh and in great variety at Davis'.

Machine Oil, Paris Green, Hay Fork and pullies at BOYLE & SON'S.

Demerara sugar is again being brought into Kingston and sold at 21 lbs. for a dollar. This is pure cane sugar.

Mr. C. A. Holden, who was in town for some time as agent for the Gold Cure Institute is now traveling for a dry goods house.

One day last week a man who lives near Cornwall was driving home, and his horse not going to please him he cut its throat then and there with his jack-knife and left it to die on the road. It is also said that the same individual, last winter, beat the eyes of a horse out with a sleigh stake.

In Buffalo the other day a Pole named Szrankewcyzkiwicz was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. At police headquarters the prisoner was asked his name and while trying to answer fell in a fit and choked to death. The coroner decided that no inquest was necessary. He might have lived longer had he abbreviated.

Mrs. Diamond, Belleville, summoned to appear in the police court to answer to the charge of ill treating her 14 year old stepson. It was refuted that she tied the boy down and thrashed him for half an hour and was then only stopped it is said by a neighbor who interfered. Report has it she is a member of the Tabernacle. This is not the only instance of ill-treatment.

The United States authorities have abolished quarantine rules on Canadian sheep and lambs, intended for immediate shipment on condition that they are accompanied by certificates from an official veterinary inspector, that no contagious disease affecting sheep has existed in the district from which the sheep were exported and also that said sheep or lambs were not outside that district, from which they were imported for three months preceding shipment and that they have been shipped in clean and disenfected cars.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

I will shrink all full hogs ten pounds each.
C. E. BARTLETT.

Master Charlie Orr had the misfortune of spraining his arm on Monday last.

On Wednesday morning last Mr. Orlin Herring, had a paralytic stroke in his left side.

Go to Symington's for the Flour that makes the Big Loaf, Rogers patent, the best in Canada.

Mrs. Schryver, mother of Mrs. C. Knight had a paralytic stroke on Thursday last. At last report she was doing nicely.

The steamer Alexandria ran aground near Presque Ile on Monday last owing to a dense fog. She sustained no damage.

Apple Parers, Clothes Wringers, Hanging Lamps, all kinds of hardware cheap, Tinware selling at reduced rates. Clearing sale of stoves. BOYLE & SON

Wednesday afternoon Mr. John Huffman was coming down street with a load of barrels when his horse got a little frisky and started to run away. It did not go far but some of the barrels were scattered along the street.

It is rumored that a party of Belleville gentlemen are negotiating for a fast excursion boat for next season, to ply on the Bay of Quinte. She is to have a speed of from fifteen to sixteen miles an hour, so report says, also Electric and Search lights, and fitted up with all modern conveniences.

Last Saturday morning, at Kingston, corporation employers, while making a drain on Ordnance street, struck nine coffins. Two were children's coffins and one contained a skull. There were no no bones or other matter in the seven adult coffins. The street in olden times used to be a part of the old graveyard. The coffins were resting on brick beds, and about four feet under the surface.

Not since the day that Edward Hanlan returned from England as Champion sculler of the world has there been such a reception tendered to any distinguished citizen of this province as has been given to private Hayhurst, winner of the Queen's Prize at Bisley. Some make the assertion that he is not a Canadian, having been born in England. Be that as it may, he is now living in Canada, and has brought the prize and honor to this country, and being true son of Britain our hearts warm at the very sound of the name of private Hayhurst.

DAFOE & PAUL,
Undertakers
EVERYTHING NEW AND FIRST-CLASS.

HOW'S THIS UMPIRE?

If a tie and a half cost a quarter and a half what will one tie cost.

The correct answer and the Tie can be found at

Radford & Son
THE OUTFITTERS.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

have police to arrest people who are drunk, but then when robberies are committed the police should also try and find out who the guilty parties are and bring them to justice.

Harvest Home Dinner.

Selby Circuit will D. V. hold its third Harvest Home in the interest of the parsonage fund, on Wednesday, Sept. 4th, in the Orchard Grove, Selby. Dinner served at 12 noon, good music, good addresses etc. in the church. Come and aid a good enterprise, and enjoy a grand entertainment. Tickets, 35c., Children, 20 cts.

Oddfellow's Excursion to Ottawa.—Great Success.

About 100 from Belleville, 300 from Napanee, 100 from Fredericksburgh, Ernestown and Collins Bay, 300 from Kingston, and 100 from other points made a grand excursion of about 800. A good time and home safe in Napanee at 2 a.m. Thursday morning.

Good Concert.

The Fostelle Concert Company, of Cleveland, who have been cruising around the bay for some time, in Myra Mills' yacht, Madge, gave a concert in the Opera hall here on Monday evening. The attendance was fairly good, and the numbers given by the company, and by the Quartette, were exceptionally pleasing, and secured hearty applause.

See Here.

On Saturday, Aug. 24th, the Str. Merritt has been engaged for an excursion to Thousand Island Park and Alexandria Bay under the auspices of Court Deseronto I. O. F. No. 93. The Steamer will leave Trenton 6 a. m.; Rednerville, 7; Belleville, 7:30, Northport, 8;30; Deseronto, 9; Picton 10:30; Glenora, 11; Bath, 12:45 p m. Kingston, 3 p m, arriving at Thousand Island Park at 6 o'clock Returning, leave Thousand Island Park, Monday, 7 a m.

1000 Island Excursion.

The excursion to the 1000 islands on Saturday last was a very enjoyable one and all returned home much pleased with the trip and with the managers Messrs. Crossley and Stratton. The same trip will be made again on Saturday next August 17th. Take the morning train on Bay of Quinte Ry. and connect with boat at Kingston at 3 p.m. Swift's wharf, or take the boat at Deseronto at 9 a.m. Tickets $1.00 by boat, a trifle more by train. Come along.

Bath Church Centennial.

A very large congregation considering the threatening weather was present on Monday evening 11th August, in St. John's church to hear the rector's sermon on the Centennial and the Langhorn memorial chancel. It was preached the same afternoon at 3 p.m. at St. Paul's church, Sandhurst, at the invitation of the rector of Adolphustown. Mr. Langhorn built the first St. Paul's church 100 years ago. Some in Bath congregation are calling for a repetition of the sermon.

A Warning to Smokers.

For some time past certain dealers have been selling inferior brands of tobacco when "T & B" is asked for, thus not only trading on the reputation of the manufacturer but also injuring the sale of the article. The Geo. E. Tuckett & Son Co., of Hamilton, have taken the matter in hand and intend prosecuting the offenders. Smokers should be careful to see the "T & B" stamped on each plug as, to gain extra profit, unscrupulous dealers tear the tag off other brands and say it is "T & B" and "just as good."

A Nuisance Gone.

On Wednesday morning the Merry-go-round people pulled stakes and left town. All that we can say is we are glad, for it was a nuisance. The jangle-jangle of an outrageous resemblance to a tune, ground out by the hour night after night, on an old hurdy-gurdy kind of an organ, was well calculated to drive a nervous person to the lunatic asylum. Nevertheless the small boy was delighted with the infernal machine, and would bestride a wooden horse with the air of a conqueror, à la Napoleon crossing the Alps. It is to be hoped the council will raise the license on these rigs.

The Bay of Quinte Ry. will run an excursion to 1000 islands and Alexandria Bay on Saturday Aug, 24th, from all stations on the line, leaving Napanee on regular morning train. Fare $1.00. Returning, train leaves Kingston at 6 p.m.

government grants according to expenditure and efficiency and also an additional grant for membership. Under the provisions of the new act the name may be changed to Free Library. In order to do this the directors of the public library shall hand over to the town council the assets, and the town council shall pass a by-law levying a rate on the assessment in order to raise the sum of $200 which amount is equal to the government grant. The opinions of those present were expressed on the advisability of making the change. The principal point in discussion was whether the sum of $400 per annum would be sufficient to pay the running expenses of free libraries to keep a place which the patronage would demand, and also as to whether the council should saddle another burden on the ratepayers by taxation. There was one point to be considered that the expression of the ratepayers should be secured before any move is taken and this would cause expense to the town. In event of a free library being established the board of directors shall be appointed as follows.—Three members by the town Council, three by board of education with the mayor as member ex-officio. Nothing definite was done at the meeting, and the question will doubtless be brought before the town council. It may be as well to state free libraries have been instituted in many towns and cities in the province. We would like to hear from the ratepayers on the question.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. J. Gates, Mrs. N. Vanalstine and Mrs. James Graham spent Saturday and Sunday in Sydenham with Mrs. J. Graham.

Mr. Ed. Graham and Miss Lizzie Pratt spent Sunday in Camden East.

Mr. Ernest Benn and Miss Lizzie Tisdale spent spent Sunday in town with Mrs. N. Benn and Miss Effie Vanalstine.

The many Napanee friends of Rev. J. E. Mavety will be sorry to hear of his serious illness. He has been ordered by his physician to take a prolonged rest.

Miss L. Wilson, Kingston, is the guest of Miss Georgie Daly.

Mr. C. H. Corbett, of Kingston, was in town this week during the races.

Mr. Pat McLaughlin was in town this week attending the races.

Mrs. Rev. Dr. McRety, and daughter Lucille, from Peoria, Ills., are visiting her sister, Mrs. S. J. Vrooman.

Miss Laura Gowan returned home Wednesday to Deseronto after a visit for two weeks to Mrs. Leslie Shannon.

Miss Blanche Taylor, of Belleville, is visiting Mrs. Leslie Shannon.

Mr. Robert Orr left on Friday for Winchester.

Mrs. Rev. C. O'Dell Bailey and children, of Derby, N. B., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. McGuiness, West Plain.

Mrs. E. L. McGuiness, of Derby, N. B., is home visiting her parents.

Mrs. Selden Ketcheson, Sidney Crossing, is visiting at her Fathers, Jas. Denyes, Violet.

Mrs. Dewdney, of Toronto, is visiting in town at the residence of her father's, H. Douglass, East Street.

Mr. Perry Huffman, of Belleville, is spending his holidays in town.

Mr. Wellington Babcock, of Wilton, and Hirarn Walker, of Florida, made a business trip to Napanee, Tuesday.

Mr. Wesley Parrott, of Wilton, was in town on Tuesday attending to his insurance about loss of Barn and contents by lightning.

Miss Rosa Shibley, daughter of Byard Shibley, of Wilton, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Lapum this week.

Dr. Wilder, of Lycoming, and Lawyer Mead, of Huetin, New York State, made our town a visit on business, Friday, Aug. 9th.

Master Ted Eakins left for Belleville by Friday excursion on the Ella Ross.

Master Harrie Eakins, left for Belleville this morning on his bicycle.

Mr. Wellington Loyst and wife, of Mount Pleasant, visited Mr. J. C. Houghton, Black Lake, N. Y., on Wednesday.

General Davies and Party, of New York City, are spending a couple of months fishing down the bay the guest of Mr. W. H. Loyst, Hay Bay.

WRIGHT—CUMMINGS—At Kingston, on Thursday, August 15th, Miss Cummings, daughter of Mrs. G. Cummings, Rock St. to Mr Herbert Wright, of Napanee. The happy couple left for New York on a short pleasure trip.

The French mode of conducting auctions is rather curious. In sales of importance the affair is placed in the hands of a notary, who, for the time being, becomes an auctioneer. The auctioneer is provided with a number of small wax tapers, each capable of burning about five minutes. As soon as a bid is made, one of these tapers is placed in full view of all interested parties, and lighted. If, before it expires, another bid is offered, it is immediately extinguished and a fresh taper placed in its stead, and so on, until one flickers and dies out of itself, when the last bid becomes irrevocable. This simple plan prevents all contention among rival bidders, and affords a reasonable time for reflection, before making a higher offer than the one preceding. By this means, too, the auctioneer is prevented from exercising undue influence upon the bidders, or hastily accepting the bid of a favorite.

AT THE BIG STORE
THIS WEEK.

MORE REMNANTS.

About 300 short lengths of Dress Goods and Prints placed on tables yesterday. We want the tables for other use on Monday. Prices accordingly.

Cut Prices on Dress Goods
Cut Prices on Boys' Clothing

Continue this Week.

EARLY FALL ARRIVALS.

DRESS TWEEDS, 54 inch, for Dresses and Suits.
FRIEZE JACKETINGS, light weights, for Ladies' Coats.
TAPESTRY CARPETS, a very special bargain, in a pretty pattern.

LAHEY & McKENTY

...given ...h of England Notes.

NAPANEE CIRCUIT RACES.

½ Mile, Running 2 in 3—Purse $150

Nettie Wood, F. E. Jones, Peterboro ... 1 2
Beefeater, R. J. Hewitt, Brighton ... 3 4

—THE—
Bay of Quinte Railway

Church of S. Mary Magdalene. Services Sunday next August 18th, celebration 8 a.m. Matins and Litany, 11 a.m. Evensong, 7 p.m.

The new church at Napanee Mills will be opened D.V. on Sunday next. Holy Communion and Sermon 10.30. S.S. service 3 o'clock. Evening prayer and sermon 7.30. The Venerable Archdeacon Bedford Jones the preacher at each service. Monday evening Rev. T. Fisher, of Thomasburg, subject "The Poor."

Tuesday, Rev. R. Atkinson, of Selby, subject "The Nave."

Wednesday, Rev. R. W. Rayson, subject, "The Choir."

Thursday, F. T. Dibb, of Odessa, subject "The Prayers."

Friday, Rev. S. R. Serson, Tamworth, subject "The Bible."

Sunday, the Rev. E. H. M. Baker, Rector of Bath, morning and evening.

Monday, Rev. H. E. Benoit, of Montreal, subject, "The Ministry."

Tuesday, the Rev. Arthur Jarvis, Napanee, subject "The Altar."

Collections at all services for building fund. There will be services on Sunday next in Holy Trinity, Yarker, at 3 o'clock, St. Luke's, Camden East, at 7.30, St. John's, S. S. picnic to Sydenham, Thursday, August 22nd.

Parish of Adolphustown.

Services next Sunday: Sandhurst, St. Paul's, at 11 o'clock; Adolphustown, St. Alban's, at 3 o'clock; Union church at 7.30 o'clock.

The Bay of Quinte Ry. will run an excursion to 1000 Islands and Alexandria Bay on Saturday Aug. 24th, from all stations on the line, leaving Napanee on regular morning train. Fare $1.00. Returning, train leaves Kingston at 6 p.m.

A Toilet Hint.

The woman who has wept until her eyelids and her nose are purple, her eyes bloodshot and her face swollen always feels a trifle embarrassed when she has to receive callers or go down to dinner immediately. She frequently makes a bad matter worse by washing her face in cold water. If she will, instead, bathe it gently with rose water for a few minutes and then lie down for a few more, with a soft rag saturated in rose water over her eyes, she will be prepared to face any company.

Fruit Compotes.

Among the various ways of serving fruits in season, a compote is one of the most delicious, yet few cooks understand the art of making it properly, their attempts to do so resulting in a dish of stewed fruit. Firm, perfect fruit only should be selected when a compote is to be made. It should be peeled quickly, dropped in alum water or ice water and lemon juice; then into the boiling syrup and cooked slowly until clear.

Save the Tender Fingers.

Little holders for lifting the 5 o'clock tea kettle, the chafing dish or the heated handle of a coffee pot at the table are of sateen on one side, interlined with leather, and of colored satin or silk on the other side. They are made gay by crossing the silken side through the centre and diagonally with a metal ribbon of gold or silver. Sometimes the ribbon has a row of heavy white lace insertion on each side.—Evening World.

GAINED A POUND EVERY DAY

Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach cured by B. B. B. after hope was nearly given up.

GENTLEMEN—For over three months I was very ill from what I believe was a malignant type of Dyspepsia. I at once consulted a physician who treated me for Dyspepsia without success. I then went to a specialist who diagnosed the case as Catarrh of the Stomach, his treatment also failed and I was getting worse every day. I could not rest at night and had to walk the floor to get any ease. I failed from 195 pounds down to 135 pounds and about gave up in despair when I heard of Burdock Blood Bitters as a remedy for dyspepsia. The first bottle made a change for the better, and I bought six more being delighted to find myself getting better. Under the use of B.B.B. I gained a pound a day. I took 18 bottles in all and am now nearly back to my old weight. I recommend dyspeptics to try the old reliable B.B.B.

the best they have ever seen.

Whenever the park committee make arrangements for a race meet the people of this section always look fora big day and the meet held on Monday and Tuesday last was such a success, as far as merit is concerned, that sports who attended pronounced the races among the best they have seen. The committee, desirous of putting up a good bill of fare for their patrons, engaged the services of Miss Myrtie Peek, of Boston, with her trained horses, who was in attendance and delighted the spectators with marvelous feats of equestrianism. Just here it would not be out of place to speak a word of praise for the committee in their enterprise, and state that they did much towards the success of future meets, for the people who witnessed the races on each day are loud in their praise of the excellent programme provided. Early in the morning crowds began coming in from all quarters. A large excursion from Kingston, run by the fireman of that city, and which was accompanied by the 14th Batt. band, arrived in town about ten o'clock. The boats also came in well loaded. The day was all that could possibly have been desired, and the track was in first-class condition. Mr. S. A. Sewell, of Oswego, was starter, and being a man well up in his business, did his work to the satisfaction of all concerned. There were three races down for the first day 2.50 class, 2.27 class, and half mile running race. All classes were good and some splendid time was made. T. G. S., of Ogdensburgh, was a little too anxious and made the best time in the first heat, but fell back. Madoc Boy showed his mettle in the remaining heats and took first place, Furioso and Belle Howard taking second and third places respectively. The 2.27 trot was good, but had somewhat the appearance of a procession. Princess I can evidently go below twenty, for the driver had to pull her down almost to a walk in order that she should not make time. In the running race Nettie Wood took first place in both heats. Glorali, of Kingston, was not in it. The following are the results of the first day

2 50 CLASS—PURSE $125.

Madoc Boy, W. G. Simmons, Madoc	3	1	1	1
Furioso, A. L. Philip, Colborne.....	2	2	3	3
Belle Howard, E. Taylor, Toronto.....	5	3	2	2
T. G. S., T. Herman, Ogdensburg.....	1	5	1	4
Miss Strader, J. McLearn, Belleville ..	dis.

Time: 2.27½, 2.26½, 2.24½, 2.26.

2.27 CLASS—PURSE $175.

Princess I, E. L. Harris, Watertown.....	1	1	1
Beethoven, N. Hudgins, Picton.....	2	2	2
Primo, J. M. Lear, Toronto.....	3	3	4
Demand, H. S. Tackaberry, Brighton.....	4	4	3
Tommy, G. Powell, Orillia.....	5	5	5

Time 2.26½, 2.26½, 2.26½.

HALF MILE RUNNING—PURSE $100.

Nettie Wood, J. E. Jones, Peterboro..	1	1
Annie Miller, A. E. Wright, Brampton.....	2	3
Vassilla, R. J. Hewitt, Brighton.....	3	2
Glorali, J. D. Petrie, Kingston.....	4	4

Time 51½, 52.

On the second day, Tuesday, there was a much larger crowd present, and the grand stand was filled to its utmost capacity. The Belleville Oddfellows band played several very fine selections which were liberally applauded. The racing was of the best. Old sportsmen say it was one of the best day's racing seen in years. The finishes were close and exciting, and the contests were so keen that in one race six heats had to be run before a winner could be decided on, the sixth heat being between Lady Watson and Chloe for first place. In this race the record for Napanee track was lowered in the first heat, which was won by Hugh Milling's Islander. Time 2.20¼. In the first race of the day the whole five heats had to be run, the struggle for first place between Madoc Boy and Sam Rooney being very keen. The exhibition of horsemanship by Miss Mertie Peek was fine. In riding and driving a pair of horses once around the track good time was made. Riding two horses, standing, time 58 sec. Driving pair of horses 51 sec. The performance on the trick horse, Boston, and the high jumping of Queen Bess were both exhibitions of what horses may be trained to do that will be long remembered by those present. There was also a pony and dog race, great fun being made out of the way the dog looked around to see where the pony was, while racing.

2.35 CLASS, PACE OR TROE—PURSE $150.

Madoc Boy, W. C. Simmons, Madoc..	2	1	2	3	1	1
Sam Rooney, R. E. Leonard, Fulton..	1	3	1	2	3	3
Ben Hur, E. Taylor, Toronto	5	4	5	1	4	2
Furioso, A. Philip, Colborne.....	3	2	3	4	2	d

Time: 2.25, 2.26½, 2.25, 2.29½, 2.26, 2.40½.

2.20 CLASS, PACE OR TROT—PURSE $200.

Lady Watson, W. McNeil, Toronto ..	2	3	2	1	1	1
Chloe, J. H. Metcalfe, Kingston.....	4	1	1	2	2	2
Maud B, E. L. Harris, Watertown..	3	4	3	3	5	d
Marvin, R. E. Leonard, Fulton.....	5	5	4	4	4	d
Islander, H. G. Milling, Napanee	1	2	4	5	d

Time: 2.20½, 2.20½, 2.20½, 2.20½, 2.20½, 2.20½.

This race was not finished. It was decided to conclude it on Wednesday, but later a compromise was affected with each party and the race was withdrawn.

GOOD LAUNDRY HINTS.

In summer time clothes may be washed without any fire by soaking over night in soft, soapy water, rubbing out in the morning, soaping the dirty places and laying them in the hot sunshine. By the time the last are spread out to bleach, the first may be taken up, and washed out and rinsed. This, of course, requires a clean lawn.

Wash gray and brown linens in cold water, with a little black pepper in it, and they will not fade. For washing other goods that fade, use crude or household ammonia instead of soap. Soiled neckties may be made to look like new by taking one-half a teaspoonful of ammonia to a teacup of water. Wash well, and, if very much soiled, put through a second water, with less ammonia. Lay the necktie on a clean, white cloth and gently wipe with another till dry.

To wash colored muslin use warm, not hot, suds, made with soft water and best white soap. Do not soak the muslin, and wash only one thing at a time. Change the suds as soon as it looks dingy, and put the garments at once into fresh suds. Rinse first in clear water, and then in water slightly blued. Squeeze quite dry, but do not wring the goods. Hang in a shady place where the sunshine will not strike it, as that fades all colors.

For lawns and organdies which are delicately colored, boil wheat bran, about two quarts to a dress, in soft water for half an hour, let it cool, strain the liquor and use it instead of soap suds. It removes dirt like soap, keeps the color, and the clothes only need rinsing in one water, and even starching is unnecessary. Suds and rinsing water for colored articles should be used as cold as possible.

Wash silk handkerchiefs by laying them on a smooth board and rubbing with the palm of the hand. Use either borax or white castile soap to make the suds; rinse in clear water, shake till nearly dry, fold evenly, lay between boards, put a weight on them. No froning is required. Silk ribbons may be treated in the same manner.

To clean black lace wipe off all dust carefully with a cambric handkerchief. Then pin out on a board, inserting a pin in each projecting point of the lace. Sponge it all over with lager beer or cold tea, and do not remove the pins until perfectly dry. It will look quite fresh and new.—Recorder.

Value of "Good Morning."

"Your servants are always so civil," remarked one woman to another. "Have you any especial training methods that engraft such courtesy into their manners?"

"Not especially," was the answer, "but maybe you can find a keynote to their good temper in the fact that I always select as a commencement to each day a cheery 'good morning.'

"Somehow it seems to oil up the wheels of domestic machinery, and the work of the day glides along in a smooth manner that is entirely lacking if by chance I omit this before-breakfast courtesy. From cook in the kitchen to the boy who carries my market basket the 'good morning' tonic is magical in effect.

"In Southern households I know the first greeting of the day comes from the domestics, but when one must cope with the ignorance as well as indifference of foreigners about one's household, it is better to take the initiative in acts of politeness, and let them learn by example."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Boom to Horsemen.—One bottle of English Spavin Liniment completely removed a curb from my horse. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or calloused lumps, blood spavin, splints, curbs, sweeny, stifles and sprains. GEORGE ROBB, Farmer, Markham, Ont. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y.

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

WILL RUN AN

Excursion to 1000 Islands

—ON—

SATURDAY, AUGUST 24th '95

from all stations on the line to Alexandria Bay and return.

Rate from Napanee, $1

on regular morning trains.

Returning trains leaves Kingston at 6 p.m,

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, sick headache, indigestion.

Close's Mills will shut down for repairs for one week, commencing Wednesday, Aug, 21st. J. A. CLOSE.

Gas stoves, gas stoves, we got them, agents for the Jewell and Dougler, the up to date stoves for 1895. Consumes the smallest amount of gas and lay over all others in style and improvements, call in and see them. BOYLE & SON.

Parents must have rest. A President of one of our Colleges says: "We spent many sleepless nights in consequence of our children suffering from colds, but this never occurs now: We use Scott's Emulsion and it quickly relieves pulmonary troubles.

FIRST AND FOREMOST

CANADA'S GREAT

INDUSTRIAL FAIR TORONTO,

SEPT. 2nd to 4th

—1895.—

The Finest and Fullest Display of LIVE STOCK, AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS, and MANUFACTURES to be seen on the Continent.

Increased Prizes, Improved Facilities, and Special Attractions, etc.

A Trip to Toronto at FAIR TIME is an IDEAL HOLIDAY.

There is MORE to SEE, MORE to LEARN and MORE to ENJOY at the

GREAT TORONTO FAIR

THAN AT ALL OTHERS PUT TOGETHER

EXCURSIONS ON ALL LINES.

Entries close Aug 10th

For Prize Lists, Programmes, etc, Address

H. J. HILL, Manager, Toronto.

Good Fitting, Trimmings and Sewing

is what you get when you order your Clothing from

ED. HUFF,

Carson Block. Tailor.

WORK GUARANTEED.

Cash and One Price Only. 51tf

THE NAPAN

Vol. XXXIV] No 38—JNO. POLLARD, Editor and Publisher. NAPANEE, ONT. CAN

BEFORE STOCK-TAKING

Having gone through my stock of

Crockery, China and Glassware

and finding it much too large for this season of the year I have decided to put the whole stock on the market

For the Next 60 Days.

at a large discount, or in other words, sharing up my profits with my customers, and in Dinner and Tea Sets, of which I have a fine assortment, I will give a special discount in order to clear them out to make room for New Goods arriving in the early part of April.

W. Coxall

CORN.....

We have a full stock of the leading varieties in hill and Fodder Corn comprising: Early Yellow Dent, Mammoth Cuban, Leaming, Stowell's Evergreen, Rural Thoroughbred, Salzer's Giant White Dent, Canada Yellow, Angel of Midnight, Early Red Blazed.

Tomato, Cabbage and Celery Plants.

Mangel, Carrot, Turnip and a full line of Garden Seeds.

Onions for Planting.

Flour, the best that can be made from the best grades of Wheat, at reasonable prices.

The Rathbun Co'y

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

GREAT CLEARING SALE

of Ready-Made Clothing, Men's Furnishings, Hats and Caps...

For the next 30 days we will offer our stock of Clothing, Men's Furnishings, Hats and Caps at prices that is sure to clean out the whole stock.

This is a chance which shonld not be missed.

We do this to make room for our new fall stock.

The following are a few of the many bargains offered:

Boy's School Suits $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50, worth double the money.

Men's and Youth's Suits from $3.50 up.

Men's good strong Pants at $1.00, worth $1.50.

Shirts, Collars, Cufis, Suspenders, Socks, Neckwear and Gloves.

Underwear, Handkerchiefs, Armlets, Hats and Caps.

All at clearing prices. To be convinced call and see the bargains offered.

A. M. VINEBERG,

The Wonderful Cheap Clothier, Dundas st., Henry Block, Napanee

IMPORTANT TO INTENDING PURCHASERS OF FARM IMPLEMENTS

BIG PROFITS ON Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who, by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invests a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest throug brokers who throughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOFS, also our Manual on successful speculation and our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers. ALL FREE. Our Manual explains margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing success.

For further information address

THOMAS & CO., Bankers and Brokers.

241-242 Rialto Building, CHICAGO, ILL.

MORTGAGE SALE OF VALUABLE FARM.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Mortgage, which will be produced at the time of sale, there will be sold by Public Auction, at the Court House, in the town of Napanee, on

Monday, September 2, 1895,

at the hour of 2 o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises, situate, lying and being in the township of Adolphustown, in the County of Lennox and Addington, and province of Ontario, and being composed of the east half of the west half of lot number fourteen, in the first concession of the said township of Adolphustown, save and except about 2½ acres owned by Alexander Hesslett. On said premises is said to be a frame barn. The soil is good The farm is beautifully situated on the North side of Bay of Quinte. Terms and conditions of sale made known at the time of sale.

For further particulars apply to

ENGLISH & PERRY,
Vendor's Solicitors.

Dated at Napanee this 6th day of August, A. D. 1895.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE MATTER OF WAY & CO. OF TAMWORTH, INSOLVENTS.

Notice is hereby given that Way & Co. of the village of Tamworth in the county of Lennox & Addingington, carrying on business as Merchants have made an assignment under R. S. O. 1887 Chap. 125 and amending acts, of all their assets, credits and effects to the undersigned for the general benefit of their creditors.

Creditors are requested to file their claims with the said trustee, with the proofs and particulars thereof required by the said acts on or before the 10th day of September next.

And notice is hereby given that after the said 10th day of September 1895 the said trustee will proceed to distribute the assets of the said debtors among the parties entitled thereto having regard only to the claims of which notice shall then have been given and that he will not be liable for the assets or any part thereof so distributed to any person or persons of whose claim he shall not then have had notice.

JAMES AYLESWORTH
Assignee and Trustee.

DEROCHE & MADDEN, Solicitors for above Assignee.

Dated at Napanee August 1st, 1895.

ALL AROUND THE FARM.

The best time to transfer bees from one hive to another is about the season of swarming, but if care is taken it may be done on any warm afternoon when the bees are actively at work.

At a recent public sale in one of the Kentucky counties dairy cows sold for a better average than trotting bred horses. This shows there are not enough cows and too many trotters. The former make money all the year around. The horses would better be bred up to a larger and more useful type.

Professor Armsby, at the Pennsylvania station, ascertained for a number of horses during ten days that

A Troublesome Ceremony.

Dentist—The nerves are dead; that's what's the matter.

Celtic Patient—Th'n, be th' Blessid Virgin, th' dom tooth must be houldin' a wake over thim!

The Same Thing.

First Man (a bibulous party)—There's a lot of body in this wine.

Second Man—Yes, and I'm beginning to think there's a lot of wine in this body.

Making Preparations.

"I understand that Freddy is getting ready to be married."

"What is he doing?"

"Taking lessons at the cooking school."—Judge.

The best advertisement. Many thousands of unsolicited letters have reached the manufacturers of Scott's Emulsion from those cured through its use, of Consumption and Scrofulous diseases! None can speak so confidently of its merits as those who have tested it.

Jersey Ice Cream 40c. per quart in pails or 50c. packed in Bricks at Davis'.

Consumptives, cheer up! You are not going to die, if you will but take Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "the kind that cures" coughs, colds, bronchitis and all pulmonary diseases. Every bottle warranted. No oiley taste like others. In big bottles, 50c and $100, at druggists.

SETTING THE DAY.

The Wooing of Her as It Will Be in the Years to Come.

"You look tired, dear."

The man who had given up his life to the young girl who so solicitously questioned him gazed down tenderly

OF FARM IMPLEMENTS,

The best is always the cheapest. Therefore, before purchasing elsewhere, call at Sylvester Bros'. Machinery Hall, (west end Campbell House Block) and inspect their samples, consisting of their Celebrated Shoe or Press Drill. Hoe Drill. Broad Cast Seeder and Spring Tooth Cultivator Combined. Single Spring Tooth Cultivator. Diamond Harrow. Mower, etc.

Also be sure and see the Wartman & Ward Spade Harrow, (the Queen of Pulverizers). Every farmer should have one. Different Patterns of Disc Harrows for sale. Don't you want a new Lumber Wagon this season? If so, buy none but a CHATHAM, with patent Grain and Stock Rack combined. The best in the Market.

BLANCHARD & POTTER,

AGENTS.

THE - MERCHANTS - BANK

OF CANADA

Head Office, — Montreal

Capital paid up, $6,000,000
Surplus, $3,000,000

INTEREST AT CURRENT RATES PAID ON DEPOSITS.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

T. E. MERRITT,
Manager, Napanee Branch

DEROCHE & MADDEN,

Barristers,

Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.

Office—Grange block,

Money to Loan at "lower than the lowest" rates
H. M. DEROCHE, Q. C. 5.1y J. H. MADDEN.

MORDEN & RUTTAN.

Barristers, Solicitors, etc.

Office over Merchant's Bank. Bank of Canada. Dundas Street, Napanee.

A. L. MORDEN, Q. C., G. F. RUTTAN.
County Crown Attorney.

☞ Money to loan at 5, 5½ and 6 per cent.

HERRINGTON & WARNER,

Barristers, etc.

MONEY TO LOAN AT LOW RATES

Office—Warner Block, East-st, Napanee. 5y

DENTISTS

C. D. WARTMAN, L.D.S.
C. H. WARTMAN, D.D.S.

Graduates of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduate of Toronto University.

OFFICE—LEONARD BLOCK,

☞ Visits made to Tamworth the first Monday in each month, remaining over Tuesday. Rooms at Wheeler's Hotel.

All other Mondays C. D. Wartman will be in Yarker.

Napanee office open every day.

R. A. LEONARD, M.D., C.P.S.

Physician, Surgeon, etc.

Late House Surgeon of the Kingston General Hospital.

Office—North side of Dundas Street, between West and Robert Streets, Napanee. 5:1y

A. S. ASHLEY,

DENTIST

16 Years in Napanee.
34 Years Experience.

Rooms, · Albert Block, · Napanee

JAS. AYLESWORTH,

General Business Agent.

POLICE MAGISTRATE for the Provincial Electoral District of Addington.

Conveyancer,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses,
Commissioner, etc., in H.C.J.

Clerk, 7th Division Court, of the County of Lennox & Addington

Grand Trunk Railway Ticket Agent
TAMWORTH.

A. R. DAVIS,

Ontario Land Surveyor and Civil Engineer.

☞ Office with T. G. Davis, Insurance Agent, Coates Block
39

THE ROYAL HOTEL.

Dundas Street, Napanee.

H. HUNTER, Prop.

This commodious hotel is centrally situated having every convenience for the travelling and business public. Large yard and sheds for horses.

Good table, best of wines liquors, and cigars The comfort of guests is made a first consideration.

C. H. FINKLE.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER, Newburgh, Ont. Orders left with Ewart and Vanluven, Yarker, will have prompt attention. Telephone communication.

FOR SERVICE.

THOROUGHBRED GUERNSEY BULL

AT THE

ROYAL HOTEL STABLE

NAPANEE

TERMS - $1.00.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE
CHANCERY DIVISION.

BICKNELL vs. BICKNELL.

Pursuant to the judgment made in this action on the 21st day of June, A.D. 1895, there will be sold by public auction, with the approbation of the Local Master at Napanee, at the Court House in the Town of Napanee, on at the hour of 2, p.m.

Friday, Sept. 13th, A.D. 1895

The following valuable farm lands in one parcel, situate lying and being in the township of Ernestown, in the County of Lennox and Addington, consisting of the south quarter of lot No. 17 and the south quarter of lot No. 18, both in the 7th concession of the said township of Ernestown, the North half of lot No. 17 in the sixth concession, and all that portion of the north part of lot No. 18, containing 25 acres more or less as conveyed to Richard Bicknell, deceased, by Calvin W. Miller, deceased, by deed bearing date the 6th day of April, 1865, and being in the said sixth concession of the said township of Ernesttown, containing in all 200 acres more or less.

Upon the said lands are erected a substantial frame farm house one and one-half stories high, with wood house and drive house attached, also two frame barns, and the whole land is well fenced, and upon the lands are two orchards containing in all about 200 apple trees

The land is conveniently situated, being two miles from Switzerville P.O., three and a half miles from Camden East, and about 8 miles from Napanee.

The property will be sold subject to a reserved bid fixed by the Master.

TERMS OF SALE.—A deposit of $10 for every $100 of purchase money at the time of sale, balance within one month without interest. In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale of this court.

For further particulars apply to the law offices of Messrs. Morden, Ruttan and Morphy, and Messrs Deroche & Madden at Napanee.

Sgd. S. S. LAZIER, L.M.

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY, Solicitors for Plaintiff.

Dated this 28th day of June, A.D. 1895.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE
COMMON PLEAS DIVISION.

HARDING VS. SPAULDING.

Pursuant to the judgment made in this action on the 29th day of November, A.D. 1894, and in pursuance of the final order for sale made herein on the 5th day of August A.D. 1895, there will be sold by Public Auction with the approbation of the Local Master at Napanee, at the Court House in the Town of Napanee, on at the hour of 2 p.m. The following valuable farm land in one parcel: situate lying and being in the Township of Tyendinaga in the County of Hastings and Province of Ontario, being composed of that part of the north half of lot No. 36 in the first concession of the said township of Tyendinaga situate lying and being north of that part of the said lot occupied and used by the Grand Trunk Railway Co. for their railway track and south of the gravel road commonly called the Napanee and Belleville Road, containing by admeasurement 90 acres, be the same more or less.

Friday, Sept. 13, A.D. 1895,

Upon said lands are erected a substantial frame house also a large frame barn and other out-buildings, and the whole farm is fairly well fenced and upon the land there is considerable small timber.

The land is conveniently situated at the corner of the Belleville and Napanee Road and the side road leading to the front of the township of Tyendinaga, being about 6 miles from Napanee and 3 miles from Deseronto.

The property will be sold subject to a reserve bid fixed by the Master.

TERMS OF SALE.—A deposit of $10 for every $100 of purchase money at the time of sale balance within one month without interest. In every other respect the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale of this Court.

For further particulars apply to the law office of Morden, Ruttan & Morphy.

Sgd. S. S. LAZIER, Local Master.

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY,
Solicitors for the Plaintiffs.

Dated this 9th day of August A.D. 1895. 37d

making allowance for manure dropped outside of the stable, a horse annually produces about 12,500 pounds of fresh manure, which can be saved and requires for bedding 2,500 pounds of straw

Because viewed from different points, many differ on the feed question for dairy cattle, and experiment stations burden us with innumerable tables, formulas and rations. It cannot be an exact science because purposes, prices and locations differ. As much as possible we should feed that which we can produce.

Many a man who is making dairying a side issue, and a much-neglected one at that, by keeping a few ill-cared-for cows on a good-sized farm, is astonished at the man who can keep a goodly number on a few acres. The whole secret is in the man and his intensified farming. No item necessary to success is lost sight of.

The pores of smut will live a long time in the ground or in manure, and every care should be taken to destroy them. Cut out every diseased stalk before it has time to ripen, and resow itself. One preventive is to select the seed before husking time; taken from the crib it will very likely have come in contact with infected corn.

Why not make a record of when each vegetable was planted, leaving a space beside it for the date when you began to use it and how long it lasted. Such a record will be a very valuable guide for next year and will do more than aught else to show you the need for a succession in the garden.

Milk, as a food for the young animal, is largely a producer of heat. Sugar of milk is found nowhere else in nature and its feeding value is like that of fat. Casein and albumen of milk are nitrogenuous and flesh formers, and the materials out of which come the animal tissues, also the fats. The water obviates the dangers from concentrated food.

Hard wood ashes are an excellent fertilizer for every crop grown, lacking, of course, the nitrogen needed to make a complete food for plants. Ashes are excellent for grass and clover, all the vegetables grown in gardens, and for corn. They may be applied in any quantity up to forty bushels per acre, and at any time of the year.

The Nebraska Farmer very aptly says that it is nature's way to permit of no stop offs on the route traveled by the pig from the farrowing nest to the packing house, and that regular development must occur for the highest profit. Feeding the dam is said to be feeding the pigs, and the food of the mother should be prepared in view of this fact.

Without doubt a great deal of beef goes to the market which has cost more to produce than it will sell for. The Virginia station made an attempt to test the matter, and, feeding 18 steers for a period of five weeks, found the cost a pound of increase in live weight varied from 8 to 25 cents. What can be expected from the unsystematic feeding by the unskilled farmer? Guesswork must be given up for the scales.

There is a cheap netting which is extensively used in Europe for covering valuable fruits as a defense against the birds. This netting is made of stout flax threads and soaked in a strong astringent liquid to add to its durability. It is sold for one cent a square yard where it is made. It is something of a mystery why it has not come into more common use in this country.

When plants are not mulched the cool night air of the early spring, even if it does not check growth, does not advance it. A mulch admits air, warmth and moisture and shuts out scorching sun and blighting wind. It also prevents the escape of fertilizing gases. It collects the heat rays of the sun and retain them for the warmth and growth of the plant during the night season.

into the eyes uplifted so searchingly into his.

"I am a trifle tired, my darling," he said. "Our cooking class was a little longer than usual this afternoon, and it has told upon me."

"Yes, dear," she replied, sympathetically. "I have heard mother tell how wearing they were to her, and I can understand in a measure how irksome they must be. Is this all you have been doing to-day?"

"Oh, no!" he cried. "This morning I attended a most absorbing lecture on the care of the household, the first of a series that are to be given this season. It was so helpful."

"I can imagine so," she softly replied. "Although a subject that has never claimed my serious thought, I can appreciate just how inspiring talks of this subject must be to one so ambitious as yourself."

"Indeed, yes, and that is not all," he exclaimed, enthusiastically. "I am looking up the subject of home decoration, and it is wonderful what a vast field it is. They asked me if I would prepare a paper on the use and abuse of tidies," he added modestly, "but I haven't enough confidence in myself."

"O why don't you?" she cried. I am sure you could do it, dear, and all these things will be such a help in your future life. You are a dear, good boy, and you try so hard to please me."

With an exclamation of delight, her future life companion, the look of weariness on his face giving place to one of the greatest hopefulness, drew her swiftly to his arms.

"Do you think so?" he said. "Ah, my dearest, how I have toiled to hear you say those words—the first words of praise for me that have ever fallen from your lips, and now that you have spoken, tell me when can I claim my reward and call you my own?"

And there was a look of intermingled satisfaction and complacency in her face as she replied:

"I think, James, dear, if you keep on in the way that you have begun, that in three or four years you will be fitted to take upon yourself the duties of a husband.—Brooklyn Life.

His Boyhood Home.

Years elapsed.

They sometimes do.

"Bah jove—aw," exclaimed a fat, irregular looking individual, in London-made clothes, boosting himself painfully down the gang-plank of the English steamer and looking around with a dissatisfied air, "but I think it—aw—a blooming beastly country, don't you know; so—so dreadfully vulgah, you know, and all that."

Then he went back to London.

It was Little Lord Fauntleroy.—New York Recorder.

"My mamma got ever so many falls when she was learning to ride the bicycle yesterday," explained the little girl to the cellar, "and that's why she's so long coming down. She's got the blues all over her."—Chicago Tribune.

"Mamie is such a conscientious little goose," said one summer girl to another. "How's that?" "She thinks she must go to the trouble of breaking one engagement before contracting another."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Mrs. McSwat—The reason I object to your spending so much time at that club of yours, Billiger, is that I am sure it is nothing but a resort for loafers. Mr. McSwat—Great Scott, Maria! What's any club?—Chicago Tribune.

"The thief who broke into my shop last night," said the false hair merchant, "reminded me very much of a firecracker." "How was that?" asked his friend. "He went off with a bang," sighed the hair merchant.—Harper's Bazar.

"The summer girl is only a little lower than the angels," remarked the young man in knickerbockers. "Wait until you pay for her ice-cream, her boat rides, her merry-go-round trips, and you'll think she comes a good sight higher," replied the cynic.—Yonkers Statesman.

NEE EXPRESS ORIA

CANADA—FRIDAY, AUGUST 23, 1895. $1 per Year in advance; $1 Children.

toria with the patronage of

NEWS FR... Infants and Children

ODE hildren like it. It

On Tuesday even... it Mothers have the Rev. Father Ben... Town Hall, Odessa, ...lly perfect as a Modern Romanism. F... ex Roman Catholic and ... whereof he speaks, He is n... the Sabrevois Mission of the ... England to French Canadians. T... heard him at the Prentice Boy's Pic... Camden East on Aug. 12th say he is ... eloquent speaker, and that the lecture is interesting and instructive.

SHIRTWAIST COMFORT.

THE INVENTOR OF THIS GARMENT SHOULD BE SAINTED.

Cheerful and Inexpensive—Three Pretty Models and How They are Made—There Can be no Summer Comfort Without Them.

Blessed be the inventor of the shirt waist, and let us, Oh my sisters in comfort, duly show our gratitude for this invaluable member of our dress world by ever cheerfully welcoming it in our midst! Let us confess the truth that the shirt waist is the boon and salvation of the woman of moderate means, who shares with her rich sisters, the desire to be always well and appropriately gowned.

Let us, too, be grateful to the enterprising manufacturers who have made our summer joyous by giving to us wonderfully novel and dainty designs in these accessories at beautifully low prices. Think for a moment, and tell me, I pray, what would we do without our linen and chambray bodices, our madras and percale blouses? Can you imagine a comfortable summer season without these?

COOL LOOKING AND NOT COSTLY.

Could anything be daintier or more becoming, for instance, than the shirt waist of pale blue percale with tiny dark blue rings, shown in the first cut? With its box-plaited front it is altogether up-to-date in matter of style, and because of its pointed yoke back easy fitting and conducive to a fine effect as to figure. Its full sleeves and deep cuffs give the desirable broad and tapering effect, and the prettily-cut collar all the coolness one could wish for.

FOR AFTERNOON WEAR.

Around the waist one wears a belt of dark blue or bright red gros grain ribbon, with a gilt or silver buckle. This waist, as well as that in the second cut, can be worn with propriety in the afternoon and evening, for both are

VICTORIA'S RELICS.

RARE CHINA AND PICTURES AT WINDSOR CASTLE

Her Majesty's Personal Interest in Her Priceless Collection—A Long Series of Royal Relics and Portraits.

Among the many rare and costly treasures open to the view only of the specialy favored visitor, in the private apartments of the royal castle of Windsor, one of the most curious is a carved ivory casket, lined with crimson velvet, and mounted and decorated with rosewood and silver. Carved in low relief in the centre is a winged figure, surmounting an altar with sacred fire. Beneath this is the terse, but expressive inscription: "From the Parsees." The casket rests on a plinth, adorned on either side with carved chimeras, with golden wings and crowned heads, and bearing superb rubies in the centre of their foreheads. On the carved back of the plinth is the monogram "V. I.," and the inscription, "Bombay, 1877." The back also bears the imperial crown.

In the "Large Dining Room" is the not very beautiful, but certainly imposing silver-gilt bunch-bowl. It was designed by Flaxman and manufactured by Rundell and Bridges for George IV. when Prince of Wales. Its proportions are so vast that the gilding alone is said to have cost $10,000. The ladle, which stands in front of the bowl, was made for the present Prince of Wales and is of very pretty design.

Throughout the collection one is constantly noticing rare specimens of clocks of all periods. Here, for instance, is a fine example of Louis Seize work by the celebrated Lepante of Paris. The case is ebonized with ormolu mounts. The movement, which is in perfect order, requires winding but once a year.

The castle is a magnificent museum of old china, mostly so fine that one stands agast at the mere thought of its enormous value. Look, for instance, at a set of three vases of "Rose du Barry" Sevres in the grand corridor. They are simply priceless. The designs in front are beautifully painted amorini in panels, those at the back flowers on a white ground. The centre vase has a perforated top. The height of the vases is fourteen inches. Old Sevres, even when first made was extremely expensive, but now can seldom be purchased, except by millionaires. Not many years since a set of three small jardinieres was sold by auction at Christie's for $50,000. Single plates have frequently been sold for 200 guineas (about $1000) and cups and saucers for 150 guineas (about $750) each. In the "Green Drawing Room" we must look with admiration and wonder at the grand desert service to which no rival exists. It was commenced at Sevres in 1784 for Louis XVI. and was purchased by George IV. The manufacture took about ten years of the time of the finest ceramic artists in the world to complete. The ground of the piece is of the most perfect Bleu du Rol, or "'Gro Bleu.'" The paintings, chiefly figure subjects in sylvan landscapes, are by the most eminent artists ever employed at the royal manufactory.

The portraits of the Queen and Prince Consort, wmich were exhibited in the exhibition of 1851, are very fine examples of modern Sevres work. These are half-length portraits of the size of life, each painted on a single slab of porcelain. Tehy are copies of the pictures by Winterhalter, and were executed by plainest description, bound in common brown leather, but its much-worn appearance at once shows that it was in constant use. The sacred and much-prized little relic was presented to the Queen after Gordon's sad death.

The last work of art to be noticed in this wonderful corridor is a charming little bust by W. Behens of the Princess Victoria, now Her Majesty, the Queen, at the age of 10 years. It is of spotless white marble, and a perfect gem.

On the subject of pictures in the grand old castle there is no time to dwell. Suffice it to say that all the best of the old masters are most worthily represented, both in the state and private apartments. For instance, in the "Vandyke Room" are no less than twenty-two of that great master's finest works, including that wonderful specimen "Charles I. on a gray horse, accompanied by his master of the horse, M. de St. Antoine." This masterpiece fgar exceeds in quality the picture by the same painter of the same subject, which was recently purchased by the nation for $87,500. Here is also the portrait of Henrietta Maria, mentioned by Pepys in 1665. "I was only pleased at a very fine picture of the Queen's mother, when she was young, by Vandyke; a very good picture and a lovely face." In the Queen's private audience room are also some fine Gainsborough portraits, and, let into the woodwork, glass cases containing over two hundred enamel portraits of royal personages, from Henry VII. and Elizabeth of York, to the Queen and Prince Consort, their children and grandchildren. In the "Grand Corridor" are some fine Canalettos, and a beautiful Cornelius Jansens. "The ball given to Charles II. at The Hague, on his departure to England," full of interesting detail and admirably preserved. Also a series by various madern artists illustrating notable events during Her Majesty's reign, as well as a fine Sir Joshua, "Princess Sophia Matilda," and some superlative Hogarths.

It may not be generally known that the name Windsor is from the Saxon Windleshora, winding banks. Windsor as a royal castle is mentioned in Domesday book. King John lay at Windsor during the conference at Runnymede. The Round Tower was built by Edward III., and the terraces were made by Queen Elizabeth. Charles II. added the Star buildings. Grinling Gibbons carved all the beautiful floral festoons in the different rooms.

The Queen herself, a world-renowned lover of art, takes an extreme interest in her collection, and no alterations can be made without her sanction. So accurate is her memory that even after an absence of months she at once detects any alteration in the placing of objects, no matter how small.

GOOD VINE PROTECTOR.

How to Rid the Garden of the Worst Enemy of the Cucumber and Squash.

The worst enemy the cucumber, squash, pumpkin and melon vines have is the little striped beetle. It not only eats the pulp from the underside of the leaves, but destroys the stalk, and if the soil is loose it eats the stalk below the ground; therefore it is a difficult matter to fight it with insecticides. For a garden where less than two dozen hills are planted, the safest and cheapest way to protect the vines is by a covering of mosquito netting or cheese cloth, cut into pieces 18 or 20 in. square. These, to add to their durability, should be first dipped in oil and wrung as dry as possible. Now, take a piece of No. 12 or 14 wire, gal-

PLEASANT VALLEY.

Times are dull at present, every body is busy harvesting and report a favorable crop.

We are sorry to hear of the severe illness of Mr. William Sills, an old and respected resident of this place.

Mrs. George Smith has returned home from Battle Creek after an absence of two weeks.

Mr. Vandebogart has returned from the mountains and reports blackberries very scarce.

Miss Blanche Dupree left Monday to teach at her former school Big Creek. We will miss your smiling face, Blanche.

Mr. M. Pringle has his fine brick residence about completed.

We regret to learn that Mr. Reuben Herrington intends moving from our midst. Mr. Johnie Crabb will take his place.

A number of our young people attended the Ottawa excursion, all report a high time.

Miss Annie Edgar returned to her school Monday after spending a pleasant vacation at her home in Tamworth.

What has come over Tommie you can hear him sing like a marten gale o'er mountain and plain I am so glad school has reopened again.

WILTON.

Miss Olive Parrott is very ill at her sister's, Mrs. Carrs. At the latest account the doctor pronounced the prospects for her recovery brighter. Her many friends hope that she will soon be among them again.

Miss Anna Forsythe is ill at the Kingston Hospital with a slight attack of typhoid fever. She has been kept very busy during the spring and summer with her duties as professional nurse. For the past few weeks all her cases have been fever patients and last Tuesday she was taken to the hospital. The last report of her case was favorable and it is hoped that the attack will prove slight.

Herbert Lapum, and Charley Neilson who have also been on the sick list are much better.

Charles Thompson, Watertown, is spending a few days with his parents.

Messrs. W. Clarke and R. and W. Davy, Morrisburg, are visiting their uncle James Thompson.

Miss Alice Neilson and Walter Gordanier Napanee, are the guests of W. H. Neilson.

Miss Neilson and Emerson and Mordy Storms left for their schools Monday morning.

Clarke Walker returned on Monday from Hamilton, where he was acting as delegate for the Oddfellows, of Harrowsmith.

Herbert Martin, Ralph Burgess, Andrew Crawford, and William Stewart, left on Monday for Manitoba.

Ross Peters succeeded in landing some very fine pike at Little Long Lake last Friday. The largest one weighed 16 lbs.

Mrs. T. Joyce and Miss Lottie Joyce, of Toronto, are visiting at W. Oven's.

PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY.

A STRANGE INDIVIDUAL APPEARS IN REDNERVILLE AND DIGS ON THE SITE OF A FIRE

The quiet hamlet of Redner, prettily ensconced among a wood of shade trees on rising Prince Edward shore, as it looks from the deck of a passenger steamer, has for some days been puzzling over what is can be worn with propriety in the afternoon and evening, for both are dressy. At summer entertainments, even at the grand opera, one sees numbers of fair women, noted for an invariable display of good taste, garbed in cotton waists and odd skirts. Such a waist as the second cut illustrates was recently worn at the summer opera. It was developed in fine linen, watermelon pink, the surface being covered with tiny black dots. From under the high, turn-down collar and over the deep yoke in front came a strip of the material to simulate a box-plait. The full bishop sleeves were joined at the wrist to very narrow cuffs. Collar, cuffs, yoke and box-plait were piped with black, and the latter was finished off with two diamond-shaped black enameled studs. The bow at the neck and the belt were of black velvet.

FOR MORNING WEAR.

A charming design for morning wear is shown in cut No. 3, portraying a shirt-waist of checked blue and white madras, made with sloping yoke and full blouse effect and gigot sleeves, large and full to the elbows, then close fitting to the wrists. This waist has a high collar and is cut off short at the waist line. The pattern can be effectively developed in any of the new and pretty checked or plain cottons, the most stylish combination being that of white with apple green, olive with navy, bright red with cream, or black with blue.

Wanted a Lunch.

Landsman (at a yacht race)—What's that craft yonder?

River Man—That's the stake boat.

Landsman—Row me over to it. I'm hungry.

Pleasant Prospect.

Neighbor—I hear that your master has married again, and is taking a bridal tour.

Uncle Mose—Don't know, 'bout him takin' a bride to dis one, boss, but he did tuck a paid fo to his fust wife, shure. —Texas Siftings.

No Bargain-Counter Lots.

"If we go to Europe, Cynthia, I don't want you to marry any of them Counts or Dukes. You just wait until we run across some King in reduced circumstances."

Haggard's Pectoral Balsam cures Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Tightness of the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Summer coughs are more dangerous than Winter coughs,

Relief in Six Hours.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder disease relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure lain. They are copies of the pictures by Winterhalter, and were executed by order of Louis Philippe as a present to Her Majesty. They were commenced just before the revolution of 1848, and were annexed by the Republican Government, but were surrendered to Louis Philippe as his private property and presented to Her Majesty.

In the "Green Drawing Room" is also a splendid set of four bronze and ormolu candelabra emblematical of the seasons. They are probably the finest specimens of such work in existence. The designs, modelling of the figures and chasing of the ornament are simply perfect. The work is either of the late Louis Quartorze or Louis Quinze period, when furniture bronzes of the finest class were being made in France. Unfortunately, the artist's name is not known, as they, in common with most of the finest pieces of the period, are unsigned.

In the "White Drawing Room" the Sevres cabinet of the Louis Seize period demands more than a cursory glance. From the elaborate character of its design and its finished workmanship, it was probably made for a present to a royal personage. Its porcelain panels are of "oeil de Perdrix" turquoise. The plaques in the doors have paintings of flowers in baskets suspended by ribbons. The other concave plaques have bouquets of flowers with turquoise mounts. This is only one of a number of these rare cabinets in the private apartments. They are mostly made by the first of the old French "Ebenistes," such as the world-famed Riesener, Roentgen and the other giants of the Louis Seize period. The gilded bronze mounts are by the great Gothiere, whose work, for design, modelling and finish, has never been equalled. His gilding also is good, and so thickly laid on, as to have suffered no injury whatever from age. The same may also be said of the Louis Quatorze cabinet work of Andre Boule (born 1642), also to be seen at Windsor. As some indication of the value of these works, may be named a Boule cabinet in the Jones collection at South Kensington which was bought for $50,000. Similar prices were reached in several instances for Louis Seize cabinets, etc., at the Hamilton Palace sale some few years since.

In the "Grand Corridor," whose 520 feet of length is literally crowded with objects of the greatest interest, one notices a white marle recumbent statue of H. R. H. Princess Elizabeth of Clarence, daughter of William IV., and consequently heir apparent to the throne of England. The statue, which is most gracefully designed to represent a sleeping infant, bears the sculptor's name, W. Scoular, Sc. It was bequeathed to Her Majesty by the Queen Dowager in 1849. Its subject, the little Princess, was born in 1820 and died in 1821. Consider the momentous consequences involved in the death of such a tiny personage, who, had she lived, would have been Queen of England.

In the "Grand Corridor" also stands a remarkable casket or reliquary composed of rock crystal and enamel with silver-gilt mounts. The side panels are of finely engraved crystal. The casket, which is possibly German work of the seventeenth century, is surmounted by a silver-bilt group of S. George and the Dragon. But its claim to notice arises not so much from its own beauty, which is great, as from the relic which it contains. A thrill of emotion passes through the hearts of all spectators when they learn that the Bible of that true soldier of heaven, Gen. Gordon, rests within. The book is one of the

A Remarkable Cure.—J. W. Jennison Gilford—Spent between $200 and $300 in consulting Doctors; tried Dixon's and all other treatments but got no benefit. One box of Chase's Catiarrh Cure did me more good than all other remedies, in fact I consider myself cured and with a 25 cent box at that.

Two Grain Savers.

I have two Grain Saver Thrashing Machines in very good running order (worked up to date) that I will sell cheap. First comes first served. Don't lose this chance.

Miles S. Plumley, Nananee.

and wrung as dry as possible. Now, ake a piece of No. 12 or 14 wire—galvanized if possible—cut into 20-in. lengths, bend five inches of each end at right angles, and set them two inches into the ground at the corner of each hill, as seen at a a in the engraving. The netting is now spread over this frame, and the edges are covered with a little soil to keep it in place. This thin covering, while admitting plenty of light and rain as it falls, also keeps out the little striped beetles. Cucumbers can thus be protected until they send out laterals, and even if the vines press against the top and sides it does not injure them. Put on the protectors just as the plants are breaking through the ground, removing them in about three weeks. Kept in a dry place when not in use, they will do good service eight or ten years.—American Agriculturist.

GOOD VINE PROTECTOR.

No Escape.

Lady of the House—I don't see why you call this "the trolley mousetrap," it doesn't look like a trolley.

Salesman (significantly)—It kills 'em every time, ma'am.—New York World.

Sticking to a Good Friend.

This is a Philadelphia joke

Those Awful Telegrams.

"What is it, Mamie?"

"It's a boy, mum, with a telegraft."

"A telegram! Oh, ask him if James is killed!"

"He says he doesn't know, mum."

"Ask him what he does know about it."

"He says all he knows about it is that its marked 'collect,' and he wants his money."

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! What shall I do? Here, Mamie, here's the purse. Pay him, pay him, whatever he asks. Oh, my poor James! I just knew something would happen to him before he went away this morning. Will they bring him home in an ambulance, Mamie?"

"I s'pose so, mum. Maybe you'd better read the telegraft."

"I can't, I can't. Oh, it serves me right for not kissing him three times when he left. And we've been married such a short time, too!"

"Why don't you open the telegraft, mum?"

"Well, I suppose I must, but, oh, I can't tell you how I dread it."

Reads telegram: "Will bring friend home to dinner. James."

"The heartless brute!"—New York Journal.

Window Screens, Screen doors, spring hinges, screen wire, largest variety, lowest prices. BOYLE & SON.

Catarrh Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes One short puff of the breath through the Blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this Powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves instantly, and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tonsilitis and Deafness.

from the deck of a passenger steamer, has for some days been puzzling over what is deemed a very strange, not to say uncanny occurrence that happened there within a fortnight.

The memory of the oldest settler does not compass the early history of the old Bay View hotel that was burned to the ground last summer. The ruins of the ancient hostelry, still mark the place where it stood a relic of colonial hospitality but for some days a big hole in the centre of the ruins is the only tangible evidence of the mysterious happening that has kept the residents wondering for some days.

One day last week a somewhat oldish stranger appeared in the village and borrowing a shovel went direct to the scene of the old hotel ruins and began to dig. A small knot of interested villagers soon gathered to watch proceedings, but the digger was not courting observation and with a careless remark to the effect that there was nothing there took back the shovel had took himself off to the secrecy of the outer world. Those who stood by saw that before the old man stopped digging his shovel and struck something that sounded like a wire screen. Nothing more was seen of the grey-haired stranger but the next morning quite a large hole gaped from amid the charred ruins and announced clearly enough that the stranger had got another shovel, and returned during the night to prosecute his search. He has not been seen since and whether or not he got what he was looking for only he knows.

The strange incident has revived old rumors of buried treasure about the house. One story is to the effect that a former proprietor of the colonial hostelry buried a large sum of money somewhere about it and that he died and it was never found.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache.

Weakness is the sympton, impoverished blood the cause, Hood's Sarsaparilla the cure. It makes the weak strong.

Some Jewel Don'ts.

Don't let children and young girls wear ornaments—they will become a vanity if worn before they become an art.

Don't keep old things you have outgrown. Your growth must be alert to get rid of rubbish, changing, resetting, adding to, until all your possessions represent you.

Don't match jewels, work for variety of tone.

Don't call one frivolous who wears jewels—you may be hard and narrow.

Don't, if your lips are thin and your soul poise a mental one, wear faceted, hard-gleaming gems.

Don't think you are too poor to wear jewels—wear a good, practical jewel, a clasp or a button.

Don't wear flashing gems if you are a poor conversationalist.

Don't wear flashing gems if your husband has a worn-out, hunted look.

Don't think that the art of jewels begins at the pocketbook; an occasional two hours a day on the knees before a Japanese inro or tsuba might be suggested as a salutary penance.

Chat About Women.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward received $5,000 for the English rights of "The Story of Bessie Costrell." The Critic figures it out that altogether she will receive $15,000 for the story, or about 60 cents a word. And it is not a great story, either.

Mrs. Scott, the widow of Judge Lucien Scott of Leavenworth, Kan., manages her own ranch in Texas, where she owns 260,000 acres of land all fenced in, over which 6,000 or 7,000 cattle are browsing.

"Lady Lytton, widow of the author of "Lucille," has been appointed Lady in Waiting to Queen Victoria.

Ten Timber Creek (Neb.) farmers visited the farm of a widow named Houts and plowed 40 acres of corn for her.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—South American Rheumatic Cure, for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by W. A. Detlor, Druggist.—40.

This is Concentration—One pill a dose, one box 25 cents. One pill relieves constipation. One box cures an ordinary case. One pill takes pockily neutralizes formation of uric acid in the blood and prevents Bright's Kidney disease and Diabetes. True only of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills.

39c.

ank
0,000.00
0,000.00
llowed.
in and Agent.

PER NK

See the display of Blan rsions k at 89c. per pair. W—te, grey and tan.

on, N. B., St. John, N.B., and Portland and return.

$13.01, St. Andrews $13.55, ohns $13.55, Halifax $16.05. Sept. 2nd and 3rd and return until Sept. 22nd.

sion to Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal and return. Napanee to Kingston $4.90. Montreal $6.05, Quebec and $9.00. Tickets good to go Aug. 30th and Sept. 1st and 2nd, and to return Sept. 17th.

Ine

EXCURSION TO MANITOBA.

August 27th and Sept. 3rd. Tickets good to return in 60 days. $28 Deloraine, Reston, Binscarth, Estevan, Moosomin; $30 Regina, Moosejaw, Yorkton; $35 Prince Albert, Calgary; $40 Red Deer and Edmonton.

Tickets must be purchased on Monday, August 26th and Sept. 2nd, and leave Napanee by early morning train Tuesday.

J. L. BOYES.
Agent, Napanee.

Consumption.

Valuable treatise and two bottles of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. T. A. SLOCUM CHEMICAL CO., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

IRISH AND SCOTCH WHISKY.

For sale by the undersigned the following well known brands of Irish and Scotch whiskey :—

Bushneills	Irish
James Watson & Co.	"
Henry Thomson & Co.	"
Mitchell & Bro.	"
Burke & Co.	"
J. Brown & Co.	"
Bernard & Co. Encore	Scotch
Watson's, 3 Star	"
Dewar's, Extra Special	"
Usher's, O.V.G.	"
Sheriff's	"
Claymore	"
B. Lade & Co.	"
Mitchell Bro.	"
Glengowan	"

M. W. PRUYN & SON,
Napanee, 12th Dec. 1894.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address

MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

TWO
Harvest Excursions
.....TO.....
Manitoba and North-west
VIA
CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

August 27th, good to return Oct. 26th.
September 3rd, good to return until Nov. 2nd.

—TO—

DELORAINE, RESTON, ESTEVAN, BINSCARTH, MOOSOMIN, } $28

REGINA, MOOSEJAW YORKTON, } $30

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, AUG. 28, 1895

THEIR WORST ENEMY

POULTRYMEN SHOULD NOW MAKE WAR ON HEN LICE.

The Cheapest and most Effectual Remedy is Whitewash—A Thorough Application to the Inside Woodwork will Kill Every Louse.

As this is the season for these pests, and as more fowls die, either directly or indirectly, from the effects of lice, we feel it a necessity to urge all who keep poultry to keep them and their house free from the poultryman's worst enemy.

The lice that swarm in countless numbers on the perches and woodwork of a neglected poultry house must be destroyed. Several methods have been recommended, one of which is to wet every part with water by using a syringe, and then dust with dry wood ashes, relying on the potash to destroy the vermin. But this method is not perfect, for although the water may penetrate to every part of the interior of the building, there is a liability that the ashes may not, and then some small squads of lice would be left—enough for seed. It requires but few, especially in warm weather, to populate the building again. Another method is to use coal oil, putting it on with a brush; also a weak solution of carbolic acid has the same effect, viz., killing the lice it comes in contact with. It will be obvious that every part of the woodwork that is infested must be touched. The cheapest, most effectual, and the most pleasant remedy we have ever used is the long-tried one—whitewash. A thorough application kills every louse. But there must be no half-way work about it. The lime must be splashed into every crack and crevice. The material is so cheap that it may be used bountifully, and it does not need an artist to put it on, only a careful person, faithful in his work. After the work is done, there is a sweetness and cleanliness about the place that seems worth all the trouble leaving the killing of the vermin out of the question.

There are also, besides the poultry house vermin, the larger parasites that infest the bodies of the fowls, sticking to them closer than a brother, and remaining on till death separates them Nature provides ways and means to partly mitigate the evil, if fowls are not restrained. When the small vermin of the house becomes unbearable the birds can move to other quarters, and evade their tormentors, and the dust-bath furnishes the means of destroying the lice on the bodies of the fowls, which they are not backward in using. It is cruelty to shut fowls up in close quarters, and not to provide them with a dust bath. This seems to be the only natural method to which they resort to clear themselves. The fact is patent that the abundance of vermin is produced by the restraint which man imposes. If the fowls are confined in limited space, no dust-bath provided, and no chance to change roosts, they are completely at the mercy of both kinds of vermin.

But it is, nevertheless, true that fowls do get lousy, and their owners find it out by getting a few or many of the vermin on themselves as they visit the quarters of their much-abused birds to get eggs. Then it is that they realize that something must be done. We have given the best methods for those found clinging to the interior of the building. It remains to mention the means that have been made effectual in destroying the lice found on the bodies of adult fowls, and on the heads of young chickens. We enumerate sulphur, carbolic acid, kerosene, grease, and Persian insect powder. The latter is a vegetable preparation. Careless or ignorant persons, using carbolic acid or grease are liable, while destroying the lice, to injure or kill the patients. If the heads of the young chicks are infested with lice, only a little coal oil on the tip of a feather is to be used

A MATTER OF DOUBT.

A Large Element of Uncertainty in the Question of His Return.

A woman was standing in the front door of the West Virginia cabin when I rode up to it, and, saluting her, she saluted me in return.

"Does William Mixley live here?" I asked.

"Yes," she replied; "what do you want uv him?"

"Hasn't he a walnut tree for sale?"

"Yes, 'n that's about all he's got."

"Is he at home ?"

"No."

"When are you looking for him?"

"I ain't lookin' fer him."

"He hasn't left the country, has he?"

"Not as I knows uv."

"Where is he ?"

"He's gone down to papa's."

"Then of course you're looking for him back. Old man Gullion is your father, isn't he, and he lives a mile or so down the road ?"

"Yes, but I ain't looking for him back."

"Why not?" and by this time I had begun to think the woman was a little daft.

"Caze he's gone down to see pap about a hog he says pap stole from him night afore last, an' pap is the shootinest man in these parts."

I had heard of Mr. Gullion on several previous occasions, and the lady, after brief explanations, seemed much less daft than previously.—Detroit Free Press.

In Doubt.

Ethel—So Arthur proposed last night?

Maud—Yes.

Ethel—And did you accept him ?

Maud—I was so dreadfully excited, I don't know whether I did or not. If he comes to-night, I did, and if he doesn't, I didn't.

A Successful Experiment.

"That man yonder with the sour face looks like a temperance lecturer, or a prohibitionist," said Hojack to Tomdik. "I've a notion to ask him to take a drink, just for fun."

"Go ahead."

Hojack approached the suspected teetotaller and said:

"Will you join me in a glass of whiskey, sir."

The man addressed frowned slightly and made this reply:

"Sir, it would be impossible for me to join you in a glass of whiskey."

"Oh, I meant no offence! I beg pardon," began Hojack——

"Hear me out, sir, if you please. I was about to say, if you had permitted me, to go on, that it would be impossible for me to join you in a glass of whiskey because such a glass would not hold either of us, not to speak of both, even if it were advisible for us to enter such cramped quarters, which it is not. If, however, as I infer to be the case, it was your polite and hospitable intention to invite me to drink as much whiskey as can be contained in a glass, coincidentally with your partaking of a similar quantity of that refreshing and exhiliarating beverage, you to defray the expense of the same, I am ready to accept your invitation without further delay."

Whereupon the two moved towards the bar, and Tomdik joined them.

AS THE YEARS ROLL BY.

A Little Parable in Two Acts on Life's Vicissitudes.

He was barely twenty-one. His mustache was merely a delicate hint—he had been to two French balls, had a bowing acquaintance with three third-rate actresses—and no one could ever tell him anything he didn't know.

He admired a woman whose age was a stationary twenty-nine, whose hair was adjustable, and whose tense was Past.

He passed his hand wearily over his wrinkless brow, and paid his court in the following unimpassioned terms:

"My child, I have only the remains of a wasted life to offer you. I am tired of everything. Satiety has been my ruin! But if you like to take pity on a man who has drunk the cup of pleasure to its bitter dregs, and frittered away a noble career, I am willing to devote the poor remnant of my life entirely to you."

And the woman shook her head and turned aside to hide a smile, saying to herself, "Why, he is even younger than I thought !"

* * * * *

Twenty years later he was, naturally, forty-one. He now preferred the circus to French balls, watching baseball games instead of playing poker, and was pretty nearly convinced that there were a great many things which he didn't know and would probably die in ignorance of.

He admired a woman whose age was a temporary twenty-two, whose bright hair was indigenous and whose tense was decidedly future.

By this time he had dabbled in Obesity Cures, developed lead-colored pouches under his eyes, and his hair was gray and scanty.

His joints cracked loudly as he stretched forth his hands and paid his court to his divinity in the following impassionate terms:

"I am a young man—with all my life before me! Although no saint, I have a clean record ! I feel that I am called a glorious possibilities! Come to my arms—and with me walk down the long vistas of the future !"

And this woman also shook her head and turned away to hide a smile, saying to herself:

"He must really be very old to talk like that !"

Blasts From Ram's Horn.

Envy is a robber.

There is sometimes as much venom in the point of a pen as there is in the bite of a dog.

When you go into the closet for secret prayer be sure to take the key of your safe along.

Bad surroundings do not make people bad. They only bring out the bad that's in them.

A detective association has for its motto "We never sleep." It would be a good one for a church.

The preacher misses it who tries to substitute for the bread of life something of his own make.

Making the Bible a centre table ornament is an altogether different thing from making it a lamp of life.—Ram's Horn.

THE ROUSIN' OF JIM.

She Only Tackled It Once a Year, But That Sufficed.

After I had shouted "Hello!" four or five times a woman came to the door of the cabin, and when I inquired if I could get a bite to eat and a feed for my horse she came to the gate and queried :

"Stranger, mebbe yo' ar' a doctor ?"

"No, I'm not."

"But mebbe yo' kin tell what ails a person?"

"That's according. Anybody sick in the house?"

"It's the old man. Jest light down and take yo'r hoss in the shed and then come in to snack. I wish you would look the ole mun over, fur I never did see him quite so poorly befo'."

I entered the cabin to find her hus-

PRINCE ALBERT, CALGARY, } $35.
RED DEER, EDMONTON, } $40.
E. McLAUGHLIN,
1 Agent at Napanee.

FOWLER'S
EXT. OF WILD
STRAWBERRY

CURES
COLIC,
CRAMPS,
CHOLERA,
DIARRHOEA,
DYSENTERY,
CHOLERA MORBUS,
CHOLERA INFANTUM
and all Summer Complaints and Fluxes of the Bowels. It is safe and reliable for Children or Adults.
For Sale by all Dealers.

BRISTOL'S
PILLS
Cure Biliousness, Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Sluggish Liver and all Stomach Troubles.

BRISTOL'S
PILLS
Are Purely Vegetable, elegantly Sugar-Coated, and do not gripe or sicken.

BRISTOL'S
PILLS
Act gently but promptly and thoroughly. "The safest family medicine." All Druggists keep

BRISTOL'S
PILLS

FIRST AND FOREMOST
CANADA'S GREAT INDUSTRIAL FAIR
TORONTO,
SEPT. 2nd to 14th
—1895.—
The Finest and Fullest Display of LIVE STOCK, AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS, and MANUFACTURES to be seen on the Continent.
Increased Prizes, Improved Facilities, and Special Attractions, etc.
A Trip to Toronto at FAIR TIME is an IDEAL HOLIDAY.
There is MORE to SEE, MORE to LEARN and MORE to ENJOY at the
GREAT TORONTO FAIR
THAN AT ALL OTHERS PUT TOGETHER
EXCURSIONS ON ALL LINES.
Entries close Aug 10th
For Prize Lists, Programmes, etc, Address

If it gets into the eyes or mouth it may prove fatal. Grease kills lice by closing the small apertures through which they breathe. But this remedy makes them look unsightly, and it is not to be recommended.

The sole reason why the farmers of the United Kingdom raise the largest crop of potatoes is because they take care of the soil upon which the potatoes grow; the American farmer raises the smallest crop of all the nations, because he attempts it upon soil which fails to furnish necesary plant food. It is altogether in the farming.

There are two far-famed violet farms managed exclusively by women, who are their respective owners. One is Meadow Springs Farm, at Stamford, Conn., belonging to Mrs. Ned Lavitt, and the other is the Holmdale violet farm, at Madison, N. J., owned and managed by Mrs. Robert B. Holms. In the west also, women are beginning to make a specialty of these flowers.

It is not possible, or best if it were, to plow so close to trees in sod as to remove all the grass around their trunks. But such clumps of grass should be dug out with a spade and overturned. There are no roots close to the stump for this grass to interfere with, but it makes just the shelter that the apple tree borer beetle needs when depositing its eggs. It also obstructs the view of the tree trunk. Every orchardist should watch his trees closely during the summer for signs of the borer, and the bunch of grass growing around the root of the tree is what most often prevents the first work of the borer from being observed.

He Was Rich.

The man in the upper berth leaned over its edge, and, jamming his frown firmly down on his brow, cried in a harsh, coarse voice that was audible above the rattle and rumble of the car wheels:

"Hi, you, down there! Are you rich?"

"Heh?" ejaculated the man in the lower berth, almost swallowing his Adam's apple. "Whazzer mazzer?"

"I say are you rich?"

"What's that, sir? Rich? What do you mean by waking me up in the middle of the night to ask me such a question as that?"

"Well, then, confound you, I am rich. Now. I hope your infernal curiosity is satisfied and you will let me go to sleep."

"Very rich?"

"Millionaire, darn you. Now shut up and—"

"Well, then, why in sizzling, blazing torment don't you hire a whole sleeping car to do your snoring in?"—New York World.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

Fast . . . Diamond Dyes . . . For Cotton and Mixed Goods.

The Only Complete Dyes on the Market that Make Fast and Unfading Colors.

The Fast Diamond Dyes for Cotton and Mixed Goods (12 colors) are triumphs of science. They are new and important discoveries, controlled by Diamond Dyes, and are found in no other package dyes. They will color more goods than other package dyes, and make colors that are absolutely fast to light and washing. Be sure that you get Fast Diamond Dyes for Cotton and Mixed Goods, as they excel all others.

Sold everywhere. For Direction Book and forty samples of colored cloth free.

It Went Off.

"Where's my bicycle," asked papa on the morning of the Fourth, as he came out into the yard.

"Boo-hoo!—I d-don't know," said Willie. "It went off a little while ago."

"Went off! Where?"

"Boo-hoo!—I d-don't know. I f-fulfilled the romaatic tire wiv powder an' touched a m-match to it, an'—ah-hoo-ah-hoo!—it went away."—New York Herald.

A Pioneer.

The patient had just described his symptoms, and the physician grasped him by the hand.

"My dear fellow," he cried, "I cannot tell you how delighted I am that you have come to me. You have a disease which has baffled the profession for years. Hitherto it has always proved fatal, and I've always wished to experiment on in myself. If I save you I shall be immortal; and if I don't—what's the odds.—Harper's Bazar.

In a Brooklyn Street Car.

Mrs. Heald—There, Tommy, don't cry. Come, look out of the window and watch the trolley kill somebody.

What is Style.

What we call style is almost precisely synonymous with what the French call chic. Either word means much or little, anything and everything, is definite to the mind and indefinable to the tongue. No one expects to find what is chic outside of Paris. No New Yorker, at least, expects to find style much beyond the fifty-mile radius with Central Park as a centre. What the Parisienne is to the Old World the Manhattanese is to New York. The latter is rarely born where she makes her home. She comes from every part of the republic, from North, South, East and West, from city, village and hamlet, to the great municipal school of art, fashion, manners and receives there the coveted degree of M. S., Mistress of Style. So, if she reflects lustre upon herself she reflects lustre in a way on the whole country, showing what any American may become under properly plastic agencies and in aiming at her own.

The mistress of style must be, in regard to the multitude, as one in a hundred; but she is a familiar figure in every cultured household, and a creature to be esteemed, to be admired, to be patterned after. She is not only the woman of the present, she is the woman of the future as well, for the future cannot eclipse her.—Harper's Bazar.

One Woman's Heart.

A shameful story, a story that ought to be incredible, is printed for truth in Kate Field's Washington: "A well-dressed young woman recently went to one of the taxidermists of the Smithsonian institution, carrying with her in a cage a bright canary bird. "I have hunted all over the city for a bird of just this color," she explained, "because I want him to match a gown I am having made." She wished the taxidermist to kill it and set it up, that she might wear it as an ornament! Thousands of women wear birds on their hats, the more is the pity; but probably no civilized woman ever before bought a live bird and killed it, with his head bound up, and other evidences of an accident. His eyes were open and he was conscious, but it was evident that he was very weak.

"I thought it was a case of sickness," I said to his wife.

"Oh, no! Hain't bin sick a day fur twenty years."

"It appears to be an accident."

"Yes, 'pears that way."

"Where is his worst injury?"

"I ain't got no particklar worse, I reckon. It's a sort of all-over accident, Jim, do yo' feel mo' hurted in one place than t'other?"

Jim shook his head to signify that he didn't.

"Did he fall from a tree?" I asked.

"Skarsly, stranger."

"Tree fall on him?"

"Reckon not."

"Well, I've got some liniment in my knapsack, and if there are no bones broken or limbs out of joint it may be of some benefit. This man must have met with a terrible shaking up."

I looked at her, she looked at Jim, and Jim looked at me. She finally broke the painful silence by saying:

"Reckon I'd better tell yo' about it. Did yo' notice the ground all plowed up out thar?"

"Yes, I did. Looks as if hogs had been rooting around."

"It wasn't hogs, mister, but me and Jim. Jim is the laziest, shuckless mortal in all this State. About once a ya'ar I go in to arouse him. I went in this fo'noon. We had a fout out thar which lasted nigh two hours, and I had to mighty nigh kill him befo' he give in. thought he was dead when I lugged him in. Wil yo' look for broken bones?"

"His bones are all right," I said, after looking the man over, "and I'll leave you a bottle of liniment for the cuts and bruises. He'll be all right in a week."

"Thankee, sir, and if yo' stop at any of the other cabins"—

"I'll say a rock fell on him."

"Exactly—thankee—mighty kind o' yo. Yes, say a rock fell on him, and rolled over him, and while yo' ar' about it, say it was a rock bigger'n a house, and that he's gwine to plant two acres of co'n this spring instead of wastin' his time arter coons and woodchucks."—Detroit Free Press.

Sunshine as a Disease Preventer.

It is rather surprising to be told that sunshine is not always a promoter of health, and that London fog may be a blessing in disguise. In experiments by De Renzi, guinea pigs inoculated with tuberculosis died after 24 to 89 days, when kept in glass boxes in the sunshine, but survived only 20 to 41 days in opaque wooden boxes. This makes it evident that sunshine is a material aid in combatting consumption. In a later investigation by Dr. Masella, however, guinea pigs were inoculated with cholera and typhoid bacilli respectively, when it was found that previous exposure to sunshine increased the susceptibility to both diseases, while exposure to sunshine after infection so accelerated the progress of the malady that death occurred in three to five hours, instead of 15 to 24 hours. That this was not due to increase of temperature was proved by cooling the boxes in sunshine by a circulation of water.

From the Garden of Eden.

Adam—I have got to go out for a while to-night, Eve, and if I find that snake hanging around when I come back I'll get a divorce.

Eve—There's one thing you can't do, Adam.

Adam—What's that?

Eve—You can't send me back to my mother.

Working a Revolution.

The progressive wheelmen of New York who are tired of baggy knees are as anxious to put off trousers as the progressive wheelwomen are to put them on. There is no reason why they might not both be gratified, and comfort, health and neatness plead alike for the knickerbockers and the bloomers. The wheel is working a silent revolution in the apparel of society, and it will not stop with the clothes.—Philadelphia

Our store will be closed Fridays at 12 o'clock noon during July and August.

OUR BOOTS - -

TAKE THE LEAD.

Good Solid Leather

BOOTS AND SHOES AT THE LOWEST PRICES.

HAINES & LOCKETT

NEXT DOOR TO EXPRESS OFFICE. 4 BIG SHOE STORES.

No Credit. Only One Price.

Holidays

Do You Want a Bag or Trunk for Your Summer Outing?

See Our Stock of Bags and Trunks!

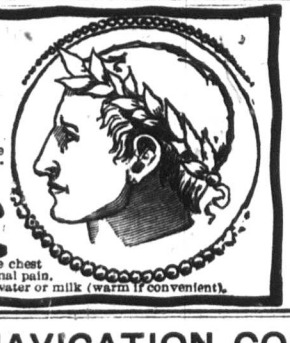
Our new Boston and London Club Bags for Gentlemen are splendid value for any person wanting a real good article.

Prices: $6, $7.50, $9.50.

JAS. H. DOWNEY,

McRossie's Old Stand, South Side Dundas Street.

GREAT CÆSAR!



Had to "Grin and Bear It" when he had a pain. You can grin and banish it at once by using PERRY DAVIS'

Pain Killer

Sold and used everywhere. A whole medicine chest by itself. Kills every form of external or internal pain.
DOSE—A teaspoonful in half glass of water or milk (warm if convenient).

THE DESERONTO NAVIGATION CO'Y
(LIMITED)
SUMMER TIME TABLE
Taking effect May 1st, 1895. Steamers will run as follows Daily, except Sunday.
STEAMER ELLA ROSS

TROUGH FOR POULTRY.

It Prevents Soft Food From Being Thrown on the Ground and Thereby Made Unfit for Food.

Soft poultry food thrown on the ground or on a board is quickly trampled and befouled so that it is unfit to eat. Placing it in a shallow pan or trough helps the mater little, if any. The best way of feeding is to use covered pans or troughs which permit poultry to obtain the food and at the same time keep them out of it with their feet. For small chicks, a double trough is made of tin, as shown in Fig. 1. It is 28 in long and 4 in wide, each half being 2 in wide and 1 1-2 in deep, with square ends soldered on. Tin is best as it is easily washed and kept clean. This trough is set inside of the box, seen in Fig. 2, the same in width and length, inside, and 8 in. high. It has a hinged cover fastened down with a hook and handle to lift by. Each side is open and fitted with wire bars placed 2 in. apart, each end of these wires being bent at right angles, driven through the strips of wood and clinched. The food is placed in the trough by raising the cover of the box. A tight cover is necessary to protect the food from their droppings when they jump on the box and make a roost of it, which they are certain to do. Feed at one time only what will

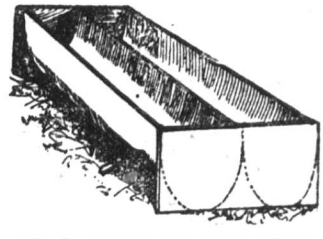


FIG. 1. TROUGH FOR SMALL CHICKS.

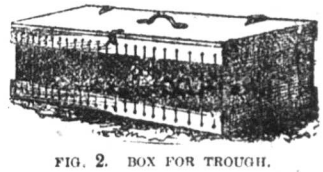

FIG. 2. BOX FOR TROUGH.

How to Make the Sailor Hat a Joy Forever.

To make the sailor hat of greater value to the summer wardrobe it is necessary to have several ribbon bands to match the various frocks. This is the clever idea of a young belle who is always well gowned, and who does this at a smaller expense. For instance, with a pure white toilet of duck a white sailor hat, with a white band is correct, and with a pale or dark blue it is the same rule of fashion which applies. This changing of the band makes it appear as though it were a new hat, whereas the cost of the band is a small expense. Make the band with a piece of elastic inside of it, so that it will slip over the crown of the hat easily. The narrow corded ribbon is now most in vogue.

Brown Bread.

Take two cups cornmeal, two cups flour, two cups milk, one egg, one tablespoonful melted lard, one-half cup of molasses, one-half cup of sugar, two even teaspoonfuls of soda, one teaspoonful of salt. Bake thin.

According to the Commercial Gazette, it is proposed to do away with the smoke nuisance in Pittsburg by erecting at some convenient coal mine a mammoth electric power plant to furnish the city with current for electric lighting, heating and power, thus entirely doing away with the burning of coal in and immediately about Pittsburg. It is thought by Mr. Robert Marshall, of the firm of Marshall Bros., elevator builders, the originator of the scheme, that electricity could be furnished from such a plant cheaper than power could be generated in isolated city plants.

Monsignor Capel has devised a scheme to bring a large population to the valley of the Sacramento, believing that the prosperity of this State depends upon dividing these big ranches and making 2 homes where only one existed before. He has an ideal community in view, a community where each industrious family will have a house and a farm, and the harvest will yield an independence to all. The big ranch of Count Valensin, at Arbuckle is to be cut up into tracts of from 80 to 160 acres and an active and industrious class of farmers brought here from Europe. On one part of the land a space

Leave	Trenton.....	1 00 P.M.	Leave	Picton.....	6 00 A.M.....9 00 P.M.
"	Belleville.. ..	3 00 "	Arrive	Deseronto	7 25 " ..... 10 30 "
Arrive	Deseronto.....	5 00 "	Leave	Deseronto.....	7 30 "
Leave	Deseronto (...	5 15 " .....3 30 A.M.	"	Belleville	10 00 "
Arrive	Picton.....	6 50 " .....5 00 "	Arrive	Trenton.....	11 30 "

Calling at intermediate ports.

This Steamer makes connections at Deseronto with morning trains going East on G. T. R., East and West on C. P. R., and with night trains East and West on Grand Trunk Railway. Arrangements have been made whereby a boat will leave Picton every evening at 9 p.m. for Deseronto. This service will not in any way interfere with the regular daily service, and will prove a great convenience to commercial men and the public generally.

STEAMER DESERONTO.

WM. SKILLEN, Master.

Napanee and Deseronto to Picton.		Picton and Deseronto to Napanee.
Leave Napanee	6 00 A.M.	Leave Picton.....	9 30 A.M..... 2 30 P.M.
Arrive Deseronto.....	6 45 "	" Thompson's Pt.	10 05 " ..... 3 00 "
Leave Deseronto.....	7 00 " .....12 30 P.M.	" Houghs.....	10 35 " ..... 3 35 "
" Houghs	7 20 " .....12 50 "	Arrive Deseronto	11 00 " ..... 4 00 "
" Thompson,s Pt.	8 00 " ..... 1 30 "	Leave Deseronto.....	5 00 "
Arrive Picton.....	8 30 " ..... 2 00 "	Arrive Napanee.....	6 00 "

Close connections with G. T. R. trains for all points East and West. Call for tickets reading "via Deseronto."

Jack—To feather your nest you must have money. Tom—Yes, there is nothing so delightful as cash down.—Truth.

Little Girl—What is tact, papa? Papa—Something every woman has and exercises, until she gets married.—New York Weekly.

Tommy—Paw, what is the Board of Education? Mr. Figg—In the days when I went to school it was a pine shingle.—Indianapolis Journal.

He—Is this the first time you've ever been in love, darling? She (thoughtlessly)—Yes; but it's so nice that I hope it won't be the last.—Tit-Bits.

Clara Winterbloom—There is only enough to about half fill this trunk. What shall I do, fill it with papers? Mrs. Winterbloom—No; let your father pack it.—Brooklyn Life.

"Who is the master of this house?" asked the agent of the man who answered his ring. "Well," was the curious response, in a resigned tone, "I am the husband and father."—Life.

Sailing in the Sound.

Hillery—Yachting seems to be very popular in New Rochelle.

Millery—Yes, it seems as if all the young men in town were slowly turning into Rochelle salts.—New York World.

Cawker—Barlow made a rash prediction just now. Cumso—What did he say? Cawker—He said that the time would come when it would be respectable to be honest.—Judge.

First little girl—And isn't you cat afraid of mice. Second little girl—Oh, no, not a single bit. First little girl—That's queer. And she's a lady cat too, isn't she?—Somerville Journal.

Van Pelt—Isn't $4 a day rather high for a hotel in the mountains? Landlord But, my dear sir, you should think of the scenery. Van Pelt—How much do you charge for that?—New York World

"What's the matter with that horse?" said the animal's owner at the race track. "He's fast asleep," replied the stable boy. "Well, leave him that way. It's the only time he is ever fast."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Keene—Mason! Mr. Keene—What dear? Mrs. Keene—The next time we go to the opera buy your friend a seat alongside of us, so you won't have to run out to see him between acts.—Boston Courier.

Cass—But how do you know that was Benedict's wife that sat beside him in the train? Bass—Why, didn't you notice that he addressed all of his conversation to the lady in the next seat?—Boston Transcript.

Heart Disease Relieved in 30 Minutes

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gives perfect relief in all cases of Organic or Sympathetic Heart Disease in 30 minutes, and speedily effects a cure. It is a peerless remedy for Palpitation Shortness of Breath, Smothering Spells, Pain in Left Side and all symptoms of a Diseased Heart. One dose convinces. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y nervous, weary, depressed, headaches, pallid or blue lips, energy all gone—just wasting away.

SOME PEOPLE GET FAGGED OUT

REGAIN HEALTH

by building up worn out tissues—pure blood does it.

SCOTT'S SARSAPARILLA

makes pure blood, cures nervous and wasting diseases.

Cash Saved

By ordering your Suits from DAVIS & Co. Entire new stock at bottom prices to select from.

Call and see our prices before ordering.

Davis & Co.

T. G. DAVIS. R. FORD

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

bower diseases in chicks than soured and musty food or a filthy feed trough. —Farm and Home.

THEY SAW THE DIRECTORY.

And no One Else Got a Look at It for Morn Than an Hour.

Each was provided with a litlte memorandum book, and when they entered the drug store they went straight to the directory, unmindful of the clerk who had come forward to wait upon them.

"You call off the names," said the one in the gray dress, "and I'll look up the addresses."

The one in blue agreed, and began calling off names and addresses, which the other looked up in the directory. For ten minutes the clerk watched them, in a wondering sort of way, and then his speculations were interrupted by a man who came in hurriedly.

"Gimme a good ten-cent cigar," said the man, and then, looking around: "Where's your directory?"

Two pairs of eyes greeted him with a stony stare as he finally located it.

"Beg pardon!" he said quickly. "I didn't notice anyone was using it. I just wanted to get an address."

He lit his cigar and waited five minutes for a chance to get the directory. Then he left.

"I'll try some where else," he said, as he went through the door.

"What an impertinent man," exclaimed the one in gray.

"A brute," said the one in blue.

A few minutes later a lady entered and ordered a glass of soda water.

"May I see your directory a moment?" she asked, as she paid for the soda water.

Two pair of eyes shot indignant glances at her, and she explained to the clerk that it was of no consequence and went out. She evidently knew too much to wait.

One or two others came in and went out, after noticing that the two women had appropriated a couple of seats and a large section of the counter in front of the soda fountain; and then a boy entered.

"Say," he said, "you didn't give me the right address for the geezer that wanted the quinine."

"Didn't I?" asked the clerk.

"Naw, you didn't," replied the boy. "Better get out your directory and look it up, or you'll lose the old skate's trade."

One woman rested a scornful glance on the boy and the other looked at the clerk. The clerk wilted, but the boy was made of sterner stuff.

"Kin I see that book a minute?" he asked.

They merely gave him a withering look.

"The fellow's waitin' to get this stuff," he persisted.

They got up and walked haughtily out.

"I shall never go to that place again," said one, with determination.

"Nor I," replied the other. "Where shall we go to finish verifying that invitation list?"

And the clerk, who was looking at the clock and muttering, "Held it sixty-eight minutes, and now they've gone away mad."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Traveling Gowns of Mohair.

Traveling gowns of mohair are being made with the fulness of the skirt carried over the hip in a series of very fine plaits, stitched down flatly, and visibly. With many of these skirts is worn a short cape instead of a jacket or blazer.

Japs are building ships.
Some Cubans eat rats.
London has 200,000 factory girls.
Typewriters employ 500,000 women.
The electric plow gives satisfaction.
Atlanta has a pneumatic-tired hearse.
Portland (Ore.), has a platinum mine.
New York has 500 sawdust vendors.
Western New York farmers firmly believe hay will sell for $25 a ton next winter.
Germany promises fair to overtake Great Britain in the production of iron during 1895.

Refrigerators, ice cream freezers, garden hose, nozzels, all new goods prices right. BOYLE & SON.

COAL

Much heat at little cost when you burn our Coal.

If you have not been a customer in the past a trial will convince you that you ought to have been.

All coal under cover and thoroughly screened before delivery.

Prices as low as good Coal can be sold, at

The Rathbun Co.

SCRIBBLERS!

We manufacture the best Scribbling books for School use in Ontario. The paper is of a superior quality. Have you tried the PEN and INK SCRIBBLER, only 5 Cents.

200 Page SCRIBBLERS -

68 Page Scribbler, One Cent.

100 Page Scribblers, 3 cents, 2 for 5 cents

All Kinds of School Books and School Requisites kept in Stock.

THE POLLARD CO'Y.

EXPRESS BOOKSTORE, NAPANEE.

Physicians

prescribe Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites because they find their patients can tolerate it for a long time, as it does not upset the stomach nor derange the digestion like the plain oil.

Scott's Emulsion is as much easier to digest than the plain oil as milk is easier to digest than butter. Besides, the fish-fat taste is taken out of the oil, and it is almost palatable. The way sickly children, emaciated, anæmic and consumptive adults, gain flesh on Scott's Emulsion is very remarkable.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!

Scott & Bowne, Belleville. 50c. and $1.

I CURE FITS!

Valuable treatise and bottle of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. H. G. ROOT, M.C., 186 West Adelaide Street, Toronto, Ont.

Damp Days

often bring coughs and colds, while

PYNY - PECTORAL

brings quick relief. Cures all inflammation of the bronchial tubes, throat or chest. No uncertainty. Relieves, soothes, heals promptly.

A Large Bottle for 25 Cents.

DAVIS & LAWRENCE CO., LTD.
PROPRIETORS.
MONTREAL.

STOP WEARING A TRUSS

CHAPTER IV.

When he came to he found himself lying in a kind of recess or hollow dug out of the rock, which was only roughly lined by old ships' planks. His clothes and watch and chain lay on a wodden seat beside the bed, and it was the smear of blood on the collar of his coat that, catching his eye, helped him to recall the incidents which had brought him there.

He tried to rise, but found himself unable to do so, and was wondering how long he had been lying there, and where "there" actually was, when the door opened and the woman of the hut stood beside him.

"You are better, sir?" she said, gravely, but with the sympathy in her voice which the nurse had for her patient.

"I am all right now," said Vane. "I suppose I have been ill, and I'm sure I have given you no end of trouble. How long have I been here?"

"Two days," she replied, as she smoothed the pillow and sheets of rough linen, and laid her cool hand on his brow. "Yes, you are better now; the fever has left you; you will be well soon."

"Oh, yes," he said; "I'll get up and cease bothering you. I must have been a terrible nuisance! Two days! I didn't think I was so much knocked about as that!"

"Some—most—men would have been killed," she said, in a low voice; "but you are one of the strong ones, sir. I think you could take some broth now, Mr. Tempest."

"Thank you," he said; "you know my name—oh, I forgot, I told your niece."

She nodded.

"And if you hadn't I should have known it. You have mentioned it often and often in your delirium. You are the nephew of Squire Vale, sir?"

"Yes," said Vane; "I was going there, as I told you. I hope you haven't taken the trouble to send word to him, for he did not expect me."

"No," she said; "I did not." She paused a moment. "You wonder at

When he woke in the morning the sun was streaming through the narrow window of his tiny bedroom, and he was delighted to find that he was able to get out of bed. He dressed himself, but slowly, for he still felt weak, and, as he would have put it, "wobbly"; and while he was doing so, he saw that there was a second door to his room. It was a low one, made of thick planks, and fastened with a big padlock. At the same time he noticed, not for the first time, a peculiar smell which was like a mixture of tobacco and spirits.

Having dressed himself, he knocked at the door of the adjoining room, and getting no answer, passed in.

There was no one in the room. A kettle was simmering on the fire, and a basin of milk, set to "cream," stood beside it. The cloth was laid for breakfast, and the whole had a pleasant look of rough comfort. The door was locked so that he was virtually a prisoner. This amused him, and he sat down to wait for the appearance of one of the women. After a minute or two he heard the key turn, and the elder woman entered. She had some fish in her hand, and smiled at him gravely.

Vane exchanged greetings with her, and assured her that he was much better—quite well, indeed.

"And ready for breakfast, I hope," she said. "Nora has got you some fish this morning. Perhaps you would like to take a turn in the sun while I cook it, Mr. Tempest?"

Vane went out on to the small plateau in front of the cottage, and immediately faced a view which drew from him an exclamation of admiration.

All traces of the storm of three nights ago had vanished; the sea was dancing in ripples, and was as blue as a sapphire; the gulls were sailing through the light, clear air, their white breasts gleaming in the sun. Even the rocks, which towered above him, had their rugged outlines softened by the sunlight, and lost something of their excepting on your—and your aunt's—account," he added. "By the way, do you mind telling me your name?"

"You know it," she said. "Nora."

"Nora," he repeated; and as he did so, it struck him he had never heard any name more musical, as she voiced it. "But the other?"

"Trevanion."

"That has the proper Cornish sound," he said. "And your aunt—is she called Trevanion?"

She nodded.

"Yes."

"And you live here, all alone, you two?" he said. "'Monarchs of all you survey,' as Robinson Crusoe would say. You've read old 'Robinson Crusoe,' Miss Nora?"

She looked at him steadily with her wonderful eyes.

"No; I can't read," she said, simply.

Vane had some difficulty in preventing himself from starting. Not read! And yet she spoke so correctly, and with that vague, indefinable accent of refinement!

"I have never learned to read or write," she said, calmly, and without a trace of embarrassment.

"I suppose there are no schools here?" said Vane, trying to speak as if her ignorance were rather a credit to her than otherwise, and by no means extraordinary.

"No," she replied; "the nearest is at Porth. I have never been there. I have never been anywhere but here."

She moved her hand slowly, but with indescribable grace, in a sweep that took in the small bay and the rocks.

Vane tried to find something complimentary to say.

"There is too much reading and writing nowadays," he said.

"Can you read?" she asked, her lovely eyes scanning his face with frank interest.

"A little," he replied—"small words, at any rate. But I'm almost as ignor—I know very little more about it than you do, Miss Nora. What does it matter? For instance, you seem very happy. I heard you singing away like a bird. I don't often hear other girls sing like that."

"Not where you come from?" she asked. "Where do you come from?"

"London," he replied, with a smile, and tilting his cap to the back of his head.

In all his life he never had imagined such an experience, such a human being as this.

"London!" She repeated the word, her dark eyes fixed dreamily on the sea. "Yes, I remember. I have heard aunt speak of it. It is a—city."

"That's right," said Vane; "and a pretty big city, with three, four millions—I don't quite know how many—people in it."

She sat silently taking in this fact

By a new device recently patented in U. S. and Canada by CHAS. CLUTHE

ESTABLISHED 1871

RUPTURE CAN BE CURED

WITH NO INCONVENIENCE

WITHOUT A TRUSS

CHEAP BY MAIL

Your name to us means comfort to you. A Post Card will do it.

Age of person or case immaterial

CHAS. CLUTHE
134 KING ST. WEST
TORONTO - - - - CANADA

Robert Light

Manufacturer and Dealer in

Rough and Dressed Lumber

Screen Doors,
Mouldings,
Bee Hives,
Stairs, Blinds,
Turned Work,
Wood Drapery,
Sash,

and Interior Finish for Buildings.

NAPANEE - - ONT

M. STORMS,

MOSCOW

has been over fifty years in the undertaking business in the county, and can turn out work equal to any in the Dominion.

A large stock of Coffins, Caskets, Robes, Crape Gloves and Badges, constantly on hand, and sold at reasonable prices.

Embalming a Specialty. Every facility on hand for doing the work.

25 per cent cheaper than any in the trade. Give me a call at Moscow.

M. STORMS, Prop.

Carscallen & Bro.,

Low Priced, No Combination

Undertaking Establishment.

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of all the latest designs to be found in which we are prepared to sell 25 per cent. cheaper than any house in the county. We use the best deodorizer, thus obviating all unpleasant odors. Embalming a Specialty. Having purchased one of the handsomest Hearses at the Toronto exhibition we are prepared to attend personally funerals in the most satisfactory manner. The public will do well to call and examine our stock, and be convinced that ours is the place to buy.

COFFINS, CASKETS, ROBES, Etc.

We have also added a full line of the newest things in Wall Paper, Ceiling Decorations, Window Shades and Picture Railing, Paints and Oils Paint Mixed. Persons wanting anything in this line will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere. Remember the place, Centre-street one block south of Main that ? I had my reasons for not doing so."

"Reasons ?" said Vane.

She nodded, her eyes fixed on him.

"Yes ; you are here by accident, Mr. Tempest ; but for your fall and injury you would not have found this cottage. No one, no traveler or tourist, comes this way, for it is right off the beaten track, and the road to it leads to no other place. We live in seclusion and quite out of the world, even the little world of this wild coast, and we live thus by choice and necessity. We have no desire to mix with other people. If I had sent to the Hall some one would have come from there, and the place—we—would get known and talked about—" She paused, still looking fixedly at him.

Vane nodded.

"I understand," he said. "Of course, I can see"—he hesitated—"that you are not what you seem to be."

Her lips closed tightly.

"We are just plain fisher-folk, sir," she said.

Vane did not press the point.

"Very well," he said, earnestly. "At any rate, I know what you mean—what you want me to do."

She looked at him inquiringly, waitingly.

"And when I leave here, which I will do the first moment I can, I will forget that I have ever been here, or seen the place or you. I will tell no one."

An expression of satisfaction came into her eyes.

"Yes," she said, as if accepting his promise with perfect confidence. "That will be better. I can trust you. You are a gentleman."

"I hope so," said Vane, with a faint smile. "I am as much a gentleman as you are a lady."

"I am a plain fisherwoman," she said, gravely. "But you must not talk any more. I will bring you some broth directly. I am afraid you are not very comfortable."

Vane made haste to assure her that he had never been more comfortable in his life, but she looked round the small room and shook her head as she left him.

She brought him some broth in a little while, and Vane felt decidedly better after it, and fell into a sleep that lasted some hours. When he awoke he knew that he was on the road to complete recovery, and enjoyed a second cup of broth with a thick slice of homemade bread which his nurse brought him.

"I think I could get up," he said.

"To-morrow," she responded, with a faint smile at his impatience. "Is there anything you wish me to do—any message you would like sent ?"

"No," said Vane, thanking her. "As I said, my uncle does not expect me, and it doesn't matter if I arrive at the Hall a day or two later than I thought to do."

Then he remembered to ask after the young girl.

"I hope your niece is none the worse for the storm and the excitement," he said.

She smiled and shook her head.

"She is used to storms and not apt to get excited,' she replied. "We who live on this rough coast are accustomed to dangers both by sea and land."

"I can easily believe that," remarked Vane. "I had no idea such wild places existed in England. My adventure would not read badly in an old-fashioned novel of the wrecker and smuggler type."

She said nothing in response to this, but left him, and Vane turned over on his side and gave himself up to speculating on the identity and history of these two strange women.

She had called herself a plain fisherwoman, but Vane knew that no fisher-folk spoke as she spoke, or possessed her manners. What was their reason for living in this wild, secluded spot, and why did they keep the door of their cotage barred and locked, as if it were a fortress or prison ?

"I should like Sen to see them," he mused, with a smile. "What a picture he would make of the girl with her deep, flashing eyes and black hair. However, he never will see them, for I've promised to hold my tongue about them and the place."

He fell asleep and dreamed all kinds of absurd dreams, in which the cottage the bridge, and the two solitary women figured grotesquely.

sunlight, and lost something of their grimness.

Vane saw a narrow path leading to a small space of yellow beach, and he went slowly down it. As he descended the short incline he heard a voice singing. It was an exquisite voice, full, round and clear, and it seemed to harmonize with the glory of the morning.

He paused for a moment to listen ; then went on, and suddenly came upon the singer.

It was Nora, as he had expected. She was sitting on the edge of a boat, mending a net. If she had chosen the attitude as a pose for an artist—for Senley Tyers, for instance—she could not have hit it off more happily.

Her lithe form was grace itself. The dark hair seemed to catch and imprison the sunbeams, and her arms, bare to the elbow, gleamed a delicate brown, like that of antique ivory.

Her head was bent as she worked, and she sung with the freedom of one who does not suspect a listener.

As Vane stood and looked at her, she ceased, her hands stopped in their work, and she appeared to have suddenly become lost in reverie.

Vane moved, a pebble rolled, and she raised her head quickly and saw him. She did not blush, and her eyes rested on him for a moment or two before they dropped to her net again, as if she were forcing herself, with something like defiance in her gaze, to meet his eyes.

Vane approached her, with a smile on his handsome face. If it would have been impossible to find a more lovely creature than this strange fisher-girl, it would have been almost as difficult to discover a more manly and graceful specimen of the other sex than Vane Tempest. In all her life she had never seen any one like him. In face, manner, dress, and bearing he was as strange and novel an object to her as a South Sea Islander would have been.

And yet, with a woman's instinct, she kept the wonder and curiosity out of her eyes as perfectly as any finished woman of the world could have done.

"Good-morning, Miss Nora," he said, raising his hat.

She looked at him, but neither inclined her head nor spoke.

Most men would have been disconcerted ; but Vane was not easily embarrassed, and he sat down on a rock almost at her feet and looked round him with interest and admiration, and with that ease of movement and glance which is the birthright of men of his class.

"What a jolly morning, and what a beautiful place this is ! But it must look very different in bad weather ; the other night, for instance. What a storm it was ! And you were out in it all. But I am glad to hear that you didn't catch cold."

She went on with her mending, and Vane watched her slim, shapely fingers with the lazy pleasure which attends convalescence.

"Don't you find this an awfully rough place in the winter—the depth of winter ?" he asked, conscious of a desire to hear her speak.

She raised her head and looked round before replying.

"I don't know," she said, in a clear, liquid tone. "I have never lived anywhere else since I can remember. I am used to it."

"Since you can remember ? You weren't born here, then ?" said Vane, idly.

"No," she replied, succinctly ; "but I don't remember—" She stopped. "Do you want to know about your horse ? I have tethered him in the hollow. He is all right."

"Thank you—thank you," said Vane. "I have given you a tremendous lot of trouble. You will be glad to be rid of me, and you soon will be, I hope. I should think I could go to-day."

She shook her head.

"You could not ride," she said, with quiet and assured conviction. "You are weak still. No. I watched you walk across the beach."

Vane smiled.

"Well, I do feel rather tottery," he said ; "but I shall get over that presently. Not that I'm in any hurry to go,

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS her dark brows slightly knit.

"How do they all live ?" she asked, dreamily.

Vane laughed.

"'Pon my word, I don't know," he replied. "Nobody knows."

"Is it by the sea ? Do they fish ?"

Vane was silent a moment. How on earth was he to give this girl, who knew no other place than this outlandish Witches' Caldron, who could neither read nor write, any idea of London ?

"No," he said. "It's a long way from the sea ; but a river runs through it. But they don't fish in it to any extent, and then only for pleasure. There are thousands of houses and streets—miles of them—and we all live jammed together, with scarcely enough air to breathe, and that, for the most part, thick with smoke."

Her glorious eyes expanded with grave, delicious innocence.

"I wonder you do not die," she murmured in her musical voice.

"So do I, now I come to think of it," said Vane, with his short laugh. "But I haven't given you an idea of it yet, and I couldn't if I tried, I'm afraid. Don't you ever be persuaded to leave this beautiful place and come to London, Miss Nora."

She looked round.

"I shall never leave here," she said. "And you live in that great city ?"

He nodded.

"Where ? By the river ? I should like to live by the river—near the water—if I lived there."

"Well, not very near," he said, "but I can get there in half an hour or thereabouts. The house I live in is called 98 St. James' street. I live in rooms there."

She bent her brows and looked out to sea, and her lips moved.

"Ninety-eight St. James' street," she repeated.

"Do you think you can remember it ?" he said, with a smile.

She looked at him gravely.

"I never forget what I hear," she said, "or what I see—never. Is that because I cannot read or write ?"

"Very likely," said Vane. "And now I want to ask you a question, Miss Nora. Now, will you tell me whom you took me for the other night ?"

She was silent.

"I mean," he went on, "when you came down into the ravine to me. You know you asked me if I was the exciseman. You remember ?"

"I remember," she said.

"Well, I should like to know what you meant. I have been puzzling over it while I have been lying in the cottage, and I can't make it out."

She worked at the net for a full minute without replying, then she lifted her eyes to his.

"Aunt said that you were a gentleman," she said ; "are you ?"

Vane laughed.

"I hope so."

"And that you would not ask questions ?" she said.

Vane colored.

"All right," he said; "I won't. Anyhow, you have been extremely kind to me, Miss Nora, and I am deeply indebted to you."

Her lips quivered, and she glanced at him with something like distress in her lovely eyes.

"No one could have been kinder or more hospitable," he went on. "I can't tell you how grateful I am. I consider you saved my life—"

PERFECT MANHOOD!

How attained—how restored—how preserved, Ordinary works on Physiology will not tell you: the doctors can't or won't; but all the same you wish to know. Your are the Key to Life and its reproduction. Our book lays bare the truth. Every man who would regain sexual vigor lost through folly, or develop members weak by nature or wasted by disease, should write for our sealed book, "Perfect Manhood." No charge. Address (in confidence),

SEXUAL POWERS

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

Like the Touch of Magic

Desperate Itchings of the Skin Allayed by Chase's Ointment—The Recognized Skin Specific.

It is only a few months since Dr. Chase's Ointment was brought prominently before the public, principally by its cures of stubborn and long standing cases of Itching Piles that had defied all other treatments. To-day it is recognized from ocean to ocean as an infallible cure for Itching Piles, Eczematic Eruptions and all Itching of the Skin. Its cures have rendered its sales larger than those of all other preparations for such ailments combined. People use Dr. Chase's Ointment with confidence, because in every community someone has been benefitted like Mr. Simpson, Berlin, Ont., who, under date of Feb. 8, '96, writes that for a number of years he was troubled with Itching Piles; they caused intense suffering, and although dozens of advertised remedies were used, none of them did any good although some of them had long and thorough trials. Here are his own words quoted from his letter. "Last fall I got a box of Chase's Ointment from Mr. Landreth's drug store, Berlin. I applied according to directions and soon found it was what I wanted. Only used part of one box when I was well as ever in my life. Once in a while since I have felt slight symptoms of its return, but one application of the Ointment and all is right again."

Such expressions as this from those who use Chase's account for its popularity.

PRICE 60 CENTS.

She sprang upright and stretched out her hand, her beautiful face working with distress and emotion.

"Don't—don't!" she breathed. "You—you don't know—"

"Don't know what ?" he asked, with blank surprise.

She put her hand to her lips, and then brushed the hair from her forehead, as if in great distress.

"I—I can't tell you," she panted. "I—I dare not! But you don't know, or you would not say what you do—would not thank me—"

"What ?" said Vane, astonished beyond measure by her agitation.

She leaned toward him with hands outstretched, as if about to make some confession; then suddenly a peculiar cry rang above their heads. It resembled the "Coo-ee!" he had heard her make on the night of his journey.

It seemed to recall her to herself. She sprang upright and passed her hand over her eyes.

"Breakfast is ready," she said. "Take my hand; you are weak still. Come!"

CHAPTER V.

On their way to the cottage, Vane puzzled over Nora's strange words and stranger manner. What could they possibly mean ? Suddenly he connected the word "exciseman" with smugglers. But he scorned the idea immediately. There were no smugglers nowadays. As well expect to meet a highwayman on Hampstead Heath, or an ancient watchman, or "Charlie" in Pall Mall, as a smuggler. That these two women could be connected with such an obsolete institution was too absurd and ridiculous to be entertained for more than a moment. This was civilized, "effete" England, and the end of the nineteenth century, not the beginning of the eighteenth. Vane was not fond of mental exercise or puzzles of any kind, so he gave up the conundrum in his happy-go-lucky fashion as they entered the cottage.

The breakfast was ready, and he ate a very fair meal. Nora and Mrs. Trevanion had breakfasted at a much earlier hour, and the elder woman waited upon him with a quiet assiduity; while Nora sat beside the fire, now and again casting a glance from her dark eyes at him, and listening intently as he talked.

Vane thought that probably Mrs. Trevanion would know his uncle, the squire, as he was called, and he asked her.

She hesitated a moment, and then shook her head.

"I know no one, see no one, but the fishermen and the country people who come sometimes to buy our fish," she said, with a grave reserve; "and I do not supppose Squire Vale knows of the existence of this cottage," she added.

"I thought you might know what kind of a man he is," said Vane. "What splendid fish, and how well you cook them, Mrs. Trevanion! I know as little of Mr. Vale as you do, but I fancy he must be rather eccentric."

"He is a gentleman and would not put questions, and he stopped."

"Yes; he will not ask you again," said Mrs. Trevanion. "He will not say anything—tell anything he has seen."

She spoke with quiet confidence, and the girl turned and looked at her.

"He will be well enough to go to-morrow," she said.

"Or the next day," was the answer. "He must be patient. It is well he was not killed."

The girl started, winced, and the color died out of her face, leaving it pale under the delicate brown.

"He is very strong," she said. "It would have killed most men." She did not shudder, but her teeth came together with a little click. "I should have been sorry," she added, with a quaint simplicity.

"Go down to the beach and watch," said the elder woman. "You can go out to the lobster traps for an excuse."

Nora took a fisherman's red woollen cap from a hook, put it on, and went out without another word, as if she were accustomed to unquestioning and instant obedience.

She went with a light, springy step, that scarcely seemed to touch the rocky path, down to the beach. The tide had reached the bow of the boat, and she put her hands to it, and with a graceful but powerful effort she pushed it into the waves, then sprang in. She did not push it off, but sat in the stern, her head resting in her hands, her eyes fixed on the sea, her straight, dark brows bent in deep thought. She was going over every word that the stranger had said to her. Her lips moved now and again, and she repeated one of Vane's half slangy, London phrases. She remembered every word with the literal distinctness, the facility which those who have never learned to read and have to rely on their memory so naturally acquire. If she never saw him again, and she herself lived to be a hundred, she would never forget any one word, or tone, or feature, or expression of his.

His coming was the one event of her life; it filled up a blank which extended from childhood up to now. Little wonder that she dwelt upon it—that it absorbed her.

Presently she awoke with a start and began to haul in the anchor. As she did so her quick ears caught the sound of footsteps. They were Vane's, as he came hurrying along the beach.

She paused and stood upright, one foot on the seat and the other on the gunwhale of the boat, her dark eyes, with their earnest intentness, upon him—a model for a painting, or, better still, a sculptor.

"Hold hard, Miss Nora!" Vane shouted. "Are you going for a sail ? I wish you'd let me come."

She nodded curtly, shipped the anchor, and with an oar deftly pulled the boat as far ashore as it would go.

Vane waded for a few yards, then got into the boat.

"Jove, how lucky!" he said. "I got to the top of the hill and saw that the horse was tethered, and evidently enjoying himself all he knew, and it seemed scarcely worth while climbing down. I say, you were quite right to make me shut my eyes when we were coming up the other night. In the delightfully idiotic condition I was in then, I should, if I had chanced to look down, have toppled over. Well, I decided not to go down, and turning, saw you in the boat."

"Not from the top of the hill," she said, quickly, pausing in her work of unfastening the sail from the mast.

"What ? No; I had come down a little way. Why ?"

She pointed to the hill.

"Look," she said; 'no one can see the beach from the top of the hill. The bend in the cliff hides it."

"Yes," he said; "so I see. No one up there would think that there was a bit of smooth beach down here, and still less guess that your cottage was hidden away in that shelf in the rocks. Well, I was mortally afraid you would be off before I got to you; but I was just in time. And now let me help you with that sail. I say, Miss Nora, you must be very strong to handle that gear as you do."

She paused and followed his eyes as they rested with surprise and admiration on her arms and hands.

"Am I ?" she said, simply. "I did not know that I was stronger than other girls."

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bul
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."
See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

ROYAL SCALP FOOD,

Price $1.00
6 Bottles, $5.00 Exp. Pd.

CURES BALDNESS, STOPS FALLING HAIR, CURES DANDRUFF, RESTORES FADED AND GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR AND VITALITY. PERFECTLY HARMLESS. WARRANTED. CLEAR AS WATER. NO SEDIMENT. NO LEAD, SULPHUR OR CHEMICALS.

ONE HONEST MAN AND BUT ONE RELIABLE

HAIR FOOD.

NO DYE.

We feed the Hair that which it lacks and nature restores the color.

THEORY.

ROYAL SCALP FOOD destroys the diseased germs of the scalp and a healthy action is set up. It contains the principal properties of the hair that are necessary to its life without which it will not grow. It fertilizes the scalp the same as you do a field of corn and growth is certain. It invigorates the sluggish scalp, cleanses it and thoroughly eradicates all dandruff, which is the forerunner of baldness. It is the ONLY remedy ever discovered that will restore the Life, Beauty and Natural Color to the hair ROOTS AND ALL. MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY FILLED. SEND FOR FREE PAMPHLETS. STATE AND LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

ROYAL SCALP FOOD CO.
Box 305, WINDSOR, ONT.

THE PERSON

that wants a good match and that he must be rather eccentric."

"Yes," she said, after another pause, "I have heard so. He never leaves his own grounds, and sees no one but his own servants. His riches don't seem to be of much use to him or to afford him much pleasure."

"And he is very rich, I suppose?" said Vane, half interrogatively.

"No one can tell; he himself perhaps does not know how much money he has," she replied.

She went to open the door with a half-knitted stocking in her hand and pointed with the needles.

"The land as far as you can see belongs to him. There are copper and tin mines which bring him in the income of a prince. He has ships sailing on the sea, shops and houses in Porth, and all Trelorne belongs to him."

Vane leaned back and listened with a surprised smile.

"I heard that he was well off," he said, "but I did not know that he was as wealthy as all this. And he was once a poor man, or something like that, was he not?"

She nodded, with her eyes upon the sea, her fingers swiftly plying the needles.

"Yes, a small farmer. Everything he has touched has turned to gold. 'Vale's luck,' is a saying in these parts."

"It's singular that he has never married," said Vane, thoughtfully.

Her needles clicked, and she counted her stitches half audibly before responding.

"Yes."

"All that money and no son or daughter to leave it to," said Vane, absently, and with absolutely no thought of himself.

Mrs. Trevanion glanced at him.

"Neither chick nor child," she said, quietly.

Vane rose.

"Do you know, I think I might get on my journey, Mrs. Trevanion," he said.

She looked at him, then shook her head.

"You are not strong enough yet to ride, sir," she said. "You would find out how weak you still are after you had traveled a few miles. Better rest here for a day or two, if you can put up with such poor quarters."

Vane laughed.

"I don't see where the 'poor' comes in," he said. "I was never more comfortable in all my life; and I feel as if this air would bring me round if I were lying at death's door. But I'll stay, if you are sure I am not giving you far and away too much trouble."

"You give us none," she said. "And we owe"—she paused, and, as if correcting herself, finished with—"we owe it to ourselves to play the good Samaritan. We don't often get the chance." She smiled gravely. "You are the only stranger that has crossed the Caldron for some years."

"You must get that bridge mended before the next comes," he said, laughingly.

Nora, who was removing the breakfast things, started and looked at the elder woman with a strange expression, but Mrs. Trevanion's face remained quite impassive.

"Anyway," said Vane, "I'll stroll down and look at the horse; it strikes me the man who lent it to me will think I've bolted with it."

"I sent word by a fisherman to say that the horse was quite safe," said Mrs. Trevanion.

"Really, you have thought of everything," said Vane, in his frank, prompt way. "I shall never be able to thank you enough."

He raised his hat as he stepped outside, and lighting his pipe, went up the path.

Nora stopped washing the cup in her hand, and looked after him with a dreamy look in her dark eyes; then, she turned them upon the elder woman with an appeal almost fierce in its intensity.

"Do you think he knows?" she asked, in a low voice, as fierce as her glance. Mrs. Trevanion shook her head without lifting it from her knitting.

"No," she said. The tone of her voice was somewhat cold.

The girl went to the small window, and leaning her elbows on the sill, pushed back her hair, and watched Vane's retreating figure.

"He asked me just now something about it," she said, more to herself than to the elder woman. "I told him not to ask. I said that you said he was girls."

Vane laughed.

"I don't know another young lady who could ship that mast as you have done. But let me, won't you?"

"No," she said, with a quaint air of command. "Why should you? You are not well yet, and I have done it ever since I can remember."

"Then it is time you took a rest, and allowed some one else to do it," he said; and he took the sheet from her hand.

She allowed him to do so, with an absent, abstracted expression in her eyes, and went to the helm.

Vane set the sail to the wind, and coming aft, passed the sheet under the cleat.

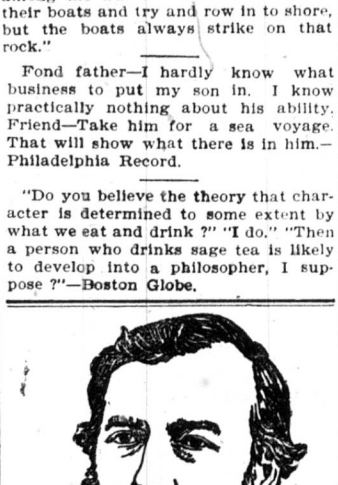
"Now give me the tiller," he said, "and you take a rest for once. You shall be captain and give the orders, and I will obey and say, 'Ay, ay, sir—or miss.'"

She did not relinquish her hold on the tiller, and shook her head, while a faint smile played over her face.

"Do you know what would happen," she said, her white teeth showing for a moment. "We should be on the rocks. There are rocks each side of us; there is only a narrow, a very narrow channel, and no one who did not know every inch of it could sail through it. See!" and she pointed to a crest of foam close on their lee, and then to a similar danger warning on their starboard. "There is just room for a boat to pass, if it is steered by one who knows. This channel is called the Witches' Needle. Sometimes when vessels are wrecked on that point there"—she pointed to an ugly rock which reared its dark head among the waves—"the sailors take to their boats and try and row in to shore, but the boats always strike on that rock."

Fond father—I hardly know what business to put my son in. I know practically nothing about his ability. Friend—Take him for a sea voyage. That will show what there is in him.—Philadelphia Record.

"Do you believe the theory that character is determined to some extent by what we eat and drink?" "I do." "Then a person who drinks sage tea is likely to develop into a philosopher, I suppose?"—Boston Globe.



In Advanced Years

The strength and pure blood necessary to resist the effects of cold seasons are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I have for the last 25 years of my life been complaining of a weakness of the lungs and colds in the head, especially in the winter. Last fall I was again attacked. Reading of Hood's Sarsaparilla I was led to try it. I am now taking the fifth bottle with good results. I can positively say that I have not spent a winter as free from coughs or pains and difficult breathing spells for the last 25 years as was last winter. I can lie down and sleep all night without any annoyance from cough or pain in the lungs or asthmatic difficulty." E. M. CHAMBERS, J. P., Cornhill, N. B.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Only

True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye today.

Hood's Pills cure habitual constipation. Price 25c. per box.

knows a thing or two will remember that this brand is synonomous with everything desirable in fire-producing lucifers.

E. B. EDDY'S MATCAES.

Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company

GENERAL PASSENGER TIME TABLE,

Eastern Standard Time. No. 9. Taking effect October 8th, 1893

Tweed and Tamworth to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2 A.M.	No.4 P.M.	No.6 P.M.
Lve	Tweed	0	7 00	....	3 00
	Stoco	3	7 08	....	3 10
	Larkins	7	7 20	....	3 25
	Marlbank	13	7 35	....	3 40
	Erinsville	17	7 50	....	3 55
	Tamworth	20	8 00	2 10	4 10
	Wilson*	21	....	....	....
	Enterprise	26	8 18	2 20	4 30
	Mudlake Bridge*	28	....	....	....
	Moscow	31	8 30	2 35	4 43
	Galbraith*	33	....	....	....
rr	Yarker	35	8 43	2 50	4 55
Lve	Yarker	35	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	39	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills	40	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	41	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	43	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	49	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee	49	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	54	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	58	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Tamworth and Tweed.

	Stations.	Miles	No.1. A.M.	No.3, P.M.	No.5 P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 15
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 22
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 35
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Murvale*	34	....	....	5 50
	Glenvale*	39	....	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 50	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

Kingston and Sydenham to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2. A.M.	No.4. P.M.	No.6. P.M.
Lve	Kingston	0	6 45	....	3 30
	G. T. R. Junction	2	6 55	....	3 40
	Glenvale*	10	7 17	....	....
	Murvale*		7 27	....	4 18
Arr	Harrowsmith	19	7 40	....	4 30
Lve	Sydenham	23	8 00	....	....
	Harrowsmith	19	8 20	....	4 30
	Frontenac*	22	8 32	....	4 42
Arr	Yarker	26	8 40	....	4 50
Lve	Yarker	26	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	30	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	31	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	32	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	34	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	40	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee, West End	40	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	45	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	49	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Sydenham and Kingston.

	Stations.	Miles.	No.1 A.M.	No.3, P.M.	No.5. P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburg	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 15
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 22
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 35
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Sydenham	34	....	....	5 50
	Glenvale*	39	....	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 50	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

R. C. CARTER, Asst. Gen. Manager — G. A. BROWNE, Gen. Pass. Agent — H. B. SHERWOOD, Superintendent.

INSIST UPON A

HEINTZMAN CO. PIANO

WHEN you are ready to purchase a Piano for a lifetime, not the makeshift instruments for a few years' use, but the Piano whose sterling qualities will leave absolutely nothing to be desired, then insist upon having a

Heintzman & Co. Piano,

Its pure singing tone is not an artificial quality soon to wear away, leaving harshness in place of brilliancy, dullness in place of sweetness, but an inherent right of the Heintzman. Forty-five years of patient endeavor upon this point, non-deterioration with age, has made the Heintzman what it is—the acknowledged standard of durability.

CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION

HEINTZMAN & COMPANY, 117 King st. West, Toronto.

The Napanee Express

$1.

The Weekly Globe.

BEST CLUBBING OFFER EVER MADE.

By paying one dollar in advance these two popular and reliable papers will be sent post free to the subscriber's address. Call at the "Express Office" and secure this bargain.

NEW GOODS

This fall we will show one of the finest stocks of Dry Goods, Millinery and Clothing ever shown in Napanee. Every detail will be complete. Every department properly equipped. These goods are rapidly coming to hand and are being placed in stock. We have already established a system of low prices which is having its effect. We are buying in the cheapest markets and are selling at the Lowest Prices. We simply defy competition. You never knew this store to give such values as it is giving now.

48 CENTS.

The price at which we sell an All-Wool Serge Dress Goods in Navy and Black only, 46 inches wide, pronounced the finest value ever sold in Napanee.

25 CENTS.

The price of some new Turkish Fezs and Tam O Shanters in Navy, Maroon and White for Children, always sold heretofore at 50 cents.

10 CENTS.

per lb, the price at which we sell a beautiful White Cotton Batting. The same quality was never sold before at less than 15c per lb.

89 CENTS.

The price per yd at which we sell a beautiful double fold Golf Cloth. You can't buy as good elsewhere at less than $1.00 per yd.

1 CENT.

Thousands of Children's Fancy Handkerchiefs that other stores sell at from 3c to 5c, and we sell them at 1c.

27 1-2 CENTS.

For a beautiful piece of Table Linen that six months ago would have cost you 40c per yd.

The same story all over the store

Good Values. Low Prices.

THE ROBINSON CO'Y.

Fresh meat always on hand at Lawson's Telephone 31.

Russet Floridas or Bright, at Davis, sweet, 25 to 40 cents.

Don't forget that J. F. Smith is handling fresh salmon trout and whitefish. 36ep

"Babies reduced to $2 a dozen" is on a photographer's sign in Nova Scotia. Prices quoted for sopranos.

Kingston has got another blast furnace to talk about. We hope it will turn out more successful than the other one they tired to get.

Some person has confessed the killing of Annie Colinder, near Peterboro last August. Authorities from that place claim that no such a person was killed there.

Take Bay of Quinte excursion to 1000 Islands and Alexandria Bay on Saturday Aug 24th from all Stations on the line. Fare $1, on regular morning train. Returning leaves Kingston, 6 p.m.

The greatest flesh and blood maker in existence and a life saver to consumptives is Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "the kind that cures" bronchitis, coughs, colds, and all lung troubles. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at druggists,

A rival to Louis Cyr and to the renowned Samson, has appeared in Kingston. The young man referred to was assisting to place new panes of plate-glass in the windows of Murray & Taylor's store on Princess street. Each plate of the glass weighs 2,220 pounds, and four men were detailed to lift it into place. In lifting one plate up to its place in the frame, one of the four let go his hold upon one side, which with the help of Mr. James Robinson he was managing. The result was that half of the weight fell upon Mr. Robinson, who not only kept up his own side, but carried his corner round and placed it in position. The feat probably stands without a parallel in that city.

Breaking Camp.

On Friday of this week the members of Camp Le Nid will fold up their tents and break camp for this year. The camp has been more successful this summer than ever before.

Below Cost.

As I have taken the agency for the Sturges Steel Churns I will sell below cost the Daisy, Dandy, Perfection and Cradle Churns, I have in stock. Secure a bargain while you can.

MILES S. PLUMLEY. 38b.

A Big Time.

The Salvation Army "Naval Brigade" paid Napanee a visit on Tuesday last. They arrived in the afternoon about 3 o'clock on their yacht and in the evening conducted a rousing meeting in their barracks, the hall being packed.

Sandwich Social at Switzerville.

The ladies of Switzerville will give a Sandwich Social at the residence of Mr. Wm. Shorey, on Thursday evening, August 29th. Refreshments will be served at 8 o'clock, and a good programme rendered. Admission 15 cents. Proceeds in aid of church funds. 38ap

A Pleasant Trip.

Some few days ago the friends of P. W. Dafoe invited him to a picnic up the river. Several boatloads of friends were present and had a splendid time. Mr. Dafoe captured a crane while on this outing, and the same is often to be seen in the shop on the Market Square.

The Burglars Caught

For the past two weeks burglaries have been frequent about town and several of our business men have had their tills tampered with. It has often been remarked that "murder will out" and it has come true. Three young lads Tommy Hearns, Edwin Casey, and John Clark (son of Henry Clark) have been doing the light fingered work. Evidently Casey has not been satisfied with the "divy" and therefore gave the thing away On Monday forenoon all three were arrested and brought before the Police Magistrate who decided to remand them for a week in order to find out how much they had taken in their several hauls. Hearns appears to have been ringleader and Casey did the watching.

The Municipal Rate.

At the last session of the town council the Finance Committee presented the estimates for the fiscal year, beginning Aug. 1st. If the estimates as presented are adopted, and besides those for school purposes, the council will have to strike the Stoves ! Stoves !! Stoves !!!

See our large No 9 Cook Stove for $11.00.

T. H. WALLER.

Among the floral tributes to the late Maggie Tilley was a large cross of white asters and sweet peas, sent by the choir of St. Mary Magdalene church.

Bay Circuit Harvest Home.

Services will be held as follows: on Sabbath August 25th, Hay Bay 10.30; Bethany 2.30; Anderson's 7.30, Appropiate music. Free Will Offering for special object. Every body welcome.

F. SNOWDON, PASTOR.

A Cheap Trip.

Court Deseronto I. O. F. runs an excursion to Thousand Islands park on Saturday Aug. 24th, by Str. Merritt. You will have a good time if you take this trip. Bay Ports and return, only $1. Below Picton 75c. Kingston 35c.

The Yacht "Dauntless."

Mr. Jno. R. Dafoe has purchased the very well built and staunch yacht, Dauntless. This was once a racer, but modern shells have left this safe class of vessels in point of speed. For a cruise and comfort, with almost certain safety, the Dauntless is the boat for a party to enjoy themselves in.

Coming.

Dr. Jebb the well-known Eye Specialist and inventor of the Recherche Optometer, the only instrument of the kind in existence for pointing out every defect and disease of the eye and sight, will be at Detlor's Drug Store on 26th and 27th inst, Consultation and examination of the eye and sight free. Also a valuable little treatise on the "Eye and Sight" given free.

Cricket.

On Wednesday of last week the Napanee Cricket Club went to Ottawa and played a match with the club of that city. It was late when the game was begun and the second innings could not be played. The result was decided on the first innings, which was in favor of the Ottawa eleven by four runs. Good playing was done on both sides, and our club made a good record for themselves at the Capital.

Harvest Home Dinner.

The Annual Dinner on the Selby Circuit Methodist Church will D. V. be given by the Ladies in the Orchard Grove, Selby, September 4th, at 12 o'clock noon. Addresses by Rev. gentlemen and others. Music plentiful, and good tables spread in the grove, entertainment in the church. Come and aid the parsonage fund, and enjoy a magnificent feast. Tickets 35c, children 20c.

See Here.

On Saturday, Aug. 24th, the Str. Merritt has been engaged for an excursion to Thousand Island Park and Alexandria Bay under the auspices of Court Deseronto I. O F. No. 93. The Steamer will leave Trenton 6 a. m.; Rednerville, 7; Belleville, 7:30, Northport, 8;30; Deseronto, 9; Picton 10:30; Glenora, 11; Bath, 12:45 p m. Kingston, 3 p m, arriving at Thousand Island Park at 6 o'clock Returning, leave Thousand Island Park, Monday, 7 a m.

Stopped in Time

On Tuesday afternoon last a couple of young ladies were driving down John street when they found they had lost control of their horse. When near the Paisley House Mr. W. Black, of that hotel, who was standing in the door, noticed the horse acting in an unusual manner, and going out into the road caught the animal by the bridle just as it was becoming unmanageable. He at once discovered that a part of the harness had become caught on the shafts, which he released and the horse was brought to a standstill just in time to save an accident.

Matrimonial.

On Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's father, West street, by the Rev. G. S. White, Miss Grace O'Neil, daughter of James O'Neil, was married to Mr. Fred Bell, son of Mr. J. S. Bell, of North Fredericksburgh. The bride was supported by Miss Delia Duck

JOHN POLLARD,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Express Office. Napanee.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, AUG. 23, 1895

All local reading notices or notices announcing entertainments at which a fee is charged for admission, will be charged 5c per line for each insertion, if in ordinary type. In black type the price will be 10c per line each insertion.

Cakes always fresh and in great variety at Davis'.

Machine Oil, Paris Green, Hay Fork and pullies at BOYLE & SON'S.

Quite a number of our sports took in the horse race at Kingston this week.

Go to Symington's for the Flour that makes the Big Loaf, Rogers patent, the best in Canada.

We are pleased to see Mr. Ed. McGurn around again after two week's illness and being confined to the house.

Beginning last Monday all through the week about thirty-five train loads of Knights and Templars have passed through per G. T. R. enroute to Boston to attend a convention.

The Str. Empire State struck while running the Galop rapids opposite Morris burg and stove a hole in her bottom She is still on the rocks and will require the work of lighters and heavy apparatus to get her off.

The Bay of Quinte Ry. will run an excursion to 1000 islands and Alexandria Bay on Saturday Aug. 24th, from all stations on the line, leaving Napanee on regular morning train. Fare $1.00. Returning, train leaves Kingston at 6 p.m.

On Monday afternoon a sad drowning accident occurred near Belleville. A thirteen year old son of David Price, traveller for Frothingham Workman hardware merchant, Montreal, was out boating with a friend named Brooks, when the boat upset and both were thrown into the water. Brooks could swim a little, but Price could not.

Parents must have rest. A President of one of our Colleges says: "We spent many sleepless nights in consequence of our children suffering from colds, but this never occurs now: We use Scott's Emulsion and it quickly relieves pulmonary troubles.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

are trying to buy up Thousands Island Park.

The Gibbard Furniture Company, Napanee, have closed down their factory for a short time.

James J. Corbett, pugilist, was married on Wednesday 15th inst. to Miss Jessie Taylor, of New York.

Mrs Mary Root, of Napanee, is 98 years of age and very active, and is visiting friends in Belleville.

The window at Mr. T. E. Anderson's office has been handsomely lettered in gold. The work was done by Napanee's clever artist, John Armstrong.

Mr. W. W. Power, manager of the Queen's Opera House, Belleville, purposes bringing Sir Henry Irving to that city during his American tour this year.

Wheat is down and so is Keewatin Flour. You better get Kimmerly's prices for Flour before buying. Our 25 cent Tea beats the world and don't you forget it. 22 lbs. best granulated sugar for $1 cash, 10 Bars Soap for 25c. Finest Pearl Topioca 5c, per lb, 4 lbs. Crackers 25c.

Miss Louise Daly, of Montreal, who is visiting in town presided at the organ of the Eastern Methodist church on Sunday morning last in the absence of Miss Hall, who was ill. In the evening Miss Daley sang a couple of solos. "There is a green hill far away" and Hosannah" which were very much appreciated by the congregation.

One of the members of the police force has a cat. There is nothing startling in that, but Tabby took a notion for chicken flesh and made herself generally obnoxious to the officer and his neighbors, so he decided that puss should die. The other evening he grasped the cat with his left hand and placed the muzzle of a revolver, held in his right hand, at her ear. The trigger was pulled, but the ball only made a hole in pussy's ear. She escaped from him and climbed an apple tree. The gallant policeman followed her and fired another shot from a distance of about ten feet and was rewarded by a shower of apples, but puss only winked the other eye and made for the house. The officer made another attempt to send kitty to the happy hunting grounds, but it too was unsuccessful and now he says the cat is charmed. A well-known bicycler is trying to procure the animal, as he says her hide would make a good puncture proof tire.—Belleville Sun.

DAFOE & PAUL,

Undertakers

EVERYTHING NEW AND FIRST-CLASS.

The Beginning of the End.

This is the beginning of the Summer Season's end. End of season prices rule here.

MEN'S SUITS at $3.00
MEN'S PANTS at .98
MEN'S ½ HOSE at .05
MEN'S SHIRTS at .25

Such prices are worth your consideration.

Radford & Son

THE OUTFITTERS.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

gested a reduction, and in each case. Besides this an effort will be made to have the Board of Education reduce their estimates to the same amount as last year. The council seems desirous of keeping the rate at 26 mills. With the proposed reductions and those to be asked for from the Board of Education, this can be done. It all rests with the School Board, what our rate of assessment will be for the current year.

From Our Dumb Animals.

A very pretty little story comes from Hartford, and it is true. A nest of the orchard oriole (improperly called the "English Robin") was discovered by the owner of the lot, whose child wanted the young birds, and the child was duly gratified. The nest was taken home, to the delight of the child and the grief of the parent birds, and the fledglings were placed in a cage outside the house. To the surprise of the person who had put them there, he found, one day, that the mother-bird had discovered her lost children, and was feeding them through the wires of the cage. This proof of parental affection in a bird was contiued, till at length the person who had removed the nest from its place and put it in the cage was moved to restore it to its place on the tree, with the young birds in it. The unbounded delight of the old birds proved a full compensation for the sense of his—or, rather his child's—loss, by the restoration of the young birds to their mother.

Those who Passed.

The following is the result of the high school junior and senior leaving and matriculation, pass and honor examinations.

NAPANEE.

Junior leaving—B. Curle, J. W. Chapman, C. Elliot, L. Hinch, V. Kouber, L. Lochead, P. Vanalstine, E. Wallace, E. Walters.

Senior leaving— H. Fox, G. Jamieson, E. Vandusen.

Matriculation—J. Bowerman (grammar, history and geography, arithmetic), H. Deroche (grammar, history and geography, arithmetic), A. Hawley (first-class honors, mathematics, classics), E. Miller (first class honors English, German.)

NEWBURGH

Junior leaving—L. Burdette, W. Gibson, Jennie Gandier, R. Guy, T. McKim, E. McCullough.

DESERONTO.

Junior leaving—J. Chambers, J. Elliot, E. Jennings, J. Mackie.

Matriculation—W. O'Connor (physics).

Life's Dream is O'er.

It is with great regret that we this week record the death of Miss Maggie Tilley, who died on Monday morning, Aug. 19th, of heart trouble. The sad news could hardly be credited when heard by the many friends of this estimable young lady, who only two weeks previous was able to fulfil her duties as organist of the church of S. Mary Magdalene, which position she had held but one year, and was beginning to be greatly appreciated. Prior to this Miss Tilley was organist for about seven years at the Western Methodist Church. About one month ago the deceased was taken with malarial fever, which the attending physician had under control, when it was found that the heart was affected. Everything that was possible was done to secure her recovery; without avail. Miss Tilley was well-known in musical circles, and on several occasions she appeared before appreciative audiences both in town and country. Some few years ago Miss Tilley went to Toronto to take lessons on pipe organ playing, and was accounted as one of the best organists in the county. Her selections were always marked with great feeling and expression. Miss Maggie Tilley was the eldest daughter of the late William Tilley, who was a high school teacher in this town for a number of years. The funeral took place on Wednesday forenoon, service being held in the English church, Revs. Arthur Jarvis and W. Reeve officiating. Among the large number present were many members of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches, besides friends from all over town. From the church the funeral cortege proceeded to the Western cemetery, where amid much sorrowing and tearful eyes the mortal remains of one who was beloved by all who knew her were laid at rest. The floral tributes were extremely tasteful. The pall bearers were Messrs. W. C. Smith, R. P. Lahey, U. M. Wilson, F. McL. Radford, Alex. Pruyn and F. S. Rockwell.

There is no death for those who love our Lord—
Dry all your tears, and raise the drooping eye;
No death for those who trust in Jesus' word,
All that "believeth Me shall never die."

present. The couple have gone west on a trip, and upon returning will locate in Deseronto. The EXPRESS extends congratulations and wishes a happy and prosperous life to bride and groom.

Menagerie.

Sells Bros. whose circus appeared at Brockville, are happy. Just after the conclusion of the afternoon show a big row was noticed in the hippopotamus cage. On rushing to stop the fight that was taking place between the male and female it was found that the latter had given birth to a young hippopotamus and the male was trying to kill it, while the mother was protecting it. After great difficulty the youngster was rescued. It was all right and weighs seventy five or one hundred pounds, and the superintendant of the animals thinks he can raise it and a large nursery bottle has been secured. The male was afterwards taken out of the cage and the baby was put back with its mother. This is the only hippopotamus ever born in this country and the Sells Bros. already value it at $50,000. It is proposed to call the baby Brock, after the place of its birth.

The Thimble.

A thimble was originally a thumb-bell, because it was worn on the thumb, as sailors still wear their thimbles. It is a Dutch invention, and in 1884, in Amsterdam, the bicentennial of the thimble was celebrated with a great deal of formality. This very valuable addition to my lady's work-basket was first made by a goldsmith named Nicholas van Benschoten, the ancestor of the American family of Van Benshotens. And it may further interest Colonial Dames to know that the first thimble made was presented in 1684 to Anna van Wedy, the second wife of Kiliaen van Rensselaer, the purchaser of Rensselaerwyck, and the first Patroon. Madam van Rensselaer's memory was duly honored in Holland on the occasion of the thimble bicentennial.

In presenting his useful gift Van Benshoten begged Madam van Rensselaer "to accept this new covering for the protection of her diligent fingers, as a token of his esteem."

It was not until 1695, just two hundred years ago, that the thimble was introduced into England by a Hollander named John Lofting, who opened a thimble manufactory at Islington.

The Salvation Army "Harvest Thanksgiving" Festival.

A UNIQUE MONEY RAISING SCHEME

In 1892 Commandant H. H. Booth hit upon a new idea for raising funds, by inaugurating a plan for clearing poor corps and officers of debt.

The plan was an annual "Harvest Festival Scheme" to be held over the Dominion and Newfoundland on certain dates. This year the dates are: Saturday, Sunday Monday, and Tuesday, Aug. 31st, September 1st, 2nd and 3rd.

In this scheme it is possible for all who appreciate the Army's work to assist in some way or other.

The officers of the various corps are instructed to visit friends and collect from them anything they are able to contribute, whether it be in cash or otherwise.

Gifts of produce, groceries, fruit, grain, cattle, poultry, or anything of any description which is saleable will be acceptable.

After the collection of these various articles a sale of the same is arranged for the Tuesday night, and proceeds placed into one common fund to help out the debts mentioned.

Commandant Booth hopes by this scheme, also, to replenish the storehouses of his various institutions, such as Rescue Homes for falling women, Men's Shelters, Childrens Institutions, Home for sick officers, also his Industrial Farm so that it will be unnecessary to spend money on these articles during the fall and winter.

He contends that, though money is scarce, the land is laden with good things, and he calls upon those who have enough and to spare to remember those who are not so favorably circumstanced.

A Boom to Horsemen.—One bottle of English Spavin Liniment completely removed a curb from my horse. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or calloused lumps, blood spavin, splints, curbs, sweeny, stifles and sprains. GEORGE ROBB, Farmer, Markham, Ont. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y.

THE - BIG - STORE

MEN'S CLOTHING

The Centre Store of these three is devoted to MEN'S CLOTHING ONLY.

A - SPECIAL - BARGAIN

About twenty-five Men's Tweed Suits, mostly in light colors, different patterns. They were worth from $7.90 and up ; all to be cleared at one price.

$6.00 A SUIT

BOY'S CLOTHING

Two Piece School Suits for Boy's at special sale prices till end of August, any boy from 5 to 15 years. If your boy wants a Suit this fall you can make a dollar or so by buying it now at

THE ONE PRICE CLOTHING HOUSE.

LAHEY & McKENTY

Church of England Notes.

TOWN COUNCIL.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. Annie Wilson of Deseronto, and Miss Jose Scott of Chatham, spend Monday and Tuesday at Advices from England state that there is a big apple crop on the continent, and that Sunday next. (Eleventh Sunday after Trinity.) Matins and Celebration 11 a. m. Evensong 7 p. m.

Sunday School will reopen on first Sunday in September.

Parish of Camden.

Services Sunday next: St. Luke's, Camden East, Morning Prayer, Holy Communion 11 a.m; Evening Prayer 7.30, Confirmation Class 10 o'clock. St. John's, Newburgh, 3 o'clock; Centreville, 3 o'clock; Holy Trinity, Yarker, 7 o'clock. St. Jude, Napanee Mills, Morning Prayer Sermon 10.30, Evening prayer, 7.30. The preacher at both services the Rev. E. H. M. Baker, of Bath, Rural Dean. Monday at 7.30, the Rev. H. E. Benoit, of Montreal, subject "The Ministry." Tuesday 7.30, the Rev. Arthur Jarvis, Rector of Napanee, subject "The Altar."

THE NEW WOMAN.

It is Quite Essential That She Know How to Cook.

In these days when the new woman is the popular topic of conversation it frequently happens that some sensible soul with old-fashioned ideas will remark, "Can this bicycle-riding, club-going, would-be voter cook?" And when perhaps the answer comes in the negative, the interrogator shakes his or her head in a dismally prophetic fashion, as though the knowledge of cookery would compensate for failure in any other line, and without it home was doomed to be a place of torment.

We believe in cooks, we admire good housekeepers, but there is ever so much more than the knowledge of how to make bread or manage servants necessary before home becomes actually what its name implies. It is a dangerous experiment, we admit, for a girl without the first idea of culinary laws to start out with a menage of her own but we guarantee that if she possesses the true home-making instinct, the first emergency that throws her on her own resources will bring to the front all those latent powers which she has heretofore had no occasion to exercise.

A home is the dearest spot on earth. Every stick of furniture speaks its individual language of welcome and repose, and this spirit emanates always from the feminine head of the family, who can either make or mar it according to her own manner and way of doing. Haven't you been in some houses where the meals prepared by the skillful hands of the mistress were absolutely perfect, but where they were eaten in such an atmosphere of frigid formality that even the puffiest biscuits lay heavy on your conscience at least, and it was a relief to escape to some less pretentious abode where, perhaps, the chops were underdone and the soup very watery but where a cheery hostess made you forget these imperfections and caused you to go away thinking in all honesty that you had enjoyed a very superior form of cooking indeed.

Good cooking is not the fundamental principle of domestic happiness as much as it may be prated by some people. It is a very pleasing adjunct, and one not to be lightly thrown aside, but the real home-maker must possess other attributes that will last during those many intervals between meals, when even the thought of food has no power to charm.—Philadelphia Times.

Trains Are Too Heavy.

During the last 20 years the improvements in railroads have been remarkable, but they must be more remarkable in the next 20. When we see crashing past us that enormous mass of iron and wood called the vestibule train, we are prone to wonder at the wide difference between the construction of this train and that of a bicycle. A 21 1-2-pound "safety" will carry a 150-pound man at nearly the same rate of speed as the train, but for every 150-pound man the vestibule train must carry a dead-weight of between 3000 and 4000 pounds. Now, as the bicycle is a practical machine, the train must be unnecesarily heavy; and if there is such a discrepancy in one important point, may not an equal discrepancy exist in other important points?—Engineering Magazine.

Present—Mayor Stevens, Deputy Reeve Symington and councillors Miller, McAlister, Lowry, Ward, Leonard, Madole and Alexander.

Minutes of last session read and confirmed.

A communication was read from Mr. Alfred Knight drawing the attention of the council to the condition of the drain in front of his house, on the Newburgh road. Filed.

The committee on Finance and Assessment presented the following report.

Your committee beg leave to submit the estimated receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year beginning August 1st 1895. Unless the council decides to reduce the expenses we shall be obliged to increase the rate for general purposes and from the increased demands of the Board of Education we shall have to make the rate for school purposes 8 3-10 mills instead of 7 9-10 mills as last year. During the year ending August 1st 1895 the council expended $1.077 on Town property and $395 on permanent walks, not provided for in last years estimate, and which must be provided for this year.

The council thought that the following reductions could be made on the estimates as presented by the committee: Streets $300, Fire Water and Light $300, Town Property $100, Printing $100, Market $25, Poor and Sanitary $100, Police $25, Board of Health $50, Contingent $373.

Moved by Coun. Madole, seconded by coun. Lowry, that the estimates as presented be referred back to the committee for completion, on the basis that the rate is to be 26 mills on the dollar. Carried.

Moved by coun Leonard, seconded by coun. McAlister that a committee composed of the Deputy Reeve, Reeve and Councillors, Ward, Madole and Miller be appointed to wait upon the Finance Committee of the Board of Education and ask them to call a special meeting of the Board to consider whether the demand of the board cannot be lowered. Carried.

The committee on Fire Water and Light to whom was referred the petition of U. Wilson, M. P. and others asking that the water main be laid on Bridge street between John and West streets, recommended that no action be taken at present.

Moved by coun. McAlister, seconded by coun. Lowry, that a new six foot walk be laid on south side Dundas Street, between Robert and West streets; that a four foot walk be laid on east side Robert street, between Dundas and Bridge streets; that a four foot walk be laid on the west side of Centre street between Thomas and Graham streets; that a four foot walk be laid on the south side of Graham street from West to Robinson streets. Carried.

Moved by Deputy Reeve Symington, seconded by coun. Madole, that the requisition from U. Wilson and others asking for tile for a drain on Bridge street west, towards West street, be referred to the street committee to report as to the size of tile and the purpose for which said drain is required. Carried.

On motion the sum of $25 was placed in the hands of the Poor and Sanitary committee.

An account for the Electric Light Company amounting to $339.15 was referred to committee on Fire Water and Light to report.

A couple of accounts were ordered paid after which the council adjourned to meet next Monday at 7.30 p.m.

The Bay of Quinte Ry. will run an excursion to 1000 Islands and Alexandria Bay on Saturday Aug. 24th, from all stations on the line, leaving Napanee on regular morning train. Fare $1.00. Returning, train leaves Kingston at 6 p m.

GAINED A POUND EVERY DAY

Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach cured by B. B. B. after hope was nearly given up.

GENTLEMEN—For over three months I was very ill from what I believe was a malignant type of Dyspepsia. I at once consulted a physician who treated me for Dyspepsia without success. I then went to a specialist who diagnosed the case as Catarrh of the Stomach, his treatment also failed and I was getting worse every day. I could not rest at night and had to walk the floor to get any ease. I failed from 195 pounds down to 135 pounds and about gave up in despair when I heard of Burdock Blood Bitters as a remedy for dyspepsia. The first bottle made a change for the better, and I bought six more being delighted to find myself getting better. Under the use of B.B.B. I gained a pound a day. I took 15 bottles in all and am now nearly back to my old weight. I recommend dyspeptics to try the old reliable B.B.B.

WM. CAMPBELL, 115 Maple St., London, Ont.

on Tuesday attending the races.

Mr. Archie McNeill has gone to Rochester to look for a situation.

Mr. Wilkie McCoy left on Saturday for a visit to his brother, Ashel, in Rochester.

Miss Mattie Barrett went to Kingston to visit friends this week.

Miss Maggie Barrett, spent Tuesday in Marysville.

Miss Hattie Davern left on Tuesday to visit friends in Marysville, and vicinity.

Miss Jewel Conroy, of Pembroke is at home for her holidays.

Miss Mary Sullivan, who has been visiting her Aunt Mrs D. J. Hogan, returned to her home in Kingston this week.

Miss Laura Davis has been visiting her uncle, Mr. L. Davis at Blessington.

Mrs. D. McCumber and daughter Mrs. A. Laland left on Monday for a visit to her son, Mr. William McCumber, Niagara Falls.

Mr. D. E. Henry, will attend the Ontario Business College Belleville.

Mr. F. E. Scott, was registered at the Anglo-American, Belleville, last week.

Mrs. W. Phillips and son of Mr. W. Phillips, electrical and mechanical superintendent of the Niagara Falls, Park and River Railway, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. B. Mastin.

Professor Dyer of Albert College Belleville who is camping at Glen Island was taken suddenly ill on Thursday of last week and for some time his life was despaired of.

Mr. J. Elliott of the British Whig, Kingston, spent Sunday in town with his mother G. M. Elliott of the Customs Department.

Misses Elsie Park, and Matey Wales, left on Monday last for Toronto to attend Normal school.

Mr. T. F. Gibbs, of Dorland, was in town on Tuesday and gave us a call.

Mr. J. B. Affison, of Adolphustown called at our office on Tuesday.

Mr. Alex. Embury, of Belleville, was in town this week.

Rev. James Gardner, and wife, of Belleville were in town this week attending the funeral of Miss Maggie E. Tilley.

Miss Nora Herrington, of Belleville, was in town this week.

Mrs. Joseph Willison, of Napanee, returned on Wednesday after a short visit with relatives and friends in Belleville.

Miss Lizzie Booth, who has been visiting Miss Alma Thompson, has returned to her home in Barrie.

Chester Peters, Postmaster of Thorpe, with Mrs. Peters were in town Thursday on business.

Mr. Thomas Caton and family, of Thorpe, six in number, down with Typhoid fever, are getting better.

Mr and Mrs. Chester Kellar, Mrs. Jas. Daly, Mrs. Miller, of East street, Mrs. Pollard, Miss Pollard and H. Warner took in Stratton and Crossley's excursion to 1000 Island Park last Saturday.

Mr. A. E. Lang spent Sunday with friends near Pembroke.

Miss H. E. Clark, of Kingston, is visiting Mrs. Warner, John street.

Miss Rosa Shibley, of Wilton, is visiting Mrs. John Anderson this week.

Mr. Wesley Dawson has purchased the Campsell Farm near Sidney McKim's, in Ernestown, from H. Warner.

BIRTHS

FITZPATRICK—At Napanee on Wednesday Aug. 14th 1895 the wife of Jas Fitzpatrick of a son.

MARRIAGES.

GARBUTT—ROBINSON—Married August 14th, at the Pleasant View Methodist Church, Sidney circuit, by the Rev. Geo. Robinson father of the bride, assisted by the Rev. H. B. Kenney, of Grafton. Rev. John Garbutt, of Omemee, to Nettie Olvia Robinson, of Sidney.

RODGERS—DUNN—At Napanee, on August 17th 1895, by the Rev. G. S. White, Mr. Joseph B. Rodgers to Miss Annie M. S. Dunn, both of Napanee.

ASSELSTINE—McLEOD—At Napanee, on August 17th, 1895, by the Rev. G. S. White, Mr. Isaac Asselstine to Miss Arvilla McLeod, both of Napanee.

ROSE—JEWELL—By the Rev. Courtice of Campbellford, on Tuesday, Aug 20th, Mr. Anson P. Rose of Napanee, to Miss Jennie M. Jewell, of Warkworth.

She—I am afraid that it is not me that you're after, but that it is my money you want. He—How foolish in you to say that. You know very well I can't get your money without first getting you.—Boston Transcript.

"Some folks maintain," remarked Bass btween puffs, "that in the next world we shall follow the same occupations as in this." "And in this world," said Mrs. B., "you are smoking incessantly."—Boston Transcript.

And So She Didn't See Him.

She—Did you attend the amateur performance the other night?

He—Why, I took one of the principals. I am surprised that you didn't see me. You were there, were you not?

She—Oh, yes; but you didn't come on until the second act, did you?—Frank Leslie's Weekly.

Presidential Advantages.

Watts—It is a great thing to be President of the United States.

Potts—You don't say?

"Oh, but I do say. Think of having all your fish stories gotten up for you by the correspondents, instead of having to make them yourself."—Indianapolis Journal.

Mr. Fred Smith, has sold his canoe with outfit and boat house, to Mr. Wesley Collier.

The large silver maple tree which for years stood on the corner of Robert and Bridge street, has been cut down.

Gas stoves, gas stoves, we got them, agents for the Jewell and Dougler, the up to date stoves for 1895. Consumes the smallest amount of gas and lay over all others in style and improvements, call in and see them. BOYLE & SON.

J. M. Gibson died in Hamilton on Friday at the age of 86 years.

The judgment of the English Privy Council on the Prohibition test case will not be delivered till November.

Weak and Nervous Decribes the condition of thousands of people at this season. They have no appetite, cannot sleep, and complain of the prostrating effect of warm weather. This condition may be remedied by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which creates an appetite and tones up all the organs. It gives good health by making the blood pure.

VOTER'S LIST 1895

Municipality of the Township of Ernestown, County of Lennox and Addington.

Notice is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in Section 5 and 6 of the Ontario Voter's List Act, 1889, the copies required by said section to be so transmitted or delivered of the list, made pursuant to said Act, of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at elections for members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal elections and that said list was first posted up at my office at Odessa, on the 20th day of August 1895, and remains there for inspection.

Electors are called upon to examine the said list and if any omissions or any other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

P. A. MABEE,
Clerk of the Municipality of the Township of Ernestown.

Dated at Odessa, in the said Municipality, this 20th day of August, 1895.

—THE—

Bay of Quinte Railway

WILL RUN AN

Excursion to 1000 Islands

—ON—

SATURDAY, AUGUST 24th '95

from all stations on the line to Alexandria Bay and return.

Rate from Napanee, $1

on regular morning trains.

Returning trains leaves Kingston at 6 p.m,

Good Fitting, Trimmings and Sewing

is what you get when you order your Clothing from

ED. HUFF,

Carson Block. Tailor.

WORK GUARANTEED.

Cash and One Price Only. 51tf

THE NAPAN

Vol. XXXIV] No 40—JNO. POLLARD, Editor and Publisher. NAPANEE, ONT. C

BEFORE STOCK-TAKING

Having gone through my stock of

Crockery, China and Glassware

and finding it much too large for this season of the year I have decided to put the whole stock on the market

For the Next 60 Days.

at a large discount, or in other words, sharing up my profits with my customers, and in Dinner and Tea Sets, of which I have a fine assortment, I will give a special discount in order to clear them out to make room for New Goods arriving in the early part of April.

W. Coxall

Timothy Seed...

We have secured a supply of the cleanest Seeds from the largest growers in the Counties. We are sure we can recommend this seed.

We carry in stock at all times a full line of our Famous Flour, and the fact that we have an increasing demand for them bespeaks their excellence and popularity. The prices are always right, and the quality too.

We have a full line of grain, all kinds of Cracked Grain, Bran, and Shorts.

When you want Salt for the table, for butter or cheese making, or for salting your pork, remember that the "Windsor" brand is the purest and the best, and while it is the cheapest it is also the saltiest.

Try one of our little Cheese. They weigh about 8lbs. each. A nice size for the family.

Rolled Oats, Rolled Wheat, and Oatmeal

Best 25 Cent TEA in Town.

The Rathbun Co'y

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

GREAT CLEARING SALE

of Ready-Made Clothing, Men's Furnishings, Hats and Caps...

For the next 30 days we will offer our stock of Clothing, Men's Furnishings, Hats and Caps at prices that is sure to clean out the whole stock.

This is a chance which shonld not be missed.

We do this to make room for our new fall stock.

The following are a few of the many bargains offered :

Boy's School Suits $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50, worth double the money.

Men's and Youth's Suits from $3.50 up.

Men's good strong Pants at $1.00, worth $1.50

Shirts, Collars, Cufis, Suspenders, Socks, Neckwear and Gloves.

Underwear, Handkerchiefs, Armlets, Hats and Caps.

All at clearing prices. To be convinced call and see the bargains offered.

A. M. VINEBERG,

The Wonderful Cheap Clothier, Dundas st., Henry Block, Napance

IMPORTANT TO INTENDING PURCHASERS OF FARM IMPLEMENTS

THE - MERCHANTS - BANK OF CANADA

Head Office, — Montreal

Capital paid up, $6,000,000

Surplus, $3,000,000

INTEREST AT CURRENT RATES PAID ON DEPOSITS.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

T. E. MERRITT,
Manager, Napanee Branch

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT a court will be held pursuant to the Ontario Voters' Lists Act, 1889, by His Honor, the Judge of the County Court of the County of Lennox and Addington, at the Town Hall, Bath, on THURSDAY, the 19th DAY OF SEPTEMBER 1895, at the hour of 11 o'clock in the forenoon, to hear and determine the several complaints of errors and omissions in the Voters' List of the Village of Bath.

All persons having business at the court are required to attend at the said time and place.

D. T. FORWARD,
Village Clerk.

Dated at Bath, Sept. 2nd, 1895.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE MATTER OF WAY & CO. OF TAMWORTH, INSOLVENTS.

Notice is hereby given that Way & Co. of the village of Tamworth in the county of Lennox & Addingington, carrying on business as Merchants have made an assignment under R. S. O. 1887 Chap. 125 and amending acts, of all their assets, credits and effects to the undersigned for the general benefit of their creditors.

Creditors are requested to file their claims with the said trustee, with the proofs and particulars thereof required by the said acts on or before the 10th day of September next.

And notice is hereby given that after the said 10th day of September 1895 the said trustee will proceed to distribute the assets of the said debtors among the parties entitled thereto having regard only to the claims of which notice shall then have been given and that he will not be liable for the assets or any part thereof so distributed to any person or persons of whose claim he shall not then have had notice.

JAMES AYLESWORTH
Assignee and Trustee.

DEROCHE & MADDEN, Solicitors for above Assignee.

Dated at Napanee August 1st, 1895.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE COMMON PLEAS DIVISION.

HARDING VS. SPAULDING.

Pursuant to the judgment made in this action on the 29th day of November, A.D. 1894, and in pursuance of the final order for sale made herein on the 5th day of August A.D. 1895, there will be sold by Public Auction with the approbation of the Local Master at Napanee, at the Court House in the Town of Napanee, on at the hour of 2 p.m. The following valuable farm land in one parcel : situate lying and being in the Township of Tyendinaga in the County of Hastings and Province of Ontario, being composed of that part of the north half of lot No. 36 in the first concession of the said township of Tyendinaga situate lying and being north of that part of the said lot occupied and used by the Grand Trunk Railway Co. for their railway track and south of the gravel road commonly called the Napanee and Belleville Road, containing by admeasurement 90 acres, be the same more or less.

Friday, Sept. 13, A.D. 1895,

Upon said lands are erected a substantial frame house also a large frame barn and other out-buildings, and the whole farm is fairly well fenced and upon the land there is considerable small timber.

The land is conveniently situated at the corner of the Belleville and Napanee Road and the side road leading to the front of the township of Tyendinaga, being about 6 miles from Napanee and 3 miles from Deseronto.

The property will be sold subject to a reserve bid fixed by the Master.

TERMS OF SALE.—A deposit of $10 for every $100 of purchase money at the time of sale balance within one month without interest. In every other respect the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale of this Court.

For further particulars apply to the law office of Morden, Ruttan & Morphy.

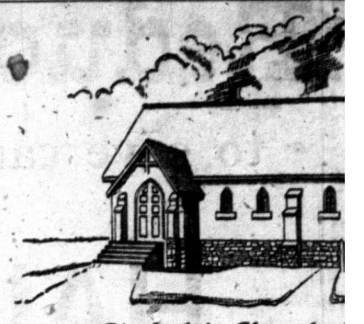
Sgd. S. S. LAZIER, Local Master.

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY, Solicitors for the Plaintiffs.

Dated this 9th day of August, A.D. 1895. 37d

VOTER'S LIST 1895

Municipality of the Township of Ernestown, County of Lennox and Addington.



St. Jude's Church,

The new church of St. Jude's was opened for divine services and dedicated to the great Head of the Church on Sunday Aug. 18th, by the Ven. the Archdeacon, of Kingston, assisted by the incumbent and Mr. W. P. Reeve, of the Cambridge Divinity School, Mass. with all the dignity and beauty possible under our limited circumstances. At the morning service the church was packed and after availing themselves of the porch and vestry many were still unable to get in. The Archdeacon preached a very beautiful and eloquent sermon from Ex. 33. 14. Many received the Holy Communion. The choir led the service very well indeed assisted by members from St Luke's and St. John's. The offertory was very good. In the afternoon the S. S. children assisted by the St. John's S. S. enjoyed a bright service. There were three babtisms and three children received into the church.

The Archdeacon again preached a most appropriate and practical sermon from St. Mark 4. 28. In the evening the church was again filled and a most hearty service was again rendered.

The Archdeacon preached a grand and eloquent sermon upon worship deriving his arguments and conclusions entirely from scripture. He showed first that worship should be reverent and the position in prayers kneeling, "O come let us worship and fall down and kneel before the Lord our maker." 2nd. That it should be common responsive worship. "And one cried unto another and said, Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lord of hosts."

3rd. That singing is just as much part of worship as praying, and that even prayers might be sung just as well as said. "O come let us sing unto the Lord."

4th. That worship must be sacrifical and symbolical. For I will not take that which is thine for the Lord, nor offer burnt offerings without cost.

5th. Our worship should be as beautiful as our circumstances would allow, in the building itself, both outward and inward, and also in the vestments decorations and service looking back upon God's instructions to the Jews in the building of the temple and forward through St. John's revelation of what we may look for when the great church triumphant shall be the church at rest. The whole day was one long to be remembered. The church was very much admired by all who saw it.

Beautiful and useful gifts were made to the church the previous week. The donors' names are not made public.

DISTRICT DOTS.

Dr. Demorest is moving into the house

The best is always the cheapest. Therefore, before purchasing elsewhere, call at Sylvester Bros'. Machinery Hall, (west end Campbell House Block) and inspect their samples, consisting of their Celebrated Shoe or Press Drill. Hoe Drill. Broad Cast Seeder and Spring Tooth Cultivator Combined. Single Spring Tooth Cultivator. Diamond Harrow. Mower, etc.

Also be sure and see the Wartman & Ward Spade Harrow, (the Queen of Pulverizers). Every farmer should have one. Different Patterns of Disc Harrows for sale. Don't you want a new Lumber Wagon this season? If so, buy none but a CHATHAM, with patent Grain and Stock Rack combined. The best in the Market.

BLANCHARD & POTTER,

AGENTS.

BIG PROFITS ON Small Investments

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who, by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invests a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest throug brokers who throughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOFS, also our Manual on successful speculation and our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers, ALL FREE. Our Manual explains margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our stauding success.

For further information address

THOMAS & CC., Bankers and Brokers.

241-242 Rialto Building, CHICAGO, ILL.

DEROCHE & MADDEN,

Barristers,

Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.

Office—Grange block,

Money to Loan at "lower than the lowest" rates

H. M. DEROCHE, Q. C. 5.1v J. H. MADDEN.

HERRINGTON & WARNER,

Barristers, etc.

MONEY TO LOAN AT LOW RATES

Office—Warner Block, East-st, Napanee. 5y

DENTISTS

C. D. WARTMAN, L.D.S.
C. H. WARTMAN, D.D.S.

Graduates of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduate of Toronto University.

OFFICE—LEONARD BLOCK,

Visits made to Tamworth the first Monday in each month, remaining over Tuesday. Rooms at Wheeler's Hotel.

All other Mondays C. D. Wartman will be in Yarker.

Napanee office open every day.

R. A. LEONARD, M.D., C.P.S.

Physician, Surgeon, etc.

Late House Surgeon of the Kingston General Hospital.

Office—North side of Dundas Street, between West and Robert Streets, Napanee. 5:1v

---

A. S. ASHLEY,

DENTIST

16 Years in Napanee.
34 Years Experience.

Rooms, - Albert Block, - Napanee

JAS. AYLESWORTH,

General Business Agent.

POLICE MAGISTRATE for the Provincial Electoral District of Addington.

Conveyancer,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses,

Commissioner, etc., in H.C.J.

Clerk, 7th Division Court, of the County of Lennox & Addington

Grand Trunk Railway Ticket Agent

TAMWORTH.

A. R. DAVIS,

Ontario Land Surveyor and Civil Engineer.

Office with T. G. Davis, Insurance Agent, Coates Block

C. H. FINKLE.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER, Newburgh, Ont. Orders left with Ewart and Vanluven, Yarker, will have prompt attention. Telephone communication.

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY.

Barristers, Solicitors, etc.

Solicitors for the Merchant's Bank of Canada, etc., etc.

Dundas Street, Napanee.

G. F. RUTTAN. ARTHUR W. MORPHY.

Private funds to loan at five per cent.

TO RENT FOR A TERM OF YEARS the Hermance Farm, situated on Hay Bay. Apply to CHAS. B. PARKS, Hay Bay, or to the owner, MRS. HERMANCE, Dorland, P. O. 40dp

---

MUNICIPAL FUNDS FOR INVESTMENT. Sums from $1,000 to $10,000 on farm lands. Interest 5 per cent. Apply to 40d W. G. WILSON, Napanee.

FOR SERVICE.

THOROUGHBRED GUERNSEY BULL

AT THE

ROYAL HOTEL STABLE

NAPANEE

TERMS - $1.00.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE
CHANCERY DIVISION.

BICKNELL vs BICKNELL.

Pursuant to the judgment made in this action on the 21st day of June, A.D. 1895, there will be sold by public auction, with the approbation of the Local Master at Napanee, at the Court House in the Town of Napanee, on at the hour of 2 p.m.

Friday, Sept. 13th, A.D. 1895

The following valuable farm lands in one parcel, situate lying and being in the township of Ernestown, in the County of Lennox and Addington, consisting of the south quarter of lot No. 17 and the south quarter of lot No. 18, both in the 7th concession of the said township of Ernestown, the North half of lot No. 17 in the sixth concession, and all that portion of the north part of lot No. 18, containing 25 acres more or less as conveyed to Richard Bicknell, deceased, by Calvin W. Miller, deceased, by deed bearing date the 6th day of April, 1865, and being in the said sixth concession of the said township of Ernesttown, containing in all 200 acres more or less.

Upon the said lands are erected a substantial frame farm house one and one-half stories high, with wood house and drive house attached, also two frame barns, and the whole land is well fenced, and upon the lands are two orchards containing in all about 200 apple trees

The land is conveniently situated, being two miles from Switzerville P.O., three and a half miles from Camden East, and about 8 miles from Napanee.

The property will be sold subject to a reserved bid fixed by the Master.

TERMS OF SALE—A deposit of $10 for every $100 of purchase money at the time of sale, balance within one month without interest. In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale of this court.

For further particulars apply to the law offices of Messrs. Morden, Ruttan and Morphy, and Messrs Deroche & Madden at Napanee.

Sgd. S. S. LAZIER, L.M.

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY, Solicitors for Plaintiff.

Dated this 28th day of June, A.D. 1895.

or delivered to the persons mentioned in section 5 and 6 of the Ontario Voter's List Act, 1889, the copies required by said section to be so transmitted or delivered of the list, made pursuant to said Act, of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at elections for members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal elections and that said list was first posted up at my office at Odessa, on the 22th day of August 1895, and remains there for inspection.

Electors are called upon to examine the said lists, and if any omissions or any other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

P. A. MABEE,
Clerk of the Municipality of the Township of Ernestown.

Dated at Odessa, in the said Municipality, this 20th day of August, 1895.

Bay of Quinte District Fair

Held at Exhibition Park.

BELLEVILLE, ONT

Sept 17, 18, 19 & 20

$3,500 - IN - PRIZES

For all leading breeds of Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Swine, Poultry, etc.

Also for cheese, Dairy and Agricultural and Horticultural Products, Arts and Manufactures.

FIRST-CLASS PROGRAMME

Speeding each day on the track, $500 IN PRIZES.

Also Bicycle, Chariot and Foot Races, Pony and Dog Races.

Quoit Matches, etc., etc.

Fireworks, Parade of Soldiers.

Sham Battles and Storming of the Fort by the 15th Battalion on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Military bands will play each day and evening.

Meals on the grounds. Special rates by all railroads and steamboats.

Mr. Silver, of Toronto, will be present during the Fair to purchase Carriage and Saddle horses

For Prize Lists, Programmes and all information apply to

J. M. HURLEY, Manager and Sec'y.
MAJOR W. N. PONTON, President.
JOHN JOHNSON, Treasurer.

FOR SALE.

The undersigned having decided to retire from the grain trade, offers for sale his well-known grain warehouse lying opposite the Madden Paint Works, in the Town of Napanee. This property has been completely renovated and is in good business order. It has a good grain capacity or can easily be converted into a manufacturing establishment. The above property will be sold cheap for cash or on time, or exchanged for land or town property.

H. WARNER.

Napanee Aug. 27th, 1895.

THE ROYAL HOTEL,

Dundas Street, Napanee.

H. HUNTER, Prop.

This commodious hotel is centrally situated having every convenience for the travelling and business public. Large yard and sheds for farmers.

Good table, best of wines liquors, and cigars

The comfort of guests is made a first consideration.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Pushing, trustworthy men to represent us in the sale of our Choice Nursery Stock. Specialties controlled by us. Highest Salary or Commission paid weekly. Steady employment the year round. Outfit free; exclusive territory; experience not necessary; big pay assured workers; special inducements to beginners. Write at once for particulars to

ALLEN NURSERY CO.,

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The best advertisement. Many thousands of unsolicited letters have reached the manufacturers of Scott's Emulsion from those cured through its use, of Consumption and Scrofulous diseases! None can speak so confidently of its merits as those who have tested it.

Mr. Gundy, the deputy registar of Peterboro, about whose "revelations" before the puplic accounts committee of the legislature so much noise was made in the late election campaign, is reported to be pastor of a church at Fond du Lac, Wisconsin.

Relief in Six Hours.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder disease relieved in six hours by the "NEW GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN KIDNEY CURE." This new remedy is a great surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y

Street.

Stoves for use and wear, largest selections newest designs, lowest prices, quality considered at Boyle & Son

---

A New Church at Yarker.

For some time the congregation have contemplated the removal of their church from the hill to a more convenient location in the centre of the village, and when B. S. O'Loughlin, last winter, tendered a gift of the desired site the scheme took form and grew at once into operations for removal. A few week's later B. S. O'Loughlin, en route to Europe, calling upon his cousins, the O'Loughlins, of New York, and upon making mention of the project of removing the church received from them the magnificent offer of a completely new edifice, to be a memorial to their father, the late Rev. Anthony Joseph O'Loughlin, who died rector of North Gower, a few years ago. The late reverend gentleman was always very fond of Yarker and its church, and spent a good part of his holidays there every year with his brother Michael O'Loughlin. The new edifice will be of pressed brick, and no expense will be spared to make it one of the handsomest buildings in the diocese.—Whig.

Assisted by Gravity.

Plodding Pete—What ails ye, Bill—goin' crazy?

Weary William—Don't say a word, Pete, I jes' hed a square meal an' wanter keep it on me stomach ez long ez possible.

"Has my wife been in here?" he asked. "Medium-sized woman in bloomers?" suggested the clerk. "Yes." "Very determined air?" "Yes." "Well, a woman of that description was in here a little while ago. She seemed to know just what she wanted, and she bought it without bothering the clerks, and went right out." "No, that wasn't Maria."—Judge.

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Tightness of the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Summer coughs are more dangerous than Winter coughs.

A Boom to Horsemen.—One bottle of English Spavin Liniment completely removed a curb from my horse. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or calloused lumps, blood spavin, splints, curbs, sweeny, stifles and sprains. GEORGE ROBB, Farmer, Markham, Ont. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—South American Rheumatic Cure, for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by W. S. Detlor, Druggist.—46y.

GAINED A POUND EVERY DAY

Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach cured by B. B. B. after hope was nearly given up.

GENTLEMEN—For over three months I was very ill from what I believe was a malignant type of Dyspepsia. I at once consulted a physician who treated me for Dyspepsia without success. I then went to a specialist who diagnosed the case as Catarrh of the Stomach, his treatment also failed and I was getting worse every day. I could not rest at night and had to walk the floor to get any ease. I fa led from 195 pounds down to 135 pounds and about gave up in despair when I heard of Burdock Blood Bitters as a remedy for dyspepsia. The first bottle made a change for the better, and I bought six more being delighted to find myself getting better. Under the use of B.B.B. I gained a pound a day. I took 18 bottles in all and am now nearly back to my old weight. I recommend dyspepics to try the old reliable B.B.B.

WM. CAMPBELL, 115 Maple St., London, Ont.

EE EXPRESS.

CANADA—FRIDAY, SEPT. 6, 1895. $1 per Year in advance; $1.50 if not so paid.

h, Napanee Mills.

1st. An altar reredos, credence, bishop's chair, prayer desk and seat lectern and pulpit, all in butter-nut wood and manufactnred at the Rathbun works, Deseronto.

2nd. A font, the base and column being of Calabogie marble and the basin of pure white. The text—"He that believeth and is baptised shall be saved," round the top and a beautiful I. H. S. in the front, It has been placed on a raised platform at the door and was manufactured by Mr. Kouber, of Napanee, in his well known style.

The church has a small debt which it is hoped will be wiped out in a few weeks, when it is expected the Archbishop will visit the parish consecrate the church, and hold a confirmation. The organ lately purchased is a very fine instrument having a double key board, double set of stops and foot peddles. Our young organist, Miss Laura Dunlop who played at all the services on Sunday and used the new organ for the first time, showed both courage and ability that should mark her as a great musician in years to come. The building committee we are sure must feel thankful that the many anxious days have been brought to such a successful issue. We cannot leave this notice without referring to the splendid manner in which each contractor, and the deep interest and pride each, together with their assistants, took in the work intrusted to them. Mess. Thos. Pybus and brothers stone and brick work; Messrs. Edgar Bros. the carpentering work; Mr. McMullen, of Napanee, the plastering; and Mr. Murdock the painting. We wish to thank those who have undertaken the collecting of the funds, also we would take this opportunity to express, onr grateful thanks to the friends and neighbors not of our communion who have in one way and another assisted us in our undertaking To the many far and near both of our own communion and others who have so kindly given of their substance in either large or small amounts to the building fund and to the donors of the beautiful gifts above mentioned we return our grateful and hearty thanks. It now remains for the congregation to shew their appreciation of all that has been done for them by a regular, reverent and loving attendance at the service which will be held in this beautiful little House of God and by the consistency of their lives shew the neighborhood that their religion is a reality and an assistance in their daily work.

PERSONALS.

Mr. Allen Pringle, of Selby, left on Tuesday to attend the Toronto Industrial Fair.

Mr. Thomas Bald, late of Boyle & Son has taken

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY

GULL CREEK.

There are indications that autumn is near. Cold frosty nights which have affected very much corn and potatoes and tender vegetables.

Water is very low, this is an advantage for to harvest hay in the marshes, people are busy at this now. It is evident that all kinds of hay will be needed by next spring.

We had the pleasure of seeing some of the citizens of Napanee repeating their visit to Gull Creek recently, and glad were we to understand that their visits were successful. Lots of fish in the lakes and rivers around here but it seems that some are more successful than others.

This day schools are running full steam after the long vacation.

There is a man who called himself an evangelist, he gives his name Lloyd that has been holding meetings at the school houses in this vicinity the last two weeks, with what some call success. There is one that knows all about that. He brings out some strange expressions which are not acceptable by many. Probably the good man has good meanings for th Let him be. If he is not one of our tem. he may do some good. ribe

CROYDON.

Dear Express—Not seeing any news from this place in your valuable paper for a long time I send you the following:—The annual picnic of the Croydon patrons was held in Mr. A. Wilde's grove on Aug. 26 and all were pleased with its success. There was a large turn out and the day was fine. Many more would have attended had it been more generally known. Among the speakers we noticed a Haycock which was neither too green nor too seedy but was in fact well cured and leader Joseph dealt out a good many dry knocks to the old political parties exposing their corruptions and boodling schemes to the satisfaction of the patrons present. Mr. Wilson, of Glengarry, was present and made a telling speech in much the same strain. James Reid, M.P.P. manfully tried to ward off the blows at his party but it seemed to be hard work and towards the last the combat thickened and excitement grew to such an extent that we sometimes had two speakers at once and denial, correction, admission and contradiction were in order. E. B. Switzer Esq., patron candidate for Lennox was present but made only a short introductory speeh giving the time to the "Dogs of war". Mr. Dean the master of Croydon lodge of patrons ably filled the chair.

Croydon Fair passed off very gently and not many cattle changed hands.

We are pleased to see Mr. Edgar Campbell about again after his severe illness. Also Mr. John Hunter has recovered sufficiently to go out doors again.

Bashford Close, son of John Close Esq; fell from a tree one day last week and sustained some severe injuries but is rapidly improving.

We are pleased to see our old acquaintance Mr. John Ferguson among us again.

Mrs. Thos Furrs has returned after spending a few days at Hugh Cambridge's, of Yarker.

Mr. Alex. Lynch is spending a few weeks with his father, Mr. F. Lynch, of this place.

Mr. Chesholm, of Roslin, is spending a few days with his daughter, Mrs. John Hunter.

Mrs. F. Brown, of Wilton, and H. Cambridge, of Camden East, were the guests of T. Furrs on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shangraw, of Colebrook, spent Sunday at Mr. A. McMahen's.

Mr. Wm. Howard has been making great improvements in his mill property, repairing the dam, putting in a flue race and new wheel. W. Smith and C. Babcock. of Odessa, are making the required changes.

Thos Furrs was over to Sydenham one evening and captured over two hundred fish of different kinds. Quite a fish story, Tom?

We are glad to hear that Mr. Anson Close is improving in health. He is now

WILTON.

A number from here attended the holiness convention at Odessa last week.

Mr. Vermilyea is still holding services in the Methodist church.

R. Storms and H. Mills are very busy with their threshing machines.

Miss Bertha Nielson has given up her position as teacher of the Florida school as she intends going to Texas for the winter. Miss Mary Walker, Florida. will act as her substitute for the remainder of the year.

A handsome monument has been erected in the McLean plot.

Frank Martin and Latham Clark, Grenadier Island, spent Saturday and Sunday with their parents.

James Davidson has left for Kingston to attend the model school.

HAY BAY.

Most all of the farmers through this section have completed their harvesting work for this season and report crops much better than was expected at first.

On Monday last it being the first day of duck-hunting on the bay, quite a number of our sportsmen from surrounding towns, villages and country took a day's outing for I would say the benefit of their health and not for the ducks. One of the lucky ones says he shot 15 ducks on that day. Quite a crowd of young men from Napanee are camping on the Island at present. They are having a loud time, I guess, by all reports.

Mrs. Frank Burnip, of Watertown, was was the guest of Mr. J. A. Moore at this place on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Connolly, Stirling, Mr. and Mrs. Byard Young, Napanee, Mr. and Mrs, Benjamin Young, of Gretna, Mr. and Mrs. George Chambers, of Little Creek, were the guests of M. E. Post Esq. on Sunday last.

Rumor says a wedding soon.

PLEASANT VALLEY.

News scarce and hop picking is the order of the day.

We are glad to state Mr. William Sills is slowly improving by the attendance of Dr. Ruttan.

Farmers in this vicinity report grain turning out well. Mr. James Cline thrashed 3 loads of oats which yielded 195 bushels. Who can beat that.

Miss Pauline Vandebogart is visiting at her sisters Mrs. Woods of Roblin.

Miss Ella McFall returned home to Prince Edward after a three months visit at her aunt's, Mrs. M. Pringle's. Wellington is so lonely.

Our school is progressing favorably under the able management of Miss Annie Edgar.

Mr. John Cline returned home Monday from hunting at Big Creek.

Miss Bata Sills spent Sunday visiting friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Glover at Mr. R Herrington's. Mr. Welcome Schryver of Big Creek, at Mr. Meal Sills. Miss Blanche Dupree at her father's Mr. S. Dupree. Mr. T. Burly, of Morven, at the Vandebogart's. Mr. Benel, of Deseronto Road, at Mr. Dupree's.

Dear Editor as I am to go west in a few days, I shall be sorry to quit corresponding for your valuable paper. Hoping however some other block head like myself will take up the quill and write that I may read when I am in the far west what our young people of Pleasant Valley are doing. Thanking you for your kindness toward me since I have been a correspondent. We are sorry to lose such a good correspondent and will consider onrselves fortunate if we can secure another one who will fill the position nearly so well—Ed

Honor Rolls.

S. S. No. 12 RICHMOND

Sr. IV—A. Sills 921, Ray Grooms 867, Lizzie Lochead 359 Carrie Lochead 300, Maurice Vandebogart 299.

Jr. IV—Louisa Dunning 742, Garfield Sills 705, Ella Chamberlain 740, Ethel Long 436, Walter Woodcock 318.

III—Thorold Smith 527, Steward Slater 387, Roy Smith 355, Fred Pringle 186

No Express Next Week

Flower Sunday.

Next Sunday will be Flower Sunday in all the churches. The different members of the Horticultural Society have been requested by the president Mrs. Wilkison, to cut all the flowers they are willing to donate, on Saturday morning, and to place the same in water until called for by Mr. Geo. Lloyd, who will make the distribution and deliver the flowers to the different churches.

Wanted.

A servant girl, with good recommendations. Good wages paid.

MRS. D. S. WARNER,
40tf John street, Napanee.

Wanted

Servant girl, at once. Good wages.

MRS. McKENTY, Dundas st.

Curious Fine.

On Tuesday of last week a skeleton was unearthed at Napanee Mills with a knife stuck in its ribs, by some men working for the Rathbun Co. Of course a find of this nature set not a few conjectures afloat. The most feasible being that thirty-five or forty years ago the plot were the skeleton was found was used as the graveyard for the district. A few years ago when the railway tracks were being laid men ran across human bones, etc., and the residents kicked about the ashes of their dead being disturbed. The railway company was, consequently, obliged to take another course at this point, and it is thought that some of the workmen running these bones thought they would relay the skeleton, at at the same time inserting the old butcher knife in the ribs.

THE CLERGYMEN AND LAYMEN UNITE.

In Their Praises of Dr Agnew's Catarrhal Power.

Taking the Bishop of Toronto, Right Rev. A Sweatmen, D. D. C. L., three of the leading members of the Faculty of McMaster Hall, and men like the Rev. W. H. Withrow, and others, as representing the Methodist Church, all of whom have spoken in high terms of the merits of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, and unite with these the warm endorsement of this medicine by the well known Toronto journalist Mr W. L. Smith, as representing the laymen and it must be granted that clergymen and laymen are of one mind touching this truly meritorious medicine. The truth is that every one who uses the medicine has a good word to say for it.

One short puff of the breath through the blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use. It relieves in 10 minutes and permanently cures catarrah, hay fever, colds, headache, sore throat, tonsilitis and deafness. 60 cents. Sample bottle and blower sent on receipt of two three-cent stamps S. C. Detchon, 44 Church street, Toronto.

SOLD BY W. S. DETLON.

The Canadians won the International cricket match played at Toronto, U. S. vs. Canada, by 140 runs.

Sam and Leslie Webster visited Ogdensburgh on Aug. 26th and were plucked in short order. They reside in Lansdowne, back of Brockville, and soon after arriving had a few drinks. Then they went over to Kate Porter's sporting house, and as they were about to enter, a young man with a very pleasant and honest-looking face, stepped up to them and said that if they had any money about them they had better not take it inside the building, as it was a sort of spider and fly place, that is they would get kicked out the back door later without any money. They were questioned as to where they lived, and after learning their genial friend said he was a Canadian his recent illness, as to give THE EXPRESS a call. He is still weak but happily on the fair road to recovery.

M. S. Plumley is attending the Toronto Fair.

Mrs. Dr. Ashley left on Wednesday, for Toronto to visit her aunt Mrs. Dr. May.

Mr. A. E. Douglas, Mrs. R. Douglas, and Mr. D. B. Mills, wife and son, of Petrolia, paid Mrs. Huyck, of Tweed, a visit on Tuesday and attended the R. C. picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Mills and son of Petrolia, are the guests of Mrs. A. E. Douglas Paisley House, at present.

Messrs F. Carson, W. Sanderson, F. Smith, S. Whales, E. McAfee, F. O'Neil, and Jim Roblin, left on Saturday evening for a weeks duck shooting at Hay Bay. They took a number of "horns" with them, and no doubt will come back heavily loaded.

Mrs. Thos. Trimble and son Clarence are visiting her son at Rochester.

Mr. Dan Henwood left on Wednesday afternoon for Toronto where he will attend the Academy of Music.

Herb Ashley returned from Kingston on Saturday where he has been visiting friend's and relations.

Mr. Albert Merridith, who has been visiting friends in town returned to his home in Kingston on Wednesday.

Miss Agusta Morrison has returned home after a weeks visit inToronto.

George Cliff, of Napanee is celebrating his 81st birthday by a visit to his son, Mr. W. W. Cliff Carleton Place. John Wesley once nursed his father, Mr. Cliff has a Bible 216 years old from which Wesley always read when he visited the family.—Pembroke Standard.

Mr Isaac Lockwood, and Mr. D. S. Warner, attended the County Show in Kingston, on Monday.

Dr. and Mrs. Eakins, of Belleville, returned Saturday morning from a European trip.

Mrs. William Switcher and daughter of Dresden, are visiting friends in Napanee on their return from the 1000 Islands. They left Wednesday evening for Toronto Show.

A. C. Parks, of Hay Bay, is moving into town and will occupy Mr. Mills House on Bridge Street.

Mrs. M. S. Forward has returned from visiting friends in Guelph, Peterboro and Lindsay.

H. Warner returned Monday morning after visiting Montreal, Boston, Providence and New York.

Miss Daisy Grange has gone to London to visit her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Daley.

Mrs. Dr. Ming and daughter, Florence, were in Belleville on Friday visiting friends.

Mr. Reginald Daley, of Cambridge, near Boston, and Mr. Fred Daly, of London, are visiting friends in town.

Jas. H. Downey has purchased a coal business in Whitby and will remove his family to that town.

Mrs. D. C. McHenry and son have returned from visiting friends in London.

Mr. Fred Richardson left for Toronto show on Thursday morning.

Miss Lotta Warner is visiting her brother, Dr. Fred Warner, in Toronto this week.

Misses Annie and Beatrice Lunnes, of Toronto, are the guests of Mrs. A. N. Jewell.

Mrs. Fred W. Smith is very low, not much improvement being noticable.

Mr. M. B. McDonald returned on Wednesday to resume his official duties on THE EXPRESS, after a three week's vacation in Bruce County.

The Rev. O. Mavety, of Peoria, Ill, occupied the pulpit of the Eastern Church last Sabbath evening to the delight of a large congregation. He left next day with his wife and daughter for home, calling at Toronto and Buffalo en route for a few days visit with friends.

Mrs. Silas Vrooman and her daughter, Mrs. Metzler, left last Monday for a couple of weeks visit with Mrs. L. M. Vrooman, Buffalo.

Miss Chisholm, of Port Hope, is visiting her aunt Mrs. Isaac Lockood John Street Napanee.

Miss Mary Neilson, Tarry Hall, Sandhurst is visiting Miss Edith McRossie.

We clip the following paragraphs from the Emerson Manitoba Journal: Mr. M. W. Pruyn, of Napanee, Ont., formerly M. P. for this district, is in town renewing old friendships.

Ten thousand bushels of wheat is a moderate estimate of the crop on the Pruyn farm.

Mr. Charles McGreer is laid up with an attack of peritonitis,

BORN.

MCCABE—On August 26th, at the homestead in North Fredericksburgh, Mrs. Edda McCabe, of a daughter.

GALBRAITH, ROBSON—At Napanee, on Sept. 3rd, Francis Wright Galbraith, to Jessie Holmes Robson.

MARRIAGES.

PERRY-BREAUGH— At the residence of S. Lindsay, Napanee, by the Rev. T. Snowdon, on Aug. 31st, Herman Perry, Napanee, to Miss Mary E. Breaugh, Deseronto.

WALKER—WILLIAMSON—By Rev. D. O. Crossley, pastor of the Western Methodist church, on Sep. 1st at the parsonage. Mr. Frederick Walker to Miss Loretta Williamson, both of Camden East.

CREIGHTON—HAYES—Ry Rev. D. O. Crossley, on Wednesday, Sep. 4th, at the residence of Mr. Master's, Napanee. Mr. R. J. Creighton, of Deseronto, to Mrs. Elizabeth Haynes, of Napanee.

This is Concentration - One pill a dose, one box 25 cents. One pill relieves constipation. One box cures an ordinary case. One pill taken weekly neutralises formation of uric acid in the blood and prevents Bright's Kidney disease and Diabetes. True only of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills.

Catarrh Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes One short puff of the breath through the Blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this Powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves instantly, and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat Tonsilitis and Deafness. 60 cents. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—307.

HAY BAY.

In a recent issue of the Beaver appeared a scurrilous article attacking the Hay Bay correspondent of the EXPRESS. It was in the Beaver's well known style, and gave evidence that it was concocted and written in the office of that journal, in the presence probably of one of the interested parties. It was so heavily laden with venom, untruths and mean insinuations that it shows at once that the Beaver had a large share in writing it, and that its ability to throw mud and murder truth is not diminishing but increasing. The Beaver's statement that its Hay Bay correspondent was forced to discontinue writing on account of the attacks of the Hay Bay correspondent of THE EXPRESS is a bold bald untruth. The truth of the matter is that the said correspondent was sending so much downright "rot" and nonsense to the Beaver that the correspondent's friends got disgusted, and induced the writer to cease. Mr. G. Post sends us a letter, anent the Beaver's article, for publication, in which the parties interested are handled as they richly deserve. Mr. Post writes as follows:

To the Editnr of the EXPRESS,

DEAR SIR,—I feel it a case of necessity to reply to a correspondence, so called that appeared in the Beaver from Hay Bay. I might mention the names of the writer and assistants who wrote such a slanderous and corrupt letter, but will forbear. About the prominent church workers mentioned, who use the choir as a sparking school, and sends word to her gentlemen friends through the medium of the milkman I will not say much. "She is a lady in every respect." This is good news and it is too bad that she had to tell it herself, as no one was aware of the wonderful change. What a pity that the faithful church worker has not read and thouroughly studied the 23 Chap of Deuteronomy.

The Beaver correspondent refers to living in glass houses, etc. I have heard of "B's" best fellow being thrown through a window on account of non-payment of debt. The "helper" correspondent should stick to political affairs. We understand he ran for councillor once. Why didn't he run again? Ask him and he will be ashamed to answer. Some generous and sympathetic people say, how rude to cast sharp stones at the tender rose, but seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you. If the church cobbler is so filled with overflowing christian kindness, why not care for the deserted plot and tenderly remove the sacred remains to the cosy home in Westbrooke, which is only weighed down by a $4.000 mortgage.

The remark about the choir was all right. "B" said if she was boss there would be no married people in the choir. "B's" remark that those who came to the party that "B" was not asked to, did so out of respect for [my father, would imply that I wasn't very much respected. Those who were present were well pleased and said they would like to be present at any of my future parties.

As it happens my father's farm is not mortgaged to the full extent of its value. If it was everything would be all right with my opponent, as that is what he means when he says that a dose of their own medicine might prove sufficient. Perhaps it would. None should know better than those who have experienced it, and Mr. G and Mr. J ought to be pretty conversant with it by this time. I am told by a man of credit that Mr. J has said if I write any more for THE EXPRESS he would circulate a petition asking for signatures in an effort to break up the newspaper business of Napanee. If he does so let him put the names of those signers to whom he owes a debt on one side of the paper, and those whom he does not owe on the other and see which side will be full first. Thanking you Mr. Editor for your space. I remain.

Yours, etc.
G. POST, Hay Bay.

HEART DISEASE OF TWENTY YEARS STANDING RELIEVED IN A DAY

Mr. Aaron Nichols, Who Has Lived On One Farm For 70 Years, Tells What He Knows of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart.

This is to certify that I have bought two bottles of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart for my wife, who has been troubled for the past twenty years with heart disease. The the first few doses gave relief, and she has had more benefit from it than from all the doctoring she ever did. The remedy acts like magic on a diseased heart. I am pleased to give this certificate. Aaron Nichols, Peterboro.

SOLD BY W. S. DETLOR.

Sr. II—Pansy Sherlock 259, Ernest Long 223, Mabel Jaynes 93, Harry Watts 52.

Jr. II—Otta Sills 380, Mima Sills 302, Edna Connolly 240, Denys Clark 197, Willie Milling 140.

Part II—Della Loucks, Zellah Grooms.

Part I—Jimmie Jaynes, Nellie Sills, Freddie Smith. A. EDGAR, TEACHER.

CROYDON PUBLIC SCHOOL.

V Class—Edna McKewn 143.

Sr. IV—Lillie Teskey 784, Carrie Close 988, Annie Byrens 359, Ella Close 366, Edmund Close 205, Myrtle Galbraith 140.

Jr. IV—Ernest Teskey 775, Jeannie McGregor 439.

Sr. III—Samuel Campbell 673, Hugh Byrnes 608, Andrew McGregor 336, Sarah Almond 118.

Jr. III—Herbert Bawn 981, Harvey Smith 930, Milton Smith 603, Bashford Close 529, Elmour Galbraith 508, Cephas Johnson 371, Willie McKewn 261, Lesley Kellar 84, Jeannie Dewey 33.

II—Annie McGregor 754, Mary Dwyey 674, Evelyn Firrs 669, John Byrnes 631, Ethel Kellar 919, Pearl Bawn 911, Dennis Dwyer 599, Claud Teskey 515, Eliza Dewey 514, John Kellar 388, Wilmer Byrnes 184.

Pt. II—Martha McGregor 418, John Smith 412, Roy Eanning 411, Theresa Dewey 383, Robert Johnson 229.

Sr. I—Percival Furrs 424, Belfour Campbell 416, Delbert Kellrr 406 Mildred Campbell 361, Blanche Hunter 391, Hulda Bumhower 255, Stanley Teskey 225, Ardella Bumhower 188, Eddie Johnson 166, Herbert Bumhower 29.

Jr. I—Gertrude Close 263, Elizabeth Byrnes 240, Mary Breault 116, Jennie Bumhower 93 John Dwyer 59, Patrick Dwyer 44, Clinton Kellar 28, Patrick Savage 27, Ethel Bumhower 16.

THOS. E. FURRS, Teacher.

More Kind Words From Hamilton Regarding the Great Remedy Which Cures Rheumatism in One to Three Days.

Mrs. Phillips, sr., corner Hunter and Grath streets, Hamilton: "Several months ago I was afflicted with rheumatism, which completly crippled me. South American Rheumatic Cure being recommended to me, I procured a bottle and obtained perfect relief from the first few doses. It is without doubt the quickest relief for rheumatism I have ever seen, and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers from this disease.

SOLD BY W. S. DETLOR.

see them lose all they had. The Websters thought they could hang onto their money but being assured that the girls of the house would get it away from them, they were in a quandary what to do with it. Finally, just to accommodate them, their friend said he would take it and keep it for them. The Canadians handed over $18, and entered the dive, leaving the other outside holding their money to keep them from getting robbed. And he is holding it yet, for once they were inside he started off at a rapid pace toward Morristown, and has not returned as yet. Several hours later they complained to the police, but did not know who their friend was, other than he said he was a Canadian from Brockville. They started on foot for home next morning, not having enough money to pay for a ride.

THE FARMERS COLLEGE.

The new Veterinary School in connection with Queen's University, Kingston, and the Dairy Schools opened last winter, have been established solely in the interest of the general farmer and stock raiser. In these days, when farming has to be done scientifically in order to make it pay, it is essential that the farmer should know something about such contagious diseases as epizootic, glanders, &c, Pleuro-pneumonia keeps American cattle out of the European markets. A farmer often loses a valuable horse or cow when a little knowledge of veterinary medicine would have saved its life. The plain moral seems to be: Teach your sons how to treat the diseases of the domestic animals, and to do this well send them to the Veterinary College, Kingston, and to the Dairy School.

WHAT THINK YE ALL OF IT

WELL AND STRONG AFTER HALF A CENTURY OF SUFFERING!

The Cure is a Wonderful One

Wrought by Paine's Celery Compound The Great Strength and Health-Giver.

The memory of the great discoveror of Paine's Celery Compound will ever be sacred to the thousands who have been wonderfully delivered from disease and suffering. The united efforts of this world's medical men will never equal the work, the mighty life-saving results, that have come to sufferers through the virtues of Paine's Celery Compound.

The most difficult, most distressing, and the seemingly hard and incurable cases, are successfully cured by the great medicine. There is no reason why any man or woman should despair and give up hope, while they can procure the medicine that drives away disease.

Strong and incontrovertible proof—testimony from one who suffered for over fifty years—will give hope and inspiration to many of Canada's sufferers who, up to the present, have been unsuccessful with physical and the common advertised medicines of the day.

The marvellous and speedy cure of Mrs. A. R. Parsons, of Sutton, P. Q., has created a wonderful sensation in that special section of the Eastern Townships. Professional men, business men, and farmers, have discussed the subject, and to-day Paine's Celery Compound has a reputation and a fame in the district that no other medicine ever possessed.

Mrs. Parsons writes very briefly, but to the point; she says:—

"I am delighted to send my testimony regarding your most valuable medicine, Paine's Celery Compound.

"Sometime ago I had Grippe, which left me so lame and weak that for six months I could not get up without help. I told my husband that nothing else but Paine's Celery Compound could help me, after other medicines and doctors had failed.

"After taking several bottles of Paine's Celery Compound, I feel that I am cured; I can now walk and go up and down stairs with ease, and do all my housework. Under the blessing of God and your Paine's Celery Compound, I am now well.

The Dominion Bank

ESTABLISHED 1871.

CAPITAL — $1,500,000.00
RESERVE FUND — $1,450,000.00

Deposits received and interest allowed.
Drafts on all parts of Great Britain and United States bought and sold.

E. H. BAINES, Agent.

Toronto Industrial!

Napanee to Toronto and return

Sept. 9th and 11th $2.90

Sept. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 12 & 13 $4.30

All Tickets good to return Sept 16th

Montreal Exhibition

Napanee to Montreal and return

Sept. 16 an 18 $4.20

Sept. 17 and 19 $6.05

All tickets good to return Sept. 23rd.

J. L. BOYES.
Agent, Napanee.

Consumption.

Valuable treatise and two bottles of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. T. A. SLOCUM CHEMICAL CO., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

IRISH AND SCOTCH WHISKY.

For sale by the undersigned the following well known brands of Irish and Scotch whiskey :-

Bushmills ..... Irish
James Watson & Co. ..... "
Henry Thomson & Co. ..... "
Mitchell & Bro. ..... "
Burke & Co. ..... "
J. Brown & Co. ..... "

Barnard & Co. Encore ..... Scotch
Watson's 3 Star ..... "
Dewar's, Extra Special ..... "
Usher's, O.V.G. ..... "
Sheriff's ..... "
Claymore ..... "
B. Lade & Co. ..... "
Mitchell Bro. ..... "
Glengowan ..... "

M. W. PRUYN & SON.

Napanee, 12th Dec. 1894.

PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

TWO Harvest Excursions

.....TO.....

Manitoba and North-west

VIA

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

August 27th, good to return Oct. 26th, September 3rd, good to return until Nov. 2nd,

—TO—

DELORAINE, } $28
BESTON, }
STEVAN, }
MINSCARTH, }
MOOSOMIN, }

REGINA, } $30
MOOSEJAW }
YORKTON, }

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 6, 1895

TOWN COUNCIL.

An adjourned session of the town council was held on Monday evening last.

Present—Mayor Stevens in the chair, Reeve Carson, Deputy Reeve Symington and Councillors Alexander, Burns, Madole, Leonard, Ward, Lowry and Miller.

A communication was read from Mr. Alfred Knight regarding the drain in front of his place. Filed.

On motion of Coun. Ward, seconded by coun. Madole, the Street Committee was instructed to investigate and report.

A petition was read from Mr. George Lloyd and others asking for a new walk on the east side of Simcoe street from Dundas to Bridge street. Referred to Street Committee to report.

Uriah Wilson, M. P., addressed the council regarding the drain for which he asked tile at the last session. He said he wanted the tile for the purpose of draining the cellars of his houses on Bridge Street and only purposed laying the drain in front of his own property. On being questioned he stated that he also wanted it to drain from a water closet which he purposes putting in the house.

Moved by Coun. Burns, seconded by Reeve Carson, that the Street Committee procure six inch tile to lay a drain from the corner of Bridge and Robert Streets to the creek which runs in the rear of Mr. Gleeson's house on West Street.

Moved in amendment by Deputy Reeve Symington, seconded by coun. Leonard that the matter be deferred for one week to await report of Street Committee as asked for.

The amendmeut carried.

Coun Ward, of the special committee appointed to wait upon the school board to see if some of their estimates could be cut down, reported that some of the members of the board were away and no action could be taken by them. He made some enquiries from some of the members during the week, and from what he could gather from their remarks the council need not look for a cut in any item, for there was not the slightest disposition on the part of the school board to reduce their estimates.

On motion of Reeve Carson, seconded by coun. Madole, the motion relating to the estimates for Fire, Water and Light committee passed at the last session, was reconsidered the amount was placed at $3,500 the same as last year.

It was the opinion of the council that the following should be the rate for the year 1895-96 :

For General Purposes.. 17.9 mills.
For School Purposes..... 8.6 mills.

26.5

and that the tax demands should show what the money is being raised for.

On motion of coun. Ward, seconded by coun, Lowry, the matter was left in the hands of the Finance Committee for the purpose of securing legal advice on certain points, and if possible to fix the rate at 26½ mills and prepare a by-law in accordance therewith to be passed at the next session of the council. Carried.

On motion the assessor was paid $25 for extra services.

On motion of Reeve Carson, seconded by coun. Alexander, Mr. Walker was charged $2.00 license for showing Uucle Tom's Cabin.

Mr. W. F. Hall, secretary of the Board of Education, was called upon to address the council for the purpose of explaining some of the school estimates.

A report was presented from the Fire Water and Light Committee regarding the account placed in their hands at last session, recommending payment less $3.75. Adopted.

The council adjourned.

IT DOES BOTH.

South American Kidney Cure not only Relieves Kidney Disease Immediately but it also Heals and Removes the Trouble.

These dragging pains in the loins that are a common symptom of kidney trouble are most distressing, but they are only the forerunner of more acute pain and will develop rapidly if an effective remedy is not applied, No medicine acts on the kidneys with such speediness as South American Kidney Cure. It gives relief in the most distressing cases in a few hours. But it does not stop here. It is a great healer, and its continuous use for a short time completely banishes the disease. It is a cure for kidney trouble, and only it, but it never fails here.

modest looking of their number to accompany him to Manhattan Beach. She accepted and they left. Not to go minutely into details, they had a nice dinner and were listening to the music when two young men passed. One of them looked rather intently at the girl and smiled. She was somewhat near-sighted, and, telling of the matter afterward, she said she thought the young man was a friend, whereupon she smiled and bowed. The prude saw it all, and taking her by the arm he led her to the young man, and addressing him who had bowed to the girl, he said :

"'I don't know your name, sir, but this lady seems to desire your company more than she does mine. She is Miss Blank, of No. — West — street, and I will eave her in your care, hoping you will see her safely to her home.'

"Before he had concluded the astonished girl had discovered that the young man to whom she had bowed was a stranger but she had not time to make any explanation to 'the prude,' for as he finished he strode rapidly away. She dismissed the strangers, bought a railroad ticket and returned home, where she recited the mortifying story to her friends. And it was then and there, after putting their heads together, they hatched the scheme which sent 'the prude' to Europe on a wild goose chase."

"The conspirators," the narrator continued, "had a friend who was the postmistress in a small, near-by town, and they enlisted her aid, she being only too willing after she knew the circumstances. Soon 'the prude' received a nicely scented letter, in a woman's hand, and the girls had the pleasure of seeing it on his plate at the break-fast table, and of noticing the pleased expression as he read it. They knew that the letter purported to be from a lady who had seen him, but had never met him, but was extremely desirous of knowing him—so much so that she suggested to make an appointment to meet her. She signed herself 'Blanche Willoughby,' and said she lived in Brooklyn, and requested him to send his reply to the Brooklyn post office, where she would get it by calling for it.

THERE WAS A LETTER ON HIS PLATE.

"Whether he felt flattered, or what it was that actuated the man who so detested flirting, he answered the letter, which, by prearrangement, was forwarded from the Brooklyn post office to the out-of-town postmistress, and from her hands it went direct to the fair plotters, who had all manner of fun with it. Then ensued an animated correspondence between 'the prude' and Blanche, and it tickled the girls immensely to note his flush of pleasure when on going to the breakfast table he would find the daintiest notes from his supposed fair inamorata. Never did he read them at the table; they were too sacred for that; he gently put them in his pocket, waiting till he got to the seclusion of his room before breaking open the envelope.

But the young fellow was becoming impatient to meet her, so Blanche told him to be at Trinity church the next Sunday morning, and to wear a large red rose as a boutonnier. He was on hand, and so were the four conspirators. As luck would have it, a young woman fainted, and was carried from the church placed in a carriage by her

CANADIAN PIRATES.

They Infest the Straits of Belle Isle and Little Plunder Escapes Them.

In no other part of the world, perhaps, is there such a daring gang of pirates as that which infests the straits of Belle Isle, the narrow passage north of Newfoundland, by which steamships in the summer months reach the Gulf of St. Lawrence from Europe. Some of them live a good part of the year on Belle Isle itself, but others come from Newfoundland, Labrador, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, ostensibly to engage in the fisheries, but in reality on the lookout for what they can loot and steal from ships in distress.

There are at least three or four wrecks every year in the vicinity of Belle Isle, and sometimes a great iron steamship breaks up or runs aground there. This is a rich harvest for the pirates. They swarm about the wreck and help themselves to everything that they can lay hands on. The captains and crews of such ships in distress have usually all they can do to save their lives from this treacherous coast, without concerning themselves with the fate of their cargoes. Should they venture to remonstrate with these highwaymen of the sea for the freedom with which they help themselves to other people's property, they would be laughed at for their pains, as was the captain of the wrecked steamship Mexico, a few days ago. Captain Daly has just arrived from the scene of the wreck of his ship, with the most startling description of his experiences with the pirates.

Daly endeavored to make terms with the captains of the fishing schooners that swarmed about the wreck for the saving of the cargo, but they laughed in his face, saying they intended to take everything that they could lay hands on. As an instance of the barefaced character of the robbery carried on by them, Daly reports that he went aboard one schooner at a time when it was deserted by all save a woman. He suspected that some of his effects were concealed on board. The woman protested that there was nothing whatever belonging to him. He insisted upon a search, and found nailed to the bulkhead the portrait of his wife and children which had been taken from his cabin. Continuing the search he found a small hatch battened down, and upon opening it discovered thirteen bags of clothing belonging to his shipwrecked sailors. Shipping men feel that it is an outrage upon foreign as well as Canadian shipping for such a gang of pirates to be permitted at large in Canadian waters to prey upon the commerce of the world, and wonder that justice was not meted out to them long ago. Thus far, no attempt whatever has been made to bring these marauders to justice. Were a gunboat to be sent down to the straits, as many wish, it would be dodged quite easily by the fast-sailing, light-draught, fishing, wrecking and smuggling schooners of the gulf, with the intimate knowledge possessed by their crews of the bays and coves of the coast.

Some day the pirates will encounter a well-armed captain and crew at a wreck, for steamship men know what they have to expect here. There will be a desperate fight, for the pirates are well armed, and on some of their smuggling expeditions they have already engaged the crews of the Government revenue cutters.—New York Sun.

Pretty Ornaments.

a bowl, did you? Well, it will. Take a glass and fill it nearly full of salt; then water it every morning the same as you would a house-plant. After you water it the first day pour in a little of three or four prettily-colored inks. In about a week the salt will begin to grow and will run over the cup and begin to crystallize on the sides. The different colors in the ink blend, and the effect is strikingly beautiful. Another mighty handsome ornament can be made with a glass nearly full of water, and a handful of oats. Just pour the oats in the water, and in a months a beautiful green bunch will spring up and grow to a height of about a foot. The sprouts will stay

CALGARY, RED DEER, EDMONTON, $35. $40.
E. McLAUGHLIN,
Agent at Napanee.

DR. FOWLER'S EXT. OF WILD STRAWBERRY

CURES
COLIC,
CRAMPS,
CHOLERA,
DIARRHOEA,
DYSENTERY,
CHOLERA MORBUS,
CHOLERA INFANTUM
and all Summer Complaints and Fluxes of the Bowels. It is safe and reliable for Children or Adults.
For Sale by all Dealers.

BRISTOL'S Sarsaparilla
Cures Rheumatism, Gout, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Scrofula, Sores, and all Eruptions.

BRISTOL'S Sarsaparilla
Cures Liver, Stomach and Kidney Troubles, and Cleanses the Blood of all Impurities.

BRISTOL'S Sarsaparilla
Cures Old Chronic Cases where all other remedies fail.
Be sure and ask your Druggist for

BRISTOL'S Sarsaparilla

FIRST AND FOREMOST
CANADA'S GREAT INDUSTRIAL FAIR
TORONTO,
SEPT. 2nd to 14th
—1895.—
The Finest and Fullest Display of LIVE STOCK, AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS, and MANUFACTURES to be seen on the Continent.
Increased Prizes, Improved Facilities, and Special Attractions, etc.
A Trip to Toronto at FAIR TIME is an IDEAL HOLIDAY.
There is MORE to SEE, MORE to LEARN and MORE to ENJOY at the
GREAT TORONTO FAIR
THAN AT ALL OTHER } PUT TOGETHER
EXCURSIONS ON ALL LINES
Entries close Aug 10t
Prize Lists, Programmes, address

A PHANTOM LOVE.

He was a maker of musical instruments, and his eyes twinkled as he looked around at this friends who had been relating queer experiences of their own or their acquaintances. Then he began this remarkable story of a man who was decoyed into chasing a phantom sweetheart from this city to Europe, and over a large part of the land on the other side of the water, only to learn that the whole thing was a practical joke, planned to secure revenge for an exhibition of ill temper which had deeply grieved and mortified a young woman.

"It was in a fashionable boarding house,'" said the instrument man, "in an uptown street, that four young ladies lived. With youth they combined good looks, cheerful dispositions and the woman's proverbial proneness for a desire for the admiration of the sterner sex. But all their blandishments were lost on a handsome young fellow who boarded in the house, and who, while not exactly a cynic or a misanthrope, seemed to frown down any exhibitions of youthful frivolity.

"He frequently chatted with the girls after dinner, and when, one evening, the conversation turned upon flirting, he expressed himself very forcibly on the subject, saying no lady could descend to such an action, while a man of true honor would only desire her if she did. This, of course, coming from a young, good-looking fellow, was a surprise to the girls, who at first thought he was joking, but as he repeated his views on several other occasions, and as his conduct, which was carefully looked into, seemed to justify his views, they came to the belief he was in earnest. Thereafter he was known as "the prude."

"THIS LADY SEEMS TO DESIRE YOUR COMPANY."

"He surprised the girls one summer afternoon by inviting the most relatives and was driven away. Blanche's next letter expressed the deepest regret that the writer had been overcome by the heat and had to be helped from the church. She was still ill, she added, her doctors had ordered her to go to Europe, and was to depart the following Saturday. She was sorry to go without having had the pleasure of meeting him, but after her return she would make it a point to find him.

"Of course the young women thought this would end the whole matter, for they were becoming tired of the joke. But what was their amazement when another letter was received by Blanche in which the smitten young man said he would follow her to Europe, and begging her to send him another letter informing him where he could meet her there. The next week he announced in the boarding house that he was in need of rest and that in two weeks he would leave for Europe, where he expected to remain two or three months.

The news, instead of invoking sympathy, spurred the girls on to further efforts. One had a relative in Hamburg, another a married sister in Geneva, the third had some one in Paris in whom she could confide, while in London the fourth had a friend whom she would let into the secret. So five letters were written at once, four of them to go abroad to tell the friends how to act, the fifth being sent to 'the prude,' telling him where Blanche was to stop in London, and how long; how she would go to Paris and where she could be found, and the same data concerning Hamburg and Geneva.

All the girls were on hand to see 'the prude' depart, and he was very happy over what he thought was the secret locked up in his breast.

From letters received from the friends abroad he appeared at the address given in London, only to be told that Miss Willoughby had been there and had looked anxiously each day for a friend whom she expected. Much dejected at his non-arrival, she had departed for Paris earlier than she expected, leaving word that should a young man call for her he should be asked to follow her at once.

"In this way he was sent to the four cities named, and then, losing all track of his phantom sweetheart, he traveled around on his own account, hoping to find her. But of course he didn't, and when, three months later, he returned to this country and to his boarding house, he was a heart-broken man. The next morning when he appeared at the breakfast table there was a letter on his plate which made his eyes twinkle with joy. He took it to his room, and this was what he read:

"'Poor Old Simpleton—It is not very strange that you did not meet me in Europe, for I was never there. I had intended to take a slight jaunt through South America, so you might have the fun of following a will-o-the-mist; but when I saw how foolish you were my heart softened. I am not Blanche Willoughby, and never was, but I took this means of punishing you for your contemptible conduct to a friend of mine. When you get this I will be another man's wife. Don't forget.

BLANCHE."

"Now," concluded the story-teller, "if you don't believe this, I will introduce you to my wife, who was Blanche Willoughby."—New York Herald.

Scott's Sarsaparilla

IS A MOTHER'S REMEDY regulating and strengthening the maternal functions. It purifies the female system of ulcerative weaknesses and debilitating humors. It expels the first symptoms of hereditary humors in children and youths that may owe their origin to past generations. It searches out and renders the system free from disease-breeding germs.

"THE KIND THAT CURES."

There are not many forms of disease upon which Scott's Sarsaparilla does not act favorably, because pure blood carries to the diseased parts renewing and building up properties. This medicine makes pure blood which builds up where disease has torn down, and carries away the impurities upon which it feeds.

HEREDITARY DISEASES.

New European Watering Place.

Colonel North the English nitrate king, is now negotiating with the King of Belgium for the purchase of the beach between Ostend and the parish of Mariakerke, situated a few miles to the south of the famous seashore resort. This territory belongs to the royal domains, and a bill permitting the transfer of that property has been introduced in the chambers. The project of the English capitalist, who has offered seven and one-half million francs, $1,500,000, for the property, comprises a new sea bathing resort which shall surpass any of those now existing in Europe.

Here's a Serious Difficulty.

What will a woman shoo the chickens with when she wears bloomers?

like green things, wet a sponge, sprinkle it with Silurian grass seed and suspend it from the ceiling. In less than a week the sponge will look like a ball of green grass. Hang four or five of these green balls about a room and the effect is quite pretty. But those were old-time decorations, and I don't know as people would care for them now.—Philadelphia Record.

The Marblehead Dialect.

The Marblehead dialect, so-called, was the old-time speech of Lincolnshire and Nottinghamshire in England, somewhat enriched and modified, no doubt, by words and phrases from the Channel Islands. It was substantially the language spoken by the earlier settlers of Boston and vicinity, though, because of our isolated position it survived here for a longer period. It was peculiar, direct, hearty and expressive, abounding in queer turns and bright expressions. Instead of being caricatured it deserves to be enshrined in literature and some competent writer ought to make a faithful study and portraiture of it and achieve what Bynner only half tried to do. But we rather suspect that when resolved into its elements it would be found to be nothing so dispeculiar after all. William Black's novels are full of genuine Marblehead expressions as everyone is aware who reads his books and knows Marblehead.—Marblehead Messenger.

Cromwell's Statue.

What needs our Cromwell stone or bronze to say
His was the light that lit on England's way
The sundawn of her time-compelling power,
The noontide of her most imperial day?

His hand won back the sea for England's dower;
His footfall bade the Moor change heart and cower;
His word on Milton's tongue spake law to France
When Piedmont felt the she-wolf Rome devour.

From Cromwell's eye the light of England's glance
Flashed, and bowed down the kings by grace of chance,
The priest annointed princes; one alone
By grace of England held their hosts in trance.

The enthroned republic from her kinglier throne
Spake, and her speech was Cromwell's. Earth has known
No lordlier presence. How should Cromwell stand
By kinglets and by queenlets hewn in stone?

Incarnate England in his warrior hand
Smote, and as fire devours the blackening brand
Made ashes of their strengths who wrought her wrong,
And turned the strongholds of her foes to sand.

His praise is in the sea and Milton's song;
What praise could reach him from the weakling throng
That rules by leave of tongues whose praise is shame—
Him, who made England out of weakness strong?

There needs no clarion's blast of broad-blown fame
To bid the world bear witness whence he came
Who bade fierce Europe fawn at England's heel
And purged the plague of lineal rule with flame.

There needs no witness graven on stone or steel
For one whose work bids fame bow down and kneel;
Our man of men, whose time-commanding name
Speaks England, and proclaims her Commonweal.

Algernon Charles Swinburne, in Nineteenth Century.

TAN SHOES

We are Offering Tan Shoes at Reduced :- Prices

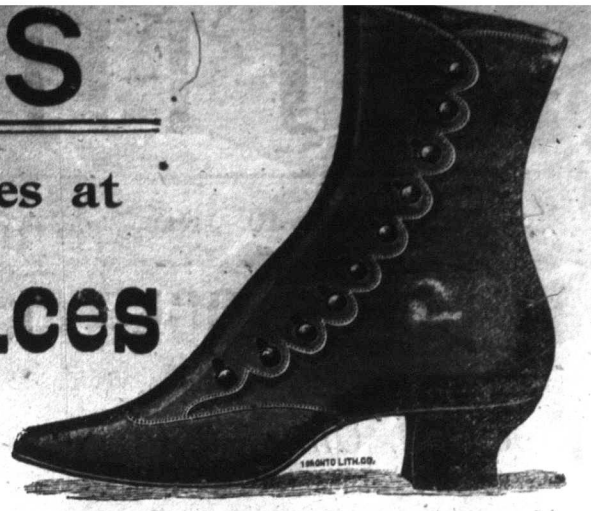
to save carrying stock over



HAINES & LOCKETT

4 BIG SHOE STORES

No Credit. Only One Price.

LEAVING - -

Crowds of cash buyers who know bargains when offered are taking advantage of our great sale of Footwear.

Nothing like it ever known in Napanee.

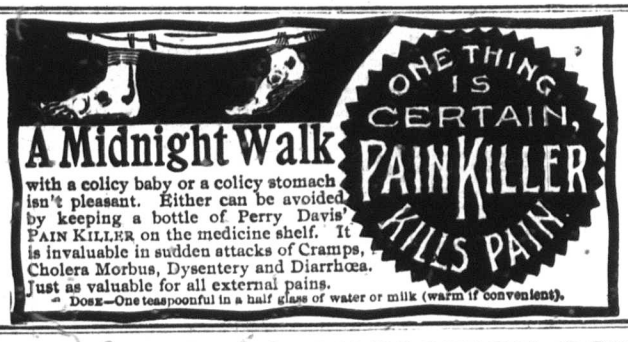
BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS,

TRUNKS, VALISES.

at almost any price. Only a few days more to save half money on your Footwear.

JAS. H. DOWNEY,

McRossie's Old Stand, South Side Dundas Street.



THE DESERONTO NAVIGATION CO'Y

(LIMITED)

SUMMER TIME TABLE

Taking effect May 1st, 1895. Steamers will run as follows Daily, except Sunday.

STEAMER ELLA ROSS

D. B. CHRISTIE, Master.

Toronto, Belleville and Deseronto to Picton to Deseronto, Belleville and

THE LONDON OF TO-DAY.

ONE'S FIRST WEEKS IN THE METROPOLIS ARE NEVER FORGOTTEN

Profound is the Impression created by the Vastness and Stateliness of the Modern Babylon—The Spires of Greater London—The City's Magnificent Pleasure Grounds.

An English correspondent of the New York Tribune, in a recent letter to that journal, gives the following interesting account of the city of London as it is to-day:

An American friend, who has lived in London for many years, surprised me a day or two ago by congratulating me upon being a newcomer with a fresh pair of eyes. "I envy anyone," he said, "the high privilege of making a first visit in England. One's first weeks in London are never to be forgotten, but how soon they pass, and with them the supreme happiness of earliest impressions!" What he meant was that the high tension of sensibility speedily relaxes, and London, with its splendid antiquity, infinite variety and awe-inspiring vastness, becomes familiar and prosaic. My friend convinced me that there might be compensations for rawness and inexperience, and that my earliest impressions of the loveliest country and the greatest town in the world might have some value.

Since one cannot come up to London without a short journey from the coast, the first word must be about the loveliness of English rural scenery. Whoever enters England at Southampton, the most convenient gateway, seems to be journeying all the way through a continuous park, planned by a landscape gardner who has known the poetry of his art. It is not necessary to refer to the distant glimpse of the noble cathedral of Winchester, the picturesque villages, the thatched-roof cottages, the stately trees, the broad sweeps of level meadow, the winding lanes, the flowering hedges and other equally familiar details. What is most remarkable in this series of entrancing rustic pictures is the absence of blemishes and flaws. There is nothing unsightly at any turn. There are no blackened stumps bleaching in the fields; there are no ugly fences falling out of repair; no depressions in the slopes of the well-drained meadows. The

AN INEFFECTIVE CURE.

The Remedy Was Administered All Right, But It Did Not Work.

A bachelor clergyman bought a parrot to relieve his silent chambers. The dealer assured him it was a good talking bird, but warned him not to be surprised if it was silent for a few days until it became accustomed to its surroundings.

A week later the clergyman was back at the bird store. He said the man must come and take the parrot away. The night before he had a number of his best parishioners visit him, he explained, and the conversation woke Polly up. It talked all right, but such talk! Oaths, execrations of the most awful kind the bird poured out in torrents. Such a bird he could not keep.

"You can cure him of that," said the dealer. "Parrots often remember stuff they learned early, but you can cure them. The next time Polly swears have a pail of water ready and souse him into it, cage and all, and then shake and kick the cage around. Frighten the bird thoroughly, and it will never swear again."

The experiment was duly tried and the next time Polly swore cage and bird were plunged into the water and then the kicking and shaking began. But in this process the catches which held the cage to its pan were loosened and Polly got out. However the clergyman resolved to make the cure thorough, pelted the unlucky bird with books, slippers and other missiles. Finally, when he was tired, Polly crawled up on the back of a chair and shook out its bedraggled and drenched plumage.

"H-r-r-r-rh"—and then, catching sight of the clergyman—"Say, where in ——! were you when the cyclone struck us?"

It Costs to Study at Yale.

According to the Yale Senior Class Book, just published, the average expenses of the student at that college are $912 for the freshman year, $943 for the sophomore, $942 for the junior and $1,032 for the senior. This expenditure would require an earning capacity of $18 to $20 a week, or something over $3 a day for the six working days of the week. This is more than three times the average wage of the unskilled laborer in the State, as shown by the census. It is considerably above the average wage of the educated and skilled

Leave Trenton.....	1 00 P.M.		Leave Picton.....	6 00 A.M.....	9 00 P.M.
" Belleville.. ..	3 00 "		Arrive Deseronto	7 25 "	10 30 "
Arrive Deseronto....	5 00 "		Leave Deseronto .....7 30 "
Leave Deseronto	5 15 "	.....3 30 A.M.	" Belleville .... 10 00 "
Arrive Picton.....	6 50 "	.....5 00 "	Arrive Trenton..... 11 30 "

Calling at intermediate ports.

This Steamer makes connections at Deseronto with morning trains going East on G. T. R., East and West on C. P. R., and with night trains East and West on Grand Trunk Railway. Arrangements have been made whereby a boat will leave Picton every evening at 9 p.m. for Deseronto. This service will not in any way interfere with the regular daily service, and will prove a great convenience to commercial men and the public generally.

STEAMER DESERONTO.

WM. SKILLEN, Master.

Napanee and Deseronto to Picton.			Picton and Deseronto to Napanee.
Leave Napanee .....6 00 A.M.			Leave Picton..... 9 30 A. M.....		2 30 P.M.
Arrive Deseronto.....6 45 "			" Thompson's Pt. 10 05 "		3 00 "
Leave Deseronto .....7 00 "		.....12 30 P.M.	" Houghs..... ... 10 35 " : ..		3 35 "
" Houghs.....7 20 "		.....12 50 "	Arrive Deseronto .. ... 11 00 "		4 00 "
" Thompson's Pt. 8 00 "		..... 1 30 "	Leave Deseronto.....		5 00 "
Arrive Picton..... ....8 30 "		.. ... 2 00 "	Arrive Napanee.....		6 00 "

Close connections with G. T. R. trains for all points East and West. Call for tickets reading "via Deseronto."

Most Powerful Vessel Afloat.

The British cruiser Terrible, recently launched on the Clyde, is the most powerful vessel in the world. The length of the great war vessel is over all 538 feet; breadth, 71 feet; depth to upper deck, 43 feet 4 inches. The displacement is 14,250 tons, being an enormous increase on the Blenheim or the Blake, the largest vessels of this type in the British navy. The Terrible has no belt of side armor, as in previous men-of-war, the machinery and magazines being protected by a steel arched deck of great strength. The top of this arch is 31 feet above the water line, while the edges are 7 feet below the sides of the vessel. The engines are triple expansion, and indicate 25,000 horsepower, and will develop a speed of 22 knots. The vessel is a new departure in war ship construction, being built on the lines of the large Atlantic liners.

Fish Get the Wrong Bait.

A fisherman who went down into Lake Keuka in ships of the skiff variety in order to fish, trailing a jug of bait behind the boat to keep it cool, was twice annoyed by having his jug broken, which, of course, put an end to the fishing for the day. On the second occasion when this occurred, the fisherman soon after saw a large fish swimming about near the surface in a lazy and irresolute way. He rowed up to the fish, and to his surprise was able to pick it up in his hands. The fish was perfectly sound, but had rather more color than usual, but his breath smelled strongly of alcohol. This gave him an idea. Next day he trailed behind his boat a jug wherein the lure was cunningly commingled with opium. Hid in the stern of the boat, while another rowed he kept sharp watch. Presently he saw a number of monstrous fish approach, bearing on their noses they had evidently rooted out of the lake bottom. One sharp crack from the jug, when the thieves eagerly drank up the liquid as it mingled with the surrounding water. Shortly after a number of the finest fish ever seen on the lake floated to the top in their opium dream of bliss, and were captured.

The Modern Daughter.

"I wish to ask your permission to pay my addresses to your daughter," said the old-fashioned young man.

"All right," said the old gentleman. "If I can get her permission to give you my permission, go ahead."—Indianapolis Journal.

Not Always a Liar.

B. F. Hamilton, of Biddeford, Me., never talks much about his defense of an individual who was arrested and arraigned for breaking into a jewelry store and stealing a lot of watches. The court assigned the shrewd and energetic Biddeford attorney to defend the prisoner.

"I didn't do it," the prisoner told the lawyer. "I wouldn't do such a thing as that on my life. Really, Mr. Hamilton, I didn't do it. You can take my word as you hear me tell you, but I suppose they'll railroad me."

The trial was held before Judge Virgin. The prisoner was acquitted, and when he met his lawyer in the afternoon said to him:

"What is the amount of your bill?"

"Well, about a hundred dollars," replied the lawyer.

"Would you take $25?" asked the free man.

"Well that's better than nothing," said the lawyer, and he said: "Twenty-five it is."

They stepped outside, and the discharged man said to the lawyer: "Say, if you'll wait until I get to Boston so I can sell those watches, I'll send you the $25."

A week later Mr. Hamilton received his twenty-five.—Bangor Commercial.

Poetry and Prose.

Lieutenant (in Miss Emily's private sitting room)—"Emily, I cannot find expression for the feelings which agitate my breast—I love you! (dropping on his knees). Behold me lying here in the dust before you!"

Emily—"Beg your pardon, Lieutenant; that is an insult. I dusted everything myself only a minute ago!"—Geillustreerd Zondagsblad.

Fresh Little Minds.

A child in trying to describe the bowsprit of a yacht spoke of it as the "part that sticks out like a sore finger."—Buffalo Express.

The Teacher—Now, who can tell me which travels the faster—heat or cold? Johnnie Bright (promptly)—Heat, of course. Anybody can catch cold.

Heart Disease Relieved in 30 Minutes

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gives perfect relief in all cases of Organic or Sympathetic Heart Disease in 30 minutes, and speedily effects a cure. It is a peerless remedy for Palpitation Shortness of Breath, Smothering Spells, Pain in Left Side and all symptoms of a Diseased Heart. One dose convinces. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y

Cash Saved

By ordering your Suits from DAVIS & Co. Entire new stock at bottom prices to select from.

Call and see our prices before ordering.

Davis & Co.

T. G. DAVIS. R. FORD.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

of tidiness in the villages. There is the refinement of landscape art without traces of neglect, carelessness, or lack of harmony. No rural scenery can be more beautiful than the English fields and byways in May, when the pink bloom is on the chestnuts, the hawthorn is bursting into flower, and the meadows are lighted up with the golden tints of the laburnum and innumerable red and white flowers. Nowhere are the flowers lovelier and more delicate; nowhere are the trees more shapely or the fields greener. Everywhere there is a sense of symmetry and repose that comes from perfection of detail. The English country scenes are not in a transition stage with disfigurements to be removed. The English country is finished. Nothing remains to be done in order to perfect these pictures of rural loveliness.

The same impressions are produced by the magnificent pleasure grounds of London and its environs. I do not refer to the new parks, commons and breathing places controlled by the County Council and in process of transformation, but to the old parks, and especially to Hyde Park, Regent's, Kew Gardens, Richmond and Hampton Court. These, too, like the English country, are finished. Where can there be a finer stroll than a walk through Hyde Park in the early forenoon or in the late afternoon, when the light is softly tempered and the background is not too brilliant? Or where can there be a lovelier drive than that from Kew to Richmond, and thence through Bushey Park to Hampton Court? There has been a long, disagreeable winter, which has impaired the most robust constitutions and tended to depress the most buoyant spirits; but nature has not suffered from the protracted frosts and sharp changes. The trees are full, and the verdure of the woods and fields is as vivid as ever. The oaks, walnuts, beeches, larches, cedars and chestnuts show no sign of weakness or dryness; the azalea are flaming with splendour and over the hedgerows hangs a glory of pink and white, and fields powdered with butetrcups, daisies and bluebells are free from dust and delicate in their freshness of tone. The English love their trees and flowers, and know how to group and mass them. In their parks they study the broadest and most restful effects, and avoid fussiness and prettiness in details. There is an artistic sense of tranquility and repose in their landscape art that is lacking in American rural and suburban scenery. Everything is finished, perfect and harmonious.

He must have indeed a dull soul who can stand in Westminster Abbey for the first time or catch from the Thames his earliest glimpses of the dome of St. Paul's and the Houses of Parliament after a long walk from Hyde Park to Lombard street, without being profoundly impressed with all the vastness and stateliness of London. It is modern London in a transition stage that he sees. Of old London, comparitively little remains, although what there is of it is either splendid in form or rich in precious associations. There are the storied spots in the busiest quarters haunted by benignant ghosts for those who have eyes to see them; but the modern town is not so incomparaly great and interesting as to discourage historical reminiscences and sentimental journeys for the identification of famous sites. The visitor is now content to have antiquity massed for him, in the incomparable abbey, the ancient tavern and chophouses, and the tower; and even in the last named spot his attention is distracted by the splendid new bridge which spans the Thames. That is a parable of the relations of past and present in London. The new is everywhere jostling and crowding out the old. London, in spite of its blackened stone fronts, is essentially modern. It challenges attention and admiration less for what is has been than for what it is—the centre of latter-day civilization, the metropolis of the modern world.

Refrigerators, ice cream freezers, garden hose, nozzels, all new goods prices right. BOYLE & SON.

SHE HAS BACKACHE

Feels sore aches with muscular Pains, and has just put on that Banisher of Backaches The D. & L. MENTHOL PLASTER

J. McLACHLAN, Point au Chene, writes: Nothing better for Lame Back and Lumbago than the D. & L. Menthol Plaster.

A. E. MacLEAN writes from Windsor: "The D. & L. Menthol Plaster is curing Sore Backs and Rheumatism at a great rate in this vicinity. 25c. each in air-tight tin box.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

CURES

DYSPEPSIA, BAD BLOOD, CONSTIPATION, KIDNEY TROUBLES, HEADACHE, BILIOUSNESS.

B.B.B. unlocks all the secretions and removes all impurities from the system from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

BURDOCK PILLS act gently yet thoroughly on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

ALL MOTHERS WHO HAVE USED PALMO-TAR SOAP KNOW THAT IT IS THE BEST BABY'S SOAP for healing the Delicate Skin of Sores.

ONLY 25¢ BIG CAKE

Baby was troubled with sores on head and legs. I tried "Palmo-Tar Soap." In a very short time the sores disappeared; skin became smooth and white, and the child got perfectly well.

MRS. HOLTZMAN, Crediton

Only 25c. Big Cake.

Scranton Coal

In order to meet the wishes of a number of our Customers who enquired for SCRANTON Coal, we have put some in stock this season.

We carry as well a full line of the Celebrated LACKAWANNA variety which we have handled for a number of years with great general satisfaction.

We shall be pleased to receive your order which will have our best atten on.

All coal under cover and thoroughly screened before delivery.

The Rathbun Co.

SCRIBBLERS !

We manufacture the best Scribbling books for School use in Ontario. The paper is of a superior quality. Have you tried the PEN and INK SCRIBBLER, only 5 Cents.

200 Page SCRIBBLERS -

68 Page Scribbler, One Cent.

100 Page Scribblers, 3 Cents, 2 for 5 cents

All Kinds of School Books and School Requisites kept in Stock.

THE POLLARD CO'Y.

EXPRESS BOOKSTORE, NAPANEE.

Children Shrink

from taking medicine. They don't like its taste. But they are eager to take what they like—Scott's Emulsion, for instance. Children almost always like Scott's Emulsion.

And it does them good.

Scott's Emulsion is the easiest, most palatable form of Cod-liver Oil, with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda added to nourish the bones and tone up the nervous system. The way children gain flesh and strength on Scott's Emulsion is surprising even to physicians.

All delicate children need it.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!

Scott & Bowne, Belleville, 50c. and $1.

I CURE FITS!

Valuable treatise and bottle of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. H. G. ROOT, M.C., 186 West Adelaide Street, Toronto, Ont.

Patch Grief with Proverbs

but don't try to patch up a lingering cough or cold by trying experimental remedies. Take and relief is certain to follow. Cures the most obstinate coughs, colds, sore throats, in fact every form of throat, lung or bronchial inflammation induced by cold.

PYNY-PECTORAL

Large Bottle, 25 Cents.

STOP WEARING A TRUSS

CHAPTER VI.

Vane and the two women remained quite silent until he could bear it no longer. He jumped up and went out, and looked round. One of the revenue men was standing at a little distance, as if on guard, but as Vane approached him he walked off.

Vane looked round carefully and watched the men go off in the boat, then returned to the cottage. He heard Mrs. Trevanion and Nora talking earnestly, but as he entered they stopped. Nora went to the fire, and stood with her back to him. Mrs. Trevanion looked him steadily in the face.

"After what you've seen this morning, Mr. Tempest," she said, quietly, "you will no doubt agree with me, that the sooner you leave this place the better."

Vane was about to repudiate the suggestion, but she waved her hand, and went on :

"No," she said, "it will not do for you to be mixed up with such people as us and such business as this. I urged you to stay this morning because I thought you were not well enough to go ; but Nora tells me," her grey eyes lightened with a grim satisfaction, "that you were well enough to knock down the man who seized her, and I think that proves that you have recovered your strength sufficiently for you to continue your journey."

Vane inclined his head and was about to speak, when she again went on :

"I don't know whether Nora thanked you for rescuing her," she said, in the same measured tones, "but I do so now. We are grateful to you, Mr. Tempest."

"I'm afraid I didn't hurt him enough," said Vane. "I wasn't in the best form, you see. But look here, Mrs. Trevanion, I hope you're not sending me away because you think that I'm afraid of—that I want to leave you because of this—this trouble. I don't want to pry into your secrets," he continued ; "I don't mean to ask a single question. It's nothing to me whether what that fellow said was right or wrong ; which one else, and no one's a penny the worse, and—there's an end of it. Good-bye, and remember : If ever you are in any trouble and want a friend, send or to come to me ; don't hesitate a moment. You'll promise, won't you ?"

"I—promise !"

Her eyes looked up at him pleadingly, trustingly ; so unlike the eyes that had flashed upon him the night she had let the bridge fall, that they seemed rather the eyes of some other person.

Vane was but human, after all, and under the influence of her gaze he, moved by an unfortunate impulse, bent down, drew her closer, and—put his lips to hers.

It was the first kiss Nora Trevanion had ever received, and it affected her terribly.

She started—a faint shudder ran through her, and her face grew instantly white.

Vane crimsoned.

"I—I beg your pardon," he said. "Confound it !" under his breath ; "what made me do that ? I beg—your pardon—pray forgive me !" he said, aloud. "I ought not to have done it ; but—but it was just to show that we parted friends, Miss Nora."

"Was that why ?" she breathed, almost inaudibly. "Was it because you quite, quite forgive me ?"

"Yes, yes," he said ; "that was it."

Again she seemed to force herself to raise her face, and in accents that in their intense gravity were indicative of innocence itself, she murmured :

"You may kiss me again."

Vane took off his hat, bent, bareheaded, and kissed her ; then she broke from him, but not abruptly, and stood at a little distance.

"Good-bye," she said.

Vane touched the horse with his heel and rode on.

When he had gone a hundred yards or so, he looked back. She was still standing looking after him, her hand shading her eyes. He waved to her and called her name, but she did not move nor make any response. So she stood until he had disappeared ; then she seemed to awake as if from a dream, and looked round her, pushing the hair from her brow with a hand that quivered.

A heavy sigh rose from her heaving bosom, and with an utter abandon she sunk upon the grass, and half crouching, half lying, hid her face in her hands.

A dense darkness seemed to have fallen on her young life ; her half-savage nature was cowed and weighed down by an emotion so utterly novel and strange as to amount almost to the ecstasy of pain. She felt as if something had gone out of her life—out of the world itself—and forever ; and as if, for her, there never would be any more gladness, or even peace.

emotion ; then tore them apart, and stood before him, still with the same half-defiant, half-remorseful expression.

"Yes, it was I ! Look !"

She sprang away from him, and dashing up the rocks, caught at a rope almost hidden by the ferns.

Vane saw the bridge shake and shiver, then drop suddenly.

He stood and looked at it like a man in a dream.

A moment or two afterward the bridge swung back into its place again, and Nora stood by his side.

"You see—you understand ?" she said.

"You mean that you let this bridge down and dropped us—me and the horse ?" exclaimed Vane.

"Yes," she said, doggedly.

"Why did you do that ?" he asked, not unnaturally.

She drew a long breath.

"I thought you were the revenue man," she said—" the new man. The old one gave us no trouble."

"Then—then—you are—"

"We are smugglers—yes," she said, quietly. "It is quite true. Aunt and I sail that boat into the bay, and meet the schooners from France. They are loaded with spirits and tobacco. We bring it from them to the cottage, and then the men come with carts at night, and take it away to Tarnstock and Tideford."

Vane leaned against the horse and stared at her.

"I can scarcely believe it," he said, more to himself than to her.

"It is true," she said. "We are smugglers. Ever since I can remember it has been the same. There is no harm in it. Everybody used to be smugglers once ; the squire up at the Hall, before Squire Vale ; the parson at Porth ; all the people at Trelorne. Until this new man came, no one took any notice."

Vane laughed.

"Upon my word, Miss Nora," he said, "I can scarcely believe that I am awake and not dreaming. We never even hear of such things as this in London." He laughed again incredulously.

"And you forgive me ?" she breathed,

By a new device recently patented in U. S. and Canada by CHAS. CLUTHE

ESTABLISHED 1871

RUPTURE CAN BE CURED

WITH NO INCONVENIENCE

WITHOUT A TRUSS

CHEAP BY MAIL

Your name to us means comfort to you. A Post Card will do it.

Age of person or case immaterial

CHAS. CLUTHE
134 KING ST. WEST
TORONTO - - - - CANADA

Robert Light

Manufacturer and Dealer in

Rough and Dressed Lumber

Screen Doors,
Mouldings,
Bee Hives,
Stairs, Blinds,
Turned Work,
Wood Drapery,
Sash,
and Interior Finish for Buildings.

APANEE - - ONT

M. STORMS,

MOSCOW

has been over fifty years in the undertaking business in the county, and can turn out work equal to any in the Dominion.

A large stock of Coffins, Caskets, Robes, Crape Gloves and Badges, constantly on hand, and sold at reasonable prices.

Embalming a Specialty. Every facility on hand for doing the work.

25 per cent cheaper than any in the trade. Give me a call at Moscow.

M. STORMS, Prop.

Carscallen & Bro.,

Low Priced, No Combination

Undertaking Establishment.

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of the latest designs to be found in which we are prepared to sell 25 per cent. cheaper than any house in the county. We use the best embalmerizer, thus obviating all unpleasant odors, Embalming a Specialty. Having purchased one of the Handsomest Hearses at the Toronto exhibition we are prepared to attend personally funerals in the most satisfactory manner. The public will do well to call and examine our stock, and be convinced that ours is the place to buy.

COFFINS, CASKETS, ROBES, Etc.

We have also added a full line of the newest things in Wall Paper, Ceiling Decorations, Window Shades and Picture Railing, Paints and Oils Paint Mixed. Persons wanting anything in this line will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere. Remember the place, Centre-street one block south of Main by you. I don't know how I can help you; but perhaps you can think of a way, and, whatever it is, I shall be only too glad to do it. It would only be a poor acknowledgement of your great kindness to me."

CARSCALLEN & BRO.

Nora looked over her shoulder at him, her dark eyes fixed on his face; and it was that moment a very handsome one. Mrs. Trevanion nodded.

"You're very good," she said, almost coldly, "but you can do nothing for us, except keep silence."

"Well, I can do that, at any rate," said Vane.

As he spoke, Nora went to a corner and took up his saddle and bridle. Vane took them from her, but she yielded them up reluctantly.

"Go with Mr. Tempest and show him the lower road, Nora," said Mrs. Trevanion.

Vane held out his hand.

"I am going, Mrs. Trevanion," he said, with a gravity that did not sit badly on him, "but I must say that it is very much against my will, for I should like to stop and see you through this. I'm not accustomed to running away from my friends when they're in trouble, and it's only because you send me—"

"Yes, it's better that you should go," she said, but a little less coldly. It was evident that his frank offer of help had touched her somewhat. "You could not help us; in fact, your presence here would only complicate matters. Besides," she added, with a smile, "we are quite capable of taking care of ourselves. You spoke of 'friends.' We can scarcely claim to be 'friends' of yours, Mr. Tempest."

"Oh, I call a friend one who acts as such," said Vane. "And I'm sure you have treated me as only the best of friends could have done. Anyway, Mrs. Trevanion, if I can be of any service to you, I shall be more than glad. Miss Nora has my address—98 St. James street—and a line—just a line—will bring me down in post haste."

The woman looked at him steadily.

"Thank you," she said, "but it is not likely that that line will be written. We need no help. The best thing you can do for us, Mr. Tempest, is to forget that you ever spent two or three days in the Witches' Caldron."

She held out her hand. Vane clasped it in his strong one for a moment. Then she turned away.

Nora had already left the cottage, and was waiting him on the shelf of rock. With the saddle and bridle on his arm, he followed her along the narrow track, up the hill and down by the side of the precipice into the gorge into which he and his horse had fallen.

The horse was grazing beside the stream, and whinnied at the sound of their footsteps. Vane saddled it, Nora standing by with a dreamy, far-away look on her face.

"We were in luck the other night," he said, as he passed his hand over the horse's legs. "We ought to have been killed, both of us—" he glanced up at the bridge and laughed. "It's evident that he's got strong bones, and I've got a thick head. All the same, I'd get that bridge mended, Miss Nora."

She raised her eyes and looked at him, then dropped them again, and said nothing.

"I'm all ready now," he said, "and if you'll show me the way— But are you sure I can do nothing?"

"Follow me," she said; then she stopped suddenly, and confronted him as he stood with the bridle over his arm. Her face was pale, her dark eyes heavy, yet glowing, as if a fire were burning behind them; and their expression was a strange mixture of wild defiance and tender remorse.

"Don't you know?" she said, or rather breathed.

Vane looked at her inquiringly.

"Know—know what?" he said.

The eyes lowered, and her bosom heaved.

"You must," she said; "you cannot be blind. Don't you know how you—you fell the other night?"

Vane shook his head.

"The planks of the bridge gave way, didn't they?" he said. "It was so confoundedly dark that I didn't notice."

"No," she said, and her lips came together and made a straight line. "The bridge is all right; you could have ridden over it. It was I who did it—I who threw you down."

"You!" said Vane, with a faint smile.

She clasped her hands for a moment as if under the stress of some strong angry?"

"Angry!" Vane frowned. "Good heavens, why should I be? You did the proper thing, from your point of view."

She gazed at him inquiringly, wonderingly.

"You did just what I should have done if I'd been a girl and wanted to stop that fellow from interfering with me. I dare say smuggling's all wrong; but, you see, you've been used to it all your life, and it's evidently considered quite correct and natural, and so— And you let that bridge down? By Jove! I admire your pluck!"

The color came and went in her face

"I tried to kill you," she murmured.

Vane smiled.

"I dare say. Now that I remember you looked very much as if you meant to, as you stood waving me back. Anyhow, you gave me fair warning, only, I suppose, I didn't hear what you said. I'm glad you didn't kill me, Miss Nora."

She looked at him, and drew a long breath.

"Yes," she whispered; "so am I. I did not care then the other night. When I am like that, in a passion, I do not care what happens, whether I kill myself or any one else. But now—"

She looked round with a half-dazed expression, as if puzzled by some quiet novel emotion.

"Now we have got to be friends, you're glad I came off scot-free," said Vane. "Is that it?"

"Yes," she whispered.

They walked along, he with the bridle over his arm, she by his side, her head drooping.

"Well, I ought to consider myself an extremely lucky fellow," said Vane, after a pause. "Everybody is on the lookout for adventures nowadays, and I know half a dozen men who would give their heads to see what I've seen these last few days. By Jove! they would scarcely believe it all, if I were free to tell it. It's wonderful, incredible. He looked at her, with a man's ready sympathy for youth and beauty in his eyes.

"But I wish you had let me stay a little longer and seen you through this business."

She shook her head.

"You mean that there is nothing I can do, as your aunt said? Well, I'm afraid there isn't much, but I'd give anything to help you. Shall I speak to Mr. Vale up at the Hall there? He seems to be your nearest neighbor, and may be able to help you in some way out of this trouble."

She shook her head.

"No," she said, "do not. Aunt does not like any one to know where we live, or anything about us. Do not speak of us or think of us. Forget us."

"That's easier said than done," said Vane, rather gravely.

"Yes," she assented, with a little catch in her voice. "It is difficult to forget a person who has tried to kill you."

"I didn't mean that," he responded. "That's forgotten already. It's your kindness to me"—he was going to add, "your beautiful face," but stopped himself in time—"that I shall find it impossible not to remember." He stopped to light his cigar, and then sauntered on as before. He was in no hurry to go—to part with her. It was pleasant—more than pleasant—to have her walkng beside him, her lithe figure, grace itself, as she paced along, her exquisite face softened by some reflection of which he was ignorant.

Every now and then she glanced at him from the corner of her eye, as if she were trying to fix the image of his face in her mind. Presently they came to an opening in the valley and to the verge of a fairly good road.

She stopped and pointed.

"That is the road," she said, in a low voice. "It goes straight to the Hall."

He sprang into the saddle and bent down and held out his hand. She put hers into it, and raised her face to his.

As she did so Vane started. He saw that her eyes were full of tears; wonderful, truly wonderful eyes they were, shining through the clear crystal; orbs to haunt the man who looked into their depths for many a day and night.

"Good-bye, Miss Nora," he said. "Don't—don't be upset about that—that accident, you know; for after all it was an accident. You took me for some

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR 25 CTS.
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

About the same hour as that in which Vane Tempest rode on his way to his mysterious uncle, Senley Tyers was at work in his studio.

This studio was rather a remarkable apartment, and although it had only been in existence some three months, people—fashionable people—the people who make or mar one's fortune—were beginning to talk about it.

It was situated in Mount Street—which Theodore Hook said was the street in London in which everybody should or ought to live. It is near the park, it is quiet, and the houses in it are convenient and roomy.

Senley Tyers could not have chosen a better locale for his studio than No. 101 Mount street.

It was a long room, one end of which was divided from the rest by curtains of sea-green plush. The walls were clothed, not papered, with the right shade of terra-cotta, upon which hung a few cartoons in rough chalk, and one or two water-sketches. The light came principally from above, and was carefully toned so that there was no vulgar glare, excepting when the artist required it for his work, but a subdued, nicely balanced light which fell with a soft caress, as it were, upon the statues and busts which stood in striking relief against the terra-cotta walls and among the dull green, plush-covered furniture.

The floor was of parquet, with here and there a Persian mat thrown down with apparent carelessness—"apparent," because in reality there was nothing careless about any part of the place. Every inch of it was studied with due regard to effect. Behind the easel, and over a statuette of Venus Aphrodite rising from the waves, hung a trophy of arms, a pair of fencing rapiers being among them.

Although it was daylight, a small red lamp was alight, and cast its soft glow around the corner in which it hung.

The fire-place was of carved oak, black oak, and the fire was of huge logs resting on brass dog-irons and surrounded by Dutch tiles. A Persian cat lay on the rug before the fire.

No one could enter the room without being struck by its grace, its artistic tout ensemble, and its comfort; for, alas! your artistic apartment is not always comfortable. In Senley Tyers' studio there was absolutely nothing to offend or weary the eye, which could rest everywhere with a delightful sense of repose. The chairs were all "easy" ones, with broad seats and sloping backs, which tempted one to sit and lounge in them. Mention must be made of a small oak cabinet which stood in a corner behind the lamp, and which was always kept locked, and then one can speak of the artist himself, who stood before his easel at work.

Seeing him in his loose velvet painting-jacket, with the soft light falling upon his face, with its dark eyes and long lashes, with its expression of dreamy melancholy, one would not have hesitated in calling his appearance striking, and, indeed, handsome. As a matter of fact, he looked at his best amid his present surroundings, and at his worst in such a place as, say, Trelorne, in the driving wind and rain.

A cigarette was between his lips, but he worked with evident care and anxiety, and every now and then paused and looked at the canvas with a strange

THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE!

A Happy, Fruitful

MARRIAGE!

EVERY MAN who would KNOW the GRAND TRUTHS; the Plain Facts; the Old Secrets and the New Discoveries of Medical Science as applied to Married Life, should write for our wonderful little book, called "PERFECT MANHOOD."

To any earnest man we will mail one copy Entirely Free, in plain sealed cover. "A refuge from the quacks." Address

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

ORGANIZATION OF FARMERS.

A FEATURE OF THE DAY.

James Rogers Speaks Earnestly.

The development of Farmers' Institutes and other means of education on successful practical farming has proven beyond a doubt that the present day farmer requires to be a student of his work. The most successful ones are not, as a rule, those who do the greatest amount of mannal labor, but they are found ranking first as prize-winners on all agricultural products. James Rogers, a resident of Tilsonburg, Oxford Co., Ont., for 45 years, has taken numerous first prizes during the year. A successful, reliable man, his statement will be of interest to many:

"I have suffered for seven or eight years with Itching Piles; the torture and agony I cannot here find words to describe. Night after night was kept awake with the painful itching. I tried all the physicians and every known remedy all to no account, not even relief. In talking over my curious trouble with Mr. Chas. Thomson, our well known druggist, he recommended Chase's Ointment. To my wonder and surprise, I got relief from the second application. I firmly believe one box sufficient to cure any case of Itching Piles no matter of how long duration. I would not be without it for ten times its cost. In volunteering this testimony and my consent for the manufacturers of Chase's Ointment to use it as they wish, it is that like sufferers may know they can be cured."

Price 60 cents, sold by all dealers. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

---

expression of admiration and discontent. The picture was a half-finished portrait of a lady, a face beautiful to loveliness.

Once or twice he turned from the easel and paced up and down the room, his smooth and rather cat-like footsteps making no sound on the thick rugs; then returned to his work with a sigh and a low-muttered imprecation.

Presently there came a knock. He turned the portrait round with its face to the easel, and unlocked the door. A correctly dressed page stood waiting.

"The Duchess of Mudshire, sir," he said.

Senley Tyers nodded.

"In five minutes," he said.

There was no valid reason why the Duchess of Mudshire should not have been admitted at once; but Senley Tyers was not only a talented artist, but a clever man, and he had learned something more than how to paint during the years he had been struggling and starving. He had learned the great secret, that in nine cases out of ten the world is ready to take you at your own valuation; that if you want to win the favor of the rich, the titled, the fashionable, you must not crawl and cringe, but assume to be, even if you do not feel, indifferent to their friendship, and pretend to feel a complete contempt for their opinion. The great world will do anything for you while you keep it at your feet, but kneel to it, and it will kick and spurn you.

So he kept the Duchess of Mudshire waiting while he smoked another cigarette; then lounging in a chair, with the cat on his knee, struck a silver bell, and only rose languidly, setting the cat down carefully, as the lady entered the room.

Her grace was past fifty, and was, if the truth must be told, commonplace, if not vulgar, in appearance; but she was good-natured, and only smiled as Senley Tyers gave her a nod rather than a bow, and sauntered toward the easel. The duchess was accompanied by her maid, who removed her mistress' bonnet and cloak, and then meekly took a seat near the door.

"Good-morning, Mr. Tyers," said her grace. "I thought you said one o'clock?"

It was a quarter past. He looked at her absently.

"You are not too late," he said, coolly arranging a curtain, then calmly pointing to the sitters' dais and chair.

The duchess laughed.

"Oh," she said, "I thought I had mistaken the time, or you were not ready."

"No," he said. "Your grace does not like being kept waiting. Neither do I."

The duchess stared at him as if she were on the point of being angry, then shrugged her shoulders and laughed, as though she were saying: "These extraordinary creatures must be humored and tolerated. It is folly to be angry with them."

"Five minutes, more or less, can mat-spend Thursday evening in my room here, with my books and my cat. Nice people? 'What care I how nice they be if they be not nice to me?' And I am afraid your people would not be nice to me, your grace. They would wonder who I am, and why on earth I was there; and I should wonder, too."

"You are an extraordinary man," she said, laughing, but with a faint tinge of annoyance in her laugh. "I see it is of no use being civil to you."

He smiled.

"Not in the very least, your grace," he assented.

"I am getting very tired," she said. "Isn't the time up?"

He glanced at an old English clock on a carved bracket.

"Another quarter of an hour."

"Let me see what you have done," she said; and she left the dais and went up to the easel. As she looked, a smile—a smile of satisfaction—beamed in her commonplace face.

"Oh, it's very good—very good," she said; "but—but isn't it rather—er—flattering?"

"Very," said Senley Tyers, without looking up from his palette.

Her grace started and flushed angrily.

"I—I don't wish it to be flattering," she said. "I don't like to be laughed at any better than you do, Mr. Tyers."

"I beg your pardon," he said; "I can soon alter it."

He took up his brush, and with a few strokes made the face more truthful, and, necessarily, plainer and older.

"How is that?" he asked.

Her grace stood, red and uncomfortable, her eyes fixed upon the now too candid portrait.

"You—you are spoiling it," she said, angrily, disappointedly.

"Exactly," he said. "Let me beg of you to go back to your place, and leave me to paint my picture, your grace."

"I—I will not sit again to-day," she said, beckoning to her maid. "I will come again to-morrow."

"Not to-morrow; I am engaged, my grace," he said, respectfully but firmly.

"When then?" she demanded, haughtily.

He consulted an ivory tablet.

"This day three months, if you please, duchess," he said, in exactly the same tone.

Her grace stared at him, grew redder and redder, opened her lips, as if to crush him with a haughty rejoinder, then marched to her place, and resumed her seat without a word.

A faint smile played about Senley Tyers' thin lips as he painted out the cruelly candid lines and blotches he had put in, and he worked on until the clock chimed the hour. Then he laid down his brush and stood motionless, like a machine that had run down.

The Duchess of Mudshire rose. The maid put on her bonnet and cloak, and her grace swept to the door. Senley Tyers glided to it and opened it.

"Good-morning, your grace," he said, in his soft, listless voice. "This day week at the same hour."

Her grace pursed her lips. She longed to say something insolent, but—well, she wanted her portrait in the Academy very, very badly, and smothering her wrath, she bowed and departed.

Senley Tyers dropped into a chair beside the fire.

"That is the way to treat them, Tiger," he murmured to the cat, which leaped softly on his knee and rubbed her head against his breast. "That is the way, and the only way. Spurn them, or they will spurn you; eh, my sweet puss? It is good for them and good for you. You and I know that, don't we? The fools! There are half a dozen men who can paint lying portraits as well, and better, than we can, but these aristocrats—idiots!—believe in us, Tiger, because we are rude to them and pretend that we don't care whether they come to us or not. One would think this morning's comedy would ruin us; but you and I know that it won't, eh? We know that the maid—yes, and the duchess herself—will go up and down Vanity Fair telling everybody how insufferably rude that ill-bred nobody, that painter, Senley Tyers, has been to her, and warning all her friends by all means to avoid him. And the result? The friends will say, 'He must be great and clever, he must be a genius, or he would not dare to treat the dear duchess so cavalierly,' and they will flock to us all the more eagerly. What a world it is, eh, Tiger? You and I know it—know it

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

ROYAL SCALP FOOD.

Price $1.00
6 Bottles, $5.00 Exp. Pd.

CURES BALDNESS,
STOPS FALLING HAIR,
CURES DANDRUFF,
RESTORES FADED AND GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR AND VITALITY.
PERFECTLY HARMLESS.
WARRANTED.
CLEAR AS WATER.
NO SEDIMENT. NO LEAD, SULPHUR OR CHEMICALS.

ONE HONEST MAN AND BUT ONE RELIABLE

HAIR FOOD.

NO DYE.

We feed the Hair that which it lacks and nature restores the color.

THEORY.

ROYAL SCALP FOOD destroys the diseased germs of the scalp and a healthy action is set up. It contains the principal properties of the hair that are necessary to its life without which it will not grow. It fertilizes the scalp the same as you do a field of corn and growth is certain. It invigorates the sluggish scalp, cleanses it and thoroughly eradicates all dandruff, which is the forerunner of baldness.

It is the ONLY remedy ever discovered that will restore the Life, Beauty and Natural Color to the hair without harm. MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY FILLED.

SEND FOR FREE PAMPHLETS.
STATE AND LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

ROYAL SCALP FOOD CO.
Box 305, WINDSOR, ONT.

THE PERSON

that wants a good match and that an artist."

"I see. I suppose you want me to apologize for keeping you waiting," she said, good-humoredly.

"Oh, no," he murmured, softly, in an indescribable tone of contempt; "I should be the last to tempt your grace to insincerity."

"Really—!" she began, then broke off, as he lifted the canvas he had been painting from the easel. "What is that picture ?"

"A portrait," he said, setting it down carefully, with its face to the wall.

"Will you let me see it ?" she asked.

"Pardon," he murmured. "I never show an unfinished portrait to any other person than the original."

Her Grace of Mudshire colored again, and opened her lips, but checked herself, and laughed.

"I think you are more than ordinarily rude this morning, Mr. Tyers," she said.

Senley Tyers bowed, and placed her canvas on the easel.

"My rudeness will not carry me to the extent of contradicting your grace," he said. "Please do not frown," he added, as he took up his palette and brush. "I have succeeded, I think, in giving a pleasant expression to the face, but if I am to keep it, I must ask you to help me."

Her grace tapped her foot angrily.

"Really, Mr. Tyers," she said, with a laugh, "you are rather unreasonable. You do your best to put your sitters in a bad humor, and then blame them for showing it."

He smiled faintly, but made no response, and waited, brush in hand.

The great lady smoothed her ruffled feathers and dispelled the frown. She was a good-natured, simple-minded person, and she was very anxious to have her portrait painted by the artist who was rapidly becoming famous and fashionable.

Senley Tyers glanced at her, as if to ascertain whether the ill-humored expression had vanished, then with a skilful touch or two arranged the folds of her dress and put her in the proper pose, and went on with his painting.

Once or twice he paused, went slowly to the end of the room, lighted a cigarette at the lamp, and then resumed his painting.

He did not ask her permission to smoke, not did he ask her if she was tired; he acted, indeed, as if he were painting from a plaster cast.

Her grace was not fond of silence, and after a time she addressed a remark or two to him.

"I suppose you have a great many portraits to paint, Mr. Tyers ?"

"More than I can execute."

"Yes ? That was the reason why you refused to paint Lady Landley's portrait ?"

"Not at all. Lady Landley insisted upon being painted in a crimson dress, which would have covered us both with ridicule; so I sent her to a brother artist who does not mind being laughed at—who can afford it, I should say."

Her grave laughed and thought this over, and the maid stored up the little anecdote, that she might repeat it in the servants' hall, for Senley Tyers had spoken with intentional distinctness.

"Really, you are very independent. You are not afraid of losing your patrons, Mr. Tyers ?"

"No," he replied, slowly, and intent upon his work. "Six months ago I was penniless and starving. I am too familiar with hunger to be afraid of it, your grace."

"Dear me ! I didn't know. And now, I suppose, you are quite rich !" she said, with that ineffable insolence which the great seem to consider one of their privileges.

"Rich enough to do as I please; no man on earth can be richer," he said, coolly as before.

Her grace nodded.

"Will you come to a little 'At Home' of mine on Thursday next, Mr. Tyers ?" she said.

"No, I thank your grace," was the slow, languid response.

The duchess bit her lip. She was not accustomed to meet with refusals, especially from persons of Senley Tyers' class.

"I am sorry you are engaged," she said. "You would meet some nice people, I think."

"I am not engaged," he said. "I shall make fools of it—fools of it; all—all but one !" He raised his head as he spoke, and a touch of absolute pain came into his eyes and across his lips. "All but one, and if we do not take care, Tiger, she will make fools of us."

He sprang up—his quick ears (and they were as sharp as the cat's) had caught the sound of footsteps—went quickly to the cabinet, and taking a small vial from a shelf, poured out a few drops of a clear liquid into a glass, and drank it.

A moment afterward the page knocked and announced:

"Lady Florence Hathcote."

A woman, lovely as a vision, stood in the door-way. She was tall, fair as a lily in complexion, with auburn hair, which in places glistened like red gold. Her eyes were violet, her lips as perfect as lips could be.

Tall, graceful, lovely as the Venus which glowed whitely in marble opposite her, there was only one flaw, one speck on her perfection. In form and feature shone forth a pride which even Satan might have envied.

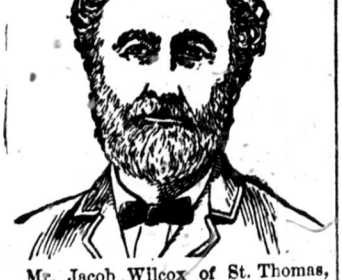
Her calm, serene eyes played for a moment on Senley Tyers, then swept the room, then came back and rested on him, and her lips parted.

It was only the commonplace "Good-morning" that she uttered in clear and low yet bell-like tones; but if it had been "Kneel, slave !" Senley Tyers could not have bowed his head more humbly.

He had tried to retain his erect attitude, to keep the languid, listless sang-froid which had so angered the Duchess of Mudshire, but they melted away like last winter's snow before the glance of those violet eyes, the clear ring of the imperious voice.

With tightly compressed lips and quickly beating heart he stood silent with bent head, a slave who hated and loathed his slavery, but a slave still.

Edwin—What do you think I have in this locket, dearest ? The postage stamp on your last letter. It has been touched by your lips, it often touches mine. Angelina—Oh, Edwin, I'm so very sorry, I moistioned that horrid postage stamp on Fido's dear, damp nose.—The Waterbury.



Mr. Jacob Wilcox of St. Thomas, Ontario, is one of the best known men in that vicinity. He is now, he says, an old man, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has made him feel young again.

"About a year ago I had a very severe attack of the grip, which resulted in my not having a well day for several months afterwards. I was completely run down and my system was in a Terrible Condition.

I lost flesh and became depressed in spirits. Finally a friend who had been benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla advised me to try it and I did so. I continued taking it until I used twelve bottles and today I can honestly say Hood's Sarsaparilla has restored me to my former health." JACOB WILCOX, St. Thomas, Ontario.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Only

True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye today. It cures when all other preparations fail.

Hood's Pills the after-dinner pill and family cathartic. 25c.

that this brand is synonomous with everything desirable in fire-producing lucifers.

E. B. EDDY'S MATCAES.

Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company

GENERAL PASSENGER TIME TABLE,

Eastern Standard Time. No. 9. Taking effect October 8th, 1893

Tweed and Tamworth to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2 A.M.	No.4 P.M.	No.6 P.M.
Lve	Tweed	0	7 00	....	3 00
	Stoco	3	7 08	....	3 10
	Larkins	7	7 20	....	3 25
	Marlbank	13	7 35	....	3 40
	Erinsville	17	7 50	....	3 55
	Tamworth	20	8 00	2 00	4 10
	Wilson*	24	....	....	....
	Enterprise	26	8 18	2 20	4 30
	Mudlake Bridge*	28	....	....	....
	Moscow	31	8 30	2 35	4 43
	Galbraith*	33	....	....	....
rr	Yarker	35	8 43	2 50	4 55
Lve	Yarker	35	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	39	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills	40	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	41	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	43	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	49	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee	49	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	54	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	58	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Tamworth and Tweed.

	Stations.	Miles	No.1 A.M.	No.3. P.M.	No.5 P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	9 00	12 45	5 05
	Galbraith*	25	....	....	....
	Moscow	27	9 15	1 00	5 22
	Mudlake Bridge*	30	....	....	....
	Enterprise	32	9 30	1 15	5 35
	Wilson*	34	....	....	....
	Tamworth	38	9 50	1 35	5 35
	Erinsville	41	10 00	....	6 05
	Marlbank	45	10 15	....	6 18
	Larkins	51	10 30	....	6 35
	Stoco	55	10 50	....	6 50
Arr	Tweed	58	11 00	....	7 00

Kingston and Sydenham to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2. A.M.	No.4. P.M.	No.6. P.M.
Lve	Kingston	0	6 45	....	3 30
	G. T. R. Junction	2	6 55	....	3 40
	Glenvale*	10	7 17	....	....
	Murvale*		7 27	....	4 18
Arr	Harrowsmith	19	7 40	....	4 30
Lve	Sydenham	23	8 00	....	....
	Harrowsmith	19	8 20	....	4 30
	Frontenac*	22	8 32	....	4 42
Arr	Yarker	26	8 40	....	4 60
Lve	Yarker	26	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	30	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	31	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	32	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	34	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	40	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee, West End	40	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	45	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	49	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Sydenham and Kingston.

	Stations.	Miles.	No.1 A.M.	No.3. P.M.	No.5. P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburg	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 15
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 29
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 35
	Sydenham	34	....	....	5 50
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Murvale*	35	9 17	....	....
	Glenvale*	39	....	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 50	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

R. C. CARTER, Asst. Gen. Manager — G. A. BROWNE, Gen. Pass. Agent — H. B. SHERWOOD, Superintendent.

INSIST UPON A

HEINTZMAN CO. PIANO

WHEN you are ready to purchase a Piano for a lifetime, not the makeshift instruments for a few years' use, but the Piano whose sterling qualities will leave absolutely nothing to be desired, then insist upon having a

Heintzman & Co. Piano.

Its pure singing tone is not an artificial quality soon to wear away, leaving harshness in place of brilliancy, dullness in place of sweetness, but an inherent right of the Heintzman. Forty five years of patient endeavor upon this point, non-deterioration with age, has made the Heintzman what it is—the acknowledged standard of durability.

CATALOGUE FREE ON APPLICATION

HEINTZMAN & COMPANY, 117 King st. West, Toronto.

The Napanee Express

$1.

The Weekly Globe.

BEST CLUBBING OFFER EVER MADE.

By paying one dollar in advance these two popular and reliable papers will be sent post free to the subscriber's address. Call at the "Express Office" and secure this bargain

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Look Out

FOR OUR

CLOTHING

THIS SEASON

We Lead the Clothing Trade

☛ We are selling First-Class Clothing at closer prices than ever before.

JAS. WALTERS

CUTTER.

Don't order without giving us a call.

THE ROBINSON CO'Y.

CARLETON WOODS.

Jersey Ice Cream 40c. per quart in pails

No EXPRESS next week

C. P. R. Exhibit.

While at Toronto Exhibition see the Manitoba and North West Exhibit.

Notice.

Messrs. Wilson & Wilson beg leave to announce to the public that they will be ready to buy and receive apples at their Evaporator, Napanee, on or after August 31st. WILSON & WILSON. 39bp

Taking Advantage.

Crowds of eager sharp cash buyers are taking advantage of Downey's great Leaving Sale of footwear. Nothing like it ever known in Napanee. An opportunity to buy good reliable Boots and Shoes at prices never heard of before. 40a

40 Young People.

The singing in the Western church will be conducted on Sunday evening next by forty young people out of the Sunday School. Mr. Crossley, the pastor, has been training them for two weeks and a delightful service of song will be the result.

Below Cost.

As I have taken the agency for the Sturges Steel Churns I will sell below cost the Daisy, Dandy, Perfection and Cradle Churns, I have in stock. Secure a bargain while you can.

MILES S. PLUMLEY. 38b.

Fine Apples.

There has been on exhibition in the window of the EXPRESS Book Store for the past few days three remarkably large and fine looking apples. They were grown on the 3rd con. of Richmond, lot 14, and are the product of the orchard of Mr. Ibri Sills, who kindly presented them to the EXPRESS. They are of the fall pippin variety and have come in for a great deal of admiration since they were placed in the window.

Kindergarten.

The Kindergarten school opened on Tuesday, much to the delight of the children, parents and guardians. The following efficient staff of teachers are in charge: Miss Hypatia Fox, director; Miss Georgia Daly, Miss Maggie Coxall and Miss Minnie Grange. Starting next Monday a 'bus will call at the houses in town and take the children to and from the school at the nominal rate of 50 cents per month. Every Saturday the 'bus will give the children of subscribers a free ride; non-subscribers will be charged 5 cents.

Bee-Keepers Association.

A joint meeting of the North American Bee-Keepers Association and the Ontario Bee-Keepers Association commences in the Auditorium of the Normal School, Toronto, on Wednesday, 4th Sept. The Convention will last 3 or 4 days and the leading Apiarists of North America are expected to be present and take part. While the programme is not yet complete the list of prominent speakers who have already signified their intention of being present shows that the meeting will be a very interesting one. Mr. Allen Pringle, of Selby, will speak on the "Mistakes of Bee Keepers and Bee-Journals.

A New Departure in Amusements.

A rich treat is in store for the people of Napanee on September 12th when the celebrated Miss Evelyn Heine, prima donna soprano, Madame Ada Heine, the noted solo pianiste and Captain Rider will give one of their enjoyable entertainments entitled choice cullings from bouquets of music, song and travel, in the Opera House. The entertainment will commence with a grand miscellaneous concert, and will conclude with a Tour Round the World in 40 minutes. The picturesque scenes thrown on to a screen twenty feet in diameter are new to the public, most of them having been taken only last season. They will be illuminated by the new, largest, and most powerful Oxyhydrogen light travelling. In brilliancy equal to 1500 candles. Cleverly written facts describing the various places of interest, will be delivered by Captain J A. Rider, the favorite artist, who has toured the globe and made his discourse from personal observation.

Islander Takes Second.

The following is the summary of the Deseronto Horse Races:

NAMED RUN—HALF MILE—$75.

Prince Charlie, A. J. Stewart, Erinsville	2 1 1
King William, S. Madden, Napanee	1 dr.
Glorall, J. D. Petrie, Kingston	3 3 2

Stoves! Stoves!! Stoves!!!

See our large No 9 Cook Stove for $11.00.

T. H. WALLER.

You should see these lamps at Boyle & Son.

Mr. S. P. Hinch has purchased the new brick house on Thomas street, from Mrs. Clapp.

The engagement is announced of Miss Drinkwater, daughter of the secretary of the C. P. R. Co., and Mr. H. P. Timmerman, divisional superintendent, St. John, N. B. Mr. Timmerman is a son of the veteran postmaster at Odessa.

A Relic of Humanity.

Mr. A. Barnes of the Kingston electric street railway, while digging post holes in front of the old car-sheds on Tuesday, came upon a human shin-bone at a depth of five feet. From its appearance, the relic must have been buried for very many years.

Grain Wanted.

I want 30,000 bushels of Barley, 20,000 bushels of Peas, 10,000 bushels of Rye, and a few Oats for which I will pay the highest prices. I will also pay the highest price for Timothy and Clover seed delivered here. Bring samples and get my prices before selling.

40tf F. E. VANLUVEN.

See to it.

Give your full attention, never allowing your eyes to suffer neglect. Remember you can have them examined free of charge by H.E. Smith at Smith & Bros., Napanee, the only optican in this county. He has met with unparalelled success and can show numerous testimonials. Always look to the qualifications of those in whose hands you place yourself, as your eyes are most precious. You can procure artificial teeth or limbs but an artificial eye is useless. Remember the old firm.

F. W. Smith & Bros., Napanee.

The Ontario Game Laws.

A pamphlet containing the Ontario game laws for 1895 has been issued. The close season for deer is from Nov. 15th to Nov. 1st, 1896, and no moose, elk, cariboo or reindeer shall be hunted before October 25th, 1900. Hounds found running deer in close season may be killed by any person on sight. Not more than two deer shall be taken in one season by one person. Wild turkeys cannot be killed before Oct. 15th, 1897, nor can prairie fowl or English or Mongolian pheasants before Sept. 15th, 1897. Snipe, woodcock or partridge must not be sold, exposed for sale or given away before Sept. 15th, 1897.

Sad Fatal Accident.

On Wednesday of last week William Gibson, Will J. Detlor, and W. W. O'Flynn, started out to have a few days hunting and fishing at Gull lake, back of Arden. On Friday morning as the boys were starting out on Gull lake, Gibson got into the boat ahead of the other two with a gun in his hand. In stepping into the boat it moved, causing him to stagger and strike the hammer of the gun against the boat, when it exploded. The charge entered just above the left ear, tearing a channel along the side of the head, causing instant unconsciousness, and death soon after. Words cannot describe the dismay and sorrow of Gibson's companions. The accident happened at eight o'clock, and the boys had to row five miles and then take a conveyance fourteen miles to Clarendon to get railway connections. The remains reached Napanee on the six o'clock train. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson were at Belleville when the sad news reached them, and they returned as soon as possible to Napanee. William Gibson was the eldest son of Mr. Stephen Gibson, Registrar of Lennox and Addington, and a nephew of Mr. R. C. Clute, Q.C., of Toronto, and was a general favorite with his companions, and well liked all over town. He was about twenty years of age, and was an especially promising young man. Last year he attended Victoria University, and intended taking a course in the Practical Science School. The funeral, which took place on Sunday last to the Napanee Cemetery, was very largely attended.

Church of England Notes.

Church of S. Mary Magdalene.

Sunday next, XIII after Trinity, Sept. 8th, services in the church of S. Mary Mag-

JOHN POLLARD,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Express Office, Napanee.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, SEP. 6, 1895

All local reading notices or notices announcing entertainments at which a fee is charged for admission, will be charged 5c per line for each insertion, if in ordinary type. In black type the price will be 10c per line each insertion.

Cakes always fresh and in great variety at Davis'.

W. Mann and family have removed to Kingston.

Fresh meat always on hand at Lawson's Telephone 31.

Russet Floridas or Bright, at Davis, sweet, 25 to 40 cents.

A movement is on foot to establish a Deseronto board of trade.

The Western church ran a well attended excursion to Twelve O'clock Point, per Steamer Merritt, on Wednesday.

The Kingston council R. T. of T. is going to invite Napanee council to spend a social evening with them on Sept. 26th.

In your blood is the cause of that tired languid feeling. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes rich, red blood and gives renewed vigor.

Rev. D. C. Sanderson, of Centenary Methodist Church, Montreal, has been appointed grand chaplain of the I. O. O. F. of the grand lodge of Quebec.

A female 'drummer' for an American wholesale grocery firm is on the road, and is said to be taking orders "right" and "left" with her fascinating ways.

Experience has proved it. A triumph in medicine was atained when experience proved that Scott's Emulsion would not only stop the progress of Pulmonary Consumption, but by its continued use, health vigor could be fully restored.

Wheat is down and so is Keewatin Flour. You better get Kimmerly's prices for Flour before buying. Our 25 cent Tea beats the world and don't you forget it. 22 lbs. best granulated sugar for $1 cash, 10 Bars Soap for 25c. Finest Pearl Topioca 5c, per lb, 4 lbs. Crackers 25c.

Some surprising effects have been recorded from the use of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in the most desprate cases of consumption. Miller's Emulsion is "the kind that cures" colds, coughs, bronchitis and lung diseases generally. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1 00, at druggist.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

the other day aged ninety-four years and six months. She has been a resident of Belleville for fifty years.

The funeral car charged in the bill at $1,500 in connection with Sir John Thompson's funeral, has been bought back by the contractor for $21.

Mr. W. G. Murray, one of the oldest and best-known G. T. R. conductors between Belleville and Brockville, was married on Tuesday to Miss Weston, of Lansdowne.

Our merchants in Napanee who sell Madden's paints report that their sales for paint have never been so large, and the general verdict is that Madden's paint is the best.

At Ogdensburg this week when the water was let out of one of the canals there a monster eel was found. It was 3 feet 8 inches in length measured 10½ inches around and weighed 7 pounds.

Warden Massey, of the Central prison, Toronto, states that there has been 100 per cent. more young men sent to that institution during the past year than any year before. The cause, he says, has been the depression in trade.

The work of erecting the trunk line for the Bell telephone company between Toronto and Montreal is progressing rapidly. It is within a few miles of completion between Toronto and Belleville, and is finished between Kingston and Mallorytown.

Rev. T. Snowdon, met with a painful accident on Sunday, Sept. 1st. His horse got its foot over the halter shank, and while Mr. Snowdon was trying to get its foot over the horse stepped upon his wrist hurting it severely, fortunately no bones were broken.

The Scarlet foot ball club will play a match with the Glenora foot ball team to day, Friday, on the new foot ball grounds across the river. This gives promise of being an exciting match, as the last game resulted in a draw, and both teams are confident of victory.

EveryWhere We Go We find some one who has been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and people on all hands are praising this great medicine for what it has done for them and their friends. Taken in time Hood's Sarsaparilla prevents serious illness by keeping the blood pure and all the organs in a healthy condition. It is the great blood purifier.

Hood's Pills become the favorite cathartic with every one who tries them. 25c, per box.

DAFOE & PAUL,
Undertakers
EVERYTHING NEW AND FIRST-CLASS.

Manly Hats for Manly Men.

HATS OF STYLISH COMFORT

Three dollars worth of style—three dollars worth of ease—more in one hat than you get in two Hats.

New Fall Shapes
$1.00, $1.50, $2.50.

Radford & Son

THE OUTFITTERS.

2:50 CLASS—$125.

Furioso, A. Phillip, Colborne	1	1	1
Nellie P., T. A. Stewart, Deseronto	2	4	2
Island Maid, E. J. Kenny, Picton	4	2	3
Advancer, A. A. Hudgins, Picton	3	3	4

Time: 2:34½; 2:35; 2:23½.

2:20 CLASS—$200.

Beethoven, N. Hudgins, Picton	2	2	1	1	1
Islander, H. G. Milling, Napanee	1	1	2	2	3
Madoc Boy, W. C. Simmons, Madoc	3	3	3	3	2

Time: 2:23¾; 2:24½; 2:22; 2:20½; 2:31.

NAMED TROT OR PACE—HALF MILE—$75

J. H. B., J. Brown, Napanee	1	2	1
Island Belle, C. Hawley, Hawley	5	2	1
Geneva, A. A. Hudgins, Picton	1	1	2
Mack Allen, Ed, Kaylor, Morven	3	4	2
Blue Berry, E. J. Healy, Picton	4	5	5

Time: 1:17½; 1:16½; 1:17½; 1:17¾.

Destroyed by Fire.

While Mr. Thos. G. McWain was threshing on the farm of Mr. Craig Carscallen, Fredericksburgh, on Saturday last, fire broke out in the barn and so quickly did the flames spread that the men had barely time to escape from the building before it was one mass of fire. One of the threshers lost his vest, which contained a valuable watch. The contents were entirely consumed, including the threshing outfit, which was an entirely new one which Mr. McWain purchased this year. Mr. John McConkey, the tenant, had a small insurance on the contents, but there was no insurance on the barn. Mr. McWain, with commendable pluck has ordered a new thresher from Hamilton and expects to be at work again in a few days. The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark from the smokestack.

On Saturday afternoon the residence of Robt. Burley, six miles west of Odessa, known as Burley Place, was burned to the ground. The fire caught from the chimney in the summer house. All the members of the family were absent except Mrs. Burley, who discovered the fire in time to save only a few things from the flames. The piano and some bedding were all that was saved. The woodhouse was also burned containing a large spring wagon. A pig pen adjoining the woodhouse was burned and three large fat hogs consumed. The fire took place about one o'clock in the afternoon. Insurance on house and contents $1,200.

Special Prizes.

The following special prizes contributed by the merchants named below will be awarded at the Lennox Fall Show to be held at Napanee on Sept. 24th and 25th:

W. T. Gibbard, Five-o'clock Tea Table, value $4, for best collection Cut Flowers.

W.T.Gibbard, one Desk, value $5, for best three specimens Crayon or Lead Pencil Drawing by boy or girl under 15 years of age.

F. Chinneck, Silver Berry Dish, value $6, for painting on China, not competing for Society prize.

L. C. Gladd & Co., Copenhagen, $8 cash, for best Colored Cheese, made with Gladd's Rennet Extract and Gladd's Annatto.

L. C. Gladd & Co., Copenhagen, $5 cash, for best Cheese, white, made with Gladd's Rennet Extract, the above cheese to be made during the month of August, 1895. Parties competing for either of these prizes will have to give satisfactory proof that the cheese was made from Gladd's preparations.

R. Rook, Silver Mounted Dog Harness, for fastest dog in harness, once around the ring, best 2 in 3.

F. W. Hart, Piano Stool, value $5, for best piano scarf, hand-worked.

James Perry, one All-wool Horse Blanket manufactured by the Napanee Woolen Mills, for the best roadster or carriage colt under two years old.

W. Mowat, Cheapside, one Hat or Bonnet, for best 30 lbs. crock or winter butter, packed by farmer's wife, with privilege to buy, if wanted.

Miles S. Plumley, Washing Machine, for latest married lady attending the fair on the evening of the first day, to be married in 1895, certificate to be shown to the Secretary.

Lahey & McKenty, handsome Floor Rug value $5, for 6 lbs. Fresh Butter in prints, made by farmer's wife or daughter.

M. S. Madole, Eclipse Crosscut saw, 5½ feet, for fastest walking team in harness, once around the ring.

P. E. R. Miller, $1, for one dozen largest hen's eggs.

Boyle & Son, Carving Knife and Fork, value $3, for best pair of dressed ducks, to become the property of the donor.

There will be a baby show on the evening of the 24th at which the following prizes will be awarded:

J. S. Hulett, Life size Crayon Portrait, value $15, for handsomest baby girl, one year old or under. Lady Judges. Prize awarded on evening of 24th.

Printers' Prize—Best Baby Boy—1st $5, 2nd $3, 3rd $2.

m.; Sunday School and Bible classes 3 p. m.; Evensong 7 p.m. The church will be decorated with offerings of flowers from the Napanee Horticultural Society.—Special meeting of the guild on Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 10th, in the guild room.

Parish of Camden.

Services Sunday next: St. Luke's, Camden East, 11 o'clock, no confirmation class; Holy Trinity, Yarker, Morning Prayer and Holy Communion 10.30 a. m.; St. John's, Newburgh, 3 o'clock; Centreville 3 o'clock; St. Jude's, Napanee Mills, 7.30.

Parish of Bath.

On Tuesday evening next, 10th Sept., in the town hall, there will be given a free lecture by the Rev. H. E. Benoit, of Montreal, on "The Early Christian Church, and its relation to the Papal power." Chair to be taken at eight o'clock sharp.

On Wednesday next, 11th Sept., Mr. Reeve, of the Cambridge Division School, Boston, will deliver an address in St. John's church, at the 7 p.m. service.

On Friday evening next, 13th Sept., at half past seven, a parish meeting will take place in the Parish Hall to make arrangements for the holding of the annual harvest festival. A full attendance is requested.

On Sunday evening, 8th September, at 5 o'clock, the rector will address as many of the candidates for Confirmation as will meet him in the church. Candidates of all ages will please attend. At the evening service, 7.30, he will (D.V.) repeat, according to request, his centennial sermon.

Vestry Meeting.

A special vestry meeting was held in St. Alban's church hall, Adolphustown, on Monday Sept. 1st. for the purpose of filling the vacancies caused by the death of Capt. Chalmers, Church Warden and Lay Delegate. Frank Chalmers, reeve, was with the hearty approval of all present appointed by the rector to succeed his lamented father as Clergyman's Church Warden. Alfred Taverner was elected Lay Delegate to the Synod by the cordial vote of the vestry. Thomas Gibbs was elected Vestry Clerk in the room of Frank Chalmers, resigned.

The preamble and resolutions moved by Church Warden S. M. Outwater, and seconded by Thomas Gibbs, were carried by a standing vote of the vestry with evident signs of deep feeling.

That whereas it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst by the hand of death, Capt. James Chalmers, an old member of this church, Churchwarden for 23 years and Synods-man, and our hearts have been deeply moved thereby; therefore resolved, 1 That in his death we have lost an efficient officer of this church and faithful churchman, a man of true and honest purpose, of kind heart, of sound judgment and an earnest christian.

Resolved, 2 That we tender to the widow and family of the deceased our unaffected sympathy and condolence in this their most affecting bereavement.

Resolved, 3 That a Copy of these resolution be communicated to the family of the deceased, and that they be published in the Napanee newspapers.

Good Fitting, Trimmings and Sewing
is what you get when you order your Clothing from
ED. HUFF,
Carson Block. Tailor.
WORK GUARANTEED.
Cash and One Price Only. 51tf

To START THE FALL SEASON

The Big Store

LEADS OFF WITH THE FOLLOWING

PRICE LIST

HERE'S A STARTLER!

550 Yards White Check Muslin
Price 10c. and 12½c. Now, 5c.

Wholesale Prices were double that.

COLOURED SILKS, prices 60c. to $1. All at 25c.

Plain and Shot Surahs, in short lengths, all shades

SEPT. 5TH.—We add this week, odd sizes, small and large, in Ladies' Mantles.

LADIES' TWEED ULSTERS
were $5, now $1.50
" " were 9.00 now 4.50
" Black Serge Coats, were 6.00 now 2.00

COLORED DRESS GOODS
price 19c. New Price, 14c.
" " 20 " 16c.
" " 25 " 20c.
PLAID " 25 " 15c.

" Black Serge Coats, were 6.00 now 2.00
" " Worsted " were 9.00 now 2.00
" Tweed Coats, were 3.50 now 2.00
" " " were 4.00 now 2.25
" " " were 5.25 now 2.75
" Brown Serge Coats, were 7.50 now 4.00
" " Beaver " were 10.00 now 5.00
" Black Capes, Silk Brocade
were 13.00 now 6.50
" " " " " 12.00 now 6.00
" Black Capes, Heavy Silk,
were 10.00 now 5.00
" " Serge Capes, were 7.00 now 4.00

AND A GLOVE BARGAIN

SILK GLOVES, about 20 dozen,
Balance of our Summer Stock, black and colors.
Gloves and Mitts, were 25c. to 50c. now 10c.

DUCK SUITS, price $2.25

Price now, $1.00
White only. Skirt and Blazer.

PATTERN DRESSES,

price, $4.50. Price now, 3.75

PATTERN DRESSES,

price, $5.00. Price now, 4.00

PATTERN DRESSES,

price, $6.50. Price now, 5.19

PATTERN DRESSES,

price $7. Price now, 5.60

PATTERN DRESSES,

price, $7.50. Price now, 5.90

PATTERN DRESSES,

price, $8. Price now, 6.70

PATTERN DRESSES,

price, $10.50. Price now, 8.39

12 PIECES COLOURED DRESS GOODS, price 50c.

Price now, 25c.
All-Wool, 46 inch, Fancy Weaves and Cashmeres.
☛ We defy you to beat them at 50c.

MEN'S TWEED PANTS

One color only,
Strong Solid Tweed, worth $1.50 now 89c.

Men's Dark Frieze Pants, an extra good quality, regular price $2.00, now 1.25

PLAID " 25 " 15c.
COLORED " 29 " 24c.
" " 35 " 29c.
" " 37 " 30c.
" " 39 " 33c.
" " 40 " 33c.
" " 48 " 39c.
" " 49 " 42c.
" " 50 " 43c.
" " 65 " 49c.
" " 68 " 60c.
" " 70 " 59c.
" " 75 " 62c.
" " 79 " 63c.
" " 90 " 72c.
" " 1.00 " 83c.
" " 85 " 50c.

BLACK DRESS GOODS

price $1.25. New Price, $1.00
" " 1.00 " 83c.
" " 90 " 72c.
" " 85 " 66c.
" " 85 " 66c.
" " 75 " 62c.
" " 72 " 61c.
" " 50 " 43c.
" " 49 " 42c.
" " 25 " 20c.

8 Pieces Printed Flannels,

price 50c. and 60c. Price now, 25c.
French and German goods. Fast Colours.

Dress Trimmings

price 15c. and 20c. Price now, 5c.
Silk Gimps, in all shades and various patterns.

Trimming Braids

price 10c. and 12½c. Price now, 2c.
1 to 3 inches wide. Full range of colours.

Fancy Wool Trimmings

price 12½c. Now, 1c.
Only a few shades, therefore only ONE CENT.

LAHEY & McKENTY

Sole Agents for "Health Brand" Underwear.

THE NAPAN

Vol. XXXIV] No 42—JNO. POLLARD, Editor and Publisher. NAPANEE, ONT.

BEFORE STOCK-TAKING

Having gone through my stock of

Crockery, China and Glassware

and finding it much too large for this season of the year I have decided to put the whole stock on the market

For the Next 60 Days.

at a large discount, or in other words, sharing up my profits with my customers, and in Dinner and Tea Sets, of which I have a fine assortment, I will give a special discount in order to clear them out to make room for New Goods arriving in the early part of April.

W. Coxall

Timothy Seed...

We have secured a supply of the cleanest Seeds from the largest growers in the Counties. We are sure we can recommend this seed.

We carry in stock at all times a full line of our Famous Flour, and the fact that we have an increasing demand for them bespeaks their excellence and popularity. The prices are always right, and the quality too.

We have a full line of grain, all kinds of Cracked Grain, Bran, and Shorts.

When you want Salt for the table, for butter or cheese making, or for salting your pork, remember that the "Windsor" brand is the purest and the best, and while it is the cheapest it is also the saltiest.

Try one of our little Cheese. They weigh about 8lbs. each. A nice size for the family.

Rolled Oats, Rolled Wheat, and Oatmeal

Best 25 Cent TEA in Town.

The Rathbun Co'y

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

Hats, Caps and Gloves just Received

In Hats and Caps, the finest, latest, cheapest and best assorted stock in town.

Mitts and Gloves from 15c upwards. We can give you any kind of Mitts and Gloves at the lowest possible prices.

You can save 25 per cent. by buying your Clothing, Men's Furnishings, Hats and Caps from us.

A. M. VINEBERG,

The Wonderful Cheap Clothier, Dundas st., Henry Block, Napanee

HAIR GOODS.....

You are cordially i

Grand Display of New

at THE RO

—ON

Tuesday and Wednesd

AND FOLLOV

SCHEDULE OF SUMM

Returned to the Clerk of the Peace for the County of Lennox an

Name of Prosecutor.	Name of Defendant.	Nature of Charge.	Date of Conviction.	Na Convict
Ebenezer Perry	John Burnip	Drunk and disorderly	Feb 16 '94	Jas. Daly
W. Huff	Albert Post	Inf. Game Law	May 27 '95	do
W A Rose	John Carr	Inf. Liquor License Act	June 24	do
Henry Cyple	Robt Rennie	For Wages	do	do
Jeremiah Storms	Robert Grass	Drunk and Disorderly	July 3	do
do	James Murphy	Vagrancy	" 13	do
do	John Hearns	Drunk and Disorderly	" 19	do
do	John Burnip	do	" 22	do
Ebenezer Perry	Dennis Murphy	do	" 29	do
Jeremiah Storms	Chas Williamson	do	" 29	do
G D Anderson	Mrs John Jerome	Malicious injury to property	" 31	do
W A Rose	W J Stevenson	Inf Liquor License Act	Aug 12	do
Jeremiah Storms	John McCullough	Drunk and Disorderly	" 16	do
do	Charles Pringle	do	" 23	do
do	George Henderson	Vagrancy	Sept 9	do
Geo E Hannah	Geo Hannah sr	Insulting Language	June 17	Jas Aylesw
J. M. Smith	Mrs A Kennedy	Selling liquor during prohibited hrs	" 19	do
do	Wm Dowling	do	" 20	do
John A Fraser	Geo Kennedy	Insulting Language	" 22	do
Mrs Mary Palmer	Arthur Murphy	do	July 13	do
John E Murphy	Wm Hopkins	do	" 31	do
do	do	Assault	do	do
do	do	Damage to private property	do	do
James Anderson	Robt Kirpatrick jr	Killing dog	Aug 2	do
Patrick Hayes	Mrs S W Hannah	Damage to private property	Aug 24	do
John A Freeman	Truman Babcock	Over-driving a horse	July 19	John A. Shit
do	do	Damage to personal property	" 19	do
Lewis Gibbs	Damon Carroll	Assault and Battery	Aug 10	do
S S Guess	Calvin C Lake	Using Blasphemous Language	July 22	do
do	do	Using Indecent Language	" 22	do
Marg't E Emmons	Samuel Cole	Petty Trespass	Aug 9	Anson Storm

Office of the Clerk of the Peace,

County of Lennox and Addington, Napanee. Sept. 18th, A.D. 1895

THE - MERCHANTS - BANK

OF CANADA

Head Office, — Montreal

Capital paid up, $6,000,000

Surplus, $3,000,000

INTEREST AT CURRENT RATES PAID ON DEPOSITS.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

T. E. MERRITT,

Manager, Napanee Branch

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT

A correspondent in Napanee Mills is in receipt of a letter from the mayor of Sault St-Marie stating that one Lawrence Malloy was drowned on the 3rd inst. and advises his relatives if any in this vicinity to look after his property of which he has considerable in that city. Mr. Malloy was formerly a resident of that village and owned property in Camden which he sold and invested the money at the Sault. His relatives or friends may have the mayor's letter by applying to the Statton agent of that village.

The North King will for the balance of the season, call at Picton every Sunday morning and evening, having discontinued her Thousand Island excursions.

Dr. Dyer, of Albert college, Belleville, has been advised by the executors of the late Dr. Gould, of Colborne, that the will provides for a donation to that college of and Gentlemen around Napanee should not miss seeing

Prof. Dorenwend's Fine Hair Goods Styles

WHO WILL BE AT THE

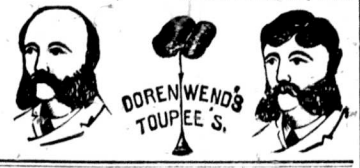
PAISLEY HOUSE, On TUESDAY, OCTOBER 1st with entire new and Fashionable Goods He will have with him new styles in Wigs and Toupees, Bangs, Switches, Frontpieces, etc.,

This will be his last visit this year as he is leaving for British Columbia.



DON'T MISS IT.

DEROCHE & MADDEN,

Barristers,

Attorneys-at-Law, Soliciters in Chancery, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.

Office—Grange block,

Money to Loan at "lower than the lowest" rates
H. M. DEROCHE, Q. C. 5.1v J. H. MADDEN.

HERRINGTON & WARNER,

Barristers, etc.

MONEY TO LOAN AT LOW RATES

Office—Warner Block, East-st, Napanee. 5y

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY.

Barristers, Solicitors, etc.

Solicitors for the Merchant's Bank of Canada, etc., etc.

Dundas Street, Napanee.

G. F. RUTTAN. ARTHUR W. MORPHY.

Private funds to loan at five per cent.

TO RENT FOR A TERM OF YEARS the Hermance Farm, situated on Hay Bay. Apply to CHAS. B. PARKS, Hay Bay, or to the owner, MRS. HERMANCE, Dorland, P. O. 40dp

MUNICIPAL FUNDS FOR INVESTMENT. Sums from $1,000 to $10,000 on farm lands. Interest 5 per cent. Apply to W. G. WILSON, Napanee. 10dj

DENTISTS

C. D. WARTMAN, L.D.S.
C. H. WARTMAN, D.D.S.

Graduates of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduate of Toronto University.

OFFICE—LEONARD BLOCK,

Visits made to Tamworth the first Monday in each month, remaining over Tuesday. Rooms at Wheeler's Hotel.

All other Mondays C. D. Wartman will be in Yarker.

Napanee office open every day.

R. A. LEONARD, M.D., C.P.S.

Physician, Surgeon, etc.

Late House Surgeon of the Kingston General Hospital.

Office—North side of Dundas Street, between West and Robert Streets, Napanee. 5:1v

A. S. ASHLEY,

DENTIST

16 Years in Napanee. 34 Years Experience.

Rooms, Albert Block, Napanee

JAS. AYLESWORTH,

General Business Agent.

POLICE MAGISTRATE for the Provincial Electoral District of Addington.

Conveyancer,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses,
Commissioner, etc., in H.C.J.

Clerk, 7th Division Court, of the County of Lennox & Addington

Grand Trunk Railway Ticket Agent
TAMWORTH.

A. R. DAVIS,

Ontario Land Surveyor and Civil Engineer.

Office with T. G. Davis, Insurance Agent, Coates Block

C. H. FINKLE.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER, Newburgh, Ont. Orders left with Ewart and Vanluven, Yarker, will have prompt attention. Telephone communication.

FOR SERVICE.

THOROUGHBRED GUERNSEY BULL

AT THE

ROYAL HOTEL STABLE

NAPANEE

TERMS, $1.00

STRAY HEIFER.—CAME TO THE premises of J. J. Clarke, lot 9, con. 3, N. Fredericksburgh, some time in August. Owner will please prove property, pay expenses, and take the same away. 42dy

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

In the matter of McAlister & Co., of the Town of Napanee, in the County of Lennox, Clothing etc., Insolvents.

Notice is hereby given that the above named Insolvents have made an assignment to me of all their estate and effects, under R. S. O., Chapter 123, and amending acts thereto. A meeting of the creditors will be held at my office, on at 3 p.m.

Friday, September 20th

for the purpose of appointing Inspectors, and the giving instructions as to the disposal of the estate. Creditors are requested to file their claims with me duly proven by affidavit as required by statute on or before the 28th day of September

after which date I shall proceed to distribe the assets of the estate, having regard only to the claims of which I shall then have received notice.

RICHARD TEW, Assignee,
23 Scott street, Toronto.

Dated September 12th, 1895. 42b

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

In the matter of the estate of Daniel Adams, Burdett late of the Village of Newburgh, in the County of Lennox and Addington, Gentleman, deceased.

Notice is hereby given pursuant to chapter 110, section 36, of the Revised Statutes of Ontario 1887, that all creditors and other persons having claims against or liens upon the estate of Daniel Adams Burdett, late of the Village of Newburgh, in the County of Lennox and Addington, gentleman, deceased, who died on or about the twenty-fifth day of August, 1895, are required to send by post prepaid or to deliver to Messrs. Deroche and Madden, of the Town of Deseronto, in the County of Hastings, Solicitors for Frank David Burdett, Executor of the last will and testament of the said Daniel Adams Burdett, deceased, on or before the 5th day of October, 1895

their names and addresses with description of their claims duly sworn to and the nature of the securities (if any) held by them. And notice is hereby further given that on and after the said date the said Executor will proceed to distribute the assets of the said Daniel Adams Burdett among the parties entitled thereto, regard being had only to the claims of which notice has been given as above required, and the said executor will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof to any person or persons of whose claims notice shall not have been received by the said Executor, duly verified as above, at the time of distribution.

DEROCHE & MADDEN,
Deseronto, Solicitors for the said Executor,
F. D. Burdett.

Dated at Deseronto Sept. 7th, 1895. 42d

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

In the matter of the estate of Jane Adair, late of the Township of Sheffield, in the County of Lennox and Addington, Spinster, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given pursuant to chapter 110 section 36, of the revised statutes of Ontario, 1887, and Amending Acts, that all creditors having claims against the estate of Jane Adair, late of the Township of Sheffield, in the County of Lennox and Addington, Spinster, deceased, who died on or about the fourteenth day of September, A.D., 1894, are required to send by post (prepaid) or to deliver to Messrs. Deroche & Madden, of the Town of Napanee, in the County of Lennox and Addington, solicitors for John Fleming Administrator for the estate of Jane Adair, deceased, on or before the 20th day of October, A.D., 1895.

their names, addresses and descriptions of their claims duly sworn to, and of the securities (if any) by them held and that after the said date the said Administrator will proceed to distribute the assets of the said Jane Adair, deceased, among the parties entitled thereto, regard being had only to the claims of which notice has been given as above required, and the said administrator will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof to any person or persons of whose claims notice shall have not been received, duly verified by the said Administrator at the time of the distribution.

DEROCHE & MADDEN.
Solicitor for the said Administrator.
John Fleming.

Dated at Napanee, Sept. 19th, 1895. 42d

FOR THE COUNTY OF

LENNOX AND ADDINGTON

will meet to audit the public accounts at

THE COURT HOUSE

IN THE

TOWN OF NAPANEE,

ON

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12, '95

at 10 a.m.

All accounts for audit must be delivered to the Clerk of the Peace on or before the 10th of Oct.

G. F. RUTTAN,
Clerk of the Peace.

Napanee, Sept. 17th, 1895.

VOTER'S LIST 1895

Municipality of the Town of Napanee, County of Lennox and Addington.

Notice is hereby given that I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in Section 5 and 6 of the Ontario Voter's List Act, 1889, the copies required by said section to be so transmitted or delivered of the list, made pursuant to said Act, of all persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at elections for members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal elections and that said list was first posted up at my office at Napanee, on the 10th day of Sept., 1895, and remains there for inspection.

Electors are called upon to examine the said lists, and if any omissions or any other errors are found therein, to take immediate proceedings to have the said errors corrected according to law.

JAMES E. HERRING,
Clerk of the Municipality of the Town of Napanee.

Dated this 10th day of Sept. 1895.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Pushing, trustworthy men to represent us in the sale of our Choice Nursery Stock. Specialties controlled by us. Highest Salary or Commission paid weekly. Steady employment the year round. Outfit free; exclusive territory; experience not necessary; big pay assured workers; special inducements to beginners. Write at once for particulars to

ALLEN NURSERY CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

FOR SALE.

The undersigned having decided to retire from the grain trade, offers for sale his well-known grain warehouse lying opposite the Madden Paint Works, in the Town of Napanee. This property has been completely renovated and is in good business order. It has a good grain capacity or can easily be converted into a manufacturing establishment. The above property will be sold cheap for cash or on time, or exchanged for land or town property.

H. WARNER.

Napanee Aug. 27th, 1895.

DISTRICT DOTS.

The Shannonville Fall Fair takes place on Saturday, Sept. 28th.

Mrs. Cole, of Deseronto, mother of Edward and James Cole, died last week.

Rev. W. S. McTavish was inducted into the pastorship of the church of the Redeemer, Deseronto, last week.

Reuben Herrington has leased the Luke Carscallen farm, South Napanee.

Madden's Enamel is the only Stove Pipe Varnish in the market that does not smell, smoke or burn off when applied to hot pipes. It is unequalled for registers, grates, ranges etc. Now is the time to varnish pipes. For sale by all dealers. Madden's floor paints are in great demand, and fall painting is the proper thing.

At a special meeting of the town council held in the Council Chamber on Wednesday evening Mr. Rudd Perry was appointed collector for 1895.

Mrs. C. Bruton and Mrs. E. Wagar captured forty-two black bass one day last week.

The best advertisement. Many thousands of unsolicited letters have reached the manufacturers of Scott's Emulsion from those cured through its use, of Consumption and Scrofulous diseases! None can speak so confidently of its merits as those who have tested it.

Albert Beatty, of Tyendinaga, has been committed to the county jail as a dangerous lunatic.

Dr. Yourex, of Wellington, has purchased the practice of the late Dr. Redner, of Lonsdale.

Overton Ball, of Bath, has sold his grocery and baking business to Fred Valleau, of Sillsville. Mr. Ball moves to Moorhead, Minn.

While trolling in Picton reach, Matt. Kennedy, Kingston, captured a splendid maskinonge, measuring four feet six inches, and weighing 28 lbs.

the scholar who marks highest in the general branches.

W. T. Crandall & Co., have started an evaporator near the Picton station of the C. O. R.

A. E. Banyard has leased the flour mill at Yarker, from J. Richardson & Son of Kingston. It is 100 feet long.

Belleville's Opera House managar asked Heny Irving to play there and offered him $2,500 for a night. Mr. Irving will not play. He asked for a guarantee of $3,000.

Myra Ridley, Port Hope, who was charged with stealing a horse from Gault's livery stable, Deseronto, was tried before Judge Ketchum at Cobourg. She was found guilty but allowed to go on a suspended sentence.

Wells all over the district are running dry.

The Rosebud cheese factory in Tyendinaga was struck by lightning on Wednesday night of last week and consumed, together with 200 cheese and all appliances.

There are now 446 convicts in Kingston penitentiary.

Charles Anderson, a Swede, of Belleville, is said to have deserted his wife and family and left a good situation when asked to pay his rent. The Belleville papers hint that he has left with another woman.

Geo. Dunlop, of Napanee Mills, while hunting in the Bald Mountains, killed a bald headed eagle of gigantic size. The voracious bird of prey after being shot by a rifle bullet and coming to close quarters made a desperate struggle for the mastery and existence, tearing Mr. Dunlop's clothes and lacerating his flesh and scalp before giving up the ghost.

Stoves for use and wear, largest selections newest designs, lowest prices, quality considered at Boyle & Son

A Boom to Horsemen.—One bottle of English Spavin Liniment completely removed a curb from my horse. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or calloused lumps, blood spavin, splints, curbs, sweeny, stifles and sprains. GEORGE ROBB, Farmer, Markham, Ont. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y.

W. F. Gerow, of Napanee, was awarded first prize for colored cheese at the Industrial exhibition, Toronto

W. T. Gibbard showed seventeen birds at the Toronto exhibition.

It is a fact that many good items are lost to newspapers every week by the modesty of the people who fail to tell the editor of the things concerning themselves. The right way to do it is to stop him on the street or any place you may happen to meet him and tell him you have been on a visit, have relatives or friends visiting you, that your wife entertained company—or anything that is in any way a matter of news. We are always on the lookout for news, and would like your help to get it.

We have lost considerable daylight since the days commenced growing shorter, the days were 15 hours long at the beginning of July, they are now but 14. The sun rises after 5 now and each morning remains in bed a full minute longer. He also hastens away from us earlier at night at the rate of a little more than a minute each day. At the close of August he rose at 5.53 and set at 6.36 and the days were 13 hours and 13 minutes long. In other words we lost an hour and 13 minutes daylight during the month of August.

The most palatable preparation of Cod Liver Oil in the world is Miller's Emulsion and is now being taken by invalids with astonishing success. Miller's is "the kind that cures" coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at druggists.

A Brockville man put the bloomer question pretty concisely when he said that "they're all right on some other fellow's girl."

Mrs. Bernard O'Rourke, Deseronto, has been notified by the United States government that she is entitled from August, 1893, to a pension for the rest of her life, of $8 a month. Her husband who died 19 years ago in Belleville, served three years in Battery E, 4th regiment, United States artillery.

A pleasant event was solemnized at the residence of Mr. Charles Purvis, Bridge street, on the 11th inst. when his daughter, Miss Rilla Maud, was united in wedlock to Mr. Delbert Cassiday, of Yarker. The Rev. Mr. Clarke, of Yarker, officiated.

Mr. Norman P. Macdonald, who defended the murderers Welter and Hendershott was found dead in his bed at St. Thomas on Monday night. Death is attributed to heart failure. The deceased was thirty-four years of age.

EE EXPRESS.

ANADA—FRIDAY, SEPT. 20, 1895. $1 per Year in advance; $1.50 if not so paid.

invited to visit the

Millinery

BINSON COMPANY'S

N—

lay, Sept 24th & 25th

WING DAYS.

MARY CONVICTIONS.

and Addington for the Quarter ending the 10th day of Sept. 1895

Name of Acting Justice.	Amount of Penalty.	Time When paid or to be paid to said Justice.	To whom paid over by said Justice.	If not paid why not and general observations if any.
	$2 00	Fortnight	Town Treasurer
	5 00	do	½ to Comp, ½ to Prov, Treas.
	20 00	do	Inspector
	7 00	Forthwith	Complainant
	2 00	do	Town Treasurer
	2 00	do		Committed
	1 00	do	do
	2 00	do	do	do
	1 00	do
	4 00	do		do
	3 85	do	Complainant	do
	50 00	do	Inspector
	1 00	do	Town Treasur r
	2 00	do	do
	1 00	do		do
worth	1 00	do	½ to Inf ½ to tp treas Camden 19th June, 1895
	20 00	do	Informant 19th June, 1895
	40 00	30th June, '95		Time Extended
	2 00	Forthwith	Aug 30, '95, tp treas Sheffield
	2 00	do	do
	2 00	do	do
	1 00	do	Aug 30, '95 County treas L & A
	1 00	do	do
	pen $5 dam $10	12th Aug., '95		Distress warrant issud
	1 00	Forthwith	do
ibley	20 00	Forthwith, in default to be imprisoned 2 months	Not Paid	Time Extended
	5 00	Forthwith, in default to be imprisoned 1 month	Complainant	Paid at once
	10 00	Forthwith, in default 1 m'th in gaol		Time Given
	20 00	Forthwith, in default to be imprisoned 20 days		Time Extended
	20 00	do	Township Treasurer	do
rms	1 00	Forthwith		Paid

G. F. RUTTAN,

Acting Clerk of the Peace, County of Lennox and Addington.

CHARLES O. WILLARD.

LOOK WHAT THEY SAY OF HIM

A Few From the Many

The following are a few from many criticisms of the Willard Theatre Co. who open a six night engagment in the Opera House here on Sept 23:—

"Nothing too good for the people."—J. Harry Gordon.

Enquirer, Cincinnata, Ohio. — Mr. Charles O. Willard, the popular young comedian who sustains the prominent role of "Mosier" in the "Californian" received a well earned curtain call at the close of each act.

Journal, Columbus, Ohio.—Mr. Charles O. Willard as "Jack Curtis" the dashing young detective, both looked and acted the

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY

SELBY.

Mr. Leslie Balance has erected a beautiul iron fenee around his house.

Crops are turning out well in the district. Potatoes and corn are excellent.

It is not very pleasant to see people sitting on the church steps giggling when people are arriving for the celebration of a divine service. "A word to the wise."

WILTON.

Rev. Geo. Porteous called on a number of his old friends one day last week. They were all pleased to see him looking so well.

Mrs. John DeWitt died very suddenly on Wednesday of last week. She had been ill with typhoid fever but was up and

PERSONALS.

Mrs. W. D. Madden has been visiting friends in Toronto.

D. W. Allison, Esq. Adolphustown, was in Napanee on Monday.

Mr. Wm. Hawley, of Picton, is visiting friends in Napanee.

Mrs. Burrett, and Miss Aylesworth returned on Monday from a four months visit at Point Clare.

Mr. J. D. Dewar, of Tiverton, called on friends here on Saturday on his way to Ottawa.

Mrs. H. Douglas has been visiting her daughter in Toronto.

Mrs. Baylee and two children, of Digby, N. S. who have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. McGinness, West Plain, returned home on Friday of last week. Miss E. L. McGinness accompanied them.

Miss Emma Perry, of Kingston, formerly of Napanee, had another operation performed on her at the Kingston hospital last week. She came through the ordeal successfully.

Miss Shibley McKim is ill at present.

Miss Emma O'Hare, of Napanee, has been visiting in Belleville.

Miss Walker and Miss Gillan have taken positions in the millinery department of Robinson & Co's. store.

Miss Paterson and Miss Shane have returned to Napanee to resume their duties in the Millinery Department at Cheapside.

Dr. Meng was in Belleville this week attending the fair.

Mrs. W. K. Pruyn has been visiting friends in Ottawa.

Mr. Geo. E. Maybee left for Montreal Tuesday evening.

His Honor Judge Wilkison was in Montreal last week as a lay delegate to the meeting of the Synod of the Church of England.

Mr. John Robinson advance agent for Burtch's New Sensation was in town last week "billing" the town and renewing old acquaintances. Jack looks as if the world was agreeing with him. He says the show has had a very successful season.

Mr. R. B. Allen, has returned from a trip through the New England States, in the interest of Mayor Stevens hardwood ashes.

Mr. Geo. H. Thompson, of Haines & Lockett's was in Belleville last week.

Miss Lottie Meng has returned home after spending a few weeks with relatives in Sydenham.

Mr and Mrs Wilson and family of Napanee, who have been spending two months at Indian Point, have returned home.

Mr. Sam Wilson, Kingston, is spending his Holidays in town.

Mr. J. S. Howe, Napanee, was in Kingston on Tuesday.

Mr. Jas. Cole, of Napanee, spent Tuesday in Kingston.

Mr. J. F. McAlister took in the Bicyles Races at Kingston on Wednesday.

Mr. Arthur Smith is very ill with typhoid fever.

W S Herrington was in attendance at the Fall assizes at Belleville as counsel for Dr C Day Clark, of Tamworth, in the civil suit brought against the doctor by Miss Mary Gallivan, of Hungerford, for alleged neglect, while she was under his charge suffering from a compound fracture of the arm, caused by a kick from a horse.

Mr J R Dafoe and family and Mrs Rickley went up in Mr Dafoe's yacht to Belleville to attend the Fair.

Will Vanalstine is taking a tour through Prince Edward County on his bicycle.

Mrs W F Hall and daughter left yesterday for Cape Vincent, where they will visit friends.

Mrs Emjey has returned from Niagara, Hamilton and Toronto after a very pleasant visit with friends and relatives.

Mrs. McDonald, Miss Bay McDonald, Mrs. Murdoff, Miss Dorland, Mr and Mrs I Lockwood, Rev. Dr. and Mrs Macdiarmid, E. W. Benjimain & wife, Mrs. Thomas Johnston, Rev. Crossly, and H. Warner, of Napanee, took in the Toronto Fair.

Mr. H Finkle and wife, Mr. M Oyar and wife, of Newburgh, Masters Warrie and Ted Eakins, Belleville, also took in Toronto Show.

Donald E. McDonald, N. Y State Hospital, Ogdensburg, has been visiting his mother and friends in Napanee.

Mrs M Kehoe, of Picton, spent Thursday at her uncle's in town.

Mr James and Miss Maggie McNeill, of Maryville, and Miss McAuley and Miss Power of Picton were guests at Mr Davern's last Thursday.

Mr Jack Davern, who left for Detroit about four months ago, is expected home owing to illness.

Mr W H Perry, Barrister was in Belleville on 16th attending the Assizes.

Miss Aggie Miller left on Wednesday for Pentang for an extended visit with friends, accompanied by her cousin, Miss, Carrie, Rae, who has been here on a couple of weeks visit.

Mr. J S McNamara and wife, left last Wednesday for their home at Penetang. They have been in this vicinity for the last two weeks visiting friends.

George Harrison was the guest of Mr. Angus Harrison, Cressy, last week.

Miss Jessie Muckle of Deseronto, is attending the Napanee Model School.

Miss Hull, of Napanee, was the guest of Mrs. Wm. Reynolds, Deseronto, last week.

Miss K. McNeil, of Deseronto, was visiting friends in town last week.

Mrs. W. A. Jamieson, and two children, of Barrie, have been visiting friends in town.

Mr. F. J. Vanalstine spent a few days in Kingston last week.

Mr. Wilke McCoy left on Monday evening for Rochester.

Miss Annie Allison, of Dorland, was the guest of Miss Edith Caton, recently.

Why Not You? When thousands of people are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to overcome the weaknes and languor which are so common at this season, why are you not doing the same? When you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla has power to cure rhumatism, dyspepsia and all diseases caused by impure blood, why do you continue to suffer? Hood's cures others, why not you?

Tall Corn.

Mr. Ward, father of Dr. Ward, left at this office on Wednesday a stock of Sorghum corn, grown by himself, which measures 10 feet 9 inches in length. He also left a fine sample of Chinese corn. He brought the seed from the South when he was there on a visit last winter.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—South American Rheumatic Cure, for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by W. S. Detlor, Druggist.—46v.

Show at Tamworth.

The Addington Electoral District Agricultural Exhibition was held on Sept. 18. This is the first time the exhibition has been held here. There were over one thousand people on the ground yesterday, and over twenty-five hundred to-day. The exhibits were in general up to the average, and in many respects far in advance of former years. Sheep, pigs and horses were the best exhibit in the stock line. A fine display, a good quantity of each, of seventeen varieties of apples from a Sheffield farm orchard attracted much attention.

REV. L. W. SHOWERS

Gives His Experience With Organic Heart Disease—The Dread Malady on the Increase.

For many years my greatest enemy has been organic heart disease. From an uneasiness about the heart, with palpitation more or less severe, it had developed into abnormal action, thumping, fluttering, and choking sensations. Dull plain with a peculiar warm feeling were ever present near the heart. I have tried many physicians and taken numberless remedies with very little benefit. Seeing Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart advertised in the Kittanning, Pa., papers, I purchased a bottle and began its use, receiving almost instant relief. I have now taken several bottles of the remedy and can speak most highly in its favor. The choking, abnormal beating, thumping and palpitation have almost entirely disappeared. The remedy is certainly a wonder-worker for my case was chronic. Rev L. W. Showers, Elderton, Pa.

SOLD BY W. S. DETLOR.

Patronize the Ladies' dinner and tea at the Brisco House on show day. 25c. Dinner from 10.30.

The Same Old Story.

Notwithstanding all the warnings that have been repeatedly given by the newspapers as to the advisability of giving well dressed plausible strangers who hold out tempting and profitable schemes a wide berth, we are every day receiving fresh evidence that the advice is being disregarded. The latest victim to be entrapped is Mr. Wright, a farmer living on the boundary of Tyendinaga and Richmond townships, who was swindled out of about $200 this week by a sharper, who represented himself as a land speculator. On Monday a well dressed, oily tongued stranger called on Mr. Wright. He said he was the possessor of a lot of money that he wanted to invest in land in that vicinity. As Mr Wright was an old resident and knew everybody in the neighborhood he would be a good man to act as his agent, as he did not want to appear in the matter. Wright, who is an old man, readily fell in with the scheme. The stranger offered to place $1100 in the old man's hands for a certain parcel of land. He wanted Wright to put up a couple of hundred dollars as a guarantee of good faith. This the old man consented to, and the two drove to town on Tuesday and Wright went to the bank and drew out the money. On the part; his movements are graceful and easy.

Times-Union, Albany, N. Y.—Mr. Charles O. Willard of this city, is the same clever fellow before the footlights that you will find him elsewhere; he has the faculty of pleasing, his gestures are graceful and natural, with a clear and distinct delivery.

Press, Troy, N. Y.—Mr. Charles O. Willard received deserved applause; he is clever throughout.

Enterprise, Carleton Mo.—Mr. Charles O. Willard is a great favorite, and always pleases; he is very painstaking. His changes were wonderful as "Jack Curtis" in "Stub" where he presents four different characters.

Herald, Bristol R. I.—Charles O. Willard sustains his comedy parts in an artistic manner, showing clear conception of the various roles. He is the best comedian that ever appeared before a Bristol audience.

Star, Sikeston, Mo.—Charles O. Willard can play anything from a silly school boy to an old maid; he is exceptionally good as an old dried up judge, and as such a part is all acting to him, it being just the opposite to his nature. Too much praise cannot be afforded him; he is one of the most popular comedians on the American stage.

Antwerp N. Y. Sept 4th:—Without doubt and without flattery the Willard Co., are the cleanest repertoire Co., we have witnessed in four years. They are not only clean as artists, but are gentlemanly and ladylike as well as neat and stylish in appearance Come again, you will always find the latch hanging on the out side. Willard.

A little son of H. Filson, Stella, fell from a cow's back, breaking and dislocating one of his arms.

A peculiarly sad accident occurred on the farm of Mr. Frank Johnstone, of Sand Hill, Pittsburgh recently. Mr. Johnstone was cutting his corn with the reaper, his little daughter, between three and four years old, was observed coming into the field. The father stopped reaping, and carried her through the gate leading to the field, and sent her to the house. He then resumed his work, and a moment later as he was removing a sheaf from the table of the machine, to the horror he found the child, whom he supposed to be at the house, sitting in the sheaf, with one of her little feet cut off and the other horribly mutilated. The child evidently fearing to come in sight, had crept quietly through the corn and did not even utter a cry when the accident occurred. Drs. Gardiner, of Seeley's Bay, and Emery, of Gananoque, were hastily summoned, and did what they could to give relief to the little sufferer, who is now doing as well as could be expected.

Peculiar to Itself.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself, in a strictly medicinal sense, in three important particulars, viz: first, in the combination of remedical agents used; second, in the proportion in which they are mixed; third, in the process by which the active curative properties of the preparation are secured. These three important points make Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiar in its medicinal merit, as it accomplishes cures hitherto unknown.

But it is not what we say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story. What Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others is reason for confidence that it is the medicine for you.

The wind storm that struck Napanee on the evening of the 11th inst. fortunately for us, spent its force on the city of Kingston. It wrecked houses, uprooted trees and prostrated telegraph poles and created havoc generally in the Limestone city, a conservative estimate placing the damages at fully $80, 000.

A. W. Dunkley, one of the senior students at the Napanee collegiate institute, has been notified that he was successful in passing his first year's examination in Queen's university.

COUNT DE DORY

A Well—Known Denmark Nobleman Makes a Statement Which Will Prove of Great Interest and Value to Many.

Under date of September 1st, 1894, Count de Dory writes as follows from Neepawa, Man.:—"I have been ailing constantly for six or seven years with severe kidney and bladder trouble. I have doctored during all this time with physicians in different countries without any relief. During my travels I was induced to trying South American Kidney Cure, from which remedy I received instant releif. I most heartily endorse this remedy, as I do not think it has an equal." South American Kidney Cure invariably gives relief within six hours after first dose is taken.

SOLD BY W. S. DETLOR.

it was thought much better. Burial took place the following day. The family have the sympathy of all.

The sight-seers arrived home from Toronto Sunday morning bright and early.

Miss Mabel Emerson and Mordy Storms spent Saturday and Sunday with their parents.

Visitors:—Miss L. Holmes, Colebrook; Miss Ethel Gallagher, Portland; Mrs. Summerby and child, Sudbury; Mr. and Mrs. J. Snook, Trenton; Mrs. Luman Lewis, San Jose, California.

Ex-Reeve Babcock who has been sick is better.

Dinner at the Brisco House on Wednesday, 25c. from 10.30. Tea from 5 to 7 o'clock, 25c.

PLEASANT VALLEY.

Dear Editor, in your last issue I noticed your former corrspondent for Pleasant Valley had gone to the North West. However I will try for once and fill his place as best I know how.

Farmers in this vicinity are about through harvesting, and thrashing is the order of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. John Yorks, of Picton, are visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lochead spent Sunday at Mr. E. Smith's.

Mr. Cevlon Robinson, of Kingston, formerly of this place, paid us a flying visit this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jethro Card, of Sillsville, spent Saturday and Sundav at Mr. Elias Smith's

Miss Ellie McFall, of Picton, has returned to her aunt's Mrs. M. Pringle's, to spend a few weeks. Wellington laughs all over.

Mr. George Crabbe and wife, of Big Creek, spent Sunday at Mr. S. Dupree's.

We are glad to see Mr. Ryerson Pringle so interested in school matters. We are looking forward for him to be trustee for the coming year.

KINGSFORD.

On Tuesday last, Sept. 10th, a quiet ceremony took place in St. John's church, Selby, when the rector, Rev. Robt. Atkinson united in holy matrimony Mr. Wm. S. Provins, of Deseronto, and Miss S. Jennie Doyle, of Kingsford. Mr. A. W. H. Doyle and Miss Mattie Provins, both of Deseronto, assisted. Miss Doyle is a very estimable youug lady, being a great church worker at St. Jude's Kingsford, and a general favorite with all who know her. The bride was very tastefully attired in travelling suit of brown with hat to match. The very many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Provins both in this county and in Deseronto, unite in wishing them long life and prosperity.

Mr. John Hewitt is home after his visit to Deseronto and other places.

Mrs. Wm John Matchett has been renewing acquaintances in this neighboroood, and her bright presence is always welcome.

Many proofs were given last week of the popularity of the new bride and bridegroom.

The people of these parts are eagerly looking forward to Mrs. Sargent's coming visit which we understood is about to take place.

Back the noble lady who sought whilst living among us to do good to all without respect to creed or party.

Mrs. Robert Sampson is reported to be in very poor health. Much sympathy is felt both for the estimable lady and also for her worthy partner, both of whom are remembered by the older residents as being popular school teachers. It is well not to forget the early workers in the cause of education.

Divine service is announced to be held in St. Jude's church on Sunday afternoon next at 2.45 p.m.

The Ladies will provide a sumptuous dinner and tea at the Brisco House on Wednesday, for 25 cents.

Burtch's Big Show.

Our bill boards announce the coming of Geo. Burtch's New Sensation which has met with great success in Western Ontario this summer. Space will not permit us to publish the clippings that speak of the features of the show, which will appear in Napanee rain or shine on Wednesday 25th Sept., last day of the county fair, giving two complete performances afternoon at two, evening at eight. Reserve seat tickets can be secured in advance at the ticket wagon.

A. S. Frink, Napanee, carried off most of the prizes for Cotswold sheep at the Kingston fair.

Miss Ethel Mitchell, of Napanee, was visiting friends in Dorland last week.

J. S. Boyes, administrator of the estate of the late Dr. Redner, was in Lonsdale last week on business in connection with the estate.

Miss Violet Fitzpatrick, of Belleville, has been visiting Mrs. Jas. Fritzpatrick, town.

Mrs. F. E. Vanduzen and two children, are visiting her father, Mr. D. Wright, Violet.

Mr. A. D. McRossie of Ingersoll, was in town last week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Barnum, of Chicago, have been visiting R. B. Smith, South Napanee.

Mrs. Geo. Cliff sr. is revovering from her recent illness.

Mr. J. J. Perry was in Petrolia last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. George and little daughter, of Chicago, have been visiting his mother in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner L. Alcombrack, of Lexington, Kentucky, have been visiting friends in this vicinity.

Mrs. John Pollard left on Monday for Renfrew, where she will visit friends.

Miss M. Pollard was in Tweed on Monday.

Mr. E. J. Pollard and Miss Belle Pollard spent Sunday with friends in Adolphustown.

Mr. Lockett, of the firm of Haines & Lockett, Belleville, spent a few days in town last week looking after the interests of the Napanee branch of the firm's business.

Mr. H. D. Reeve, of Cambridge University, conducted the services in the church of S. Mary Magdalene, on Sunday, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Arthur Jarvis, who was attending the meeting of the Synod of the Church of England in Montreal.

Mr. Luman Sherwood has returned to the Royal Military College, after a pleasant vacation at home.

Mr. J. S. Hullett was in Toronto last week at tending the Photographers convention.

Ed. Douglass, Paisley House, took in the Tamworth Show on Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Reid Perry, wife of John St. Napanee is improving under the care of Dr. Ward.

Miss Alice Neilson, visiting friends in Trenton, retuned to Napanee last week.

D. W. Allison, Thomas Symington, and S. C. Warner went to Toronto Monday evening.

H. Warner took in theBelleville Show Thursday.

Mr. Geo L. Moore was visiting friends in Picton last week.

Messrs Clark Botting, and D. Fralick and Thos. Bald wheeled to Kingston on Sunday.

Mr. Thos Jarrett, representing the Belleville Sun, was in town last week.

Miss Lizzie O'Hare, of Belleville, has returned home after a three weeks visit to her sisters, Miss Emma O'Hare, and Mrs. John Adams, Hawley House, Napanee.

Mr. Clate Mabee has gone to Toronto where he has secured a situation in the shipping department of W. A. Murray & Co.

Miss May Taylor, of Watertown, is the guest of Mr. Dickens.

Miss Humphery, of Watertown, is the guest of her sister Mrs. Jas Lucas.

Mr. Arthur Plumley attended the Toronto Fair last week.

Mr. M. Plumley, took in the Industrial.

Miss Bertha and Grace Huffman, spent Sunday, with their sister, Mrs. W. H. Rogers, of Tweed.

Miss. Lizzie Pratt, and Miss Effie Vanalstine of Napanee are spending a couple of weeks in Kingston with relatives and friends.

D. S. Warner has been quite sick for a number of days with indigestion but is improving slowly.

Andrew Rockwell, of Duluth, formely of Violet Ontario, was calling on friends in Napanee on Tuesday.

Dr. Wartman, Mrs. Wartman, Mrs. Will Boyle, Mrs Harry Hunter, Mr. Alexander M. Warner, and a number of others attended the Central Fair at Kingston on Thursday.

Mr. A. Rendell is very ill.

Mr. John Maxwell, Deseronto Road, is ill at present and as he is well on to 90 years of age his recovery is doubtful.

Miss Marie Kimmerly, of Toronto, is visiting her father, Ira Kimmerly.

Mr. Desmoyer Davis and Miss Laura Davis, are very ill with typhoid fever. We hope to hear of their speedy recovery.

McCourt Kerridge took in the Tamworth fair on Tuesday and Wednesday.

MARRIAGES.

PEARSON—LOWEY—At Deseronto, on Wednesday, Sept. 10th, 1895, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Wm. Lowey, by the Rev. R. Taylor, Mr. Geo. E. Pearson, to Miss Gertrude E. Lowey, both of Deseronto.

McBOIVY—McWILLIAMS—At Sydenham, on Sept. 10th, 1895, by the Rev. Mr. Jamieson, Miss Myrtle McRory of Sydenham, to Mr. F. E. McWilliams, of Camden East.

WADDELL—SEDORE—By the Rev. J. B. Stratton at the Methodist Parsonage, Selby, Sept. 16th, Wm. Henry Waddell to Miss Nellie Sedore, all of Richmond.

ALLISON—CADMAN—At the residence of the bride's father, Sept. 4th, by the Rev. R. M. Pope, assisted by the Rev. E. S. Shorey, C. F. Allison to Miss Minnie E. Cadman, both of Adolphustown.

ARMITAGE—HUYCK—At the residence of the bride's father by the Rev. F. B. Stratton Sept. 10th, Francis N. Armitage to Deborah M. Huyck daughter of Peter Huyck Esq. of Richmond.

PROVINS—DOYLE—In St. John's church, Selby, on Sept. 10th, 1895, by the Rev. Robt. Atkinson, Wm. S. Provins, of Deseronto, to Miss S. Jennie Doyle, of Kingsford.

WILSON—MEEKS—At Newburgh, on Sept. 7th, James Wilson, of the Township of Ernestown, to Josephine Meeks, of the same place.

DEATHS.

SILLS—On September 11th, 1895, at the family residence, Township of Richmond, William R. Sills, aged 77 years, 11 months.

WOODCOCK—At South Napanee, on Monday, Sept. 16th, 1895 Beatrice Viola Woodcock, aged 18 years, 6 days, only daughter of J. Woodcock.

Relief in Six Hours.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder disease relieved in six hours by the "NEW GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN KIDNEY CURE." This new remedy is a great surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—40

Heed the Warning. The common and ever-present warning of kidney trouble, backache and weakness in back, are quickly relieved by Dr. Chase's Pills. The original and only 25 cent Kidney-Liver Pills When all other remedies fail, they cure.

Work and draw out the money. On the way back home they met in with another stranger who the sharper represented as an old friend from Kentucky. The fakir then proposed that as he had to go away for a few days on other business he would put his $1100 in a little tin box, which he produced, and that Mr. Wright would deposit his money there also. He would lock the box and keep the key and Mr. Wright could retain the box containing the money until he returned. This was done, and the strangers departed. After the strangers departure Wright became suspicious and told a friend of the transaction, who advised him to see Mayor Stevens of Napanee and show him the box. Wednesday evening Wright came to Napanee, and on the advice of Mayor Stevens the box was broken into. His worship pried it open with a pair of scissors when instead of the $1300 a couple of pieces of wood and an old newspaper stood revealed. No trace of the fakirs has as yet been discovered.

This is Concentration—One pill a dose, one box 25 cents. One pill relieves constipation. One box cures an ordinary case. One pill taken weekly neutralizes formation of uric acid in the blood and prevents Bright's Kidney disease and Diabetes. True only of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills.

Get together at the Opera House all next week and see the great Chas. O. Willard and his merry Co. of Comedians at popular prices 15, 25, and 35c. On Wednesday night extra attractions, grand double bill. The prices will be 25, 35, and 50c. Get your tickets in advance to save your clothes in the rush.

The Grand Trunk will carry passengers from Belleville for the County show in Napanee next Tuesday and Wednesday, 24th, and 25th, for one dollar. Tickets good to return till 26th. On the 25th, single fare 75c, to go and return same day.

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient. 25c.

Nearly everyone needs a good tonic at this season. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true tonic and blood purifier.

Get the Best. The public are too intelligent to purchase a worthless article a second time, on the contrary they want the best! Physicians are virtually unanimous in saying Scott's Emulsion is the best form of Cod Liver Oil.

CURES CATARRHAL DEAFNESS.

Strong and Unreserved Testimony of the Curative Powers of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder.

Actions speak louder than words. Mr. John MacInnis of Washabuck Bridge, N. S., made use of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder and says: "I used the medicine according to directions and found it to be a wonderful cure for catarrhal deafness I can hear as good as ever. You will find 60 cents enclosed for which please send me another bottle. After recommending the catarrhal cure to my neighbor, she seeing the wonderful good it has done me, wants a bottle, so you will please send a bottle and blower to her also."

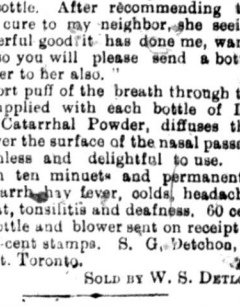
One short puff of the breath through the blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use. It relieves in ten minuets and permanently cures, catarrh, hay fever, colds, headache, sore throat, tonsilitis and deafness. 60 cent sample bottle and blower sent on receipt of two three-cent stamps. S. G. Detchon, 44 Church St. Toronto.

SOLD BY W. S. DETLOR.

EASY HOME DYEING

It is now possible for an inexperienced person to dye cotton, wool, silk, feathers, etc., a black that will not crock, fade or wash out if you use

Diamond Dyes



With a ten cent package of any one of the nine fast Diamond dyes—for wool, for cotton, and for silk and feathers—the very first trial brings success, and the directions on the package are so simple that even a child can get the best results. There are more than forty colors of Diamond Dyes—all reliable and easy to use, and their superiority is unquestioned. We send samples of dyed cloth and direction book free.

WELLS & RICHARDSON CO., Montreal.

The Dominion Bank

ESTABLISHED 1871.

CAPITAL — $1,500,000.00
RESERVE FUND — $1,450,000.00

Deposits received and interest allowed.
Drafts on all parts of Great Britain and United States bought and sold.

E. H. BAINES, Agent.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

ANNUAL EXCURSION
—TO—
Chicago, Detroit, Pt. Huron, Grand Rapids, Cleveland
AND OTHER WESTERN POINTS

Tickets 3rd, 4th and 5th, 1895, and good to return on or before October 21st.

Fares from Napanee to Pt. Huron and Detroit $7.00 ; Cleveland $9.50 ; Saginaw or Bay City $10.00 ; Grand Rapids $11.00 ; Chicago or Cincinnatti $13 00 ; St. Paul or Minneapolis, all rail $46, part boat $31.

For tickets and further information apply to

J. L. BOYES.
Agent, Napanee.

Consumption.

Valuable treatise and two bottles of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. T. A. SLOCUM CHEMICAL CO., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

FOR DANDRUFF
GENTLEMEN FIND
PALMO-TAR SOAP
EXCELLENT

IT CLEANSES THE SCALP, RELIEVES THE DRYNESS AND SO PREVENTS HAIR FALLING OUT.

BIG CAKES HANDSOMELY PUT UP 25¢

IRISH AND SCOTCH WHISKY.

For sale by the undersigned the following well known brands of Irish and Scotch whiskey :—

Bushmills	Irish
James Watson & Co.	"
Henry Thomson & Co.	"
Mitchell & Bro.	"
Burke & Co.	"
J. Brown & Co.	"
Bernard & Co. Encore	Scotch
Watson's, 3 Star	"
Dewar's, Extra Special	"
Usher's, O.V.G.	"
Sheriff's	"
Claymore	"
B. Lade & Co.	"
Mitchell Bro.	"
Glengowan	"

M. W. PRUYN & SON.
Napanee, 12th Dec. 1894.

PATENTS
CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS
COPYRIGHTS.

CAN I OBTAIN A PATENT? For a prompt answer and an honest opinion, write to MUNN & CO., who have had nearly fifty years' experience in the patent business. Communications strictly confidential. A Handbook of Information concerning Patents and how to obtain them sent free. Also a catalogue of mechanical and scientific books sent free.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice in the Scientific American, and thus are brought widely before the public without cost to the inventor. This splendid paper, issued weekly, elegantly illustrated, has by far the largest circulation of any scientific work in the world. $3 a year. Sample copies sent free.

Building Edition, monthly, $2.50 a year. Single copies, 25 cents. Every number contains beautiful plates, in colors, and photographs of new houses, with plans, enabling builders to show the latest designs and secure contracts. Address MUNN & CO., NEW YORK, 361 BROADWAY.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

SS. Athabasca

the N. P. has nothing whatever to do with it, but when it leaped up to $1 a bushel last spring Tory organs averred it was entirely due to the beneficent influence of the N. P.

Mr. D. A. McCabe, of Hay Bay, is, we are informed, somewhat displeased at something THE EXPRESS has said concerning him. We wish Mr. McCabe to be explicit and give us to know just what he complains of, because a careful perusal of our columns of the date of Sept. 6th, does not enlighten us. We certainly have no ill-will to Mr. McCabe, far from it.

The British Government has finally resolved to exclude Canadian cattle on the hoof. The value of the British farmers cattle has increased £2 or so per head since Canadian cattle were embargoed. The existence of pleuro among Canadian cattle may not be very clearly established, still as we tax British goods as highly as possible the Britishers must be excused for not showing an overweening desire to admit that our cattle are all right.

Although the Hon. Mr. Harty's majority at the last by-election was something over 400 he has been unseated, the trial of the petition coming to a sudden termination Tuesday morning. S. H. Blake, Q. C., counsel for Mr. Harty, while assuring the Judges that there were no personal charges that could be sustained, admitted that other charges which could be proven would vacate the seat. In view of Mr. Harty's overwhelming majority, and the assurance they have that he will again be returned by as large, if not an increased majority, it seems a needless waste of time and money for the Tories of Kingston to protest his election.

HEADS I WIN, TAILS YOU LOSE.

The great international yacht race between the Defender and Valkyrie III ended in a fiasco. It seems that in a contest with the New York yacht club it is a case of "Heads I win, tails you lose." The conditions imposed on a competing yacht are all in favor of the American boat, and what with technicalities, and the friendly aid of American excursion boats, it seems a foregone conclusion that no yacht, be she ever so much superior, can wrest the cup from the New York yacht club, under existing conditions. The first race of the series was won by the Defender, on her merits we are told, although it is significant to note that the Valkyrie lead the way for a considerable distance, and then the excursion boats began to get in their work. They ran across her bow, they got to windward of her, and as one man says: "Of course the boats carrying these people are Americans, while the captains do their best to give those on board the best view possible, they take precious good care to keep out of the way of their own champion no matter how much they may interfere with the foreigner." The Valkyrie was forced to take the backwash of a vast number of excursion steamers, and it is hard to estimate how much her progress was retarded by them.

The second race was won by the Valkyrie, but on a protest from the Defender people, that had the positions been reversed we are confidant would never have been made, it was awarded to the Defender. A large number of expert yachtmen hold that the Defender was responsible for the foul on which she was awarded the race, and the Defender people in accepting a race that they did not win showed that they were by no means confident of victory. The third race the Defender won on her merits, as she went over the course alone, and came in with flying colors. The Valkyrie merely crossed the starting line in the third contest to make a race of it. Lord would charge an exorbitant rate, and if they did not agree to this they would tear up the proof in their presence, and the valuable originals would never be returned.

Mr. J. S. Hulett was heard in regard to the matter. He said that every drunken bum who got stranded took to going around the town peddling these fakes. They collected fifty cents or so to cover expenses from each person, and the possession of the original photograph gave them a great power in dictating their own terms to the victims of their wiles, as in many instances these originals were valuable for the reason that they could not be replaced. Mr. Hulett wanted these irresponsible agents stopped. Any responsible firm doing a legitimate business would be willing to pay the license, and this would protect the people from frauds, and add considerably to the town's revenue.

A photographer from Kingston who is in town taking views of the town and selling them explained the nature of his business. Some of the councillors were of the opinion that his case did not come under the transient traders by-law and that he could not be made to pay a license. Mr. Ruttan held differently, however. The gentleman himself said that the discussion had satisfied him that his case did not come under the by-law, and he intended to go on with his work.

Reeve Carson said that the Rathbun Co'y had complained to him that the carters in town were in the habit of carting all trees, etc. that blew down and placing them in the marsh near their property. This endangered the Coy's property by fire. The chairman of the Street committee promised that he would have a stop put to the practice.

The chairman of the Street committee and Coun. Madole and Coun. Burns had a little tiff. Coun. Madole held that the chairman of the Street committee should not undertake work without the sanction of the council. The chairman held that in many instances that was impracticable.

After considerable discussion and several motions, which were lost, the matter was dropped.

On motion the finance committee was empowered to arrange the sale of land in arrears for taxes, the purchaser to bear all the expenses as per treasures statement, and the expense of survey.

On motion the town clerk, Mr. Jas. Herring was granted a two weeks vacation.

The chairman of the Poor & Sanitary committee brought up a matter that was brought to his notice by the Ladies Aid Societies of the various churches. The family of Jas. Osborne who is now in Manitoba wanted to join their husband, and if the council would grant $8 towards their removal the Ladies' Aid would supply the rest. The matter was left in the hands of the Poor and Sanitary committee with power to act.

$25 was placed in the hands of the Poor and Sanitary committee.

The Chief of Police was authorized to have the town pump cleaned as it is badly infected with bull frogs.

Mr. Coxall was heard in reference to the drainage of his property. The matter was referred to the Street committee to report.

ACCOUNTS.

Peter Post, $16; Ben Johnstone, $12 ; Thos. Fox, $8 ; James Baldwin 94c. ; Dan Gleason, $16.58 ; W. S. Detlor, paints, etc. $4.23 ; J. J. Minchinton, Posting bills, 50c ; Napanee Express, on account $75 ; James Daly, committals $9.00 ; John Gleason, 36 loads ballast $18 00, The treasurer was granted vouchers for $505.60.

Council adjourned.

Tips on All Topics.

London prints three new novels a day.

There are 13,000 distinct varieties of postage stamps.

The number of hairs on an adult's head usually range from 128,000 to 150,000.

It is stated that one of the sights of West Bromwich is a female bill poster.

In the British army one soldier in seven is now under 20 years of age. This includes all recruits and band boys.

It is stated, as an interesting sociological fact, that in London out of 100 widowers who marry again, twelve marry their housekeepers.

A London firm which has manufactured eight of the eleven cables linking the United States to England, make 55 miles of cable every twenty-four hours.

A girl baby born the other day in Kokomo, Indiana, is the fourteenth daughter of a fourteenth daughter of a 1—Book Agent—Ah, they keep pet dogs. I'm sure of leaving at least two volumes here on animal culture.

2—And he did.

"I can't have whistling at the table, Mr. Slocum," said the boarding house keeper. "I thought you said yesterday you liked to hear a man whistle at his work?" replied the boarder, as he made another ineffectual attempt at cutting his piece of beefsteak.—Yonkers Statesman.

"It's a great pity," said the convicted burglar to his lawyer, "that you couldn't have made that closing speech of yours at the opening of the case." "I don't see that it would have made any difference." "It would, though. Then the jury would have been asleep when the evidence came in and I'd have stood some show."—Washington Star.

Neighbor—Bertie, your mother is calling you.

Bertie—Yes'm, I know it; but I fancy she don't want me very bad.

Neighbor—She has called you seven times already.

Bertie—Yes, I know; but she hasn't called "Albert" yet.—Tit-Bits.

"What's the matter?" asked the policeman; "haven't you any place to go?" "Any place ter go!" replied Meandering Mike, with contempt. "I've got the whole United States before me. I've got so many places ter go to dat it's worryin' me dizzy makin' up me mind which way ter start."

Very Sorry.

He had been worshipping her for months, but had never told her, and she didn't want him to. He had come often and stayed late—very late—and she could only sigh and hope. He was going away the next day on a holiday, and he thought the last night was the time to spring the momentous question. He kept it to himself, however, until the last thing. It was 11.30 by the clock, and it was not a very rapid clock.

"Miss Molly," he said tremulously, "I am going away to-morrow."

"Are you?" she said with the thoughtlessness of girlhood.

"Yes," he replied. "Are you sorry?"

"Yes, very sorry," she murmured. "I thought you might go away this evening."

Then she gazed at the clock wistfully, and said good-night.—Philadelphia Times.

3 SS. Manitoba
SS. Alberta

UPPER LAKE STEAMERS A WEEK

WILL LEAVE
OWENSOUND
MONDAY
THURSDAY
SATURDAY

Upon arrival of SS: Express leaving Toronto 10.45 a.m. on those days.

E. McLAUGHLIN,
Agent at Napanee.

1

DR. FOWLER'S EXT. OF WILD STRAWBERRY

CURES
COLIC,
CRAMPS,
CHOLERA,
DIARRHOEA,
DYSENTERY,
CHOLERA MORBUS,
CHOLERA INFANTUM
and all Summer Complaints and Fluxes of the Bowels. It is safe and reliable for Children or Adults.
For Sale by all Dealers.

BRISTOL'S PILLS
Cure Biliousness, Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Sluggish Liver and all Stomach Troubles.

BRISTOL'S PILLS
Are Purely Vegetable, elegantly Sugar-Coated, and do not gripe or sicken.

BRISTOL'S PILLS
Act gently but promptly and thoroughly. "The safest family medicine." All Druggists keep

BRISTOL'S PILLS

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 20, 1895

They are boiling their drinking water in Toronto. Some of the drinking water in Napanee is badly in need of boiling.

There is an oppressive silence pervading N. P. journals in regard to the price of wheat. When wheat is fluc-

Dunraven had notified the New York yacht club that unless he was insured from the interference of excursion boats he would retire from the contest. His withdrawal was in no way due to the awarding of the second race to the Defender, but owing to the impossibility of securing fair treatment. The Defender has been declared the victor, but she has by no means demonstrated her superiority. It is impossible to draw any conclusions as to the relative merits of either boat, as the contest which terminated so unhappily must be deemed entirely valueless. The justness of Lord Dunraven's course in withdrawing his boat from such a farce will commend itself to every fair minded person. The New York Mercury says: "Lord Dunraven has done his best to have good international sport. But he made a mistake when he came to America. The biggest mistake he ever made was to believe that he would be treated in a gentlemanly way by the New York Yacht Club. They are simply incapable of it."

We have probably seen the last great international contest for the America Cup. The last at any rate until the present New York yacht club has been gathered to its fathers and its place taken by a more sportmanlike and gentlemanly aggregation.

TOWN COUNCIL.

COUNCIL CHAMBER,
Sept. 16th 1895.

The council met in regular session, Mayor Stevens presiding, present, Madole, Ward, McAlister, Miller, Carson, Leonard.

The minutes of last regular meeting were read and confirmed.

A petition from Mr. John Herring re the draining of the bank building was referred to the Street committee.

A communication from Mr. E. K. Bowen the market lessee, was referred to the market committee to report.

Mr. McAlister, chairman of the Street committee, reported as to the dangerous condition of the Swing Bridge, and advised that it be replanked. The matter was placed in the hands of the Street committee with power to act.

A disscussion then arose as to the advisability of putting down a four foot walk on Centre street. Coun. Madole thought that it would be unfair to put down such a narrow walk on a leading thoroughfare like Centre street. The ratepayers on that street also desired that the walk be placed outside the trees. After considerable cross firing it was decided to put down a four foot walk, and the following motion disposed of the other question at issue.

Moved by Coun. Leonard and Coun. Madole that the walks on Centre Street, from Isabella and Graham, be moved outside the trees. Lost.

Coun. Ward submitted by-law No. 529 to levy the rate of taxation for the year 1895. Coun. Alexander entered.

The by-law placed the rate at 18.4 mills for general purposes, and 8 6 for High and Public school purposes. It was read a first second and third time signed, sealed and finally passed.

A by-law to appoint a collector for the year 1895 received its first reading, and the committee rose to report on the second reading of the by-law.

Mr. F. Ruttan appeared as the spokesman of a deputation in regard to the transient traders license. He said that the town's by-law covering this was strong enough, and accordidg to his interpretation of the statutes covered all transient traders, while the hawkers and peddlers act which was under the jurisdiction of the county covered all petty traders who did not come under the transient traders by-law. He thought if the police would continue to check transient traders as they have been doing it would be all right, but the council was not at liberty to change the by-law as it was in accordance with the statutes, and the town had not the power to legislate in the matter, as that function belonged to the Provincial Government. One of the specific troubles complained of was that fakirs were canvassing the town injuring the business of our local photographer, by undertaking to enlarge pictures for nothing, to advertise their business they alleged. They thus became possessed of valuable original photographs and when the proof of the picture was submitted they told the purchaser that he must consent to take a fourteenth daughter.

It is estimated that in England one woman in every six earns her own living.

Fifteen years ago about 3,000 bicycles were annually produced in England. During 1894 over 60,000 were manufactured there.

The weight of the earth is calculated by Professor Boys at 5,832,000,000,000,000,000 tons.

Our ancestors ate much more meat than we do. In Queen Elizabeth's time her maid-of-honor were allowed three rump steaks for breakfast. Mutton was not so much used as beef, being looked upon as a diet rather for a fastidious appetite than for a woman in good health.

The average size of families in Europe is as follows: France, 3.03 members; Denmark, 3.64; Hungary, 3.70; Switzerland, 3.94; Austria and Belgium, 4.05; England, 4.08; Germany, 4.10; Sweden, 4.12; Holland, 4.22; Scotland, 4.46; Italy, 4.56; Spain, 4.66; Russia, 4.83; Ireland, 5.20.

Japan had only one newspaper 25 years ago. Now it has 200.

In the future no man under 5 feet 4 inches will be admitted into the British infantry unless he is under 20.

In the gardens around London there are more specimes of the cedar of Lebanon than on Mount Lebanon itself.

A Good Man Gone Wrong.

Near-sighted pasor (at Sunday school picnic, thinking he has discovered the boys in bathing)—Ah, what a refresh ing sight! What animal spirits—what exuberance and wild abandon! Cleanliness is next to godliness, my lambs—only don't lose your stocking, or get your shirts on wrong side out or—"

Chorus (of indignant teachers'—S-i-r! —Judge.

An Impractical Girl.

The young lady who had made 700 words out of "controversy" last autumn has run away from home. Her mother wanted her to make three loaves of bread out of flour. And wanted her to make it without any more controversy.—New York World.

The Reason . .

Good health cannot be enjoyed when the nerves are in a deranged condition is because other organs of the body do not receive their natural supply of nerve fluid. The nerve centre is situated near the base of the brain, and when nerve food is cut off the isolated part loses its functional power.

Scott's Sarsaparilla

Acts Like Magic in Restoring Shattered Nerves

because it possesses such marvellous power for strengthening and rebuilding the nerve centres. Nervous headache, nervous dyspepsia, and all nerve derangement wear on the system—on the brain. Scott's Sarsaparilla feeds the brain tissue, fills the brain cells, makes new blood and muscles, makes

STRONG NERVES

DIMENSIONS OF THE UNIVERSE.

It Takes a Thousand Years for the Light of Some Stars to Reach Us.

While, however, it is interesting to know the distance of some of the stars in miles, when stated in that way the numbers are so large that they frequently convey very indistinct conceptions to the mind. For this reason it is customary to estimate star distances in "light years." A light year is the distance that light, moving at the rate of 186,300 miles per second, travels in one year. This amounts in round numbers to 5,880,000,000,000 miles. The distance of Alpha Centauri is 4.35 light years; that of Sirius, the Dog Star, is almost exactly twice as great, or 8.6 light years. In other words light requires 8.6 years to come to us from Sirius. And these are among the very nearest of the stars. Some, whose parallaxes have been rather estimated than measured, appear to be situated at a distance which light could not traverse in less than one or two centuries. The great star Arcturus, for instance, has, according to Dr. Elkin, a parallax of only eighteen one-thousandths of a second. Its distance must in that case, be about 181 light years, or more than a thousand million million miles. And if its distance is so great then, since light varies inversely as the square of the distance from its source, it can be shown that Arcturus must actuaally give forth 5,000 to 6,000 times as much light as the sun yields.

Yet Arcturus is evidently much nearer than the vast majority of the stars are. Not one in a million is known to have a parallax large enough even to be intelligently guessed at. There may be stars whose light requires thousands instead of hundreds of years to cross the space separating them from us.

We thus see that only a few points on the nearer shores of the starry universe lies within reach of our measurements; here and there a jutting headland, while behind stretches the vast expanse over which the hundreds of millions of stars known to exist are scattered.—G. P. Serv ss in the Chautauquan.

Grateful Women Write Us Letters.

From every corner of the country come thankful letters written by those who have been lifted into cheerful, vigorous, healthy strength by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Thousands on thousands of women have been relieved of the nerve-nagging drag of weakness and pain.

They have been made better wives and better mothers by having perfect health restored, and without the humiliating exposure of examinations so generally insisted on by physicians.

The stereotyped treatment by "local applications" is seldom necessary, and there is no reason why modest, sensitive women need submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is of purely vegetable composition and is perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. It exerts a wonderful soothing, healing and strengthening power over woman's delicate organism. It is an invigorating tonic for the whole system, and is almost an infallible specific for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman.

To these causes may be traced the trouble of tired, nervous, irritable, worn-out women. Careless, easy-going doctors frequently treat their women patients for biliousness, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver or kidney troubles, when the real sickness is in the organs distinctly feminine, and no help can come till they are made perfectly strong and healthy in both structure and function which is brougth about in due time, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Sale of Gents Fine Boots

To make room for the large stock of The Slater Specialty Boots for gentleman, which we expect shortly, we offer our present stock of Gents Fine Laced and Gaiter Boots from $3.00 upwards for a short time at a Reduction of from 20 to 25 per Cent.

They are made by the best Canadian makers and several American makers, and are nearly all this season's styles. Call in and if you don't see any bargains don't buy.

This Sale will last for three Weeks Only.

HAINES & LOCKETT

4 BIG SHOE STORES

No Credit. Only One Price.

LEAVING = =

Crowds of cash buyers who know bargains when offered are taking advantage of our great sale of Footwear.

Nothing like it ever known in Napanee.

BOOTS, SHOES, RUBBERS,

TRUNKS, VALISES.

at almost any price. Only a few days more to save half money on your Footwear.

JAS. H. DOWNEY,

McRossie's Old Stand, South Side Dundas Street.

Cuts, Scratches, Sprains,

and all pains, external or internal, are instantly relieved by

PERRY DAVIS' Pain Killer.

This old remedy is known, used and sold everywhere. Get it and keep it by you.

THE DESERONTO NAVIGATION CO'Y

(LIMITED)

SUMMER TIME TABLE

Taking effect May 1st, 1895. Steamers will run as follows Daily, except Sunday.

STEAMER ELLA ROSS

M. Daudet has spoken of the silence of London as the first thing that impressed him. With all the swollen traffic of the crowded thoroughfares, and the ceaseless movement of equipages day and night, there is a duller roar than one expects to hear, and it is a deep undertone rather than a confused medley of sounds. But one cannot be long in London without having a consciousness of the vast human energy and activity that are concentrated here. Even in the impressive silence of London he feels the throb of all the world-wide industries and interests of the race. Statistics are not readily absorbed and interpreted. One hears without emotion or intelligence that the greater London of the Metropolitan Police District has a population of five millions, and that within twenty miles of Charing Cross there are at least seven millions of men, women and children. But when one travels for hours across the town from one swarming hive of population to another, and sees everywhere the ebb and flow of ceaseless activity, he is appalled by the vastness of London, and thinks of it as a system of worlds, crashing orbits and revolving one about another, and forming something like a human universe. The display of riders and equipages in Hyde Park morning and afternoon are commonly described as the most brilliant spectacle in London. What is even more impressive is the daily movement of life and traffic in the streets. That is the marvel of the modern world.

Unlike the English country, London is not finished. Old as are the traditions and historical associations, it is a new and very recent London that the visitor sees. I am not referring to the architecture and main thoroughfares, but to the transformations of administration and municipal service which have been necessary in order to answer the requirements of a multiplied population. London is now one of the best drained cities in Europe, but forty years ago there were few underground sewers, and drainage ditches emptied pollution directly into the Thames all along its banks. The pavements to-day excites the admiration of every American visitor; and they are not only kept in perfect repair, but they are cleaned every day with thoroughness and painstaking care. But forty years ago there was not a well-paved thoroughfare. Then there was a tangle of narrow Stub Ends of Thought.

Women hate deceit and love the deceiver.

If the average jealous person knew why he was jealous he could be cured.

A successful speculator is not the architect of his own fortune.

When one woman meets another then comes the tug of war.

A man may get his standard of honesty so high that it will topple over.

Women are less charitable in thought than men are, but they are more charitable in action.

Love is only the poetic name for temperament.

Art is a finishing touch to nature.

God made man's thought; man made the words to express it.

Voluminous.

A Philadelphia lawyer said a very bright thing the other day. He was seated with a group of friends, and they were discussing in a desultory way the leading topics of the day. One of the parties present, Mr. ——, persisted in monopolizing more than his share of the conversation, and his views did not at all accord with those of the lawyer. As the men separated one of them said to the lawyer:

"That —— knows a good deal, doesn't he?"

"Yes," replied the lawyer; "he knows entirely too much for one man; he ought to be incorporated."—Green Bag.

The Mother of Invention.

"What be ye pullin' of the pig's tail fer, Mandy?"

"Well, you see the dinner horn's broke, and my voice ain't strong enough to reach where the hands are, so I hit on this idea."

Take the Rest.

'Now,' said the physic[illegible] 'no is

Picton.

Leave Trenton.....	1 00 P.M.
" Belleville.. ..	3 00 "
Arrive Deseronto	5 00 "
Leave Deseronto :...	5 15 "	.....3 30 A.M.
Arrive Picton.....	6 50 "	.....5 00 "

Trenton.

Leave Picton.....	6 00 A.M.	.....9 00 P.M.
Arrive Deseronto	7 25 "	..... 10 30 "
Leave Deseronto	7 30 "
" Belleville....	10 00 "
Arrive Trenton.....	11 30 "

Calling at intermediate ports.

This Steamer makes connections at Deseronto with morning trains going East on G. T. R., East and West on C. P. R., and with night trains East and West on Grand Trunk Railway. Arrangements have been made whereby a boat will leave Picton every evening at 9 p.m. for Deseronto. This service will not in any way interfere with the regular daily service, and will prove a great convenience to commercial men and the public generally.

STEAMER DESERONTO.

WM. SKILLEN, Master.

Napanee and Deseronto to Picton.

Leave Napanee	6 00 A.M.
Arrive Deseronto	6 45 "
Leave Deseronto	7 00 "	.....12 30 P.M.
" Houghs.....	7 20 "	..... 12 50 "
" Thompson,s Pt.	8 00 "	..... 1 30 "
Arrive Picton.....	8 30 "	..... 2 00 "

Picton and Deseronto to Napanee.

Leave Picton.....	9 30 A. M.	..... 2 30 P.M.
" Thompson's Pt.	10 05 "	... 3 00 "
" Houghs	10 35 "	... 3 35 "
Arrive Deseronto	11 00 "	..... 4 00 "
Leave Deseronto.....		..... 5 00 "
Arrive Napanee.....		6 00 "

Close connections with G. T. R. trains for all points East and West. Call for tickets reading via Deseronto."

Didn't Pray Against the Barometer.

On one of his European tours a Pittsburg gentleman happened to reach the famous Tyrol country, during a disastrous drought. The prospects of the farmers were most discouraging, indeed, and their complaints were daily becoming louder and deeper.

A politic priest in charge of a country parish had taken advantage of this condition of affairs to impress upon his people that this was probably a chastisement for their sins. At first they were somewhat skeptical and defiant, but as the effects of the drought upon their crops became more apparent they grew more and more penitent and finally supplicated the holy father to intercede in their behalf with the powers that controlled the dews and rains.

Having a reliable barometer in his study, he told them he would do what he could for them. At last he directed them to pray for rain, and he would do likewise. They did so, and their prayers were answered by copious showers.

"Do you really believe in praying for rain?" said the traveler to the priest.

"Most assuredly," he replied, "but not against a rising barometer."—Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

She Was Worried.

It was the night before the wedding and he was bidding her good night, and softly whispered: "To-morrow eve, darling, we begin our journey as bride and bridegroom, pilgrims of life together; hand in hand we will journey adown life's rugged road. We shall want to set out with a glorious equipment of faith, and hope, and courage, that neither of us may faint and fall by the wayside before the journey is ended; will we not, darling?"

"I—I—oh, yes, to be sure; only I really am so worried about the train of my dress. It didn't hang one bit nice to-day when I tried the dress on, and I'd die with mortification if it hung so at the wedding to-morrow. Go on with what you were saying, dear!"—Philadelphia Times.

The little girls of Boston are reported to be overeducated. The story goes that a child was asked in a street car her age, with a view to half-fare for children, whereupon the premature little damsel murmured, "If you don't object, conductor, I'll prefer to pay full fare and keep my own statistics."—Hudson Register.

Equal to the Emergency.

Henry A. Wilder, attorney at law, has an eye to business at all times, and under all circumstances. He was sitting in "Cap" Rounds's saloon, No. 525 State street, at 9 o'clock last night when two robbers came in, and while one of them pointed a revolver at Rounds the other emptied the contents of the cash drawer in his hat. The thieves then walked over to where Attorney Wilder was sitting and ordered him to deliver what valuables he had.

Mr. Wilder is the possessor of a fine gold watch, but he did not want to part with it. He told the robbers he was a lawyer, thinking that would soften their hearts towards him, but they were relentless.

"Search him, Jim," said the man who held the gun, "and be quick about it."

Jim ran his fingers into Mr. Wilder's vest pocket and found the watch. He was tugging at the chain in an attempt to break it, when Mr. Wilder said:

"Gentlemen, do you appreciate the gravity of the crime which you are committing?"

He then reached into the top pocket of his vest and drew out several of his professional cards. Handing one to the thief who had his watch, he continued:

"Here is my card, and you may want me to defend you if you are arrested for robbing the saloon-keeper, Mr. Rounds. I would be a good witness for the prosecution, but, of course, if I represented you, gentlemen, no power on earth could compel me, as an attorney to testify against my clients. No lawyer in Chicago would defend a thief who robbed a brother attorney, so you see by robbing me of my watch you are committing a very foolish act. Now, you look to be intelligent gentlemen, and I leave the case in your hands, trusting that your verdict will be for the defendant."

"Take the gentleman's card, Jim, and leave the watch," said the thief who held the revolver at Mr. Wilder's head. "He's all right, and we may need him. If he could make that 'spiel' to a jury we'd be acquitted."

As the robbers backed out of the saloon, Mr. Wilder shouted after them:

"My retainer is usually $25."

Heart Disease Relieved in 30 Minutes

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gives perfect relief in all cases of Organic or Sympathetic Heart Disease in 30 minutes, and speedily effects a cure. It is a peerless remedy for Palpitation Shortness of Breath, Smothering Spells, Pain in Left Side and all symptoms of a Diseased Heart. One dose convinces. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y

Cash Saved

By ordering your Suits from DAVIS & Co. Entire new stock at bottom prices to select from.

Call and see our prices before ordering.

Davis & Co.

T. G. DAVIS. R. FORD.

gle generation $100,000,000 has been expended in the opening of new thoroughfares, many of which have been put through business sections. The sanitary and police arrangements, and the educational system, have been revolutionized during the same period. Within the last ten years disused cemeteries have been converted into public breathing places; and the park area has been more than doubled. All the rapid transit facilities, incomplete as they are, are of recent introduction. Indeed, the strangest anomaly about the city that impresses an American visitor is its essentially modern and progressive character. He comes up to London expecting to revel in glimpses of antiquity and he finds himself at once preoccupied with practical evidences of the modern art of municipal government and enlightened progress in solving the complex problem of ministering to the comfort and necessities of an immense urban population.

The spires of Greater London number nearly a thousand. Seldom is a visitor far removed from at least one of them, and he cannot remain here long without acknowledging the potency of the influence exerted by the churches. One of my many surprises in London was a casual visit to Old Bow Church at noon on a week day, when I expected to find it empty; but there was a crowded congregation listening to a practical sermon from an eloquent preacher and joined in a hearty hymn. Outside was the whirl and rumble of London at its busiest hour, and in one of the noisiest centres, but within was an old-fashioned evangelical service conducted with fervor. I have yet to enter an English church on Sunday that was not thronged with worshippers; nor have I ever seen a great city that was more orderly and quiet on Sundays than this great, progressive, conservative London.

Trees.

No tree has yet been measured taller than the great eucalyptus in Gippsland Australia.

In Buena Vista, Ohio, an apple tree is reported bearing at the same time half-grown apples, buds and blossoms.

The Tea Party tree in Bowthorpe Park, Lincolnshire, England, has a hollow big enough to place a table with seats for several guests.

The region between the Nile and the Red Sea was once clothed in forest. So were the Scotch Highlands.

The oldest chestnut may be that at Torworth, England. It is fifty feet in circumference, but the trunk is very short. So long ago as 1135 it was a landmark and signal, as appears upon records.

In the West of Ireland was an enormous forest until the sixteenth century. After the Geraldine rising in 1534, this great forest was all cut away by English settlers as a means of depriving the Irish of their last hiding place and refuge.

Fighting Consumption.

Consumption or tuberculosis has been the subject of early and more vigorous efforts to check its transmission into Prussia than elsewhere, as is natural, considering that Dr. Koch is a Berlin professor. The result is that while from 1875 to 1887, before his discovery, the deaths from tubercle or consumption, were 31 in 10,000; since 1887 there has been a gradual decrease to 25 in 10,000. Elsewhere this decrease has not taken place. Prussian prisons and insane asylums show a reduction in their death rate from tuberculosis, since careful precautions were adopted. The death rate from this cause among religious nursing orders was in 1881-2 114 per 10,000. In 1893-4 it had dropped to 67, almost half. Facts like these show the absolute necessity of careful precautions for destroying the sputa of consumptive patients. Rigorous care in this direction would greatly decrease a disease to which a large proportion of deaths are due.—Philadelphia Press.

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Tightness of the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Summer coughs are more dangerous than Winter coughs take your temperature.

"All right," responded the patient in a tone of utter resignation. "You've got about everything else I own. There's no reason why you shouldn't take that, too."—Tit-Bits.

The Ruling Passion.

There was a vivacious smile on her face which was most winsome. She murmured happily to her friend: "I've just got such a bargain!"

"How, dear?" inquired the other.

"I sent a telegram, only sixpence for twelve words, and at least six of the words were of more than three syllables!"—Tit-Bits.

Scranton Coal

In order to meet the wishes of a number of our Customers who enquired for SCRANTON Coal, we have put some in stock this season

We carry as well a full line of the Celebrated LACKAWANNA variety which we have handled for a number of years with great general satisfaction.

We shall be pleased to receive your order which will have our best attention.

All coal under cover and thoroughly screened before delivery.

The Rathbun Co.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

CURES

DYSPEPSIA, BAD BLOOD, CONSTIPATION, KIDNEY TROUBLES, HEADACHE, BILIOUSNESS.

B.B.B. unlocks all the secretions and removes all impurities from the system from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

BURDOCK PILLS act gently yet thoroughly on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

SCRIBBLERS !

We manufacture the best Scribbling books for School use in Ontario. The paper is of a superior quality. Have you tried the PEN and INK SCRIBBLER, only 5 Cents.

200 Page SCRIBBLERS -

68 Page Scribbler, One Cent.

100 Page Scribblers, 3 Cents, 2 for 5 cents

All Kinds of School Books and School Requisites kept in Stock.

THE POLLARD CO'Y.

EXPRESS BOOKSTORE, NAPANEE.

Strange, but True

The child that cannot digest milk can digest Cod-liver Oil as it is prepared in Scott's Emulsion. Careful scientific tests have proven it to be more easily digested than milk, butter, or any other fat. That is the reason why puny, sickly children, and thin, emaciated and anæmic persons grow fleshy so rapidly on Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites when their ordinary food does not nourish them.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!

Scott & Bowne, Belleville. 50c. and $1.

I CURE FITS!

Valuable treatise and bottle of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. H. G. ROOT, M.C., 186 West Adelaide Street, Toronto, Ont.

DON'T FOOL

With a cough, cold or sore throat. Use a remedy that relieves from the start, soothes and heals the inflamed tissues of the larynx or bronchial tubes.

PYNY-PECTORAL

is a certain remedy based on a clear knowledge of the diseases it was created to cure.

LARGE BOTTLE 25 CENTS.

STOP WEARING A

CHAPTER VIII.

Lady Florence crossed the room, and stood upon the dais. Her maid removed her ladyship's long, loose ulster and hat, and revealed her mistress in all the splendor of evening dress. The light fell upon a shimmer of satin, the glitter of diamonds, the soft glow of pearls, upon a vision of regal loveliness, calculated to dazzle the eyes of any man.

SenleyTyers exchanged the canvass of the easel and spread some color on his palette, keeping his eyes away from her, as if he could scarcely trust himself to look; and when he laid the palette aside and advanced to put her in the proper pose, he still kept his eyes down.

Lady Florence was being painted half sitting, half reclining on a couch, her fan drooping in her right hand, her left supporting her head. She sank on to the couch with an indifferent, careless air, but at once assumed so graceful an attitude that Senley Tyers had very little to do in the way of arranging. A few touches to the folds of the magnificent dress, and the pose was complete. In giving these touches his hand trembled, but Lady Florence did not notice the fact.

He was to her just a painter; nothing more. Vane Tempest, desirous of doing his friend a service, had asked her to let Senley Tyers paint her portrait for the next Academy, and she had consented, as she would have done if Vane had asked her to allow an artist of the pavement to draw her portrait in colored chalks.

Even the dress was Vane's choice.

He had happened to remark: "You'd better let him do you in all your warpaint; it will create a sensation at the Academy next season, and be a splendid advertisement for my friend. He is first-rate at silks and satins, and diamonds, and all that; at least, so I am told. I don't know much about it myself."

Lady Florence had replied that she would be guided entirely by Vane's opinion, and Vane had chosen the dress.

Lady Florence looked at the picture, and then at the painter, and a faint smile curved her lips.

"Is it to be a full length?" she asked.

"Yes," he replied, without looking up.

"Then I shall have to stand?"

"No, you can sit," he said, briefly.

"Thank you," she said, with a touch of sarcasm.

"Will you please look this way?"

She turned her head toward him, and he looked at her for a moment, then began to paint.

Lady Florence looked at him from under her eyelashes, and wondered why he was so silent. Most painters, she knew, were fond of talking, and she was prepared to be entertained; but Senley Tyers did not open his lips, except to ask her to look this way or that.

Lady Florence was not accustomed to be treated with indifference, and she felt piqued. She looked at him more closely, and saw that he was a handsome man, with a pale, clear-cut face, and dark, deep-set eyes. She wondered why he looked so sad, and why he painted with such a set, stern face.

Then she began to think of Vane Tempest, and a smile parted her lips.

"Please do not smile," said Senley Tyers, in a low, deep voice.

"I beg your pardon," she said, with a touch of haughtiness in her tone. "I was thinking of Vane Tempest."

"Please do not think of him," he said, in the same tone.

Lady Florence looked at him in surprise, and he went on painting.

"Please do not think of him," he repeated, after a pause, during which he had allowed her voice, clear, bell-like yet low, to sing in his ears. "It is hard work, painting some faces; while others—well, they paint themselves."

"Yes?" she said, indifferently.

Her indifference galled him, and he lowered his brush slightly.

"You do not ask if yours is among the latter, Lady Florence," he said, with a faint smile, and a hesitating glance at her.

He did not know how she would take even this respectful approach to the familiar.

"No," she said, not so much with hauteur, as with cool, ice-like impassivity. "It is a question for you, who have to produce the portrait, not for me."

Her half-contemptuous response fell on his like a dash of cold water for a moment; then a fierce anger at her immovability rose within him.

"You are not anxious, then, that the portrait should be a success, Lady Florence?"

She shrugged her shoulders and stroked the cat.

"I am afraid I do not care much about it," she said, with the same indifference.

"And yet most ladies are so very anxious," he said.

"Yes. Her Grace of Mudshire, who has just left, I think she would shed tears if her portrait were not what she expected and hoped it to be."

He went to the duchess' portrait and held it up, a smile, almost a sneer, on his dark, pale face.

Lady Florence looked at the portrait and smiled.

"The duchess should be satisfied, I think," she said.

He set the canvas in its place against the wall.

"And you, Lady Florence?" he asked, standing before the easel. "Will you not see how the picture is progressing and give me your opinion?"

She rose, and, with the cat in her arms, stood before the picture, looking at it with a cold, critical air.

"It is very good," she said, at last.

"Thank you," he said, with a touch of irony in his tone.

"Is it finished?"

"No, I have to paint in the background."

"Then I will not look at it again," she said, with a shrug of her shoulders. "I do not like to see myself in a mirror, and I do not like to see myself in a picture."

"Why?" he asked, looking at her.

"Because I am not vain," she said, with a faint smile.

"Please look at it," he said, in a low voice.

She looked at him, and then at the picture, and the cat sprang from her arms.

"Please look at it," he repeated, after a pause, during which he had allowed her voice, clear, bell-like yet low, to sing in his ears. "It is hard work, painting some faces; while others—well, they paint themselves."

"Yes?" she said, indifferently.

Her indifference galled him, and he lowered his brush slightly.

"You do not ask if yours is among the latter, Lady Florence," he said, with a faint smile, and a hesitating glance at her.

He did not know how she would take even this respectful approach to the familiar.

"No," she said, not so much with hauteur, as with cool, ice-like impassivity. "It is a question for you, who have to produce the portrait, not for me."

Her half-contemptuous response fell on his like a dash of cold water for a moment; then a fierce anger at her immovability rose within him.

"You are not anxious, then, that the portrait should be a success, Lady Florence?"

She shrugged her shoulders and stroked the cat.

"I am afraid I do not care much about it," she said, with the same indifference.

"And yet most ladies are so very anxious," he said.

"Yes. Her Grace of Mudshire, who has just left, I think she would shed tears if her portrait were not what she expected and hoped it to be."

He went to the duchess' portrait and held it up, a smile, almost a sneer, on his dark, pale face.

Lady Florence looked at the portrait and smiled.

"The duchess should be satisfied, I think," she said.

He set the canvas in its place against the wall.

"And you, Lady Florence?" he asked, standing before the easel. "Will you not see how the picture is progressing and give me your opinion?"

She rose, and, with the cat in her arms, stood before the picture, looking at it with a cold, critical air.

"It is very good," she said, at last.

"Thank you," he said, with a touch of irony in his tone.

"Is it finished?"

"No, I have to paint in the background."

"Then I will not look at it again," she said, with a shrug of her shoulders. "I do not like to see myself in a mirror, and I do not like to see myself in a picture."

"Why?" he asked, looking at her.

"Because I am not vain," she said, with a faint smile.

"Please look at it," he said, in a low voice.

She looked at him, and then at the picture, and the cat sprang from her arms.

haughty beauty. Was there no way of rousing her? He felt at that moment as if he would have given half of what remained of his life to see that cold, impassive, lovely face flushed with passion—with passon of love or anger, or, yes, of hate. Its marble-like impassivity tortured him.

To feel that her very presence set his heart aching, and to know that he was less than nothing to her, that no word of his could move her was an agony which throbbed through him like a subtle poison.

He painted on for about a quarter of an hour, then he said:

"We will rest for a little while, Lady Florence, if you please."

She inclined her head, and stroked the cat, which had again coiled itself up on her lap.

"Very well," she said; "painting must be tiring work."

He sauntered to the cabinet and brought out an equisite Venetian flask and glass, and set them on the inlaid moresque table beside the couch.

"Will you let me offer you a glass of Persian wine, Lady Florence?"

She scarcely raised her head.

"No, thanks."

He bowed, and went to the cabinet and poured himself out a glass of the tincture which he has taken just before she had came in, and his eyes began to brighten, and his hand went out toward his cigarette-case; but he remembered who was present, and did not venture to smoke.

He wandered aimlessly about the room, and picked up one of two of the canvases and looked at them absently. The last he caught up was a sketch of Vane Tempest.

He carried it to the light, and stood looking at it with his back to Lady Florence.

It was not a bad sketch and not a good one. He was about to set it down again, when he heard Lady Florence's voice behind him say:

"Mr. Tyers—"

There was so novel a tone in it that he turned round quickly, the sketch in his hand. She was leaning on her elbow, her eyes fixed on the sketch, a faint dash of color in her face. As her eyes met his they faltered, and—yes, dropped.

He stood looking at her in a dull kind of a maze. The lovely face had awakened to life at last; the soul had become visible in the eyes.

For a second, thinking only of his picture, a feeling of delight and gratification sprang up within his heart; then he glanced at the sketch, and the delight changed to the hideous agony of jealousy. It was the sight of Vane Tempest's face that, had roused her

A new device recently patented in U. S. and Canada by CHAS. CLUTHE

ESTABLISHED 1871

RUPTURE CAN BE CURED

WITH NO INCONVENIENCE

WITHOUT A TRUSS

CHEAP BY MAIL

Your name to us means comfort to you. A Post Card will do it.

Age of person or case immaterial

CHAS. CLUTHE

134 KING ST. WEST

TORONTO - - - - CANADA

Robert Light

Manufacturer and Dealer in

Rough and Dressed Lumber

Screen Doors,
Mouldings,
Bee Hives,
Stairs, Blinds,
Turned Work,
Wood Drapery,
Sash,

and Interior Finish for Buildings.

NAPANEE - - ONT

M. STORMS,

MOSCOW

has been over fifty years in the undertaking business in the county, and can turn out work equal to any in the Dominion.

A large stock of Coffins, Caskets, Robes, Crape Gloves and Badges, constantly on hand, and sold at reasonable prices.

Embalming a Specialty. Every facility on hand for doing the work.

25 per cent cheaper than any in the trade. Give me a call at Moscow.

M. STORMS, Prop.

Carscallen & Bro.,

Low Priced, No Combination

Undertaking Establishment.

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of all the latest designs to be found in which we are prepared to sell 25 per cent. cheaper than any House in the county. We use the best deodorizer, thus obviating all unpleasant odors. Embalming a Specialty. Having purchased one of the Handsomest Hearses at the Toronto exhibition we are prepared to attend personally funerals in the most satisfactory manner. The public will do well to call and examine our stock, and be convinced that ours is the place to buy.

COFFINS, CASKETS, ROBES, Etc.

We have also added a full line of the newest things in Wall Paper, Ceiling Decorations, Window Shades and Picture Railing, Paints and Oils Paint Mixed. Persons wanting anything in this line will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere. Remember the place, Centre-street [illegible] south of Main bore putting on evening dress in the daytime, but if you think the picture will be any the better for it, well—' and she had slightly shrugged her shoulders, surprised that Vane should take so much interest in "the painter," and should call him "my friend."

CARSCALLEN & BRO

This was her fourth sitting, but it would scarcely be saying too much to assert that she had not exchanged a dozen sentences with Senley Tyers—had scarcely looked at him, in fact, and that if she had met him in the street, would hardly have recognized him.

If any one had told her that this man knew the sound of her footstep—that her presence so affected him that he was obliged to have recourse to a strong drug to "pull himself together," and enable him to retain his composure—she would not have believed her informant, and would have laughed—no, smiled; for Lady Florence rarely laughed—the idea to scorn.

Senley Tyers, the artist—a kind of superior photographer—dare to think of her in any other way than a servant thinks of his mistress! Well, Lady Florence would not have credited it—or, believing it, would have set the man down as mad.

She was the only daughter of the Earl of Warlock, the peer who, when once asked what he did with his immense wealth, replied, with calm hauteur, 'Sir, I roll in it," She would inherit lands, houses, mines, money from him; but she already possessed a large fortune derived from her mother, who had been a famous heiress.

With her exquisite loveliness, and her vast riches present and prospective, Lady Florence Heathcote was an object in the matrimonial market which many a man had longed to secure. There was no nobleman in the empire, barring one of the royal blood, who would not have considered himself honored by Lady Florence's hand; and if she had so pleased, she might have been a duchess or a marchioness long before this. But Lady Florence had refused a ducal coronet and a share in the most famous marquisate in the kingdom. Some of her friends declared that, like the goddess Diana, she was too proud to wed with any man; others whispered that if a certain Vane Tempest would but ask her to be his wife, her pride would vanish and the goddess melt in the human, notwithstanding that Vane Tempest was a penniless "detrimental," and no match for the celebrated beauty and heiress.

She lay back on the couch, and languidly, indifferently, looked round the room. She did not glance at the picture on the easel, or attempt to criticise the artist, as the Duchess of Mi[illegible] had done. She was there to be painted, and whether the artist did it ill or well mattered nothing to her.

Tiger, the cat sat up and looked at her for a moment speculatively, then rose, stretched itself, and sprang on her lap.

Lady Florence stroked it with her fan, and the animal coiled itself and purred.

Senley Tyers, upon whom no movement of Lady Florence was lost, said:

"You are fond of cats, Lady Florence?"

She raised her head, as if made aware of his existence.

"Not particularly," she said; "this is a very handsome one."

"Yes," he said; "it is a thorough-bred Persian, and very much attached to me."

Lady Florence's face said, as plainly as a face could say, that the information had no interest whatever for her.

Senley Tyers took up his brush and commenced to paint.

No man ever had a lovelier subject, and he worked with that enthusiasm which is only evoked by sheer love of the work. Every now and then he had to glance at her, and the beauty of her face and form began to exercise a peculiar influence over him. It was like some potent spirit that mounted to his brain and set his heart beating fiercely.

He felt that he must speak—must break the spell, or throw down his brush and fall at her feet.

"I hope I am not tiring you, Lady Florence," he said; and in his own ears his voice sounded thick and strained.

She raised her head, and seemed to wake from a deep reverie.

"Oh, no," she said, listlessly; "yours is the tiring part of the business, not mine. I should think you must be weary of painting portraits."

"Of some, yes; of others, no," he said, toward the picture, looked at it with an indifferent eye, and said listlessly:

"Have you flattered me as you have flattered the duchess, Mr. Tyers?"

"No," he said, almost under his breath—her nearness confused and embarrassed him—"no; that were impossible. My difficulty is in painting truthfully."

She looked at him with cold inquiry.

He pointed to the face on the canvas and continued, his voice very low and hushed:

"If you look at the mirror, and then at the face I have painted, you will understand what I mean, Lady Florence. The great master of flesh tints was Etty. You may know that?"

She moved her head slightly in the negative.

"I have heard of him, seen his pictures. I didn't know. I know nothing about art."

"Well, Etty himself would have found it impossible to imitate the delicate tints, the creamy white of the face you see in the mirror. The hair again. Yours has a red gold on it which would have driven even the old Flemish masters to despair. I have tried to suggest—to suggest it only—in my picture, and you see how dull the paint is compared with the original."

She glanced from the mirror to the canvas, critically, calmly, as if they were discussing some other face than her own.

"Then the eyes," he went on. "There are one or two men who can paint eyes, or, rather, the public think they can; but there is not one of them could reproduce the violet shade in yours. Shade! There are a dozen—twenty shades. Sometimes while I am painting them they will change from blue almost to black; and let them be what color they may, they are so beautiful that they fill me with discouragement and despair."

She looked and listened without a blush, without a falter in eyes or in her lips. She was just as unmoved as if he had been the dressmaker dilating on the exquisite perfection of her figure.

"I see you do not confine your flattery to your brush, Mr. Tyers," she said, coldly, indifferently; "but, really I don't see why you should be disappointed. If I am as good-looking as that"—she pointed to the portrait with her fan—"I am quite satisfied."

"And I am not," he said, with subdued warmth. "It is a libel—a caricature! Sometimes I have been on the point of slashing the canvas with my palette-knife, and telling you that I had attempted an impossible task and must relinquish it."

"Pray do so, if you feel in that way about it."

"Perhaps I can show you what I mean—what I miss, where I fail," he said, after a moment's pause. "Do you see the dress, the diamonds, the fan—all that has no life in it? Well, they are painted well enough. Although I say it, I am, if not satisfied with them—for no artist is ever satisfied—at least tolerant of them. I can let them pass. But it is when I come to the face that I find my difficulty. It is as lifeless as the satin and silk; it is just a beautiful mask without a soul, or the breath of life, or thought—"

He stopped and sighed, and looked at her.

"Perhaps that is my fault," she said, going back to the couch and sinking down again. "But please don't be uneasy, Mr. Tyers. I am quite satisfied with my picture, and I am sure my friends will be. Though you may not think so, you have flattered me quite enough."

"Ah, no, no!" he said; "I know that it is not so. I have not stood before it and studied it for hours without learning the truth. I thank you for your patience, Lady Florence—for your kind encouragement."

He took up his brush and went to work again with seeming composure; but inwardly he was burning. There was not another woman in the world, he told himself, who could have stood by unmoved and heard herself spoken of, described, as he had described this life and feeling, "whose portrait is that?"

"This?" he said, slowly. "This is a rough sketch of Mr. Vane Tempest."

"I thought so," she said, sinking back, and speaking with what he felt sure was only a simulation of her usual cold listlessness. "Will you let me see it please?"

He crossed the room and held it in a proper light before her, and his eyes watched hers as they dwelt on it. He saw—his passion—call it love for her, if you will—gave him a keen and piercing insight—her lovely violet eyes soften, grow darker, though she tried to keep their expression one of cold criticism.

"Yes," she said, "this is Mr. Vane Tempest; but it is not a good portrait."

"No," he assented; 'it lacks expression. I have missed that careless, light-hearted look that is in his eyes and about his lips. It is only a rough sketch; I made it one night while he was walking up and down—he is rarely still—smoking. It is worth nothing. They say that it is always difficult for a painter to paint any one whom he loves; perhaps that is why I have missed Vane Tempest's bright look."

"You and he are great friends?" she said; and the same interest displayed itself in her voice.

"Why, yes," he said, "I suppose we are great friends; at any rate, there is great friendship on my side. You do not know, Lady Florence, that Vane Tempest saved my life? He may have told you—"

She smiled rather scornfully.

"He certainly would not have told any one," she said.

Senley Tyers bit his lip.

"No; of course not. No; but it is the fact. Vane Tempest found me starving—on the verge of suicide. He saved me. Not by giving me food and money only—that would not have done it—but by cheering and encouraging me."

"That is like him," she said, softly.

He walked to the easel quickly and softly, and caught up the brush and painted quickly, as he continued talking.

"Most men would have been satisfied in playing the Good Samaritan, and have said 'God-bye'; but Vane Tempest gave me his friendship as well as his food and money. It is to him that I owe the success that has come to me. Yes, we are friends. He comes here when he pleases, and spends what are for me some happy hours. I think there is no one in the world like him—"

He glanced at her. A pensive smile, sad and tender, was in her eyes, and he painted it into the eyes on the canvas.

"So bright and light-hearted, and yet so true and brave!" The violet eyes seemed to glow.

"And he is always the same," he went on. "You know—or perhaps you do not know—that he and I have been down to the west coast together?"

"No," she said. When?—where?"

"Las week,' he said; "to a place called Trelorne. He asked me to go down with him, for company's sake. I left him there. It is a wild spot, and I was quite sorry to leave him."

She leaned forward, leaning on her elbow, her eyes fixed on the sketch where it rested against the wall.

"Why did he go there?" she asked.

"He went to see a relation, an uncle—"

"Ah! I know," she murmured. "Why

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION SI52

LOST OR FAILING MANHOOD,

General and Nervous Debility,

Weakness of Body and Mind, Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young, Robust, Noble Manhood fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen Weak, Undeveloped Organs and Parts of Body. Absolutely unfailing Home Treatment—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

HEART BEATS.

The Reason Why the Heart Flutters, Palpitates, and is Oppressed, and How to Relieve it.

The heart has a hard old time of it and within itself does not excite much disease, but it is very often called upon to display the troubling symptoms of palpitation, fluttering, labored breathing, oppression, etc., on account of diseased Kidneys offering increased resistance to the passage of the blood through their defective secretive structures, causing a morbid change in the blood unsuited to nourish the tissues and noxious to them. The minute arteries resist the passage of this foul blood, resulting in the muscular walls of the arteries and the ventricle of the heart becoming partially paralyzed, and from this cause results much of the so-called heart disease, which is owing to wasting Kidneys not being able to perform their functions. In order to relieve heart trouble remove the cause in the Kidneys with Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They relieve the blood of poisonous deposits, it goes on its way a stream of health, relieving the heart and imparting strength to every tissue of the body. When your heart is in trouble Chase's Pills quickly remove the causing condition, no matter whether it exists on account of disorder of the kidneys, liver, stomach, or of nervous affection. Sold by all dealers. Price 25c. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

did you not stay with him ? It will be lonely and dull."

She might have been speaking to Vane's valet. Senley Tyers set his teeth hard ; then he forced a smile.

"Oh ! he didn't want me. He could not have taken me where he was going. I am rather surprised that I have not heard from him before this. I don't suppose there was any danger."

She raised herself, and the fan dropped from her hand.

"Danger ? What do you mean ?" she said ; and the anxiety pierced through the disguise of her cold voice.

Senley Tyers crossed the room and picked up the fan, and was about to offer it to her ; then he remembered her refusal to take the handkerchief from him, and with a sudden flush laid the fan on the table.

She stretched out her hand and took it, her eyes meeting his in haughty questioning.

"What do you mean by danger ?" she asked.

He raised his brows.

"I scarcely know. He had to ride along the coast some distance, and the people who lent him the horse were full of warnings and forebodings."

She seemed actually to rise; then sank back and smiled.

'I think Mr. Tempest quite capable of taking care of himself," she said.

"Oh, yes !"—he laughed softly—"quite capable and strong enough. Still, I am rather surprised he has not written a line. When he comes back, I will do another sketch of him. This, as you say, is really bad."

He took it up and raised his palette-knife to dash it across the face, his eyes watching her sideways.

She sprang from the couch and caught his arm ere the knife could fall.

Her face was pale, her eyes flashing, her breath coming fast.

The two looked into each other's eyes in silence for an instant ; then she said, with a catch in her voice, proudly, haughtily :

"Do not destory it, please. I—I will buy it !"

His face was as pale as hers, but sallow, and sinister smile played over it as he flung the knife on the small table beside the easel.

"I will make you a present of it, if you will accept it, Lady Florence," he said. "Stay," as she inclined her head and was about to sweep back to the couch. "Do not move!" He turned quickly, and caught up his brush and painted. She watched him as he worked with haughty displeasure and impatience, then a lok of wonder and interest began to dawn in her eyes.

He was transforming the face on the canvas ; it had been a dead, soulless mask, it was now becoming, under his rapid and skillful hand, the face of a woman, alive and breathing love !

He turend to her with a smile of triumph that still had something sinister in it.

"You see," he said, "there is life and soul there now ! You have given me what I wanted ! And"—he paused and nificent avenue of oaks.

As he opened the gate and rode up the avenue he was somewhat surprised to see that the drive was well kept, that the shrubs lining it were choice ones, and, like the trees, evidently well-cared for ; but his surprise was intensified as, at sudden bend of the road, he came in sight of what without exaggeration may be called a stately mansion.

It had a long facade pierced by arched windows opening on the ground floor on to a stone terrace, with wide steps leading to velvety lawns studded here and there with beds glowing with autumn flowers.

It was so stately, so grand a place that Vane pulled up hesitatingly. He had expected to see—well, a fairly good building of the farm-house type, with a garden roughly kept and in harmony with the wild scenery and inhabitants of the district.

This long, stretching pile, glowing whitely in the sunlight, "gave him pause," as Hamlet says.

"I suppose I've lost my way again," he said to himself ; and he looked round for some one to whom he could make inquiries.

He saw no one for a minute or two but presently a small, bent old man dressed in fustian, and carrying a pruning-hook in one hand and a bunch of twigs in the other, came from among the trees and set to work on the hedge.

Vane rode up to him, and called him in his uual-free-and-easy style.

"Hi ! Is this Vale Hall ?"

The old man turned his head without straightening his back, and looked up at him with a pair of keen, piercing eyes, which had in them, notwithstanding their keenness, that peculiar expression that grows into and sets hard in the eyes of the man who lives far from the madding crowd. Every laborer one meets on a country road has it.

The old man looked at the stalwart figure and handsome face half vacantly for a moment, as if he doubted the evidence of his eyes ; then he said quietly :

"What ?"

Vane repeated the question.

"Yes ; this is Vale Hall," said the old man ; and swung his hook again, as if the question and questioner were done with and had quite ceased to interest him.

"Thanks," said Vane. "Can you tell me if Mr. Vale is at home ?"

The old fellow stopped his work and eyed him again.

"The squire's at home," he said, succinctly.

Vane laughed his light-hearted laugh.

"I beg pardon. I ought to have said 'the squire,'" he said. "Whereabouts are the stables, my man ?"

"Back of the house," was the reply ; and the hook went to work vigorously again.

"Look here," said Vane ; "perhaps you'll come and show me the way and take my horse, will you ?" and he rode up closer and held out a half crown.

The old man took it.

"Thank you ; I'll show ye," he said ; and he walked beside the horse, with his hook crossed in true laborer fashion over his arm.

"After all," said Vane, "I don't know why I should trouble you. I expect I shcuild find a groom there."

"Ay, like enough," said the man ; "but you've paid me, and I'll come."

"Right," said Vane, cheerily ; "I'm glad the squire is at home, for I've come all the way from London to see him. And nearly broken my neck on the journey," he had almost added.

The old man nodded, but did not appear to feel any particular interest in the statement.

"What a beautiful place you have here !" Vane went on. "I suppose you have lived here a long time ?"

"Ay," was the reply ; "a good many years, young sir."

"Come," thought Vane, "this uncle of mine keeps his servants a long time : he can't be altogether a bad fellow."

The old man led him past the front of the house, Vane checked the horse to look and admire.

"Splendid !" he said, as he reached the stables.

A groom came forward, but the old man led the horse into a stall and haltered it, as if desirous of earning the half crown ; and Vane, wiping his forehead and flicking the dust from his clothes with his whip, said :

"Don't give him any water till he's cool please. Give him a rub-down first."

Oh ! he said, here you are again. Horse all right ?"

The old man nodded, and shuffled across the room and arranged the logs on the fire.

Vane watched him curiously.

"I am waiting to see Mr. Vale," he said.

"What do you want with him ?" asked the old man, with a keen glance.

Vane laughed shortly.

"Well," he said, "perhaps I had better wait and tell that to himself."

The old man sank into a chair, and pointed to one behind Vane.

"Sit down," he said. "I am Reuben Vale."

Britisher—Are your humorists here in America generaly read?

Dilson—Well, no; those I have met have been most infernally blue.—Toledo Blade.

Mrs. Johnson—Bress my soul, chile, Whaffo' yo' rubbin' dat stove-blackin' on your face?

Little Dinah—Dat's fo' my complexionu, mommer.

Mrs. Gossipy—You are quite a young man to have gained the title of Colonel.

Col. Bourbon—I inherited it, madame, along with my honored father's estates in Kentucy.

Young Wife—When my husband gets cross I always threaten to go home to my mother.

Old Wife—Mercy, child! how simple you are! You should threaten to have your mother come to you.

Mrs. S.—Why don't you go to work?

Tramp—Please, mum, I made a solemn vow twenty years ago that I'd never do another stroke of work till women was paid th' same wages as men. (Gets a trifle.)—Beatrice Democrat.

"Miranda," said the new woman to her junior companion, "I am afraid you are forgetting yourself."

"Why?" was the startled inquiry.

"You did not remove your bonnet when you rode up in the elevator with that young man."

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatuleney.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bul
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."
See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

ROYAL SCALP FOOD.

Price $1.00
6 Bottles $5.00 Exp Pd.

ONE HONEST MAN AND BUT ONE RELIABLE

HAIR FOOD.

NO DYE.

We feed the Hair that which it lacks jealousy, the rage that was burning within him—"and you have given me your secret !"

She recoiled instinctively, as one recoils from the uplifted head, the forked tongue of a snake.

"My—secret ?" she panted, haughtily, yet with an undertone of vague dread.

"Yes," he said. He pointed to the sketch which she still held, which unconsciously she pressed to her heart. "Yes, I give you that portrait, Lady Florence; what will you say if I give you the original—the man himself ?"

The scarlet rushed to her face, her eyes blazed ; then they fell beneath his half-mocking, half-imperious gaze.

"I do not understand you," she faltered, almost inaudibly.

"I think you do," he said, slowly. "Hush ! your maid is listening. Come to me for a sitting to-morrow, and I will show you that I make no idle boast when I say that I can gratify the one, the dearest wish of your heart."

She tried to laugh, to beat him down—this low-born, presumptuous adventurer—with the scorn which flowed so readily from her eyes, her lips ; but she could not. His eyes, his dark sallow face, seemed to hold her in thrall.

For the first time since her acquaintance, they had changed places. It was she who, metahorically, was at his feet, instead of he at hers.

She drew a long breath, opened her lips, as if about to declare that she would not come again ; then she turned away in silence.

A smile of triumph curled Senley Tyers' thin lips. He took up her cloak and her fan, and approached her.

"Permit me," he said.

Yesterday, an hour ago, she would have drawn back with a surprised stare at his venturing to touch her garments, excepting to arrange them for her pose. Even now she shrank a little and lifted her superb eyes ; eventually she submitted—she who a week ago had refused to take a handkerchief from his hand.

CHAPTER IX.

Vane rode on in a state of mind difficult to describe. It was so hard to believe that all that had happened during the last few days had really happened and had not been dreamed.

One thing, however, impressed the reality of the incidents upon him, and that was the rememberance of Nora's kiss. The touch of the soft, warm lip clung to his as he rode along, and aroused a feeling within him which haunted him mile by mile.

He could not get her out of his head—the pure, oval face, the dark-grey eyes, the thick tresses of soft, silky black ; the very tones of her voice rang in his ears.

The strangeness of the elder woman, the discovery that they were smugglers, the attack of the revenue men, all faded to insignificance in his mind beside the rememberance of that girlish face as it had been held up to his with glowing eyes and quivering lips.

"Poor little Nora," he mutered. "What an existence, what a fate ! Can't read or write, and shut up with a smuggling aunt. She's worthy of a better life than that. And she tried to break my neck. But she made up for it afterward. If I'd been killed outright, I should have had to forgive her."

He put his hand under his waistcoat and smiled—a half-tender, half-pitying smile—to feel if the shilling was still there. It was there all right, and, somehow, the feel of the coin was pleasant to him.

"I wonder if something couldn't be done for her ?" he asked himself, wistfully. "She'll fall off those confounded cliffs, or come to grief with that smuggling business, as sure as fate. I wish I could do something—get her away, into a kind of Home of some kind."

But even as he formulated the wish in his mind, he felt how hopeless and futile it was. He had promised to say nothing of the existence of the two women ; and even if he had not given such a promise, he felt that Nora was the sort of girl who would go mad or die if she were shut up in a Home of any sort.

But for miles he thought of her, recalled her, dwelt upon her, as assuredly he had never yet dwelt upon the remembrance of any other woman. But then he did not regard Nora Trevanion as a "woman" ; she was just a half-wild child-girl to him, no more.

He rode fast and had no difficulty in finding the road, and presently he saw coat as Vane turned away and retraced his steps to the front again. He went slowly up the steps, and paused to look at the view. No better position for a house could have been chosen : wide-stretching lawns, a fringe of park, the hill-broken plain beyond—all lay before Vane's surprised and admiring eyes.

The hall door was open, and he stepped in. It was a large hall, built, as Vane noticed with amazement, of Spanish mahogany. Broad stairs of the same wood led to the corridor—also composed of the same costly timber—which ran round three sides of the hall. A great window of stained glass occupied nearly a third of the back wall, and pictures and flags and men in armor were ranged on the other three.

A tremendous fire burned in a wide grate with dog-irons, and a huge deerhound, which had been lying before the blaze, came forward, growling, to meet the intruder. Vane stretched out his hand and patted him, and the hound, after an investigating sniff, thrust his nose into Vane's hand, and accepted the overture of friendship.

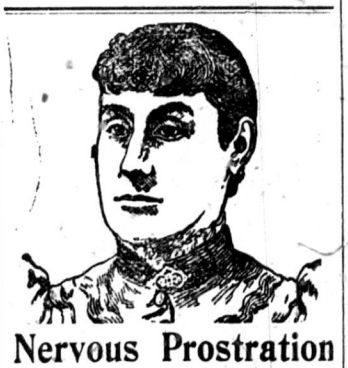
While he was talking to and patting the dog, a servant in plain black livery came from behind the curtains that draped the wide door under the gallery.

"Can I see Mr. Vale ?" asked Vane, and he took out a card. The man took it, but looked doubtful. "I don't know, sir. I will see. Will you please take a seat ?"

Vane dropped into a chair beside the fire, and presently the man came back.

"Please follow me sir," he said. He crossed the hall and ushered Vane into a library. If he had not been prepared by the space and luxury of the hall, Vane would have been astonished by the elegance and subdued richness of the room and its appointments. The book-cases and furniture were of teak and ebony, though Vane did not know it ; the hangings were of old Amiens velvet ; there were Wedgewood placques in the panels that would have made a connoisseur's mouth water.

While he was looking round him with wonder and some amusement at the contrast between the reality of Vale Hall and his preconceived idea of it, the door opened and the old woodman entered. Vane nodded.



Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 58 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Only

True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye today. It is not what we say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla. 25c.

CURES BALDNESS,
STOPS FALLING HAIR,
CURES DANDRUFF,
RESTORES FADED AND GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR AND VITALITY.
PERFECTLY HARMLESS.
WARRANTED.
CLEAR AS WATER.
NO SEDIMENT. NO LEAD, SULPHUR OR CHEMICALS.

THEORY.

ROYAL SCALP FOOD destroys the diseased germs of the scalp and a healthy action is set up.

It contains the principal properties of the hair that are necessary to its life without which it will not grow. It fertilizes the scalp the same as you do a field of corn and growth is certain. It invigorates the sluggish scalp, cleanses it and thoroughly eradicates all dandruff; which is the forerunner of baldness.

It is the ONLY remedy ever discovered that will restore the Life, Beauty and Natural Color to the hair without fail. MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY FILLED.

SEND FOR FREE PAMPHLETS.

STATE AND LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

ROYAL SCALP FOOD CO.

Box 305, WINDSOR, ONT.

THE PERSON

that wants a good match and that knows a thing or two will remember that this brand is synonomous with everything desirable in fire-producing lucifers.

E. B. EDDY'S MATCAES.

Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company

GENERAL PASSENGER TIME TABLE,

Eastern Standard Time. No. 9. Taking effect October 8th, 1893

Tweed and Tamworth to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2 A.M.	No.4 P.M.	No.6 P.M.
Lve	Tweed	0	7 00	....	3 00
	Stoco	3	7 08	....	3 10
	Larkins	7	7 20	....	3 25
	Marlbank	13	7 35	....	3 40
	Erinsville	17	7 50	....	3 55
	Tamworth	20	8 00	2 00	4 10
	Wilson*	24	....	....	....
	Enterprise	26	8 18	2 20	4 30
	Mudlake Bridge*	28	....	....	....
	Moscow	31	8 30	2 35	4 43
	Galbraith*	33	....	....	....
	Yarker	35	8 43	2 50	4 55
Lve	Yarker	35	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	39	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills	40	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	41	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	43	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	49	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee	49	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	54	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	58	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Tamworth and Tweed.

	Stations.	Miles	No.1 A.M.	No.3 P.M.	No.5 P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	9 00	12 45	5 05
	Galbraith*	25	....	....	....
	Moscow	27	9 15	1 00	5 22
	Mudlake Bridge*	30	....	....	....
	Enterprise	32	9 30	1 15	5 35
	Wilson*	34	....	....	....
	Tamworth	38	9 50	1 35	5 35
	Erinsville	41	10 00	....	6 05
	Marlbank	45	10 15	....	6 18
	Larkins	51	10 30	....	6 35
	Stoco	55	10 50	....	6 50
Arr	Tweed	58	11 00	....	7 00

Kingston and Sydenham to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2. A.M.	No.4. P.M.	No.6. P.M.
Lve	Kingston	0	6 45	....	3 30
	G. T. R. Junction	2	6 55	....	3 40
	Glenvale*	10	7 17	....	....
	Murvale*		7 27	....	4 18
Arr	Harrowsmith	19	7 40	....	4 30
Lve	Sydenham	23	8 00	....	....
	Harrowsmith	19	8 20	....	4 30
	Frontenac*	22	8 32	....	4 42
Arr	Yarker	26	8 40	....	4 50
Lve	Yarker	26	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	30	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	31	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	32	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	34	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	40	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee, West End	40	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	45	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	49	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Sydenham and Kingston.

	Stations.	Miles.	No.1 A.M.	No.3. P.M.	No.5. P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburg	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 15
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 22
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 35
	Sydenham	34	....	....	5 50
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Murvale*	35	9 17	....	....
	Glenvale*	39	....	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 50	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

R. C. CARTER, Asst. Gen. Manager

G. A. BROWNE, Gen. Pass. Agent

H. B. SHERWOOD, Superintendent.

The Napanee Express

$1.

The Weekly Globe.

BEST CLUBBING OFFER EVER MADE.

By paying one dollar in advance these two popular and reliable papers will be sent post free to the subscriber's address. Call at the "Express Office" and secure this bargain.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Going Going

STEADILY GOING

It's wonderful the progress this store is making. Every day's sales exceed the previous day, every week exceeds the previous week and every month the previous month. It seems that every day some new customer discovers the fact that they can do better here than elsewhere. No one can undersell us. No one does undersell us.

New Millinery.

We are giving special attention to the equipment of this department this season. We have secured the services of first-class Milliners. We have tasty goods at rock bottom prices and will sell them cheaper than any other store. Don't be afraid to come and see our Goods. The closer you examine them the better you will be convinced that they are just what you want.

Fine Orderea Clothing.

JAS. WALTERS, CUTTER.

Mr. Walters skill is well known. He can fit you better than any other cutter. The only question is, "Can he sell as cheap as others"? Certainly. Emphatically, yes. All we ask is that when you want to buy that you will give us a call and see for yourself.

White Wool Blankets.

We have just received a new lot of White Wool Blankets which are away under price. You will soon need Blankets. Why not buy now while you can get these at a bargain.

Flannelette.

Another great bargain is our Flannelette extra wide width at 8c. per yd. Customers are just beginning to realize its value and in consequence we can scarcely supply the demand.

75c. Corset.

We have just received a new make of Corsets to sell at 75c. They are worth $1.00 at any other store. You will like them.

THE ROBNSON CO'Y.

CARLETON WOODS.
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
31y Roblin, Ont.

Hogs Wanted.

I will ship hogs again on Wednesday next the 25th for which I will pay the highest market value. I want those weighing Apples and Grain Wanted.

We are paying highest market prices for evaporating apples and all kinds of grain and farm produce delivered at Camden East. We are also selling goods at low prices Give us a call before buying or selling,

STOVER & BICKNELL.

Challenge.

The Scarlet Foot Ball Club of Napanee hereby challenge any team in the Bay of Quinte district to a friendly game of foot ball. The game to be played on the grounds of the Scarlet Foot Ball Club. Acceptors will please confer with M. B. McDonald, Secretary Scarlet Foot Ball Club.

Death of Orlin Herring.

Mr. Orlin Herring died in the Kingston hospital on Monday. He had been in the hospital for several weeks undergoing treatment for paralysis. Deceased was a brothe rof Mr. John Herring, and about 70 years of age. The remains were brought to Napanee on Tuesday and the funeral took place to the Napanee cemetery on the same day,

Will be at the Paisley House.

A thing of beauty is a joy forever. So it is with the new styles Prof. Dorenwend sells to ornament the head. This fall he has many new styles added. A few, mentioned here, meet with such a demand by the ladies that the firm had to put in double its plant in order to fill their orders. The Bellena Bang front, made of natural curl wavy hair and natural parting takes the lead. The Pompador style, the Irene bang, the Victoria Coil for back set are all selling fast. Prof. Dorenwend will be at the Paisley House on Tuesday, October 1st. This will be his only visit to Napanee this year, so take the opportunity offered. 42 b Appointed Principal.

The following taken from the Hamilton Herald refers to an old Napanee High School boy and will be read with interest : L. T. Lochheed, M, A., who has been assistant in English and modern languages in Hamilton Collegiate Institute, has tendered his resignation, having accepted an appointment as principal of Caledonia High School. Mr. Lochheed is a graduate of Queen's University, and took a post-graduate course at Toronto, where he obtained his M. A. He is in his seventh year as a member of the Collegiate Institute staff. At Caledonia Mr. Lochheed will have under him two Toronto graduates, one a specialist in mathematics and the other a specialist in classics. He will take charge on Sept. 30th.

Neckwear in all the latest styles at Hogan's.

Barney King Killed.

A dispatch from Sturgis, Mich., on Tuesday says : "Trainmen on the Grand Rapids and Indiana railway, while coupling a freight train here early Tuesday morning, found the body of a man under a car. No one knows how it came to be there. The remains were later identified by means of papers found on the dead man's person as being those of Barney King, a resident of Napanee, Ont," Barney was addicted to drink, but otherwise was a harmless enough person. He was a good tailor, but owing to intemperate habits could not hold a job for any length of time. He worked for McAlister & Co at various times, and while he kept sober was a model workman. Although he figured somewhat prominently as the principal in the McLeod murder trial, it was pretty clearly established that he was perfectly innocent in the matter. He had a somewhat checkered career, and his tragic ending was a fitting climax to a misspent life.

Nice Felt Hats for present wear at Hogan's

Wedding Bells.

We clip the following from the Lindsay Post of Sept 10th :—" There was a very happy gathering this morning at the residence of Mr. Byror. Robinson, Glenelg-st., the occasion being the marriage of Miss Minnie, eldest daughter of Mr. Robinson, to Mr. S. V. Lowey, of Deseronto, bookkeeper for the Rathbun Co. of that town. The ceremony took place at 9 a.m., in the presence of immediate friends of the contracting parties, and was performed by the Rev. S. J. Shorey, pastor of the Cambridge st, Methodist church—an old friend of the family. The bride was dressed in cream serge, trimmed with point lace and natural flowers and looked very charming indeed.

Stoves ! Stoves !! Stoves !!!

See our large No 9 Cook Stove for $11.00.

T. H. WALLER.

A Unanimous Call.

The Napanee Presbyterian church has extended a unanimous call to the Rev. W. W. Peck, of Kingston. The Presbyterians are fortunate in securing such an able preacher, and we predict that his labors here will be attended with marked success.

Grain Wanted.

I want 30.000 bushels of Barley, 20.000 bushels of Peas, 10.000 bushels of Rye, and a few Oats for which I will pay the highest prices. I will also pay the highest price for Timothy and Clover seed delivered here. Bring samples and get my prices before selling.

40tf F. E. VANLUVEN.

See to it.

Give your full attention, never allowing your eyes to suffer neglect. Remember you can have them examined free of charge by H.E. Smith at Smith &Bros., Napanee, the only optican in this county. He has met with unparalelled success and can show numerous testimonials. Always look to the qualifications of those in whose hands you place yourself, as your eyes are most precious. You can procure artificial teeth or limbs but an artificial eye is useless. Remember the old firm.

F. W. Smith & Bros., Napanee.

The Grim Reaper.

Miss Beatrice Viola Woodcock, aged 18 years, and 6 days, passed quietly away at her father's residence, South Napanee, on Monday. Deceased contracted a cold about a year and a half ago which developed into bronchial catarrh, and her death though regretted, was not unexpected. She bore her illness with christian fortitude and died with a prayer on her lips. She was the only daughter of Mr. J. Woodcock, and a sister of Messrs Wm. and Philip Woodcock. Deceased was much esteemed for her many good qualities, and the family will have the sympathy of all in their bereavement. The funeral took place yesterday to the Western cemetery and was well attended.

Died in Youth.

It is with feelings of deep regret that we are called upon to chronicle the demise of Miss Florence Harris, which sad event occurred at her father's residence, Picton on Monday, 9th inst. Deceased held a position as ladies' maid on the steamer Deseronto and was well known and highly esteemed here. She was ill but two weeks, her death being attributed to acute pneumonia. Deceased was 21 years and 21 days of age and a remarkably fine looking woman. She was the daughter of Ezekiel Harris of Picton, and a neice of Capt. Wm. Skillen, of the Deseronto. Quite a number from Napanee attended the funeral which took place to the Picton cemetery and was very largely attended.

Gone to His Reward.

On September 11th, 1895, at the family residence, township of Richmond, there passed away at the ripe old age of 77 years and 11 months William R. Sills, a man esteemed and respected by all for his probity of character and christian kindness He was born in the township of South Fredericksburgh and was one of the landmarks of this district. He was a very successful farmer, having purchased the family homestead in Richmond township about twenty-five years ago, and by thrift and economy prospered at this occupation. Deceased was married in 1840 to Miss Lucy McCabe, of Hay Bay, and five children were the result of the union, four of whom survive to comfort the grief stricken widow in the declining years of her life. The children, Ibra B., Uriah, Erastus and Mrs. James Empey, of Switzerville, are held in high esteem and respect. Mrs. Michael Pringle, the eldest daughter, preceded her father to the grave about ten years ago. Mr. Sills served as a volunteer in the rebellion of 1837. He was a member of the Methodist church, and a christian who both by precept and example was a living witness to the saving powers of Christ Jesus. Deceased was a staunch Reformer and during his life did yeoman service for the Liberal cause. His funeral took place on the 13th inst, to the Napanee Cemetery and was largely attended.

IN MEMORIAM.

In Memorian of Mr. William Sills, who died at his residence in Richmond on the 11th day of September, 1895.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Express Office. Napanee.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, SEP. 6, 1895

All local reading notices or notices announcing entertainments at which a fee is charged for admission, will be charged 5c per line for each insertion, if in ordinary type. In black type the price will be 10c per line each insertion.

The Harrowsmith Fall Fair this year was away in advance of any previous one held there.

Our sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lockwood in the loss of their two months old baby.

Yankee Doodle built a boat, she was fast and pretty ; she won three races by the aid of steamboats and committee.

One of the large plate glass windows in Lahey & McKenty's store was cracked recently. It is believed to be the work of some small boys.

It is conceded by everybody that a newspaper is a public educator, and there are many people who take this course of instruction, and yet kick when asked to pay for their tuition.

Miss Nellie Ganthony, the actress and elocutionist who appeared in the Opera House here last winter, was married the other day to John Clark, a Toronto barrister, and will retire from the stage.

David Henry, who was arrested recently for procuring liquor for Charles Peirson, a prohibited person, was given the option of going to gaol for thirty days, or relieving the town of his presence. David chose the latter.

In connection with the great yacht race it will be interesting to know that it was a former young resident of Deseronto that named the American yacht, "Defender." A prize of $100 was offered for a name and he got the money.

Wheat is down and so is Keewatin Flour. You better get Kimmerly's prices for Flour before buying. Our 25 cent Tea beats the world and don't you forget it. 22 lbs. best granulated sugar for $1 cash, 10 Bars Soap for 25c. Finest Pearl Topioca 5c, per lb, 4 lbs. Crackers 25c.

The people of Odessa evidently love one another, as the following list of marriages for this week will show. On Tuesday Arthur Fraser was united in wedlock to Miss Nellie M. Fraser, only daughter of Mr. J. C. Fraser. Miss Sarah C. Howie was united in marriage to Canfield Clancy, of Centreville, on the 4th inst. Miss Mary E. Arnah, of Ernestown, and George Evans were made one.

Napanee Mills has started a public library. A meeting of the citizens was held on Monday evening and these officers were elected : President, F. S. B. Allen ; vice-president, John Hopper ; librarian, Chas. Weir ; secretary and treasurer, Owen Scouten. These, with Geo. S. Madden, E. J. Reid and Martin Kehoe, comprise the board of management.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

not extra fat. Prices will depend some on what hogs sell for in Montreal and Toronto on Monday and Tuesday next, but I do not expect to pay more than 4½ or less than 4c. for those selected weights and would advise farmers to sell what they have ready. Heavy hogs will not bring more than 3½ to 3¾ cents.

C. E. BARTLETT.

The wife of Mr. John McOlley, of Yarker, died on Wednesday.

Mr. C. Barton, of Yarker, had his nose broken and face badly cut by part of a roof falling on him.

The Athletic Club of the N. C. I. will hold their annual day of sports on Friday October 11th.

Samuel S. Trumpour has purchased the brick dwelling owned by the estate of the late Lucius Hart, Picton, for $1,100

The Mutes of Belleville and the Scarlet foot ball club of Napanee will play a friendly game of foot ball at Belleville on Friday next.

The Ladies' Guild of S. Mary Magdalene have leased the Brisco House for the two days of the County Show, and will run a temperance hotel.

On Saturday, Mr. W. Buryman, of Napanee Mills, had an operation performed on him by Dr. Sullivan, of Kingston, in the matter of setting a leg.

Rombough and Blakely threshed for John T. Soby, Adolphustown, 1,108 bushels of grain in five hours ; in one hour of the five 300 bushels were thrashed.

On Friday last in view of her approaching marriage, the choir of St. Mark's church, Deseronto, presented Miss Lillie Morrison with a marbleised clock and fruit dish.

Another Hamilton Citizen Cured of Rheumatism in three Days

Mr. I. McFarlane, 256 Wellington street, Hamilton : "For many weeks I suffered intense pain from rheumatism—was so bad that I could not attend to business. I procured South American Rheumatic Cure on the recommendation of my druggist and was completely cured in three or four days by the use of this remedy only. It is the best remedy I ever saw.

SOLD BY W. S. DETLOR.

The Steamer Reindeer will carry passengers on the days of the Napanee County Show, Sept. 24th and 25th, for one fare and return, leaving Cressa at 6 a. m. calling at all docks if flagged ; Picton at 8 a. m. Will leave Napanee on the 25th at 5 o'clock p. m.

Catarrh Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes

One short puff of the breath through the Blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this Powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves instantly, and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tousilitis and Deafness 60 cents. Sold by W. S. Detlor—46p

DAFOE & PAUL,

Undertakers

EVERYTHING NEW AND FIRST-CLASS.

who was also prettily dressed in white serge. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Edgar Lowey, of Deseronto. After the ceremony an appetitizing breakfast was partaken of, and the time passed very pleasantly until the hour of departure to the train, which conveyed the happy pair east-ward to attend the wedding of Miss Lowey, sister of the groom, when the two couples will enjoy their wedding trip together, visiting Toronto, Niagara Falls and several western points. The presents were numerous and very handsome.

A Nocturnal Visitor.

Thursday of last week the residence of Mr. J. Lucas, confectioner, was burglarized. It appears that the robber effected an entrance into the house before the family retired. The family live above the store, and while Mrs. Lucas was upstairs putting her little daughter Gladis to bed she heard a slight noise, but thought nothing of it at the time. After the child had fallen asleep Mrs. Lucas decended to the shop and assisted her husband to make up the cash. Shortly afterwards they retired for the night. About one o'clock Mrs. Lucas was awakened by footsteps and to her horror discovered a man in the room. She awoke Mr. Lucas and jumped out of bed. The man, as soon as discovered, tried to grab Mr. Lucas but he caught little Gladis instead. In hunting around in the dark for something to defend himself with Mr. Lucas ran up against the burglar. The fellow evidently thought it was getting too hot for him and made for the door. Mrs. Lucas was partly downstairs when the robber made his appearance and commanded her to halt, but fright lent swiftness and she sped out on the street and raised an alarm, but before any one arrived the burglar had escaped. He obtained a purse belonging to Mrs. Lucas' sister which contained a small amount of money, but not before he had gone through all the bureau drawers in the house and scattered their contents on the floor.

Boy's Suits that will give the greatest wear for the least money at Hogan's.

Harvest Home at Selby.

DEAR EXPRESS. — Permit me through your valuable paper to give an account of a most enjoyable time had at Selby on the 4th inst. The occasion was that of the annual Harvest Home Dinner, inaugurated by the pastor two years ago in the interest of the new parsonage then being erected. Through the labors and direction of the Rev. F. B. Stratton, it will be remembered this praiseworthy object was begun, and we were all pleased and surprised to find so much had been accomplished when we heard the report. Well, this Harvest Dinner, as both the others, was a magnificent success. The day was beautiful, the tables were just elegantly laden, and the people did enjoy unloading them once more in the shade of the orchard grove. When ample justice had been done, the crowd repaired to the church. The chair was occupied by Uriah Wilson M. P., and a programme rendered good enough for any people or place in this land. After singing Rev. R. McCulloch led in prayer. Then followed the chairman's address, and your readers know he is good at that. The report was next read by the pastor showing the amount raised, and from what sources, in the past two years. Total in cash and subscriptions yet due $1274, by socials and concerts about $100, excursions $280 and dinners, including the present one, about $300. At the close of the report a most flattering and commendatory resolution was moved and ably spoken to by Henry Wilson, Esq., eulogizing and thanking Rev. Mr. Stratton for the interest he has taken in raising the funds and aiding in this enterprise as he has. "But for his efforts the work would not have been done. 'Mr. Stratton is just the man to raise funds to build or pay debts—the right man in the right place as also in the pulpit." The motion was seconded and carried enthusiastically. The Rev. gentleman briefly acknowledged the compliment. The programme then proceeded. Able addresses were given by Revs. I. R. Batter, of Roblin, R. Atkinson, incumbent of St. John's, Selby, W. G. Clarke, B. A., Yarker, and R. McCulloch, of Newburgh. They were all first-class, nothing to detract from the social or religious life. The music was good, the choir rendering several anthems, a duett, by Miss Nettie Stratton and Mrs. J. C. Hudgins, and last though not least two admirable solos rendered with fine effect by Rev. Mr. Clarke. Something over a hundred then sat down to a fine ten cent tea and the proceedings of the day closed with everybody well pleased.

ONE WHO WAS PRESENT.

Sept. 6th, '95.

In the year of our Lord ninety five,
On the eleventh day of September,
Father's afflictions were over
That parting we long will remember.
Dear father has gone to his rest,
He will suffer affliction no more ;
To remove him from earth God thought best
To a home on that ever green shore.

He has said to his children farewell,
He has took from their lips his last kiss,
Gone home with his Saviour to dwell
Dear father we often will miss.
His work for the Master was done,
He was ready when called for to go,
A crowd of bright glory has won
And a robe that is white as the snow,

Father now in his garment of white,
Walks the street with that glorified throng,
In the raptures of glory delight
With the glorified sing the new song.
With us he could no longer stay,
His body was borne from our door,
Angels bright did his spirit conveys
Where partings and tears are no more.

Dear father, bound close to our heart,
As the ivy that clings to the oak,
But Jesus thought best we should part
The cord that once bound us is broke.
As we stood by the side of his casket
And gazed on his marble white brow,
Wish him back, no, we never could ask,
For he is far happier now.

It was hard to bid father good-by,
And to bury him out of our sight ;
God took him, we cannot tell why,
But we know what he does must be right.
Children dear I must bid you farewell,
Let me take from your lips a last kiss,
I am going with Jesus to dwell,
Your Father you often will miss.

Remember you have one more tie,
To draw you from this world of care,
May we all meet again by and by,
In a home of the blest over there.
Dear wife and children you will not forget
When I am laid under the sod,
Though lonely yet do not fret,
For Fathers' home now is with God.

Their First Home Game.

A large and interested crowd of spectators congregated at the grounds of the Scarlet Foot Ball club of Napanee, on Friday, Sept 6th, to witness the battle for supremacy between the home team and the Glenora foot ball club. It was a battle royal, and those who witnessed it were loud in their praise of the scientific exposition of the game. Additional interest was attached to this match from the fact that this was the Scarlets first home game and that the previous match with Glenora had ended in a draw. The visitors brought down the best team procurable, among them being the noted goal keeper, E Kingston, of Picton, better known to the foot ball fraternity as "Joe Beef." The Glenora boys are a fine, strong, athletic looking aggregation and they landed in Napanee fully determined to win. About half past three o'clock p. m. the teams lined up as follows ; Napanee, goal, E. Hayes ; backs, F. Scott, W. Ashley ; half backs, A. Preston, W. B. Haines, and W. Carson ; forwards, F. Grieve, P. Wagar, W. Exley, P. Preston, C. Fox. Glenora, goal, E. Kingston ; backs, R. Forneri, H. Littler ; half backs, E. Hopkins, C. McGillivray and F. Watson ; forwards, T. Green, J. Green, T. Craven, W. Green and E. Powers. From the start to the finish the superiority of the Scarlets was apparent. Their combination work was almost faultless, while the Glen men were sadly deficient in this respect. Wherever the ball went there always appeared to be two Scarlet men to play it. The individual play of some of the Glenora team was good, but the trouble with them was too much individual play. The work of their defence was excellent, and it may be incidentaly mentioned that they had lots of it to do, as Glenora was forced to play largely on the defensive throughout the game. Napanee's first goal was scored after a pretty exhibition of passing in front of goal, the ball being shot through by W. Exley, materially assisted by Porter Preston charging and knocking down the goal keeper. Shortly before half time a second goal was scored by W. Exley. There was but one goal scored in the second half, it being put through for the Scarlets by Porter Preston. Glenora tried hard to score in the second half, but they only succeeded in getting one shot on the Scarlet's goal, and that one was cleverly stopped by the goal keeper, and the result stood 3 to 0 in the Scarlets favor. The game throughout was swift, and Napanee has reason to congratulate herself on having such a crack team. The forwards and the half backs played a perfect game. The merits of the backs were not called into question as they had very little to do, but we are safe in saying that they will be found fully competant to fill their part of the bill should the occasion demand it. The game throughout was characterized by the utmost good feeling. Mr. O. Gilbert, of Picton, acted as referee and his fair and impartial decisions gave universal satisfaction.

Mr. Rhynard Yerex, of Picton, a retired farmer dropped dead on Wednesday.

GOT A BOY?

60c. Pants him,
$1.75 Suits him,
25c. Caps him.

Radford & Son

THE OUTFITTERS.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE BIG STORE,
September 20th, 1895.

WE'VE GOT ANOTHER SNAP IN CLOTHING

Some 42

Tweed Suits for Men

An odd lot, some sizes wanting, but the retail price was $8. We don't make much money on them at but you do, and you can't help advertising us.

FIVE DOLLARS

For Big Heads

And Little Heads

only, a lot of Hats. Not hats ten years old, but Hats that are right in everything but size. You would pay from $1.50 to $3 if that were right, as it is they are in our window at

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

for anyone they'll fit.

You have

Probably Heard

that we are making good Suits for men, to measure, at

NINE DOLLARS A SUIT

but if you haven't seen them you don't know much about a bargain. There are plenty yet,

Priestly's

Dress Goods.

We have placed in stock this week two cases Priestley's Black Dress Goods in the newest fall weaves, and with the color and finish that only Priestley's have. Ladies desiring something specially nice in fine black dress goods will find it in their production, and our prices for them very moderate.

Ladies' Mantles.

More Mantles by one-half than we ever had. Qualities and finishes that we've never ventured to buy before, because in former seasons they were too high-priced. Cheap enough now for any purse to buy both good style and good service, so good that in past years you would'nt dream of getting them for less than twice the money. Coverts, Friezes, Cheviots, Beavers, Golf Cloths, in large variety, and with all the latest fads of cut and finish—

$4 to $12

New Carpets.

Our full Fall Stock. Brussels, Axminsters, Tapestries, Wools and Unions. Also Floor Oilcloths and Rugs. A stock big enough to include all the best of the new designs, and cheap enough to compete with Toronto carpet houses right along. If you are thinking of a carpet values have never been better than now.

Chenille Curtains.

and the price is the same while they last.

Twenty Cents

a Yard

is rather a taking price for Wool Tweeds, heavy enough for boy's fall wear, and sound quality. We've a lot of good patterns at that price, just in.

Men's

Ulster Coats.

A shade early yet perhaps; but it is the season of quick changes, and they might persuade you to buy your Ulster early. Our's are ready to show you, and we have

The best Ulsters for the Money in Canada

BAR NONE

It is worth your while to investigate. We think above statement is correct.

Overcoats

The shorter ones. We offer them at less than the makers would take for them to-day. Good Overcoats at $3.15, $4.00, and $4.50. Boys' ditto at $2.90.

Are staple goods with us. The fact that we sell a handsome curtain in all the popular colors at $2.75 may explain it. It is a good-sized curtain too, but not a bit cheaper than the ones we show at 3.50, 5.00, 6.00, and 7.500.

Flannelettes.

We believe we have the largest stock of Flannelettes held by any one house between Montreal and Toronto. But we can sell them. Large cash buying means cheap buying, and, in our case, cheap selling, see if it doesn't.

We want to Remind You of a table of half-price dress remnants we filled last week. There are always customers who complain that they didn't hear of the bargains till their neighbors shewed them, and then were too late. These remnants are EXACTLY HALF the original price.

Quarter-price Wraps for children only, odd ones. Do you know that we can sell you a little girl's ulster for 25 cents, and some that were $5 are now 1.25 1.50.

Nineteen Cents

For any of our best wool challies, light or dark.

LAHEY & McKENTY

Sole Agents for "Health Brand" Underwear.

Church of England Notes.

Parish of Camden.

St. Luke's, Camden East, 11 o'clock, Confirmation, 10 o'clock. St. John's, Newburgh, 3 o'clock; Centreville 3 o'clock; Holy Trinity, Yarker, 7 o'clock; St. Jude's Napanee Mills, Holy Communion, 8 o'clock a.m., evening service 7 o'clock p.m.

Church of S. Mary Magdalene.

Sunday, Sept. 22nd, XV after Trinity, services as follows in S. Mary Magdalene's church, Napanee: Matins and Holy Communion 11 a.m.; Evensong 7 p.m.; Bible classes and Sunday School at 3 p.m.

Hawley Mission.

Sunday next, Sept. 22nd, will be observed in the Hawley Mission as a Harvest Thanksgiving. The school house will be tastefully decorated and a special harvest sermon will be preached by Rev. F. T. Dibb. There will be a celebration of the Holy Eucharist.

The annual Harvest Thanksgiving services will be held in St. Alban's church, Odessa, on Michaelmas Day, Sunday Sept. 29th. Matins and Holy Eucharist at 11 a. m., Choral Evensong at 7 p. m. The Rev. G. R. Beamish, M. A., of Kingston, was to have preached the sermon but, has been suddenly called elsewhere, so other arrangements will be made.

The Annual Harvest Festival in connection with St. Alban's church, Odessa will be held on Thursday, Sept. 26th. Supper will be served in Jubilee Hall at 6 p.m., followed by a choice concert. A large number of young people from Napanee have expressed their intention of going down to it. Among those who have consented to take part in the concert are Misses Herring, Coxall, and Hall and Messrs Jewell, Rockwell and Maybee. A thoroughly good time may be anticipated. Tickets for supper and concert only 25c.

Dismissed.

The charge of indecent assault preferred against Ed. Shorey and Wm. Moore, of Newburgh, by Miss Ida Kellar, was dismissed by Police Magistrate Daly on Wednesday.

The Ladies' Hotel.

The Ladies' Guild of the Church of S. Mary Magdalene have rented the Brisco House for Wednesday of the County Show, and will be at home to all who desire a good meal or any kind of temperate refreshments. Pretty and attentive waiters, excellent meals, served up to the Queen's taste have always been the characteristic features of the affairs managed by the Ladies' Guild in the past, and we are sure that in their hotel venture they will eclipse all previous efforts. They are assured of the patronage of the men at least, and we are confident that their enterprise will receive the success that it deserves.

Accepted the Call.

The Rev. W. W. Peck has accepted the call of the Presbyterian church of Napanee, and his ordination and induction to the church will occur in October. At the meeting of the Kingston Presbytery held on Tuesday it was decided that Rev. S. Houston preach at Napanee next Sunday and Rev. Mr. Macdonald the Sunday following. Rev. Mr. Houston will read the edict next Sunday and Rev. Mr. Macdonald will serve the edict for ordination and induction the Sunday following. The ordination of Mr. Peck will occur on the first Thursday in October. Rev. Mr. McTavish will preach the sermon, Rev. Mr. Macgillivray will address the preacher and Rev. John Mackie the people. The Rev. Mr. McDonald and Mr. Doxsee were present from Napanee to advocate the presentation of the call to Mr. Peck.

Odessa and Yarker base ball clubs played a match on Thursday at the Central Fair, in Kingston for $25. Score stood, Odessa 14, Yarker 17.

Good Fitting, Trimmings and Sewing

is what you get when you order your Clothing from

ED. HUFF,

Tailor.

Carson Block.

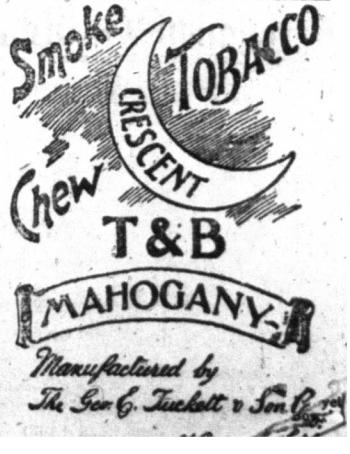
WORK GUARANTEED.

Cash and One Price Only. 51tf

Fresh meat always on hand at Lawson's Telephone 31.

You should see those lamps at Boyle & Son.

Experience has proved it. A triumph in medicine was attained when experience proved that Scott's Emulsion would not only stop the progress of Pulmonary Consumption, but by its continued use, health vigor could be fully restored.



THE NAPAN

Vol. XXXIV] No 51—JNO. POLLARD, Editor and Publisher. NAPANEE, ONT.

A WORD IN SEASON!

Withih the next month the bulk of the holiday trade will be done and an intending purchaser would do well to secure their requirements in good time. I beg to inform you that my stock is complete in all lines suitable for this season of the year, including a full line of Dinner, Tea and Chamber Ware.

AND AS FULL A LINE OF

Fancy China, etc.,

as was ever displayed in this town. I also have a complete stock of Fancy and Staple Groceries.

All goods have been bought right and I am confident it will pay you to see my goods and get my prices before buying.

W. COXALL.

Timothy Seed...

We have secured a supply of the cleanest Seeds from the largest growers in the Counties. We are sure we can recommend this seed.

We carry in stock at all times a full line of our Famous Flour, and the fact that we have an increasing demand for them bespeaks their excellence and popularity. The prices are always right, and the quality too.

We have a full line of grain, all kinds of Cracked Grain, Bran, and Shorts.

When you want Salt for the table, for butter or cheese making, or for salting your pork, remember that the "Windsor" brand is the purest and the best, and while it is the cheapest it is also the saltiest.

Try one of our little Cheese. They weigh about 8lbs. each. A nice size for the family.

Rolled Oats, Rolled Wheat, and Oatmeal

Best 25 Cent TEA in Town.

The Rathbun Co'y

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

CLOTHING - -

Another new lot of Suits and Overcoats of our own make to be sold cheaper than ever

Our Pea Coats at $3.75 is cheap enough at $5.00.

Our Double Breasted Blue Black Beaver Overcoats at $8.50 is equal to any $16.00 Ordered Overcoat.

Men's Furnishings.

The latest styles, best qualities and Lowest prices is what you want and this is just the place to get it. Underwear at 75c a Suit.

Kid Gloves at 75c, worth $1.25.

Hats and Caps.

A big variety in Neckwear at low prices.

Men's Heavy Tweed Caps at 25c.

Sealette Caps, fine quality, all styles from 75c up.

A few sets of Ladies' Muffs and Collars to clear.

☞Note the place

A. M. VINEBERG,

The Wonderful Cheap Clothier, Dundas st., Henry Block, Napanee

IMPORTANT TO INTENDING PURCHASERS

THE - MERCHANTS - BANK OF CANADA

Head Office, — Montreal

Capital paid up, $6,000,000

Surplus, $3,000,000

INTEREST AT CURRENT RATES PAID ON DEPOSITS.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED

T. E. MERRITT,

Manager, Napanee Branch

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escapemany a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk Sold only in Packets, by Grocers, labelled thus JAMES EPPS & CO., Ltd., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.

45 35—W.

Having added a full line of Undertaker's Goods, consisting of Caskets, Coffins, Robes, etc.

to my stock of Furniture, I am prepared to supply and attend funerals on the shortest notice, and in the most modern style. Having had twenty years experience in the business, perfect satisfaction may be relied on.

Embalming a Specialty.

JAS. WILSON,

DUNDAS STREET.

N.B.—Residence next door west (opposite Dr. Leonard's). Open at all hours.

HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS WORTH OF SILVERWARE GIVEN AWAY.

To Introduce Dr. Gray's Germine Granules in Canada.

Send 50 cents for a box of these celebrated Granules, then puzzle your brains over the two following problems in competition for the magnificent rewards mentioned below.

Question No. 1—If a bottle of wine is worth one dollar and five cents, and the wine is worth one dollar more than the bottle, what is the bottle worth.

Question No. 2—A bought a pair of shoes from B for five dollars, tendering a twenty-dollar bill in payment. B not having any change goes to C and has the twenty-dollar bill changed, comes back and gives A his change and the shoes. C. shortly comes to B and says: "That twenty-dollar bill I changed for you is a counterfeit, I want my money back." B gives C back twenty dollars in good money. How much is B out by the whole transaction?

The Following is what We Give Away.

To the senders of the first correct answers to the above two questions received and opened in due course of post, we will give a superb silver quadruple plated tea set, consisting of twenty pieces. Value $150.00.

To the senders of the middle correct answers to the above two questions received and opened in the due course of post, we will give a superb quadruple plated tea set, consisting of twenty pieces. Value $150.00.

To the senders of the last correct answers received to the above two questions and opened in due course of post we will give a superb quadruple plated tea set, consisting of twenty pieces. Value $150.00.

To the sender of every hundredth correct answer to the above two questions received and opened in due course of post, we will give at the option of the successful competitor, a four piece quadruple silver plated tea set with tray; a quadruple silver-plated tilter, or a modern quadruple silver-plated cyerone. Value $25.00

THE HIGHEST AWA WORLD'S COLUMBIA

BY THE WROUGHT IR

HOME C

This style Family Range is sold by our Trav one uniform price throughout Canada and the

Made of Malleable Iron and Wrought Steel a

SALES TO JANU 277,

Made only by the Wr manufacturers of Hotel outfittings and Home c Furnaces.

The above named Co at Napanee, with h Campbell

.....IN.....

New Quarters

With a New Stock of

GENERAL GROCERIES

Which I am selling on a low margin for Cash.

Try my 25c Tea!

Delicious Canned Goods Choice Flour and Corn Meal.

Glad to have all my old friends call and equally glad to make new ones.

The Place—Next door to The Robinson Co's Dry Goods Store.

OF FARM IMPLEMENTS.

The best is always the cheapest. Therefore, before purchasing elsewhere, call at Sylvester Bros'. Machinery Hall, (west end Campbell House Block, and inspect their samples, consisting of their Celebrated Shoe or Press Drill. Hoe Drill. Broad Cast Seeder and Spring Tooth Cultivator Combined. Single Spring Tooth Cultivator. Diamond Harrow. Mower, etc.

Also be sure and see the Wartman & Ward Spade Harrow, (the Queen of Pulverizers). Every farmer should have one. Different Patterns of Disc Harrows for sale. Don't you want a new Lumber Wagon this season? If so, buy none but a CHATHAM, with patent Grain and Stock Rack combined. The best in the Market.

BLANCHARD & POTTER,

AGENTS.

DEROCHE & MADDEN,

Barristers,

Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.

Office—Grange Block.

Money to Loan at "lower than the lowest" rates

E. M. DEROCHE, Q. C. 5-1y J. H. MADDEN

HERRINGTON & WARNER,

Barristers, etc.

MONEY TO LOAN AT LOW RATES

Office—Warner Block, East-st. Napanee. 5y

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY.

Barristers, Solicitors, etc.

Solicitors for the Merchant's Bank of Canada, etc., etc.

Dundas Street, Napanee.

G. F. RUTTAN. ARTHUR W. MORPHY.

☞Private funds to loan at five per cent.

DENTISTS

C. D. WARTMAN, L.D.S.

C. H. WARTMAN, D.D.S.

Graduates of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduate of Toronto Univetsity.

OFFICE—LEONARD BLOCK,

☞ Visits made to Tamworth the first Monday in each month, remaining over Tuesday. Rooms at Wheeler's Hotel.

All other Mondays C. D. Wartman will be in Yarker.

Napanee office open every day.

R. A. LEONARD, M.D., C.P.S.

Physician, Surgeon, etc.

Late House Surgeon of the Kingston General Hospital.

Office—North side of Dundas Street, between West and Robert Streets, Napanee. 5:1y

---

A. S. ASHLEY,

DENTIST

16 Years in Napanee.

34 Years Experience.

Rooms, - Albert Block, - Napanee

Assessment System Reserve Principle.

HOME LIFE.

Association of Canada

72 King St. East., Toronto.

Hon. Rich Harcourt, Treas. Prov. Ont. President.
A. J. Pattison, Toronto, Gen. Manager.
Geo. B. Woods, Toronto, Supt. of Agencies.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

Incorporated by special act of Dominion Parliament under the supervision and inspection of the Superintendent of Insurance for the Dominion of Canada. Pure Life Insurance at cost. Policy incontestible after three years for any cause whatever, except from non-payment of annual rates.

Profits divided to Policy holders every five years.

W. SYDNEY DETLOR,
Inspector, Central Ontario.

Office in Napanee, Albert Block.

Good reliable agents wanted in unrepresented districts.

WANTED RELIABLE MEN to sell our IMPROVED FARM SEEDS. Paying side line HIGHEST SALARY OR COMMISION PAID WEEKLY. Outfit free. Can be carried in the pocket. Experience not necessary. BIG PAY ASSURED WORKERS. Write at once and secure exclusive and choice of territory to 48 4m

FARMERS SEED CO.

(INCORPORATED.)

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

JAS. AYLESWORTH,

General Business Agent.

POLICE MAGISTRATE for the Provincial Electoral District of Addington.

Conveyancer,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses,

Commissioner, etc., in H.C.J.

Clerk, 7th Division Court, of the County of Lennox & Addington

Grand Trunk Railway Ticket Agent

TAMWORTH.

NOTICE.

County of Lennox and Addington } To Wit:

Public notice is hereby given that the

COUNTY COURT

and general sessions of the Peace of the County of Lennox and Addington, will be held at the

COURT HOUSE,

IN THE TOWN OF NAPANEE,

ON

TUESDAY, DEC., 10

A. D., 1895.

At the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon of which all Coroners, Justices of the Peace Constables and other persons are required to take notice and govern themselves accordingly

GEO. D. HAWLEY, Sheriff,

Sheriff's Office, Napanee, Nov. 12th, 1895.

NOTICE OF MEETING.

The County Council

of Lennox and Addington, will meet for the transaction of general business on Tuesday, Dec. 3rd, 1895

at 2 o'clock p.m.

All accounts must be in the hands of the undersigned not later than Tuesday, December 3rd inst, in order that they may be considered. W. G. WILSON

County Clerk.

Dated at Napanee Tuesday November 12th 1895.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Pushing, trustworthy men to represent us in the sale of our Choice Nursery Stock. Specialties controlled by us. Highest Salary or Commission paid weekly. Steady employment the year round. Outfit free; exclusive territory; experience not necessary; big pay assured workers; special inducements to beginners. Write at once for particulars to

ALLEN NURSERY CO.,

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

A. R. DAVIS,

Ontario Land Surveyor and Civil Engineer.

☞ Office with T. G. Davis, Insurance Agent, 39 Coates Block

FARMS! FARMS! FARMS!!!—FOR SALE OR TO LET.

Several desirable farm properties in good localities, apply to

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY

47o Solicitors, Napanee.

C. H. FINKLE.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER, Newburgh, Ont. Orders left with Ewart and Vanluven, Yarker, will have prompt attention. Telephone communication.

FARM FOR SALE.

A desirable farm of 100 acres in first class state of cultivation lot 11 in 4th con. Ernestown on York Road 7 miles from Napanee near School and church the building consists of two houses wood and drive house, good barn 40x70 the place well watered and a good orchard. Also West ½ lot 12, 50 acres. Good house barn and other buildings, and orchard is also well watered. For Terms apply on premises to 48 2m STAFFORD McLEAN.

THE ROYAL HOTEL.

Dundas Street, Napanee.

H. HUNTER, Prop.

This commodious hotel is centrally situated having every convenience for the travelling and business public. Large yard and sheds for farmers.

Good table, best of wines liquors, and cigars The comfort of guests is made a first consideration

---

To the sender of every fifty-first correct answer to the above two questions received and opened in due course of post, will give a handsome quadruple plated silver fruit and spoon. Value $7.00

To the sender of every 27th correct answer to the above two questions received and opened in due course of post, we will give a quadruple silver-plated gold lined cake basket. Value $4.

To the sender of every 11th correct answer to the above two questions, received and opened in due course of post we will give two boxes of Dr. Gray's Germine Granules, value $1.00.

To the sender of the first correct answers to the above two questions received and opened in due course of post each morning, who is not otherwise entitled to a gift, will be given one dozen gold Aluminum tea spoons, a decided novelty, value $5.

What are Germine Granules.

They will rid you of the life-destroying indigestion and dyspepsia. Cure you of Kidney complaint, Malaria, Sick Headache. Billousness. Constipation, Neuralgia, and Rheumatic pains. Bad taste in the mouth. Female weakness etc. remove that haggard look and bring back the fresh complexion and build up the wasted form. Dr. Gray's will do it. Dr. Gray's Germine Granules are not only the best spring and all the year around medicine, but they are also the cheapest to buy.

Dr. Gray's Germine Granules is a perfect medicine. You do not require to take any other medicine with it, nor do you have to take three or four pills at a dose. One pill is a dose. Try a treatment of Dr. Gray's Germine Granules and you will not only have no other, but save many dollars. Price 50 cents a box.

PLEASE NOTICE.

Letters containing a correct answer, will not be recognized unless accompanied with 50 cents for a box of Germine Pills.

Tuesday November 12th., is the first day of competition. Monday December 23d., is the last day of competition. Letters not received on that day will be returned.

Successful competitors will be notified immediately. No charges. But successful competitors to pay freight or Express. The names of prize winners will be published from time to time.

Any one of standing is at liberty to look into the workings of our business at any time.

THE GERMINE CHEMICAL COMPANY

77 VICTORIA ST., TORONTO.

Mention this paper. 49g

NOTICE.

An application has been received from John Carr Sr., licensee of the Tichborne House in the Town of Napanee to have the license held by him for the premises mentioned transferred to John Carr. Jr. The commissioners for the district of Lennox will meet at the office of J. C. Huffman Esq., Napanee, on Saturday, the 23rd of November, (inst.,) at two o'clock p.m. to consider the above application.

W. A. ROSE,
License Inspector.

MORTGAGE SALE OF VALUABLE TOWN PROPERTY.

Under and by virtue of the Powers of Sale contained in a certain mortgage which will be produced at the time of sale, there will be offered for sale by Public Auction at the Court House in the Town of Napanee on Monday, Dec. 16, A.D., 1895.

at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon, the following valuable Town Property, namely;

All and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in town of Napanee in the County of Lennox and Addington containing by admeasurement three sixteenths of an acre more or less and being composed of the south half of lot No. 10 on the east side of Donald Street in the said Town of Napanee.

On the said property are the following improvements; A good sized frame house a small frame barn and other improvements.

For terms and conditions of sale apply to Thos. E. Anderson, No. 60, John st, Napanee. or to JOHN ENGLISH, Vendor's Solicitor.

Dated at Napanee November 19th, 1895.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE MATTER OF ANDERSON & BROTHER, OF THE TOWN OF NAPANEE, IN THE COUNTY OF LENNOX AND ADDINGTON, BAKERS AND GROCERS, INSOLVENTS.

The above named Insolvents have made an assignment to me of their estate and effects in pursuance of the Revised Statutes of Ontario 1887, Chapter 124, and Amending Acts.

A meeting of the said creditors of the said Insolvents will be held at my office.

AT THE COURT HOUSE,

IN THE TOWN OF NAPANEE, ON

Thursday November 28th, 1895

At the hour of 11 o'clock in the forenoon for the appointment of Inspectors and giving instructions as to the disposal of the estate.

Creditors are required to file their claims against the said estate with me, duly verified by affidavit, on or before the day of such meeting as provided by the said statutes.

GEO. D. HAWLEY.

Sheriff County of Lennox and Addington

Dated at Napanee Nov. 16th, 1895.

I CURE FITS!

Valuable treatise and bottle of medicine sent Free to any sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. H. G. ROOT, M.C., 186 West Adelaide Street, Toronto, Ont.

Wm. Rankin.

Hulett's Great Discount Sale of 50 Per Cent.....

will commence Saturday, Nov. 23rd and continue until Jan 1st, 1896, of all large Portraits and Frames.

This is a rare chance for the people to get their Portraits for Xmas Presents at half price. Our special Bargain Days are Monday and Saturday of each week. I will give to anyone ordering one dozen Cabinet Photos on either of these days (only) one large portrait and frame of themselves, 8 x 10, free. You pay no more than the usual price for the Cabinets, but you must come on Saturday and Monday for this bargain.

I have a large stock of Mouldings of the finest quality so if you have any pictures to be framed now is your time, bring them along, you will get bargains you never heard of in Napanee before.

During this Discount Sale you have our

$25	Portraits and Frames for	$12	50
15	"	"	7.50
10	"	"	5.00

I also have one of the newest and greatest novelties in the photographic art. You should come and see it. It gives five different positions of yourself at the one sitting, taken instantaneously and on the one card. It is a marvel and is just the thing to send your friends for Xmas presents. My studio will be lighted with electric light in the evening and you are cordially invited to come in and look around and see what wonderful bargains I am offering.

Those who come early will get the best bargains. I would like as many as can to come for sittings in the forenoon as in the afternoon there will be such a rush.

J. S. HULETT,

PHOTOGRAPHER.

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between John Christie and Charles S. Crabtree as Paper Manufacturers and Commission Merchants, under the name and firm of "Christie & Crabtree," has this day been dissolved by mutual consent.

JOHN CHRISTIE,
C. S. CRABTREE.

The business of Paper Manufacturing will in future be carried on by C. S. Crabtree under the same name and firm by whom all existing debts will be paid. The Commission business will in future be conducted by John Christie in his own name.

JOHN CHRISTIE,
C. S. CRABTREE.

Dated November 1st, 1895.

The board of management of Newburgh Public Library have made arrangements with the well known VanAmburgh Family to give an entertainment in Finkle's Hall, on Wednesday, Nov. 27th, inst. Their reputation as high class entertainers, and the entire satisfaction they gave at Newburgh last winter, makes a good house a certainty. Moral—Secure your seats early. At the close of the concert all the illustrated papers, magazines and periodicals from the reading room for the past two years will be sold to the highest bidders.

Won by One.

An exciting game of foot ball was played at the Napanee Driving Park yesterday afternoon between Queen's University foot ball team and the Scarlets of Napanee. Notwithstanding the severity of the weather a large crowd witnessed the game and cheered the may good plays made. At about 2,30 p.m. the teams lined up as follows; Scarlets, goal, Leamy; backs, Scott and Burrows; half backs, Forneri, Haines, Carson; forwards, Grieve and Wagar, Exley, Trimble and Rockwell. Queen's, goal, Miller; backs, Barber, T. Edminson; half-backs, Sliter, Huffman, A. Scott; forwards, T. A. Scott, A. D. Murray; H. Murray, J. Murry, J. Edminson.

The game was very hotly contested and was nip and tuck throughout who should win. Queen's had the heaviest team by long odds, but Napanee held them down and rather had the best of the game. Shortly before time was called Kingston scored the first and only goal. It was literally pushed through the goal. Leamy, Napanee's plucky goal keeper, was the bright particular star. He stopped shot after shot with ease. The Scott brothers and the Murrays shone for Kingston. Several of Napanee's regular team were unavoidably absent, but the boys put up a great game, and Kingston had to work for their victory. Queen's team were entertained at the Royal by the Napanee boys.

NEE EXPRESS.

T. CANADA—FRIDAY, NOV. 22, 1895. $1 per Year in advance; $1.50 if not so paid.

VARDS
BIAN EXPOSITION
IT IRON RANGE CO., ON

COMFORT
STEEL
HOTEL AND FAMILY
RANGES.

CARVING AND STEAM TABLES,
BROILERS, MALLEABLE
WATERBACKS, etc., etc.

r Travelling Salesmen from our own wagons at d the United States.

Steel and will last a lifetime if properly used.

NUARY 1st, 1894,
77,188.

Wrought Iron Range Co.
tel Steel ranges, Kitchen
e comfort Hot-air Steel

Company have located h headquarters at the bell House.

SERMON TO THE A. O. U. W.

The following sermon, printed at the request of those who heard it, was preached in St. Alban's church, Adolphustown, on Sunday afternoon, No. 10th, by the Rector, Rev. R. S. Forneri.

Text, I John iv, 10, 11.—"We love Him, because He first loved us, Beloved if God so loved us, we ought to love one another."

Brethren of the A.O.U.W., I feel a great pleasure in your presence here to-day, and in preaching for one of the greatest and most benevolent of fraternal societies on this continent. In the name of the officers and congregation of this church, erected in honor of a noble band of brothers, I bid you welcome.

It is, I understand, a traditional custom of your worthy Order, at least in Canada, to mark the anniversary of its organization by a parade to church. This is indeed a custom worthy of the venerable founder of your society, Jordan Upchurch. The biography of this good man contains an instructive record for any one to read. Belonging not to the higher ranks of life, a plain workingman, he was nevertheless a humble christian, inspired by benevolent ideas and motives. He had learned in the school of our Lord Jesus Christ, that "pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep himself unspotted from the world." This last he did. His character was unsullied. But he mused continually on the other divine requirement, which appealed to the best feelings of his kindly heart. The idea of a fraternal organization, with a lodge system, the Father loves them and Jesus loves them and the Holy Spirit loves them.—Hence arises the union between christians which overleaps all denominational barriers. They feel themselves all children of one Father, all brethren in Christ Jesus, all members of one family. It is this common bond which makes such fraternal Societies as that which I have the privilege of addressing natural and proper.

The preacher next illustrated the intensely practical character of Christian love by numerous examples, "In fine (he continued) the love of christians for their kind and for one another has been exhibited in those charitable institutions which abound in every christian land: the Hospitals and Infirmaries: the Refuges, Orphanages and Homes: the christian missions to the perishing heathens abroad, and to the ignorant and degraded at home: the numberless christian agencies that are in operation, earnestly striving to mitigate poverty and human wretchedness wherever found. And now christian philanthropy has, in the days we live in, taken a new departure, by organising and concentrating benevolence to fraternal societies. Their members seem full of the enthusiasm of humanity. They are banded together to help each other on the high plane of christian duty and charity. They are connected together by brotherly feelings and common interests. The union of so many good men means strength and influence and resources for accomplishing their beneficient schemes, which in the case of the United Workmen is to provide kind protectors and a maintenance for their families, when any of them may be cut down by the scythe of the grim unsparing reaper of mankind.

Do you hear the children weeping,
Oh my brothers,
Ere the sorrow comes with years?
They are leaning their young heads
Against their mothers—
Widows, bathed in their own tears.

Brethren of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, tenderly to wipe away these tears is your noble mission in the world! In fulfilment of this sacred trust you are pouring out daily without stint of your means and brotherly sympathies. This is the glory of your fraternity on earth, and this its praise in heaven!

Then say we all—and let this be our last word to you now—"The Lord prosper you; we wish you good luck in the name of the Lord."

Mr. Myra Mills has sold his yacht, "The Kitty," to Mr. Frank Maracle.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, taken at this season, will make you feel strong and vigorous and keep you from sickness later on.

"The Common People," As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple, honest statement, "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine, and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

ART AND LITERATURE IN CANADA.

There are cynics who say that there is no public opinion in Canada, no literature. At a dinner given recently by the publishers of Toronto to Mr. Hall Caine, the great novelist, this question was discussed, and a leading publisher remarked that literature would never make rapid advance in this country because it is difficult to induce Canadians to read the works of a Canadian author. This statement, however, is not true with regard to Toronto Saturday Night, which has as large a circulation as any newspaper of its class in America. Its Christmas Number, which will be issued Dec. 1, is the eighth in a series of art numbers. It will be accompanied this year by five splendid colored supplements; the largest, a reproduction of a painting by a Canadian artist, done specially for Saturday Night, is 24 x 33 inches in size. Its title is "Champlain the Explorer," and depicts

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY

HAY BAY.

After an absence of a week or two I am again at home, and will kindly state to you Mr. Editor the news of our thriving little place.

We regret to state this week the sad accident which happened to Mr. G. B. Shane on Thursday last. While he was engaged in removing a gun which he himself placed in the barn some months ago the gun by some means discharging blowing the thumb on the right hand completely off and the remainder of the charge entering his left hand, cutting it badly. Drs. Leonard, and Bissonette, of Napanee dressed the wounds.

Mr. Perry Brown has returned home from Manitoba.

Mr George Smith is at present moving from Mr. Philip McCabe's farm to his own home farther up the bay road. Mr. John Woodcock will take possession of the McCabe farm soon.

Mr. Harry Holden, of Belleville, has been buying and shipping hay from this place during the past week.

Mr. Fletcher Diamond was in Hamburgh last week.

Mr. Johnston Wagar, of Sillsville, spent Sunday last the guest of Mr. G. Post.

CENTREVILLE WEST.

The water famine is over, the recent rains having added greatly to the water supply.

Farmers are about all through ploughing.

Corn and potatoes are in abundance. Hay and straw are not so plentiful.

H. Donnelly finished drawing the last of the season's make of cheese from Croydon factory on the 19th inst.

Auction sales are quite numerous this fall.

Our school is increasing.

D. McNeil talks of renting his farm.

J. B. Weese is doing a rushing business in his store at Croydon.

Mr. E. H. Perry and party returned from their hunting expedition on Saturday. They brought two fine deer with them.

Thos. Shannon returned from the Northwest last week. He says the weather was very cold out there this season.

Miss J. Card has gone to visit friends at Trafford.

Mr. H. Brown is now convalescent.

Bert Storrings returned from Watertown last week. Times are dull there at present.

The Patrons are fortifying themselves for the coming election.

BATH.

It once more becomes our painful duty to record the death of an aged and much loved neighbor, in the person of Mrs. Samuel Rogers, of Moorhead, D.K. Her sickness was of short duration. About one week before her death she was able to make friendly calls upon her neighbors, with whom she was always on friendly terms. Truly she will be missed both in church and community. The last rights were ably conducted by the Rev. W. B. Tucker, in the use of the very appropriate words of St. Paul, 2d Cor., 5—1, "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens." Her end was peace.

The projected grist mill has nearly reached completion and will be running in a few days.

The Bell Telephone Co. have decided to furnish Bath and Amherst Island with telephonic communication with the outside world.

Mrs. Prinyer has moved to Kingston for the winter season.

Mr. Morgan, principal of Bath Public school, is re-engaged for another term, which gives general satisfaction.

The str. Hero is on her route again, though in a patched condition.

Mr. Adam Johnston, of the str. Alexander is home again though much out of health.

PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY.

The fine weather still continues and

PERSONALS.

Did it ever occur to you that you could assist us greatly to keep up the interest of this column. If you have friends visiting you, or intend leaving town for even a few days kindly let us know by personal call or a postcard. Your friends both in the neighborhood and at a distance are interested in your movements. Don't think we should know where you are: tell us.

Mrs. John Coburn, of Hinch, was in town on Saturday and favored us with a call.

Mr. Fred Richardson, photographer, returned from New York on Friday.

Mr. David Hicks, of Morven, was in town on Saturday and favored us with a call.

The marriage of Mr. Gilbert Parker, our famous young Canadian author, and Miss Amy Eliza Vantine, daughter of Mrs. Ashley A. Vantine, 153 West Fifty-seventh st., New York, is announced to take place on the 5th of December.

Mr. A. C. Parks was in Belleville on Saturday.

Rev. J. P. Wilson, of Colborne, preached anniversary sermons in the Western Methodist church on Sunday.

Miss Kate Drummey, of Marysville, is recovering from an attack of malaria.

Mrs. G. S. Robertson, of Montreal, who has been visiting in Dorland, returned home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Trumpour, of Dorland, were visiting friends in Napanee last week.

Colonel Lazier, Mr. Herrington, Mr. Madden, and Mr. S. Warner were in Yarker and Enterprize last Friday. Had two sales.

Mr. James A. Wallace, Henry Davey and Wm. N. Neilson, of Wilton, were in town Monday on business.

Mr. W. S. Herrington and Mr. Harshaw left for Dutton on Lake Erie on Monday evening, to act in a fire insurance case.

James Hayden, Esq. of Camden East, was in Napanee Saturday on business.

Mr. Harry Wolfe, telegraph operator, of Arnprior, paid Napanee a visit on Monday.

H. Warner took Wednesday evening's train to spend a few days with his friend J. B. Warner, Lindsay.

Miss Luella Finkle, of Napanee, is spending Thanksgiving week with Miss Mamie Hope, Newburgh.

Mrs. Dr. Vrooman and Miss Mary Vrooman, of Yarker, are visiting Mrs. Ham, Napanee.

H. Warner spent Sunday with friends in Trenton.

Dr. D. I. Smith, of Kingston, is the guest of Mrs. James Allen.

Mrs. Mc Parrot, of Odessa, and daughter Keith, spent last Sunday at Marcus Parrot's Esq.

Mrs. Maria Huffman and Mrs. Ed Kaylor, of Morven, were calling on friends in Napanee last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Ruttan left for Toronto Saturday evening.

Mr. Geo. Lott and sister are visiting Mr. W. W. Asselstine, Moscow.

Miss M. Mallory, Adolphustown, spent a few days in town last week.

Mrs. Geo. E. Maybee and Mrs. R. H. Atkins are spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. M. J. Hayes was visiting her brother at Deseronto, this week.

Mrs. J. Gaina arrived home on Saturday, after spending a couple of months with friends and relatives in Napanee and vicinity.—Trenton Advocate.

Mr. C. Denison has returned from a three months sojourn in Manitoba.

Mr. G. B. Forward has been visiting his brother at Mill Haven.

Mr. Albert Root, of Watertown, arrived in town on Tuesday on a visit to his parents and to renew old acquaintances in town. Albert intends leaving for Utica early next week.

Mr. W. B. Haines was in Belleville on Wednesday.

Mr. Russell Haines, of Belleville, spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Haines.

Mr. Frank Smith left for Montreal yesterday morning.

Mr. Robt. Tate left for Owen Sound on Thursday.

Mr. J. F. McAlister was in Montreal this week.

Rev. Forneri and wife, were in town last week.

Mr. D. W. Allison, wife and son, were in Napanee on Friday last.

Miss Scouten, Mr. B. Roblin and Miss Bertie Roblin were in town last week.

Miss Emma Perry is undergoing another operation at the Kingston hospital. This makes the third operation she has underwent.

Mr. Wm. Grange spent Thanksgiving day in town.

Mr. F. Drury, proprietar of St. Charles Lake hotel, was in town on Saturday.

Mrs. John T. Grange still continues poorly.

Prof. Dyer, principal of Albert College, Belleville, was in town on Wednesday, inspecting the Collegiate Institute.

Miss Mary Fairbairn, of Teeswater, is expected to arrive in Napanee to-day, to reside with her aunt, Mrs. Wm. Tilley.

Mrs. C. A. Graham is visiting her mother, Mrs. Snider, Belleville, this week.

Mr. H. Armstrong has returned from the Northwest.

fraternal organization, with a lodge system and a common purse, at last dawned upon him, as the most permanent and effectual means of succouring the widow and orphan and comforting them in their affliction. His ideas upon the subject were necessarily crude at first, as there was no association of the kind for him to take pattern by. But at last he organized and started on its career in the neighboring Republic, the Order, substantially as it exists at the present day. He had the deep gratification of seeing the object of his prayers and labors prosper and spread from year to year, and pass over the borders of his country into Canada. Father Upchurch, as he was fondly called by his brethren, now rests from his labors among the blessed dead, hereafter to shine as a star of peculiar brightness, among the galaxy of noble souls who have lived for the glory of God and for benefitting their fellow beings, especially those who are usually the most helpless and dependent. I am pleased to observe in the report of the Supreme Lodge's proceedings in June last, that a considerable sum of money had been contributed by his grateful brethren, for the erection of a memoral to the great chief. But the best and, I trust, the most lasting monument to Jordan Upchurch, will be the Order which it was his life work to originate and foster. The following statements from the organ of the Order in Canada, will open the eyes of any one unacquainted with the magnitude of the Body and the grandeur of its mission in this world of suffering humanity. Think of this, and thank the Father of the fatherless and God of the widows for it—the fact of a fraternity of 350,000 strong, devoted to works of charity and humanity. Think of this also, and calculate, if you can, the comfort and relief it has afforded to thousands of homes, and to tens of thousands, the objects of its kindness and beneficences that during the 27 years of its existence it has distributed the sum of $63,000,000 among the widows and orphans of deceased brothers of the Order. One more item I gladly transcribe from the same journal "In no instance (it says) during its long and useful career, has there been a stain on its banner, or an honest claim rejected or unfulfilled. It has been the steady friend of the widow and orphan, and the blessing of those ready to perish has many times fallen upon it."

Enough now, I think, has been said to illustrate the christian origin, christian character, christian objects of the Order, worthy representations of which we welcome in our church to-day. It is not, then, a strange or wonderful thing that such a body should celebrate their anniversary first of all, by entering into the courts of the Lord's house with thanksgiving, and into His gates with praise. It would be a remarkable thing if they did not; for those who most engage in practical christian work most feel their need of "help from the Sanctuary." And there, assuredly they most fully receive it from God, through Jesus Christ, in response to united and fervent prayer. Yes, brethren, you come into the House of God to ask from the Divine Spirit inspiration to warm your hearts for your work of humanity you come to render thanks to your Heavenly Father for your past prosperity, and to seek a blessing in your Order for the future: you come to get counsel and encouragement from the Word of God read and preached: you come to lay all your good works at the feet of Jesus, and to give Him the glory of them; and you come to ask pardon for your shortcomings. May you receive the assistance from the Sanctuary which you have come to seek. May you receive from the fountain head of all goodness a blessing abundant above all that you can ask or think. And, brethren, the inspiration which you are looking for to-day in answer to your prayers and ours is to be found in a single word—that word which is the keynote of our text, namely Love. A love that is directed towards the two objects of human regard, God and man. The first is mentioned in the 19 verse of the chapter from which the text is taken, "We love Him, because He first loved us." The second is in verse 11, "Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another." And this love, with its two objects being the sum and substance of all the inspiration and help which christians need for doing all works of brotherly kindness and charity, let us dwell upon the subject for the remainder of this discourse.

The preacher then proceeded to unfold the two great lessons of the Bible Love to God, and Love to man. The latter, he said, naturally and unavoidably resulted from the former. The christian loves all the world because God so loved the world as to give for it his Only Begotten Son: but chiefly he loves the brethren, because him and a flotilla of war canoes entering the mouth of a river on Lake Huron. The picture has been praised by the Historical Association as the most interesting and artistic attempt ever made to carry us back to the old days, when Canada was little more than a geographical term. The other four pictures are done in sixteen colors, and the book itself, consisting of over forty pages, contains the four prize stories in the Saturday Night competition. Following is a list of contents:

1st prize, "A Reconnaissance at Fort Ellice," by William Bleasdell Cameron. Illustrations by J. C. Innes.

2nd prize, "Boh Shwey's Ruby," by W. A. Fraser. Illustrations from photographs.

3rd prize, "A Matter of Necessity," by John McCrae. Illustrations by F. M. Bell-Smith, R.C.A.

4th prize, "Widow Molony," by J. C. Innes. Illustrations by the author.

"Jim Lancey's Pass," by E. E. Sheppard. Illustrated.

"From the Sublime," by Warren H. Warren. Illustrations by G. A. Reid, R.C.A.

"Nanton's Sister," by Alice Ashworth. Illustrated.

"Hendershott of Strathgannon," by Joe Clark. Illustrations by Carl Ahrens, A.R.C.A., and Beatrice Sullivan.

"So-Long," an etching by "Don."

"Hawkie's Dream," (poem), by Alexander McLachlan.

"The Love of the World Detected," (poem), by William Cowper. Illustrations by J. W. Bengough.

"Life of Champlain," by George Stewart, M.A., D.C.L.

"As a Little Child," (poem), by Evelyn Durand.

"A Song," (poem), by Gertrude Bartlett.

The price of the number, postpaid to any address, in a pasteboard tube to protect it from damage in the mails, is 50 cents, and in point of literary excellence and the quantity and quality of the supplements it far exceeds anything offered by foreign holiday publications. Mr. James L. Hughes, Inspector of Schools for Toronto, has said that the Champlain picture should be framed and hung in "every schoolroom in Canada," and schoolteachers everywhere should take an interest in bringing it before the public. Teachers and young people can do a good work by sending for a Christmas Number of Saturday Night, and a better work by acting as agent for it and inducing their neighbors to send for it as well. A liberal commission is allowed. Address the Sheppard Publishing Company, Limited, Adelaide Street west, Toronto. The price of the regular edition of Saturday Night, which undoubtedly stands alone as Canada's most interesting and thoroughly high-class illustrated weekly, is $3 per year.

New Neckwear

We are showing some new lines which may interest you.

Essex Bows,
Lombard
Graduated Ties
and Idalia Knots are the Leaders.

D. J. Hogan, & SON.

NAPANEE.

farmers are busy ploughing. Numerous old meadows that yielded but a small percentage of hay, this last season, are being prepared for seeding next spring.

Will Metcalfe, Detroit, Mich., is renewing old acquaintances in the country, and is this week the guest of his cousin Mrs. Frank Slater, Yerexville

Another old resident of the county, Mr. Caleb Stickney has passed into the great Beyond. Mr. Stickney was widely known throughout the county and his death is universally regretted.

The many Patron Lodges, in the county that have been closed during the summer months are re-opening with the intention of doing considerable work, politically, before the next general election.

Prince Edward's leading sportsmen have betaken themselves to the North Woods.

Mrs. John Bull, High Shore, who for the past seven months has been in attendance at the sick bed of her step mother at Nottawa, Simcoe County, Ont. has returned home accompanied by her father, death having relieved her of her charge.

Mrs. Johnson, widow of the late John Johnson, Bongards, some few weeks ago accompanied her daughter, Mrs. A. S Lerrill, to her home in Chicago at which place she died Nov. 12th and was buried in Praceland cemetery.

MOSCOW.

Farmers have completed their fall work, the weather being very favorable.

Mr. Stewart Bell and Mr. Everton VanLuven have moved into their new houses. They both have elegant homes which add greatly to the appearance of our village.

Rev W. G. Clarke B. A. preached a very eloquent sermon in the Methodist church on Sunday last the subject was National Thanksgiving. The text being taken from Prov. 14-34. Righteousness exalteth the Nation. Our Sunday School is at present in a good working condition. A young ladies class has been formed, with Mrs. Egerton VanLuven as teacher. Teacher's meetings are held weekly and they have decided to hold their usual anniversary entertainment on Christmas Eve.

Our Public School teachers, Mr. Arthur Bell and Miss Jewelle Miller, are to remain another year. Both are very popular and active workers in the Sunday school and Epworth League.

Archie Asselstine cut his hand in a straw cutter last week. Dr. Oldham, of Yarker, dressed the wound.

Mr. Archie Huffman is home for the winter.

Miss Alma Lucas of Demill College, Oshawa, at her father's, J. B. Lucas's.

Miss Buck, of Sydenham, at Mr. Shirley Paul's.

Mr. Geo. Lott and sister of Napanee at W. W. Asselstine's.

Morley Huffman at Willet Amey's.

Mr. Walter Nugent of Newbnrgh at Miss Elmora Asselstine's.

Several communications and a detailed report of the Rural Deanery meeting, which reached us Thursday afternoon are too late for this issue, but will appear next week.

Praised by Press and People.—As a cure for Dyspepsia, Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Kidney Troubles, and all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and blood, Burdock Blood Bitters is praised by press and public alike. The reason is that it actually does all that is claimed for it.

In the course of an address in the opera house, Kingston, last week, Dr. Oranhytekha said it was becoming a custom in Toronto and other cities for medical men to charge so much yearly for the care of a man and his family.

Geo. Mouck, of Athol, realized 100 bushels of oats from a bushel and three pecks of oats sown last spring.

Open as Day. It is given to every physician, the formula of Scott's Emulsion being no secret; but no successful imitation has ever been offered to the public. Only years of experience and study can produce the best.

The Canadian Guardian, of this week, has the following extraordinary item; At the family residence in the village of Lucan, on Friday, Oct. 4th, 1895, Ellen Barber, beloved wife of Francis Neil, Esq., aged 100 years and 4 months. Her husband, aged 97 years, attended her funeral, also her eldest son, aged 73 years. They had been married 74 years. Her end was peace.

Yellow Oil used internally and externaly cures asthma, croup, coughs, sore throat, bronchitis and similar complaints. Externally it cures rheumatism, lumbago, sprains, bruises, cuts, chilblains, frost bites, and sprains and aches of every kind.

Mr. K. J. Strong has good double farm harness for only $20 set. Next door to Dominion Bank, John st.

BORN.

Dennison—At North Fredericksburgh, on Nov. 13th, the wife of Robert W. Dennison of a son.

MARRIED.

Blake—Orr—At Loughboro, on Nov. 6th, Miss Maud Blake, to R. J. Orr.

Saul—Orser—At Camden East, on Nov. 13th, by the rev. R. McCulloch, of Newburgh, Miss N. Saul, of Camden East, to Mr. Manuel Orser, of the township of Kingston.

Madden—To Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Madden, Newburgh, on Nov 1st, a daughter.

Godfrey-Bernard—At Napanee, Oct. 25th, Albert Godfrey, Cape Vincent, and Miss Minnie Burnard, Dorland Ont.

Doyle—McWilliams—At Trinity Church, Shannonville, on the 12th inst., by Rev. Thos. Godden, B. A., rector, A. W. H Doyle and Miss Margaret McWilliams, both of Desoronto.

Clarke—Taylor—At the residence of the bride's father, on the 5th inst., by Rev. W. J. Sanders, Noble E. Clarke, of Shannonville, and Ida Emma, daughter of Dudley Taylor, of the 2nd con. of Tyendinaga.

Godfrey—Burnard—At Napanee, Oct. 25th, Albert Godfrey, Cape Vincent, and Miss Minnie Burnard, Dorland, Ont.

We would call your attention to J. S. Hulett's great discount sale advertisement in another column. He is making wonderful reductions.

Napanee's enterprising photographer, J. S. Hulett, spares neither time or money in keeping up with the times, and his patrons may rest assured of being supplied with the latest things out. The latest novelty which he has secured is a device for taking five different poses instantaneously of one sitter on one plate. This is a wonderful invention, and has to be seen to be appreciated.

A VAST DIFFERENCE.

HOW TO DISTINGUISH THE GENUINE FROM THE IMITATION AT A GLANCE.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND "MAKES PEOPLE WELL"

Other Preparations Mislead and Deceive.

There is truly a wonderful difference when the pure, solid, heavy and legal gold coin is compared with the miserable imitation.

The genuine coin is passed with confidence from one person to another; all people believe in it. How is it with the imitation—that spurious coin made and issued by dark and criminal hands? It is made in dark places; it is issued stealthily to deceive and defraud and all who are connected with the work of deception are ever fearful of the hands of justice.

The genuine gold coin has music and crispness in its ring; the base coin sounds dead and harsh to the ear.

As the genuine gold coin and the imitation differ so vastly, so also is there a world of difference between Paine's Celery Compound and the imitations of Celery that people are frequently deceived by.

Paine's Celery Compound is universally popular owing to its great efficacy; it is recommended by professional men all over this continent; it is genuine, reliable and honest, and "makes people well."

The imitations, and all the crude preparations, are made to sell without regard to results. Deceived buyers are naturally indignant at loss of money and the aggravation of their troubles. When such imitations are used, life is positively endangered.

The genuine Paine's Celery Compound—the kind that cures—is easily distinguished by the words "Paine's Celery Compound," and the "stalk" of celery, found on the bottle and outer cartoon. Look for these special features and you always get just what will meet your case.

The Dominion Bank

ESTABLISHED 1871.

CAPITAL — $1,500,000.00
RESERVE FUND — $1,450,000.00

Deposits received and interest allowed. Drafts on all parts of Great Britain and United States bought and sold.

E. H. BAINES, Agent.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

Thanksgiving Fares
November 21st, '95

Return Tickets sold at SINGLE FARE November 20th and 21st. Good to return Nov. 25th.

J. L. BOYES.
Agent, Napanee.

Consumption.
Valuable treatise and two bottles of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. T. A. SLOCUM CHEMICAL CO., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

IRISH AND SCOTCH WHISKY.
For sale by the undersigned the following well known brands of Irish and Scotch whiskey :—

Bushneills ..... Irish
James Watson & Co. ..... "
Henry Thomson & Co. ..... "
Mitchell & Bro. ..... "
Burke & Co. ..... "
J. Brown & Co. ..... "

Bernard & Co. Encore ..... Scotch
Watson's, 3 Star ..... "
Dewar's, Extra Special ..... "
Usher's, O.V.G. ..... "
Sheriff's ..... "
Claymore ..... "
B. Lade & Co. ..... "
Mitchell Bro. ..... "
Glengowan ..... "

M. W. PRUYN & SON,
Napanee, 12th Dec. 1894.

12.20 NOON
EVERY FRIDAY,
FROM TORONTO TO CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.
RUN A
THROUGH UPHOLSTERED TOURIST CAR to the PACIFIC COAST

Passengers from Napanee should leave at 2.30 or 3.43 a.m.
Secure your Tickets from
E. McLAUGHLIN,
1 Agent at Napanee.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

CURES
DYSPEPSIA,
BAD BLOOD,
CONSTIPATION,
KIDNEY TROUBLES,
HEADACHE.

Rev. E. N. Baker, of Bridge street Methodist church, Belleville, has been invited to the pastorate of the Park street Methodist church, Chatham, and the Rev. C. E. McIntyre, of Park street church, has received a call to Bridge street church.

Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion with Wild Cherry and Hypophosphites is the surest and best cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness, bronchitis and asthma. Price 50c. and $1 00 per bottle.

A Very Notable Event

When anything Canadian beats the world it becomes every day talk everywhere. A very notable event in this way is now being recorded. The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal, always a great paper, has shot away ahead of even the great American and English Weeklies and has become perhaps one of the most striking successes of the age. The Family Herald and Weekly Star has been increased to one hundred and twenty-eight columns, which will equal a hundred good sized volumes in a year. And such magnificent contents. First of all The Family Herald and Weekly Star is a great newspaper ; it is a great authority on all farm and dairy matters and is now preferred by great cheese and butter makers and stock breeders the continent over. In matters of family reading, science, stories, sketches the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, simply towers over everything of its kind. One thing certain, every person should see the Family Herald and Weekly Star even if it is to see what can be produced every week for a dollar a year, to say nothing of the great premium picture which we hear is coming with the Family Herald this season. We understand the publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, will make no charge for sending sample papers to those who do not know it. Those who know say tens of thousands of people are now subscribing for it. It looks as if the demand was going to be greater than the presses can turn out. Canadians and Americans too know a good thing. Certainly the Family Herald and Weekly Star is the leader.

Could Hardly Speak. Sirs, — Last winter my father had such a cough he could hardly speak. He was persuaded to try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam at last, and was completely cured by half of one bottle.
MISS A. M. CRITTENDEN,
Baldwin, Ont.

An Honest Business Firm.

The Campbellford Herald has the following to say of the Wrought Iron Range Company, whose representatives have taken up their headquarters at the Campbell House here, for the purpose of introducing the Home Comfort Range :— "A division of salesmen representing the Wrought Iron Range Company, of Toronto, have been located in Campbellford for the past four months, and they leave this week for other territory, and will likely locate at Napanee. When they first arrived here they were suspected of being among that class of men who travel through the country with some kind of a swindle ; but their stay amongst us has convinced the most curious that they are an industrious, straightforward and intelligent lot of business men, their business affairs having been transacted fairly in all their operations. They paid cash for what they purchased, and spent in Campbellford altogether, something more than $2500. From their mode of doing business, and their respectability during their stay here, they made a large number of friends. They sold several carloads of their well known "Home Comfort" ranges to some of the best people of this locality who express themselves being well satisfied with their purchases. The people of the Napanee district will no doubt find Mr. Pirtle and his men a most honorable lot of fellows."

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

Charles Mortimer Davenport, a young painter, died this week, aged 19 years, 3 months and 8 days. About six weeks ago he and some friends were assembled in George Lafountain's barber shop, Tweed, when a lamp exploded, and the burning oil spread on the shop floor. Young Davenport undertook to stamp it out. His clothes were saturated with oil and paint and ignited. In a moment he was so severely burned that the flesh came off his legs, and he received such a shock that he never recovered.

Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs.
Norway Pine Syrup cures bronchitis.
Norway Pine Syrup heals the lungs.

The Arena for November 1895, Price Reduced.

With the December issue the Arena will be reduced in price from $5 to $3. This is now essentially the people's review in price as well as character— free, frank and fear-

"NOT TO BE VISITED AGAIN."

The Book Agent Wrote This Note Opposite the Name of a Town.

Some time ago, in the State of Michigan, a young and enterprising book agent was in the country, traveling from town to town, selling a work called "The Early Christian Martyrs" which he sold at $5 a copy, delivering the books and collecting the money as he went along.

He had been two days in a certain town and had taken a fair number of orders there, when a little before noon he called in a grocery store, where he found the proprietor alone. The old grocer asked him what he had, seeing from his sample case that he was an agent of some kind. He replied: "I'm taking orders for a work called 'The Early Christian Martyrs,' and have only a few copies left."

The old man's eyes beamed with delight as he said, "Is that so? Why, it was only a few nights ago my wife and I were talking about that book and wondering how we could get it. She wants the book and so do I." The agent delivered him a copy, and as the old man gave him a $5 bill in payment, he said: "Now, look here, don't you go over to the house and sell a copy to my wife, because we only want one in the family."

"Certainly not," said the book agent, "I wouldn't think of such a thing," and bidding the old man good morning, he left the store. It was then about 11:45, and the train which was to take him to Chicago started at 12.15 p. m. He said to himself, "I have just time to sell a copy to the old lady get on the train."

So he entered the nearest drug store, and getting the home address of the old man from a directory, he at once hurried there. Of course, he had no difficulty in making the sale, as she was anxious to get the work, and, having recieved the $5, he made all haste to catch the train.

The old man came home for dinner long after the book agent had gone. His wife came toward him smiling and congratulating herself upon having secured what she had so long wished to possess, a copy of "The Early Christian Martyrs." He did not smile, however, but swore angrily, and, muttering something about he would fix him, hurried out (not stopping for dinner) in the hope of reaching the station before the train started for Chicago, thinking that the book agent would be sure to leave town as soon as possible after this.

When he came within 200 yards of the station he saw from the top of the hill which sloped down to the station that the train was on the point of starting, so, recognizing a friend of his who was nearly at the bottom of the hill and consequetly close to the train, he began gesticulating and shouting to him to stop the agent. His friend could only catch the word book agent, so he approached the book agent, who was smoking a cigar on the rear platform of a car, and asked him what the old man on the hill wanted. The book agent pretended to scrutinize the figure in the distance, of course, knowing full well who he was and what he wanted. In a few minutes he said, as an idea seemed to strike him :

"I know; I know now. That is a customer of mine. He wants a copy of 'The Christian Martyrs,' and like a fool I never called on him. I forgot him. If you want to do him a good turn," he added, just as the train was going to move out, "you had better take the book from me and give it to him, so he won't be disappointed. The price is $5."

The man gave the book agent $5 for his friend, and took the book, and the train started for Chicago. As the book agent leaned back in his seat he took a small book, containing a list of towns, and wrote opposite this town the words : "Not to be visited again."

MAKING SUPERPHOSPHATE.

The Process Detailed so That Any Farmer May Make the Material for Himself.

Some farmers think they could make superphosphate cheaper than they can One's physical feelings, like the faithful setter, search and point out plainly the fact of disease or health.

If a man is not feeling well and vigorous—if he is losing flesh and vitality, if he is listless, nervous, sleepless, he certainly is not well. The down hill road from health to sickness is smooth and declines rapidly.

At the first intimation of disease the wise man takes a pure, simple vegetable tonic. It puts his digestion into good active order and that puts the rest of his body in order. The medicine that will do this is a medicine that is good to take in any trouble of the blood, the digestion, or the respiration, no matter how serious it may have become.

The medicine to take is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a remarkable remedy. It cures diseases in a perfectly natural way, without the use of strong drugs. It cures by helping Nature. It has a peculiar tonic effect on the lining membranes of the stomach and bowels. By putting these membranes into healthy condition, stimulating the secretion of the various digestive juices and furnishing to the blood the proper purifying properties, it reaches out over the whole body and drives disease-germs before it into the usual excretory channels. It builds up firm muscular flesh, makes the skin and the eyes bright.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been found wonderfully efficacious in the treatment of skin diseases—eczema, tetter, erysipelas, salt-rheum—from common pimples or blotches to the worst case of scrofula.

BIG HATS THIS FALL.

Immense Bows, Flowers and Feathers—Features of the New Millinery.

The hats, bonnets and toques for the fall are so different from those that have been worn recently that about the only resemblance is that they are large. Immense breadth seems a necessity, and flowers seem to be one of the important features. In addition to velvet poppies and dahlias, and roses of silk and velvet, are gillyflowers and carnations. All seem to come in exaggerated size. This is also the case with the fancy feathers. Many are taken from the larger birds, like the osprey, heron and owl, and are used flat on the hats.

Some of the bonnets have a close-fitting skull-cap crown, with a turned back, coronet shaped piece resembling the caps worn by the Breton peasants. One truly gigantic hat had a pleated chenille brim with three large bows turned downward from the edge to produce width. It is finished with a large cock's plume, four small birds and plenty of steel ornaments. It is an imported hat and considered very fine, so that one can see that hats must be loaded with trimming to be fashionable. The felt hats are of good proportion. One exhibited is folded over so as to form a double brim over the face, and above this rises an enormous osprey feather and four ostrich plumes.

HEADACHE,
BILIOUSNESS.

B.B.B. unlocks all the secretions and removes all impurities from the system from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

BURDOCK PILLS act gently yet thoroughly on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

WANTED SALESMEN We want one or two GOOD MEN in each County to take orders for a choice line of NURSERY STOCK, or SEED POTATOES Stock and Seed guaranteed. We can give you STEADY EMPLOYMENT with Good Pay. It will cost you nothing to give it a trial. State when writing which you prefer to sell. Address

THE HAWKS NURSERY CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, NOV. 22, 1895

INTERESTING READING.

THE Auditor General's Report is an interesting book of over 2,000 pages and within its covers are many curious items that go to show that Canada is indeed a country of great resources or she should have succumbed long ago to such an unnatural drain.

On page j-38 of the Auditor General's report for the year ending 30th of June 1894 we find that the Government expended $86,848.14 on the Fishery Department, the revenue of which amounted to $73,352.59, a net loss of expenditure over revenue of $13,495.55.

Turning to page j-39 we find that H. R. Purcell, of Enterprise, received a salary of $100, and travelling expenses amounting to $99.25, making a total of $199.25, which Mr. Purcell received. He collected a fine of $10 making the expenditure over revenue in this case $189.35. This is by no means an isolated case, just one among the many.

In the civil Government contingencies we find such items as towels $12, soap and matches $7.34, rent of coat 50c., barber, 27 times, $4.15, 9 baths $3.15, then there are such items as cab hire, street car tickets, blacking boots, etc., that figure up a beautiful grand total of many thousands of dollars. Every farmer who can at all procure a copy of the Auditor General's Report should do so. It would do more to enlighten him as to the way the affairs of Canada have been mismanaged than any thing we know of. When he contemplates the large expenditures on public works and considers the recent Connolly McGreevy revelations, he will begin to think it is time for a change.

When he considers the thousands of dollars annually expended to induce emigrants to settle in Canada, and that the country in the last ten years has not kept its natural increase in population, he will begin to think there is a screw loose somewhere. Let him look at the numerous agents scattered throughout the United States to induce emigrants to come to Canada. The home addresses of these agents are not given and it is extremely problematical if some of them exist at all. Then consider the thousands expended on bringing pauper children from the old country. These children are hereditary criminals and are a menace to the morals of any country. Still our Government paid $35,757.62 in bonuses in Europe, and the larger part of this was paid for sending those pauper children to Canada.

With the public debt every year increasing and the paying power every year deceasing it is time the people did some hard thinking on their own account, and consider if this state of affairs continues much longer where will it land them.

The Ontario says the Humane Society of Belleville will prosecute farmers in Huntington and Hungerford for dehorning cattle. It will be a test case. This was tested over a year ago and the verdict given was that it was not a cruelty to dehorn as well as character—free, frank and fearless beyond all the Magazines. It is described as "the leading literary, progressive and reformative review published in the English-speaking world." Its list of writers on social, ethical, economical, political, educational, scientific, religious and psychical questions, embraces distinguished names of world-wide celebrities. The November number contains the conclusion of the important paper entitled "Vaccination an Error," by the English writer Alfred Milnes, A. M.; "Strolls beyond the Walls of Chester" (with six full-page photogravures including Gladstone's residence) by B. O. Flower, the editor; "A Battle for Sound Morality," Helen H. Gardener; "Hell no part of Divine Revelation," by Rev. W. E. Monley, D. D.; "The Sociality of Jesus' Religion," by Prof. Geo. D. Herron; "Why the South wants Free Silver," by Senator John T. Morgan; "The Unrighteousness of Government" as viewed by a Philosophical Anarchist; "Practical Occultism," by Margaret B. Peeke; "In Foro Conscientiae," by Willis Mills, M. D.; "The Impending Political Advance," by Ex-Governor J. M. Ashley; "The People's Lamps," by Prof. Frank Parsons; "Book Reviews," "Current Events" by the editor, etc. The Arena Publishing Company, Boston, Mass., Pierce Building, Copley Square.

In Spring and Fall. GENTS.—I have taken Burdock Blood Bitters every spring and fall as a blood purifier for several years and find it does great good, building up my system and making me feel like a new man. My wife also has taken it for nervous debility and weakness, receiving great benefit when doctors' medicine seemed to do no good.

RUFUS AVERY,
North Augusta, Ont.

John McCammon, Stoco, has succeeded in picking up about 160 oak staves — part pipe staves and part West India staves—lying under water for the past fifty years. They are in a good state of preservation. Mr. McCammon remembers having helped to drive these staves in 1841. The pipe staves are three to four inches wide, six inches thick and six feet long and the West India staves one to three inches thick, six inches wide and three and a half feet long.

Mr. W. Evans, formerly superintendent of the Deseronto shipyard, has been appointed measuring surveyor for Toronto and all points in that vicinity.

John Slattery has sold the E. P. Tierney estate, (better known as the William Gilmour farm) on the 8th concession Ramsey, to John Fitzgerald, for $3,000; and the John Hawshaw farm in Torbolton to James Armstrong for $2,000.

Diphtheria has again broken out in Bancroft and Hermon, North Hastings, and schools have been closed.

Tore His Flesh in Agony. "I was troubled with blind itching piles for 20 years I was unable to work and tore my flesh in agony. United States and Canadian doctors failed to relieve. Chase's Ointment was a God-send. I am a better man than in 20 years, and am able to work every day." Philip Wallace, blacksmith Iroquois, Ont. Chase's Ointment cures piles, eczema, and irritant diseases. All druggists, 60c. per box.

Newton Alexander Blake, a very popular young man, died at his residence, Princess street, Kingston, last week. He was 24 years of age.

Sidney Martin, of May Fair, Ill., son of William Martin, Deseronto, was shot on Nov. 4th, by a neighbor, who had mistaken him for a burglar.

Edward Brown, Tweed, has returned from the lumber shanties. He narrowly escaped being killed a short time ago. He was engaged in driving one of the company's teams, when a tree fell on one of the horses and killed it instantly. Had the horses been a few feet further ahead Edward would have been crushed to death.

A few days ago a woman, who gave the name of Mary Rose, was arrested in Toronto. She had a baby in her arms and was apparently homeless, as she had been sleeping at one of the police stations every night for a couple of weeks. When arrested she claimed to belong to Kingston.

Bad Blood Between Them. The ever slaving farmer's wife, her delicate sister in the city, suffer more than they care to tell. The dark rings round their eyes, headaches, dizziness, palpitation or rheumatic twinges, betoken a run-down system. The blood is poor, and is a bar to enjoyment of life. Scott's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, strengthens and vitalizes the system, and speedily restores the bloom of health to the cheeks. It cures when all others fail.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

The greatest offer ever made—THE NAPANEE EXPRESS and the Toronto Weekly Globe, the two papers one year for one dollar. The balance of the year free.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

buy it. The Agricultural Gazette of New South Wales tells how to do it, as follows:

It is advisable in the first instance to burn the bones and convert them into what is known as bone ash, as fresh bones or bone-meal produce a slimy mass on treatment with acid which is exceedingly difficult to dry. To prepare the superphosphate from bone ash it is necessary to have a receptacle to mix the ingredients which is not attacked by sulphuric acid. A wooden trough lined with lead (a sheet of lead hammered to fit the trough) is about the best; but the wooden trough, pitched inside, will answer the purpose, or a hole in the ground lined with cement. In this receptacle the ingredients are mixed in the following proportions: For every 40 pounds of bone ash add one gallon of water and 15 pounds strong sulphuric acid (commercial oil of vitrol). Pour the whole of the water into the tank, then add gradually, stirring constantly with a wooden pole, the sulphuric acid. The acid combines very violently with the water, and unless it be added as directed above, an explosion may result. Now add gradually, a little at a time, the bone ash, stirring constantly with a stout pole or hoe. The above proportions should yield a mass possessing the consistence of stiff dough. If it is not stiff enough some more bone ash may be added. Leave it to itself for a few hours, when it will dry to a friable mass, easily broken and in a fine state of division. Protect from rain when drying. The manure is now ready for use. Although burning the bones destroys the organic matter and diminishes the proportion of nitrogen, this loss is more than compensated for by the ease with which the product can be dried and handled. If fresh bones or bone meal be used the fat which they contain prevents the complete action of the acid, and the resulting product is so slimy as to be unmanageable in many cases. If it is preferred to use fresh bones or meal, the following proportions are said to be the best;

Dilute every half gallon of acid with one gallon of water, as directed above—that is, add the acid to the water, stirring all the time. Never on any account add water to the acid. Pour this diluted acid upon 20 pounds of the bone meal in the trough, taking care to pour slowly, stirring all the while. The sticky mass must now be mixed with loam, wood ashes, peat or gypsum in order to dry it. Instead of burning the bones the oil may be removed by steaming them, but this is rather a troublesome process. Simple boiling with water is better than nothing, though in no case is the product as satisfactory as that prepared from burnt bones. Instead of using acid, bones may be rendered soluble by allowing them to ferment. The following is a good plan: Dig a trench and fill it with alternate layers of wood ashes and bones, beginning and ending with wood ashes. Moisten each layer of ashes when laid, and keep the whole moist by watering from time to time. In a few months the heap may be turned over. Bones are also dissolved by placing them in a pit and drenching them with a hot solution of lye, one pound of potash lye to every four pounds of bones. Cover with earth and stir occasionally for two or three weeks, when the mixture may be turned out to dry. It will be seen that treatment with acid is the most rapid and the product just as satisfactory, but caution is required in mixing the ingredients.

Hot Weather Philosophy.

"Do you fear death?"

"No," mopping the perspiration, "not in some forms."

"What, for instance?"

"Oh, well, say freezing!"—Chicago Record.

Domestic Mathematics.

Teacher—If one servant girl could clean a room in two hours, how long would it take two servants to do it?

Little Girl—Four hours.

"Wrong. It would only take one hour."

"Oh, I didn't know you was talking about servant girls that was strangers to each other."

A great deal of royal purple velvet is to be used this season. A hat of this is bordered with a fringe of ostrich feathers and has for trimming very large upstanding bows of black satin. The bonnets have strings, but not the toques, and the strings are often the only distinction. A kilted bonnet is very becoming because it nestles down upon the head. One among the imported novelties was of velvet. The crown was of the kilting, and a ruche of the same served for the brim, which had soft silken poppies here and there hidden in it.

The first hat in the illustration is of felt, with a chenille brim. The crown is of green and the brim green and blue intermingled. It is trimmed with fanciful double bows of corded ribbon and clusters of blade grass and foliage. The next is a black felt trimmed with royal velvet and black ostrich feathers. A cut steel buckle holds the velvet band in place. The last, a gray felt, has fullings of velvet and satin ribbon bows about the flat crown. It is turned straight up at the back and the ostrich plumes stand up aggressively against the large grey satin bow.—New York Sun.

A European authority asserts that by rubbing vaseline over a ball to be fired from pistol or gun, the eye can follow the progress of the missile through the whole distance of its flight. Its course is shown by a thread of smoke, said to be due to the combustion of the vaseline.

Racked with Rheumatism

Unable to Walk, owing to excruciating pain.

After ten years' terrible torture, Cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla.

A. H. Christiansen, writing from the Clifton House, Niagara Falls, says: "I owe you more than I can ever pay. For ten years I suffered the tortures of the damned with rheumatism. Father had it before me, and I believe it is an hereditary disease. My knee joints would get inflamed and if I was out in any "weather" I was sure to be laid up, which to a travelling man is a calamity. In a score of Canadian towns local doctors treated me, some giving relief, others none. I read that Sarsaparilla was a rheumatic cure, and I asked a druggist for "a bottle of the best Sarsaparilla on the market." He gave me Scott's, remarking that it was an improvement on all others, and that he could honestly recommend it. I have taken four bottles, and am as free from pain as a man can hope to be. I was out in a rainstorm two days ago and never felt a twinge. As I said before, to Scott's Sarsaparilla I owe more than I can ever repay."

The best remedy for rheumatism, sciatica, and neuralgic pains—all arising from the presence of poison in the blood—is Scott's Sarsaparilla, a modern concentrated medicine, prompt in its curative effects. Doses from one half to one teaspoonful. At $1 per bottle of your

Three, Four, Five!

We are SOLE AGENTS for the Slater specialty Boots for Men, $3, $4, $5.

WOMEN'S CHILDREN'S MEN'S BOYS'
YOUTHS'

FELTS
RUBBERS
OVERSHOES

GOOD, SOLID, CHEAP.

LADIES' OVERGAITERS.

HAINES & LOCKETT

4 BIG SHOE STORES

Next Door to Radford & Son, the Clothier.

Cash Saved

By ordering your Suits from DAVIS & Co. Entire new stock at bottom prices to select from.

Call and see our prices before ordering.

Davis & Co.

T. G. DAVIS. R. FORD.

THE DESERONTO NAVIGATION CO'Y

(LIMITED)

SUMMER TIME TABLE

Taking effect May 1st, 1895. Steamers will run as follows Daily, except Sunday.

STEAMER ELLA ROSS

D. B. CHRISTIE, Master.

Trenton, Belleville and Deseronto to Picton.		Picton to Deseronto, Belleville and Trenton.
Leave Trenton	1 00 P.M.	Leave Picton	6 00 A.M.
" Belleville	3 00 "	Arrive Deseronto	7 25 "
Arrive Deseronto	5 00 "	Leave Deseronto	7 30 "
Leave Deseronto	5 15 " ....3 30 A.M.	" Belleville	10 00 "
Arrive Picton	6 50 " ....5 00 "	Arrive Trenton	11 30 "
			9 00 P.M.
			10 30 "

Calling at intermediate ports.

This Steamer makes connections at Deseronto with morning trains going East on G. T. R., East and West on C. P. R., and with night trains East and West on Grand Trunk Railway. Arrangements have been made whereby a boat will leave Picton every evening at 9 p.m. for Deseronto. This service will not in any way interfere with the regular daily service, and will prove a great convenience to commercial men and the public generally.

STEAMER DESERONTO.

WM. SKILLEN, Master.

Napanee and Deseronto to Picton.		Picton and Deseronto to Napanee.
Leave Napanee	6 00 A.M.	Leave Picton	9 30 A.M.
Arrive Deseronto	6 45 "	" Thompson's Pt.	10 05 "
Leave Deseronto	7 00 "	" Houghs	10 35 "
" Houghs	7 20 " ....12 30 P.M.	Arrive Deseronto	11 00 "
			2 30 P.M.
			3 00 "
			3 35 "
			4 00 "

Lessening Toil.

A new letter stamping machine has just been introduced in the New York postoffice, which bids fair to accomplish great things in the way of lessening the toil of the office's employes. But, more than that, the new machine is likely to be a godsend to the millions who, since Uncle Sam became the country's messenger boy, have twisted their eyes out of their sockets in vain attempts to discover the meaning supposed to be conveyed by various forms of blurs and blotches officially called postmarks.

From 300 to 1,000 letters can be placed on its receiving bed at a time, and while it is running these through the mill others can be piled on, hence it can be run continuously as long as there are letter for it. Mr. Barry has made it stamp 650 letters in a minute, but this rate of speed is slightly abnormal, and if it will stamp 500 a minute on an average it does all that is asked of it. The best man in the office cannot cancel more than 70 or 80 letters in a minute with a hand stamp.

The machine is simple. When the letters are brought in by the collectors they are arranged so that the stamps are all in the upper right corner, and put on the machine's receiving bed, which is a little over a yard long. The motor is turned on and the letters are pushed along the bed. As they move up against the front a needle feed takes each one separately and pushes it on to the printing roll. The roll is so arranged that it strikes the letter where the stamp should be, leaves the impression and at the same time pushes it through on to the receiving bed. There a "stacker" a lively little steel arm, flies around and thrusts it back out of the way, and the letter with the hundreds of others that have preceded it, is ready for the assorters. The machine will stamp anything less than five-eighths of an inch in thickness, packages and newspapers included, but it is intended only for letters and postal cards, and does its best work on them.—New York Tribune.

Of Interest to Women.

Nervous headaches are often brought about by the abuses of tea and coffee, many women indulging in both of these beverages to excess, and preferring them to good solid food.

Camphor, though an old-fashioned remedy, is a very good one, and should be well rubbed into the painful part. Hot flannels are also very soothing applied to the head, and in some cases ice chopped and laid between flannel

The biggest dollar's worth ever offered. THE NAPANEE EXPRESS and the Toronto Globe, the two papers one year for one dollar. The balance of the year free.

Thou shalt have no other food than at mealtime.

Thou shalt not make unto thee any pies, or put into the pastry the likeness of anything that is in the heavens above or in the earth below. Thou shalt not fail to chew or digest it, for dyspepsia shall be visited upon the children to the third generation of them that eat pie and long life and vigor upon those that live prudently and keep the laws of health.

Remember thy bread to bake it well, for he will not be kept sound that eateth his bread as dough.

Six days shalt thou wash and keep thyself clean, and the seventh day thou shalt take a great bath, thou and thy son, thy daughter and thy maidservant and the stranger that is within thy gates. For in six days man sweats and gathers filth and bacteria enough for disease, whereupon the Lord hath blessed the bathtub and hallowed it.

Remember thy sitting room and bedchamber to keep them well ventilated that thy days may be long in the land.

Thou shalt not eat meat fried.

Thou shalt not eat hot biscuit—wait.

Thou shalt not indulge sorrow or borrow anxiety in vain.

Thou shalt not eat thy food unchewed or highly spiced, or just before work or just after it.

Thou shalt not keep late hours in thy neighbor's house, nor with thy neighbor's wife, nor manservant nor his maidservant, nor his cards, nor his glass, nor with anything that is thy neighbor's. Thus endeth the tenth commandment.

What Men Gain by Marriage.

Here is a woman's catalogue of a married man's felicities: To begin with, they end that unique and painful existence known as a "lodger." They no longer are the prey of that animal—mysterious as Mrs. Gamp's immortal Mrs. Harris—known as the lodging house cat, which begins its day by finishing off everything of an eatable kind left from the day before, and ends it with a highly indigestible meal of writing-paper, soap and matches. They turn their backs on the silent, comfortless rooms, to which they have come back night after night, where often the dying fire is their only welcome. They leave all this behind them and come at once into a region of comfort and happiness. There is Arrive Pieton..... 8 30 " ..... 2 05 " | Arrive Napanee..... 6 00 "

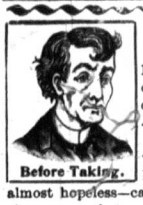
Close connections with G. T. R. trains for all points East and West. Call for tickets reading "via Deseronto."



Before Taking.

Wood's Phosphodine.—The Great English Remedy.

Is the result of over 15 years treating thousands of cases with all known drugs, until at last we have discovered the true remedy and treatment—a combination that will effect a prompt and permanent cure in all stages of Sexual Debility, Abuse or Excesses, Nervous Weakness, Emissions, Mental Worry, Excessive Use of Opium, Tobacco, or Alcoholic Stimulants, all of which soon lead to Insanity, Consumption and an early grave. Wood's Phosphodine has been used successfully by hundreds of cases that seemed almost hopeless—cases that had been treated by the most talented physicians—cases that were on the verge of despair and insanity—cases that were tottering over the grave—but with the continued and persevering use of Wood's Phosphodine, these cases that had been given up to die, were restored to manly vigor and health—Reader you need not despair—no matter who has given you up as incurable—the remedy is now within your reach, by its use you can be restored to a life of usefulness and happiness.

After Taking.

Price, one package, $1; six packages, $5; by mail free of postage.

One will please, six guaranteed to cure. Pamphlet free to any address.

The Wood Company, Windsor, Ont., Canada.

Wood's Phosphodine is sold by responsible wholesale and retail druggists in the Dominion.

This is Concentration—One pill a dose, one box 25 cents. One pill relieves constipation. One box cures an ordinary case. One pill taken weekly neutralizes formation of uric acid in the blood and prevents Bright's Kidney disease and Diabetes. True only of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills.

PRACTICAL FARM TALK

The True Method of Testing Cows For Butter.

It is now established as a fact that the only true method of testing cows for butter is not by churning the milk, but by the use of the tester. It is not satisfactory after churning the milk to find quite a large percentage of the butter fat in the buttermilk. There is more skill required in handling the milk and cream, to insure perfect success than ordinary milkmen are willing to bestow. The temperature, the churning, the age of the cream, and even the food are conditions to be met in testing cows.

The horse may yet have to compete with the steer as a source of supply for meat, as prejudice is disappearing against "horse beef." Horseless vehicles, bicycles and rapid transit by the aid of railroads, are relegating the horse to the rear. His uses are becoming more limited, but the trotter will continue to hold a place for some time yet.

The keeping of sheep on worn-out land has always resulted in increased fertility, due to the even distribution of the droppings and the treading of the manure into the soil by the feet of the sheep. In England it is estimated that one hundred sheep kept on one acre of land fifteen days will render the land capable of producing more than an average crop of grain.

Prices of beef hold well up, and the large crops of grain will bring the cost of food lower. No better time can come for increasing the flocks and herds than the present. When the west can produce grain cheaper than the east it will pay to procure the cheap foods and convert them into beef, mutton, pork, milk, butter and eggs. Another important item is the manure. Some farmers find it profitable to use cheap foods depending only on the manure as profit.

A sheepman thinks that if near a large city, fattening lambs from two to three months old will give the greatest profit, especially if put on the market early in the season.

No healthy animal needs medicine. The practice of using copperas, carbolic acid, etc., as preventives of diseases, by giving such drugs to animals, and especially as is done with hogs, result in more damage than occurs from disease. Such substances are poisonous and cannot be allowed without risk of deleterious effects.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—South American Rheumatic Cure, for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by W. S. Detlor, Druggist.—46y.

Catarrh Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes

One short puff of the breath through the Blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this Powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves instantly, and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tonsilitis and Deafness. 60 cents. Sold by W. S. Detlor—46p

Indian Women Attend a Dance in This Up-to-Date Costume.

A Guthrie, Okla., special says: A few days ago a large party of Osage Indians arrived on a visit to the Sac and Fox tribe, east of here, and the two tribes yesterday began a pony dance, which will last a week. The white people who visited the dance last night were astonished to see that the new woman was there, fully a dozen of the Osage squaws being attired in calico bloomers of the most gaudy hue.

Bloomers for Tobogganing.

A Newark, N. J., item reads: It has been decided by the women of the Orange Toboggan Association to wear bloomers on the slides of the Orange Mountain next winter, and some fetching costumes will be evolved for the sport. The desire aimed at is to have the bloomers fit just a shade closer than those used by wheelwomen. No protests have been heard as yet from the male patrons of the slides.

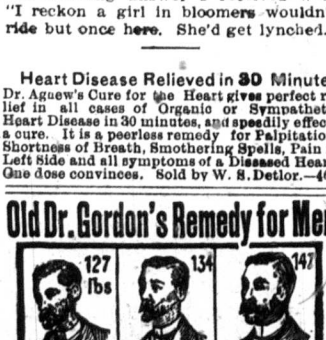
No Bloomers in New Orleans.

A New Orleans correspondent writes to the Chicago Inter-Ocean: The bloomer girl has yet to conquer the south. We didn't find any of her after we left Southern Illinois, and Memphis, Vicksburg and Baton Rouge were aghast at the mere mention of her betrousered highness. At New Orleans I timidly asked about bloomers, and the startling answer I received was: "I reckon a girl in bloomers wouldn't ride but once here. She'd get lynched."

Heart Disease Relieved in 30 Minutes

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gives perfect relief in all cases of Organic or Sympathetic Heart Disease in 30 minutes, and speedily effects a cure. It is a peerless remedy for Palpitation Shortness of Breath, Smothering Spells, Pain in Left Side and all symptoms of a Diseased Heart. One dose convinces. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y

Old Dr. Gordon's Remedy for Men



CURES POSITIVELY

Lost Power, Nervous Debility, Failing Manhood, Secret Diseases, caused by the errors and excesses of youth.

Young, middle-aged or old men, suffering from the effects of follies and excesses, restored to health, manhood and vigor.

Price $1.00, 6 boxes for $5.00. Sent by mail, securely sealed. Write for our book, "Startling Facts," for Men only, tells you how to get well and stay well.

Address, QUEEN MEDICINE CO., Box 947, MONTREAL.

and applied to the forehead will induce sleep.

A good wash for weak eyes and inflamed lids is composed of eight grains of sulphate of zinc, one drachm of rinum opii and eight ounces of rose water.

A stimulating lotion for the scalp is composed of: Acet. cantharides, one-half ounce; glycerine, two drachms; rose water, eight ounces. It should be well rubbed in nightly.

The care of the hair during a serious and prolonged illness demands some attention. Unless it is a case of brain fever, it is unnecessary to cut it quite close; two or three inches clipped at the ends will often serve the purpose quite as well.

One of the reasons that hair falls out after illness is that it is frequently in a tangled condition. All during a fit of sickness the hair should be regularly cut at the ends and kept well brushed. This is not so difficult as one would imagine. All that is required is to part the hair well at the beginning of the illness and plait it in two braids, one on each side of the head; this is done, and carefully combed and brushed, the invalid will feel much more comfortable than otherwise, for the head will be cooler and the hair will not be tangled.

ATMOSPHERIC PRESSURE.

A Neat and Easily-Made Experiment in Illustration of Its Force.

The accompanying cut is not unlike a practical demonstration of the strength of certain cements shown along the city streets. But this case is not one of cement fastening; the adhesion here illustrated is made solely by the pressure of the air.

It is impossible without an air pump to produce a perfect vacuum, but one sufficient for the purpose of this experiment may be produced by means of a bit of burning paper. Suspend a wine glass from a chandelier or the ceiling by a string, as shown in the cut, and hold the burning paper under it. The air will dilate with the heat and in cooling will make a partial vacuum in the interior of the glass.

This will suffice to cause a porcelain plate to adhere to the glass, provided you press it to the glass firmly and evenly before the cooling of the air begins. As a precaution, to secure an air-tight joint, you might rub the surface of the plate with suet.

The principle here illustrated is the equal pressure of the atmosphere on all sides, except in the interior of the glass, where there is a vacuum, thus keeping the two articles together.

But He Seemed Satisfied.

"No," she answered.

As she stood there in the thickening gloom, he could not but reflect that she was beautiful.

"No," she repeated, "you are wrong. I do not give you the marble heart. I am a poor girl. The best I can give you is the limestone heart."

Still he thought there was a dignity in poverty all its own.—Detroit Tribune.

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Tightness of the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Summer coughs are more dangerous than Winter coughs the home, however tiny a place, to come back to, and the wife to welcome them, and into whose ears all the troubles and pleasures of the day can be poured, certain of either sympathy or appreciation. He is certainly a willing companion in his walks and excursions, and an interested helper in his work if he needs one. He has some one now who is never bored by his oft repeated jokes, and who is as interested as he is himself in what he has done and said in the past, or means to do and say in the future. He is, indeed, a lucky man, who exchanges his bachelor life for one like this.

Sufficient Reasons.

Mrs. Wickwire—I really must have a pair of new bloomers.

Mr. Wickwire—What's the matter with the ones you have?

Mrs. Wickwire—They hardly have the right to be called bloomers any more; they are too seedy.—Indianapolis Journal.

THE BEST MOUTH TONIC IN THE WORLD

Odorona THE PERFECT TOOTH POWDER.

IT LEAVES THE MOUTH IN A MOST DELICIOUS STATE OF FRESHNESS. DRUGGISTS 25 CTS

DR. HOWARD'S ELECTRIC PILLS BLOOD BUILDER FOR BRAIN AND BODY

POSITIVELY CURE all Weakness and Pain, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Paralysis, St. Vitus' Dance, Loss of Power, Female Weakness and Irregularity, and all Diseases caused by Bad Blood and Shattered Nerves. Skin Beautifier. One trial proves it. In large boxes, 50c.; 6 for $2.50. The Dr. Howard Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Morristown, N.Y.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS cure Fever, Worms, Teething, Diarrhœa, Etc. 25c. No taste.

THE ART OF CURING SCIATICA, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, PAINS IN BACK OR SIDE, OR ANY MUSCULAR PAINS LIES IN USING D&L MENTHOL PLASTER

IN AIR TIGHT TIN BOXES SOLD EVERYWHERE 25c

Scranton Coal

In order to meet the wishes of a number of our Customers who enquired for SCRANTON Coal, we have put some in stock this season.

We carry as well a full line of the Celebrated LACKAWANNA variety which we have handled for a number of years with great general satisfaction.

We shall be pleased to receive your order which will have our best attention.

All coal under cover and thoroughly screened before delivery.

The Rathbun Co.

NAPANEE SCRIBBLERS.

THESE BOOKS are made in Napanee from the best of printing paper, and range in price from one to five cents. Try Pollard's Pen and Ink Scribbler, only 5c.

WALL PAPER and BORDERS in great variety at very low prices.

SPRING WINDOW SHADES, of all colors and every size and style, in stock or made to order.

THE POLLARD CO'Y.

EXPRESS BOOKSTORE, NAPANEE.

A Wide Range.

A preparation which enriches and purifies the blood and assists nature in repairing wasted tissue must have a wide range of usefulness.

Such a preparation is Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. The uses of Scott's Emulsion are not confined to wasting diseases, like consumption, scrofula or anæmia. They embrace nearly all those minor ailments associated with loss of flesh.

Scott & Bowne, Belleville. 50c. and $1.

DR. WOOD'S

Norway Pine Syrup.

Rich in the lung-healing virtues of the Pine combined with the soothing and expectorant properties of other pectoral herbs and barks.

A PERFECT CURE FOR

COUGHS AND COLDS

Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Croup and all THROAT, BRONCHIAL and LUNG DISEASES. Obstinate coughs which resist other remedies yield promptly to this pleasant pine syrup.

PRICE 25c. AND 50c. PER BOTTLE.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Damb

"To Mrs. Burns, Hill Cottage, Lulb.—Coming to-morrow. Have everything prepared."

Then he went back to his work with the sense of satisfaction which attends the man who is succeeding in the great object of his life. And as he flung the sketch of the Scotch cottage aside and placed Lady Florence's portrait on the easel, he nodded at it with a cynical smile and murmured:

"The net is drawing in closer, my proud beauty."

CHAPTER XXIII.

They started next day. One might almost say they fled. Vane did not even leave his address with the Porters. Every one knows the delightful Scotch express, and how pleasant a journey due north may be made with a friend to talk to, when one wants to talk, and books and magazines to read when one is tired of chatting.

Nora could not read; but when Vane was silent she was quite content to sit and watch him under her long lashes.

As they tore along a weight seemed to be lifting from her mind, and her heart grew lighter. And the same may be said of Vane. He realized, with every mile that was put between him and London, how great had been his dread of discovery. Up there in that wild, solitary region there would be no cause for fear. And up there he could have time to think out some plan for her future. For he told himself that, sooner or later, they would have to part. They could not go on living the life they had been leading. At present her innocence of the consequences of the step she had taken was as unbroken, as unsullied, as it had been on the night of her arrival; but some day, suddenly, she would see the grim truth.

Yes; he would think it all out when he got up there in the quiet of the Scotch valley, and hit upon some way of parting with her and placing her in safety beyond the reach of scandal. And as he made the resolution he looked across at her and felt a sharp pang in the money column marked with ink. It stated that the great Bendoza mines shares were going up. With a laugh he tossed the paper aside and fell to at his supper.

"What is it?" asked Nora, looking at the paper wistfully.

"Oh, nothing!" he said. "Only a speculation of Senley Tyers' that is turning in trumps. He's a clever fellow."

"I don't understand," she said.

"Neither do I. Don't worry. Have some more of this hot cake?"

That night, when she went to her room, she drew aside the wardrobe curtains again, and, obeying a whimsical impulse, took one of the pretty prints from its hook and put it on; and as she stood looking at herself in the glass a curious sensation of unreality took possession of her. She felt ghost-like, and made haste to take off the dress, and with a trembling hand replaced it in its cupboard.

The days passed. Sometimes, when it was fine, she went out with Vane, tramping beside him over the heather, and singing as she went. Sometimes she wandered alone over the hills to the neighboring town and made small purchases; but she liked best to sit at home at work, and make up a big fire for Vane when he returned tired, and cold, and hungry. It was a restful life of companionship and friendship—an idyllic life that both he and she were gradually persuading themselves could last forever.

Neither of them knew that the shadow of their fate was already moving toward them.

One afternoon she was bending over her books, humming softly from sheer happiness and serenity, when she heard a step outside.

It was too early for Vane's return, and after a second's pause in her song, she took it up again and went on with her work. But the step came nearer, and ceased outside the door, and she heard a knock.

Mrs. Burns and her daughter had gone out on some errand, and Nora,

"No," she said, her face suddenly pale.

"Oh, you forget," he said, smoothly. "You told me that you did know it, don't you remember, that night at Lady Florence's?"

He looked at her over his shoulder.

"I—I forgot," she said. "Oh, yes."

"I dare say I pronounced it badly," he said. "Well, I went down there just on the whim of the moment, and was tempted by the wildness of the place to go a little further along the coast. A savage coast it is, too, Mortimer, isn't it?"

"Yes," she said; and she wondered whether her voice had suddenly grown thick, or whether it was only so in her own ears.

"I found one of the quaintest, wildest places I ever saw in my life down there. It is called the Witches' Caldron."

She dropped the pen she had taken up absently, and her fingers closed spasmodically.

He glanced toward her, and continued in his smooth, low voice:

"There was a small cottage, quite a sea-gulls'-nest sort of place, half built out of an old boat, perched on the cliffs, and I made a sketch of it. It was empty and deserted." Her hand stole to the edge of the sideboard and clutched it. He noticed the movement, and a faint smile curled his lip. Mr. Senley Tyers was enjoying himself immensely. "I wonder whether you ever saw it?"

She did not speak, and he went on, as slowly, as smoothly, as before:

"There was quite a history attaching to the place. It seems that there lived in it at one time, and until quite recently, a woman and her niece—a Mrs. Trevanion—and a girl called Nora." He paused, dropped the end of the cigarette from his languid fingers, lighted a fresh one, and leaning back with his hands behind his head, watched her from beneath his half-closed lids. "They were, ridiculous as it sounds, smugglers. Fancy! How long they had been living there I didn't ascertain, but it seems that the poor girl was drowned by the upsetting of a boat—she was on an absurd smuggling expedition. I imagine—and the aunt left the place and went to Australia—California—Jericho. Sad story, isn't it? I assure you, my dear Mortimer, that the wild place quite touched me. You know, I dare say that I am rather romantic. We artists always are. But I beg your pardon; I'm afraid I've been telling you a story you must know already—or did you leave the place before this sad accident happened?"

She faced round and confronted him. The fire-light fell upon her white face, and dark, flashing eyes. Her lips were set tightly, her dark brows drawn in a straight line.

As he looked at her as she stood at-

Days

often bring coughs and colds, while

PYNY - PECTORAL

brings quick relief. Cures all inflammation of the bronchial tubes, throat or chest. No uncertainty. Relieves, soothes, heals promptly.

A Large Bottle for 25 Cents.

DAVIS & LAWRENCE CO.: LTD.
PROPRIETORS.
MONTREAL.

Robert Light

Manufacturer and Dealer in

Rough and Dressed Lumber

Screen Doors,
Mouldings,
Bee Hives,
Stairs, Blinds,
Turned Work,
Wood Drapery,
Sash,

and Interior Finish for Buildings.

NAPANEE - - ONT

M. STORMS,
MOSCOW

has been over fifty years in the undertaking business in the county, and can turn out work equal to any in the Dominion.

A large stock of Coffins, Caskets, Robes, Crape Gloves and Badges, constantly on hand, and sold at reasonable prices.

Embalming a Specialty. Every facility on hand for doing the work.

25 per cent cheaper than any in the trade. Give me a call at Moscow.

M. STORMS, Prop.

Carscallen & Bro.,
Low Prices, No Combination
Undertaking Establishment.

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of all the latest designs to be found in which we are prepared to sell 25 per cent. cheaper than any house in the county. We use the best deodorizer, thus obviating all unpleasant odors. Embalming a Specialty. Having purchased one of the Handsomest Hearses at the Toronto exhibition we are prepared to attend personally funerals in the most satisfactory manner. The public will do well to call and examine our stock, and be convinced that ours is the place to buy.

COFFINS, CASKETS, ROBES, Etc.

We have also added a full line of the newest things in Wall Paper, Ceiling Decorations, Window Shades and Picture Railing, Paints and Oils Paint Mixed. Persons wanting anything in this line will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere. Remember the place, Centre-street One block south of Main ed across at her and felt a sharp pang go straight through his heart.

CARSCALLEN & BRO.

"I wish to Heaven she really were my brother," he thought.

They found the cottage almost as pretty as Senley Tyers' sketch of it. It stood at the front of the great hills, nestling under them out of the way of the cold winds, and looking, to both Vane and Nora, like a haven of rest.

Mrs. Burns, "the decent woman" Senley Tyers had mentioned, met them at the door. She was a motherly looking person, scrupulously clean and neat, and the cottage was as clean and comfortable-looking as herself.

A mist was upon the hills when they arrived, but a huge fire was burning in the sitting-room, and the table spread with a substantial supper.

Nora knelt down in front of the fire and warmed her hands at the blaze, and turned her smiling, happy face up to Vane as he fussed about, disposing of his guns and rods.

"Doesn't this remind you of the cottage in the Caldron ?" she said in a low whisper ; "only that it is a great deal larger and more 'swell,' as Lord Wally would say" ; and she laughed.

Vane paused a moment, and laid his hand on her head with its closely cut hair.

"You think you'll be as happy here ?" he said, gently.

"As happy ?" she responded ; and that was all.

Mrs. Burns was an admirable cook, and the supper was of the good Scotch kind, to which they did full justice. A young girl about Nora's age and build waited upon them with charming modesty and self-possession, and Nora watched her curiously.

After supper they sat before the fire, Nora on the great sheepskin rug, her head resting on her hand, and talked over all that she had seen in London ; and in the intense quietude of the hill-guarded valley they were serenely happy. Never since the night of her arrival had Vane felt so securely content. And yet he would have to part from her presently !

When Nora went to her room, Mrs. Burns followed her to make an apology.

"This is my daughter's room, sir," she said, "and I've taken the liberty of leaving some of her things in it." She indicated a curtained wardrobe in a recess. "You see, it's a small, wee bit of a place, and—"

"Oh ! they won't be in my way," said Nora. "Pray leave them."

When the woman had wished her good-night and gone, Nora locked the door and drew aside the curtains of the wardrobe.

Two or three print dresses, a hat, and other articles were hung on the pegs.

Nora looked at them with a feeling which I could not attempt to describe. As they hung there, they looked like the ghosts of the Nora Trevanion who used to live like a wild creature in a certain Witches' Caldron on the savage west coast.

The next day she rested at home and worked hard at her books, while Vane went out with his gun.

Once or twice, when the young girl came into the room to lay the cloth or to see to the fire, Nora tried to speak with her ; but the girl was shy, and when she replied to Nora's preliminary questions spoke in so broad a Scotch that Nora could scarcely understand her.

The quiet, the repose, were delightful.

When Vane came home, tired and happy, and threw on the table a couple of brace of birds he had obtained permission to shoot on the moor, he saw that even the few hours had wrought a change for the better in her appearance. The pallor had nearly gone, the slight weariness had entirely disappeared, and she welcomed him with the old brightness in her beautiful eyes.

"I've been hard at work, too," she said, with a smile. "It won't be long before I am able to read and write ; and then—"

She stopped.

"Then—what ?" he asked, as he bent over the copies she had been laboring at.

"Never mind," she replied, archly. "You will see."

"Plenty of time," he said. "Don't go and knock yourself up. I want you to rest while you are here. Halloo ! here's a paper ! Now, who could have sent that ? Oh, only Sen, of course ! What a thoughtful fellow he is !"

He opened it with no very keen interest or curiosity, and found a paragraph gone out on some errand, and Nora, after a momentary hesitation, rose and opened the door.

The day was already beginning to fail ; a mist hung low over the hills. In the dusk of the gloaming she saw a man in a thick ulster, with the collar turned up, and for a moment she gazed at him without recognizing him ; then she fell back a pace, and, with a vague apprehension, she uttered an exclamation. It was Senley Tyers.

"Ah, Mortimer !" he said, holding out his hand as he passed her and entered the room. "Quite startled you, I'm afraid. You didn't expect me ? Where is Tempest ?"

She had touched his hand, and now stood regarding him with her face grown pale and a shadow of uneasiness in her eyes.

"He is out, shooting," she said. "Did—did he expect you ?"

"No," he said, with a smile, as he took off his ulster and went to the fire, standing with his back to it and regarding her with a look that was a mixture of cynical amusement and cruel satisfaction at the fear his presence had aroused. "No ; I happened to fancy a run up here—just to see how you were getting on ; and here I am."

"Won't you sit down ?" she said, trying to speak steadily, and to throw some geniality and welcome into her voice.

He moved to the table, and glanced at the books and copy, and smiled.

"Hard at work, I see, Mortimer," he said. "That is right. A nice, quiet place to study in, you find it, don't you ?"

"It is very quiet," she said. "Will you have something to eat—to drink ?"

"Thanks," he said ; "a glass of whiskey. When will Vane be in ?"

"In about an hour," she said. "He has gone over the hills. He—he will be glad to see you."

He put the whiskey and water on the table, and he took a cigarette and lighted it. The scent of the Turkish tobacco seemed to carry her back to London, and to increase the vague fear with which the sudden sight of him had inspired her.

"Have you learned to smoke yet, Mortimer ?" he asked, puffing the clouds in rings and watching them as they floated to the ceiling.

"No," she said ; "but I do not mind it—Vane smokes all the time."

"Mind it !" he echoed. "Fancy a boy objecting to tobacco !"

She winced, but kept a steadfast eye upon his mocking face.

"And so Vane will be back in an hour ?" he said, sipping the whiskey. "And how is he ? Has the change done him good ? You are looking better, Mortimer."

"I am quite well," she said, coldly, as she collected the books and put them aside.

"You don't ask how I am ?" he said, dropping with his languid air into a chair—Vane's chair—beside the fire, and holding his thin, white hands to it.

"I hope you are well," she said. "Vane will be glad to see you. Are you fond of shooting ? If so, you will be able to go out with him. He has rented part of the moor here, and gets some birds there every day."

"Thank you, Mortimer ; but I couldn't hit a haystack at twenty paces. All the grouse in Scotland are safe for me ; besides, I want to rest for a few days—want to lie on my back, or sit before the fire and take my ease. I've been travelling."

He spoke as if he expected her to ask where, and she put the question. The color had come back to her face, and she was rapidly regaining her self-possession. After all, why should she fear him ? He would not stay long—a day, two only, perhaps.

"Where ?" he said. "Well, I've been in the west coast."

"The west coast ?" she repeated, vaguely, and with her back to him, as she stood at the small sideboard putting away her books.

He nodded and smoked his cigarette.

"I had a fancy for having another look at that quaint place Tempest and I were down at some months ago—a place called Trelorne. You know it, of course ?"

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION
25 CTS 25 CTS

bay the artist predominated in him, and he yielded her a reluctant admiration.

"By Heaven, she is splendid !" he murmured. "If I could only paint her now !"

The pause lasted for a full minute ; then she opened her lips, and in a low voice, the words, "You know ?" fell from them.

He smiled up at her—a smile of sardonic confidence and triumph.

"Of course I know," he returned, in a kind of purr.

"When ? How long ago ?" she breathed.

He arched his brows.

"Since the night of the dinner-party at Lady Florence's."

She put her hand to her lips as if to steady them ; the room seemed to spin round. She staggered slightly, and he rose and moved toward her. In an instant she had recovered, and, recoiling from him, she caught up the knife with which she had been sharpening a pencil and raised her arm ready to strike him.

"Keep back !" she breathed. "Do not touch me !"

He thrust his hands in his pockets, and shrugged his shoulders with a deprecatory smile.

"My dear girl—my dear Nora !" he said, "you are making a great mistake. You are treating me as a foe. I am your friend, believe me. Do you understand ?—your friend ! Come, come !" His voice sank to a soothing, coaxing murmur. "Come and sit down, and listen to me. Keep your knife, if you like, and after you have listened to me, stick it into the breast of the friend who has come to save you."

"To save me ?" she echoed, unconsciously.

"Yes," he said, with quiet emphasis ; "to save you !"

CHAPTER XXIV.

"Save me !" she repeated, as if the words conveyed no meaning to her.

Senley Tyers regarded her with a grave, almost pitying smile, and waved his hand to a chair.

"Sit down, my dear Nora," he said, with an ironical mockery of respect, mingled with the familiarity indicated by the use of her Christian name, which drove the blood to her face. She stood against the sideboard, her small hand gripping the edge, her dark eyes fixed on his sallow face, with fear, dislike, distrust, eloquent in them. The knife was still in her hand.

"My dear girl, is it possible that you do not understand me ?" he said in a low, almost caressing voice. "You know the danger you have been running, the peril in which you have been placed all these weeks ?"

She was silent a moment, then she said in a reluctant voice :

"What danger—what peril ? I do not know ; I do not understand."

He turned his eyes from her face to the fire with a peculiar smile, that would have been an insult if she had understood its significance, and seemed as if debating with himself for a moment ; then he said :

"My dear Nora, it is difficult to explain to you. Your ignorance, your innocence—charming, perfectly charming as they are—are so embarrassing that it is almost impossible to explain to you. Really, I feel tempted to let you may be cured. We treat all sexual disorders of men. Four out of five who suffer nervousness, mental worry, attacks of "the blues," are but paying the penalty of early excesses. The dread alarm of Impotency, the exhaustion of Spermatorrhœa, may be CURED in strict confidence at moderate expense.

MEN OF ALL AGES

Send for our free sealed book, "PERFECT MANHOOD."

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

Like the Touch of Magic

Desperate Itchings of the Skin Allayed by Chase's Ointment—the Recognized Skin Specific.

It is only a few months since Dr. Chase's Ointment was brought prominently before the public, principally by its cures of stubborn and long standing cases of Itching Piles that had defied all other treatments. To-day it is recognized from ocean to ocean as an infallible cure for Itching Piles, Eczematic Eruptions and all Itching of the Skin. Its cures have rendered its sales larger than those of all other preparations for such ailments combined. People use Dr. Chase's Ointment with confidence, because in every community someone has been benefitted like Mr. Simpson, Berlin, Ont., who, under date of Feb. 8, '95, writes that for a number of years he was troubled with Itching Piles; they caused intense suffering, and although dozens of advertised remedies were used, none of them did any good although some of them had long and thorough trials. Here are his own words quoted from his letter. "Last fall I got a box of Chase's Ointment from Mr. Landreth's drug store, Berlin. I applied according to directions and soon found it was what I wanted. Only used part of one box when I was well as ever in my life. Once in a while since I have felt slight symptoms of its return, but one application of the Ointment and all is right again."

Such expressions as this from those who use Chase's account for its popularity.

PRICE 60 CENTS.

remain in your condition of blissful ignorance but for two considerations. The first is that I feel my duty toward a defenseless woman very strong upon me; and the next time if I held my hand and spared your feelings. they would only be spared for a time, and would receive the shock of knowledge from some hand less kind than mine. No, my dear Nora; it is because I am your friend, and Vane Tempest's, that I feel constrained to speak—to make an effort and save you."

"Save me from what?" she said, almost inaudibly. All but the last few words of his smoothly polished speech had gone by her like the wind.

"From ruin," he said, with a look of solemnity.

She put her hand to her lips and shook her head.

"I don't understand," she said. "You are saying all this to—to vex me. You do not like me. You have never liked me. You would not dare to speak to me like this if Vane were here!"

The simple truth struck him; a faint color came into his face, and a gleam of angry light shot across his eyes.

"You are mistaken," he said, half pityingly. "My dear child, why should I dislike you? What harm could you possibly do me now, or at any time? Think! Men only dislike those they fear. Why should I fear you? Now, you dislike—shall we say hate?—me, my dear Nora; but that is because you fear me. You are very foolish. I tell you again that I am your friend; it is from sheer friendship to you and Vane that I have come down to step between you and ruin."

He stopped, and watched her closely for a moment or two; then he went on, still in the smooth, soft voice:

"You say you do not understand. But are you sure you do not? I can easily comprehend that the Nora Trevanion of the Witches' Caldron would not understand; but you are quite a different person to that wild young savage—pray excuse me! You have been living in London, mixing in society; you have met men of the world, and women. You must have learned something in that time—enough, at any rate, to know what I mean when I say that you have been playing on the brink of a precipice, a fall from which would land you in the deep waters of life-long shame and ruin."

She looked at him unflinchingly, her lovely eyes distended. She did not see him. The glimmer of his meaning, in all its cruelty, was beginning to dawn upon her.

He smiled faintly.

"What do you think the world would say—those friends of Vane, with whom you have made acquaintance—if they knew that Ernest Mortimer was a young lady?" he inquired in a smooth whisper. "What do you think, for instance, Lady Florence Heathcote would think and say if she knew?"

She did not answer, but her breath came more quickly.

"My dear Nora, I know, if you do not; but I think you can guess—imagine. She than you or Vane have had. You will ask, 'Why, what does it matter to you more than to the rest of the world—to the men at the club—for instance, to Lord Wally and the rest?' Well, you see, I happen to be a real friend of Vane. He saved my life, as I dare say you know; and I knew that such a scandal as your continual presence with him in that masquerade—in that garb—would ruin him as well as you. Ruin him! I was anxious on his account principally, but also on yours; for, though you do not like me, I liked you, Nora—I pitied you."

She writhed, as if his avowed pity were fresh torture.

"You were so young, so innocent, so ignorant of the world! It was so evident to me that the folly you had committed had been lone in the impulse of the moment, had been quite free from the mere idea of wrong; in short, my dear Nora, I divined the truth, and pitied you. I wanted to befriend you, to save you. I knew that if you remained in London much longer, your secret must be discovered. There was peril in every day, hour; and so I persuaded Vane to bring you down here."

She sank into a chair and held her face in her hands as if worn out by emotion.

"I might have stopped there. Frankly, most men would have done so. You see, it was not a nice affair to be mixed up with. It would not be pleasant to figure as a participant in the scandal; but I could not leave you to your fate. I have come down to help you, and not only you, but him, my friend, the man who saved my life—the only true friend I have in the world! Will you let me help you, Nora?"

He asked the question in the gentlest, sweetest tone of truest sympathy.

"Will you let me help you? I am a man of the world. I know it to the core. I tell you frankly, honestly, as I would tell my own sister, that you cannot continue your course of deception much longer; that discovery means shame and ruin for you—and for him. If you will not think of yourself, if you are indifferent to your own happiness, you will consider his. I know you will, my dear child!"

She flung up her arms and let them fall on the table, and let her head fall on them.

"What shall I do?" she panted, moaned, more to herself than to him.

He rose softly and seated himself at the table opposite her, and leaned forward so that there was no need for him to speak above a whisper.

"I will tell you, Nora," he said, earnestly, slowly, as if to impress every word upon her. "You must go away. You must leave him!"

Her lips moved and formed the words—they rent her heart:

"Go away-! Leave him!"

He heard the murmur.

"Yes; you must go away without a word. He must not know that I discovered your secret. I ask you only one thing, and that is to promise me that you will not tell him or any one what has passed between us two this afternoon. Will you do that? But for your own sake you will, I know."

She did not speak, and he took her silence as equivalent to the promise he demanded.

"Nora, listen to me carefully," he said in the same cautious whisper. "To-morrow I will take him out of the way, and when we are gone you must leave this place. There is a train at eleven o'clock. You must not go to London, but to Glasgow. Can you remember? I have written the directions on this piece of paper—see." He pushed it across the table against her fingers, and they closed upon it mechanically. "At Glasgow you will find a vessel on the point of starting for Canada. I have booked ao passage for you. You see, I relied upon your good sense, I knew you would trust me and believe that I was doing my best for you—and Vane."

He waited a moment to see if she would respond, but no sign came.

"You will find written on this paper an address in Canada, to which you must go. It is the name and address of a lady who will take care of you and help you to make a fresh start in life. I have told her nothing—absolutely nothing of your story. To her you will simply be the orphan of a friend of mine—a kind of ward whose welfare I am anxious to secure. You understand, my dear child? You will be happy there with these good people, I am convincto let the fierce, fast breath escape, and at a glance he saw that he had won.

"Forgive me, my dear Nora—forgive me!" he murmured. "I see I have wronged you. I would ask your pardon on my knees. You love him too well to work his ruin, do you not? Ah! yes; I might have known it! And you will go! You will take my advice, accept—my assistance. Say just one word, just the 'yes,' Nora. For his sake, remember!"

He leaned over the table, his own breath coming fast, his dark eyes fixed on her.

She panted as if for breath, then the answer came.

"Yes! yes! yes!" she said, hoarsely. "You know it! Let me go anywhere, anywhere! I ruin him! Oh, God!" She trembled and shook in every limb for a moment, then stood erect, firm, resolute, with an expression in her beautiful eyes which Senley Tyers was far too ignoble a man to understand.

"I—I will do what you tell me," she said painfully. "Don't—don't you speak to me about it again. I—I could not bear it. I will go away. I will never see him again!"

He rose, struggling with a triumphant smile.

"Not till to-morrow," he said. "Remember that. You cannot go to-night; he would follow and find you, and bring you back. To-morrow, when I have taken him out for the whole day—Hush!"

He had heard a footstep.

She had heard it, too. When did she fail to hear it? With a quick gesture she struck her lips with her hand, as if to stifle a cry, then sprang from the room and up the stairs as the latch was hear to tinkle.

At Bilboa, Spain, a beggar died lately at the age of 103 years. There are said to be quite a number of centenarians in the land of the Hidalgos, and the beggar's death would hardly have been deemed worthy of public notice if the autopsy of a body had not disclosed the very extraordinary fact that the deceased Lazarus was a consumptive for certainly not less than half a century.

A private belonging to a regiment of Highlanders lately rode through the streets of Glasgow on a donkey. He was arrested and fined £3 3s or one month's imprisonment, for attaching ridicule to the Queen's uniform.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bul
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."
See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

ROYAL SCALP FOOD.

Price $1.00
6 Bottles, $5.00 Exp. Pd.

ONE HONEST MAN
AND BUT ONE RELIABLE
HAIR FOOD.

Vane's friends—the men friends—would crack their sides with laughter; but the women!" he paused and shrugged his shoulders—"the women would gather their skirts about them and shrink from you as from something vile and loathesome—as if there were contamination in your touch—the very air you breathed. They would not shrink from you more, my dear Nora, if you had the smallpox or the scarlet fever."

Still she did not speak, but her breath came still faster, and her face was white, save for two red spots that glowed redly on her cheeks. Her eyes still met his unflinchingly.

"They would not believe—they would laugh the idea to scorn—that you had been Vane Tempest's companion all these weeks in pure ignorance and innocence. There is not a woman in the world who would believe it. No; they would one and all point the finger of scorn at you; would cover you with shame and disgrace; would drive you from them as if you were a leper. And indeed—indeed, my dear child, you would be a leper of the social kind; and that kind of leprosy, like the other, is worse, far worse than death."

He paused a moment. The two red spots had left her cheeks, and a deathly pallor now was spread over her face.

"It was a thoughtless whim—freak; a little adventure, harmless enough in your eyes, I dare say—indeed, I know, my dear Nora," he said. "There seemed nothing wrong in it. How should there? And, as a matter of fact, there was nothing wrong in it; but the world"—he raised his eyebrows—"the world would look at it in a very different light. It would call Vane a scoundrel, and you"—he paused dramatically and lowered his voice—"a girl lost to all sense of decency and shame!"

She staggered slightly, and her hands went up to her eyes as she uttered a faint cry—a terrible cry—as though she had been struck blind, whereas, on the contrary, she was just seeing his meaning.

His ruthless hand had cruelly torn away the veil of her ignorance and innocence, and she herself saw her action as the world would see it.

A heart of stone might have pitied her; but Senley Tyers' heart was harder than stone when his own interst was at stake. He felt no pity, no compunction. A smile of satisfaction crossed her face, and he took up the poker and stirred the fire. The light flickered on the stricken girl, and she turned her head away, as if she seemed to shrink from it.

"You understand now, Nora?" he said, gently. "Ah, yes, I see you do. You know now what I have come to save you from; for I have come to save you. You know now why I persuaded Vane to take you away from London and bring you down here?"

She did not move, but her hands fell from her face and clasped themselves tightly, fiercely.

"I give you my word, my dear girl, that I suffered agonies—untold agonies—after I discovered the truth. How Vane and you could have taken is so carelessly and light-heartedly, I cannot imagine. At any rate, I cannot understand how he can have done so. With you it was another matter. Your ignorance of the world, and all your folly meant, suported you; but he knew—he must have realized—"

A low, inarticulate cry broke from her parched lips. What must Vane—her Vane—have thought of her? was the agonizing question that drove like fire through her brain.

"Every hour of the day I trembled for you," he went on. "Every day I expected to hear that the discovery had been made. I never looked at a paper without dreading to see an account of the 'scandal in high life' in it. Whenever we were together—we three—I was on tenter-hooks of anxiety lest you should make a false step—a slip, and let out the secret. That night at the theatre, when you stared and glared at me because, treating you as the boy you pretended to be, I touched you on the shoulder, I thought Lady Florence would notice your resentment, the womanish flash of your eyes, and I trembled."

He paused and glanced at her. Every word, carefully prepared and calculated, was falling upon her heart like hot embers.

"Yes, my dear girl, I have had an anxious time of it—far more anxied; and in a new world you will soon forget this fearful mistake of yours—which, but for me, would have brought you life-long ruin."

He paused and drew out a chasir.

"You will want money—"

She shuddered, and with a spasmodic gesture shrank away from the purse.

"You have some?" he said. "Very well; I understand. But if you should need any, you have but to apply to my friend or to write to me."

He stopped and looked at her beautiful head, as it lay on her arms, with keen scrutiny. He would have preferred to have seen her face.

"I know you will go, my dear Nora," he said, gravely, sympathizingly; "I know you will see that it is your only course. Yes, I have not misjudged you. Some women, I know, would laugh my proposal to scorn, and would stop and brazen it out; but you are not of that sort. It is true"—he spoke slowly, impressively—"it is true that Vane might marry you—probably would marry you—"

She quivered in every limb, and raising her head, looked full at him.

At the sight of her face Senley Tyers felt an uncomfortable sensation. Was this pale, haggard-looking woman the boy Ernest Mortimer, the girl Nora Trevanion?

"My dear child! My dear Nora!" he murmured. "You must not take it so much to heart. You must not, indeed! It is very sad, very trying, and I can understand all you are feeling; but you are young and—and—er—" Before the agony in her eyes even he faltered and broke down.

He paused with downcast glance for a moment, then he raised his eyes and looked at her keenly.

"Perhaps I am asking too much of you, after all," he said, with a shrug of his shoulders, "Perhaps you had better stay and see the business out. Vane will marry you, no doubt." He sighed. "After all, what does it matter?" It would ruin him, it's true—ruin him for life. He would never be able to go back to London or his friends; he would be an outcast—the laughing-stock of all who had ever known him. But I don't see why you should care so long as you get what you wanted and were his wife."

She sprang to her feet, her face crimson, her eyes flashing, her lips parted

CURES BALDNESS,
STOPS FALLING HAIR,
CURES DANDRUFF,
RESTORES FADED AND GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR AND VITALITY.
PERFECTLY HARMLESS.
WARRANTED.
CLEAR AS WATER.
NO SEDIMENT. NO LEAD, SULPHUR OR CHEMICALS.

NO DYE.

We feed the Hair that which it lacks and nature restores the color.

THEORY.

ROYAL SCALP FOOD destroys the diseased germs of the scalp and a healthy action is set up.

It contains the principal properties of the hair that are necessary to its life without which it will not grow. It fertilizes the scalp the same as you do a field of corn and growth is certain. It invigorates the sluggish scalp, cleanses it and thoroughly eradicates all dandruff, which is the forerunner of baldness.

It is the ONLY remedy ever discovered that will restore the Life, Beauty and Natural Color to the hair without harm. MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY FILLED.

SEND FOR FREE PAMPHLETS.

STATE AND LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

ROYAL SCALP FOOD CO.

Box 305, WINDSOR, ONT.

THE PERSON

that wants a good match and that knows a thing or two will remember that this brand is synonomous with everything desirable in fire-producing lucifers.

E. B. EDDY'S MATCAES.

Tired but Sleepless

Is a condition which gradually wears away the strength. Let the blood be purified and enriched by Hood's Sarsaparilla and this condition will cease.

"For two or three years I was subject to poor spells. I always felt tired, could not sleep at night and the little I could eat did not do me any good. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before I had finished two bottles I began to feel better and in a short time I felt all right and had gained 21 pounds in weight. I am stronger and healthier than I have ever been in my life." JOHN W. COUGHLIN, Wallaceburg, Ontario.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Only

True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye today. Be sure to get Hood's and only Hood's. Do not be induced to buy and other.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, biliousness, headache. 25c.

Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company

GENERAL PASSENGER TIME TABLE,

Eastern Standard Time. No. 9. Taking effect October 8th, 1893

Tweed and Tamworth to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2 A.M.	No.4 P.M.	No.6 P.M.
Lve	Tweed	0	7 00	....	3 00
	Stoco	3	7 08	....	3 10
	Larkins	7	7 20	....	3 25
	Marlbank	13	7 35	....	3 40
	Erinsville	17	7 50	....	3 55
	Tamworth	20	8 00	2 00	4 10
	Wilson*	24	....	....	....
	Enterprise	26	8 18	2 20	4 30
	Mudlake Bridge*	28	....	....	....
	Moscow	31	8 30	2 35	4 43
	Galbraith*	33	....	....	....
rr	Yarker	35	8 43	2 50	4 55
Lve	Yarker	35	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	39	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills	40	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	41	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	43	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	49	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee	49	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	54	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	58	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Tamworth and Tweed.

	Stations.	Miles	No.1 A.M.	No.3, P.M.	No.5 P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	9 00	12 45	5 05
	Galbraith*	25	....	....	....
	Moscow	27	9 15	1 00	5 22
	Mudlake Bridge*	30	....	....	....
	Enterprise	32	9 30	1 15	5 35
	Wilson*	34	....	....	....
	Tamworth	38	9 50	1 35	5 35
	Erinsville	41	10 00	....	6 05
	Marlbank	45	10 15	....	6 18
	Larkins	51	10 30	....	6 35
	Stoco	55	10 50	....	6 50
Arr	Tweed	58	11 00	....	7 00

Kingston and Sydenham to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2. A. M.	No.4. P.M.	No.6. P.M
Lve	Kingston	0	6 45	....	3 30
	G. T. R. Junction	2	6 55	....	3 40
	Glenvale*	10	7 17	....	....
	Murvale*		7 27	....	4 18
Arr	Harrowsmith	19	7 40	....	4 30
Lve	Sydenham	23	8 00	....	....
	Harrowsmith	19	8 20	....	4 30
	Frontenac*	22	8 32	....	4 42
Arr	Yarker	26	8 40	....	4 50
Lve	Yarker	26	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	30	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	31	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	32	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	34	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	40	9 50	3 40	5 56
Lve	Napanee, West End	40	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	45	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	49	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Sydenham and Kingston.

	Stations.	Miles.	No.1 A.M.	No.3, P.M.	No.5 P.M
Lve	Deseronto	0	7 00	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 20	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 35	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 50	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 05	12 15	4 35
	Newburg	17	8 15	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 25	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 38	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 15
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 22
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 35
	Sydenham	34	....	....	5 50
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Murvale*	35	9 17	....	....
	Glenvale*	39	....	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 50	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

B. C. CARTER, Asst. Gen. Manager — G. A. BROWNE, Gen. Pass. Agent — H. B. SHERWOOD, Superintendent.

The Napanee Express

$1.

The Weekly Globe.

BEST CLUBBING OFFER EVER MADE.

By paying one dollar in advance these two popular and reliable papers will be sent post free to the subscriber's address. Call at the "Express Office" and secure this bargain.

Overboiling With Bargains

Our Prices are Dwarfs!

Our Values are Giants!

$3.75.

A lot of Ladies' Golf Capes just to hand the very latest styles. Prices were from $6.50 to $9.00. Our price only $3.75.

49 CENTS.

The lot of Tweeds we advertised last week at 49 cents have all been sold. On Saturday however we will open another lot at the same price. You'll never see the like of them again at as low a price.

$1.22.

Hundreds of White Blankets are selling at prices ranging from $1.22 up which are worth one half more. An inspection will pay you.

Nine and a Half Cents.

Ten patterns in New Flannellette Suitings very pretty Patterns worth 15c. per. yard. Our price 9½ cents.

37 and a half Cents.

This time a Millinery Bargain. A lot of Ladies Fall Hats all the New Fall Styles and the prices were from $1.25 to $2.00 You can take your choice for 37½ cents each.

You can't make any mistake in this store. Whatever you buy from us we guarantee the prices the very lowest you can get anywhere.

Fine Ordered Clothing,
JAS. WALTERS, CUTTER.

Dress Making
MISS BURGOYNE, MODISTE.

Millinery
MISS WALKER, MILLINER.

The Robinson Co'y.

A serious charge hangs over the head of a Trenton hotelkeeper and another man, viz: that of abducting 14 year old Miss Soper from her home at Roblin's Mills.

In the resolution of condolence to Mrs. Filson, wife of the late Robt. Filson, reeve of Amherst Island, in a recent issue should have read lodge of the C.O.O.F., not I.O.O.F.

The sword contest in the Snares of New York on Monday night proved a little too realistic to be comfortable for Mr J. L. Clarke. He narrowly escaped having his eye poked out.

Mrs. Andrew Peters, of near Wilton, died at the Kingston General Hospital on Monday. She contracted fever while waiting on the late Mrs. Dewitt, of Wilton. She was well and favoraby known in this district, and her death will be lamented by her list of acquaintances.

Nothing is more disagreeable than the smell from common stove pipe varnish, and it lasts as long as your pipes. Madden's Enamel costs no more than the cheap stuff sold for pipes. Buy Madden's and you have a perfect varnish, no smell, no smoke, handy for many things. Ask your dealer for it and take nothing else. Madden's pure mixed paints are unequalled.

The town council has a law suit on their hands. Mr. John Hudgins has served them with a writ for damages for injuries sustained by falling into an open ditch, opposite the Western Methodist church, about six weeks ago. The ditch was being put down by Mr. U. Wilson, M.P., and as he did not comply with the regulations calling for a light at each end of the ditch, it looks pretty dark for the town. The council feel inclined to fight the suit as the damages sustained by Mr. Hudgins were not very serious.

Teacher Wanted.

For Section No. 17, Ernestown. Apply stating salary to A. M. SCOUTEN, Sec., Thorpe, P.O. 50bp

First Notice.

Having purchased (at a low figure) the fine and well assorted stock of Thos. Symington, I am able to offer great bargains for a few weeks at least.

44tf C. L. SHANNON.

Coming.

Canada's greatest Optician and inventor of the Recherche Optometer will visit Napanee, Nov. 25th and 26th. Dr. Jebb will be at his office, Detlor's drug store, where he will examine the eye and sight free. A valuable little treatise on the subject also given free.

A Quiet Wedding.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Western Methodist parsonage on Tuesday afternoon, when Mr. M. Howard and Miss M. Luffman, of Deseronto, where united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. D. O. Crossley. After partaking of supper at the Campbell House, the happy couple returned to Deseronto, where they will reside. THE EXPRESS extends congratulations.

Patrons of Industry Convention.

All Patrons of Industry having votes in Lennox for the Dominion House of Commons, are cordially invited to attend a convention to be held in the Town Hall, Napanee, on Saturday, 30th November, 1895, at 1 o'clock p.m., to consider important questions concerning the approaching general election. R. M. BRISOW, Pres.
GEO. ANSON AYLSWORTH, Sec,
County Assoc. Lennox and Addington.
Napanee, 15th Nov., 1895. 50c

Scranton Coal.

Having purchased the coal business of Thos. Stewart, I am prepared to offer the best quality of this celebrated coal at the lowest prices this quality of coal can be sold at. I have secured my stock in perfect condition and it will be delivered to my customers in the same condition. By buying from me you will be be sure you get Scranton coal as I have no other kinds in stock. Your orders will be thankfully received and promptly executed.
C. E. BARTLETT.

A Popular Weekly.

Among Canadian newspapers the commanding position occupied by The Toronto Globe is universally acknowledged. In enterprise it is unrivalled, as a news distributor it has no equal, as a leader of public opinion it exercises an influence that is felt from one end of the Dominion to the other. The Weekly Globe, with its varied departments—agricultural, commercial, serial stories, cable and general news, editorial and special articles—makes a most excellent home paper, and is deservedly popular in all parts of the country.

Stoves! Stoves!! Stoves!!!

See our large No 9 Cook Stove for $11.00.
T. H. WALLER.

Robert McGinnis, of Roblin, in the county of Lennox, sued P. W. Dafoe, a Roblin magistrate, for trespass and false arrest some time ago. Justice Falconbridge non-suited the plaintiff on the ground that his notice of action was insufficient, but the divisional court to day showed a disposition to overturn the ruling and grant a new trial. McGinnis was arrested on a warrant issued by magistrate Dafoe charging him with arson. The warrant was issued without an information being lodged, as required by the code. McGinnis was subsequently acquitted of the charge, another man confessing his guilt. This action against the magistrate is the result.—Toronto News.

Wanted to Purchase.

A house and lot in Napanee of medium size, either brick or frame. Any person having such a place for sale will find it to their advantage to address P O. Box 624, Napanee, giving location and price. All correspondence treated strictly private. 50bp

The Knights United.

The other night, Miss Flora Knight was united in the holy bonds of matrimony with Mr. Alfred Knight, only son of Jonathan Knight, at the residence of Major Knight, near Cataraqui. Mr. and Mrs. Knight left late the same night for a protracted honeymoon in the east.

A Great Home Paper.

Toronto turns out some excellent home and general newspapers, but none that is superior in any respect to the The Weekly Globe. The Globe's enterprise is well known, and its reliability as a medium of information has always been its proud distinction. No Canadian journal devotes more space to purely Canadian topics, nor deals with Canadian affairs more fairly nor more thoroughly. Every Canadian home is the better for the weekly visits of this great paper.

Eyes. Who's Eyes?

Your eyes, if they pain, ache or have a tired feeling, they are only giving nature's call for assistance, but do not experiment with them yourself. Go directly to Smith's optician, who will test your eyes free of charge and advise you regarding them. Smith's have a tremendous stock of optical goods at every price. Their axis cut perfected pebble spectacles are the best in the world, As the long evenings are coming on why not enjoy solid comfort with your eyes, Bring your children if they complain of their eyes, as theirs are most precious.

Fish Aren't Shy at Sydenham.

Its getting a little late in the season for fish stories, and we are inclined to be skepticle of tales of piscatorial prowess from now until the next 12th of July, but the following is backed up with such testimatory evidence, and the man telling it we know to be of unimpeachable veracity, besides being willing to bring proofs to substantiate his statements, so what more can be asked On Wednesday night of last week, Mr. Thos. Furrs drove from Croydon to Sydenham, a distance of 27 miles, then travelled 3 miles up the lake, and caught 384 fish with a hook and line and was back at Croydon before 9 o'clock p.m. the next night, travelling in all a distance of 70 miles

The Best in Years.

Postively the best repteroire company that has appeared here in years, is the unanimous verdict of the public in regard to the Ella Cameron and J. L. Clarke Dramatic Company, who are playing at the Opera House here all this week. They have been greeted with fairly good houses and the people are enthusiastic in their praises. On Monday evening the company presented the Snares of New York, a play abounding in dramatic episodes, and one that affords each member of the company ample scope to display his or her ability. The staging of the piece was splendid, the introduction of a steamboat in the third act winning the admiration and applause of the audience. Each member of the company fill their parts to perfection, there not being a "stick" in the whole aggregation Mr. J. L. Clarke is a versatile and able actor, and is at home both in humor and pathos. Miss Ella Cameron, the leading lady, is an emotional actress of high ability, and proved very popular with the audience Miss Mattie Davis, is a clever actress Geo. Heath, is a strong man T. E. Norton,

Thanksgiving passed off quietly. There

COAL!!

The best grades mined in Scranton District. I have about completed my stock of coal for the season and am now prepared to receive and deliver orders with promptness. Coal all new stock. Under cover and in first class shape. Price $4.00 to $5.00 according to size.

Grain Wanted.

I want all kinds of grain for which I will pay the highest market price. I have no man on the market buying. You will find it to your advantage to call at the 'Big Mill' and get prices before selling elsewhere.

J. R. DAFOE.

CARLETON WOODS.
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Roblin, Ont.

JOHN POLLARD,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Express Office, Napanee.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, NOV. 22, 1895

All local reading notices or notices announcing entertainments at which a fee is charged for admission, will be charged 5c per line for each insertion, if in ordinary type. In black type the price will be 10c per line each insertion.

This weather is a foretaste of winter

There was a fine big market on Saturday.

The steamer Reindeer has laid up at Napanee for the winter.

The steamer Hero has been repaired and started on her route again on Monday.

Lt.-Col. Van. Straubenzie, of Kingston, has fallen heir to a large fortune in the old country.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

morning.

The new St. Andrews church at Belleville was dedicated to the service of God on Sunday last.

The Indians of the Tyendinaga Reserve received their semi-annual payment last week, $1.10 per capita, rather better than last year's share.

Trinity church, Shannonville, which had been closed undergoing a general renovation, re-opened last Sunday. Rev. Canon Burke assisted the rector, Rev. Thos. Godden, on this occasion.

A letter was received at Deseronto from E. W. Rathbun on Saturday, who is taking a trip to Europe. It had been posted in mid ocean, the Teutonic and a west bound steamer having exchanged.

Some ghouls, supposed to be medical students of Queen's College, stole the body of the late Mrs. Daniel Bowen from the grave in Oliver's cemetery in which it was interred. An effort will be made to locate the miscreants.

Consumptives, cheer up! You are not going to die, if you will but take Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "the kind that cures" coughs, colds, bronchitis and the first stage of consumption. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at druggists.

Mrs. J. F. Ward who has been visiting friends in Sandy Creek, New York, left there on Monday night last for New York city where she arrived on Tuesday and met her son and friends at the station who were waiting to receive her. She is in excellent health and will probably remain there about 2 months, and then contemplates going to Boston and will probably return to Napanee next spring.

A serious runaway accident happened on Sunday last. As Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bell were driving to their home west of Croydon, they stopped at P. Campbell's to water the horse. Mr. Bell took the bit out of the horse's mouth and threw the bridle over the horses shoulder. The horse became frightened and dashed away, throwing Mrs. Bell out of the buggy. She sustained serious injuries of the head and stomach.

A Boon to Horsemen.—One bottle of English Spavin Liniment completely removed a curb from my horse. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or calloused lumps, blood spavin, splints, curbs, sweeny, stifles and sprains. GEORGE ROBB, Farmer, Markham, Ont. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y.

DAFOE & PAUL,
Undertakers

EVERYTHING NEW AND FIRST-CLASS.

A Little Dear!

Some people find everything a little dear where they trade.

It Is Because

They do not go to the right place to buy.

We Sell

Mens good Coon Coats at $23.00.

Men's fine Nutria Caps at $2.50.

In Furs our cheapness is phenomenal.

Radford & Son

The Great Outfitters.

Next door to Haines & Lockett.

Her Neck Broken.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Blanchard, of the Indian Reserve, at Tyendinaga, were driving home along the Kingston road from Belleville on Saturday evening. Mr. Blanchard was speeding his team with another man, when Mrs. Blanchard, becoming frightened, seized one of the reins, causing the animals to go into the ditch. The vehicle struck a large stone and the force threw Mrs. Blanchard out. One of the wheels passed over her head, breaking her neck, causing instant death. The deceased was 45 years of age, and was a daughter of Chief Brant, of the reserve. In addition to her husband she leaves a daughter 15 years of age.

Resolution of Condolence

TO MRS. ROBERT FILSON:

DEAR MADAM—The members of L.O.L., No. 482, Amherst Island, have requested us to convey to you their sincere and deepest sympathy in the sad bereavement sustained by you in the loss of your beloved husband.

We feel most deeply the loss of our dear friend and brother, who was one of our oldest and most respected members, and mourn with you for him whom an all wise God has seen fit in his wisdom to remove from our midst.

We know the loss you have sustained is great and hard to bear, and can only ask you and your family to accept our sympathy, and we can assure you that our earnest prayer will be that God in His infinite mercy may sustain and comfort you and allow you the consolation of His Holy Spirit in your hour of need.

Signed on behalf of the Lodge.

R. R. BURLEIGH, W.M.
WILLIAM ALLEN, Sec.

TOWN COUNCIL.

COUNCIL CHAMBER,
Nov. 18th, 1895.

Council met in regular session.

Mayor Stevens in the chair, present, Carson, Symington, Madole, Lowry, Miller, Burns, Leonard and Ward.

Minutes of last regular meeting read and confirmed.

A communication from The Bell Telephone Company in re putting up of poles was read and filed.

The clerk advised the council he had accepted service of writ in a suit entered by John Hudgins for damages sustained by falling into an open ditch. After considerable discussion pro and con, and several motions to the effect that the matter be placed in the hands of a lawyer, and another to the effect that the Finance committee confer with Messrs Morden, Ruttan & Morphy and ascertain if they would act in the capacity of town solicitors for the balance of the year at the same rate as paid the late Mr. Morden, and if so they to take charge of the case, and still another that the matter be placed in the hands of the Finance committee. It was finally disposed of leaving the matter in the hands of the Mayor.

The clerk reported the receipt by him of an additional mortgage from the Treasurer sufficient to bring his total security up to $10,000.

Moved by Ward and Carson that the Treasurer be requested to register any unregistered bonds at present assigned to this corporation. Carried.

The town property recommended payment account of W. S. Detlor $4.23, and account of R. Light $23.52.

$500 was ordered paid on account to R. Light, and $200 was ordered paid on account to the Rathbun Co'y. and the balance of the accounts referred to the committee.

Moved by Symington and Carson that Dr. Leonard assume the chairmanship of the Street committee, and that Mr. Miller be placed on the Street committee in place of Mr. Fennel, absent from town. Carried.

$20 was ordered placed in the hands of Chief Storms and charged to the Street committee.

Moved by Burns and Symington that the clerk bring a return of all money expended on the Anderson and McGinness properties since their purchase, together with the receipts therefrom. Carried.

All the stoves not in use, owned by the corporation were ordered to be sold.

ACCOUNTS.

Peter Post $2.66, Thos. Fox $2.50, Ben Johnston $10.75, and balance $3 referred to Street committee, J. Storms 25c, A. Bland $8.

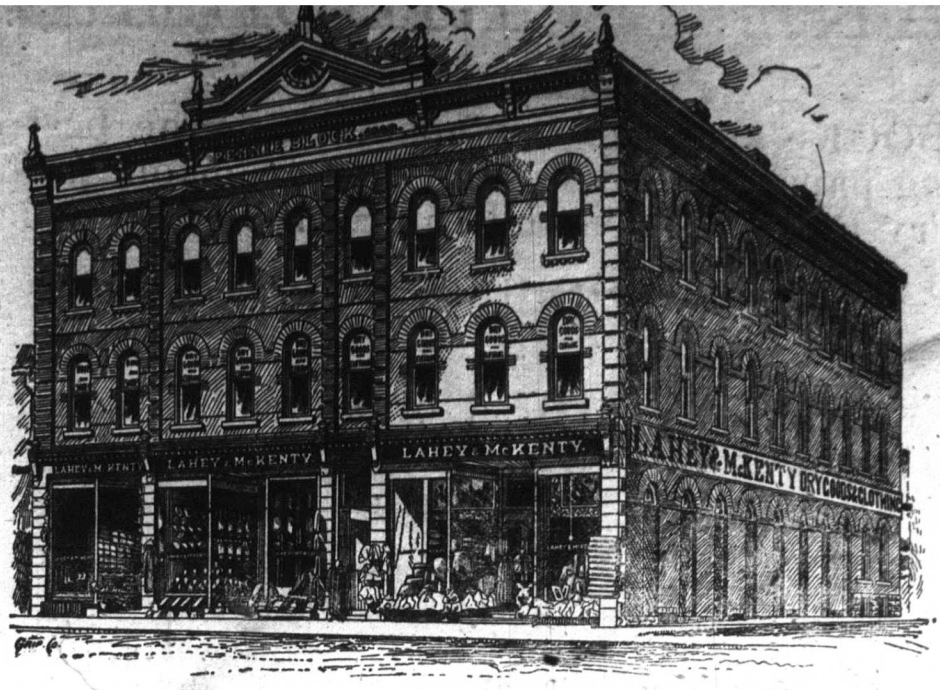
The following accounts were referred, Joy & Son, and John Hearns.

On motion the Mayor was added to the committee to investigate how the old plank belonging to the corporation have been disposed of.

Council adjourned.

Poor Charley Scott.

Of late Charley Scott has been rather more freaky in his behavior than was ever his wont. He could not keep his attention fixed on work even of the most ordinary character. It was therefore deemed better by the authorities that Charley both for his own good and the public weal should be sent to an insane asylum where he would come to no harm. Accordingly last Saturday Chief Gunyou drove him down to Kingston where he was committed to Rockwood Asylum. Charley was a character and was well known to every person in Deseronto and the district. He was born in South Shields, Durham County, England, and before coming to this country had worked in a foundry and had also made one or two trips to the African coast as a hand on one of the steamers plying to the Mediterranean. About eight years ago he came out to Canada, arriving in Kingston. No employment being obtainable in that city he came to Deseronto, where he worked for a time in the mills. He acted as a newsboy in the Tribune office for some time, and rather enjoyed the many opportunities afforded him of meeting citizens and airing his pronounced views on the general topics of the day, especially on the burning political questions of the hour in which he took a great interest. After leaving the Tribune office he worked for a time in the cedar mill and afterwards in the Big stables. Every man, woman and child in the town took an interest in Charley and had always a word for him, and it is pleasing to know nearly all were very kind to him. Charley had received a fair education, could read and write, and his language was generally grammatically correct. A polysyllabic word or a French phrase was always a welcome addition to his vocabulary and he would frequently be heard uttering it aloud to himself as he walked along the street. He was generally a conspicuous figure at all public meetings and entertainments where he could be seen with lead pencil and paper in hand taking notes of addresses, his countenance indicating approval or disapproval of the ideas advanced by the speakers. He had his own views on theological questions and was possessed of more of the spirit of latitude and toleration than is found in the great majority of people who looked down on him as intellectually their inferior. In many respects he was quite shrewd and some of his ready replies to people making sport of him would have been creditable to a Swift or a Curran. It was in the field of phrenology and physiognomy that he wandered with the greatest delight. To excel in these sciences was his greatest ambition. On one occasion, in order to raise the wind, he lectured in the town hall, and not a few citizens are the proud owners of charts on which are delineated bumps or facial peculiarities indicative of weakness or magnificent possibilities. Occasionally he would be heard to remark that "morally he had retrograded" during his stay in Canada. However, he never appeared to relish the idea of going back to England if that proposal was mooted, remarking that the liberty in the air of this Dominion was more to his liking. His aged mother resides with a married sister in Manitoba. Poor Charley! his loud laugh and friendly greeting will be missed on our streets, but all will agree that it is better for him to endure the kind restraint and enjoy the good care of the beneficient public institution to which he has been committed.—Deseronto Tribune.



WEEKLY BULLETIN FROM
The Big Store, Nov. 22nd, 1895.

DOWN GO PRICES

A MANTLE SALE !

Only four or five weeks left in which to sell Mantles. It is the old story, the cheap ones are all gone but the good ones were too many, many, many. We will make cheap ones of them ; prices below. If you want this season's Styles in Mantles, this is like handing you dollar bills.

All our	$12 00	Mantles will go at		-	$9 50
"	10 00	"	"	-	8 00
"	9 00	"	"	-	7 00
"	8 50	"	"	-	7 00
"	8 00	"	"	-	6 75
"	7 00	"	"	-	5 50
"	6 00	"	"	-	5 00
"	5 00	"	"	-	4 00
"	4 00	"	"	-	3 25

We have already sold more Mantles than any store in our neighborhood ever bought in two seasons. The profit on the rest of them we give you to buy them quickly, and these are not last year's bargains either.

Ladies' Fur Muffs.

We are not doing business for recreation. We seldom ask you to believe that we offer you goods without a profit, but mistakes sometimes happen. There is no mistake in quality or price, but quantity is more uncertain. The gain is yours again.

One lot Muffs,	were $1 00 and $1 25	75c
Another lot Muffs	were 1 50 are now	$1.13
A better lot Muffs	were 2 00 are now	$1.27
Baltic Seal Muffs	were 2 75 are now	$2.10
Baltic Seal Muffs	were 3 00 are now	$2.20
Persian Seal Muffs	were 5 50 are now	$4.20

For 25 Cents.

Pure Japanese Hem-Stitched Handkerchiefs 1¾ inches colored Hem, size 21 x 21 inches. You can't match them for 40c.

For 45 Cents.

Pure Japanese Silk Hem-Stitched Initial Handkerchiefs, size 22 x 22 inches 1½ inch hem, and elaborate initial, same goods are selling at 75c.

Twenty-Five Cents a Yard

Is a price to clear out a couple of pieces Striped

60 Cents a Yard.

Is our price for a handsome Dress Tweed, 54 inches wide and heavy weight, many houses will ask you $1.00 for it.

For $3.50.

Handsome Scotch Tweed Dress Costumes in new large Checks, dark colors and the fashionable rough finish, a very special bargain at above price.

At $5.25.

The very latest and prettiest in Dresses, Harris Tweeds in the new Color Mixtures. These good goods will not shrink, will not fade, and will not "muss" like Union Tweeds, and they are the most fashionable winter dresses.

For 25 Cents

Pure Japanese Silk Hem-Stitched Handkerchiefs 19 x 19 inches, inch and a half hem, good value any where at 40c.

Is a price to clear out a couple of pieces Striped German Flannels that were too heavy to sell well. They are fast colors and it takes twice the money to buy a lighter weight of the same goods.

Mantle Friezes

All the rage. We show them in colors, Black Brown, Fawn, Tan, Dark Green, Electric Blue in qualities at 75c, $1.00, $1.25 and $1,50 a yd, and Buttons to match.

We have those STYLISH BUTTONS.

A description would not tell you much better, See them. No stylish dress or mantle is complete without them, and the novelties are all here.

Men's Scotch Cheviot Suits

Double Breasted in Dark Brown Mixtures, a Suit any man may be proud to wear, if made to order it would cost you $20.00, our price is $10.00.

LAHEY & McKENTY

Church of England Notes.

S. Mary Magdalene.

Church of S. Mary Magdalene, Napanee. Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., each Sunday. Holy Communion at 11 a.m. on 1 and III Sundays of the month, and at 8 a.m. on all other Sundays. Strangers supplied with leaflets having service printed in full at evening services.

Parish of Adolphustown.

Services next Sunday:—St. Paul's, Sandhurst, at 11 o'clock; St. Alban's, Adolphustown, at 3 o'clock; St. Jude's, Gosport, at 7 o'clock.

Parish of Camden.

Services Sunday next;—St. Luke, Camden East, morning prayer, Holy Com., 11 o'clock; Holy Trinity, Yarker, 3 o'clock; Centreville, 8 o'clock; St. John's, Newburgh, 7 o'clock; St. Jude, Napanee Mills, Holy Communion, 8 o'clock a.m., evening service, 7 o'clock p.m. Rev. J. R. Serson will preach in Centreville at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

Neil Foley, of Hungerford, was sentenced to the county gaol for three months for using abusive and profane language to wards John Durkin.

It is current that Messrs. Crouch and F. Morris have leased the old Brush factory for a term of 10 years, and will convert it into a furniture factory.

It is expected that a representation of an American Syndicate, will arrive at Fredericksburgh this week to investigate the reported find of natural gas on the farm of Mr. J. H. Schell.

Less than a hundred miles from Orillia, on a board fastened to the fence, where there is no paper, they advertise thus: Notis—Any person ketched on these grounds, or cows, or wimin, will be hobul to fine herself in a skrape.

Relief in Six Hours.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder disease relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise and delight to physicians on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by W. S. Detlor.—46y

Abel Yates has disposed of his pool room at Newburgh to Mr. Murphy.

Mr. Joseph F. Knight, of Salem, Iowa, a cousin of Mr. J. F. Ward, and a relative of the Knights, of Napanee, died recently.

The Ladies of the Guild of St. Mary Magdalene intend holding their annual Bazar in the Town Hall on Wednesday and Thursday 11th and 12th of December. A great number of useful and fancy articles all very pretty will be offered for sale, and those intending to buy Christmas presents will have a good opportunity of expending their money to the best advantage as the prices of everything will be very reasonable. A good programme will be furnished each evening, and with the memory of former concerts by the same ladies in our minds, we may expect something unique and amusing in the way of entertainment. Don't forget to have the children come and see Santa Claus and his Magic Chimney.

Know What You Chew?

is free from injurious coloring.
The more you use of it the better you like it.

THE GEO. E. TUCKETT & SONS CO., LTD.
HAMILTON, ONT

Dr. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE
ASTHMA CURES
so that you need NOT SIT UP all night gasping for breath for fear of suffocation. Send your name and address, we will mail trial bottle FREE
DR. TAFT BROS., 193 ADELAIDE ST., W. TORONTO, ONT.

Mrs. Ebenezer Bartels, Deseronto, died last week, aged 23 years.

Saturday last, 9th, Nov., was the anniversary of the attack on Kingston in 1813.

John Hurley, of Belleville, has been adjudged insane and will be sent to an asylum.

A farm will be purchased near Flinton for the Lindsay family, the victims of the Loon Lake holocaust.

Mr. John Hill started for the old country this week with five car loads of sheep, and one hundred live turkeys.

While Wesley McGill, of Camden, was coming to Napanee the other day his horse took sick and he had to stay at Newburgh and telephone for Dr. Bradshaw.

Robert Culbertson ascended the chimney of the Big Mill at Deseronto the other morning and adjusted the screen at the top. The chimney is about 100 feet high.

The glass blowers left town on Monday for Deseronto after a successful week's business. On Saturday night the voting contest for the most popular baby took place, and proved quite exciting. The prize was awarded to Mrs. John Wilson's baby, it securing the most votes.

A. S. Kimmerly will sell 30 lbs. Light Yellow Sugar $1, 22 lbs. Granulated sugar $1, Soda Biscuit 18c. per box, 10 lb, Rolled Oats 25c., 6 lbs Sulphur 25., Bird Seed 8c. per lb., 3lbs. Wine Biscuit 25c., 4 lbs. Ginger Snaps 25c. 2 lbs. fine Chocolate Candy 25c., Raisins 5c. Our 25 cent Tea beats the world. 100 lbs. Keewatin Flour will make 140 lbs Bread.

Dr. Moher is leaving Trenton to practise his profession in Peterboro.

Richard Tripp, sr., Melrose, is seriously ill with Brights disease of the kidney.

Dr. Gibson's name is mentioned as a possible candidate for the Mayoralty of Belleville.

Enterprise's annual fall fair came off last week. About 100 head of cattle were offered for sale.

Thirteen Winnebago Indians from Wisconsin paid the Tyendinaga Reserve a visit last week on their way to Quebec.

Wm. Torigal fell a distance of 30 feet at the chemical works, at Deseronto, last week, and sprained his ankle severly.

Robert Paul, Newburgh, was called to his farm near Belleville the other day, his tenant having vacated, leaving the stock to pay the rent.

A. Bridge, of Westbrook, finding cellar storage not profitable for bee keeping, has erected a fine frost proof building for storing. He expects to winter 100 colonies.

Three young Deseronto boys are said to have taken a young dog to the woods the other day and there slowly tortured it to death by hanging. The society for the prevention of Cruelty to animals will take the matter up.

The Renfrew Mercury tells of a specimen of minute penmanship executed by Rev. Mr. Delong, of that town. In a space not larger than a five cent piece he has written with an ordinary steel pen the Lord's Prayer, the Benediction and also the day of the month and the year, his residence and his name.

Does Your Wife or Sweetheart Scold.

If she does just keep it to yourself that you bought your suit or overcoat too soon. Why? Because by waiting you would have saved from $3 to $5 on each purchase.

A Dandy Black Worsted Suit for $15.
A Beautiful Beaver Overcoat for $15.
A lovely Frieze Overcoat for $13.
Tweed, both Scotch and Canadian, equally as cheap.

ED. HUFF,
The Cash Tailor, Opposite Campbell House.

ALL WORK GUARANTEED.

THE NAPAN

Vol. XXXV] No 5—JNO. POLLARD, Editor and Publisher. NAPANEE, ONT.

A WORD IN SEASON!

Withih the next month the bulk of the holiday trade will be done and an intending purchaser would do well to secure their requirements in good time. I beg to inform you that my stock is complete in all lines suitable for this season of the year, including a full line of Dinner, Tea and Chamber Ware.

AND AS FULL A LINE OF

Fancy China, etc.,

as was ever displayed in this town. I also have a complete stock of Fancy and Staple Groceries.

All goods have been bought right and I am confident it will pay you to see my goods and get my prices before buying.

W. COXALL.

Timothy Seed...

We have secured a supply of the cleanest Seeds from the largest growers in the Counties. We are sure we can recommend this seed.

We carry in stock at all times a full line of our Famous Flour, and the fact that we have an increasing demand for them bespeaks their excellence and popularity. The prices are always right, and the quality too.

We have a full line of grain, all kinds of Cracked Grain, Bran, and Shorts.

When you want Salt for the table, for butter or cheese making, or for salting your pork, remember that the "Windsor" brand is the purest and the best, and while it is the cheapest it is also the saltiest.

Try one of our little Cheese. They weigh about 8lbs. each. A nice size for the family.

Rolled Oats, Rolled Wheat, and Oatmeal

Best 25 Cent TEA in Town.

The Rathbun Co'y

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

Special Sale for the Holiday Trade.

Men's Frieze Ulsters, Lapped Seams, with Storm Collar all wool lined worth $7.50 for $5.65.

Youth's Ulsters, Lapp.d Seams with Storm Collar the best made coat in Ontario worth $6.50 for $4.50

In Men's and Boy' Suits the best bargains ever shown in Napanee.

300 pairs of pants to clear. Fur Caps, Sealette, and Tweed Caps. The cheapest in town.

Underwear, Top Shirts, Cardigan Jaekets, Mitts, Gloves Fine Shirts, Neckwear, Handkerchiefs, suspenders, Socks, Scarfs, and all other goods too numerous to mention away down in prices.

A. M. VINEBERG,

The Wonderful Cheap Clothier, Dundas st., Henry Block, Napanee

Xmas and Holiday Goods

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY.

Barristers, Solicitors, etc.

Solicitors for the Merchant's Bank of Canada, etc., etc.

Dundas Street, Napanee.

G. F. RUTTAN. ARTHUR W. MORPHY.

☞ Private funds to loan at five per cent.

C. H. FINKLE.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER, Newburgh, Ont. Orders left with Ewart and Vanluven, Yarker, will have prompt attention. Telephone communication.

THE - MERCHANTS - BANK

OF CANADA

Head Office, — Montreal

Capital paid up, $6,000,000

Surplus, $3,000,000

INTEREST AT CURRENT RATES PAID ON DEPOSITS.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

W. A. BELLHOUSE,

Manager, Napanee Branch

McROSSIE'S FOOTWEAR

Large Supplies of Latest Styles. Boots, Shoes, Overshoes and Rubbers. being opened daily at McROSSIES old Stand.

Call and get prices. The lowest quoted on New Goods,

DENTISTS

C. D. WARTMAN, L.D.S.
C. H. WARTMAN, D.D.S.

Graduates of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduate of Toronto University.

OFFICE—LEONARD BLOCK,

☞ Visits made to Tamworth the first Monday in each month, remaining over Tuesday. Rooms at Wheeler's Hotel.

All other Mondays C. D. Wartman will be in Yarker.

Napanee office open every day.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT

The Board of Audit

FOR THE COUNTY OF

LENNOX AND ADDINGTON

will meet to audit the public accounts at

THE COURT HOUSE,

IN THE

TOWN OF NAPANEE.

ON

SATURDAY, JANUARY 4, '96

at the hour of 10 o'clock a.m.

All accounts for audit must be delivered to the Clerk of the Peace on or before the 2nd day of January, 1896.

S. C. WARNER,
Clerk of the Peace.

Napanee, Dec. 16th 1895.

.....IN.....

New Quarters

With a New Stock of

GENERAL GROCERIES

Which I am selling on a low margin for Cash.

Assessment System Reserve Principle.

HOME LIFE.

Association of Canada
72 King St. East., Toronto.

Hon. Rich Harcourt, Treas. Prov. Ont. President.
A. J. Pattison, Toronto, Gen. Manager.
Geo. B. Woods, Toronto, Supt. of Agencies.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

Incorporated by special act of Dominion Parliament under the supervision and inspection of the Superintendent of Insurance for the Dominion of Canada. Pure Life Insurance at cost. Policy incontestible after three years for any cause whatever, except non-payment of annual rates.

Profits divided to Policy holders every five years.

W. SYDNEY DENLON,
Inspector, Central Ontario.

Office in Napanee, Albert Block.

Good reliable agents wanted in unrepresented districts.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in Packets, by Grocers, labelled thus: JAMES EPPS & CO., Ltd., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.

45 35—W.

WANTED RELIABLE MEN to sell our IMPROVED FARM SEEDS. Paying side line HIGHEST SALARY OR COMMISION PAID WEEKLY. Outfit free. Can be carried in the pocket. Experience not necessary. BIG PAY ASSURED WORKERS. Write at once and secure exclusive and choice of territory to 48 4m

FARMERS SEED CO.

(INCORPORATED.)

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

NOTICE.

The annual meeting of the Napanee Horticultural Society will be held in the

TOWN HALL

Napanee, on Wednesday the eighth day of January at 7.30 o'clock in the evening.

JAS. E. HERRING
4b Secretary.

GENERAL MEETING.

A General meeting of the Lennox Agricultural Society will be held in the Town Hall, Napanee on Wednesday Jan. 15th. 1896,

at 2 o'clock p.m. sharp, for the election of officers and transaction of general business. An urgent request is extended to all members and others to be present. 5b Dr. MENG Sec.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST WARD.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN;—Having served you in the capacity of Councillor for the year 1895, I now appear before you for re-election. If elected I promise to serve the ward and town to the best of my ability. Wishing you a happy and prosperous New Year.

A. ALEXANDER.

To the Electors of Centre Ward.

Being a Candidate for the position of Councillor for Centre Ward for the year 1896, your vote and influence is respectfully solicited in my behalf. It may be impossible for me to see that are useful at all times. An Elegant Lamp is a suitable gift at any time, and is useful as well as beautiful. We have a large and well assorted stock of Lamps of various styles, shapes, and colors, fancy Silk Shades, Shade Frames, Fancy Paper Shades, Globes, Reflectors, Chimnies, Lamp wick, Lanterns, etc., in fact almost all kinds of Lamp goods and Lamp Fixtures, American and Canadian Coal Oil the best brands.

We also invite your attention to our stock of Purses, Ladies' and Gent's Pocket Books, Card Cases, Shaving Sets, Hair Brushes, Hand Mirrors, English, French and American Perfumes, Florida Waters, Fancy Soaps, Toilet and Castile Soaps. Eighty different kinds of Soap are here, and many other useful articles.

Prices Were Never More in Your Favor.

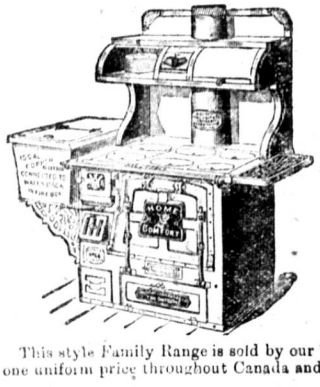
Your patronage most respectfully Solicited.

MEDICAL HALL, W. S. DETLOR,

THE HIGHEST AWARDS
WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION

BY THE WROUGHT IRON RANGE CO., ON

HOME COMFORT



STEEL
HOTEL AND FAMILY RANGES.

CARVING AND STEAM TABLES,
BROILERS, MALLEABLE
WATERBACKS, etc., etc.

This style Family Range is sold by our Travelling Salesmen from our own wagons at one uniform price throughout Canada and the United States.

Made of Malleable Iron and Wrought Steel and will last a lifetime if properly used.

SALES TO JANUARY 1st, 1894, 277,188.

Made only by the Wrought Iron Range Co. manufacturers of Hotel Steel ranges, Kitchen outfittings and Home comfort Hot-air Steel Furnaces.

The above named company have located at Napanee, with Headquarters at the Campbell House.

DEROCHE & MADDEN,
Barristers,
Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.
Office—Grange block.
Money to Loan at "lower than the lowest" rates
H. M. DEROCHE, Q. C. 5:1y J. H. MADDEN

R. A. LEONARD, M.D., C.P.S.
Physician, Surgeon, etc.
Late House Surgeon of the Kingston General Hospital.
Office—North side of Dundas Street, between West and Robert Streets, Napanee. 5:1y

---

THE ROYAL HOTEL.
Dundas Street, Napanee.
H. HUNTER, Prop.
This commodious hotel is centrally situated having every convenience for the travelling and business public. Large yard and sheds for farmers.
Good table, best of wines liquors, and cigars
The comfort of guests is made a first con-

HERRINGTON & WARNER,
Barristers, etc.
MONEY TO LOAN AT LOW RATES
Office—Warner Block, East-st, Napanee. 5y

A. S. ASHLEY,
DENTIST
16 Years in Napanee.
34 Years Experience.
Rooms, - Albert Block, - Napanee

JAS. AYLESWORTH,
General Business Agent.
POLICE MAGISTRATE for the Provincial Electoral District of Addington.
Conveyancer,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses,
Commissioner, etc., in H.C.J.
Clerk, 7th Division Court, of the County of Lennox & Addington
Grand Trunk Railway Ticket Agent
TAMWORTH

Delicious Canned Goods Choice Flour and Corn Meal.

Glad to have all my old friends call and equally glad to make new ones.

The Place—Next door to The Robinson Co's Dry Goods Store.

Wm. Rankin.

NOTICE OF MEETING.

The County Council

of Lennox and Addington, will meet for the transaction of general business on Tuesday, Jan. 28th, 1896,

at 2 o'clock p.m.

Members of Council must bring with them the certificates and declarations required by section 65, Con. Municipal Act.

All accounts must be in the hands of the undersigned not later than Tuesday 28th inst. in order that they may be considered.

W. G. WILSON,
County Clerk.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

Pursuant to a judgment made in the cause WEST VS. BENJAMIN, all persons having claims against or liens upon the estate of the firm of Benjamin Bros. & West doing business at Yarker as manufacturers are on or before the 6th day of January 1896 to send by post prepaid to Messrs. Deroche and Madden of the town of Napanee, solicitors for the plaintiff their christian and surnames, addresses and description, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts and the nature of security if any held by them or in default thereof they will be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of the said judgment.

Every creditor holding any security is to produce the same before me at my chambers in the Court House in the town of Napanee on the

10th day of January, 1896

at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon being the time appointed for adjudication of the claims.

S. S. LAZIER, Local Master.

Dated at Napanee this 6th day of December 1895.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

In the matter of the estate of Henry Armstrong late of the Village of Bath in the County of Lennox and Addington, Manufacturer, deceased.

Notice is hereby given pursuant to Chapter 110 Section 36, of the Revised Statutes of Ontario and Amending Acts that all creditors having claims against the estate of the above named Henry Armstrong, deceased, who died on or about the 15th day of July, 1894 are required to send by post prepaid, or to deliver to Messrs. Deroche & Madden, of the town of Napanee, solicitors for the executors of the last Will and Testament of the said Henry Armstrong, deceased, on or before the 10th day of January 1896,

a statement in writing of their names addresses and descriptions with full particulars of their claim duly verified.

And further Take Notice that from and after the said last mentioned date the said executors will proceed to distribute the assets of the said Henry Armstrong, deceased, among the parties entitled thereto, regard being had only to the claims of which notice has been given as above required and the said executors will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof to any person or persons of whose claims notice shall not have been received duly verified as above at the time of such distribution.

DEROCHE & MADDEN.
Solicitors for F. W. Armstrong and Sarah Armstrong executors of the said Henry Armstrong deceased.
Dated at Napanee, December 5th, 1895. 1d.

MORTGAGE SALE OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTY.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage which will be produced at the time of sale there will be offered for sale by public Auction at the Court House in the town of Napanee on

Saturday January 11th, 1896

at the hour of 11 o'clock in the forenoon the following valuable farm property:—

All and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the township of Ernestown in the county of Lennox and Addington being composed of the west quarter of lot No. 12 in the 4th concession of the said Township of Ernestown containing by admeasurement fifty acres be the same more or less.

Upon the property is situated a good frame house 30x36 one and a half storeys with wood house attached and barn 40x56, and wagon house 24x30, and other improvements. The property is conveniently situated within seven miles of the town of Napanee.

Terms of sale: 10 per cent to be paid by the purchaser on the day of the sale, the balance within thirty days with interest at six per cent.

For further terms and conditions of sale apply to

Messrs. DEROCHE & MADDEN
Napanee.
or to Vendor's Solicitors.
F. D. MILLER, Esq. Bath.
Dated at Napanee December 7th, 1895.

---

will receive this as a personal request for your vote and influence in my behalf. Wishing you a Happy New Year, I remain yours very sincerely

EDWARD MING.

To the Electors of the Town of Napanee.

Ladies and Gentlemen; —Having been solicited by a large representation of the electors to stand for Reeve for 1896 I have decided to do so and solicit your vote dnd influence for same, and if elected I will serve you to the best of my ability both in Town and County.

Yours respectfully,
CHAS. STEVENS.

Election January 6th, 1896

VOTE FOR

MILES S. PLUMLEY

For School Trustee, for EAST WARD.

Address and Presentation.

On Friday afternoon, 20th, Dec a large number of the friends of Miss Lida Hudgins (who has successfully taught in S. S. No. 6 Richmond for six years) gathered at the school house to visit the school. After reviewing the several classes Miss Hudgins wasrequested to take a chair when Miss Essie Lucas and Nina Knapp came forward and read the following address and presented her with a beautiful silver fruit dish and pickle cruet.

MISS LIDA HUDGINS,

Dear Teacher—We feel we cannot allow this occasion to pass without some expression (of a more tangible nature than any you have hitherto received) of appreciation of the invaluable services you have rendered us as teacher. We feel that your untiring zeal and industry in our behalf have brought about results for which no mere expressions of gratitude nor gifts can adequately repay you and we feel that as pupils we have many times given you a great deal of unnecessary trouble. We are sensible of the fact that the multiplicity of your labors in other connections has never allowed your duties as Teacher to suffer. Will you kindly accept this fruit dish and pickle cruit as a slight token of our regard for those services so cheerfully rendered. While we are sorry to part with you as a teacher, we are glad to believe that you are not going so far, but we will be able to meet you often. Much more might be said in terms expressive of our appreciation of your services. We hope in this as in many other matters your approving conscience and that serenity and peace of mind which comes from a consciousness of duty faithfully performed—

Which nothing earthly gives
Nor can destroy,
The soul's calm sunshine,
And the heartfelt joy,

have been your reward.

In parting we have nothing but kind feeling and good wishes for your future happiness.

Signed in behalf of the school
ESSIE LUCAS
NINA KNAPP.

Miss Hudgins replied in suitable terms thanking the scholars for their beautiful present and the parents for their kindness to hereafter which short speeches were made by Messrs Spencer, Knapp, Lucas and Hudgins.

Sudden Death.

It is our sad duty to chronicle the demise of an old and highly respected resident of Napanee, in the person of Mrs. Geo. Schryver, who died suddenly on Friday morning of last week, aged about 75 years. She was in apparently good health when her daughter, Mrs. Frank Boyes, who resides with her, left home in the morning, and her sudden death was an awful shock to her. On Christmas she appeared to be in better health than she had been for a considerable time. Her death is supposed to be due to heart disease. Deceased leaves a husband, Mr. Geo. Schryver, stationary engineer at Brighton, and four children, three daughters, Mrs. Frank Boyes, of Napanee, Mrs. Toby and Mrs. Collins, of Picton, and one son, George, of Cleveland. Deceased was greatly beloved by her wide circle of acquaintances for her many good qualities. She was a good wife, a loving mother, and a consistent christian, and the sympathy of the community will go out to the bereaved family in their affliction. The funeral took place on Sunday and was well attended.

...EE EXPRESS.

...T. CANADA—FRIDAY, JAN. 3, 1896. $1 per Year in advance; $1.50 if not so paid.

THE NOMINATIONS.

The nomination meeting in the Town Hall on Monday evening was largely attended, and great interest was evinced in the proceedings. At 7 30 p.m. Mr. James Herring, Returning Officer, declared the meeting open for receiving nominations for the positions of municipal and school trustees for the year 1896, and within the hour the following nominations were made:

For Mayor—John Carson, by J. Wagar and Charles Knight; Dr. Ward, by Dr. Leonard and Jas. Perry.

For Reeve—Thos Symington, by John J. Perry and Dr. Leonard; T. G. Davis, by A. W. Grange and S. W. Pringle; E. S. Lapum, by Isaac Amey and Wm. Greer; Chas. Stevens, by H. W. Wagar and Chas. Knight.

For Deputy-Reeve—Thos. E. Anderson, by Wm. Miller and Jas. Perry; W. D. Madden, by John T. Grange and H. W. Wagar; Chas. Stevens, by W. G. Wilson and H. V. Fralick.

COUNCILLORS.

Centre Ward—J. Aylesworth, by E. S. Lapum; M. S. Madole, by M. C. Jackson and S. C. Dennison; Wm. Burns, by Jas. Richardson and Wm. Greer; Dr. Ming, by R. J. Wales and Thos. Jamieson; E. S. Lapum, by D. McLiver and Isaac Amey.

West Ward—John Lowry, by Charles Knight and J. N. Wagar; S. R. Miller, by T. D. Pruyn and T. G. Davis; Dr. Leonard, by O. L. Herring and W. T. Waller; F. V. Vandusen, by W. D. Madden and Allen Davis; Charles Stevens, by T. G. O'Neil and R. A. Shorey; T. D. Pruyn, by E. S. Lapum and R. J. Wales.

East Ward—R. J. Wales, by Jas. Richardson and Isaac Amey; W. T. Gibbard, by James Perry and H. V. Fralick; Frank Vanluven, by Thos. Symington and S. R. Miller; Wm. Perry, by Wm. Greer and Isaac Amey; Wm. Boyle, by J. W. Joy and P. M. McCabe; Dr. Ward, by James Perry and H. V. Fralick; A. Alexander, by James Canniff and J. S. Hulett.

TRUSTEES.

West Ward—A. S. Ashley, by Charles Stevens and James Brandon; G. T. Ruttan, by Wm Waller and T. G. Davis.

Centre Ward—A. W. Grange, by H. M. Deroche and J. F. Madden; Thomas Symington, by A. Alexander and J. S. Hulett; D. Henwood, by H. W. Wagar and S. W. Pringle.

East Ward—R. G. Wright, by H. V. Fralick and O. L. Herring; W. G. Wilson, by J. W. Scrhyver and I. Amey; M. S. Plumley, by W. G. Wilson and J. W. Joy.

Messrs. W. G. Wilson and T. D. Pruyn resigned within the hour and the following have since sent in a written resignation to the clerk, according to the statutory requirements. Dr. Ward resigning the nomination for Mayor and Councillor, leaving John Carson elected Mayor by acclamation. T. G. Davis and E. S Lapum resigning the nomination for the Reeveship, leaving the fight between Thos. Symington and Chas. Stevens. Thos E. Anderson and Chas. Stevens have withdrawn from the contest for the deputy-reeveship, leaving W. D. Madden elected by acclamation. The following nominees for councillors have resigned, West Ward, Chas. Stevens, East Ward, Frank Vanluven, Dr. Ward. D. Henwood has resigned leaving A. W. Grange trustee by acclamation.

After the nominations the gathering was formed into a public meeting by the election of Mr. John T. Grange as chairman, who filled the position efficiently.

Mayor Stevens was the first speaker called upon, and after a few words of thanks he made way for Reeve Carson, reserving the balance of his speech till after the Finance Minister had been heard from.

Reeve Carson said he would not make a speech, but was in the field for mayor.

Deputy-reeve Symington said he was in the hands of the electors, and would bow to their decision, believing in their judgment they knew best. He referred briefly to the expenditures that had been made by the council, and said that probably with the exception of $100 expended on the street, the money had been judiciously spent by the present council. The council had $1700 on hand, and $16,437.74 in uncollected taxes of 1895 rate, showing that cash on hand and taxes to be paid exceeded those of 1892 by about $4000. This kind of "dropped the bottom" out of Mr. Lapum's elaborate and carefully prepared criticism of the finances.

Deputy-Reeve Symington in reply to Mr. Lapum's charge that the expenditure on streets had been excessive, reverted to the time when Mr. Lapum was in charge of that department, and said that he could not point to one permanent improvement that had been made when he was in charge. Under Mr. Lapum's regime the streets had been a disgrace to the town, and there was just as much money spent then as now, but with little or nothing to show for it. Mr. Symington said of course money had been spent on the streets, no man could make improvements without spending money.

E. S. Lapum replied but did not add anything very material to what he had already said.

W. D. Madden said he was in the field for deputy reeve and intended to make the fight as warm for his opponents as possible. He reverted to the war scare and waxed quite patriotic.

H. M. Deroche, Q.C., chairman of the School Board, was the next speaker. He believed that our school affairs were our most important affairs. He called upon the electors to return Mr. A. W. Grange, as he was a capable trustee. He charged Mr. Symington with being an enemy to the Collegiate Institute and that he had not worked in the interests of the Institute at the county council. He said Mr. Symington had imputed in his remarks that the school board was extravagant and responsible for the town's indebtedness. He eulogised the Institute and the good work done by it, and believed Napanee had an efficient and economical school board.

Mr. Symington in reply denied that he was an enemy of the school or higher education, and it was untrue that he had not worked in the interests of the school at the county council. The Collegiate Institute had got all from the county that in justice belonged to it, according to the decision of the Judge and what more could Mr. Deroche ask. Education, like bread, was a good thing, but just like bread you can pay too much for it. The promoters of the Institute had said that it could be built and equipped for $12,000, but it hadn't been built for that. Again they had promised that they would decrease the staff to four teachers instead of five, but instead they had increased it to six. The hands of the council were tied by the school board, and he believed that matters in that department could be more economically administered.

Mr. Deroche devoted a short time to a reply to Mr. Symington, in which he created considerable merriment by saying that he was not responsible for Mr. Symington having no children, and being called upon to help to educate his—it was the law of the land

S. R. Miller asked the ratepayers to elect him if they thought he was capable of filling the position—if not to leave him at home. He would be satisfied in either case.

Dr. Leonard said he had been in the council for 5 years, and if they thought he merited their approval they could show it by electing him.

Dr. Meng made a short speech in which he intimated he was a candidate for the position of councillor.

M. S. Madole in view of the lateness of the hour would not attempt to make any thing like a speech. He was glad to see that the electors manifested such an interest in municipal affairs as was evinced by the large audience present. He claimed for the council of 1895 honesty of purpose. Not one dollar of the people's money had been misappropriated. He asked their support on public grounds, and put himself entirely in their hands.

Mayor Stevens made a brief speech on the finances of the town. He pointed out that 10 years ago the debt of the town had been consolidated. Debentures had been sold at a premium in previous years and the money realized had been appropriated by the

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY

NAPANEE MILLS.

The Patron council of Camden has been having quite a time over a ditch across lot No. 5 on the 1st con. of Camden. D. B. Ruttan was opening the ditch for statute labor, and on Dec. 24th, Messrs B. C. Lloyd, Nelson Shannon and Wm. Shannon forbade him going on with it and ordered the ditch to be closed up. They also wanted to open up a culvert put down in that concession by two ratepayers for road purposes. This Mr Ruttan would not hear of and the matter was brought before the township council. The council held that these three gentlemen had no right to open the culvert, and ordered Mr. Ruttan to go on with the ditch and they would shoulder the responsibility, if there was any. The ditch has been completed and will result in much improvement to the road.

WILTON.

One of the oldest residents of this neighborhood, Mr. Daniel Parrott, died Tuesday afternoon. Deceased would have been 88 years old in a short time, and had been ailing for some time, but died suddenly. He leaves a widow and two sons, Miles Parrot, Violet, and Wesley Parrott, of this place, to mourn his loss.

At the school meeting, Thursday, Harvey Mills was re-elected trustees.

Wm. Storms, of this place, and Miss Lee, Yarker, were married last Thursday. Congratulations.

Mr. De Mills, of De Mill College, Oshawa, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church Sunday morning, and Rev. Mr. Potter, Kingston, preached in the Presbyterian church in the evening.

Visitors: Walter Jacquith, Sydenham, and W. Laidley, Odessa, were renewing acquaintances in Wilton last week; Mr. and Mrs. R. Forsythe are visiting his father, Jas. Forythe.

YARKER.

The unfavorable weather still continues, much to the dissatisfaction of our business men.

Miss Carroll, of the Commercial Hotel, is confined to the house on account of a sudden attack of illness.

School meeting passed off very quietly, Mr. A. Baxter was re-elected. He is a good man.

Messrs. West & Freeman have made a change in the book keeper, and now Mr. W. Walker, of Florida, has the position.

John A. Shibley still continues very low.

T. Castiday has removed to his father's house.

Mr. James Homan has started a dwelling on his lot adjacent the boarding branch.

The Yarker and Enterprise circuit of the Methodist church exchanged preachers last Sunday night.

A band concert was given in Edwarts hall by the Yarker Brass Band the other evening.

T. L. Tooker has opened a paint shop in the Arcade with plenty of work on hand.

It was quite a surprise to our town folks when news of the nomination of our popular citizen, Mr. John Freeman, for councillor, reached here. Good luck to you sir.

A Marriage wave has struck this place. Three in one week.

Visitors:—Mr. F. Simpkins, at Marlbank; Mr. A Emberly, at Tamworth; Mr. T. Castiday, at Tamworth; Mr. Taylor, of Harrowsmith, at H. S. Ansley's; Mr. Wilson, Camden East, at P. Coreil's.

HAY BAY.

Xmas and New Years have passed and election day is drawing near. News is very scarce with us just at present, as the mud and bad-roads prevents the people from travelling. The ice has all left the bay, and old residents say that they don't think it will be as good again this winter as it has been. There is said to have been a thickness of sixteen inches of good water ice.

Miss Emma Williams, of Napanee, is at present visiting her father, Mr. Perry

Joe Sedore will move next week in the Towers place.

Mabel Vine called at the Brisco House on Monday afternoon.

The recent winds have broken the wind mill in Conger's brick yard and has left nothing but the frame standing.

Mrs. P. M. McCabe is visiting at Hay Bay this week.

Our younger ones have enjoyed themselves in skating during the past few days.

One of our citizens says that he saw three dandelions in blossom on Sunday.

CENTLEVILLE WEST.

Weather cold at present, and as yet not much signs of sleighing.

We did not get to the "balls" as we expected, therefore we are unable to give an account of their proceedings.

There is nothing but elections talked of now. The Patrons are making a thorough canvas of the township. They are fully confident of winning.

The trustees have not yet engaged a teacher for the coming season.

Miss Rose Gibson, of Stella, has been visiting friends here during the past week.

Master Eddie and Miss Loretta Donnelly of Tweed, are at present the guests of their uncle, H. Donnelly.

VIOLET.

Daniel Dennison is rushing business sawing shingles. He has also built a new sidewalk from the grist mill to the store.

Wm. Close is enjoying his holidays at home. He intends to return to Winchester in a few days.

Master Harold Palmateer returned home Thursday after a lengthy visit with his brother-in-law, Mr. C. A. Wiseman.

Miles Parrot has the sympathy of his many friends in the loss of his father, Daniel Parrott, who died on Tuesday last at his home in Wilton.

We are sorry to learn of the illness of Isaac Robertson. His many friends hope for his speedy recovery. He has reached the advanced age of 90 years.

Mrs. W. H. Asselstine and children, of Switzerville, spent New Year's at her father's, Mr. Dennison.

Niss Grange, of Napanee, we believe, will take charge of our school for this year.

If that young man from Thorpe is not careful he may get some one's foot on him.

SELBY.

Nominations on Monday were well attended. Reeve Oliver, in his usual good-natured manner, detailed the municipal history of the past twelve months. He asked the electors to charge all errors of his administration to his head, as he was "positive the desire of his heart had been to do right." In his closing peroration Mr. Oliver placed his hand over the region of his stomach and with much pathos told the electors of the desire which he felt rising up within him to serve them "just one more year." No one expressed a doubt as to the genuineness of his desire for another term. But the opinion most prevalent among the electors was that Mr. Oliver's peculiar stomach sensation was most probably induced by his imagination already reaching forward to another Warden's dinner.

Mr. F. V. Sexsmith and Mr. I. O. Hudgins having nominations for the reeveship made able and good natured speeches in criticism of the financial and general administrations of the county and township councils. Mr. Henry Wilson criticized the council's late road improvement venture, which he described as a little application of a stinted quantity of sand with a liberal mixture of November rainwater. Mr. Wilson advised Mr. Oliver to qualify his request that "all the councils errors be charged to mistakes of the head" so as not to include their road improvement disaster, as he much feared if it should be so charged it would stand as the most stupendous charge to "head accounts" in modern municipal history.

Mr. Wm. Paul and Mr. Anderson will run for the deputy-reeveship. Mr. Grooms and Mr. McConnell are seeking re-election the council There might have been a few blunders made but they should look with charity on a few mistakes. Referring to his nomination for the position of school trustee he said the electors should send their very best men to the school board as he thought it was the most important place. He thought there was too wide a breach between the hand that collected the money and the hand that spent it, and believed that the hand that collected the taxes should be the one to spend. The council had to collect the money for the school board to spend, and often the ratepayers didn't look behind the hand that guided this expenditure, and looked to the council for the monies expended for school purposes, and not to the school board. It was therefore necessary to elect good economical men for school trustees as they were in a measure irresponsible to the people. He withdrew from the contest for the trusteeship, but believed he would stand for reeve. In conclusion he urged them not to vote on sectarian lines, but to live in peace and harmony together.

Dr. Ward, the Finance Minister, was the next speaker and dwelt for a time on the finances of the town. He began where he left off last year. The council have adopted an improved method of banking whereby interest on daily balances is received and when it became necessary to over draw towards the end of the fiscal year, interest was paid on daily balances. The amount of over draft at Aug. 1st was about $1500, which is about the amount of expenditure on town property and granolithic walk, not provided for in last year's estimates. He gave a comparison of amounts borrowed in former years showing that there had been an improvement in the provision of funds.

In 1888 borrowed $4000, end of year showed $3500 due.
1889 borrowed $5000, after Dec. 15 and before Jan. 1890.
1890 end of year shows $2950.00 due.
1891 borrowed, $3500.00, paid Dec. 12th, interest paid $122.
1892 borrowed $3750.00 (on Jan. 28) interest paid $157.
1893 Did not borrow, received interest from bank and on account of taxes $52.50.
1894 Borrowed $2000 paid granolothic claim in advance received $104 discount, which with other interest gave a net gain of $215.00.
1895 Net gain of interest $126.95.

The accounts due were only $360. As to why the taxes are high he pointed out that there had been more expended last year than provided for and that the practice of striking the school rate too low had for years taken a small amount from the general funds, sufficient allowance for the uncollected taxes had not been made Last year the rate struck had raised $139 too little this amount had to be raised extra this year. He also stated that the school rate never reached so high a sum as this year. He said he would rather support Mr. Carson than oppose him but declined to state just then his intention.

E. S. Lapum undertook to criticise the finances of the town and the way he handled the question showed he had given the subject considerable atttention. He complained that Dr. Ward did not explain the finances to the electors in a proper businesslike manner. Mr. Lapum went back to 1892 and read statements previously prepared showing the standing of the town from fiscal year to fiscal year down to the present. He started out by showing that there was $5.000 on hand in 1892 when he left office. He tried to show that it had decreased considerably since then. He did not charge the present council with extravagance except in the street department, but what he endeavored to show was that the council had struck the rate too low and in consequence were running into debt. He did not believe that the council had enough assets available to run the affairs of the town until the next appropriation would be made. Mr. Lapun embellished his remarks with a good deal of dramatic action which proved quite effective for on resuming his seat he was greeted with loud cheers.

T. G. Davis said he was in the field for reeve and solicited their votes.

Dr. Ward in reply to Mr. Lapum said that he liked to hear such criticisms. It showed that interest was taken in the town affairs. It showed also that the good statements gotten out made those comparsions possible. Dr. Ward said Mr. Lapum's statements were all right but his conclusions were erroneous. He pointed out that it was said last year that the council could not run the town with the money on hand, just as Mr. Lapum says it cannot be done in 1896, but they had done so notwithstanding. In regard to Mr. Lapum's statement that the finances were in a better position in 1892 than at present he showed that although there was $5,000 in the treasury there was only $9,000 in taxes to be collected whereas this year there existing council, and it pulled them out of a hole. One sale of debentures had brought a premium of $700. This had been a great help to the then council which used the money for running the town affairs, which the present council had never had. Ten years ago the town owed $59,000. This had been added to by the erection of the Collegiate Institute, the swing bridge, the Gibbard property which brought the debt up to in round numbers say $96,000. About $20,000 of the town's debt had been paid during the last ten years. In two years more the N.T. & Q.R.R. debentures, some $30,000, will come due. They were sold at a rate of 6 per cent. This showed that our finances were in a good state In former years it had been the habit of friends of the existing council to hold over accounts, and after the elections accounts to the amount of $1,500 would be brought into the new council. This year he could go into a court of justice and take his oath that there was not more than $860 in accounts owing to be brought in. He believed this was the only time this state of affairs had ever existed, and he thought it was a creditable showing. Mr. Stevens also referred to the by-law introduced by Coun. Ward, whereby the treasurer could not pay any accounts when the amount appropriated for the committee to which they were chargable had been exhausted, and the appropriation could not be increased except by majority of the whole council He thought this had a good effect. The Mayor referred to the waterworks as an injudicious transaction.

Coun. A. Alexander in view of the lateness of the hour did not attempt to make a speech. He had only been in the council a year and hadn't many sins to atone for. He asked for their support.

The meeting broke up about eleven o'clock.

Kingston—Mayor—Mayor Wright, Ald. Elliott. The list of candidates for aldermanic honors were never so heavy.

Belleville—Mayor—J. E. Walmsley, A. Robinson.

Picton—Mayor—John Laird, J. N. Carter, B. O. Hubbs, Geo Hadden, R. H. Hubbs, P. A. Williams, W. Woodrow, Wm Owens, H. Allen, J. E. Lant, Geo Morten, H. L. Wilcocks, J. W. Conger.

Trenton—Ten men have been nominated for the position of Mayor here, but not more than three are likely to go to the poll.

Brighton—Reeve—Dr. R. J. Wade by acclamation.

Eganville—Reeve—J. D. McRae and M. J. McCan. Councillors—Dixon, McNab, Thompson, Mills, Seadow, Bimm. Bulger, J. C. Gourlay, Jas. Gorman. L. McKibbon.

Newburgh—Old council elected by acclamation. Reeve—James Thomson. Councillors—J. Fullerton, Wm. Sutton, P. Phalen and J. W. Courtney.

Tyendinaga—Reeve—A. McFarlane and J. C. Hanley. First Deputy Reeve—Benj. Osborne, J. McFarlane Second Deputy Reeve—P. McAlpine, W. W. Reid and D. Hanley. Councillors—George Munroe, R. H. Scott and John Campbell.

Deseronto—Mayor—E. W. Rathbun by acclamation. Reeve—John Dalton, D. W. Dart. Deputy Reeve—James Bryden, A. S. Valleau. The aspirant councillors are quite numerous.

Bath—Reeve—Bowen E. Aylsworth by acclamation. Councillors—John Forester, J. Johnston, Robt Mott, Anthony McCaugherty, Edward Wright, John White. School trustees—Dr. H. S. Northmore, N. Maxwell Robinson and A. McCaugherty, elected by acclamation.

North Fredericksburgh—Reeve—E. Sills, Ashton McCabe. Deputy Reeve—A. B. Schryver, Herman Meng. Councillors—James Cuthel, Allan Wagar, Jake Vanalstine, M. Post, John Hough.

Camden—Reeve—H. A. Baker, A. Wilde. First Deputy Reeve—J. B. Weese, J. M. Lockridge. Second Deputy Reeve—John G. Rombough, J. N. Madden. Councillors—John Freeman, P. Sherlock, F. Johnston, C. Jackson.

Richmond—Reeve—Allan Oliver. Ira Hudgins, R. S. Donulson. Deputy Reeve—Chas Anderson, Wm Paul. Councillors—Z. Gimmos, McConnell.

Township of Ernestown—Reeve—Jesse Amey. Robert Miller, 1st Deputy Reeve—I. Aylsworth, Byron Derbyshire. 2nd Deputy Reeve—John Baker, Isaac Fraser. Councillors—M. N. Empey, F. D. Miller, Levi Perry.

Sheffield—Reeve—Hiram Keech, Wm. Paul. Deputy Reeve—G. Woods, Henry Shier. Councillors—Thos. Donohoe, Dennis Kearns, John Wagar.

South Fredericksburgh—Reeve—J. Milling, Garrison.

Sunday School Entertainment.

Selby's great annual gathering, New Year's night was no exception this year from others, old and young, great and small, filled the church. Ira B. Hudgins, superintendent ably filled the chair, and an excellent programme was rendered. Misses Fanny McGuinness and Carrie Valleau did their part well training the little ones for which they were heartily thanked. Aside from the children, Mr. W. Valleau, and the Pastor made a few remarks, and Misses Stratton and Anna Hudgins, sang a duett, and gave some recitations with fine effect. Miss Stratton also gave a reading which was rapturously encored and ably responded to. The school is in a flourishing condition. Proceeds $34.50.

Song Sermon.

Rev. D. O. Crossley will give the regular monthly Song Sermon in the Western church on Sunday evening next. New and attractive music suitable to the New Year will be rendered.

Williams of this place.

Mr. Robert Moore, of Tamworth, was through our midst on Thursday last renewing old acquaintance.

Master Tom and Miss Emma Scrimshaw, of Deseronto, were the guests of Mr. Eddie Brown on Sunday last.

Miss Maggie and Master Freddie Moore spent Christmas with their grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adham Airhart, of Richmond.

John Rennie Esq. has returned from Toronto.

The last meeting of the I.O.F. for 1895 was held on Thursday night last. Owing to the bad weather it was not well attended. Mr. J. A. Moore and Alfred Sexsmith were taken in as members on that evening. Jim says it takes a strong man to hold the goat.

Our annual school meeting was held on Wednesday last at 10 o'clock. The business was all transacted about the same as usual, the election of two trustees was made, one to fill the vacency of William Sharp, who died last summer and the other man's time had expired. The trustees for 1896 will be Messrs Hiram Sills, Ashton McCabe and Fred W. Spencer. There has been one application for the school.

Mr. John Galt, of Macdonald, was through our midst on Sunday last. How are the roads Jack?

RICHMOND.

The township Sunday School Convention held in the Methodist church, Roblin, on Friday, Dec. 27th, 1895, was a very enjoyable meeting. Representatives from nearly all the schools of the township were present, and gave favorable reports of the standing of their respective schools.

The forenoon session opened at 11 a.m. with devotional exercises led by Rev. J. R. Butler. The chair was occupied by Mr. I. B. Hudgins, president of S.S. Association of Richmond, who, in his pleasing way, made the opening address. After attending to some business matters in connection with the convention, the meeting adjourned.

The afternoon session was opened at 2 p.m. with devotional exercises led by Rev. J. M. White. An able address on "Difficulties of Country Sabbath Schools" was delivered by Mr. I. S. Jackson, after which addresses on "Encouragements of Sunday Schools" were given by Messrs. Charles Anderson, G Neely and William Valleau. During the early part of the afternoon some anxiety was felt, lest Mr. Bowerman, of Napanee, and Rev. Dr. Tucker, of Bath, should not come, but at last, they accompanied by Mr. G. M. Elliott's representative, his four footed friend, made their appearance, and contributed much to the interest of the meeting. Mr. Bowerman's address on "How to Teach a Bible Class" was ably discussed by Wm. Paul and Wm. Valleau. Mrs. Wm. Valleau made a few well-chosen remarks on "Teaching a Primary Class."

A large and appreciative audience greeted the speakers of the evening session, which opened at 7 p.m. with devotional exercises led by Rev. Butler. Mr. James Bowerman gave an excellent address on "Failures in Teaching and their Remedy," which was listened to with great interest. In the absence of Revs. Atkinson and Stratton, of Selby, which was regretted, Rev Dr. Tucker addressed the audience on "Better Sunday Schools. Why? How?" Several questions that had been handed in, were then quite satisfactorily answered by Rev. Tucker. The officers for 1896 were introduced, and the convention closed, everyone going home well pleased with the proceedings and profited. Seldom do the people of Roblin have the good fortune of enjoying such a pleasant and profitable meeting, and it is to be hoped that they may be stimulated to even greater activity in Sunday school work.

Thanking you for this space in your columns I am,

Yours truly,

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

SALEM

Mr. Editor as this is my first letter in the new year I will not say very much as "well done is half done" and I want to do something nice before the expiration of the year.

George Baldwin and wife, of Marlbank, spent Sunday last at Joe Sedore's.

We are sorry to state that Mr. Bowerman has withdrawn from our Sunday School. His place will not easily be filled.

Mr. Roundle has moved from our midst in part of the house with Joe Vanalstine on Centra street.

Will Hewett, of Havelock, was at Mrs. Fennell's on Saturday.

Hugh Duncan was in our midst Sunday.

Harry Morgan, of this place, spent Sunday with his cousin, Cline Brown, of Switzerville.

Mr. Henry Martin runs as a new man with good chances of success.

DENBIGH.

Our May like weather which has now lasted more than a week still continues, and all vestige of snow has gone. The excellent sleighing we had enjoyed for weeks past is regretted by many, as the numerous teams which came up from Renfrew with supplies for the lumber shanties made things lively around our village, and the sleighing was of great advantage to the numerous local jobbers, who by getting out the products of our forests, are trying to supplement the scantiness of their harvests. This kind of weather has however literally brought water to O. Stein's mills and enabled him to start his shingle mill up again, and if it continues so much longer the saw mill will also be set in operation.

A number of building operations which had been stopped by Jack Frost, have been resumed again, and Henry Sibley, who in spite of the hard times, found it necessary to enlarge his store and to put an addition to his dwelling, has been enabled to complete his arrangements. James Lane, of the Denbigh House, has now nearly completed a much needed addition to his stables, and Charles Both is hard at work trying to finish his new spacious woodhouse. Others are reported to have started the plow again, an occupation not often followed here in Xmas week.

Social gatherings have been frequent and very successful during this month. The members of the Epworth League held a concert and box social at our school house on the evening of the 14th, which was well attended and much enjoyed.

Last Saturday evening the teacher and pupils of our village school gave an entertainment consisting of songs, duets, dialogues, humorous recitations, etc. The whole programme was excelently rendered and very favorably commented upon by numerous outside visitors, and many thanks are due to our late teacher, Mr. Walter D. File, who during this year has admirably succeeded in advancing our boys and girls in useful knowledge to avoid every cause of adverse criticism, and to ingratiate himself thoroughly in the good graces of every pupil and parent in this section for the patience and perseverance he has shown in instructing his pupils so successfully to render their various parts.

On Christmas eve a social and Xmas tree was given at the school house in the Thompson settlement, (S.S. No. 6) The programme was similar to the above and also very creditably performed. The attendance was large in spite of the bad roads, as there was nothing on in the village on Xmas eve, and many young and older people of this village drove out to enjoy the entertainment.

A large number of parties and dances to the young people have been got up by different parties, which has been well patronized and greatly enjoyed, none the less for the reason that no strong drinks have been present or allowed at any of these occasions.

The municipal council met at the Denbigh House, on the 16th inst., and a large amount of important business was transacted. Among these a dispute about a road for several settlers in Pleasant Valley, which has been under consideration for many years past, was finally disposed of by the council buying a piece of land for the road in question from Thos. Irvine for $55.00.

The popularity of our present council has not suffered any by the fact that they have been able to reduce our taxes for this year some 3 mills on the $, (a result perhaps of the happy blending in that body of the best Tories, Grits and Patrons that we have in our municipality,) and our ratepayers and electors have shown their good sense on nomination day, which as usual in our municipality was held in the Orange Hall, on the last Monday but one in December, to elect all the present members by acclamation. Our council for 1896 consists therefore again of the following gentlemen: Wm Lane, Esq, Reeve, and Messrs. John Gilmour, Charles Goodrich, Erdman Marquardt and Gustave Stein, councillors.

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient and do not purge, pain or gripe. 25c.

Married at Selby.

At the residence of the bride's father, New Year's day by the Rev. F. B. Stratton, President of the Bay Quinte Conference. James T. second son of John Wilson, Esq., to Lida J., eldest daughter of Ira B. Hudgins Esq. After a sumptuous breakfast the happy pair took the noon express en route to Ottawa and points east, accompanied by the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

The Dominion Bank
ESTABLISHED 1871.

CAPITAL — $1,500,000.00
RESERVE FUND — $1,450,000.00

Deposits received and interest allowed. Drafts on all parts of Great Britain and United States bought and sold.

E. H. BAINES, Agent.

GRAND TRUNK R.R.

Christmas and New Year Holidays.

Tickets sold at single fare December 24th to 25th good to return December 26th also December 31st or January 1st good to return January 2nd.

Fare and third tickets sold December 21st to 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st or January 1st. good to return Jan 7th.

For tickets and all information apply to

J. L. BOYES.
Agent, Napanee.

Consumption.

Valuable treatise and two bottles of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. T. A. SLOCUM CHEMICAL CO., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

A. R. DAVIS,
Ontario Land Surveyor and Civil Engineer.
Office with T. G. Davis, Insurance Agent, 39 Coates Block

IRISH AND SCOTCH WHISKY.

For sale by the undersigned the following well known brands of Irish and Scotch whiskey :–

Bushmills ..... Irish
James Watson & Co. ..... "
Henry Thomson & Co. ..... "
Mitchell & Bro. ..... "
Burke & Co. ..... "
J. Brown & Co. ..... "

Bernard & Co. Encore ..... Scotch
Watson's, 3 Star ..... "
Dewar's, Extra Special ..... "
Usher's, O.V.G. ..... "
Sheriff's ..... "
Claymore ..... "
J. Lade & Co. ..... "
Mitchell Bro. ..... "
Glengowan ..... "

M. W. PRUYN & SON,
Napanee, 12th Dec. 1894.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

FOR CHRISTMAS and NEW YEARS
HOLIDAYS

Will Make Special Rates For All

Single First Class Fare
Going Dec. 24th and 25th, Returning Dec 26, 1895
Going Dec. 31st and Jan 1 Returning Jan. 2, 1896

Single First Class Fare and One-Third
Going Dec. 21st to 25th, Returning until Jan. 7th, 1896
Going Dec. 28th to Jan. 1st

Special Rates for Students and Teachers.

Single First Class fare and One-Third
Going Dec. 13 to 24, Returning until Jan 13th '96.

Special Rates for Commercial Travellers.

Single First Class fare
Going Dec. 20 to 25, Returning until Jan. 7th '96.

E. McLAUGHLIN,
Agent at Napanee.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

CURES

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, JAN. 3, 1896.

LAY ASIDE QUIBBLING.

The Beaver has at last spoken in reference to that Fishery Report, and the sum and substance of the long letter to which it gives such a prominent place in its last issue, is "The full and satisfactory report was prepared and sent to the Fishery Department as required, and the Auditor General has published as full details of it as of any other similar report in the Dominion." It took a little over a full half column of the Beaver's valuable space to convey this bit of information which was already known to the electors of this county. One fifth of the space would have been sufficient to have contained the information asked for. It's a simple question to answer. Mr. Sills collected certain sums of money from the fishermen of Lennox. We ask Mr. Sills to give a detailed statement of those sums of money. He has failed to do so. We ask Mr. Wilson who is supposed to represent this riding to procure that information. He has failed to do so. Are the electors of this riding to be bull-dozed in this manner by their pompous and over paid servants? The Beaver a few weeks ago told us it was none of our business to pry into these matters. There is no use in trying to drag a herring over the tract by picking a quarrel with Mr. Allen Pringle. Mr. Pringle we have no doubt is quite able to defend himself. The question under discussion is simple, is Mr. Sills to handle the money of the electors of this riding and defy them when asked to render an account of the money so handled by him. Will the electors of Lennox uphold Mr. Wilson in the stand he is taking in declining to procure this information for them? Does the Beaver endorse the argument of its correspondent by contending that because Mr. Sills has complied with the requirements of the department in making his returns, and because his account was passed by the Auditor General, that therefore Mr. Sills' account is all right? Do the Beaver and its correspondent need to be reminded that the return for the payment of fifty odd dollars for the Post Office steps was also made according to the requirements of the department and the account was passed by the Auditor General? The Auditor General was not supposed to come up to Napanee and find out that those steps could be built by any jack knife carpenter for seven or eight dollars at the most. Does the Beaver forget that the hundreds of thousands of dollars that were pilfered from the ratepayers of this country in connection with the Curran bridge scandals, and Esquimault harbour frauds were included in returns made in accordance with the requirements of the department, and that those accounts were passed by the Auditor General? Has Mr. Wilson no recollection of the fact that Connolly and McGreevy were sent to gaol for frauds in accounts that had passed through the same routine? There is no use in hedging or in trying to dodge the question. These lame excuses won't do. Mr. Sills and Mr. Wilson may as well make up their minds to procure this information for the electors. Mr. Sills says in his report that he got so much money. Now Mr. Sills please give us the names of the fishermen from whom you received it and the amounts you received from each. Why is the Beaver trying to shield Mr. Sills and Mr. Wilson? Why does Mr. Sills refuse to give the information? Why does Mr. Wilson refuse to perform the simple service asked of him? Will the Beaver come to the point, lay aside quibbling and answer these simple questions?

THE RECENT BYE-ELECTIONS.

Montague is quite sure that HE is cock-of-the-roost.

THERE has been a large decrease in the number of farmers since 1871.

THE production of iron ore in Canada is to-day less than it was in 1871.

IF commerce with foreign nations is such a good thing as the Tories claim why shackle it with protection?

FROM 1868 to 1878 the bank note circulation, says the Montreal Herald, of the Dominion increased 119 per cent; during the last ten years there has been absolutely no increase in the circulation.

JACQUES CARTIER dropped into line on Monday and elected the Liberal candidate, Mr. Charbonneau, by a majority of 574. The Tory majority at the last election was 286, and the Conservatives have held the riding since 1878.

THE stand taken by the French Canadian Catholics in Montreal centre at the recent bye-election shows that the solid Catholic vote is a myth. Catholics vote according to the dictates of their conscience, and are not beholden to any ecclesiastic in exercising their franchise any more than are the Protestants.

WHEN a Tory majority of 1214 is converted into a Liberal majority of 366 inside of five years, and right in the heart of the manufacturing centre of the erstwhile Tory city of Montreal, too, it demonstrates the decadence in the theory of protection and how utterly impotent and discredited the poor N.P. has become.

AS a sample of what the N.P. has done for Canada the Tories point to the increase in our exports, while our imports have decreased. The fact of the matter is that an increase in exports when not accompanied by an increase of imports means that a crisis is at hand. It means that the purchasing power of the people has been reduced, that foreign capital is being with drawn, and that the manufacturer is forced to sell his wares abroad at slaughter prices.

THAT FISHERY REPORT AGAIN.

To the Editor of THE EXPRESS.

DEAR SIR,—Do you know have fish teeth? At any rate they are said to "bite." But they do not bite at that bait of ours. They seem to fear the hook in the throat, and then the sudden jerk out of the slimy pool on to dry land and into the sunshine. They would be out of their element there and their health would suffer—I mean their political health. At any rate whether fish have teeth or not—or whether they can be induced to bite—one thing is certain, it is as the old saying has it, "like pulling teeth" to get that fishery report we are seeking.

It has been said that "the way of the transgressor is hard," and I suppose that means politicians and party heelers as well as other people. Our "friends the enemy" are evidently in a bad box. In popular phraseology or "vulgar parlance" they are "in a hole." I feel a good deal of sympathy for them because I should not like to be in such a hole myself. But, Mr. Editor, our sympathy must take the direction, first of trying to help them out of the hole in a friendly way, and secondly of dragging them out if they refuse to be helped out. Either of these acts would be friendly, because they might smother in the end in a damp filthy place where the air was bad. And some people do not actually know what is good for them.

But what is all this about? It is all about that fishery report. Your readers know that a week or two ago I joined the EXPRESS and others in demanding a full report from our Fishery Women exchange confidences about their own health and that of their husbands. A man's physical well being is closely watched by a thoughtful wife. It is part of her duty in the world to keep him well. If she sees him running down, she should take measures to stop it. Very few men enjoy being sick. They won't admit even to themselves that they are sick. They will go on losing flesh and vitality—working too hard—worrying too hard—taking little or no care of their health. Maybe they need only a little help to be made well. Maybe a good simple tonic is all they require. Maybe it is something more serious. Whichever it is, it should be attended to. When a man gets really sick, his work stops. He can't tend to business. He loses all he has previously gained. Actual want may stare him in the face. It doesn't pay to get sick, or to stay sick. There's no need of doing either. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will prevent sickness. It is a blood helper and a flesh builder. It restores perfect digestion and insures perfect assimilation of the food. It is a powerful enemy to germs and will search them out in all parts of the body, forcing their evacuation. It has been proven by the written testimony of hundreds of grateful people that the "Golden Medical Discovery" will even cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption if taken in its early stages.

A book of 1000 pages containing testimonials and much valuable health talk will be sent on receipt of 21 cents to prepay postage and duty only. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N.Y.

the Ontario Government; and the Commissioner did me the justice to say that had the heads of all the departments from Canada been as "careful and economical" in the expenditure of public money as the superintendent of the Apiarian Department, there would be nothing to complain of on that score.

The Beaver writer wants to know what has been "got back" for all that expenditure in my department. That is a high and patriotic view to take of the matter to be sure! What has been "got back" in all the other departments? Our country, for sooth, ought not to have made an exhibit of her rich products and resources before the world at a great world's fair unless the mercenary quid pro quo could be "got back" without delay! If we didn't get much money back we got honor. I will tell the Beaver writer what Ontario got back in my department. It got twice as many awards as any other state or country that competed, and there were some thirty six of them. Great Britain, Russia, Germany, Italy, Spain, Greece, Ceylon, the Ottoman Empire, Siam, Australia, Costa Rica, Trinidad, Hayti, Mexico, Brazil, Ecuador, the Argentine Republic, Venezuela, and seventeen American States had apiarian exhibits in Jackson Park. I got seventeen awards for Ontario, which, exclusive of the U. S. was more than the awards of all other foreign countries combined, and over twice as many as any state in the union. Who, with any national pride or patriotism, will say that such results were not worth contending for, or not worth the paltry expenditure necessary to secure them? The exhibition Canada made at Chicago especially Ontario, not only reflects the greatest credit on the people, but ultimately will pay financially. The Beaver writer figures up the exports of honey since the Fair to see what we have "got back." The reason we have not exported more is because we have not been able to produce enough for our country, though in Ontario alone hundreds of thousands of pounds

DYSPEPSIA,
BAD BLOOD,
CONSTIPATION,
KIDNEY TROUBLES,
HEADACHE,
BILIOUSNESS.

B.B.B. unlocks all the secretions and removes all impurities from the system from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS acts gently yet thoroughly on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

WANTED SALESMEN We want one or two GOOD Men in each County to take orders for a choice line of NURSERY STOCK or SEED POTATOES Stock and Seed guaranteed. We can give you STEADY EMPLOYMENT with Good Pay. It will cost you nothing to give it a trial. State when writing which you prefer to sell. Address

THE HAWKS NURSERY CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

EVERY FAMILY
SHOULD KNOW THAT

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE
PAIN KILLER

Is a very remarkable remedy, both for INTERNAL and EXTERNAL use, and wonderful in its quick action to relieve distress.

PAIN-KILLER is a sure cure for Sore Throat, Coughs, Colds, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cramps, Cholera, and all Bowel Complaints.

PAIN-KILLER is THE BEST remedy known for Sea-Sickness, Sick Headache, Pain in the Back or Side, Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

PAIN-KILLER is UNQUESTIONABLY the BEST LINIMENT MADE. It brings SPEEDY AND PERMANENT RELIEF in all cases of Bruises, Cuts, Sprains, Severe Burns, etc.

PAIN-KILLER is the well tried and trusted friend of the Mechanic, Farmer, Planter, Sailor, and in fact all classes wanting a medicine always at hand, and SAFE TO USE internally or externally with certainty of relief.

Beware of imitations. Take none but the genuine "PERRY DAVIS." Sold everywhere, 25c. big bottle.

UNDERTAKING!

Having added a full line of Undertaker's Goods, consisting of Caskets, Coffins, Robes, etc.

to my stock of Furniture, I am prepared to supply and attend funerals on the shortest notice, and in the most modern style. Having had twenty years experience in the business, perfect satisfaction may be relied on.

Embalming a Specialty.

JAS. WILSON,
DUNDAS STREET.

N.B.—Residence next door west (opposite Dr. Leonard's). Open at all hours.

CEDAR.

What do you want? I will tell you.

GOOD FENCES

made of sound Yellow Cedar. The subscriber has a quantity of CEDAR POSTS, STAKES, BINDERS and BUILDING TIMBER, of any length and size, which he will dispose of at more reasonable rates than can be obtained elsewhere.

DENIS DALY.
NAPANEE.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Pushing, trustworthy men to represent us in the sale of our Choice Nursery Stock. Specialties controlled by us. Highest Salary or Commission paid weekly. Steady employment the year round. Outfit free; exclusive territory; experience not necessary; big pay assured workers; special inducements to beginners. Write at once for particulars to

ALLEN NURSERY CO.,

One would conclude after perusing the leading editorial in last week's Beaver that the author of that masterpiece could suck comforting nourishment out of an empty oyster shell. "The recent Liberal Defeats" is the heading of this mighty effort which treats of the by-elections in North Ontario and Cardwell. We next will expect to hear the Beaver gloating over the "Tory Victories." What are the facts? Two Tory strongholds were thrown open. There was a triangular fight in each, with one government candidate arrayed against two anti-government candidates. In neither riding did the government candidate obtain a plurality of the votes cast. Here are the figures taken from the Beaver.

NORTH ONTARIO.

For the Government.....2049
Against the Government.....2442

being a majority of 393 votes in favor of the anti-government candidates, whereas according to the Beaver the government candidate had a clear majority at the last general election of 254.

CARDWELL.

For the government.....1296
Against the government.....2044

being a majority of 748 votes in favor of the anti-government candidates. This is the result the Beaver boasts of, and this result was obtained in the face of the most shameless corruption on the part of the government candidates that was ever practised in Canada. It is estimated that over $20.000.00 was spent in North Ontario alone. Every hotel had its quota of boodlers who were most lavishing in the expenditure of the bribery fund. It is true that through the folly of the forces opposed to the government in running two candidates in each instance, in North Ontario the conservative candidate was elected, while the McCarthy candidate was elected in Cardwell.

In the same article the Beaver ventures to prophesy as to the result of the election in Montreal Centre in the following words "An election will take place in Montreal Centre in a few days and it is now confidently expected that Dr. Hingston the conservative will be elected there over 'Jimmie' McShane. The trade policy of the Liberal party will no doubt be too heavy a mill-stone about McShane's neck." It must be remembered that Montreal Centre has always been a hive of Toryism and at the last general election returned the conservative candidate by a majority of 1214. Here was a straight fight between the two old parties with the result that McShane the liberal candidate was elected by a majority of 536. Just how the Beaver is going to figure this out into a conservative victory we don't know, but it is generally conceded that a difference of 1500 votes in five years is a slight indication that something is wrong. The post mortem is already being held over the great conservative party, yet it would appear that the Beaver has not yet been informed that it had been ailing. If it doesn't hurry up it will be too late for the funeral. By the way will the Beaver give us its views on the School Question? It has been a favorite subject for years for that organ to repeat that the Liberals had no policy. Would the Beaver just for once set us right as to the policy of the Conservative party on the School Question? We don't like to confess our ignorance upon these public questions but in this instance we must do so, perhaps we could figure it out for ourselves if Mr. Wilson would inform us who the leader of the Conservative party is? Bowell? Surely no right-minded old-time conservative will admit that Bowell is leader? Tupper claims to hold the reins. Haggart declares he isn't led by anyone. Overseer or our Member for Lennox. The only response to that is an anonymous communication in the last issue of the Beaver trying to make out by garbling the public accounts, and other misrepresentations, that Allen Pringle, superintendent of the Ontario Apiarian exhibit at the World's Fair, Chicago, in 1893, "pocketed" thousands of money, which would stand over against enough wheat cheese, pork or "skim milk" to frighten every taxpayer away out of the county to Uncle Sam's domains to join their friends and neighbors there, "gone before." That is one way of bringing down the report we are seeking. It reminds me of the school boy who is accused of lying or something, when he promptly straightens up and yells "YOU'RE ANOTHER"! That's the answer I get when I ask for that mysterious report which is "so backward in coming forward." Does the thing not begin to look more suspicious than ever? Does it not begin to look decidedly "fishy"? "You're another," they say. But suppose it should turn out that I am not another. What then? I know that "misery loves company," but I shall have to ask to be excused from going into such company just to comfort them. I am willing to do a good deal to oblige them—to help them out of that "hole," even to dragging them out—but I draw the line there. I refuse to go down into the hole to stay any length of time—only just long enough to drag them out while I hold my breath. No reasonable man could expect more or even so much.

I now proceed to show that the "superintendent of the Ontario honey exhibit" at Chicago is neither in nor near the hole the Beaver writer occupies. In order to make out that I am with him down there he deliberately misquotes the public accounts as follows; "1893, page 331, Allen Pringle, services as superintendent, $2,000," while it actually reads—"services AND EXPENSES as superintendent, $2,000."

I take that as deliberate trickery, because he gives page, etc., and must have had the accounts before him when he wrote. But I am not in the hole quite. As a matter of fact, out of that $2,000, which he fraudulently credits to me for "services," I paid the Canadian freight and express charges on some 50 exhibits from different exhibitors all over the Province. Out of that $2,000 I also paid both Canadian and American transportation charges on the second consignment, or summer exhibit, as well as other expenses of various kinds. I still have the vouchers for these necessary disbursements which Mr. Wilson, or the Fishery Overseer, or the Beaver can see for the asking, or any other decent tax-payer who is not a coward and has the honesty and manliness to make his application over his own name in broad day light instead of from a hole behind the fence. I have nothing to conceal, gentlemen, you can get all the particulars and details you want. Instead of "pocketing" the mythical "thousands" predicated by the Beaver writer, I simply pocketed my legitimate salary, which was $5 per day and expenses, stipulated BEFORE HAND and not dictated and coerced afterwards. I would take no less from any government or individual for performing the work and duties of that position, with an assistant at merely nominal remuneration. I never asked for or sought the position in any way. The Ontario Commissioner (not the Ontario Government) in compliance with the wishes of the intending exhibitors, offered me the place over the heads of a dozen or more eager applicants. In self defence and in justice to myself I may also say here that my duties were performed to the entire satisfaction of the exhibitors, the ONTARIO BEE-KEEPERS ASSOCIATION, and are produced annually. Then he takes no account of the imports. The consumption of honey has increased in Canada prodigiously of late — faster than the production.

The Beaver writer intimates that neither the member, the Overseer or the Beaver, has ever been "asked personally by even four independent electors and tax-payers" for a full report, and that "the tax-payers themselves have not been making any such demands." We shall see about that a little later on. And as to asking for PRIVATE information it is not likely to be done. This is a public question. Mr. Wilson and the Overseer are public officials, and want public information —not private or personal. As to "Mr. Pringle writing to the Auditor General" for the report, that is no part of Mr. Pringle's duty; but it certainly is the duty of the Fishery Overseer to give the report in full to the public when asked to do so; and when he fails it becomes the duty of the sitting member to procure the Report either from the Overseer or the Auditor General and place it before the tax-payers.

In conclusion, it is worth while to notice that the writer of the Beaver communication under review signs himself "Another Overseer." Does that mean another fishery Overseer, or what? After considering the matter a bit it has struck me that it may mean the Overseer of a "wire pulling" party or the like. When his skilful manipulation of that World's Fair account is considered, in which he manages to get thousands of dollars into this deponent's pocket which unfortunately never got there, it will be seen that this "Overseer" is no common operator. First he got 2,000 into the parental pocket, and then, by an extra stroke he got nearly 3,000 located in "the family." Such cleverness is of no ordinary kind. I almost think, Mr. Editor, (SUB ROSA—in a whisper) that he must be the "Overseer" of a boodling brigade, or something of that sort. Bring down your report, gentlemen, bring it down and save further trouble from. Yours in sympathy.

ALLEN PRINGLE.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

The greatest offer ever made—THE NAPANEE EXPRESS and the Toronto Weekly Globe, the two papers one year for one dollar. The balance of the year free.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

His Face was a mass of Blotches.

But now his skin is clear as a year old babe's.

Scott's Sarsaparilla his Salvation.

Nothing blights existence like the knowledge that our appearance is repellant to those with whom we come in contact, nor is there any relief like that of feeling that the disfiguring causes have been removed. Says Mr. William Alger: My face on one side was a mass of blotches, some of which were constantly full of matter. I run a bake shop doing my own work, but my face got so bad that customers drifted away. Then I hired a man and went to a doctor. He said my blood was in a horrible condition. I sold my business and moved to the city where Scott's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me. The first bottle did me much good, and after taking five bottles my skin is as clear as possible, and not a sign of my previous disfigurement. I say Scott's Sarsaparilla is the best blood medicine going and am speaking from experience.

Pimples, blotches, boils, ulcers and all diseases arising from vital exhaustion and impure blood are radically cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla, a concentrated compound of the finest medicines ever known. Your druggist has it at $1. But get Scott's. The kind that cures.

The Year 1896

Is upon us

WE know our citizens and customers did not go barefooted during the past year. Neither do we expect them to do so in this New Year 1896, when they find we are still selling

Good Boots at Low Prices!

HAINES & LOCKETT

Cash Saved

By ordering your Suits from DAVIS & Co. Entire new stock at bottom prices to select from.

Call and see our prices before ordering.

Davis & Co.

T. G. DAVIS. R FORD.

Before Taking.

Wood's Phosphodine.—The Great English Remedy.

Is the result of over 15 years treating thousands of cases with all known drugs, until at last we have discovered the true remedy and treatment—a combination that will effect a prompt and permanent cure in all stages of Sexual Debility, Abuse or Excesses, Nervous Weakness, Emissions, Mental Worry, Excessive Use of Opium, Tobacco, or Alcoholic Stimulants, all of which soon lead to Insanity, Consumption and an early grave. Wood's Phosphodine has been used successfully by hundreds of cases that seemed almost hopeless—cases that had been treated by the most talented physicians—cases that were on the verge of despair and insanity—cases that were tottering over the grave—but with the continued and persevering use of Wood's Phosphodine, these cases that had been given up to die, were restored to manly vigor and health—Reader you need not despair—no matter who has given you up as incurable—the remedy is now within your reach, by its use you can be restored to a life of usefulness and happiness.

Price, one package, $1; six packages, $5; by mail free of postage.

One will please, six guaranteed to cure. Pamphlet free to any address.

After Taking.

The Wood Company, Windsor, Ont., Canada.

Wood's Phosphodine is sold by responsible wholesale and retail druggists in the Dominion.

AN ABLE DISCOURSE.

Owing to the pressure on our columns we have been reluctantly obliged to hold the following over for several weeks:

This sermon was preached in S. Mary Magdalene's church at the late R. D. meeting. The text was "By Pureness, by Knowledge, by the Holy Ghost, by Love Unfeigned." Under the second particular "by Knowledge," the preacher made the following remarks:

"It is not by chance that the Apostle passes from "pureness" to "knowledge." Surely these qualities are coupled together like the consecutive links of a chain. Elsewhere the same the bishops of the ecclesiastical province only echoed the demands of the law, when at the recent Provincial Synod they put on record their convictions that "the time had arrived when the interest of the church would be promoted by the adoption generally of a higher standard of intellectual attainments." The bishops' desire is that their clergy should be men of wide and liberal culture, such as University training and residence alone can make them. They want them to be abreast of the age in all that is true and good, and to be able, in a day when subtle heresies and all kinds of errors are so ripe, to tell the difference between true science, and "Science falsely so called," between

SARONY AND HIS NYMPHS.

New York's Great Artist Is Devoted to Nude Ideals

Napoleon Sarony, one of America's oldest and best known artists, has recently taken up an entirely original and extremely interesting field of art, says a New York journal. Instead of devoting himself to painting, as has been his habit during his middle life, he has resumed photography, the art of his youth. But the veteran artist no longer makes bust portraits or snaps the fantastic actress and her giddy movement, as in his youthful days. This work he leaves to his son and successor, while he takes up a more serious work, the result of which he hopes will immortalize him.

Sarony's new art is photographing nude women in every pose possible. At his disposal he has several hundred famous models, and in his private studio he photographs them in the attitudes in which the French painters have painted famous nudes. He claims that this not only advances art in photography, develops the appreciation of the nude in art but also points out the impossibility of the poses given by painters to their subjects.

Mr. Sarony has had a studio purposely fitted up for making his nude studies. He began by making just single figures, and then arranged groups of twos and threes, and finally arranged so that he could take eight or ten figures grouped together. The artist does not, however, rely entirely upon either the beauty of his models or the art of his photography. After combining both he brings into play his artistic training before his pictures are ready for the public.

His method of studying the nude and getting the wonderful effect from it which he alone has been able to produce is extremely interesting. First, with the greatest care the model is placed in position—each limb has to be be separately placed by the artist, and the body so turned and twisted that it is in exactly the position of the picture which it is to represent. Sometimes the posing of a woman will take over an hour, and by the time she has been adjusted exactly to the artist's liking she will be so fatigued that it is almost impossible for her to hold the post while the snap is made. After the photograph has been taken the artist usually paints up all the defects, idealizes every portion of the body and destroys all likeness in the features to the original.

The biggest dollar's worth ever offered. THE NAPANEE EXPRESS and the Toronto Globe, the two papers one year for one dollar. The balance of the year free.

Mrs. Durham (freshly emancipated)—Are you hungry, my son?

Little Reginald—No, I'm crying for my mamma.

COMMANDMENTS OF BUDDHA.

Good Regulations for All Sorts and Conditions of People.

All acts of living creatures become bad by ten things, and by avoiding the ten things they become good. There are three sins of the body, four sins of the tongue, and three sins of the mind. The sins of the body are murder, theft and adultery; of the tongue, lying, slander, abuse and gossip; of the mind, envy, hatred and error. Therefore I give you these commandments:

1.—Kill not, but have regard for life.

2.—Steal not, neither do ye rob; but help everybody to be master of the fruits of his labor.

3.—Abstain from impurity and lead a life of chastity.

4.—Lie not, but be truthful. Speak the truth with discretion, fearlessly and in a loving heart.

5.—Invent not evil reports, neither do ye respect them. Carp not, but look for good sides of your fellow beings so that ye may with sincerity defend them against their enemies.

6.—Swear not, but speak decently and with dignity.

7.—Waste not the time with gossip, but speak to the purpose or keep silence.

Apostle declares that, "to the defiled and unbelieving, nothing is pure"—"even the mind," he says—is defiled." He is not here speaking of impure thoughts and imaginations. He means something deeper.

He speaks of the power of impurity to corrupt and injure the intellect. A clear intellect, he bids us observe, requires a pure heart.

And hence, brethren, while we have in this saying of the text, the divine sanction for the pursuit of knowledge, and the assurance that the church and clergy would be the friends and nurses of learning, yet St. Paul bestows no benediction here upon secular apart from religious knowledge. The culture of the heart and of the mind went together in his conception, lest the heart should corrupt the intellect. The knowledge whereby he approved himself as a minister of God, was pre-eminently a religious knowledge, yet, as we gather from his speeches and writings, it was a knowledge enriched and tempered by wide and various learning of other kinds.

Brethren, I do not wish to speak in any disparagement of the unparallaled efforts of the present day to make education accessible to all classes of the community. I am only anxious to maintain what, in our own time there is a strong disposition to overlook, namely, the necessity of making religion the basis of our educational system. It is a sad reflection upon christian countries like England and our own, that a struggle must be engaged in. A battle must be fought and won to secure for christian children the privilege of being instructed in the national schools in the simple truths and precepts of the Gospel, which tend to purify the heart, clear the mental vision and form a well-balanced, honorable character. Recent criminal phenomena, especially of juveniles, with which we are confronted all over the civilized world, notably in the colony of Victoria, where national education is wholly secular, should open our eyes to the truth of the Iron Duke's warning uttered some fifty years ago, that "children educated without religion and the restraints of the moral law, would simply become clever heathens," and being thus warned of the evil consequences of such a system, ought we not to throw the full weight of our influence in with those who are earnestly contending for "pureness" conjoined with "knowledge," for religious instruction, side by side with secular?

But we must not forget that it is primarily of the minister of Christ the Apostle is writing. They above all others are required to command their office "by knowledge."

And never before, perhaps in the world's history, has the importance of true knowledge asserted itself or the necessity been more pressing for the instructors of the people to be men like the "children of Issachar, who had unstanding of the times to know what Israel ought to do."

The days we live in are solemn and eventful. Things that most intimately concern the temporal and eternal interests of men are being subjected to excessive strain and agitation. Social problems the most momentous to the well being of humanity press for solution. Religious problems also, the restoration of unity among the family of God on earth: the re-churching of the masses: the defence of the Faith against infidelity: of the Holy Bible against the new and surprising methods of criticism. A forest of searching enquiries surround us: insoluble enigmas are on all sides: the cry of the poet Goethe is becoming universal "More light! More light!"

The clergy then, above all others, as guides of the people on the very highest subjects, should be men of understanding and knowledge: and "the knowledge that puffeth up and the knowledge that edifieth." Above all, they wish them to be theologians in the best sense of the word, that they may be sure that the divine truth they teach is the whole of truth: in other words, is Jesus Christ Himself in His Deity and in His humanity —in His holiness, His wisdom, and His love.

Farmer's Institute.

The Farmer's Institute, of Lennox has arranged for a series of meetings in this district to be addressed by J. A. Qavitz, B.S.A., C.A.C., of Guelph Ont, on the following subjects: "The science and the practice of underdraining," "Practical Methods for improving the fertility of our farms," "Improvements of the plants of the farm," "The Improvement of fodder crops in the production of meat and milk," "The cultivation of corn, potatoes and field roots," "The best varieties of wheat, barley, peas and oats in seven years experiments." Evening subjects: "The influence of the Ontario Agricultural College," "Co-operative experiments in agriculture throughout Ontario for ten years." F. H. Mason, Straffordville, Ont., will deliver addresses on "hog raising," "butter making," "care and food of dairy cattle," "shall sheep raising be abandoned in Ontario." Evening subjects: "The outlook for the Ontario farmer in butter making." Meetings will be held in the town hall, Odessa, on Jan. 28th, and in the town hall, Napanee, on Jan. 31st. The afternoon meeting will be held at 1.30 p.m., and the evening meetings at 7.30 p.m. Local talent will assist at each meeting. All welcome,

HENRY FILSON, Stella, H. AYLSWORTH, President. Secretary.

A Professional Exchange.

A doctor who occasionally walked in crooked paths and never went to church was called to see a pious and orthodox old clergyman who had been taken suddenly ill. "Am I going to die, doctor?" asked the parson.

"Well, I guess not this time," said the doctor. "We'll make a bargain—you keep me out of hell and I'll keep you out of heaven."—Life.

A Storm Ahead

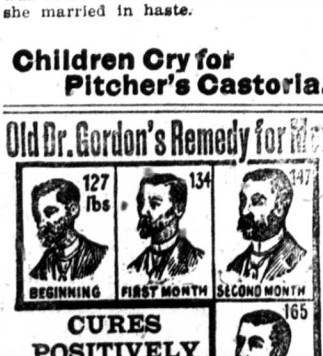
Daughter—What is haste, papa?

Father—Haste? Why, to move rapidly, to hurry, to make haste, you know.

Daughter—Oh, indeed! I thought it was some kind of silk. Mamma said she married in haste.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Old Dr. Gordon's Remedy for Men



CURES POSITIVELY

Lost Power, Nervous Debility, Failing Manhood, Secret Diseases, caused by the errors and excesses of youth.

Young, middle-aged or old men, suffering from the effects of follies and excesses, restored to health, manhood and vigor.

Price $1.00, 6 boxes for $5.00. Sent by mail, securely sealed. Write for our book, "Starling Facts," for Men only, tells you how to get well and stay well.

GORDON CURES MEDICINE CO., Box 617, MONTREAL

The likeness is destroyed, partly because the model requests it, but more often because it is not all the artist wishes it to be. So in the second stage nearly all Sarony's living pictures are headless objects of beauty until he has time to complete them by painting in good features. The third stage is to photograph these retouched pictures and turn them out full fledged photographs and works of art.

Sometimes Mr. Sarony is so enthusiastic of the results of his living pictures that he cannot resist putting them into color, twisting them into mermaids, nymphs and cupids. It is by such pictures as these that he is usually represented at the big exhibitions.

The majority of Mr. Sarony's models are chorus girls, "living pictures" and concert hall singers.

Outward Signs of Inward Worry.

"I know of what you are thinking," said one woman to another, one day lately. "Shall I tell you?" Her friend replied: "It is impossible for you to guess; I was worrying over a care which you do not imagine I possess." "That is true," was the response. "I am surprised to see that you are fretting about money matters." The other stared at her. "Are you a necromancer?" she exclaimed. "No; a Sherlock Holmes," was gaylay retorted. "But that is quite extraordinary. How could even a Sherlock Holmes penetrate my thoughts?" "By the observance of a simple rule. You put a finger to your chin while you sat in that long, brown study. That signifies that mercenary matters are worrying you. If you had leaned your hand on your cheek I should have told you that affairs of the heart concerned you. If it was something of the brain alone, as overwork, you would have raised your hand to your head." The listener shook her head. "That sounds like a fairy tale," she said. "Nevertheless, try it any time you like," responded her friend, "and see if you ever make a mistake. And, more than that, you may tell what part of a person is afflicted by illness in the same way. The forehead contracts in a brain trouble, or headache, and the eyes, also, show these diseases. The nose and under the eyes betray sickness in the chest and stomach, and the lips and chin may be watched for anything wrong with the lower members of the body. That really is a help in dealing with illness in a child too young to tell where it feels a pain.—New York Times.

The latest returns show a slight decrease in the live stock of Great Britain, as well as a considerable decrease in grain crops, except oats. The low prices of the past few years begin to show in results. In this general decrease, however, it is a little remarkable that every English county shows more or less increase in pigs over last year, and in every county there is shrinking in the area devoted to wheat.

Two Types of Aristocrats.

"My good man," said the titled gentleman who had been violating a municipal ordinance, "I am not subject to the laws here; I belong to the nobility."

"Well, begorrah," replied Mr. Terrence Flynn, "for the matther o' that, nayther am Oi. Oi belong till the police force."—Washington Star.

Sorry He Spoke.

She—This wine is over sixty years old?

He—Bottle it yourself?

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Tightness of the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Summer coughs are more dangerous than Winter coughs

8.—Covet not, or envy, but rejoice at the fortunes of other people.

9.—Cleanse your heart of malice and cherish no hatred, not even against your enemies; but embrace all living beings with kindness.

10.—Free your mind of ignorance and be anxious to learn the truth, especially in the one thing that is needed, lest you fall a prey either to scepticism or to errors. Scepticism will make you indifferent, and errors will lead you astray, so that you will not find the noble path that leads to life eternal.

It is reported that the Armour Packing Company of Kansas City, Mo., is experimenting in making a condensed food for armies on forced marches. The package contains 65 cubic inches of food, composed of bacon, hard bread, soup and coffee, the two latter put up in the shape of tablets. This would be a cube of four inches and is supposed to furnish a full day's rations for one man. If it proves a success it would come handy for some others.

THE BEST MOUTH TONIC IN THE WORLD

Odoroma THE PERFECT TOOTH POWDER.

IT LEAVES THE MOUTH IN A MOST DELICIOUS STATE OF FRESHNESS. DRUGGISTS 25 CTS

"D. & L." MENTHOL PLASTER

I have prescribed Menthol Plaster in a number of cases of neuralgic and rheumatic pains, and am very much pleased with the effects and pleasantness of its application.—W. H. CARPENTER, M.D., Hotel Oxford, Boston.

I have used Menthol Plasters in several cases of muscular rheumatism, and find in every case that it gave almost instant and permanent relief.—J. B. MOORE M.D., Washington, D.C.

It Cures Sciatica, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Pains in Back or Side, or any Muscular Pains.

Price 25c. | Davis & Lawrence Co., Ltd, Sole Proprietors, MONTREAL.

DR. HOWARD'S ELECTRIC PILLS

BLOOD BUILDER FOR BRAIN AND BODY

POSITIVELY CURE all Weakness and Pain, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Paralysis, St. Vitus' Dance, Loss of Power, Female Weakness and Irregularity, and all Diseases caused by Bad Blood and Shattered Nerves. Skin Beautifier. One trial proves it. By large boxes, 50c. 6 for $2.50. The Dr. Howard Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Morristown, N.Y.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS cure Fever, Worms, Teething, Diarrhœa, Etc. 25c. No taste.

Scranton Coal

In order to meet the wishes of a number of our Customers who enquired for SCRANTON Coal, we have put some in stock this season.

We carry as well a full line of the Celebrated LACKAWANNA variety which we have handled for a number of years with great general satisfaction.

We shall be pleased to receive your order which will have our best attention.

All coal under cover and thoroughly screened before delivery.

The Rathbun Co.

It May Puzzle You

to discover this old gentleman's three daughters but there should be no difficulty in your finding the Express Bookstore, nor in your learning that this shop is the right place to buy your school supplies, such as Readers, Scribblers, and a complete Scholar's outfit.

Try the unbreakable Slate.

THE POLLARD CO'Y

EXPRESS BOOKSTORE, NAPANEE.

thinness

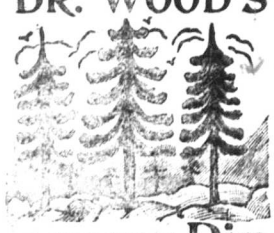
The diseases of thinness are scrofula in children, consumption in grown people, poverty of blood in either. They thrive on leanness. Fat is the best means of overcoming them. Everybody knows cod-liver oil makes the healthiest fat. In Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil the taste is hidden, the oil is digested, it is ready to make fat.

When you ask for Scott's Emulsion and your druggist gives you a package in a salmon-colored wrapper with the picture of the man and fish on it—you can trust that man!

50 cents and $1.00

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, Belleville, Ont.

DR. WOOD'S



Norway Pine Syrup.

...in the lung-healing virtues of the Pine ...ined with the soothing and expectorant ... of other pectoral herbs and barks.

A PERFECT CURE FOR

COUGHS AND COLDS

...Bronchitis, Sore Throat, ... BRONCHIAL and ... coughs which ... promptly to this ...

...AND 50c. PER BOTTLE.

I CURE FITS!

Valuable treatise and bottle of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. H. G. ROOT, M.C., 186 West Adelaide Street, Toronto, Ont.

The some one was Senley Tyers.

He stopped in front of them, a smile on his sallow face, an inscrutable look in his dark eyes.

"Good-evening, Lady Florence," he said. "They are talking of a dance. I am not a dancing man, as you know, but I am willing to immolate myself on the altar of Terpischore if I can persuade you to accompany me."

At his presence, under the spell of his cynical voice, Lady Florence seemed to return to her old, haughty, impassive manner.

"I am engaged," she said, with lowered lids.

Vane seemed to wake from a dream.

"Oh, give him a dance!" he said, with a touch of his old brightness.

She rose at once, obedient, and let Senley Tyers take her arm.

He led her into the centre of the room.

"Am I to congratulate Mr. Tempest, Lady Florence?" he said.

She looked at him before replying. His face was pale and sallow as usual, but there was a singular mocking light in his eyes. She made no reply.

"Am I to congratulate him?" he repeated, "and myself? You have not forgotten our little wager, surely, Lady Florence?"

Something in his voice, his face, made her shudder.

"Mr. Tempest has asked me to be his wife," she said in a low voice.

He stopped in the middle of the bar of the waltz, and looked at her with a curious expression on his face.

"And you have consented. I congratulate him, and wish you every happiness, Lady Florence. I also congratulate myself."

She stood with closely shut lips and haughty gaze on a level with his face.

"You forget? I am a poor man, Lady Florence, to whom a thousand pounds means something worth having. And so you are engaged."

"Yes," she said, as if forced.

He smiled—a smile of conventional congratulation.

over her life; but it was only conjecture, for Nora in telling him her past had carefully concealed her knowledge of Vane Tempest and the "Ernest Mortimer" episode, and Mr. Lester respected her reticence. That she must have suffered in some way, and suffered keenly, he knew; and, knowing that, he had permitted her to continue the quiet life with them which he saw had been so beneficial to her. But he felt that there was some truth in Milly's plaint, and he said:

"I'm afraid you're right, my dear, and that Nora will have to take up the burden which Providence has laid upon her. The question is: what shape shall the burden take. Do you hanker after a town house at once, or would you like to inspect your estate at Garth's Hollow? Perhaps you ought to go down there. It is certain that they expect you, and will be glad to see you."

Nora stifled a sigh. She had no great desire to see Vale Hall and its splendor. Vale Hall was near the Witches' Caldron, with all its bitter-sweet memories of Vane Tempest and the first moments of her unconscious love for him.

"I will go if I ought to do so," she said, quietly. "That is, we will go, of course."

"Bravo!" exclaimed Milly. "Of course we will go. You didn't suppose we should let you face the ordeal alone? Besides, you would mope yourself to death in that vast place all alone. You want a light, cheerful, active young person like me with you, my dear."

Nora laughed and looked at Mr. Lester, who waited her decision.

"Very well," he said, with a nod, "I will arrange it. We will go down there next Monday. I will write them to expect us, and—"

"And, meanwhile," filled in Milly, "we will go and buy something to go in, because, as for me, I haven't a rag to my back. I suppose they will be quite ready for us, papa? How curious they describable air of self-respect and dignity which the "old retainer" acquires, separated herself from the rest, and advanced with a courtesy.

"We are very glad to see you, miss," she said, "and we hope that you will be happy in your new home. We wish you every happiness, miss, and offer you our duty."

Nora held out her hand and stilled her trembling lips.

"Thank you! Thank you!" she said. "You are all very kind to welcome me in this way, and—and I am very grateful."

Perhaps they had expected more pride and self-possession in the newly made mistress of Vale Hall, perhaps they had expected a kind of Lady Florence. Anyway, her manner of taking their reception, the beauty of her face, and the sweetness of her voice and eyes went home to them.

A cheer rose, and the old dame's eyes filled with tears.

"God bless you, miss," she faltered, "and give you happiness in your new home."

Then her manner changed, and she was once more the person in authority as she turned to a modest-looking maid—dressed in black like the rest—and said:

"Conduct Miss Vale to her room, Jane, go with Mr. and Miss Lester."

"Come with me, Milly. Miss Lester sleeps in a room next to mine, please," said Nora; and the two girls were escorted up the broad stairs to the best bedrooms.

"Dinner will be served in an hour, miss," said the butler, who had also received the honor of Nora's hand-shake.

"Dinner! as if either of us wanted dinner!" exclaimed Milly, when they were alone. "Oh, Nora, isn't it like a page out of the 'Arabian Nights?' Papa talked as if this were quite an out-of-the-world place, but it might be one of the palaces in Kensington, only that everything here is so beautifully—what's the word?—'dignified' and mellow. And that dear old lady in the black merino. Did you see the tears in her eyes? Oh, Nora, how happy you must be—ought to be!"

She corrected herself gently, and with a wistful look in Nora's eyes, which still wore their sad expression, though she smiled as she bent over the couch beside the fire and kissed Milly's face. She was very quiet, and it was still Milly who talked, while their maid dressed them for dinner.

The dining-room, with its old oak and pictures, its big table with the Vale plate, increased Milly's rapturous satisfaction.

Neither of the girls eat much of a dinner, but Mr. Lester, who had arrived at the philosophic stage, did not

Robert Light

Manufacturer and Dealer in

Rough and Dressed Lumber

Screen Doors,
Mouldings,
Bee Hives,
Stairs, Blinds,
Turned Work,
Wood Drapery,
Sash,

and Interior Finish for Buildings.

NAPANEE . . ONT

Break Up a Cold in Time
BY USING
PYNY-PECTORAL
The Quick Cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, HOARSENESS, etc.

MRS. JOSEPH NORWICK, of 65 Sorauren Ave., Toronto, writes: "Pyny-Pectoral has never failed to cure my children of croup after a few doses. It cured myself of a long-standing cough after several other remedies had failed. It has also proved an excellent cough cure for my family. I prefer it to any other medicine for coughs, croup or hoarseness."

H. O. BARBOUR, of Little Rocher, N.B., writes: "As a cure for coughs Pyny-Pectoral is the best selling medicine I have; my customers will have no other."

Large Bottle, 25 Cts.

DAVIDS & LAWRENCE CO., LTD. Proprietors, MONTREAL

M. STORMS,
MOSCOW

has been over fifty years in the undertaking business in the county, and can turn out work equal to any in the Dominion.

A large stock of Coffins, Caskets, Robes, Crape Gloves and Badges, constantly on hand, and sold at reasonable prices.

Embalming a Specialty. Every facility on hand for doing the work.

25 per cent cheaper than any in the trade. Give me a call at Moscow.

M. STORMS, Prop

Carscallen & Bro.,
Low Priced, No Combination
Undertaking Establishment.

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of all the latest designs to be found in which we are prepared to sell 25 per cent. cheaper than any house in the county. We use the best deodorizer, thus obviating all unpleasant odors. Embalming a Specialty. Having purchased one of the Handsomest Hearses at the Toronto exhibition we are prepared to attend personally funerals in the most satisfactory manner. The public will do well to call and examine our stock, and be convinced that ours is the place to buy.

COFFINS, CASKETS, ROBES, Etc.

We have also added a full line of the newest things in Wall Paper, Ceiling Decorations, Window Shades and Picture Railing, Paints and Oils Paint Mixed. Persons wanting anything in this line will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere. Remember the place, Centre-street one block south of Main.

CARSCALLEN & BRO.

phet I am, especially when I take care that my prophecy shall come true!"

She stopped and looked at him haughtily, yet half fearfully, under her lowered lids.

"I—do not understand," she said, coldly. "What have you done to—to—"

"To bring about this delightfully suitable love-match?" he said, with a cynical curl of his lip, a mocking light in his eyes. "Oh! I am too modest a man to speak of my own achievements, but perhaps you many know some day. Then you will understand me better than you do now, Lady Florence."

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Nora Trevanion was no longer Nora Trevanion, but Nora Vale; no longer poor and, indeed, but for the remnant of the twenty-five pounds, penniless, but a millionairess! As Milly declared, at least twenty times a day, it was more like a fairy tale than serious, solid truth.

For several days Mr. Lester and the two girls discussed Nora's future or, rather, Milly discoursed on it while her father and Nora listened, the one with a grave smile of amusement, the other with a smile that was rather sad.

"Of course," said Milly, from her place on the couch where she lay regarding Nora's beautiful face with profound satisfaction and unalloyed admiration and affection, "if you feel confused and bewildered, you can't help it. I can't myself. But it will never do to let that feeling get the better of us. What I can't help seeing is that we are losing time."

"Losing time?" repeated Nora, in the quiet voice which had become habitual with her now, and was rarely exhanged for the old, quick, resolute tones.

"Yes," said Milly, earnestly. "It seems dreadful to me that you should have all this money, that you should be quite one of the richest young persons in England, and—and be sitting here doing nothing while—"

"While she might be spending it," put in Mr. Lester, who was supposed to be engaged with his newspaper.

Milly laughed.

"Now, no sarcasm, papa. This is a serious business, sir. Don't you see," piteously, "that she doesn't seem to care about her good fortune in the very least? Why, she might just as well be a poor, helpless cripple like me, and as incapable of enjoying herself! And she's so different, and so—so fitted for riches and honor—"

"And glory and conquest," put in Mr. Lester, with his grave smile. "What do you want her to do, may I ask, my dear Milly?"

Milly pouted.

"Oh, if you are going to crush me with cheap cynicism!—What do I want her to do? Why, I want to see her in her proper sphere. I want to see her take the war-path. How can you sit there and see her sitting there, as if she were a mere nobody like myself. Oh! I know she's in mourning," she went on, seeing him glance at Nora's plain black dress. "But though Nora has the tenderest heart in the world, and, also, would rather die than shock the proprieties"—Nora started slightly and bent her head—"still there would be no harm in her doing something. Why don't you take her out and buy a big house for her, and—and—oh! help her to spend some of this heap of money and take her proper place in society—or 'sassiety,' as I think it is pronounced now?"

Both Nora and Mr. Lester laughed.

"Are you so eager to get all these things, and make a hole—it will only be a small one—in your vast riches, Nora?" he asked.

Nora shook her head.

"Oh, of course she isn't; she is just a mouse," said Milly. "She would be quite content to sit there poring over a book—she seems to know a great deal more than any of us now—as if she were grinding for a pupil-teacher exam.; She'd be quite content to remain where she is for—for years, perhaps forever. But it's her duty—do you hear, sir? her duty to wake up, and if she doesn't, it's our duty to wake her."

Mr. Lester leaned back and looked thoughfully at the beautiful face, with the sad, meditative eyes. He guessed that there was something in the history of the period between her flight from Trelorne and his meeting with her at Killin, which had cast a dark shadow landlady—landlady doesn't sound right, somehow—and mistress."

"Oh, yes; they will be quite ready, and no doubt, are curious enough. I have been in constant communication with the steward and agent, and Nora may be assured that her property is not being neglected."

For the next few days Milly caused Nora and herself to be driven from shop to shop, and if Nora had not laughingly protested, would have purchased an outfit varied and costly enough to satisfy a Russian Princess. And on the Monday they started for Vale Hall.

Nora could not but feel the contrast between the manner of her flight from Cornwall and her return to it. She had journeyed thence on foot, disguised in the rough garb of a fisher lad; she was returning in a saloon carriage, especially ordered, surrounded by every luxury possible to the occasion, and attired, if not "in silks and satins," in cloths of costly material made by one of London's first and most expensive tists.

All the way down Milly talked in a vein of anticipatory excitement, and any one seeing the two girls would have concluded that it was the fragile-looking cripple who had come into a fortune, and was reveling in all its possibilities, instead of the quiet and rather silent Nora.

They reached Trelorne in the evening, and a carriage and pair was waiting to take them on. It was dark, but a small group of sailors and fishermen was gathered to look at them; and Milly leaned forward and looked at them eagerly, but Nora, after a single glance, sunk back again. In that glance she saw the face of the man who had wished her "good-night" on the beach the evening she had wrecked her boat, and the sight of his face recalled the past too painfully for her to want to recognize others.

The horses—they were her own, from the Hall stables—sped along through the night, and after what seemed to Milly, in her impatience, a never-ending drive, they reached the Hall.

Nora looked out and saw the vast pile, in the garish light of a dozen torches, and a strange sensation ran through her. Surely it was all a dream! Not even when a burst of cheering rose form the rough farm laborers and miners, and cries of "Welcome! welcome home, Miss Vale!" rose on the wild night, did she realize fully realize, that it was herself they were welcoming, and that this huge building was her "home." The house, as Milly whispered, was like a light-house, and it was evident that the servants had done their best and succeeded in making the great place seem bright and cheerful.

A huge fire burned in the stone fireplace which Vane had so much admired, the antique gilt candelabra which hung from the centre of the vaulted roof was filled with lighted candles; blazing fires were seen through the open doors of the room; the servants—and there seemed an army of them—were drawn up in lines in the hall, and on every face as Nora, followed by Milly on her father's arm, walked down the human lane, was an expression of genuine interest and welcome.

Only an outline of their young mistress's story was known to them, but her beautiful face, with its vague sadness, the melancholy in the lovely eyes, which, not unnaturally, were dimed with sudden tears, went straight to their simple hearts.

Milly, half carried by her father, caught at Nora's dress.

"Oh! wait—wait a moment, dear!" she pleaded. "Isn't it lovely—simply lovely? I've tried to picture an old place like this—a really old, ancestral house—but I never imagined anything quite so perfect as this Hall. And how nice they look!" she went on, excitedly, but in a lower voice. "And they all seem so pleased to see you! Aren't you going to—do you think you could manage to say just one word to them? Look! here is the housekeeper, I suppose."

An old dame in black merino, with a snow-white cap of lace, and the in-

"You have a first-rate cook as well as a magnificent house, Nora," he said, "and a cellar that would want a great deal of beating; but I'm afraid that portion of your worldly goods won't receive proper appreciation from you. You will excuse my saying that such claret and port as these are thrown away upon young ladies, who generally prefer the awful concoction known as ginger wine to the rare vintages of Portugal or France."

They found the great drawing-room lighted up as if for a grand party, and it is not to be wondered at if Nora, looking round the stately room, with its painted ceiling and hangings of old brocade, was too tired to realize that all this splendor belonged to her. The next day was wet, and the two girls made a tour of the vast place under the guidance of the housekeeper, a couple of footmen at times carrying Milly in a portable wicker-chair which Nora had ordered to be brought with them from [illegible]. At other times she limped along leaning on Nora's strong arm, [illegible] her astonishment and [illegible] everything. At one door the old lady paused with her hand on the handle.

"I don't know whether you'd care to go in here, miss," she said. "It's an old lumber-room and dreadfully dusty. No one ever went in here excepting the master—I mean Mr. Vale."

"Oh, do let us go in," said Milly, pressing Nora's arm; and the housekeeper, at an assenting glance from Nora, unlocked the door, while one of the footmen was sent for a light. When the lamp shed its beams upon the scene of confusion—the overturned tables and broken, piled-up chairs, the faded drapery and iron-clamped boxes—the two girls looked round with awed curiosity.

"What's behind that curtain, I wonder?" said Milly, in a whisper.

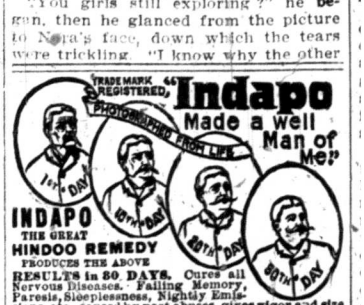
The footman drew it aside, and at the sight of the portrait of the beautiful woman whom Reuben Vale had loved so passionately and suspected so unjustly a low cry rose from Nora's lips, and her face grew paler than before. Milly clasped her hands tightly.

"Nora! it's—it's—"

"Yes, Miss Lester, it's Miss Vale's mother," said the old housekeeper, solemnly. "It was carried here the day—" She stopped in confusion.

Mr. Lester came into the room at the moment.

"You girls still exploring?" he began, then he glanced from the picture to Nora's face, down which the tears were trickling. "I know why the other



INDAPO
THE GREAT
HINDOO REMEDY
PRODUCES THE ABOVE
RESULTS in 30 DAYS. Cures all Nervous Diseases. Failing Memory, Paresis, Sleeplessness, Nightly Emissions, etc., caused by past abuses, gives vigor and size to shrunken organs, and quickly but surely restores Lost Manhood in old or young. Easily carried in vest pocket. Price $1.00 a package. Six for $5.00 with a written guarantee to cure or money refunded. Don't buy an imitation, but insist on having INDAPO, if your druggist has not got it, we will send it prepaid. Oriental Medical Co., Prop's., Chicago, Ill., or our agents. SOLD by W. S. Detlor, Medical Hall, NAPANEE, ONT., and leading druggists elsewhere.

THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE!
A Happy, Fruitful
MARRIAGE!

EVERY MAN who would KNOW the GRAND TRUTHS; the Plain Facts; the Old Secrets and the New Discoveries of Medical Science as applied to Married Life, should write for our wonderful little book, called "PERFECT MANHOOD." To any earnest man we will mail one copy Entirely Free, in plain sealed cover. "A refuge from the quacks." Address

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

DR. CHASE'S
CURES
ITCHING PILES, ECZEMA,
SALT RHEUM
OINTMENT

H. J. Lisle, representing Ganong Bros., St. Stephen, N.B., says: "Chase's Ointment cured me of a very stubborn case of Itching Eczema. Tried everything advertised, several physicians' prescriptions without permanent relief. Know of several cases of Itching Piles it has cured."

DR. CHASE'S
OINTMENT

I suffered with piles for years. Chase's Ointment completely cured me. Mrs. Jno. Gerrie, Fergus.

DR. CHASE'S
OINTMENT

BRADFORD, JULY 4, 1894.—I consider Dr. Chase's ointment a God-send to anyone suffering from piles, itching scrotum or any itching skin disease. Its soothing effects are felt from the first application.—JNO. KEGGAN.

DR. CHASE'S
Edmanson, Bates & Co.
PRICE 60c.
45 Lombard St., Toronto
OINTMENT

side gave in so quickly and quietly," he said under his breath. "I sent him your portrait, my dear, and they had only to compare it with this to see how strong our case was. Don't cry, my dear, and—and I think I would come away now."

"It—it must not be left there," said Nora, almost inaudibly. "I should like—" She could get no further; but he understood her.

"Go now, both of you," he said. "I will give instructions for its removal to a worthier place."

"It's the image of our young mistress," said the housekeeper. "I saw the likeness the moment she entered the hall last night; and now you are here, sir, perhaps you would look round; there might be something else Miss Vale would like taken out."

He nodded and looked round thoughtfully, then he examined the old boxes and tried his keys in the locks.

Half an hour afterward he appeared in the drawing-room, where the two girls were sitting, with a cedar case in his hands, and, with a grave smile, laid it before Nora.

"I have been exploring, too, my dear Nora," he said. "Can you guess what it is I have got here?"

Nora shook her head. Her eyes were still moist. The spirit of the mother whom she had never known seemed hovering over her.

He lifted the lid of the box and tilted it toward them. Milly uttered an exclamation of amazed delight, and even Nora looked startled.

There, in a heap, as Reuben Vale had left them the day he showed them to Vane, were her dead mother's gems.

Nora looked at them through a mist. Priceless as they were, these diamonds and rubies and pearls, she would have given them all, together with Vale Hall and everything she possessed, for one touch of her mother's hand, one kiss from her lips.

"Take them away for to-day, papa," Milly whispered. "They are wonderful—wonderful—and some other time—Let us go up to our rooms, Nora, dear."

When they came down to dinner, the portrait which had been hidden so long behind its curtain amid the dust and lumber smiled down upon them from over the huge fire-place, and beside that of Reuben Vale, and Nora never afterward passed through the hall without pausing and looking up with loving sadness at the beautiful face whose eyes seemed to pour down a benediction upon her.

On the days the rain held up, the two girls drove out, and gradually visited the whole estate.

They drove in a dainty but serviceable phaeton, drawn by a pair of pretty but quiet ponies, and before very long the tenants and the miners grew to look out for and welcome the appearance of the "young mistress" and her friend.

It was generally known that Nora had once lived not far from the mansion which she now owned, and the people pointed with the vague copied invitations to dinners, she made a great sensation among the west-country gentry, and set many a young man's heart aching; but most of all these mingled fear with admiration; the expression of quiet reserve, mixed with a vague sadness, in her grey eyes, was so unlike anything they had ever seen—"except on the stage," they said—that they felt thrown back upon themselves, as it were. But, if Nora was reserved with her equals and those in high places, the poor soon learned that her heart was tender enough toward them and their sorrows, and no one ever came to her for pity or for aid and went away uncomforted or empty-handed. Indeed, Mr. Lester banteringly scolded her on the indiscriminate manner in which she dispensed her charity.

"You give a soveriegn where five shillings would be quite sufficient, my dear Nora," he said; "and I warn you that Vale Hall is getting to be regarded as a revival of the old monastic system of charity. In the old days, you know, the poor flocked to the monasteries and convents whenever they were hungry or hard up, and were fed and clothed with no questions asked, which was all very well in those benighted day—"

"But not in those enlightened ones, when the poor must bring a certificate of good behavior with them before we throw them the crust which may save them from starvation," she said, with a flash of her eyes. "Please let me go upon the old system, Mr. Lester. We will follow the good monks and nuns and ask no questions, won't we, Milly?"

Mr. Lester laughed.

"All right," he said. "It's a good thing that you are not only rich, but very rich. Only, when you've given away all your money, don't forget that I shall remark: 'I told you so,'" And Nora half smiled and sighed.

"What is the use of all the money if I can't try and make some of the miserable ones happy, even if it is only for a little time?"

"While they are getting drunk on it," suggested Mr. Lester.

She smiled again, and shrugged her shoulders.

"Do they? Some of them, I dare say. But would you and I be any better than they are if we were in their places?"

"No. I should be worse," he said, with a laugh. "Oh! I am not going to argue with you, my dear Nora. It's so monotonous, for you always win, or think you do."

It was a peaceful life she led, but, notwithstanding Milly's companionship, a solitary one; she was always communing with the past, on which her lips were closed; always thinking of Vane Tempest; of the life in London; of the days spent so happily by his side, of the cottage in Scotland, and the scene which had changed her, as by the wave of a magician's wand, from an ignorant girl to a sorrow-stricken woman.

The winter passed, and the spring stole over the land. It makes itself seen and felt very early in this region; and one day, late in February, Nora pulled up the black mare on the edge of the moor and looked round her with a sense of wonder breaking in upon her melancholy meditations on the past. A warm breath came across the ocean, as if it were laden with spices from the south. The grass beneath her horse's hoofs was a tender green, the primroses peeped shyly from the sheltered places, the young lambs on a distant hill bleated in harmony with the song of the lark and the thrush just trying his voice. She let the reins lie loose and leaned forward, her lips apart, as if she were drinking in the fragrant breath of spring. The boom, boom of the sea, breaking on the rocks in the distance, smote upon her ear with a muffled sound, and there seemed a note of invitation in its voice. She had not yet, since her return, visited the beach below the hut, though it rose before her in her dreams night after night. She had avoided the actual spot, for she knew that the sight of it would only add a keener pang to her memories.

But this morning, and for the first time, a desire to see the wild place in which her childhood had been passed stole over her, and at last became irresistible; for, though she turned the horse toward home, she stopped again, and after a moment or two of rebellion against the impulse that possessed her, rode toward the Caldron.

The latter part of the way the road

VALUE OF COCHINS.

They Excel as Flesh Producers, Mature Early and Are Fair Winter layers.

Among the most satisfactory fowls for the producer to place on the market at Thanksgiving time are the meaty Cochins. The first fowls of this breed carried from China to Europe created intense excitement among poultryman at the time and astonishing prices were realized for the new breed, as high as $525 being paid in several instances for a single cock. But the Cochins of those days were different looking fowls from the specimens shown in our illustration. They were tall, leggy and awkward. In course of time the Cochins were bred up to a high standard of excellence until they are now plump and compact in form, with neat, small heads, short necks, broad, full breasts, short legs, with thighs abundantly furnished with fluff and shanks feathered to the toes. Neither sex is very largely endowed in the way of a tail, the limited appendage of the hen being nearly covered by saddle feathers, while the short sickles of the cock are quite inconspicuous. They are very hardy, their thick, fluffy coat protecting them from almost any ordinary degree of cold; are quiet and tame, mature early and are fair winter layers.—Farm and Home.

Then He Went Home.

Willie Neverleave (rapturously)—I saw the sweetest little poem in this morning's paper!

Miss Celia Doome (icily)—In this morning's paper, Mr. Neverleave? I didn't hear the bell ring.

A HEROINE IN BLOOMERS.

The New Woman's Apparel Was the Means of Saving a Drowning Man.

Dorothy Chestic, the actress, seems to be the type of the vigorous new woman of the future. She it was who forced the New York boards of park and police commissioners to solemnly resolve that women had the right to ride astride the horse's back in public. Two men the other day were driving when they met Miss Chestic. Their dog jumped out of the wagon and ran after her, barking and snapping savagely. Drawing a glittering revolver from the rear of her bloomers, she fired two shots at the dog. The second one killed him.

But a short time before this the bloomers had figured in a sensational incident at New Haven. On Saturday night the big steamboat Richard Peck was entering the harbor, when the cry of "Man overboard" startled everybody. All was confusion, but Dorothy Chestic retained her presence of mind. Dropping her skirts with a quick movement of her hand, she stood revealed for a second in bloomers, and then plunged into the water. In a few minutes she had her man on board. The New Haven papers all reported the occurrence at the time. When Miss Chestic was questioned about it she modestly said:

THE HEROINE'S BLOOMERS, WITH REVOLVER IN SIGHT.

"Oh, you must thank the bloomers for saving that man. Without them I should have been helpless."

The bloomers were a neat, light, small pair of dark blue serge material. They were doubtless little more hindrance in the water than a bathing suit. —New York World.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

outline of her story, came to regard her as a kind of heroine.

"They never look at you without seeing a halo of romance about your head, dear," Milly remarked.

At first, with the reserve characteristic of the western people, they were rather standoffish with her, as if they were on their guard and waiting to see what sort of a person the new mistress was likely to prove; but before very long they thawed under Nora's smile and the gentle regard of the sad eyes, and not only the women and children, who were the first to be vanquished, but the rough men themselves, were eager to get a word and a smile from "our young lady." They were quick, too, to recognize that beneath the extreme quietude of her manner there dwelt a spirit which was as full of fire as their own.

"She's no mouse, our young mistress," said one old miner, when the gang were discussing her. She had just driven past the mouth of the mine, and had pulled up to exchange a word with them as they sat smoking their after-dinner pipes. "She's no mouse, for all her soft and speery ways. There's a look in her eyes that's like old Reuben Vale's. I wouldn't like to anger her; you'd see them brows of hers come down and them eyes of hers flash like the old man's used. Some'at has happened to the lass to cast her down, but the spirit's there, boys, though it may be sleepin', as you may say. And she's strong, too—just like the old man. Did you notice how she lifted Willie's child just now? He went up in her arms and over her head as if he'd been a bag of feathers; and there's more puddin' than feathers in the young 'un."

"Ay, ay!" assented one of the men. "I remember her skimming from rock to rock, down there on the beach below the Caldron, like a young goat, as lissom and as strong. Lawks alive! I little thought when I seen her there, with her hair all a-flyin' an dthe rain drop-pin' off her, that she'd come to reign at the Hall. It's a strange world, my sonnies. I rub my eyes sometimes when I looks at her, and wonders whether she really was the girl as used to live up there and help us run a cargo. Hah!" he drew a long breath. "It's a strange world, indeed, my sonnies, and full of contrariness. Little did old Reuben think that his own darter was livin' up in the cliffs there like a young eaglet."

"I wonder whether she remembers it?" said the first man, ruminatingly.

Did she remember the Witches Caldron and the old days? She never spoke of them, never alluded to the past in any way, and soon people began to forget the story of the wild girl of the smuggler's hut, and almost to doubt if Miss Vale and she were one and the same person.

After awhile the county families and neighbors—if a person who lives at least six miles off can be called a neighbor—came to visit her; came with not unnatural curiosity, and went away with surprise and amazement. They expected to see a shy, shrinking, underbred girl, embarrassed by the splendor of her new surroundings, and haunted by an ignoble past. They found, instead, a perfectly self-possessed young lady with a lovely face and a graceful form, and that indescribable air of reserve and unconscious dignity which quite matched, if it did not surpass, the visitor's own.

In youth one learns quickly, and, in truth, Nora had rapidly become accustomed to the grandeur of Vale Hall, and the fact that she was a millionairess. She had inherited Reuben Vale's self-reliance and pride as well as his money, as the shrewd old miner had observed.

The visitors went away much struck by her beauty and grace and self-possession, and would have been very friendly—some of them were quite prepared to gush—but they found it difficult "to get on with" the young mistress of Vale Hall. It was evident that she did not want to be made much of or gushed over, and that she preferred to live quietly with her bosom friend, Miss Lester, and was quite content to find her amusement in driving about the country with the little cripple, or riding—very often unattended—the black mare, which she sat with the ease and grace acquired by her in the old days, when she caught and rode, bare-backed, the ponies of the moor.

On the two or three occasions she ac-was not too safe, but Nora was absolutely fearless in the saddle, and she guided the mare up and down the narrow path on the edge of the rocks without a tremor.

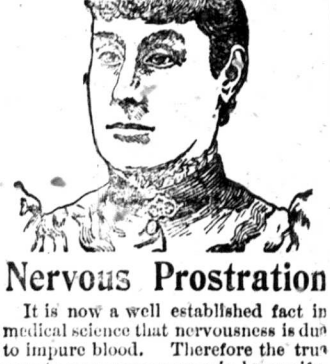
She came to the bridge at last, and stopped and looked down into the gorge below it. It seemed to her that it was only yesterday that she had seen Vane Tempest through the mist of rain and fog and heard his voice—the voice whose echoes still made sad music in her heart. She turned away with a heavy sigh and tremulous lips, dismounted, and tying the mare to a tree, picked her away along the path upon which she had led Vane blindfolded that never-to-be-forgotten night.

Her heart beat quickly as she came to the hut, then sank sadly as she looked at what remained of it. It was empty and partly in ruins; the rain and the wind had swept in through the open door; a gull, uttering scared shrieks, fled out, its wings almost beating against her face. The secret place in the rocks, which smugglers of a couple of generations ago had wrought so skilfully, was broken open and a secret no longer. It was difficult to realize that there had ever been a girl called Nora Trevanion who had called that hovel "home"—more difficult still to realize that she who stood there, clad in one of Redfern's habits, the mistress of Vale Hall and a million of money, was the same girl who ran about the rocks below with bare feet and tattered frock. Mistress of Vale Hall and a million of money! Why, she would gladly give it all in exchange for that day when Vane came down the rocks calling to her to take him sailing with her.

She went down to the beach, and sinking on to a rock, leaned her head upon her hands and gave herself up to the visions of those few short days and their unconscious joys, and presently the tears began to roll down her cheeks. She stretched out her hands as she had stretched them out to the door of the room in the cottage in which he sat the night she fled.

"Oh, my love! my love!" broke from her trembling lips. "If I could only forget—forget!"

Brocaded silks in dark colors are made up into afternoon gowns for street wear.



Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 56 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Only

True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye today. It is not what we say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla. 25c.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.

Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.

Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bul

Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."

See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE PERSON

that wants a good match and that knows a thing or two will remember that this brand is synonomous with everything desirable in fire-producing lucifers.

E. B. EDDY'S MATCHES.

Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company

GENERAL PASSENGER TIME TABLE,

Eastern Standard Time. No. 13. Taking effect Dec. 2nd, 1895

Tweed and Tamworth to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2 A.M	No.4 P.M.	No.6 P.M.
Lve	Tweed	0	6 50	....	3 00
	Stoco	3	6	....	3 10
	Larkins	7	7 15	....	3 25
	Marlbank	13	7 2	....	3 47
	Erinsville	17	7 40	....	3 55
	Tamworth	20	7 50	2 00	4 10
	Wilson*	24	....	....	....
	Enterprise	26	8 10	2 20	4 30
	Mudlake Bridge*	28	....	....	....
	Moscow	31	8 22	2 35	4 43
	Galbraith*...	33	....	....	....
Arr	Yarker	35	8 35	....	4 55
Lve	Yarker	35	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	39	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills	40	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	41	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	43	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	49	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee	49	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	54	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	58	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Tamworth and Tweed.

	Stations.	Miles	No.1. A.M.	No.3. P.M.	No.5 P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	6 50	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 10	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 25	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 45	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 00	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 10	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 33	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 43	....	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	9 00	12 45	5 15
	Galbraith*...	25	....	....	....
	Moscow	27	9 15	1 00	5 27
	Mudlake Bridge*	30	....	....	....
	Enterprise	32	9 30	1 15	5 40
	Wilson*	34	....	....	....
	Tamworth	38	9 50	1 35	5 58
	Erinsville	41	10 00	....	6 10
	Marlbank	45	10 15	....	6 23
	Larkins	51	10 30	....	6 40
	Stoco	55	10 50	....	6 50
Arr	Tweed	58	11 00	....	7 05

Kingston and Sydenham to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2. A. M.	No.4. P.M.	No.6. P.M.
Lve	Kingston	0	....	....	3 30
	G. T. R. Junction	2	....	....	3 40
	Glenvale*	10	....	....	4 00
	Murvale*		....	....	4 15
Arr	Harrowsmith	19	....	....	4 30
Lve	Sydenham	23	8 00	....	....
	Harrowsmith	19	8 20	....	4 30
	Frontenac*	22	8 32	....	4 40
Arr	Yarker	26	8 40	....	4 50
Lve	Yarker	26	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	30	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	31	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	32	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	34	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	40	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee, West End	40	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	45	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	49	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Sydenham and Kingston.

	Stations.	Miles.	No.1 A.M.	No.3, P.M.	No.5 P.M
Lve	Deseronto	0	6 50	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 10	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 25	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 45	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 00	12 15	4 35
	Newburg	17	8 10	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 15	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 20	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 33	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 20
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 29
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 40
	Sydenham	34	....	....	5 55
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Murvale*	35	9 20	....	....
	Glenvale*	39	9 30	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 55	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

R. C. CARTER, Asst. Gen. Manager — G. A. BROWNE, Gen. Pass. Agent — H. B. SHERWOOD, Superintendent.

The Napanee Express

$1.

The Weekly Globe.

BEST CLUBBING OFFER EVER MADE.

By paying one dollar in advance these two popular and reliable papers will be sent post free to the subscriber's address. Call at the "Express Office" and secure this bargain.

Your Resolutions For 1896

Should include the doing of your trading at this store. It's the best store in Napanee. It's the cheapest store in Napanee. It's the most reliable store in Napanee. You will save heaps of money on your year's purchases.

New Arrivals for 1896.

VELVETEENS.

Twenty-five pieces of new Sunbeam Velveteen in every conceivable shade, extra wide, and cannot be bought in the same quality elsewhere for less than 65c. Our price 48c. Don't buy Velveteen this year without coming to this store.

COTTONADES.

Twenty pieces of new Cottonades, bought for the spring trade, just in. These goods are very extra value. Prices are 12c. 15c. 18c. 20c. 21c. 25c. The range is very complete. Try us this year of 1896 for Cottonades and you will never go any place else.

BLANKETS.

It has been very difficult during the past season for us to supply the demand for blankets. The people soon distinguish values, and ours have been A 1. Another lot of Grey Blankets just in to sell at $1.87 per pair. Buy your blankets this year from us.

TWEEDS.

And still our great Tweed sale goes merrily along. We have the greatest bargains in Tweeds that have ever been offered in Napanee. Don't miss this opportunity. You will never see such bargains in Tweeds again. Buy your Tweeds from us during the year 1896.

GREAT REDUCTIONS.

We are reducing all lines of winter goods to clearing prices. We haven't space to tell you about them. Every day will bring its own bargains. Our customers will find new surprises on each successive visit to our store. It will pay you to keep track of what we are doing, and of what bargains we are offering. Don't let your neighbour secure all the plums.

The Robinson Co'y.

COAL!

Vote for Alexander.

The Collegiate Institute opens on Mon-

THE REEVESHIP.

Mr. Editor—The unprecedented course taken by his worship, Mayor Stevens, in doing the bidding of his P.P.A. compatriots, by stepping out of the place accorded him for the past two years, and entering a contest for a subordinate position in the town council, against one who has always given him his cordial support, even against his judgment, calls for a few words. I had decided to withdraw from the contest and let king Charles ride alone, but I did not know of the decision of the mayor to stand for the reeveship until too late to have my name taken from the nomination paper. My name will accordingly appear on the ballots and if I should have the majority of X's I will not fail in my duty to my friends and fellow-townsmen.

I am, yours faithfully,
THOS. SYMINGTON.

Wanted at Once.

Servant girl. Apply to Mrs. John S. Ham, Piety Hill. 5ap.

Empey Hill—Read.

Grand Annual Tea, splendid addresses, good music, Wednesday, Jan. 22nd, 7.30 p.m. Get ready and go.

Eyes. Who's Eyes?

Your eyes, if they pain, ache or have a tired feeling, they are only giving nature's call for assistance, but do not experiment with them yourself. Go directly to Smith's optician, who will test your eyes free of charge and advise you regarding them. Smith's have a tremendous stock of optical goods at every price. Their axis cut perfected pebble spectacles are the best in the world. As the long evenings are coming on why not enjoy solid comfort with your eyes. Bring your children if they complain of their eyes, as theirs are most precious.

Foolish Prejudices.

How does it happen that so many ladies are so very careful about dresses and bonnets, and neglect the head-dress? It is because they are prejudice against artificial hair? Ladies of the most exalted positions in the land are wearing Prof. Dorenwend's manufactured goods. They are beautiful and attractive and give a charming appearance to the face. Throw aside your false notions of propriety, and examine the professor's elegant lines of Wigs, Switches, Braids and Wavy Fronts, etc, Raad the advertisement in another column and remember that he will be at the Paisley House on Saturday January 11th. 5b

Honor Roll.

S.S. NO. 11, ERNESTOWN.

C Smith, May Brandon, E Bruner, A Gibson, A Williams, E Vanslyck, A Raymond, M Robinson, V Brandon, H Bruner, M Franklin, P Hillier, M Shea, E Gilchrist, H Sweet, A Franklin, L Sweet.

M Smith, W Bell, W Wood, E Garrison, G Fralick, D Garrison, P Bell, A White, H Sweet, C Smith, W Shea, F Kent, J Henderson, J Franklin, C Sharpe, W White.

4th and 5th classes—A Gibson, M Brandon, E Bruner, A Raymond, J Henderson, D Garrison, M Smith, W White, G Fralick, E Vanslyck, M Robinson, A White, E Garrison. B. POLLARD, Teacher.

Be up To Date.

The gentlemen of Napanee and vicinity are, as a rule, right up to date. If they are not, it is because they lack opportunity. When they get the chance they take it, and catch right up with the procession. For that reason, when Prof. Dorenwend arrives in Napanee, they will visit him, and provide themselves with his first-class Wigs and Toupees. The gentlemen who are bald, and from prejudice won't wear coverments, should remember that they are running great risks. Any candid physician will tell them so. The best men in the land wear these scientific coverments for no other reason than protection to the head. These goods are known throughout the land, and need no recommendation. Read the announcement on another page, and bear the date in mind that he will be at the Paisley House on Saturday January 11th. 5b

AROUND TOWN.

The proposed establishment of a canning factory in Napanee has been received with joy by our citizens, and the farmers in this vicinity are unanimous in their expressions that it will prove a boon to them, and hope that no hitch will occur to render the speedy establishment of such an industry a possibility. An industry of this kind will give an impetus to trade that is sadly needed, Napanee is lacking in manufacturing industries and instead of progressing has been retrogressing along these lines during the past 10 or 12 years. There is nothing that we can perceive to hinder the establishment of the proposed canning factory in Napanee. This is a good locality for raising the materials necessary to its

STOVES AT COST.

Range No. 9. Range with tank, $24.00.
Wood Cook, $10. Wood Cook with Tank, $13.00.
T. H. WALLER.

Scranton Coal.

Having purchased the coal business of Thos. Stewart, I am prepared to offer the best quality of this celebrated coal at the lowest prices this quality of coal can be sold at. I have secured my stock in perfect condition and it will be delivered to my customers in the same condition. By buying from me you will be be sure you get Scranton coal as I have no other kinds in stock. Your orders will be thankfully received and promptly executed.
C. E. BARTLETT.

LATEST FROM THE SEAT OF WAR

The following, clipped from the columns of the "New York Eagle," will interest the readers of THE EXPRESS. This is a fine sample of the style of special correspondence that the enterprising American journalist loves to print, and the credulous American public "admires" to read. However, in the present instance the scribe has succeeded in conveying a tolerably fair idea of the attitude of Canadians in the present crisis. By us the strained relations between the two peoples is taken as one huge joke perpetrated for our special amusement and at the expense of our neighbors across the line. It has cost them already a trifle over $300,000,000. We regret that they should have been so lavish these hard times.—We should have been quite as well pleased with a much less expensive entertainment. But perhaps the millions are part of the joke. We don't profess to understand Yankee humor, but believe that, like everything else over there, it has to do with the biggest thing of its kind on earth. Anyhow we enjoy the fun all the same.—ED. EXPRESS.

To the "New York Eagle." (From our special Canadian correspondent. By telegraph over our own wires.) "The excitement over President Cleveland's famous message has not yet subsided. Upon the Canadian borders there is still considerable irritation felt, and very unmistakeably manifested in some places, notwithstanding the more pacific tone of the leading American dailys consequent upon—although we do not like to confess it—the great slump in American securities reported last week I do not expect you will altogether sympathise with the character of these dispatches that candor compels me to forward, but the fairness of the Eagle and its well known policy of placing FACTS before its readers, irrespective of the consequences, leads me to believe that even the most American of your readers will at least weigh seriously what I have to say. Being myself an American of the Americans, and writing on the spot, I feel that I can size up the situation with greater impartiality than is possible to many of my fellow citizens.

"For the last week I have been sojourning in what is known as the Bay of Quinte district, which will likely prove one of the chief battle fields, should war be declared. On all sides I find the patriotic spirit running very high. This is scarcely to be wondered at, in view of the circumstances attending the early settlement of this part of the country. As is well known, the Quinte Patriarchs were all stalwart U. E. Loyalists, who forsook home and civilization in order to show their quixotic (you will say) attachment to monarchical institutions, and their more than British loyalty to British connection. It will not be hard therefore to understand how the descendants of these old time warriors should be so easily stirred by anything that has an echo of the bugle call, especially when the old threadbare antagonism against an hereditary foe has been kept alive by the existence of certain peculiar quasi-military organizations of which I shall speak presently.

"Occupying the most beautiful and fertile tract along the shores of the Bay is the populous Indian Reserves of the Mohawk tribe of friendlies. Under their great chief, Tyendinaga (after which the township is named,) these savages rendered valuable services, fighting shoulder to shoulder with their hardly less sanguinary red-coated allies in the war of 1812. A like spirit still fires the blood of their descendants, and the dusky braves would not hesitate to don war paint and feathers should the Queen Mother give them the least encouragement. I do not like to contemplate the horrors of an indian war, if it is going to be waged within 400 miles of New York.

"At the head of navigation on the bay

COAL!!

The best grades mined in Scranton District. I have about completed my stock of coal for the season and am now prepared to receive and deliver orders with promptness, Coal all new stock. Under cover and in first class shape. Price $4.00 to $5.00 according to size.

Grain Wanted.

I want all kinds of grain for which I will pay the highest market price. I have no man on the market buying. You will find it to your advantage to call at the 'Big Mill' and get prices before selling elsewhere.

J. R. DAFOE.

CARLETON WOODS.
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
1y Roblin, Ont.

JOHN POLLARD,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Express Office. Napanee.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, JAN. 3, 1896.

All local reading notices or notices announcing entertainments at which a fee is charged for admission, will be charged 5c per line for each insertion, if in ordinary type. In black type the price will be 10c per line each insertion.

The most palatable preparation of Cod Liver Oil in the world is Miller's Emulsion, and is now being taken by invalids with astonishing success. Milller's is "the kind that cures" coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at druggists.

Wore Greased Gloves Seven Years.
John Siron, mason, Aultsville, Ont., had Salt Rheum so severe that for seven years he wore greased gloves. He writes: "I used a quarter of a box of Chase's Ointment. It cured me. No trace of Salt Rheum now." Chases Ointment cures every irritant disease of the skin, allays itching instantly, and is a sterling remedy for piles. Avoid imitations. 60c. per box.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

The fire brigade answered a false fire alarm last Friday

Mrs. Peter Bogart has moved to her residence on Piety Hill.

The water in the river has reached the high water mark, and is within a foot of covering the docks.

The death sentence of Shortis, the Valleyfield murderer, has been commuted to imprisonment for life.

The Bell Telephone Co'y has removed to its handsome and commodious new quarters in the McMullen Block.

W. W. Winchester, of Bancroft, was sentenced to two months in gaol for raising an order from $8.96 to $18.96.

Mr T Shewman, of Winnipeg, received a bequest of $55,000 under the will of an aunt who died at Adolphustown.

Vote for Will H. Boyle for councillor for East Ward, will not be able to make a personal canvass. Your vote will be appreciated. WILL H. BOYLE.

Ten prisoners took Xmas dinner in the castle VanLuven. Bill of fare being goose, chicken pie and cake. Eleven took New Years dinner.

The choir of the Western church now numbers thirty voices. Excellent music and hearty singing are special features of every Sunday evening's service in the church.

The Canadian Order of Oddfellows have moved their lodge room from the Mills Block, and occupied their new rooms in the Leonard Block for the first time on Wednesday evening.

Vote for Alex ander as Councillor for East Ward for 1896.

Letters of administration have been granted to Mary Ann Prickett in the Surrogate Court, in the matter of the estate of John Prickett, of Deseronto. The estate is valued at $1850.

During the year 1895 Chief of Police Storms gave lodgings in the police station to 521 tramps. This is almost double the number that was given shelter in 1894, so the popularity of the chief's hostelry is spreading.

At a Hornerites meeting at Ivanhoe a few nights ago, John Prest, a prominent member of the congregation, ejected Richard Clements from the building as he was not kneeling at the prayer service. Clements had Prest summoned for assault, and the muscular christian was fined $2 and costs, which totalled $7.50.

DAFOE & PAUL,

Undertakers

EVERYTHING NEW AND FIRST-CLASS.

It Is Easier

to find Overcoats for yourself or your boy, than to be sure you are getting what you pay for, and that you are paying the right price.

Its a comfort to know there is a store where no such doubts arise.

Overcoats at $2.60 and 3.25.

and your money back if you want it.

Radford & Son

The Great Outfitters.
Next door to Haines & Lockett.

cord its willingness to comply with the very reasonable requests of the promotors of the scheme, and in this they are backed up, we believe, by our citizens.

There is one man who merits the thanks of the people of Napanee and his name is Sir Richard Cartwright. He has done more for the town than any landowner in it that we wot of. It cannot be said that his property here has been a source of much revenue to him, and it has sadly depreciated in value during the past few years, still he has generously donated land for church sites and other purposes. He was in town last Friday and a committee from the town council waited upon him to ascertain what help he could give them towards securing a free site for the proposed canning factory. Sir Richard responded in his usual generous spirit by informing the committee that he had a tract of land up near the railroad track which he would give them for a penny a year, or "pepper corn," rent in perpetuity, so long as a canning factory was operated upon it. This is in direct contrast to the course that would be pursued by the average landowner who would look upon the establishment of such an industry as a good time to raise the rent, or price of the land.

The municipal elections in town promise to be close and exciting. For the reeveship the erstwhile friends Thos. Symington and Chas. Stevens are the contestants. In our opinion Mr. Symington deserves the position. It is the laudable desire of every member of the council to rise by gradation to the higher positions and it is nothing but right that the electors should accord them this recognition as a reward for faithful services. Mayor Stevens has risen from the position of councillor to the mayor's chair and has held this the highest civic position in the gift of the electorate for two consecutive terms, and it would have been a graceful act for him to have accepted one of the other two options and remain unopposed to his former friend and supporter, Mr. Symington. The deputy-reeve did not choose the contest with Mr. Stevens, he rather sought to avoid it. Mr. Symington has rendered good service to the people of Napanee, and in the street department brought order out of chaos. He is one of the ablest men that ever had charge of the street department in Napanee, and the roads bear eloquent testimony to his intelligent supervision.

There were three new men in last year's council whoes course we watched with admiration, and who well deserve a second term at the hands of the people. We refer to Couns. Madole, Miller and Alexander. They have rendered good and efficient services to the town, and without pursuing a niggardly spirit worked for economy all along the lines. Mr. Madole has had considerable experience in municipal affairs prior to 1895, which has stood him in good stead. The experience gained by Messrs. Alexander and Miller during the year now past will be of great value to them if again returned to the council, and will enable them to serve with even greater efficiency throughout 1896. Mr. Alexander's management of the Poor & Sanitary committee of which he was chairman, could not be surpassed. He made it a point to visit the the town's pensioners personally at stated periods at much loss and inconvenience to himself, but with a saving to the town and the result of getting better value for the money expended. Just now a scheme is on foot looking to a more improved system of providing for the deserving poor of the town, which we have reverted to in previous issues of THE EXPRESS, and Mr. Alexander as one of the active spirits in the movement should be sent back to the council to help carry it to fruition. As will be seen by the detailed statement Mr. Alexander went to considerable pains in giving the full details of the money expended in his department, and a perusal of the list will show that the money has been well and economically used.

By the resignation of Dr. Ward the town loses an excellent councillor and an able financier. As chairman of the Finance Committee he proved the right man in the right place. We still have one doctor left in the field, however, and an old and tried friend of economy at that, in the person of Dr. Leonard. The people have shown their confidence in him on former occasions by electing him for mayor, and have always given him a hearty support when he ran for councillor, and will no doubt consult their own interests by sending him back for a sixth term.

Mrs. Folger, sr., died at Kingston last week, aged 80 years.

nee, provided by the lavish hand of dame nature with excellent facilities for defence. The militia department has long since been impressed with the necessity of making this a strategic point in the first line of defence in case of invasion.

"This position under these circumstances must of necessity be reduced or effectually masked before any forward movement could be made by an army advancing upon Kingston as its objective. This latter is a strongly fortified city, commanding the entrance to the St Lawrence river, the military waterway known as the Rideau canal furnishing communication with Ottawa, the seat of government.

"Wm. Appleby, Esq., of the secret service, is a resident of Napanee and his name is one to conjure with here. He appears fully alive to the gravity of the situation. It has leaked out that he has already submitted an elaborate scheme of defence, which is on the point of being put in execution by the department of the interior where his influence is paramount. In this scheme the soap works, under his immediate control, form the "point d'appui," the lines extending thence, in gradations of direct echelon to the heights east of the town—a superb position overlooking the viaduct and commanding the approaches in either direction. Mr. Appleby is of the opinion that any column advancing within range of the guns, if ordinance of anything like proper calibre were mounted, would be promptly enfiladed, whilst both British flanks would be protected, owing to the peculiar lie of the land, and he flatters himself that he knows a thing or two about lye. Moreover communication could be easily maintained, in case it were found necessary to fall back upon the second line of defense in front of the fortifications at Kingston.

"Although it would be hardly true to say that anything like a war fever prevails on the frontier, yet it is a significant fact that within the last few days Bristol's Light infantry has been constantly drilling. This splendid corps is recruited up to its full effective, and the loyal citizens turned out in enthusiastic numbers to witness its evolutions on the occasion of the first public parade after the excitement broke out. The commander is known by the affectionate soubriquet of "Dearest Mama," in recognition of the almost maternal solicitude exhibited by that officer for the well-being of the force.

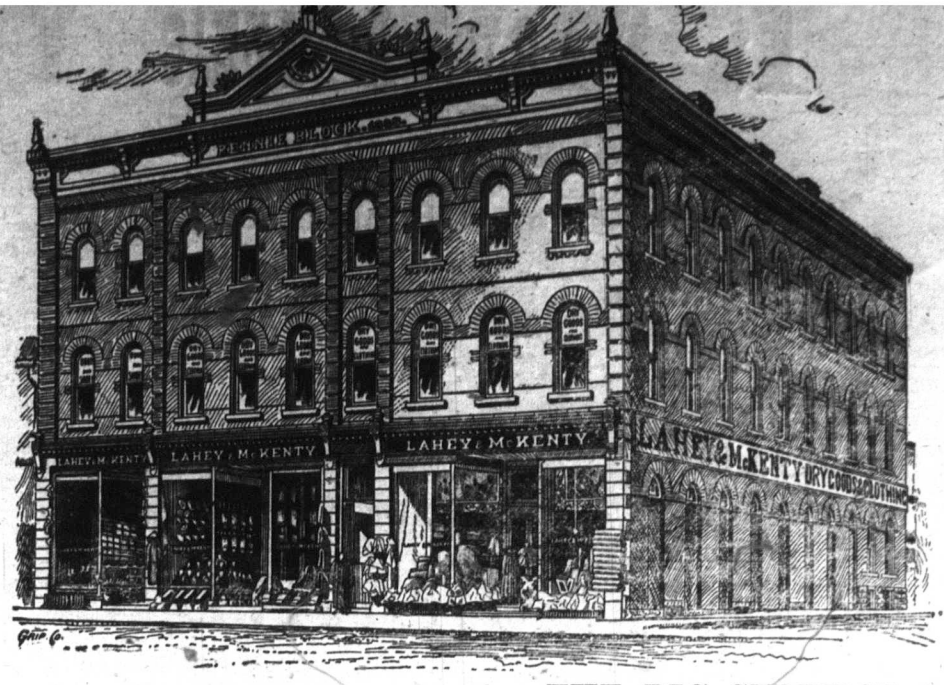
There is a Battery in town with headquarters next the Merchants' Bank, and though supplied with a few modern electric appliances it is very insafficiently equipped for actual service.

Colonel Stata's brigade of Fencibles, with detachments in all the outlying districts, also parade nightly, Sundays included. The soldiers take a pardonable pride in their handsome new barracks, erected at their own expense. Their band is just the thing to keep alive that martial spirit which makes the men feel that the country is in danger, and its salvation depends upon their efforts and upon them alone. This otherwise efficient corps is likewise somewhat lacking in the matter of fire arms. Its equipment is mostly of the old style, known as "the converted smooth bore," now quite cast off by the regular forces.

It may be thought by some few ill-informed people that the forces here are out of practice and therefore not to be seriously considered, but a perusal of the municipal literature will show several rehearsals of what is called "the light brigade" some made with electric dispatch, some by the more feeble, but not less useful, illuminant gas; while the sidewalks have borne the heavy brunt of the charging.

I have not been able as yet to gather any reliable information regarding the sedentary militia, further than it seems to live up to its name, and maintain its sedentary traditions, thus fulfilling the law of its being. Nor am I in a position to speak from personal knowledge of a new arm of the service, only just now called into existence, viz: the "Corporation Horse" commanded by Mayor Stevens (who by the way seems to stand a better chance of a third term than our own Grover) I am inclined to think, however, that this cavalry is essentially a "one horse" affair, though the vote providing for its equipment was carried with enthusiastic unanimity. Enough, however, has been recorded, I fancy, to convince you that without any outburst of jingoism there is a manifest determination, on the part of these spirited and patriotic colonists, to hold their own at all hazards.

I cannot flatter you in the belief so often, and so freely expressed of late in your columns, that Uncle Sam can reckon upon an easy walk-over should he attempt to land a belligerent force upon these shores.



THE BIG STORE, January 3rd, 1896.

Mid-Winter Clearing Sale!

Half Price Remnants.

The first table from the dry goods entrance. They are all kinds and qualities, short lengths and shorter ones, some most useful pieces for those who have many to clothe, and prefer to do it cheaply. The price is EXACTLY ONE-HALF THE ORIGINAL SELLING PRICE, whatever that may have been.

First Come Furs Served.

About a dozen fur capes are left, a few of the most expensive. A few that were $10, $11, up to $13.50. Any of these last ARE NOW $5 to cash buyers. And the better ones are still better bargains. Muffs, Collars, Wool Muffs for children, and MEN'S FUR COATS, you can have them at the price we paid for them.

Jackets, Ulsters, Golf Cloaks.

This season the more expensive garments are the ones left. We can't fit everyone now, but anyone we can fit can get one of our best AT IMPORTER'S PRICES. That means that you buy for less money than most other merchants pay for such goods. There are not many of them. If you are interested, better come soon.

20 per cent. discount.

Applies to Fancy Woollens, Knitted Hoods, Caps, Clouds, Jackets, Shawls, Tams and Mitts for ladies and children. We take ONE-FIFTH off the price of anything in these stocks, to get our money out quick Now is the time to put your money in.

More next week at THE BIG STORE,

LAHEY & McKENTY

Church of England Notes.

S. Mary Magdalene.

Church of S. Mary Magdalene, Nanaimo

PERSONALS.

Did it ever occur to you that you could assist us greatly to keep up the interest of this column. If you have friends visiting you, or intend leaving town for even a few days kindly let us know by personal call or a post card. Your friends both

Clearing Sale of Fancy

Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m, each Sunday. Holy Communion at 11 a.m. on 1 and 111 Sundays of the month, and at 8 a.m. on all other Sundays. Strangers supplied with leaflets having service printed in full at evening services.

Parish of Camden.

Services Sunday next: His Grace, the Archbishop of Ontario, will hold a confirmation in St. Jude's church, Napanee Mills, at 10.30 a.m., and in the evening at 7.30 o'clock the annual missionary meeting will be held. The Archbishop Rev. Rural Dean Carey, and His Honor, Judge Wilkison, will be the speakers. At 3 p.m. the annual missionary meeting will be held in St. John church, Newburgh. Rev. Rura Dean Carey and His Honor, Judge Wilkison, will be the speakers, Monday, being the festival of the Epiphany, Holy Communion and sermon in St. Jude's, Camden East, 10.15 a.m.

Some Pertinent Questions.

Is there any joy in the lower regions? There must be at least a demoniac leer in the arch-fiends visage. Is it jealousy, satan and the old story, or the dog in the manger, that is making the eagle scream? If they would not help Britain to stop the butchery of the Armenians, what are they going to do? Will any one of those boisterous members of Congress lead an army into battle? I think one and all of them would much rather that the Irishmen and immigrants would do the fighting. No doubt those kind hearted Yankees would kindly take care of the wives and sweethearts of the gay dashing soldiers. Will Pat be caught in such a trap as that? Would not a large number of Americans be very much pleased if the Roman Catholics would on the battlefield be slain? In India there are millions of colored gentlemen who would like very much to be galloping over the plains from San Fransisco to New Orleans and to interview the white men who so long held the colored race in chains. Then if Russia would see her opportunity would Gog and Magog be in battle array and would they be foolish enough to slay each other when wheat and meat and almost everything is so cheap.

J. S. A.

Remanded for a Week.

Thomas Murphy, of Newburgh, a well dressed, good looking young fellow, was brought before P. M. Daly on Monday and remanded to gaol for a week. Shortly after Mr. Jennings proprietor of the Hope Hotel, Newburgh, had retired to bed on Sunday evening he was awakened by hearing a noise in the room. He arose and discovered Murphy under the bed. The young fellow was kept under surveillance until morning when he was driven to Napanee, and remanded to gaol. On his arrival in Napanee some delay was experienced in securing Chief Storms, and as news of this kind spreads quickly, a large and curious crowd soon congregated, to witness the young man's humiliation. Nothing but pity was expressed by the crowd that so promising a young fellow should embark on a career of crime. Murphy is well know in Napanee, having worked at the barbering here for a short time. His case will come up for a hearing on Monday.

Know What You Chew

Is free from injurious coloring. The more you use of it the better you like it.

THE GEO. E. ... LETT & SONS CO., LTD.
HAMILTON, ONT.

Dr. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE
ASTHMA CURES so that you need NOT SIT UP all night gasping for breath for fear of suffocation. Send your name and address, we will mail trial bottle FREE in the neighborhood that is a matter of interest in your movements. Don't think we should know where you are not tell us.
DR. TAFT BROS., 186 ADELAIDE ST., W. TORONTO, ONT.

Messrs. Ernest Hall and Wm. Rockwell have graduated from the Ontario Business College, Belleville.

Miss Nellie Dunbar, of Toronto, has been visiting friends in Napanee.

Mr. K. J. Strong and wife spent New Year's in Newburgh, the guests of Mr. Geo. Madden and family.

Mr. E. O'Connor, of Centreville, was in town on Thursday and favored us with a call.

Mr. W. A. Hogle, of Ernestown, gave us a call on Wednesday. Mr. Hogle has taken THE EXPRESS and Toronto Weekly Globe continuously for over 40 years and is well satisfied with both papers.

Mr. Frank Hamilton, of Toronto, formerly of Napanee has been spending his holidays in town.

Mr. Thos. Love, of Yarker, was in Napanee on Thursday and favored us with a call.

Mr. J. F. McAlister arrived in town on Tuesday. He reports business in his line good.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Haines were in Belleville on Wednesday.

Mr. H. Huffman, of Bath, favored us with a call on Saturday.

Mrs. Dr. Vrooman, of Yarker, spent Monday in town.

Mr. John Sharp, of Bath, was in town on Monday and favored us with a call.

Miss Nellie Powell, of Belleville, is the guest of Miss Ada Stephens.

Rev. G. S. White preached in the Deseronto Methodist church last Sunday.

Misses Allen and Miss N. Ferguson, of Napanee, spent a few days in Deseronto last week.

Miss Murdoff, of Belleville, returned home on Tuesday after a pleasant visit with Miss Ethel Murdoff.

Miss Lavinia Hunter, of Belleville, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Melvin Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Morden have returned from their honeymoon and are spending a few days in town.

Mr. Jon P. Anderson, of Vennachar, is visiting friends in town.

Mr. John Walker, of Belgrave, Huron County, returned to his former home in Hinch last Friday, and will spend a few months there looking after his business interests.

C. B. Fox, the crack quarter back of the Queen's College football team, has been offered the position of chemist at the Hamilton Smelting Works.—Toronto Globe. Charlie has not made up his mind to accept the position as yet.

Mr. Geo. Schriver, Jr. of Cleveland, arrived in town on Satrurday to attend his mother's funeral.

Mr. Stanley Russell, of Toronto, spent Sunday last in Napanee, the guest of Mr. Fred Maybee.

Miss Sarah Mills has taken a situation in the law office of Morden, Ruttan & Morphy.

Mrs. James McCay left on Monday night for Minneapolis, Minnesota, for a three months visit.

Wm. Hicks, Jr. cadet in the S. A., is stationed at Odessa.

Sir Richard Cartwright was in town on Friday of last week, and was entertained by many old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Huyck, of Rose Bank, were visiting friends in town last week.

R. M. McGinness, the assistant in the Methodist church, Renfrew, was presented on Tuesday by his Admaston friends with a purse of money and an address.

Mr. Fred Maybee left for Toronto on Monday.

Mrs. Arnold Milligan has returned to her home in Kingston, after a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Exley, South Napanee.

Mrs. Geo. Wiskin, and son, South Napanee, left on the 23rd. ult. for Saginaw, Mich. to visit her sister, Mrs. McQuater, who is seriously ill with quick consumption, with no hope of her recovery. Mrs. Wiskin expects to be absent about six weeks.

Master Willie Stevens left to continue his studies at the Toronto Conservatory of Music on Wednesday evening, after a short visit at his home in Napanee.

Mrs. Thomas Lewis is visiting her mother Mrs. Ward, Kingston.

Mr. E. McGurn left for Ottawa on Wednesday evening. Mrs. McGurn will join him there in a few days.

Miss Lulu O'Connor, of Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. E. McGurn.

Mr. Isaac Robertson, of Violet, celebrated his 90th birthday the other day. We regret to say that he is ilill.

Mr. Hugh Milling, who has been slightly indesposed during the past few weeks, is we are pleased to say improving.

Mr. J. M. Smith, of Tamworth, favored us with a call on Thursday.

Mr. Danoh who has been visiting the Rev. Mr. McDonald for the past few days, left for his home in the West on Thursday.

Mr. C. A. Robinson, of Violet, favored us with a call on Thursday.

Mr. D. Henry leaves for Toronto on Monday to enter the school of Pedgogy.

Mr. Frank Burrows and Miss Flossie Wolfe of Sydenham, were calling on friends in Nadanee on Friday last.

Miss Mamie Hope of Newburgh, was the guest of Mrs. Finkle over Sunday.

Miss Nellie Fraser, of Ernestown Station, was visiting in Napanee during Christmas Holidays.

Miss Shenaw and Miss McIntyre, of Kingston are visiting Mrs. Fred Richardson, John st.

Miss Lena Mallory, Mr. Houles and Mr. Lattinne of Campbellford were the guests of Mrs. Murdoff last Saturday.

Mr. Thos. Coates spent New Year's in Belleville.

Miss Ila Miller of Kingston is visiting Miss Carrie Williams this week.

Miss Heck, of Prescott, is visiting her sister Mrs. Dr. Cowan, John St.

Miss Delia Duckworth and Mr. John Wallace of Belleville, spent New Year's the guests of Dr. E. Ming.

Goods.

Commencing on Thursday 2nd January. We will offer genuine bargains to all who inspect and select any of the following list of articles.

To-day's space will not permit of any lengthy reference to prices, so would ask the Ladies of Napanee and vicinity to call at once as we do not intend to carry Fancy Goods in future and will dispose of Linens, Felts, Embroidery, Silks, Crochet cottons, Dolls, Toys, Table Drapes, Tea Cosies, Sofa Pillows, Baby Jackets, Pompons, Cords, Berlin Wools, Pearl Buttons, Tissue Paper, Crepe Paper, Picture Scarfs, Whisk Holders, Albums, Toilet Sets, Cups and Saucers. Glove and Handkerchief sets, Embroideries, Laces and many other nick nacks which need not be mentioned all of which will be sold at a sacrifice.

We have lots left of the large stock we had at the commencement of the season. These we will dispose of at prices to suit the times rather than carry them to next season.

This sale is genuine, With these facts before you we look for you on and after January 2nd, and have made every preparation for your coming.

Store open till 9 o'clock p.m. for the convenience of those who cannot get out during the day.

S. E. ALLEN.

Miss Leonard, of Glenburnie, is visiting Mrs. Dr. Wartman, Centre st.

Mrs. Ogden Hinch and family left on Thursday for Toronto where they will reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Selden Ketcheson, of Sidney, are spending the holidays with her father, James Denyes, Violet.

MARRIED.

GLOVER—MOORE— At the residence of the bride's father, Napanee, on Wednesday, Dec. 25th, by Rev. G. Edwards, Albert Glover, Kingston, to Eva, youngest daughter of D. Moore.

DIED.

PARROTT—At Wilton, on Dec. 31st., Daniel Parrott aged 87 years and 9 months.

Mr. Jacob Crow, one of the oldest and best known farmers of Kingston township, died recently.

Mr Morgan had Geo Parrott summoned before P.M. Daly on Tuesday for some difference over the sale of a pig. The matter was amicably sattled.

Mr J F Smith intends opening up a meat market in connection with his grocery business. It will be conducted by J W Anderson.

We have been almost rushed off our feet with work this week. We started the New Year by "burning the mid night oil" and have kept it up pretty well since. We have endeavored to do justice to our correspondents, but are reluctantly compelled to hold over several interesting communications which will appear next week. Among the number is an account of an address and presentation to Mr and Mrs D E Percy, of Newburgh, who have removed to Mount Forest.

Hands Off Manitoba.

This was the heading to some fly sheets that were circulated around town on Friday of last week, announcing that a meeting would be held in the town hall that evening when addresses would be delivered on the above subject, and containing an invitation to Mr. U. M. Wilson, M. P., and Mr. Switzer, the Patron candidate to be present and address the meeting. Before 8 o'clock a large crowd had congregated, and the meeting was called to order by the chairman, Miles S. Plumley. The principal and only speaker of the evening was Mr. Geo. Parrott, who was given a good hearing. He devoted considerable time to reading extracts from a pamphlet portraying the machinations and wealth of the Catholic Church in Quebec, interspersed with remarks of his own, which proved more interesting to his hearers. He berated Mackenzie Bowell and Laurier, was highly dissatisfied with N. Clarke Wallace, and not overly complimentary to D'Alton McCarthy. He had also a crow to pick with the Police Magistrate, and the Attorney General of Ontario. He eulogised the public school system of Ontario, and spoke strongly against separate schools, and the attempt of the Dominion Government to force them upon Manitoba. Mr. Parrott also devoted a little attention to the local papers. To THE EXPRESS for its report of the P. P. A. meeting at Odessa, and to the Beaver for its refusal to print a communication dealing with the Catholics. The meeting broke up about 9 o'clock.

Your vote and influence is respectfully solicited for Alfred Alexander as Councillor for East Ward for 1896.

Master Fred Breen broke through the ice at Tweed last week and was drowned. His body was recovered.

Do not take any substitute when you ask for the one true blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla. Insist upon Hood's and only Hood's.

Clark Wallace arranged the dusy on Columbia bicycle for Boyle & Son, before sending in resignation. Call and see sample. Boyle & Son.

A grand ball will be held in the Town Hall, Napanee, on Tuesday evening, Jan. 14th, by the Napanee Orchestra. Invitations will also be sent out to the surrounding towns as well as Napanee.

A large garter snake was killed in Mr C N Lucas' yard, Selby, on Saturday, by Masters Bert Sexsmith and Blake Lucas. This is a rather unusual time for garter snakes to make their appearance.

In the case of McGuinness vs Dafoe, an action for trespass and malicious prosecution, an order has been made setting aside the verdict of non-suit entered by Judge Falconbridge at the trial in Napanee, and granting a new trial.

Hood's is Wonberful. No less wonderful are the cures accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla, even after other preparations and physicians' prescription have failed. The reason, however, is simple. When the blood is enriched and purified, disease disappears and good health returns, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true blood purifier.

Rubbing It In. Never use a liniment for rheumatism, says a high medical authority. Don't rub it in—drive it out. Take something that removes the acid poison from the blood—take something that will improve your digestion, and build up the body to the perfection of robust health. That "something" is Scott's Sarsaparilla, a remedy that obtains the best results in the shortest time. $1, of all druggists.

May all its sorrows be forgot,
Its joys alone survive—
Forgotten be the ills and woes
Of Eighteen Ninety-Five!
Another bubble Time hath blown,
May Happiness affix
Her seal thereto, and smile on all
In Eighteen Ninety-Six.

—Toronto News.

Hoarseness and Sore Throat.—DEAR SIRS.—I highly recommend Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam as the best cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness and sore throat ever used.

WILBUR ASHBY
Havelock, Ont.

Horticultural Society Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Napanee Horticultural Society will be held in the Council Chamber on Wednesday evening, 8th inst. at 7.30 o'clock. A full attendance is urgently requested as the annual election of officers will take place at this meeting. Mr. John Pollard will also read a paper on "Fertilization, by Pollen." The public is cordially invited to attend.

$3.50

Try a pair of my $5.00 pants for $3.50 spot cash.

I make a specialty of this kind of Ordered Clothing.

ED. HUFF,

The Cash Tailor, Opposite Campbell House.

ALL WORK GUARANTEED.

THE NAPANEE

Vol. XXXV] No 6—JNO. POLLARD, Editor and Publisher. NAPANEE, ONT.

A WORD IN SEASON!

Within the next month the bulk of the holiday trade will be done and an intending purchaser would do well to secure their requirements in good time. I beg to inform you that my stock is complete in all lines suitable for this season of the year, including a full line of

Dinner, Tea and Chamber Ware.

AND AS FULL A LINE OF

Fancy China, etc.,

as was ever displayed in this town. I also have a complete stock of Fancy and Staple Groceries.

All goods have been bought right and I am confident it will pay you to see my goods and get my prices before buying.

W. COXALL.

Timothy Seed...

We have secured a supply of the cleanest Seeds from the largest growers in the Counties. We are sure we can recommend this seed.

We carry in stock at all times a full line of our Famous Flour, and the fact that we have an increasing demand for them bespeaks their excellence and popularity. The prices are always right, and the quality too.

We have a full line of grain, all kinds of Cracked Grain, Bran, and Shorts.

When you want Salt for the table, for butter or cheese making, or for salting your pork, remember that the "Windsor" brand is the purest and the best, and while it is the cheapest it is also the saltiest.

Try one of our little Cheese. They weigh about 8lbs. each. A nice size for the family.

Rolled Oats, Rolled Wheat, and Oatmeal

Best 25 Cent TEA in Town.

The Rathbun Co'y

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

Special Sale for the Holiday Trade.

Men's Frieze Ulsters, Lapped Seams, with Storm Collar all wool lined worth $7.50 for $5.65.

Youth's Ulsters, Lapp d Seams with Storm Collar the best made coat in Ontario worth $6.50 for $4.50

In Men's and Boy' Suits the best bargains ever shown in Napanee.

300 pairs of pants to clear. Fur Caps, Sealette, and Tweed Caps. The cheapest in town.

Underwear, Top Shirts, Cardigan Jackets, Mitts, Gloves Fine Shirts, Neckwear, Handkerchiefs, suspenders, Socks, Scarfs, and all other goods too numerous to mention away down in prices.

A. M. VINEBERG,

The Wonderful Cheap Clothier, Dundas st., Henry Block, Napanee

Xmas and Holiday Goods

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY.

Barristers, Solicitors, etc.

Solicitors for the Merchant's Bank of Canada, etc., etc.

Dundas Street, Napanee.

G. F. RUTTAN. ARTHUR W. MORPHY.

☞ Private funds to loan at five per cent.

C. H. FINKLE.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER, Newburgh, Ont. Orders left with Ewart and Vanloven, Yarker, will have prompt attention. Telephone communication.

THE - MERCHANTS - BANK

OF CANADA

Head Office, — Montreal

Capital paid up, $6,000,000

Surplus, $3,000,000

INTEREST AT CURRENT RATES PAID ON DEPOSITS.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

W. A. BELLHOUSE,

Manager, Napanee Branch

McROSSIE'S FOOTWEAR

Large Supplies of Latest Styles. Boots, Shoes, Overshoes and Rubbers being opened daily at McROSSIES old Stand.

Call and get prices. The lowest quoted on New Goods,

DENTISTS

C. D. WARTMAN, L.D.S.
C. H. WARTMAN, D.D.S.

Graduates of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduate of Toronto University.

OFFICE—LEONARD BLOCK,

☞ Visits made to Tamworth the first Monday in each month, remaining over Tuesday. Rooms at Wheeler's Hotel.

All other Mondays C. D. Wartman will be in Yarker.

Napanee office open every day.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in Packets, by Grocers, labelled thus: JAMES EPPS & CO., Ltd., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.

45 35—W.

HAIR! HAIR!

Prof. DORENWEND is Coming

PERSONALS.

Did it ever occur to you that you could assist us greatly to keep up the interest of this column. If you have friends visiting you, or intend leaving town for even a few days kindly let us know by personal call or a post card. Your friends both in the neighborhood and at a distance are interested in your movements. Don't think we should know where you are: tell us.

Mrs. Bell of Brockville, was visiting friends in town this week.

We regret to state that Mrs. John Ham and her infant son are seriously ill with diptheria. We hope to hear of their speedy recovery.

Mr. J. F. Roblin of Dorland, favored us with a call on Friday of last week.

Judge Wilkison of Napanee, held Division Court in Kingston this week.

Mrs. Wm. Ferguson of Kingston was calling on friends in Napanee on Wednesday.

Miss Allie Reid is visiting Mrs. Dr. Vrooman, Yarker.

Miss Louise Daley of Montreal arrived on Monday evening to visit friends in town.

Mr. John Vair. of Hinch, was in town on Saturday and favored us with a call.

Mr. C. G. Hawley, Gosport, gave us a call on Saturday.

Mr. T. Butler, of Deseronto, favored us with a call on Saturday.

Miss Grace Huffman of Napanee has gone to Belleville and Sterling to spend a couple of weeks visiting relatives.

Mr. D. S. Warner and Miss Lotta Warner of our town are visiting Dr. Fred Warner, of Toronto.

Mr. James M. Lapum of Napanee, Traveller for the Buffalo Fish Company, left on Monday for Utica.

Mrs. Sidney Warner left on Friday to visit friends in Odessa.

Mr. H.M. C. Wagar, of Enterprise, favored us with a call on Monday. Mr. Wagar is suffering with a sore hand, caused by being caught in the snap of a halter shank.

Miss Thomas Trimble is visiting friends in Toronto.

Master Herb Gibson had his face and ears badly frozen this week. He is confined to the house but is progressing favorably.

Mr. Wm. McGarvy and wife, of Deseronto, are visiting friends in town.

Mr. Geo. Garrison, of Colebrooke, gave us a call on Saturday.

Mrs. Laura Hoard, aged 80 years, braved the inclemency of the weather on Monday to record her vote for her favorite candidates.

Mr. Geo. Detlor was renewing old acquaintances in town last week.

Mr. E. B. Switzer, the Patron candidate, was calling on friends in town on Saturday.

Rev. W. W. Peck was called to Burlington on Tuesday owing to the serious illness of his mother.

Miss Maggie Russell is visiting her grandmother. Mrs. Rennie.

Mr. W. S. Scott, of Lindsay, is visiting his father, Mr. J. R. Scott. Piety Hill.

Among those who have passed the Ottawa Normal school examinations are Misses Flossie A. Neely, Napanee Mills; M. L. Rock, Effie Wellbanks, Newburgh.

Miss Dora B. Hulett left on Thursday for Belleville to attend the opening of Albert College, and will visit friends in the city for a few days.

Miss Lottie Fox, of Brighton, is visiting in town.

Mr. Fred Hosey left for California on Tuesday.

Mrs. Jake Smith is very ill at present.

Mr. Hub Ashley returned home on Tuesday for a short visit. The company which he is connected with have laid off during the cold spell, but he will join them as soon as they start out on the road again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Haines attended the funeral of his grandfather, John J. Haines, sr., at Belleville on Wednesday.

J. S Miller, ex M P P of Addington, and a former resident of Centreville, has been elected Reeve of Manitoba for the third time, after an exciting contest.

Miss Libbie Edwards is visititing her sister, Mrs. Wm. Wallbridge, Watertown, N. Y.

Mr. Frank Lee was visiting friends in Kingston last week.

Mr. Chas. Fox left for Hamilton on Saturday, where he has accepted the position of chemist in the Hamilton Iron and Steel works.

Mrs. Warner, John street, left on Monday to visit friends in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Storms, of Moscow, were calling on friends in Napanee on Thursday.

The members of the Sunday morning class in the E. M. Church pleasantly surprised their leader, Mr. W. L. Bennett, one day last week by waiting upon him at his residence and presenting him with a silver and gold water service and a highly eulogized address.

Miss Martha Kimmerly left for Watertown on Tuesday.

Mr. Thos. Bald returned from a visit with his parents in Penetanguishene on Monday.

Miss Maggie Henderson, M. D. of Edinburgh is visiting her brother, Mr. Thomas Symington.

Mr. Morton, of Toronto, is taking a course at that are useful at all times. An Elegant Lamp is a suitable gift at any time, and is useful as well as beautiful. We have a large and well assorted stock of Lamps of various styles, shapes, and colors, fancy Silk Shades, Shade Frames, Fancy Paper Shades, Globes, Reflectors, Chimnies, Lamp wick, Lanterns, etc., in fact almost all kinds of Lamp goods and Lamp Fixtures, American and Canadian Coal Oil the best brands.

We also invite your attention to our stock of Purses, Ladies' and Gent's Pocket Books, Card Cases, Shaving Sets, Hair Brushes, Hand Mirrors, English, French and American Perfumes, Florida Waters, Fancy Soaps, Toilet and Castile Soaps. Eighty different kinds of Soap are here, and many other useful articles.

Prices Were Never More in Your Favor.

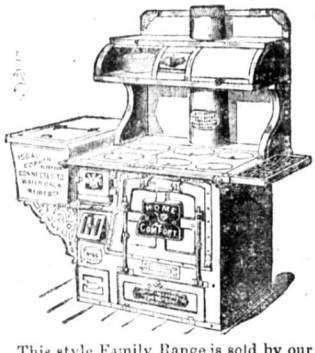
Your patronage most respectfully Solicited.

MEDICAL HALL, W. S. DETLOR,

THE HIGHEST AWARDS
WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION

BY THE WROUGHT IRON RANGE CO., ON

HOME COMFORT



STEEL

HOTEL AND FAMILY

RANGES.

CARVING AND STEAM TABLES, BROILERS, MALLEABLE WATERBACKS, etc., etc.

This style Family Range is sold by our Travelling Salesmen from our own wagons at one uniform price throughout Canada and the United States.

Made of Malleable Iron and Wrought Steel and will last a lifetime if properly used.

SALES TO JANUARY 1st, 1894, 277,188.

Made only by the Wrought Iron Range Co. manufacturers of Hotel Steel ranges, Kitchen outfittings and Home comfort Hot-air Steel Furnaces.

The above named company have located at Napanee, with Headquarters at the Campbell House.

DEROCHE & MADDEN,

Barristers,

Attorneys-at-law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.

Office—Grange Block.

Money to Loan at lower than the lowest rates

DEROCHE, Q. C. 5.1y J. H. MADDEN

R. A. LEONARD, M.D., C.P.S.

Physician, Surgeon, etc.

Late House Surgeon of the Kingston General Hospital.

Office—North side of Dundas Street, between West and Robert Streets, Napanee. 5:1y

---

THE ROYAL HOTEL.

Dundas Street, Napanee.

H. HUNTER, Prop.

This commodious hotel is centrally situated having every convenience for the travelling and business public. Large yard and sheds for farmers.

Good table, best of wines liquors, and cigars The comfort of guests is made a first consideration.

HERRINGTON & WARNER,

Barristers, etc.

MONEY TO LOAN AT LOW RATES

Office—Warner Block, East-st. Napanee. 5y

A. S. ASHLEY,

DENTIST

16 Years in Napanee.

34 Years Experience.

Rooms, - Albeft Block, - Napanee

JAS. AYLESWORTH,

General Business Agent,

POLICE MAGISTRATE for the Provincial Electoral District of Addington.

Conveyancer,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses,

Commissioner, etc., in H.C.J.

Clerk, 7th Division Court. of the County of Lennox & Addington

Grand Trunk Railway Ticket Agent

TAMWORTH.

It is contrary to nature that the head should be bald. Let that be fully understood. Is it not a fact that many Ladies and Gentlemen do now wear artificial hair for no other reason than prejudice. Unfortunately there has been a marked increase of late in baldness and grey hair, and the result is the loss of an attractive and refined appearance. MANY LADIES have the wretched habit of crimping and curling their own hair instead of buying an article according to the style. The result is they ruin their hair and when new styles come in they are unable to follow them.

PROF. DORENWEND, of the Dorenwend Co. Ltd., of Toronto, has for thirty years demonstrated the beautifying effects of wearing his hair goods. Thousands of the best ladies and gentlemen of Canada and the United States are wearing his articles to-day. In many cases the manufactured article is more becoming than the natural growth, and not even an expert can detect that the hair is artificial.

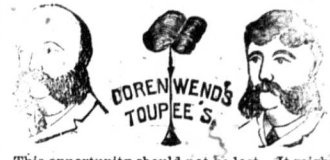
The Professor carries an immense stock of Ladies' and Gents' Wigs, Toupees (half wigs) Bangs, Wavy Fronts, Switches, Braids, Etc. in every form, shade and quality. All can be pleased. Cast aside False Notions and provide yourself at once with a head dress that will give charming effects. Prof. Dorenwend will be in Napanee, at Paisley House, Saturday Jan., 11th.



This opportunity should not be lost. It might be added that the professor also carries with him a full line of hair Dyes in every shade, Hair and Face Bleaches, and theatrical Wigs, Whiskers and Moustaches.

Let the date of the visit be borne in mind. Saturday, Januarv. 11th. 5b

---

WANTED RELIABLE MEN to sell our IMPROVED FARM SEEDS. Paying side line HIGHEST SALARY OR COMMISION PAID WEEKLY. Outfit free. Can be carried in the pocket. Experience not necessary. BIG PAY ASSURED WORKERS. Write at once and secure exclusive and choice of territory to 48 4m

FARMERS SEED CO.

(INCORPORATED)

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

NOTICE.

The annual meeting of the Napanee Horticultural Society will be held in the

TOWN HALL

Napanee, on Wednesday the eighth day of January at 7.30 o'clock in the evening.

JAS. E. HERRING
Secretary.

4b

GENERAL MEETING.

A General meeting of the Lennox Agricultural Society will be held in the Town Hall, Napanee on Wednesday Jan. 15th. 1896,

at 2 o'clock p.m. sharp, for the election of officers and transaction of general business. An urgent request is extended to all members and others to be present. 5b Dr. MENG, Sec.

NOTICE OF MEETING.

The County Council

of Lennox and Addington, will meet for the transaction of general business on Tuesday, Jan. 28th, 1896,

at 2 o'clock p.m.

Members of Council must bring with them the certificates and declarations required by Section 65, Con. Municipal Act.

All accounts must be in the hands of the undersigned not later than Tuesday 28th inst. in order that they may be considered.

W. G. WILSON,
County Clerk,

MORTGAGE SALE OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTY.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage which will be produced at the time of sale there will be offered for sale by public Auction at the Court House in the town of Napanee on

Saturday January 11th, 1896

at the hour of 11 o'clock in the forenoon the following valuable farm property:—

All and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the township of Ernestown in the county of Lennox and Addington being composed of the west quarter of lot No. 12 in the 4th concession of the said Township of Ernestown containing by admeasurement fifty acres be the same more or less.

Upon the property is situated a good frame house 30x36 one and a half storeys with wood house attached and barn 40x56, and wagon house 24x30, and other improvements. The property is conveniently situated within seven miles of the town of Napanee.

Terms of sale: 10 per cent to be paid by the purchaser on the day of the sale, the balance within thirty days with interest at six per cent.

For further terms and conditions of sale apply to

Messrs. DEROCHE & MADDEN
Napanee.
or to Vendor's Solicitors.

F. D. MILLER, Esq. Bath.

Dated at Napanee December 7th, 1895.

Mr. Wilton Ashley left on Tuesday morning for Toronto, where he is attending the Dental College.

BORN.

VANALSTINE—On Saturday the wife of Mr. B. S. Vanalstine of a daughter.

MARRIED.

SAVAGE—CUNNINGHAM—By Rev. D. O. Crossley at the western parsonage on Wednesday Jan. 8th. Mr. Samuel Savage of Ottawa to Miss Francis Cunnigham of Bath.

MEAGHER—FRIZZELL—By the Rev. D. O. Crossley on Wednesday Jan. 1st. 1896 at Napanee, Mr. W. A. Frizzell of the post office to Miss Lottie Meagher both of Napanee.

DIED.

HAWLEY—At Watertown, N. Y. Tuesday Jan. 7th. Margaret Hawley wife of James Storms, formerly of Wilton, County Lennox Addington, Ont.

FARMERS ATTENTION.

Insure your property in the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

Because it is a Home Company.

Because it is a Safe Company.

Because it is the cheapest and best.

Because it affords the most liberal policies to patrons.

Because it insures only (isolated) non-hazardous risks, as farm property, county churches halls and school houses.

Because it is the Farmer's Company managed by Farmers in the interest of farmers of the Counties of Lennox and Addington, Hastings Frontenac, Lanark and Leeds

Officers—J. B. Aylsworth President; B. C. Lloyd, Vice-President. Directors—A. C. Parks; U. C. Sills, W. R. Gordanier, I. F. Aylesworth. Honorary Directors—Jas. Ried M.P.P., A. V. Price, Camden. C. R. Allison, Wm. Chesters, Fredericksburgh, D. W. Allison ex-M.P. Adolphustown; F. B. Guess, Col. Geo. Hunter Kingston; Allan Pringle, Ira. B. Hudgins, Richmond. The board meets at the Secretarie's office in the first Saturday of every month at one p.m.

J. N. McKim, Napanee, } Agents
W. W. Lapum, Wilton, } M. C. Bogart,
M. Burns, Gananoque, } Sect. Treas.

ANNUAL MEETING,

Of the Policy Holders of the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Co'y. will be held at the Town hall Napanee on Saturday 25th January 1896, at one p.m. for the purpose of receiving the annual report and transacting general business of the company, and every policy holder is strongly urged to be present and take part in the proceedings as most important business is to be transacted. M. C. BOGART, Sect. Treas.

Think First

And you will not need to waste your time and money, Come direct to us if you want a good

Ulster

Take a Look at our Ready Made Frieze Coats and see the stock in them. We are clearing them out at reduced prices along with a lot of Boy's Heavy Suits Special Values.

D. J. Hogan,

& SON.

NAPANEE

NEE EXPRESS.

T. CANADA—FRIDAY, JAN. 10, 1896. $1 per Year in advance; $1.50 if not so paid.

OPERA HOUSE

ONE NIGHT

TUESDAY, JAN. 14th.

Special Engagement here of the World Renowned German Dialect and Singing Comedian,

Mr. J. E. TOOLE,

And his Competent Company of Players, in the Romantic Comedy Success of Three Continents.

Killarney and The Rhine.

Interspersed with Comedy, Pathos, Original Music, Songs and Dances, Special Scenery and Elaborate Costumes.

Guaranteed to be produced here with the same Company and Scenery as used in New York, Boston, San Francisco and New Orleans.

Seats now on sale —Secure early.

PRICES - - - 25c. to 50c.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

NAPANEE.

For Reeve—Symington, East Ward 69, West Ward No 1, 47, No 2. 62, Centre Ward 56, Centre Ward No 2, 74. Total 308. Stevens—East Ward 52, West Ward No 1, 49; West Ward No 2, 60, Centre Ward 73, Centre Ward No 2, 53. Total 287. Symington, majority 21.

EAST WARD.

For Councillors—

Boyle	103
Alexander	82
Gibbard	76
Perry	72
Wales	54

WEST WARD.

	No 1	No 2	Tota
Leonard	71	92	163
Lowry	73	86	162
Miller	67	88	155
Vandusen	61	55	117

CENTRE WARD.

	No 1	No 2	Total
Aylsworth	82	82	164
Burns	94	51	145
Madole	79	83	162
Ming	121	83	204
Lapum	88	60	148

EAST WARD.

For School Trustees—

Wright	106
Plumley	52

WEST WARD.

Ashley	132
Ruttan	104

KINGSTON.

Ald. R. F. Elliott, Liberal, was elected mayor over Mayor Wright by a majority of 57.

BELLEVILLE.

Mayor—J E Walmsley.

PICTON.

Mayor—Geo Hadden.
Reeve—P R Young.
Deputy-reeve—Jas Hooper.

TRENTON.

Mayor—M B Morrison.

BATH.

Bowen E Aylsworth was elected reeve by acclamation. The contest for councillors resulted in the following being elected—J Johnston, John Forester, A McCaugherty, and James White.

DESERONTO.

Mayor—E W Rathbun, by acclamation.
Reeve—John Dalton.
Deputy-reeve—J Dryden.
Councillors—Hoppins, Clement, Irvine, Whitton, Gault, Mellow.

ERNESTOWN.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE COUNTY OF LEN[illegible]

GENTLEMEN—As there h[illegible] been reports industriously circulated to the effect that I had withdrawn from the field, I deem it my duty as the Patron candidate for this riding, to publicly deny these reports, and I propose as well to submit for your c[illegible]deration a few of the political prin[illegible], which we deem it our duty to eit[illegible]ocate or oppose in the best inte[illegible]of the country, and upon which we respectfully ask the electors to base their verdict in the approaching contest. We proclaim our allegiance to our country's best interests, and not to party, that our support will be given to measures and not to men, and that our devotion will be to principles and not to partisanship. As Canada should be the happy home of all her people, without reference to race or creed, we are opposed to the introduction of sectarian or religious questions, no matter by whom introduced into our public affairs, and as full civil and religious liberty is a principle absolutely necessary to our full development as a nation, we will protect and defend the rights of our citizens as guaranteed to them by our constitution in conformity and in subjection to the general good. With regard to the exciting question at issue:—"The Manitoba School Question," we adhere to the words and sentiments of the late Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald, when he said "there may be grievances suffered, or wrongs inflicted in religion, education, civil liberty, or in any other department and, if the final power of decision as to what is right or what is wrong were vested in the Dominion Parliament, where is there a vestige of the use of the power or the advantage of all the machinery of Provincial Governments and Provincial Legislatures."

If the Dominion Government is to act authoritatively and request the Governor General to disallow bills which it thinks the Local Legislatures ought not to have passed, it will effectually annul and destroy the authority of Local Legislatures and the autonomy of the Provinces and thus centre all authority in the Federal Government. I submit that a Federal Government has no right to interfere in such cases so long as the Provincial Legislature acts within the bounds of constitutional authority and on these grounds, we decidedly oppose the remedial order.

Next to the duty of upholding the constitutional rights of citizenship is that of promoting public morality both by law and by practice. The example of too many of our legislators, ministers of the crown, and public officials, is not sufficiently in accord with the dictates of public morality and has a dangerous tendency to lead the public from the path of rectitude. It is painfully visible that public life through all its stages is deeply tainted and corrupt, and the pretended punishment of a few criminals can have no deterrent effect on the governments hordes who are living and growing fat upon the wealth that belongs to the people.

We hold that in the public and official life of public servants the same principles of honesty and integrity should be adhered to as is exacted from [illegible]

We believe the most extensive duty of a government is to promote the material well being of the people.

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY

MORVEN.

Saturday, Sunday, and Monday the 4th, 5th, and 6th, of Jan. were very cold days. The thermometer registered 24 below zero on Monday morning. On account of the cold weather small congregations attended church on Sunday.

Mr. George Gordanier, after more than two months illness, died on Monday afternoon Jan. 6th. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the whole neighborhood in the time of sorrow caused by the loss of their brother.

The roads here are excellent and wheeling is good.

The Misses Dunkley returned to Picton on Saturday to their schools after spending their vacation with their father at Morven. Albert Dunkley has also returned to Queen's College and Geo. Dunkley to his school on Amherst Island.

There will (D. V.) be a four days meeting held in the brick church, Morven, beginning on Tuesday Jan. 14th. Service each day at 2 30 p.m. and 7 p.m. The following ministers have very kindly consented to come and deliver addresses: Revs. F. B. Stratton pres. of Bay of Quinte conference. Dr. McDiarmid, D. O. Crossley, McCullough, Seccombe, White and Dr. Meacham. A general invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

HAY BAY.

Dear EXPRESS, news is scarce this week. Election talk seems to be the order of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. John N. Hambly are at present moving in to their new dwelling.

The thrashing machine has again started out to finish up for the year.

A business meeting was held in the Presbyterian church here on Wednesday evening last. It was largely attended.

It is said we are to have a tea-meeting soon. The date I will give next issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Byard Young, of Napanee, spent Sunday last the guest of Mr. M. E. Post, of this place.

H. V Mooney, Esq., has been re-engaged to teach in school section No. 8, for the present year, 1896.

Quite a few hours of steady consultation has taken place amongst some of our neighbors over a few cords of school house wood. I think trustees should know their business.

John Rennie, Esq., was in Belleville last week. He purchased a quantity of oak lumber in Rednersville.

Mr. P. R. McCabe, of Napanee, was visiting friends on the bay last week.

One of Stirling's young ladies was visiting friends here during the past week, in the person of Miss Susie Conley. The above named lady is a sister of Mrs. Byron Young, of Napanee.

KINGSFORD.

Will Hewett, of Havelock, spent Xmas with his parents.

Messrs. Tommy Doyle and Cameron Tullock and Misses Niggerson and Doyle were in Napanee on New Years night.

Miss Mary Doyle and brother spent Sunday last at Mr Collins, of Ernestown.

Mr. John Hewitt who was ill, is improving.

Miss Mary Doyle is spending a few days this week week visiting friends in Deseronto

Services at St. Judes Church at 10 a.m. and celebration of Holy Communion.

Mr. James Wilson, and Miss Hudgins were married last week.

Miss Laura Woodcock was in town on Saturday.

Who attended the ball, do you know Tommy.

Cameron Tulloch, Esq. has returned to Sharp's Corner to resume his duties at teaching school.

Willis Hewett returned to Havelock.

W. T. Winter is on the sick list.

Don't forget the tea meeting at Empey Hill, on the 22nd.

Alexander Hewett was elected council man for this year. A good man in the [illegible]

A new fence has been erected around the play ground of No. 14.

WILTON.

The thermometer registrred 22° below zero on Monday morning.

Jas Davidson left last Thursday for his school near Lake Opinicon.

Miss Beulah Mills left on Monday for Ottawa to attend the Demill Ladies College.

Miss Margerite Storms was visiting friends in Napanee a few days last week.

Erwell Miller returned to Kingston on Tuesday to resume his studies at the Business College.

Misses Flora Peters, Stella Neilson, Gertie Mills, Mabel Emerson and Jean Lake are attending Sydenham High school.

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. Jas Storms, (nee Miss Maggie Hanley) of Watertown, N.Y., a former resident of this place.

ODESSA.

The following officers have been elected for the ensuing year by Court Odessa I O F: C D H C R, J E Mabee, M D; P C R, S J Sprout; C R, Fred Caton; V C R, A A Aylsworth; fin-sec, G Smith (re-elected); treas, E O Clarke; S W, Jas Murphy (re-elected); J W, Wm M Clark; S B, J W Denyes (re-elected); J B, Roy Benjamin; chaplain, Rev F T Dibb; physician, Dr Mabee. These officers will be installed on the first Thursday in January and the ceremony will be followed by a grand oyster supper at the Dominion.

The following officers have been elected for E L of C E of the Methodist church for the six months: Honorary president, Rev W B Secombe; president, Miss Wilson; first vice-president, W G Caswell; second vice-president, Charlie Lee; corresponding secretary, H Murphy; assistant secretary, Florence Laidley; treasurer, A Jones; critic, C Jones; janitor, H Murphy; and the following chairmen of committes: prayer-meeting, Miss Meacham; lookout, Luella Clark; social Miss Derbyshire; music, Louie Timmerman; missionary and temp, George Watts. floral Lillie Jones; sick-visiting, Hilda Smith; Miss Florence Laidley was elected delegate to the convention in Napanee to be held the last of this month.

A song service was held at the Methodist church on Sunday night last. A fitting sermon for the beginning of the new year was preached by Rev. Mr. Secombe and was interspersed by appropriate singing, solos being given by Mrs Secombe, Miss Wilson, Miss Watts and Miss Luella Clark.

Miss Sidanna Davy has secured a school near Sharbot Lake and left on Friday last to take charge, accompanied by her sister, Jennie, who will visit friends in that district.

HAWLEY.

Our May weather has disappeared and jack frost takes its place with plenty of water in our wells, and with lots of feed in our barns. We are, and will be, pleased to hold him.

Owing to the lack of snow Mr. Samuel Asseltine is not doing much in the wood business.

Mr. Holden Robinson, wife and family, of Sandhurst, were visiting at Mr. W. R. Fretts, on Thursday.

Our school on Monday opened under the kind management of Mr. Bowerman. Mr. Bowerman gets a great deal of credit for the way he has managed our school. We have had teachers at nearly double the salary who did not take half the interest in it.

A picked crowd from here attended the surprise party at Mr. Purdy's, Morven, and report a jolly time.

Miss Birdie Fretts, of this place, gave an invited party at her place one night this week. Those who were present were from Adolphustown, Morven, Violet and Richmond. All report a good time.

Mr. Samuel Parks was visiting at Miss Penney's, of Richmond, last Sunday.

Mr. Editor, if you have the handling of snow, please send some to Hawley. We expect to have some fine surprise parties as soon as you send snow. May they keep know not when.

The Debating school at Hawley is getting

ERRATUM.

	Ward 1	2	3	4.	5	6	Tot.	Maj.
Jesse Amey....	62	103	66	55	67	57	410	37
Robt. Miller....	32	51	56	50	108	76	373
I. F. Aylsworth	47	96	41	56	69	56	365
B. Derbyshire	39	55	77	46	81	82	390	15
J. F. Baker....	70	77	73	56	92	72	440	141
I. O. Fraser....	16	71	48	46	62	56	299
M. N. Empey..	36	64	68	86	66	69	389	15
F. D. Miller ...	43	114	65	27	54	71	374
Levi. Perry....	45	42	66	52	115	60	380	6

NOTES OF THE FRAY.

The P.P.A. overestimated their strength.

All the candidates supported by THE EXPRESS were elected.

The people believe in rewarding faithful servants.

If this acclamation business continues Mayor Carson will be inclined to sigh for a good old fashioned contest, to relieve the monotony.

Deputy-reeve Madden will be inclined to think that it's easy to get there, when you know how, and the right kind of men are nominated against you

Dr. Leonard sprained his ankle early in the afternoon, but this did not impair his popularity as his name headed the poll in West Ward as usual.

S. R. Miller did not do any canvassing, but he got there just the same.

Dr. Ming proved quite popular in the centre ward.

Ex-Coun. Burns will try again.

E, S. Lapum will be inclined to the opinion that people do not vote as they cheer.

Messrs. Madole and Aisworth were well received by the electors of Centre ward.

By the election of Wm. Boyle we now have two Hardware men in the council.

It's easy enough and quite proper for the successful candidate to thank the electors who voted against him, but it appears superfluous for the defeated candidate to follow suit.

Coun Alexander's services in last year's council were appreciated by the electors of East Ward. He got there with both feet.

W T Gibbard proved a strong man and will no doubt be a valuable acquisition to the council.

W H Perry and R J Wales were comparitively new men, but nevertheless they made a good run.

Genial John Lowry, the walking member of last year's council, developed great strength in West Ward, and came within two votes of heading the poll.

By the defeat of ex-Mayor Stevens the council loses an energetic member. THE EXPRESS opposed him from no feeling of animosity, but we believed he should not have opposed Mr Symington for the reeveship. He had had his turn and Mr Symington deserved the position by reason of long and faithful service.

Mr Vandusen ran well, but he was opposed to old heads at the business and of course failed to get there.

TOWNSHIP OF SHEFFIELD.

This township returned to its old love on Monday and elected a Reform council :

Reeve- Hiram Keech 284, W J Paul 251. Majority for Keech 33.

Deputy-reeve—George Woods 284, Henry Shier 247. Majority for Woods 37.

Councillors—John Wagar 284, Thos Donhoe 274, Dennis Kearns 271, David Brandon 251, M York 250, Edward McGuire 229.

TOWNSHIP OF CAMDEN.

For reeve—Wilde 519, Baker 497.

First deputy-reeve — Weese 509, Lockridge, 428.

Second deputy-reeve — Rombough 558, Madden 519.

Councillors — Freeman 541, Sherlock 490, Jackson 411, Johnston 401.

TOWNSHIP OF TYENDINAGA.

Reeve, A McFarlane; first deputy reeve, Osborne; second deputy reeve, P. McAlphin; councillors, Scott and Monroe.

NORTH FREDERICKSBURGH.

Reeve—E H Sills.

Deputy-reeve—H Meng.

Councillors—Wagar, Parks, Hough.

SOUTH FREDERICKSBURGH.

Reeve—Milling.

Councillors—Ham, Allison, Creighton, Sills.

AMHERST ISLAND.

Reeve—Fowler. Old council returned by acclamation.

ADOLPHUSTOWN.

Reeve—Davis.

RICHMOND

Reeve—Oliver, (accl.)

Deputy-reeve—Anderson.

VILLAGE OF TWEED.

Reeve—R F Houston.

Councillors — W F Campbell, Sandy Grant, John Alexander, John Countryman.

of a government is to promote the material well being of the people.

If we look to an immense and constantly increasing public debt, to the millions upon millions in mortgages on lands and chattels, to a woful lack of natural markets for our surplus produce, to unjust tariff laws, to extravagant and dishonest administrations, to deserted farms and homes, to hundreds of thousands of the flower of our youth seeking a living in foreign lands, to the unnecessarilly high price of the comforts of life, to the meagre compensation of labor, to the thieving in our public departments and public works, we will discover but very poor evidence of the prosperity and happiness of our people.

We fail to see in the tariff created palaces of our millionaire monopolists any substantial gain to the people. Therefore we denounce this system of unequal distribution of wealth a crying injustice and one of the primary causes of the depression and discontent that are steadily invading the homes of the toilers, both urban and rural. We regard the situation as one of extreme peril to the future of our country and ask for a remedy at the hands of the electors, who are primarily responsible for the danger to which we find ourselves exposed.

We favor reforms that strike at the root of all extravagance and dishonesty in every public department and measures that will advance the general welfare of the community.

We demand the right to sell in the dearest market and buy in the cheapest, in short reciprocal trade on fair and equitable terms between Canada and the world.

This principle of trade should underlie all future fiscal legislation and the burden of taxation should be borne by wealth and not by poverty.

We demand purity of administration and absolute independence of parliament even to the extent of rendering unlawful the acceptance of railroad passes by members of parliament.

We demand that labor and the results of labor be effectually protected by legislation from those combines and monopolies which unduly enhance the price of the article produced by such combinations.

These are some of the principles which we will support and by which we will be guided.

We commend them to your careful attention and if you consider them to be for your interests and for the welfare of Canada we respectfully solicit your cordial support.

Yours faithfully
E. B. SWITZER,

SALEM.

Snow has got here at last to the satisfaction of all.

Joe Sedore has moved into Wm. Towers' place on the corner.

Mrs. Fralick and daughter I understand have gone to Bay City Michigan to reside.

Mrs. Ham Lowry and Mrs. Robt. McMullen were guests at Charles Lowry's on Wednesday.

Mrs. Leonard McCabe, accompanied by Mrs. E. J. Howes spent Wednesday at George Richardson's, Campbell Hill.

Ed. Conger's team went to the shanty on Tuesday.

Election day passed off satisfactorily, although it was very cold we made it hot for some of them. Three good Reformers were elected in our ward. How is that for us?

Cold was the driving on Sunday last so I have heard say. Did you freeze your ear.

Freddie Doyle, of Kingsford, spent a few days last week at the home of Willie McCabe.

Charlie Lowry and Harry Symonds were in our midst on Sunday.

No marriages, births or deaths to report this week, but there is no telling how soon there may be, judging from the usual trips that some one makes.

We noticed the fox horse went porth on Sunday.

J. E. Toole, Opera House, Tuesday Next.

play ground of No. 14.

NAPANEE MILLS.

The Orangemen intend holding a grand tea meeting on the 14th. Every one come and enjoy a treat.

Mr. Fred Robertson leaves on Monday to renew acquaintances in Belleville, Kingston and Madoc.

Mr Hopper and two daughters, also Mr and Mrs. Lasher left on Monday for Toronto.

Mr James McGuire is dangerously ill.

The "Chosen Friends" of this place met at the school house on Tuesday evening where they were served to oysters and cake. They report having a hilarious time but Bert and George are still in bed suffering from oysters on the stomach.

Confirmation services were held in St. Jude's church, Napanee Mills, on Sunday last. Bishop Lewis, of Kingston, was present and confirmed 29 new adherents of the church. In the evening the annual missionary meeting was held and proved highly successful. The following gentlemen delivered interesting addresses: Dean Carey, of Kingston; Judge Wilkison and Rev. Mr Woodcock.

The municipal elections were hotly contested in Camden. Mr John Madden, one of the candidates for the deputy-reeveship, although not elected, headed the poll in his own neighborhood, testifying to the high esteem and respect in which he is held by his neighbors.

Mr F. B Allan entertained Bishop Lewis and the visiting clergymen at his residence on Sunday.

Mr Crabtree, manager of the paper mills, spent his holidays in Toronto with his family.

Mrs P. Madigan received the sad intelligence of her father's death, Abraham Dies, of Shannonville, on Saturday. Mr and Mrs Madigan attended the funeral, which took place on Monday.

Mr Artemer Granger, of Dakota, who moved away from here some seven or eight years ago, is renewing old acquaintances in this vicinity.

CROYDON.

The river is at high water mark and the mud also.

The Xmas Tree at Hughes' Schoolhouse was a decided success. The house was packed. Thos. Furrs the superintendent was elected to fill the chair and received a beautiful scarf from the young men of the Bible Class. Miss McGinnes was given a very hearty vote of thanks for the valuable assistance she gave at the entertainment. Proceeds 14 30.

The Fair was largely attended and a good many beeves changed hands.

An amusing incident was witnessed here recently. A number of our brave townsmen might have been seen on fences and behind ports waving sticks and shouting to keep a yearling heifer from covering them with gore. Finally Nathan managed to get her home.

Xmas day passed off very quietly in this hamlet.

School meeting passed off quietly as usual. Mr. J. Teskey was elected trustee.

Thos. E Furrs has been engaged as teacher for 1896.

Wm. Howard has moved from Croydon into his own residence in Knowltonville.

Miss Maggie Bradshaw has returned home after spending a few days with her uncle Mr A. Campbell and family.

Thos. Furrs has rented the Hamilton Stand as a private residence and has moved into it.

One of our oldest citizens Mr. Galbraith is very low and may not recover.

Charles Lunberg is suffering from an attack of erysipelas and is confined to the house.

It is our sad duty to chronicle the sudden death of Mr. John West who died after a few hours of inflammation. He seemed to be strong and well the day before. He had the deep respect of all who knew him.

We are to have a Sunday school at once, may it be successful. The sunday school at Hughes closed on Sunday last to be reopened in the spring. A vote of thanks was given Thos. Furrs for acting as superintendent for the season.

On Monday night as Mr. and Mrs. P. Nowlan were seated by their fireside Mrs. Nowlan was suddenly taken ill and fell on the floor and died a few minutes after before medical aid could be obtained. The aged husband and the two sons have the heart-felt sympathy of all the people of this section

The above correspondence was somewhat belated, as instead of sending it direct to this office the correspondent addressed it to a former employee of THE EXPRESS, who is now in Midland. The letter was forwarded to him, and immediately on its receipt, he returned it to us, hence the delay in publishing it.—Ed.

The Debating school at Hawley is getting to be great sport for the children and for older folks as well, who never saw or heard the like before. We have one young man who makes his home at Hawley, better known as the nursery agent. If he keeps on speaking in the debate he will soon be able to take the political platform for Mr. Wilson.

The wind played havoc on the last day of the old year with fences. Some of the farmers are taking advantage of the wind by taking the patent fence down and putting up wire fences. More should follow their example.

Mr. Editor, I am pleased to state in this correspondence that we have secured what we want, a Reeve, in this end of the township, in the person of Mr. J. Milling. Mr. Fred Creighton is our councillor. We wish them success as it is their first venture in municipal politics.

You must understand, Mr. Editor, that this year, 1896, is leap year, and I expect a great change will take place in the state of the batchelors in Hawley. In fact myself would put up with a good looking girl in preference to buying a silk dress these hard times.

I noticed in last week's EXPRESS a well written letter by Mr. Allen Pringle You should feel proud of such a correspondent I read with great pleasure. I am pleased to say that we have but a very few stiff neck Tories, what the Tories call themselves now, I do not know.

A TERIBLE VERDICT.

A Man Plainly Told that He Would Never Walk Out Again.

SO THE DOCTOR SAID.

He is Saved and Cured by Paine's Celery Compound.

The Only Reliable Cure for Kidney Diseases.

When Mr. H. Ball, the well known auctioneer, of Chatham, Ont., was told by his physicians that he would never walk again, it simply amounted to telling him that his days on earth were short. Kidney disease was doing its deadly work, physicians and medicines had failed, and the last ray of hope had almost fled forever. Mr. Ball, having heard wondrous reports about the medicinal virtues of Paine's Celery Compound, wisely decided to give the great medicine a trial. He was not disappointed health and strength returned, weight increased, and to-day he is a new man. He tells of his wonderful escape from death as follows:—

"I was so seriously ill I was obliged to take to my bed, where I laid for four months. The doctors here and in Toronto said my trouble was Addison's disease of the kidneys and told me I would never walk again. I commenced to use Paine's Celery Compound. I was very much reduced in flesh; to day I weigh over 200 pounds. I can affirm with confidence and honesty that Paine's Celery Compound saved my life."

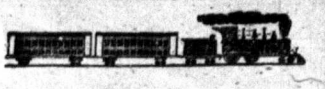
The Dominion Bank

ESTABLISHED 1871.

CAPITAL — $1,500,000.00
RESERVE FUND — $1,450,000.00

Deposits received and interest allowed
Drafts on all parts of Great Britain and United States bought and sold.

E. H. BAINES, Agent.



J. L. BOYES

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY

Ticket Agent

DUNDAS STREET,

NAPANEE, - ONT.

Consumption.

Valuable treatise and two bottles of medicine sent Free to any sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. T. A. SLOCUM CHEMICAL CO., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

A. R. DAVIS,
Ontario Land Surveyor and Civil Engineer.
Office with T. G. Davis, Insurance Agent, 39 Coates Block

IRISH AND SCOTCH WHISKY.

For sale by the undersigned the following well known brands of Irish and Scotch whiskey :—

Bushmills ..... Irish
James Watson & Co. ..... "
Henry Thomson & Co. ..... "
Mitchell & Bro. ..... "
Burke & Co. ..... "
J. Brown & Co. ..... "

Bernard & Co. Encore ..... Scotch
Watson's, 3 Star ..... "
Dewar's, Extra Special ..... "
Usher's, O.V.G. ..... "
Sheriff's ..... "
Claymore ..... "
B. Lade & Co. ..... "
Mitchell Bro. ..... "
Glengowan ..... "

M. W. PRUYN & SON,
Napanee, 12th Dec. 1894.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

FOR

CHRISTMAS and NEW YEARS HOLIDAYS

Will Make Special Rates For All

Single First Class Fare

Going Dec. 24th and 25th, Returning Dec 26, 1895
Going Dec. 31st and Jan 1 Returning Jan. 2. 1896

Single First Class Fare and One-Third

Going Dec. 21st to 25th } Returning until Going Dec. 28th to Jan. 1st } Jan. 7th, 1896

Special Rates for Students and Teachers.

Single First Class fare and One-Third

Going Dec. 13 to 25, Returning until Jan. 13th '96.

Special Rates for Commercial Travellers.

Single First Class fare

Going Dec. 20 to 25, Returning until Jan. 7th '96.

E. McLAUGHLIN,
1y Agent at Napanee.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, JAN. 10, 1896.

THE HAPPY FAMILY.

The present aggregation at Ottawa stands pilloried as the most dishonorable, corrupt and vacillating Government that ever disgraced the annals of this or any other country. Held together by what Blake fitly termed "the cohesion of plunder," they have retained office by the most unblushing corruption. Whole constituencies have been bribed by public works, and the people debauched with money pilfered from the public chest. Money has been passed out of the treasury to dishonest contractors and political wire-pullers to be returned through this channel to the credit of the Government's election fund, and the Curran bridge, the Tay canal, the Connolly-McGreevy scandals are just a few examples of the great corruption that has characterized the administration of affairs under the Tory rule. Like vultures they have preyed upon the vitals of the country, squandering our resources, impoverishing the people, and by a policy of restriction forcing our kindred to migrate to other lands.

The crisis that has overtaken this Government of incompetents is what has long been expected. Given lots of tether they have practicably hanged themselves, and it is an execution or suicide that the people of Canada can view with complacency not unmingled with joy. Ever since Mackenzie Bowell assumed the premiership dissension and strife have been in the Cabinet. While we have been regaled with fine tales of the unity of the Great Tory Government a section of the Cabinet has been endeavoring to knife the Premier for the past few months. Like the Happy Family, and they are every bit as ill assorted, they have been kept from rending one another by gorging to repletion at the public trough. Now that the people have voiced a desire that the trough shall be taken from them they have turned upon one another One Minister, Sir Adolphe Caron, accuses another minister, Dr. Montague, of writing anonymous letters to the Governor General and Premier seeking to compass his ruin. While Montague denies that he did so, and some are inclined to credit his denial, it shows that a number of his colleagues believe him capable of just such an action, and in fact it is right in line with the windy doctor's past line of procedure. He is a good type of the unscrupulous, windy and gaseous politician that predominates in the United States. Taken on his merits no self respecting constituency would elect him as pound keeper, still he has been elevated to the position of Minister of Agriculture and is supposed to represent the interests of the farmers in Parliament. The dissensions of the cabinet culminated in half the ministers tendering their resignations to the Premier on Saturday. The malcontents are Hon. Geo. Foster, minister of Finance; Sir Chas. H. Tupper, minister of Justice; Messrs. Haggart, Ives, Montague, Dickey and Wood. The Premier has accepted their resignations and will endeavor to re-construct the cabinet. It is believed in this he will prove unsuccessful and that dissolution and an appeal to the people will be the outcome of the matter. In any event the defeat of the present Government is assured, and the general elections will usher in a Liberal Government and an era of economy and good government in this badly mismanaged Canada of ours.

It is unnecessary to speculate on the causes that lead up to the present smash-up. Bowell, as Premier, has not been a pronounced success. A section of his followers desired to take

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Mr. Editor—This age of so called development seems, in many respects, like an age of retrogression. The onward movement of civilization—if such there is to be—must be kept up by whom? It must be by the future generations. What, think you, must be the condition of these future generations when their manhood is attained, if the control of the world is to be placed in their hands? You will agree, I think, that the days of their youth must be spent under careful instructors, must be influenced by the very best examples, and that they must be given every possible opportunity for physical, intellectual and moral development so that their manhood may be marked by fair and broad-minded principles, not by narrow, selfish ones, which naturally would come from a narrow and selfish education.

It is evident that if this development is obtained, our Public Schools must be filled with efficient teachers. The facts that have given birth to these thoughts, are that some Public School Trustees are busy in forcing and keeping down the salaries of good teachers. Sensible people must surely say that the school is the very last place where people should act miserly. It would be far more economical in the end to curtail expenses in regard to agricultural apparatus, clothing and household articles, such as steel ranges, etc. Perhaps these people will say it is their own business. Well, I say that school matters are the business of the children, not of the parents, although the latter have full control.

Let us look at things in the light of reason. If a parent by his influence dismisses a satisfactory teacher for the sake of saving a few dollars by engaging an inferior, is he not doing his children and other people's children an incalculable injury? And how much does he save? Only a few cents when it is distributed among the ratepayers of the section. He is thus bartering the success of his own child for a few cents of present gain. Such supreme selfishness is awful to think of without considering it as fact. O! deliver me from the thraldom of such selfish motives! When trustees will haggle over twenty or twenty-five dollars on the salary of a teacher whom they know to be efficient and highly satisfactory, the public spirit is very small and very much deformed. O men—if such ye be—boast not of the iniquity of your own hands! The same unfortunate teacher has spent perhaps hundreds of dollars for his own education and is now putting forth an honest effort to make his way in the world. Little wonder is it if he be over-anxious to rid himself of a most unthankful, yet most important and praise-worthy performance of duty as a Public school teacher.

It is true it may be argued that there are some inferior teachers, but do you think there is justice in striking the same scale for both classes? If the same close and conniving spirit prevails the country will soon be deprived of good teachers, for other work will be sought giving more remunerative returns. Is it any wonder that teachers are fitting themselves for law, medicine, dentistry, etc? It will soon become their sole present object to leave the teaching profession as soon as possible.

If men without children have control of public school affairs, let them think for a moment that their education may have been neglected both mentally and morally. If the present generation are lacking in culture, by all means let the next imbibe as much as possible the culture and education of the best teachers obtainable.

Again let the people give the teacher all the encouragement they can, not by complaining about something they cannot improve themselves or by finding fault over trifles, or by giving car-

A good, healthy wholesomeness will make even a homely face attractive.

There are many reasons why women should take care to be healthy. One very strong reason is that beauty and illness are very seldom found together. Illness—and especially the kind peculiar to women—makes the complexion bad, the eyes dull and sunken, the manner listless and the intellect dull.

No woman in this condition can be attractive to her friends. Personal appearance counts for much, but comfort amounts to even more. What's the good of living if one cannot enjoy anything? If headaches and backaches and dragging weariness and pain accompany even slight fatigue?

If the system is constantly subjected to a debilitating drain, where is the energy to come from to make enjoyment possible?

Personal comfort and a consideration for the feelings of others are two of the incentives to an effort to secure health.

If the illness is in any way connected with the purely feminine organism (and the chances are ten to one that it is) Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure it.

Dr. Pierce has used the "Prescription" in his practice for thirty years with unbroken success. A large book (1000 pages and 300 illustrations) written by him entitled "The People's Medical Adviser" will be sent ABSOLUTELY FREE on receipt of 31 cents in one-penny stamps to prepay postage and duty only. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

NEWBURGH LOSES A GOOD CITIZEN.

(Crowded out last week.)

On Tuesday evening last between seventy-five and a hundred of the citizens of Newburgh gathered in Percy's Hall to say farewell to Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Percy, who left on Wednesday for Mount Forest, and to present them with an address and a small token of esteem. Dr. Beeman, as chairman, in a few well chosen words explained the reason for such an assembly and called upon Mr. C. W. Thompson who read the following address :—

TO MR. AND MRS. D. E. PERCY AND FAMILY.

Dear Friends—We, some of your friends gathered here on the eve of your departure from our midst, take this opportunity to express our sincere regret at your removal but at the same time trust our loss will be your gain. We however hold you and your family in high esteem both in private and public. We have always appreciated the open frank and constant friendship which has characterized you all, and which has immeasurably strengthened the ties which bind us together as friends. We feel our village has lost sincere friends in that you were always willing to assist in advancing every good effort. The general public will long remember and revere the names of Percy and Caton which have indelibly been united under the one name Percy.

The Methodist church here has lost valuable friends and your assistance and pleasant faces will be greatly missed.

We feel that it requires heroic efforts to tear asunder the bonds and ties that have been moulded and entwined around each of you since the days of your birth to the present hour and we feel full well the tremendous strain in leaving Relatives—Friends—and the house of your nativity; but with all this we know that divine grace will be sufficient for the hour of trial.

Our best wishes go with you to your new sphere of labor, and our prayer is that our Heavenly Father will abundantly bless you and surround you with many kind friends and lead you in new avenues of usefulness.

As a parting token of our good will and friendship we ask your kind acceptance of these two chairs and vase which have been purchased with the funds of some of your many friends, in the village.

We all join in wishing you a very happy, prosperous New Year.

Signed on behalf of your friends
C. W. THOMSON,
M. I. BEEMAN,
E. J. MADDEN.

Mr. Percy, on behalf of himself and Quarters for a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters as all sensible people do, because it cures Dyspepsia, Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Bad Blood, and all Diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Bowels and Blood. From a common Pimple to the worst Scrofulous Sore.

WANTED SALESMEN We want one or two GOOD MEN in each County to take orders for a choice line of NURSERY STOCK or SEED POTATOES Stock and Seed guaranteed. We can give you STEADY EMPLOYMENT with Good Pay. It will cost you nothing to give it a trial. State when writing which you prefer to sell. Address

THE HAWKS NURSERY CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

ONE THING IS CERTAIN PAIN-KILLER KILLS PAIN

PAIN-KILLER

THE GREAT

Family Medicine of the Age.

Taken Internally, It Cures

Diarrhœa, Cramp, and Pain in the Stomach, Sore Throat, Sudden Colds, Coughs, etc., etc.

Used Externally, It Cures

Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Sprains, Toothache, Pain in the Face, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Frosted Feet.

No article ever attained to such unbounded popularity.—Salem Observer.

We can bear testimony to the efficacy of the Pain-Killer. We have seen its magic effects in soothing the severest pain, and know it to be a good article.—Cincinnati Dispatch.

Nothing has yet surpassed the Pain-Killer, which is the most valuable family medicine now in use.—Tennessee Organ.

It has real merit; as a means of removing pain, no medicine has acquired a reputation equal to Perry Davis' Pain-Killer.—Newport News.

Beware of Imitations. Buy only the genuine "PERRY DAVIS." Sold everywhere; large bottles, 25c.

UNDERTAKING!

Having added a full line of Undertaker's Goods, consisting of Caskets, Coffins, Robes, etc.

to my stock of Furniture, I am prepared to supply and attend funerals on the shortest notice, and in the most modern style. Having had twenty years experience in the business, perfect satisfaction may be relied on.

Embalming a Specialty.

JAS. WILSON,
DUNDAS STREET.

N.B.—Residence next door west (opposite Dr. Leonard's). Open at all hours.

CEDAR.

What do you want? I will tell you.

GOOD FENCES

made of sound Yellow Cedar. The subscriber has a quantity of CEDAR POSTS, STAKES, BINDERS and BUILDING TIMBER, of any length and size, which he will dispose of at more reasonable rates than can be obtained elsewhere.

DENIS DALY.
NAPANEE.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Pushing trustworthy men to represent us in the sale of our Choice Nursery Stock. Specialties controlled by us. Highest Salary or Commission paid weekly. Steady employment the year round. Outfit free; exclusive territory; experience not necessary; big pay assured workers; special inducements to beginners. Write at once for particulars to board. The old man has stuck to the ship, however, and cabinet or no cabinet will stand by her till she runs on the rocks. The reception accorded the remedial order by the French and Irish Catholics, of Quebec, has been another disquieting influence. And Foster and Tupper perceived that they could not float into power on a wave of sectarian prejudice, as they had vainly hoped. Norwithstanding that they were pledged to remedial legislation, and that a special session of Parliament had been called to deal with the question, these vote hunting politicians saw there was nothing for it but to rid themselves of Bowell and the remedial order, or scuttle the ship. If the worst came to the worst five years of opposition would enable them to rehabilitate themselves, as it had their late leader, Sir John Macdonald, once before. Their actions will go down in the archives of Canadian history as one of the basest acts of political treachery on record. We have nothing but respect for the old spartan, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who to redeem his pledge would have introduced remedial legislation, despite the consequence. Like the famous Jimmie Bludsoe, he will stand by the ship, and "hold her nozzle against the bank till the last soul gets a shore." It may be misguided zeal, but it shows that the old man is possessed of honor, and it is a credit to him that after so long an association with such a gang he has been able to retain it. But what are we to think of the cowardly mariners, who like rats, deserted the leaky old vessel on the first approach of the storm. The deluge that Sir John Macdonald prophesied is upon them and threatens to engulf them.

ALLEN NURSERY CO.,

Sir Charles, the elder, and head, and we might say "neck" and "cheeck" of the Tupper dynasty is at present in Canada looking after the interests of the family. The defeat of the Government means the loss of his fat position as High Commissioner to England, together with its emoluments. He is even spoken off for the Premiership, but the electorate of Canada, already surfieted with the other bumptious members of this interesting family, will sicken at the thought of the Great Romancer and Stretcher.

In these disquieting times the people of the Dominion turn to Sir Wilfred Laurier as the hope of Canada. In him they have a statesman, not a politician, a man of principle, not a traitor. The man who assumes the reins of Government after the next general election will not have a bed of roses, but we believe that Mr. Laurier, surrounded as he is by some of the ablest men in Canadian public life to day, is equal to the task.

The Globe in referring to the demands put forth by THE EXPRESS and Mr. Allan Pringle for a full and detailed report from the Fishery Overseer of this district says it looks now as if the report which the public demand will have to be secured through a question in Parliament.

Severe Headache Cured. DEAR SIRS,—I had severe headache for the past two years and used all kinds of medicine without finding a cure until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, when relief and cure quickly followed. I think there is no better medicine in the world.

MISS MINNIE DRYSDALE,
Berlin Ont.

Consumptives, cheer up! You are not going to die, if will but take Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "the kink that ouses" coughs, colds, bronchitss and the first stage of consumption. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at druggists.

Worth $5.00 A Bottle. SIRS,—For five years I have been troubled with neuralgia and tried everything I could see or hear of. At last I was advised to try a bottle of Yellow Oil and refused because I thought it was like all the rest—a failure. A half bottle was given me, however, and I found it helped me, and bought a bottle which cured me. If it cost five dollars a bottle I would not be without it.

THOS. QUINN,
Gravenhurst, Ont.

to exaggerated complaints from children, but by urging them on to obedience and study. From what I can learn from all classes of people the greatest success is attained by the pupil that is not allowed by its parents to tell tales out of school, and the one who, if he goes home complaining bitterly of treatment from the teacher, quite likely exaggerated, gets another whipping for his misbehavior. It is better to foster a more manly ambition in the youthful minds of boys and girls, and it will also have a great tendency to cause them to apply themselves more studiously to their work. It is well to avoid gossip, at all times, especially in the presence of school children.

Let there be a greater fellow feeling for humanity and the world will go more smoothly on its way.

Would be pleased to hear from others on this subject. Thanking you for valuable space.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHER.

The Arena For December 1895.

Although the Arena is reduced in price from $5 to $3 a year commencing with this issue, there is no diminution in the quantity or quality of the contents, which are constantly improving. The Frontispiece of this number is Richard T. Ely, who writes, along with Justice Walter Clark on "Government Control of the Telegraph." There are "Personal Recollections of America's Seven great Poets" as follows:—"A morning with Lowell," by Minot J Savage; "Emerson" by John W. Chadwick; "Emerson in His Home," by Frank B. Sanborn; "Oliver Wendell Holmes," by Edward Everett Hale; "John Greenleaf Whittier," by Mary B Claflin; "William Cullen Bryant," by Henrietta S. Nahmer. "The Wonders of Hypnotism as recently demonstrated by Leading French Scientists," by Henry Gaullieur is a remarkable article. Professor G. D. Herron writes on "Opportunity of the Church in the Present Social Crisis." There are many other leading articles that make up a good number. The Arena Publishing Co., Boston, Mass., Pierce Building, Copley Square. 25 cts. a number, $3 a year.

Do You Get Them?

If You Do Not You are Deceived.

When you ask for Diamond Dyes, and your dealer offers you a substitute, you are being deceived, and trouble and loss of money and goods will be the result.

Diamond Dyes are the simplest, strongest and fastest colours for home dyeing. Every package of each color is warranted to do the best work when the directions are followed. The manufacturers of Diamond Dyes prepare special dyes for wool, silk, cotton and mixed goods, that give the most brilliant and lasting colors. Ask for the Diamond; refuse all others.

In Reply to Oft Repeated Questions. It may be well to state, Scott's Emulsion acts as a food as well as a medicine, building up the wasted issues and restoring perfect health after wasting fever.

Hood's Pills are the best after dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

"I am cured since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla," is what many thousands are saying. It gives renewed vitality and vigor.

A Obstacle In Her Way.

"Did you like the matinee?" said Mabel to Blanche.

"No, I couldn't see the stage."

"Your seat was well towards the front, wasn't it?"

"Yes; but a football player sat directly in front of me."—Judge.

A Fellow Feeling.

"If dere is any invention dat I have a profound respeck fur," said Meandering Mike, "it's de founting-pen."

"Whut's de reason?" inquired Plodding Pete.

"Dey never work." — Washington Star.

to the ties which bind them to Newburgh, and expressing himself that it was not from choice they were leaving but business called him and he must go.

Short speeches were made by Rev. McCulloch, Rev. Gandier, E. J. Madden, G. E. Deroche, D. A. Nesbitt, Douglas Hooper, Philip Phalen, C. W. Thomson, G. McC. Thomson, I. Dunwoodie, F. Drewry, P D. Shorey, Dr. Duff, J. Osborne, A. C. Grange, E. McCulloch, and J. W. Courtney. The combined result of the speeches showed that Mr. Percy has always taken a live interest in the affairs of the village and has always done his duty faithfully and well—as a business man his dealings were always straightforward and honorable—as secretary of the school board the members of the board and the teaching staff all give him the highest praise for his efficiency and geniality—as a church official he was ever present when duty called. In him the Methodist church loses a man upon whom many responsibilities have been cast and never has the confidence in him been misplaced—as a private citizen he had no enemies; the constancy of a genial disposition made friends for him without number. He was always the first to head a subscription list for the boys for athletic sports and games—the first to welcome new comers to the village and make them feel at home. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy was always open to social entertainment.

The ladies present claimed to be able to show quite as many good qualities in Mrs. Percy if their modesty had not prevented the speech. Suffice it to say that no one can find an unkind word to say of Mrs. Percy and soon in Mount Forest she will be beloved by all who know her as she is by those she leaves behind

Mr. Percy, wife and children have the good wishes of all who know them.

In The Beginning

Of a new year, when the winter season of close confinement is only half gone, many find that their health begins to break down, that the least exposure threatens sickness. It is then as well as at all other times, and with people even in good health, that the following facts should be remembered, namely: that Hood's Sarsaparilla leads everything in the way of medicines; that it accomplishes the greatest cures in the world; has the largest sale in the world, and requires the largest building in the world devoted exclusively to the preparation of the proprietary medicine. Does not this conclusively prove, if you are sick, that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine for you to take?

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

The greatest offer ever made—THE NAPANEE EXPRESS and the Toronto Weekly Globe, the two papers one year for one dollar. The balance of the year free.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

Rheumatism of 20 years' standing radically cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla.

Mrs. Sarah Browning, an estimable resident of the Ambitious City, was for twenty years a sufferer from acute rheumatism, and her restoration to health is so remarkable that we present the case for the benefit of our readers, many of whom are doubtless sufferers from this painful complaint which arises from blood poison. Mrs. Browning says: "I used only one bottle of Scott's Sarsaparilla and received such benefit that I continued taking only at intervals for two months. That is seven months ago, and the pain has not returned. I had spent a fortune in various "treatments" and was told by one medical man that a cure was impossible as I had suffered so long."

Scott's Sarsaparilla cures by making and keeping the blood pure. It increases flesh by digesting flesh-forming foods. It is the most successful medicine in the world to-day, for dyspepsia, nervous troubles, rheumatism, sciatica, syphilitic afflictions, pimples and all diseases originating in a foul condition of the blood. Dose from one half to one teaspoonful.

The Year 1896
Is upon us

WE know our citizens and customers did not go barefooted during the past year. Neither do we expect them to do so in this New Year 1896, when they find we are still selling

Good Boots at Low Prices!

HAINES & LOCKETT

Cash Saved

By ordering your Suits from DAVIS & Co. Entire new stock at bottom prices to select from.

Call and see our prices before ordering.

Davis & Co.

T. G. DAVIS. R FORD.

LIQUID AIR.

Dr. Linde's Process for Making it on a Commercial Basis.

It is only about a year since the scientific world was surprised and delighted with Professor Dewar's brilliant series of experiments with liquid air, liquid oxygen, and liquid hydrogen and physicits have just about had time enough to recover from their surprise at these discoveries. Now the announcement comes that Dr. Linde, the inventor of the refrigerating system bearing his name, has devised an apparatus hardly more complicated than a refrigerating machine, whereby liquid air can be produced on a commercial scale. He dispenses with the carbonic acid and ethylene, which were required in the earlier processes, and liquifies the air by a cycle of compressions, expansions and coolings which are so simple as to remove the production of this particular material from the laboratory to the factory. But this is only part of the remarkable mechanical achievements which have just been announced. The production of liquid air is but a step toward the preparation on a large scale of fairly pure oxygen. The great source of oxygen is the air, but to separate the oxygen and nitrogen in the air has heretofore required a complicated process. Dr. Linde starts, however, with the fact that when liquid air is evaporated the nitrogen is given off first, and then the oxygen, so to secure oxygen he merely lets his liquid air evaporate and collects only the oxygen. The cost of producing in this way a gas containing 70 per cent. of oxygen is estimated to be about 28 cents per 1000 cubic feet, if the machinery works under the most favorable conditions.

Farmer's Institute.

The Farmer's Institute, of Lennox has arranged for a series of meetings in this district to be addressed by J. A. Qavitz, B.S.A., C.A.C., of Guelph Ont, on the following subjects: "The science and the practice of underdraining," "Practical Methods for improving the fertility of our farms," "Improvements of the plants of the farm," "The Improvement of fodder crops in the production of meat and milk," "The cultivation of corn, potatoes and field roots," "The best varieties of wheat, barley, peas and oats in seven years experiments." Evening subjects: "The influence of the Ontario Agricultural College," "Co-operative experiments in agriculture throughout Ontario for ten years." F. H. Mason, Straffordville, Ont., will deliver addresses on "hog raising," "butter making," "care and food of dairy cattle," "shall sheep raising be abandoned in Ontario." Evening subjects: "The outlook for the Ontario farmer in butter making." Meetings will be held in the town hall, Odessa, on Jan. 28th, and in the town hall, Napanee, on Jan. 31st. The afternoon meeting will be held at 1.30 p.m., and the evening meetings at 7.30 p.m. Local talent will assist at each meeting. All welcome,

HENRY FILSON, Stella, President. H. AYLSWORTH, Secretary.

The Living Picture's Fortune.

A MIGHTY RIVER.

PROF. BELL FINDS A STREAM OF GREAT SIGNIFICANCE

In a Valuable Territory—Navigable in Large Stretches for Steamboats and Has a Depth of Forty Feet—May Be the Nile of the North.

Prof. R. Bell of the Geological Survey, was interviewed by a reporter concerning the extensive exploration from which he has just returned, and more particularly in regard to the discovery of a great river almost due north of Ottawa.

"The government was desirous of filling up the great blank spaces on the map to the south and southeast of James Bay, and directed me to proceed with the work," he said. "This space represents the only large unexplored area in the southern or valuable part of the Dominion.

"The existence of this blank up to this year was rather a reflection on our geographical enterprise. This area is larger than the settled portions of either Ontario or Quebec and considerably larger than the State of New York. I found that it all belongs to the drainage area of a single river, which was consequently very large in a country where the rainfall is so copious.

"This river turns out to be one of the leading geographical features of the Dominion, and it seems almost incredible that it should have remained unknown till now. One reason for this is the fact that it is not used for transportation by the Hudson Bay Company. The great tract of country which it drains is valuable for agriculture, being mostly south of England in latitude, and having a nearly level surface, with good soil and very little rock.

"Speaking generally, my route was as direct as possible from Ottawa city to the southeastern extremity of James Bay, and it was the first time that such a journey has been attempted. With two large birch bark canoes, manned by crews of strong Indians, I ascended the Gatineau River, which enters the Ottawa near Ottawa, and some of its branches, till I reached the head waters of the Ottawa. The height of land between the basin of the St. Lawrence and that of Hudson Bay passes close to Grand Lake, on the upper Ottawa. Crossing this great divide by portaging from one

The biggest dollar's worth ever offered. THE NAPANEE EXPRESS and the Toronto Globe, the two papers one year for one dollar. The balance of the year free.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

The Ladies of the Ottawa Cooking School to Deliver Addresses on the Culinary Art.

Miss Bessie Livingston, superintendent Ottawa Cooking School, and her assistant, Miss Miller, have consented to address Farmers' Institute meetings on the following subjects, any time between the 1st of December, 1895, and the 1st of April, 1896:

1. "The food value of milk and its Derivations."
2. "Cooking of milk, cheese and eggs; time 50 minutes."
3. "A practical lesson on invalid cookery"; 40 minutes.
4. "Diet for children"; 40 minutes.
5. "Cereal food and breakfast dishes"; 50 minutes.
6. "The cookery of vegetables"; 20 minutes.
7. "Classes and combinations of food"; 20 minutes.
8. "Hot supper dishes"; 45 minutes.

Papers will be read on some of the following subjects:

1. "The farm kitchen" (with discussion 20 minutes.)
2. "The five food principles and the purposes they serve in the body"; 15 minutes.

DEMONSTRATION LECTURES.

1. "The dietetic value of milk and cheese," with illustrations of cooking them; 30 minutes.
2. "The medicinal properties of fruits and dainty ways of serving them"; 30 minutes.
3. "Starchy foods"; examples, puddings and breakfast dishes; 40 minutes.
4. "The economic cookery of meats"; 50 minutes.
5. "The school childrens' lunch basket"; 30 minutes.

Food will be prepared and cooked before the audience and served at close of lecture.

These ladies are highly recommended by Prof. Robertson and Dr. James Mills, president of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont. Institute officers who wish to secure the services of these ladies, should correspond at once with F. W. Hodson, superintendent of Farmers' Institutes, Guelph, Ont.

oxygen will cost more than this estimate, of course. The process is still in its infancy, and its commercial value has still to be determined, but it is worth noting as one of those brilliant opportunities for new applications of physical laws to mechanical purposes are by no means exhausted.

STUDY OF THE MOON

Peculiarities Noted in Its Appearance at Different Seasons.

To the casual observer the motions of the moon appear to be exceedingly whimsical and irregular. If its place in the sky is watched it will be found that it is first north and then south of the sun's path, and that it is sometimes east and sometimes west of that luminary. The last two motions are steady and regular, from east to west, carrying the moon in its endless swing around the heavens, starting at new moon near the sun and progressing until at full moon the whole visible portion of the sky separates the two bodies. After this there are two weeks in which the moon still appears to move backward, approaching the sun from the other side, then, again apparently all of a sudden, it passes the sun, and we behold a "new moon."

The north and south motions of the moon are entirely different. While performing its endless journey from west to east there are two special periods in which it either moves far northward or takes up its position low down in the south. In spring the first motion is north, but afterward the general motion is reversed. In December you will note that the full moon occurs at the most northerly point in her course, and in June at the most southerly. This is why we have most light from the full moon of winter and least from that of summer. Observations on these various movements indicate to us the path which the moon moves about the earth, and also shows us that that body in different parts of its orbit is at varying distances from the earth.

This indicates that the moon's path is not a circle, but an ellipse, having the earth in one of its foci. The moon being governed directly and held in position by the attraction of the earth, holds its primary movements in a path around our globe, but the attractive energy of the sun, and of the giant planets, perhaps, in a lesser degree, produces motions in the moon which may be summarized briefly as a combination of the six following movements: (1) Its revolution about the earth; (2) its revolution with the earth about the sun; (3) the vibrating eccentricity of its orbit; (4) the slow direct rotation in the "line of apsides"; (5) the retrograde rotation in the line of nodes, and (6) its rotation on its axis.

It would be proper to enlarge this "note" so as to give a full explanation of the causes of each of the above mentioned movements, but as each would require the use of scores of diagrams and technical phrases, such a feat cannot be attempted, as it would take up the whole space allotted to this department.—St. Louis Republic.

Sending Dirty Eggs to Market.

To send dirty eggs to market impairs their value and is an indication of slovenliness on the part of the sender. If the eggs come dirty from the nest, they should be cleaned before sending to market. An easy and convenient method of doing this is to place the eggs in any handy dish and pour warm water over them, increasing the heat up to about blood heat. This will dissolve any dirt that may be on the egg without rubbing. Lay a linen cloth folded over several times on a table near the dish, and as the eggs become clean take them out of the water and place them on the cloth. The water will quickly drain from them and the cloth will absorb it, obviating the possibility of stain on the underside of the eggshell. The eggs being hot will dry of themselves and the shell will naturally assume that bright, fresh appearance seen in the new-laid egg. Badly stained eggs that will not yield readily to the above process may be dipped in vinegar for a minute, when they will be as easily cleaned as the others.

He—I don't believe in that hayseed theory of getting away money in stockings.

She—My fortune is in mine.

New Mining Process.

In the great west, miners often find rivers that have their beds filled with enormous deposits of peculiar black sand. This sand contains large quantities of gold dust, which, however, it is extremely difficult to separate from the sand, owing to the fact that the sand has very much the same specific gravity as gold, and settles in about the same way as the precious metal. This sand contains iron, and it has been found profitable to a limited extent, to have the deposits melted; but this is not a very paying business; therefore a new process has been tried with marked success. By means of iron magnets the iron particles are drawn away from the gold, leaving this substance quite clear. After passing through the apparatus devised for this purpose, it is found that forty pounds of sand yield one ton of crude sand and ore, worth about $400 a ton. If the machine that is now being tested does all that is claimed for it, it will be of very great value, as it costs but about $1,000 for a working plant capable of handling an enormous amount of sand per day.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Ladies' Favorite

Cook's Cotton Root Compound

Manufactured by The Cook Co., Windsor, Ont., and Detroit, Mich., is the only known safe, reliable monthly medicine on which ladies can depend in "the hour and time of need." Every lady who reads this is requested to inclose two postage stamps, with her address, for and full particulars, which we will send by return mail in plain, sealed envelope.

Free Sample

An old physician, 35 years continued practice treating diseases of women, has charge of the office, and can be consulted by letter or in person. Address our main office

THE COOK COMPANY,
Room 3—No. 253 Woodward Ave.,
Detroit, Mich.

☞ Cook's Cotton Root Compound is sold by all responsible wholesale and retail druggists in the Dominion of Canada and United States for One Dollar per box.

Old Dr. Gordon's Remedy for Men

CURES POSITIVELY

Lost Power, Nervous Debility, Failing Manhood, Secret Diseases, caused by the errors and excesses of youth.

Young, middle-aged or old men, suffering from the effects of follies and excesses, restored to health, manhood and vigor.

Price $1.00, 6 boxes for $5.00. Sent by mail, securely sealed. Write for our book, "Startling Facts," for Men only, tells you how to get well and stay well.

Address, QUEEN MEDICINE CO., Box 947, MONTREAL.

lake to another. I struck a small stream, just wide enough to allow my canoes to pass. But it soon entered a good sized lake, and after that tributaries fell in from east and west till it became a big river.

NEW NILE OF THE NORTH.

"An assistant of mine in 1887 had surveyed a portion of this stream, and had heard some vague accounts of a great river to the north, of which this was one of the heads. I began my instrumental survey where my assistant had left off and carried it on all the way to the mouth and thence along the sea above, to Rupert's House, in order to tie it on to a fixed point at the other end.

"Our river had now become larger than the upper Ottawa. Below this several large tributaries join it from the west. This part of the stream has an average depth of 40 feet, and it is seldom interrupted by falls or rapids, so that long stretches of it would be navigable by steamboats.

"In all this part of the river there is only one human inhabitant—a lone Indian who came over from the Abitibi country a few years ago and took possession of a hunting ground the size of several ordinary counties. I had frequently fallen in with this Indian when at Grand Lake, whither he had come to trade his furs to the agent of the Hudson Bay Company, and he acted as guide as far as he knew the country.

"About half way between the watershed and the mouth our river falls into the west end of a lake called Mattakami, which lies at right angles to the course of the river. A large branch from the east, called the Waswanipi, falls into the east end of this lake, and the united waters discharge by a great river flowing out about the middle of its north side.

"My Indian guide turned back from this lake, as he had never traveled further. He told me he had heard from other Indians that the big river did not fall into Rupert Bay, which, however, did not prove correct.

"On Mattakami Lake we found an old one-eyed Indian who had only this summer come from the Abitibi country, and could give us no information about the great river we were to descend to the sea. We were thenceforward obliged to depend upon ourselves, and we succeeded in reaching James Bay in safety, thanks to the skill of my Indians.

"With the exception of some small tracts the whole country is covered with the original forest. Game was unaccountably scarce, but fish were plentiful in all the lakes and streams. On reaching Rupert's House we crossed the bay in a schooner of the Hudson Bay Company to Moose Factory, and thence ascended the western branch of the Moose River to the Canadian Pacific Railway."

More Race Discrimination.

"Ya-as, me bredderin', dey ain't done us right yet. Do equality ob de races is not come. Dey gibs de white man $5 en' de niggah only gits two, en' de niggah's vote counts fer jest as much; en' it ain't square."—Judge.

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Tightness of the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Summer coughs are more dangerous than Winter coughs

Helping Him Out

He—I come here so frequently that I'm beginning to think that you look upon me as a sort of chestnut—a roasted chestnut, as it were.

She—No, not a roasted chestnut. When a chestnut is roasted it pops.

THE BEST MOUTH TONIC IN THE WORLD

Odoroma THE PERFECT TOOTH POWDER.

IT LEAVES THE MOUTH IN A MOST DELICIOUS STATE OF FRESHNESS. DRUGGISTS 25 cts

"D. & L." MENTHOL PLASTER

I have prescribed Menthol Plaster in a number of cases of neuralgic and rheumatic pains, and am very much pleased with the effects and pleasantness of its application.—W. H. CARPENTER, M.D., Hotel Oxford, Boston.

I have used Menthol Plasters in several cases of muscular rheumatism, and find in every case that it gave almost instant and permanent relief. —J. B. MOORE M.D., Washington, D.C.

It Cures Sciatica, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Pains in Back or Side, or any Muscular Pains.

Price 25c. | Davis & Lawrence Co., Ltd, Sole Proprietors, MONTREAL.

DR. HOWARD'S ELECTRIC PILLS

BLOOD BUILDER FOR BRAIN AND BODY

POSITIVELY CURE all Weakness and Pain, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Paralysis, St. Vitus' Dance, Loss of Power, Female Weakness and Impotency, and all Diseases caused by Bad Blood and Shattered Nerves. Skin Beautifier. One trial proves it. In large boxes, 50c.; 6 for $2.50. The Dr. Howard Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Morristown, N.Y.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS cure Fever, Worms, Teething, Diarrhœa, Etc. 25c. No taste.

Scranton Coal

In order to meet the wishes of a number of our Customers who enquired for SCRANTON Coal, we have put some in stock this season.

We carry as well a full line of the Celebrated LACKAWANNA variety which we have handled for a number of years with great general satisfaction.

We shall be pleased to receive your order which will have our best attention.

All coal under cover and thoroughly screened before delivery.

The Rathbun Co.

It May Puzzle You

to discover this old gentleman's three daughters but there should be no difficulty in your finding the Express Bookstore, nor in your learning that this shop is the right place to buy your school supplies, such as

Readers, Scribblers,

and a complete Scholar's outfit.

☞ Try the unbreakable Slate.

THE POLLARD CO'Y

EXPRESS BOOKSTORE, NAPANEE.

baby growth

The baby's mission is growth. To that little bundle of love, half trick, half dream, every added ounce of flesh means added happiness and comfort! Fat is the signal of perfect health, comfort, good nature, baby beauty.

Scott's Emulsion, with hypophosphites, is the easiest fat-food baby can have, in the easiest form. It supplies just what he cannot get in his ordinary food, and helps him over the weak places to perfect growth.

Scott & Bowne, Belleville, Ont. 50c. and $1.00

The most prompt pleasant and perfect cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup, Whooping Cough, Quinsy, Pain in the Chest and all Throat, Bronchial and Lung Diseases.

The healing and expective virtues of the Norway Pine are combined in this Syrup with Wild Cherry and other pectoral Herbs and Balsams to make a true specific for all forms of disease originating from colds.

Price 25c. and 50c.

I CURE FITS!

Valuable treatise and bottle of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. H. G. ROOT, M.C., 186 West Adelaide Street, Toronto, Ont.

CHAPTER XXXV.

Vane went home after his proposal to Lady Florence; and to bed; and he did not get up again for two months.

The doctors called it by a scientific name in six syllables, and said that the trouble had arisen from a cold brought about by exposure to the wet; and everybody remarked that here was another instance of the truth that a common cold was the beginning of most serious illness.

For some time it was a question whether he would recover. The fever was obstinate, and the doctors said the patient showed a lack of nerve power; there was no evidence of a desire on his part to second their efforts at pulling him through.

To Mr. Senley Tyers, who proved a stanch friend, and was to be found for some portion of each day by his friend's bedside, one eminent doctor remarked:

"I am inclined to think that Mr. Tempest has something on his mind, some trouble or annoyance upon which he has been dwelling; there is a morbid condition which militates against his recovery and defies the usual treatment. Physically, he is a splendid specimen, splendid; but the body, you see, Mr. Tyers, is very much, too much, under the influence of the mind, and our patient's mind has suffered some great disturbance, I am convinced. Are you aware of any trouble that would have been likely to affect him seriously?"

And Senley Tyers had put on a look of careful consideration before he had replied:

"No-o, no, certainly not. If there had been, I must have known it. There were money troubles. Most young men of his position—"

The eminent one shook his head and smiled.

"The anxiety was not a financial one, I should say," he remarked. "Do you know of anything else?"

"No," replied Senley Tyers. "Of he said. "He needs a loving and watchful care—such care as only a wife can give. But there; we need not talk of him as if he were a confirmed invalid. Vane will soon be the old Vane again, and then—"

He paused significantly and left her.

"You must get well as soon as you can, my dear fellow," he said to Vane, half an hour later; "you've got a big business in hand, you know."

Vane looked at him with listless interrogation.

"Big business?"

"Yes. You don't call matrimony a small one, do you?" said Senley Tyers, lightly.

Vane's face flushed, and he looked down; and, though he made no response, Senley Tyers' speech had its effect, and almost the first words Vane said when Lady Florence and he met were:

"When is our wedding to be, Florence?"

"It shall be when you please, Vane," she answered, her hand trembling in his, her eyes cast down for a moment, then raised with a passionate devotion in them.

"Then I'll take the usual invalid's advantage and say 'Soon,' he said, lifting her hand to his lips. But for this wretched illness we should have been man and wife before this. If you'll promise to take me—what remains of me, that is"—and he glanced down at his thin hands with a laugh—"next month—say the end of February—I shall have something to get well for. I'll talk about it to your father when he comes this afternoon, if you'll say 'Yes.'"

A glad light brightened her face, and she let her head fall lightly upon his shoulder and drew his arm round her neck.

"I would marry you to-morrow if you'd promise to get well by that time," she said, with a faint laugh.

Lord Warlock, when he came, readily assented to the date proposed.

This was a distant cousin who had been engaged for best man.

The landlord bowed.

"Yes, sir. His lordship, the earl, told me to expect him. Everything is ready, sir."

"Very good," said Vane. "Can you let me have a horse to ride over to the Grange? How far is it, by the way?"

"Near upon four miles, sir," replied the man. "Oh, yes, sir, I've a very good horse, and I think it will be fine, your honor."

"It looks bright enough," said Vane, preparing to go into his breakfast.

"Yes, sir; it's too clear over the Witches' Caldron for rain."

Vane started and stood still.

"What—what place did you say?" he asked, his back to the obsequious landlord.

"The Witches' Caldron, your honor."

Vane turned slowly, his lips compressed, a shadow on his face. Beyond the fact that the Grange was near Runnacleare, and, like the Witches' Caldron, in Cornwall, he knew nothing of his whereabouts.

"How near is it?" he asked.

"A matter of ten miles, your honor," replied the landlord. "It's a main pretty place, but wild like. It's close to the sea. You can a'most see it from your window, your honor."

Vane stood silent and motionless.

"In which direction does it lie?" he asked, after a long pause.

The landlord pointed to the east.

"Right in a line with my forefinger," he said. "There's the Grange, as you night, say, inland to the left; and there's the Witches' Caldron on the coast, a bit to the right. It isn't a sight out of your honor's way, if so be as your honor wasn't pressed for time and 'ud care to see one of the roughest spots we've got."

Vane shook his head.

"No; I have no time," he said. He went in and tried to eat his breakfast but failed. Something seemed to be drawing him to the place at which the misery of his life had commenced. He went out and ordered the horse round, leaped into the saddle, and rode in the direction of the Grange, as if fearful that if he hesitated or slackened rein he should yield to the temptation that beset him to gallop straight for the Caldron.

It was the day before his marriage with one of the loviest of the wealthiest women in England. All his thoughts ought to be of her, and yet—and yet. He pulled up and looked around. In his absence of mind, his mental agitation, he had lost the thread of the direction to the Grange which the landlord had most carefully given him. He looked from side to side, then rode on again slowly, hoping to come upon a fingerpost.

Robert Light

Manufacturer and Dealer in

Rough and Dressed Lumber

Screen Doors,
Mouldings,
Bee Hives,
Stairs, Blinds,
Turned Work,
Wood Drapery,
Sash,

and Interior Finish for Buildings.

NAPANEE . . ONT

PYNY-PECTORAL

Positively Cures

COUGHS and COLDS

[illegible] surprisingly short time. It's a scientific combination, tried and true, soothing and healing in its effects.

W. C. McCormick & Son,
[illegible], Que.

[illegible] writes:

25 cts.

M. STORMS,

MOSCOW

has been over fifty years in the undertaking business in the county, and can turn out work equal to any in the Dominion.

A large stock of Coffins, Caskets, Robes, Crape Gloves and Badges, constantly on hand, and sold at reasonable prices.

Embalming a Specialty. Every facility on hand for doing the work.

25 per cent cheaper than any in the trade. Give me a call at Moscow.

M. STORMS, Prop

Carscallen & Bro.,

Low Priced, No Combination

Undertaking Establishment.

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of all the latest designs to be found in which we are prepared to sell 25 per cent. cheaper than any house in the county. We use the best deodorizer, thus obviating all unpleasant odors. Embalming a Specialty. Having purchased one of the Handsomest Hearses at the Toronto exhibition we are prepared to attend personally funerals in the most satisfactory manner. The public will do well to call and examine our stock, and be convinced that ours is the place to buy.

COFFINS, CASKETS, ROBES, Etc.

We have also added a full line of the newest things in Wall Paper, Ceiling Decorations, Window Shades and Picture Railing, Paints and Oils Paint Mixed. Persons wanting anything in this line will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere. Remember the place, Centre-street one block south of Main.

think it is likely. I know him so intimately that I must have heard of it. No; I should say that my friend was particularly free from anxiety. As you know, he is engaged to Lady Florence Heathcote, and—ahem!—whatever monetary trouble there may have been would, in consequence of that engagement, have ceased."

The doctor nodded the professional nod.

"Quite so, quite so," he said. "We may be mistaken. The fever—it has been a severe and obstinate one—may have produced this extreme lassitude and indifference; it is quite possible. What we have to do now is to build him up, and—er—arouse that desire for life which—ahem!—should exist in the breast of a man so young and physically sound."

"You think he will pull through?" Senley Tyers had asked, looking down at the haggard face of his sick friend with a peculiar expression which rather puzzled the eminent doctor.

"Oh, yes—yes!" he replied. "With care—with care. As I told Lady Florence, whose anxiety is naturally very great, he has a capital chance if we can get the better of this weakness and lassitude."

Lady Florence had a rough time of it during those two months, and Senley Tyers had the pleasure of seeing the woman he loved almost mad with alternate hope and despair for the life of another man.

Sometimes, when consumed by jealous rage which he had managed to conceal while in her presence, he wished his "friend" dead and buried, but that Vane's death would ruin the scheme which he, Senley Tyers, had worked out so skilfully up to the present.

"No, he must live until—" he ground out between his teeth, and always left the sentence unfinished; and one day he was able to carry to Lady Florence the news that Vane had taken a decided turn for the better, and would balk the honest and often disappointed undertakers.

"You need be anxious no longer," he said in his low, half-cynical voice, "He has turned the corner, and we shall save him."

She was sitting by the fire, bending over it, with her face screened, but he saw her bosom heave.

"You—you are sure," she said, almost inaudibly.

"As sure as one can be in the matter of life and death," he said, with a slight shrug of his shoulders. "Yes, sure; I am glad to say."

She shuddered slightly and looked up at him with a mixture of fear and dislike in her eyes, under which the long anxiety had painted dark shadows.

"You are glad?" she breathed, half incredulously.

"Pardon!" he said, as if with surprise. "Why should I not be glad? My friend—my closest friend—"

She rose as if his voice jarred upon her, and stood almost with her back to him.

"I—don't know," she said.

He assumed a wounded expression.

"Why should you wrong me by such a doubt, Lady Florence?" he murmured, reproachfully. "Have I not tried to prove myself his friend—and yours?"

She shuddered again.

"Oh, yes!" she said, with barely suppressed impatience—"I suppose so."

"Suppose!" he echoed, with raised brows.

"When can I see him—how soon?" she demanded, restlessly.

He seemed to consider for a moment.

"In a day or two," he said. "We must not try him too much at first, and of course your presence would excite him."

"I—I will not see him until it is safe for him," she said, biting her lip. "Tell him—no, I will write to him. I may do that?"

"Certainly," he answered. "He will be delighted with a letter from you. Your name has been on his lips day and night, Lady Florence."

Vane had scarcely mentioned her name. The color came into her pale face, and she turned her head away.

"It is only the thought of his approaching marriage which has given him the necessary spirit to pull round," he said, softly.

"That—that cannot be for some time," she murmured; but there was a touch of hope in her low voice.

"Forgive me if I venture to suggest that it should be as soon as possible."

"It's a nuisance whenever and wherever it takes place. Why on earth people can't be married without the fuss that's always made—"

"But there is to be no fuss," said Vane. "Florence particularly wishes that it shall be a quiet wedding."

"So she tells me; but I've pointed out to her if she wants a sensible, quiet wedding, you must get married in the country. You'd have half the fools in London coming to gape at you if it took place at St. George's or the Savoy. Look here, why not go down to the Grange and get married from there? You could stay at the inn—it's a decent place—for a night or two."

"The Grange?" said Vane.

"Yes; that place of mine in Cornwall. I haven't been there for years; but it's pretty and all that, and it could be got ready in a few days."

"Very well," said Vane. "It must be all as Florence pleases."

"Just so," Lord Warlock said with a grin. "That's only fair, seeing it's the last time she will have her own way. Very well. We'll go down there in the middle of February and get things ready. Meanwhile, you can go down south and pick yourself up. By George, you look more like a living skeleton or a sick girl than anything else just at present," he added, with his usual candor.

Vane laughed.

"Oh, I shall be all right in a day or two," he said, indifferently.

Senley Tyers, coming in to visit his friend soon after the earl's departure, was told of the arrangements, and asked to play the part of the best man; but to Vane's surprise he smilingly refused.

"I shall have to get you to excuse me, my dear Vane," he said. "It is a part I should play most vilely. I hate weddings, and—well, you see, it wouldn't do. You'll have to ask one of your swell relations to show up on that occasion. How did you come to forget that? You must, you know; noblesse oblige; the fashionable world would howl if you didn't."

Vane nodded.

"All right," he said once more. "You, all of you, have it your own way with me. But I suppose you'll condescend to be present?"

Senley Tyers shrugged his shoulders.

"I won't promise even that," he said. "It's not unlikely; we shall see. Look here, your train goes at ten o'clock tomorrow. I've got the ticket. You go and lie in the sun in Nice for a few weeks; that's all you want now."

So, while Lady Florence was hard at work in that labor of joy—buying the trousseau—the bridegroom that was lounging at the Riviera. It is a wonderful place to recover one's health and spirits, and when, two days before the wedding, he drove to the inn at Runnacleare, as the village nearest to the Grange was called, he looked almost like the Vane of old. But not quite, for, notwithstanding that the strength had come back to his stalwart frame, and the sun had restored the color to his handsome face, there was still a look in the eyes and about the lips which had been absent in those of the light-hearted, devil-may-care Vane Tempest who rode to the Witches' Caldron to meet Nora Trevanion.

He reached the inn too late to go to the Grange, but a groom who had been waiting Vane's arrival carried a note announcing it and promising that he would come over on the morrow; and, tired with the journey, he went straight to bed.

When he got down in the morning and stood at the inn door, looking thoughtfully at the sunlit scene and inhaling the sweet spring air, the landlord approached him with the smile of respectful greeting which was due to the gentleman who was going to marry the daughter of the great Earl Warlock, and who was himself a connection of another equally great earl.

"A beautiful morning, sir," he said.

Vane nodded, and looked up absently at the sky.

"You know that a gentleman, a Mr. Harold Tempest, is coming to-day?" he said.

PISO'S CURE FOR

CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

CONSUMPTION

rougher. He had lost his way, just as he had done months ago near this very place. There was nothing for it but to ride on and trust to chance, and he let the horse go again.

Suddenly he came upon a bend in the road, and he knew that it was the road upon which he had ridden the day he left the Caldron to continue his journey to Vale Hall.

His heart leaped, his face grew pale, as every incident of that morning flashed back upon his memory; and with the impulse now grown irresistible he rode on in the direction of the Caldron. As he approached the hut a horse whinnied. But, though he pulled up and looked carefully round, he could see no one. Tying his horse up, as Nora had done, but in another place, he descended to the hut. The desolation struck him as it had done her, and with an aching heart he was turning away, when it occurred to him that he would like to see the beach where they had embarked for their sail, and for which they had made when pursued by the revenue men. He ran down quickly. The clatter of the stones set rolling was echoed by the rocks, and as if startled by the noise of his footsteps a lady in a riding-habit rose from the beach just in front of him.

Vane started and stopped. Then with a glance at her he raised his hat, and was about to turn and make his way back, when he heard a low, stifled cry and his name.

He turned with an answering cry:

"Nora!"

And so they stood and gazed with distended eyes and white faces, as if both thought they must be dreaming.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

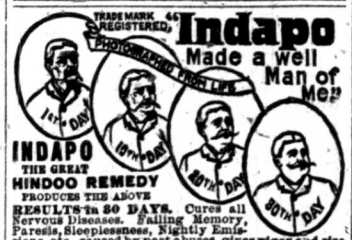
They stood for a while gazing at each other, motionless, almost breathless. The booming of the waves on the rocks and the shrill cry of the gulls were the only sounds that broke the silence more significant than a torrent of words. Then Vane strode toward her, hands extended, and in a low voice, scarcely audible, said:

"Nora, is it—is it you?"

She did not offer to take the outstretched arms, but stood grasping the skirt of her habit and her whip, her eyes still fixed on him as if she still doubted the reality of his presence.

"Yes," she answered, in a low voice that sounded harsh and strained. "it is I."

He looked at her with an expression of anxiety. A fear lest the vision should melt into thin air, and she should again



INDAPO
THE GREAT
HINDOO REMEDY
PRODUCES THE ABOVE

RESULTS in 30 DAYS. Cures all Nervous Diseases. Failing Memory, Paresis, Sleeplessness, Nightly Emissions, etc., caused by past abuses, gives vigor and size to shrunken organs, and quickly but surely restores Lost Manhood in old or young. Easily carried in vest pocket. Price $1.00 a package. Six for $5.00 with a written guarantee to cure or money refunded. Don't buy an imitation, but insist on having INDAPO, if your druggist has not got it, we will send it prepaid. Oriental Medical Co., Fredonia, Chautauqua Co., N.Y., or cor. agents. SOLD by W. S. Detlor, Medical Hall, NAPANEE, ONT., and leading druggists elsewhere.

LOST OR FAILING MANHOOD,

General and Nervous Debility,

Weakness of Body and Mind. Effects of Errors or Excesses in Old or Young. Robust, Noble Manhood fully Restored. How to enlarge and Strengthen Weak, Undeveloped Organs and Parts of Body. Absolutely unfailing Home Treatment—Benefits in a day. Men testify from 50 States and Foreign Countries. Write them. Descriptive Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

DR CHASE'S
CURES
ITCHING PILES, ECZEMA,
SALT RHEUM
OINTMENT

H. J. Lisle, representing Ganong Bros., St. Stephen, N.B., says: "Chase's Ointment cured me of a very stubborn case of Itching Eczema. Tried everything advertised, several physicians' prescriptions without permanent relief. Know of several cases of Itching Piles it has cured."

DR CHASE'S
I suffered with piles for years. Chase's Ointment completely cured me. Mrs. Jas. Cantle, Vergus.
OINTMENT

BRADFORD, JULY 4, 1894.—I consider Dr. Chase's ointment a God-send to anyone suffering from piles, itching scrotum or any itching skin disease. Its soothing effects are felt from the first application.—JNO. KEGGAN.

DR CHASE'S
Edmanson, Bates & Co.
PRICE 60c.
45 Lombard St., Toronto
OINTMENT

escape him, mingled with his almost overwhelming joy at her presence, and he drew near to her slowly, hesitatingly.

"How—how did you come here ?" he asked, breathlessly. "How is it that I find you here alone ? Where have you been hiding—where—"

He put his hand to his head, as if half stunned by the suddenness of his discovery.

"Hiding ?" She echoed the word with faint wonder, and her lips trembled. "Hiding ?"

"Yes," he exclaimed. "You know—you must know—that I have been searching for you all these weary months."

"You have been searching for me ?"

Her brows grew straight with bewilderment, her hand gripped the skirt of her habit.

"You know—you know that I have !" he repeated, with painful agitation. "Oh, Nora, Nora ! how could you be so heartless ? How could you leave me without a word of explanation ? When we parted that night—!" He looked at her with deep reproach. "Have you forgotten that night—how happy you had made me, how you had promised to be my wife ?"

She uttered a faint cry, and, shrinking from his vehemence, sank on to the rock on which she had been sitting when he descended to the beach.

"You promised to be my wife. You deceived me— Yes I know—I understand," he went on hurriedly, for she had opened her trembling lips as if to speak. "I know why you made that promise ; I can understand that the excitement of the moment and—and my urging you compelled you to say what was not true. I know all that now ; but why did you leave me without a word ? Was it kind—was it, Nora ? I thought I knew you. I would not have left you like that." She gazed at him as he stood before her, her face as white as his own, his eyes seeking hers, with a commingling of reproach and infinite tenderness. "If you had waited till the morning and told me that—that—the reason why you could not marry me, do you think I would have held you to your promise—that I would not have released you ? You knew—you must have known—how dearly I loved you."

She spoke at last.

"You—you loved me ?"

He stared at her.

"You know I loved you—I told you so ! Do you think I—I lied to you ? Do you think I was trying to deceive you ? Oh, Nora, Nora ! you have been very cruel to me, my girl."

"Cruel to you ?"

She echoed the words as if she failed to grasp their meaning.

"Yes," he said, with deep emphasis—"most cruel ! Why did you not trust me ? You trusted—you confided in Senley Tyers. Why did you not tell me what you told him ? Did you think I should be so mean as to force you to marry me—that I wouldn't have been your friend still ? God, forgive you, if I had had to go through fire and water to reach you ! You know why ?"

She could not help the "Why ?" that rose to her lips.

"Why ?" He laughed again. "Because I loved you, because I should have come to you with the hope of winning your love. Yes, if you had sent to me—even if you had not—I should have come to you and—I would have made you love me !"

In the tempest of love's passion that throbbed and shook him he forgot everything—forgot that his bride of the morrow was even now awaiting him.

She put her hands up to her eyes with a faint cry, almost a moan, and yet a moan not wholly of sorrow. There was another sound in it that went straight to his heart.

"Nora," he said, and let his hand fall on her arm, "Is there more mystery, more confusion and misunderstanding ? Take your hands away from your eyes, that I may see them and read the truth."

He drew her hands away from her face and looked straight into her eyes.

"Nora—oh, my darling ! what shall I say ? How can I show you how dearly I love you—how badly I want you ? Why did you deceive me that night at Luib? Why did you pretend that you loved me, when all the while you were anxious to escape from me—when you preferred to face the world alone rather than marry me ?"

The tears began to well into her eyes, her hands writhed together.

"Why did you do it ? Did you hate me so much, dislike me so much, that you could not bring yourself to marry me ?"

"No ! no ! no !"

The words seemed to force themselves through her lips and against her will.

"No ?" he echoed, his hand tightening on her arm.

"Oh, no, no ! You know !" she moaned. "Oh, Vane, Vane ! you are cruel—cruel ! You know that I loved you, that I loved you too well to let you ruin yourself by marrying such a one as I was !"

He doubted the evidence of his ears and eyes, for, indeed, her face was as eloquent of the truth as her few broken words.

"Nora !" he exclaimed, breathing hard.

"I loved you," she whispered, simply, humbly, "and I would not let you share my disgrace,—for I had disgraced myself. Everybody would have shrunk from you as well as me, if you had married me. I was not fit to be your wife after—after what I had done. I was a leper—"

He caught her in his arms and drew her up to his breast.

"Nora, what is it you are saying ? Do you know what you are saying ? You—you—loved me—loved me all the time! And it was because you thought that you were not fit— Oh ! my sweet, innocent child, you not fit to marry me!" He laughed, and held her at arm's-length, devouring her face with his hungry eyes. "Why, how did such wild nonsense get into your head? How could it have done ?"

Panting, she rested in his arms, her face upturned to him with a strange look in her lovely eyes, a look of one who wanders blindly out of the darkness of a great sorrow into the dazzling light of a greater joy.

He kissed her, kissed her lips, her hair, the wonderful eyes.

"My love !" he murmured, "is it only a dream ? Can it be true that you and I are together again, Nora ? That—that you love me, actually loved me that night—"

There was silence for a spell. Then, blushing, she drew away from him and sank on to the rock again, and he flung himself at her feet and held her tightly, as if he still feared that she might vanish.

"Now—now tell me all, everything," he said. "Wait. Just say once more, 'I love you, Vane,' that I may get a firm grip of it. You see, I am not sure that I haven't gone mad, and that it isn't all a delusion.

She looked down at him, with love radiating from her whole face.

"I—love—you, Vane," she murmured, dutifully.

"And now, to begin with," he urged, "try and imagine how impatient I am to hear your story. Don't forget any thing. And you are Reuben Vale's daughter ? Why, we are a sort of cousins," he laughed. "And you live

"You—you have the note ?" she said, her dark brows straight. "Show it to me."

He drew out his pocket-book and took out the letter.

"There it is, dearest. And, I say, how nicely you write. I couldn't write such a good fist to save my life."

She took the paper in her hand and gazed at it as if she could not believe her eyes, then she turned her face to him with a troubled frown.

"I did not write this," she said.

AUTOMATIC MILKER.

A MACHINE INVENTED IN SCOTLAND HIGHLY SPOKEN OF.

Milkmaids Have Now a Dangerous Rival —The New Invention Said to be the Most Successful Machine in the Market —Absolute Cleanliness Secured.

Milkmaids have a dangerous rival. A man has built a milking machine. From time immemorial the cow has swished her tail over the milk pail, and been mistress to a certain extent of all she contained. But hereafter she will have to accommodate herself to a labor-saving device which will pay little regard to her feelings in the matter.

This milking machine has been invented in Scotland. It is said to work perfectly. It is known as the "Thistle," and an English farm paper says of it:

"The most successful milking machine yet invented was recently shown at the Darlington Fair, where it attracted more attention than any other novelty on exhibition. The machine has been so thoroughly tested by experts that it is now considered to be almost perfect, and it has given so much satisfaction as to warrant the erection of large works for the manufacture of the machinery. Its construction is based on the principle of suction produced by vacuum in a teat cup, which, pressed against the teat of a cow, extracts the milk, which is carried off to a receiving pail. While the teat is drained of its milk, air enters the cup, allowing the former pressure to relax, and the teat is again filled with milk from the udder. Vacuum is once more created in the teat cup, which again collapses, pressing out the milk into the tube, and it then passes to be received as before. The exhaustion is, of course, effected by means of an air pump, which can be worked by the motive power most convenient.

"The teat cup is by far the most important part of the machine. Great difficulty was experienced in manufacturing the cup on account of the complications of movement required in imitating the calf's lips and tongue, special machinery having to be manufactured for this alone. These teat cups are about the size of an ordinary wine glass, are made of flexible india-rubber and are adapted to any cow.

"The four cups join at the bottom, with a tube attached long enough to carry the milk to the glass cylinder or trap on top of the pail. Another tube connects this glass trap with the exhaust pipe running overhead. When the cups are placed on the teats and the exclusion of air is complete the milk begins to flow, not in a continuous stream, but intermittently, streaming into the glass receiver with each respiration of the pulsometer, just as it would do when the hand closes on the teat in the act of milking, the momentary interval between each stroke being exactly the same.

"By aid of the glass receiver the attendant is enabled to see when the milk ceases to flow, and then removes the cups at once. Should the suction go on, however, after the milk ceases to flow, no injury will be done. This has been fully borne out by practical experiment. It is also worthy of note that the milk 'froths' up in the pail just the same as if done by hand. The friction is so gentle that the cows seem to enjoy being milked by it.

"A hand machine for four cows, with a woman and a lad, is capable of milking thirty cows in less time than four women can do it. Larger machines are being fitted to milk large numbers at a time.

"The most obvious advantage to be derived from a milking machine lies in the fact that a large number of cows can be milked with the employment of but few hands. This is a matter of greater importance in dairying than in most other lines where machinery is sought to be introduced, because, while in other lines it may cheapen production, in dairying the number of cows that can be kept is limited by the number of hands that can be kept busy on the farm outside of the milking hour.

"An additional advantage is the absolute cleanliness that is possible with a properly constructed machine, it being admitted that even the most strictly clean and careful hand milkers cannot entirely keep impurities from the milk."

The latest sleeve is moulded to the arm from the wrist to two inches above the elbow, and the puff at the top is full, short and drooping.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine ?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons ?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons ?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed ?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle ?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined ?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of guess the misery you have caused me." She looked at him as if painfully trying to follow and understand him. "For months I have been searching for you. Day and night, with scarcely any rest, I have been looking for you. For months I never lay down to sleep but I saw you lying dead or—" He shuddered. "But you know—you must know how, loving you as I did, I must have suffered." He drew his hand across his brow. "But that's all over," he said, looking at her. "You—you are well, happy? I—I am glad of that. Will you tell me—you won't refuse to tell me—where you have been hiding—how you managed to keep out of the way? Where! where have not looked for you, Nora?"

She leaned her head on her hand, as if too confused and bewildered to grasp his meaning for a moment or two, then she looked up at him.

"You did not know where I was first, but—but later you did."

"No!" he exclaimed, vehemently. "Not from the time you ran away from me until this moment have I ever heard where you have been. I do not know it now."

She half rose, then sank down again as if too agitated to stand.

"You knew I was at Vale Hall," she said, in a low voice of reproach, as it struck him.

"You—at Vale Hall? No! Why—why should you be there? How should I know it?"

"They wrote, they told you—they must have told you," she said.

He stared at her.

"They—who? I don't understand. What does this mean? You at Vale Hall? Why did you go there? It is the last place, the very last place in the whole world I should have thought of looking for you."

She trembled and uttered a low moan of bewilderment.

"You knew that—that I am its mistress," she faltered, her eyes on his; "that—that they found I was Reuben Vale's daughter."

He said not a word, but signed to her to go on.

"They—the lawyers—wrote and told you that they had found me; that it was I who had stepped in between you and the estates and the wretched money."

"Merciful Heaven!" he breathed. "Nora, I never read those papers!"

She started and held her breath.

"I knew that my uncle's daughter had been found, that all had been left to her; but I took no interest in her. I never read the papers or saw your name—the name of Nora Trevanion. I yielded her calm, not knowing or caring who she was or anything about her history. Do you know why? It was because my heart was too full of misery for the loss of you for me to care about anything else."

She trembled, and pressed her hand against the wet rock to steady herself. She was a woman, and could not be deceived. There was love, passionate love, in his voice, in his eyes.

"You never knew?" she faltered.

"Never!" he said. "I did not guess—" He stopped and uttered an exclamation, as the portrait in the lumber room, the strange manner in which Mrs. Trevanion had spoken to him of Reuben Vale, rose in his memory. "I see it all now! I remember the portrait—it was your mother,"

"Yes," she breathed.

He paced up and down the beach, his head upon his breast, trying to unravel the tangled skein; then he stopped in front of her.

"But why did you not, you yourself, write and tell me—send for me?"

Her head drooped, and she turned her face from him.

"I—I thought you knew from the papers they sent you, and—and that you did not want to see me, did not want to come," she murmured.

He stared down at her, then broke into a wild laugh,

"Not care to come, Nora! Look me in the face and say that. Not care to come, when I had been searching for you day and night, when I would have given the whole world to have seen you, if only for a moment, long enough to learn from your own lips that you were safe and happy."

He drew nearer to her, and resting one foot on the rock, bent over her.

"Nora, I would have come to you if you had been at the other end of the know. You remember I was going there. And who was Mrs. Trevanion?"

"My mother's sister," she said.

"Yes, yes, I see. And Reuben Vale did not know who you were, of course. But you'll have to tell me all about that later on. What I want to know is, where you fled to that night, and—and—oh, Nora, if you could guess what I've gone through! But never mind. That's all over and past. I've got you again, and I'll take care I don't lose you," and he drew her down to him and held her tightly for a moment. "Now, then, where did you go that night?"

[illegible] "Only to Kilif you had but written the [illegible] days—after you met with those [illegible] and told me you were safe, how much less I should have suffered! But never mind, never mind. What is their name?"

Her face had grown pale again, and troubled with doubt and perplexity.

"I—I wrote? I did not write!" she faltered.

He looked up at her, smiling.

"Have you forgotten it, Nora?" He laughed a short, happy laugh. "Why, my dear child, I have the note, the precious little note, in my pocket at this moment. I say precious, though it hurt as well as comforted me, for it was hard to be told that you could be hiding from me and yet—happy."

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 86 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Only

True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye today. It is not what we say but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla. 25c.

"Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE PERSON

that wants a good match and that knows a thing or two will remember that this brand is synonomous with everything desirable in fire-producing lucifers,

E. B. EDDY'S MATCHES.

Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company

GENERAL PASSENGER TIME TABLE.

Eastern Standard Time. No. 13. Taking effect Dec. 2nd, 1895

Tweed and Tamworth to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2 A.M.	No.4 P.M.	No.6 P.M.
Lve	Tweed	0	6 50	....	3 00
	Stoco	3	6	....	3 10
	Larkins	7	7 10	....	3 25
	Marlbank	13	7 2	....	3 40
	Erinsville	17	7 40	....	3 55
	Tamworth	20	7 50	2 00	4 10
	Wilson*	24	....	....	....
	Enterprise	26	8 10	2 20	4 30
	Mudlake Bridge*	28	....	....	....
	Moscow	31	8 22	2 35	4 43
	Galbraith*	33	....	....	....
Arr	Yarker	35	8 35	....	4 55
Lve	Yarker	35	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	39	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	40	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	41	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	43	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	49	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee	49	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	54	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	58	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Tamworth and Tweed.

	Stations.	Miles	No.1. A.M.	No.3. P.M.	No.5 P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	6 50	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 10	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 25	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 45	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 00	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 10	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 33	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 43	....	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	9 00	12 45	5 15
	Galbraith*	25	....	....	....
	Moscow	27	9 15	1 00	5 27
	Mudlake Bridge*	30	....	....	....
	Enterprise	32	9 30	1 15	5 40
	Wilson*	34	....	....	....
	Tamworth	38	9 50	1 35	5 58
	Erinsville	41	10 00	....	6 10
	Marlbank	45	10 15	....	6 23
	Larkins	51	10 30	....	6 40
	Stoco	55	10 50	....	6 50
Arr	Tweed	58	11 00	....	7 05

Kingston and Sydenham to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2. A.M.	No.4. P.M.	No.6 P.M.
Lve	Kingston	0	....	....	3 30
	G. T. R. Junction	2	....	....	3 40
	Glenvale*	10	....	....	4 00
	Murvale*		....	....	4 15
Arr	Harrowsmith	19	....	....	4 30
Lve	Sydenham	23	8 00	....	....
	Harrowsmith	19	8 20	....	4 30
	Frontenac*	22	8 32	....	4 40
Arr	Yarker	26	8 40	....	4 50
Lve	Yarker	26	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	30	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	31	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	32	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	34	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	40	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee, West End	40	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	45	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	49	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Sydenham and Kingston.

	Stations.	Miles	No.1 A.M.	No.3, P.M.	No.5 P.M
Lve	Deseronto	0	6 50	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 10	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 25	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 45	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 00	12 15	4 35
	Newburg	17	8 10	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 15	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 20	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 33	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 20
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 27
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 40
	Sydenham	34	....	....	5 55
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Murvale*	35	9 20	....	....
	Glenvale*	39	9 30	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 55	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

R. O. CARTER, Asst. Gen. Manager — G. A. BROWNE, Gen. Pass. Agent — H. B. SHERWOOD, Superintendent.

The Napanee Express

$1.

The Weekly Globe.

BEST CLUBBING OFFER EVER MADE.

By paying one dollar in advance these two popular and reliable papers will be sent post free to the subscriber's address. Call at the "Express Office" and secure this bargain.

Keep Moving

This is an interesting store. No time for idleness here. Bad weather only makes us work the harder. We have lots to interest you this week but only room in the newspaper advertisement to tell you part of it.

Bargain Towel Sale.

This week we open about 100 dozen Towels bought at fifty cents on the dollar. If you want Towels this spring this is your opportunity.

Flannellettes.

25 pieces new Flannellettes just in, extra wide our famous 8c. line. At 9½ cents we show some Costume Flannellettes suitable for Wrappers or Waists in very pretty designs. We have sold a tremendous quantity of Flannellettes this season.

5c. Ginghams.

We are showing a new lot of patterns in Ginghams at 5c. per yd. that are worthy of your attention. The designs are very neat and pretty and the quality very good.

Men's Overcoats.

We must clear the balance of our Overcoats this month. For instance an Overcoat that was $4.25 we will sell now at $2.90. At such prices they can't last long, so come early.

Men's Single Vests.

We have just opened a job lot of Men's Single Vests to sell at 90c. each. They are cheap.

Grey Cottons.

Two bales more of our famous 5c. Grey Cottons. We sell more Grey Cottons than all the other stores in Napanee put to-gether. It is no wonder when they are so cheap.

Millinery.

We are very anxious to clear the balance of our Winter Millinery and in consequence you can buy it very cheap.

Fancy Trimming Buttons.

The very newest things in the market. From 50c. to $3.00 per dozen. We will be pleased to have you see them.

Cottonades.

Our new Cottonades are proving great sellers. New patterns. Splendid values. We commence them at 12½ cents per yd. and can give you any price.

Dress Linings.

Dress makers will find our stock of linings up to date and the prices cheaper than most stores. We make a specialty of Dress Linings.

The Robinson Co'y.

Found.

A buckskin mitten; owner can have same on application at this office, and paying 25c for this notice.

Wood for Sale.

Wood delivered promptly to any part of the town at the lowest price for cash, 6c MISS S. PLUMLEY

Dancing Class.

Mrs Bristol and Miss Grange will resume their dancing class on Tuesday evening next at 7:30 o'clock.

Orange Tea Meeting.

Loyal Orange Lodge, No 201, Napanee Mills, will give a grand Tea Meeting at Napanee Mills on Tuesday, Jan. 14th. Admission 25c Chair taken by Chas. Riley, Esq., of Camden East. All friends invited to attend
W. SHANNON, W. M., J. G. MCCONNELL, Sec.

Installation.

The following were installed as officers of Mount Sinai Chapter for 1896:

Ex-Comp—J. G. Fennell, Z.
" —J. W. Robinson, H.
" —F. McL. Radford, J.
Comp—R. L. Henry, Scribe E.
Ex-Comp—E. S. Lapum, Scribe N.
" —F. H. Perry, P.S.
" —Bryce Allen, Janitor.

Runaway.

A team of horses driven by Mr. John Hambly, sr., of North Fredericksburgh, ran away on Dundas street on Saturday forenoon. They were stopped in their wild career by running up against the fence surrounding Mr. Maybee's residence. The articles in the rig were strewed all along the road, and the wheels and general ensemble of the waggon were badly smashed and disfigured. Fortunately the horses were not badly injured.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Horticultural society was held in the council chamber on Wednesday evening. All the old officers were re-elected by acclamation. Mr. John Pollard read a paper on "Fertilization by Pollen." At the close a vote of thanks was tendered all the officers for past services, and Mr. Pollard for his paper, with a request that it be published in both the local papers. It will consequently appear next week.

Eyes. Who's Eyes?

Your eyes, if they pain, ache or have a tired feeling, they are only giving nature's call for assistance, but do not experiment with them yourself. Go directly to Smith's optician, who will test your eyes free of charge and advise you regarding them. Smith's have a tremendous stock of optical goods at every price. Their axis cut perfected pebble spectacles are the best in the world, As the long evenings are coming on why not enjoy solid comfort with your eyes, Bring your children if they complain of their eyes, as theirs are most precious.

Foolish Prejudices.

How does it happen that so many ladies are so very careful about dresses and bonnets, and neglect the head-dress? It is because they are prejudice against artificial hair? Ladies of the most exalted positions in the land are wearing Prof. Dorenwend's manufactured goods. They are beautiful and attractive and give a charming appearance to the face. Throw aside your false notions of propriety, and examine the professor's elegant lines of Wigs, Switches, Braids and Wavy Fronts, etc, Raad the advertisement in another column and remember that he will be at the Paisley House on Saturday January 11th. 5b

Yarker's Young Giant.

The News had a call on Tuesday from Yarker's young giant, Allan Sylver, who has just turned 26 years of age, weighs 225 lbs, stands six feet four in height, flat footed, and has a constitution like a race horse. Mr. Sylver thinks nothing of shouldering a barrel of sugar and carrying it from the station down town and can cut a cord of wood once in two every hour for ten hours a day. The young man still continues to increase in strength and if nothing happens he will turn out to be one of the giants of Canada. He is single hearted but has a strong love for the fair sex and will no doubt make a big catch for some bonnie lassie. —Tweed News.

Opera House.

"Killarney and The Rhine" was presented at the Standard Theatre last night

STOVES AT COST.
Range No. 9., Range with tank, $24.00.
Wood Cook, $10. Wood Cook with Tank, $13.00.
T. H. WALLER.

Hair Cutting 10c

Mr. Lalond has had 15 years experience in the business, first class work guaranteed, give us a call.

Read—Remember—What

That the Empey Hill Tea Meeting takes place on Wednesday, Jan. 22nd. Tea at 7 p.m. sharp. Programme as follows: addresses by Revs. Crossley, Taylor, Butler and Garbutt, recitations by Miss Stratton, duets, solos, etc., plentiful and good. Everybody come sure and enjoy a good time.

Installation of Officers

At the regular meeting of Argyle Lodge, No. 2, I.O.O.F., held on the 2nd inst., the following officers were installed by D.G.M. A. E. Paul:—P.G., M. S. Plumley; N.G., F. McL. Radford; V.G., T. F. Oliver; R.S., P. E. Wagar; P.S., H. E. Fralick; Treas., D. McLiver; Chap., D. C. Jennings; W., J. S. Robinson; Cond., S. E. Scott; I.G., F. W. Smith; O.G., L. D. Wagar; R.S.N.G., E. S. Lapum; L.S.N.G., M. A. Sills; L.S.V.G., Isaac Amey; R.S.V.G., Wm. H. Schryeer; R.S.S., Herrington; L.S.S., Frank Carson.

To Our Many Customers.

We thank you most heartily and sincerely for the vast amount of patronage we have received during the past year, and we trust by strict and careful attention to business, to merit a continuance of the same. Our motto, "A pleased customer will call again." Parker's Dye Works, Toronto, are known to be the largest and most extensive Cleaners and Dyers of ladies and gent's wearing apparel, in Canada and they will be pleased to receive any of your goods for cleaning or dyeing, which they will give their very best attention. Orders may be left with our agent at this office, EXPRESS Book Store, Napanee.

Acted Like a Gentleman.

Dear EXPRESS—As I have just returned from the wild and woody West, I would ask you to spare me space in your valuable paper to contradict some mistatements disparaging to my worthy tenant, W. E. Wilson. I heard ere I reached home that he (W. E. Wilson) was smuggling away my cows. Such is not the case, as Mr. Wilson has acted like a gentleman, paid his rent each year and worked my farm in a husbandlike manner, and repaired fences and buildings according to agreement in lease I hope you may give this publicity in justice to Mr. Wilson. Yours,
JOHN WALKER.
Hinch, Ont., Dec. 30th, 1895.

HOGS WANTED.

I will ship live and dressed hogs again about the 20th of this month. Will give definite date in next week's papers, look out for it. I would like all persons feeding in this section to hold their hogs for me, so I can ship full car loads. I will guarantee them 3½ for live weight, and 4½ for dressed weights and if values are any highter at time of shipment I will willingly pay it. Would like to hear from those having any to offer. I am also selling the celebrated scranton coal and want a lot of new customers. I have moved my office from the market to the coal yard. Call and see me.
C. E. BARTLETT.

Installation of Officers.

At the last regular meeting of Union Lodge, No. 9, A.F. & A.M., on Friday evening, 27th ult., the following were installed by R. W. Bro. S. C. Warner as officers for the ensuing year:

W. Bro. J. W. Robinson, W.M.
Bro. A. Alexander, S.W.
F. H. Perry, J.W.
Rev. A. Jarvis, Chaplain.
Wilder Joy, Treas.
R. L. Henry, Sect.
F. McL. Radford, S.D.
F. E. Wartman, J.D.
T. G. Carscallen, D. of C.
Wm. Dey, S.S.
J. S. Brandon, J.S.
J. S. Hulett, I.G.
Bryce Allen, Tyler.

The Globe Annual.

The Globe Annual for 1896 is to hand, and in the bookstores for sale. It is the first of what is intended to be an annual issue by the Globe office. It is brim full of

COAL!!

The best grades mined in Scranton District. I have about completed my stock of coal for the season and am now prepared to receive and deliver orders with promptness. Coal all new stock. Under cover and in first class shape. Price $4.00 to $5.00 according to size.

Grain Wanted.

I want all kinds of grain for which I will pay the highest market price. I have no man on the market buying. You will find it to your advantage to call at the 'Big Mill' and get prices before selling elsewhere.

J. R. DAFOE.

CARLETON WOODS,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
1y Roblin, Ont.

JOHN POLLARD,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Express Office, Napanee.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, JAN. 10, 1896

All local reading notices or notices announcing entertainments at which a fee is charged for admission, will be charged 5c per line for each insertion, if in ordinary type. In black type the price will be 10c per line each insertion.

We are indebted to the Havelock Standard for a copy of the Canadian Annual for 1896. Many thanks.

There was no meeting of the town council on Monday night, as there was not enough members present to constitute a quorum.

Wore Greased Gloves Seven Years.

John Stron, mason, Aultsville, Ont., had Salt Rheum so severe that for seven years he wore greased gloves. He writes: "I used a quarter of a box of Chase's Ointment. It cured me. No trace of Salt Rheum now." Chases Ointment cures every irritant disease of the skin, allays itching instantly, and is a sterling remedy for piles. Avoid imitations. 60c. per box.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

Two cows and two horses for sale on easy terms. Miles S. Plumley. 6c

The ratepayers of Richmond are petitioning the township council to abolish the dog tax.

Mr. W. R. Miller, only son of the late Allen Miller, formerly of Newburgh, died at Rose Lawn, Indiana, on Dec. 15th, 1895.

If you are one of those fellows that are always clamoring for some other kind of weather you ought to be satisfied these days.

Three young men from Tweed were each fined $20 and costs at Belleville last week for assaulting Constable Bull, at Acontile, last June.

Old subscribers will receive the Globe and Express one year for one dollar, the same as heretofore. Renew your subscription before it expires.

The hours of the Kindergarten have been changed to the afternoon, owing to the cold weather and the difficulty of getting the room warmed up in the early part of the day.

She Ought To Know. Having used Burdock Blood Bitters for 15 years I cannot keep from recommending it to others. I have sold hundreds of bottles from my store, and as I keep other medicines I ought to know which sells best. It is a wonderful medicine.

Yours very sincerely,
MRS. DONALD KENNEDY,
Caledonia, Ont.

We are in receipt of Smith's Planetary Almanac and weather guide for 1896. The late Mr. Smith's place is taken by J. H. Oxley, an intimate friend of the dead astronomer and meteorologist, and the almanac is just as full and, we believe as reliable as ever.

At the annual festivity of the S.S., Winchester Springs, a flattering address was read from the B. class to the Pastor, Rev. D. MacEachern, presenting a handsome study chair and several other tokens of value, mentioned "as slight tokens of warm esteem and marked appreciation." Mr. MacEachern has already ingratiated himself into the affections of the people, which is clearly shown by the crowded houses and growing interest in church work.

Smith's Planetary Almanac gives the following forecast of the weather during the present month; "A stormy month. Some wild, stormy days, and seyere, cold "dips," with a mild, rainy, sleety period. Opening with fair weather, there will be a stormy spell in each week of the month, moderating to clear, cold, bracing weather. The feature of this month will be its blustery, unsettled state, with mean temperature above the average." Paste the above in your hat and verify the truth or fallacy of the prophesy,

DAFOE & PAUL,

Undertakers

EVERYTHING NEW AND FIRST-CLASS.

excellent manners and appearance, assumed the leading role, Conrad, who experiences many heroic adventures during the course of the entertainment. Incidentally he introduces several pretty ballads. Miss Alida Cortelyou, an emotional actress of much ability, supplied the most important support to the star, although the entire company was competent. The scenes representing the great Lakes of Killarney and the military prison at Wicklow were effective.—North American, Philadelphia. Napanee Opera House, Jan. 14th.

The gentlemen of Napanee and vicinity are, as a rule, right up to date. If they are not, it is because they lack opportunity. When they get the chance they take it, and catch right up with the procession. For that reason, when Prof. Dorenwend arrives in Napanee, they will visit him, and provide themselves with his first-class Wigs and Toupees. The gentlemen who are bald, and from prejudice won't wear coverments, should remember that they are running great risks. Any candid physician will tell them so. The best men in the land wear these scientific coverments for no other reason than protection to the head. These goods are known throughout the land, and need no recommendation. Read the announcement on another page, and bear the date in mind that he will be at the Paisley House on Saturday January 11th. 5b

Run Over By a Train.

Mr. John Carlton was run over by a G.T.R. train at Collins Bay on Tuesday. The old man had been in the Kingston Hospital up to a few days before the accident, and had been showing signs of mental weakness. He left Kingston on Tuesday to secure some clothes he had left in a house at Collins Bay at which he had boarded. He purposed riding back to Kingston, but missed the train and started to walk along the railway track to the city. When some distance from Collins Bay he was met by a train from Kingston and he stepped on to the paralled line of track, only to be struck by a second train coming in the opposite direction. He was picked up and taken to Napanee on the out bound train, but as there was no accommodation for him there, he was sent to Kingston. When he reached the hospital his right hand was frozen, besides the injuries sustained by the accident. His face was cut badly and his right ankle terribly smashed. It was found necessary to amputate the leg between the knee and ankle Wednesday morning. He died on Thursday morning.

A Wilton Case Decided.

Sills vs Warner—Judgment in action for the construction of the will of Henry Pultz and the administration of his estate, tried without a jury at Napanee. Judgment declaring the devises and bequests contained in paragraphs thirteen, fourteen and fifteen of the will void except as to the pure personality of the testator, declaring the device contained in paragraph nine valid, and that contained in paragraph sixteen void; consolidating this action with the administrative action of Sills vs Warner, and referring to the local master at Napanee to prepare and report a scheme for the charity mentioned in paragraphs thirteen, fourteen and fifteen of the will; directing that the costs of all parties (those of the executors and trustees between solicitor and client) be paid out of the estate and be primarily chargeable on the residue and paid by the executor, after taxation out of any moneys in his hands applicable for that purpose If necessary or desired, further directions and costs will be reserved, and if necessary the judgment may provide for the administration of the estates to the testator and his widow, with a reference to the same master to take all necessary accounts.

nominations, of all the post offices and nearest railroad connections in the Dominion; of fraternal societies, educational institutions, fish and game laws for each Province, tables of weights and measures, interest tables at 6, 7, 8 and 9 per cent, general legal information, laws relating to bills, cheques and notes, contracts, auction sales, partnerships, criminal law notes, leases, promissory notes, wills, copyright, patents, trade marks, and a rich mint of other valuable statistics and information. Every business man, mechanic and farmer ought to have this book. Price 25 cents.

Honor Roll.

CROYDON.

Sr. IV—Lillie Teskey 1348, Carrie Close 1144, Ella Close 626, Annie Byrnes 409.

Jr. IV—Ernest Teskey 1233, Jeannie McGregor 879.

Sr. III—Hugh Byrnes 1077, Samuel Campbell 732, Andrew McGregor 239, Sarah Almond 58.

Jr. III—Herbert Bawn 1028, Bashford Close 755, Elmour Galbraith 569, Harvey Smith 559, Milton Smith 467, Willie McKewn 350, Jeannie Dewey 268, Cephas Johnston 191, Lesley Kellar 93.

Second Class—Pearl Bawn 1024, Annie McGregor 1022, Mary Dwyer 894, John Byrnes 857, Claude Teskey 822, John Kellar 751, Dennis Dwyer 741, Evelyn Furrs 666, Eliza Dewey 596, Ethel Kellar 288.

Second Part 1st—Martha McGregor 710, Roy Fanning 532, Jno. Smith 424, Robert Johnson 178, Theresa Dewey 101.

First Senior — Percival Furrs 712, Mildred Campbell 676, Belfour Campbell 572, Blanche Hunter 542, Delbert Kellar 506, James McGregor 417, Patrick Savage 325, Eddie Johnston 163, Hulda Bumhower 79, Ardella Bumhower 19,

First Junior—Stanley Teskey 534, Gertrude Close 418, Clinton Kellar 281, John Dwyer 267, Patrick Dwyer 213, Jeannie Bumhower 92, Elizabeth Byrnes 59, Annie Dewey 50, Ethel Bumhower 36.

THOS. E FURRS, Teacher.

Has Issued a Writ.

Herrington & Warner have issued a writ against the Wrought Iron Range Co'y. of Toronto, whose agents are doing business throughout this section. As considerable interest is being evinced in the case, an Express representative waited upon Herrington & Warner on Monday, and Mr. Herrington furnished us with the following particulars;

Mr. Henry Creighton, of South Fredericksburgh, purchased a range from the Wrought Iron Stove Company, of Toronto, in December, and gave a promissory note for $69, payable in July, 1896, in payment. He was given a warranty in reference to the stove. The stove didn't work to his satisfaction. His wife couldn't bake in it, and she professes to be a good baker, having been awarded first prize on several occasions at the fair here. Mr Creighton saw the head agent and complained that the stove wouldn't work. Two or three visits were made by the agent, but none of these resulted in making the stove work to the satisfaction of either Mr Creighton or his wife. Mr Creighton demanded his note. It was not returned and this action is the result. A writ has been issued and served, and stripped of its formal parts these are the words;

The plaintiff's claim is for $100 damages for that the defendants did through their servants and agents on or about the 10th day of December, A.D, 1895, fraudulently obtain from the plaintiff his promissory note for $69 payable to the order of the defendants, and for that the defendants did on or about the aforesaid date, through fraud and misrepresentation, sell to the plaintiff an alleged wrought iron range warranted by the defendants to bake and boil and do all kinds of cooking in a good workmanlike manner, whereas said range was not of wrought iron and would not in any particular fulfil said warranty, and for the labor, trouble, and expense incurred by the plaintiff in and about said defective range; and that said promissory note be delivered up to be cancelled.

We saw the agent of the Wrought Iron Range Company in reference to the matter, and he says he would have gladly taken back the stove if he could have conscientiously done so in justice to the company, as it has no doubt injured his business. He believes the range to be all right and a good cooker, and says he is willing to leave it to any disinterested baker to judge. The Express desires to be perfectly fair in the matter, and will refrain from commenting on the case till after the trial, the outcome of which is being watched with interest.

BEEN

Looking over our stock of Men's Underwear, and find we have a

FULL

Line of Striped Shirts and Drawers that are good value at 75c. we are going to sell them

FOR

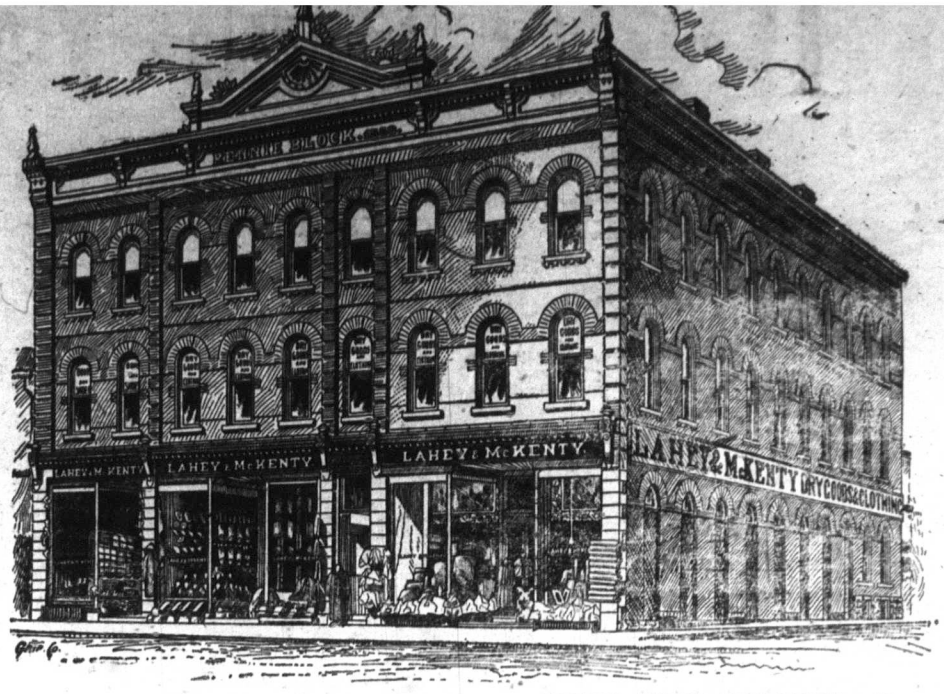
50c. each or $1.00 a Suit, and we think that in

A WEEK

They will all be gone.

Radford & Son

The Great Outfitters.



THE BIG STORE, January 3rd, 1896.

Mid-Winter Clearing Sale!

Half Price Remnants

The first table from the dry goods entrance. They are all kinds and qualities, short lengths and shorter ones, some most useful pieces for those who have many to clothe, and prefer to do it cheaply. The price is EXACTLY ONE-HALF THE ORIGINAL SELLING PRICE, whatever that may have been.

First Come Furs Served.

About a dozen fur capes are left, a few of the most expensive. A few that were $10, $11, up to $13.50. Any of these last ARE NOW $5 to cash buyers. And the better ones are still better bargains. Muffs, Collars, Wool Muffs for children, and MEN'S FUR COATS, you can have them at the price we paid for them.

Jackets, Ulsters, Golf Cloaks.

This season the more expensive garments are the ones left. We can't fit everyone now, but anyone we can fit can get one of our best AT IMPORTER'S PRICES. That means that you buy for less money than most other merchants pay for such goods. There are not many of them. If you are interested, better come soon.

20 per cent. discount.

Applies to Fancy Woollens, Knitted Hoods, Caps, Clouds, Jackets, Shawls, Tams and Mitts for ladies and children. We take ONE-FIFTH off the price of anything in these stocks, to get our money out quick Now is the time to put your money in.

More next week at THE BIG STORE,

LAHEY & McKENTY

Church of England Notes.

S. Mary Magdalene.

AROUND TOWN.

It has been a standing surprise to THE EXPRESS that some different system of keeping the sidewalks in repair has not been

Clearing Sale of Fancy

Church of S. Mary Magdalene, Napanee. Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m , each Sunday. Holy Communion at 11 a m. on 1 and III Sundays of the month, and at 8 a.m. on all other Sundays. Strangers supplied with leaflets having service printed in full at evening services.

Parish of Bath.

On Sunday next, 12th Jan , the Rev. Albert L. Green, P. D., of Belleville, will take Rural Dean Baker's pulpit duty in his absence at the dedication of the new church at Yarker. Services 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Offertory collections at both in behalf of the General Foreign Mission Fund.

Parish of Camden.

On Sunday the new church at Yarker will D.V. be opened. Morning prayer, Holy Communion and sermon at 10:30. The Bev E H M Baker, Rural Dean of Bath, will be the preacher. The annual missionary meeting will be held in the evening at 7 o'clock. The Rural Dean, His Honor Judge Wilkison, and E J B Pense, Esq, of Kingston, will be the speakers. There will not be any service in St. Luke, Camden East. Service in St John, Newburgh, 3 o'clock; St Jude, Napanee Mills, 7 o'clock. There will not be any service at Hinch P.O.

Opera House, next Tuesday night, J. E. Toole in Killarney and the Rhine. Prices 25c. 35c. and 50c.

RICHMOND ROADS.

To the Editor of THE EXPRESS.

Mr. Editor, in your issue of last week, reference is made by your Selby correspondent to some remarks made by one of the nominee's on the day of nomination in regard to road expenditure The lateness of the season in which the expenditure was made appears to have been the ground of objection. The objection was, I consider, well taken. As every person who has travelled the roads on which the expenditure was made, must know. The expenditure was not made until some time during the late autumn when the heavy rains of that season prevented the consolidation of the material (it being sand) thereby causing a much worse condition of roads, greater inconvenience to travel, and immense loss of the money expended, If the council's road engineer had made a visit of inspection to some portions of his autumn road improvements during, or immediately after one of the heavy rains and witnessed the lively efforts of his sandy road material to transfer itself from the highway into the ditches, he might have drawn some conclusions worthy of a place in his next official report. The effort to improve heavily travelled road ways with ever so liberal an application of "sand and rain water" (as your correspondent very aptly termed it) must forever stand unique in the history of road making. But there is hope blooming up for Richmond highways. It is said that the council have made the discovery (whether through the report of their road engineer or personal observation is not known) that the ditches, instead of the roads have largely become the recipients of the road grant for the year 1895, and on the day of nomination through their worthy Reeve, acknowledged that their road expenditure had been too long delayed. And since that day they have been individually assuring the electors that, if returned there shall be no cause for complaint on road account another year. Your correspondent has not learned the result of yesterdays voting, but is of the opinion that the electors have accepted the promise of amendment made by the old council and returned them for another year. Since writing the above I have learned Mr. Alex Hewett, the hero of Willow Marsh has been been elected a new man.

Assessment System Reserve Principle.

HOME LIFE.

Association of Canada

79 King St. East., Toronto.

Hon. Rich Harcourt, Treas. Prov. Ont. President.
A. J. Pattison, Toronto, Gen. Manager.
Geo. B. Woods, Toronto, Supt. of Agencies.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

Incorporated by special act of Dominion Parliament under the supervision and inspection of the Superintendent of Insurance for the Dominion of Canada. Pure Life Insurance at cost. Policy incontestible after three years for any cause whatever, except from non-payment of annual rates.

Profits divided to Policy holders every five years.

W. SYDNEY DETLOR,
Inspector, Central Ontario.

Office in Napanee, Albert Block.

Good reliable agents wanted in unrepresented districts.

of keeping in repair such a long stretch of board walk as Napanee possesess is considerable, and the annual appropriation to the Street committee, when the other branches under its supervision has been attended to, goes but a small way to keep the walks in repair. The consequence is that the town is always the unhappy possessor of a lot of bad walks with all their attendant inconveniences.

Lastsummer Dr. Ward introduced a by-law at the town council which never got further than the first reading. It provided among other things, that the expenditure on walks be kept in a separate account, and that a special tax be imposed for the maintainence of the sidewalks. It accorded any ratepayer the priyilege of building a walk in front of his own premises, under the supervision of the Street committee, and so long as he kept it in proper repair he was to be exempt from the sidewalk tax. This was the only scheme suggested during the past year looking towards the providing of better walks.

It is a wonder that the idea of putting down gravel walks whereever practicable has not suggested itself to the town council. Nice firm gravel walks, when properly put down, are as clean and solid as granolithic. The first cost of building them, providing the gravel can be secured handy is not so large as board walks, and it costs little or nothing to keep them in repair. They would be more in the nature of permanent walks, than anything we could build, outside of granolithic.

The municipal elections in town on Monday were hotly contested, but it was characterized by the absence of that hard feeling which contests of this kind too often engender. The unsuccessful candidates accepted their defeat quite philosophically, and if the P.P.A.s ociety did take the active part in the contest, which rumor credits it with, it was pretty forcibly reminded that the electors of Napanee do not desire the introduction of lodge politics in municipal affairs.

The personell of the new council leads us to believe that we have men at the helm who will discharge the important duties devolving upon them in a businesslike and economical manner. Although the complexion of last year's council was pronouncedly Reform there was a complete absence of partisanship, nor was there any attempt made to manage affairs on political lines. We believe at the end of the year we shall be able to say as much for the council of 1896.

The lodge of the Independent Order of Foresters at Selby has entered a protest against Oronhyatekha's attempt to wheel the Foresters into line to support McGillivary at the recent bye-election in North Ontario. They resent this introduction of politics into the Order, and call upon McGillivary to give up his seat in the House or to resign his position as secretary of the Order. If secret fraternal societies start dabbling in politics their usefulness will soon be gone.

The commutation of the death sentence imposed upon Valentine Shortis to imprisonment for life is being harshly commented on, and down in Valleyfield where he committed his fiendish murders the people are terribly incensed and indignant. It is not from any feeling of bloodthirstiness or spirit of revenge that the people are seeking his death, but they resent the intervention of the Governor-General which robs the gallows of its just reward, on purely sympathic grounds. Shortis received a fair trial, and deserved to hang, if ever a man deserved to be hanged. There is no doubt that had Shortis been poor and without influence he would have ere this paid the penalty of his crimes. This is what is troubling the people. Under Britain's boasted impartial system there should not be one law for the rich and another for the poor. Shortis may yet expiate his crimes on the gallows. He was only condemned to death for the murder of one of his victims. He may yet be tried for the murder of one of the others.

We understand that there is a movement on foot to disqualify some of the members of the new co uncil.

Everybody In King's Co. Everybody in King Co., N. B., knows Mr. Geo. S. Dryden, of Mi chell & Dryden, Sussex, N. B. He says: "Norway Pine Syrup is the best cough remedy I have ever used. My wife had a very bad cough that w s most distressing for ten days. I tried the Norway Pine Syrup and one bottle cured her. I never found its equal.

GEO. S. DRYDEN.

Goods.

Commencing on Thursday 2nd January. We will offer genuine bargains to all who inspect and select any of the following list of articles.

To-day's space will not permit of any lengthy reference to prices, so would ask the Ladies of Napanee and vicinity to call at once as we do not intend to carry Fancy Goods in future and will dispose of Linens, Felts, Embroidery, Silks, Crochet cottons, Dolls, Toys, Table Drapes, Tea Cosies, Sofa Pillows, Baby Jackets, Pompoms, Cords, Berlin Wools, Pearl Buttons, Tissue Paper, Crepe Paper, Picture Scarfs, Whisk Holders, Albums, Toilet Sets, Cups and Saucers, Glove and Handkerchief sets, Embroideries, Laces and many other nick nacks which need not be mentioned all of which will be sold at a sacrifice.

We have lots left of the large stock we had at the commencement of the season. These we will dispose of at prices to suit the times rather than carry them to next season.

This sale is genuine, With these facts before you we look for you on and after January 2nd, and have made every preparation for your coming.

Store open till 9 o'clock p.m. for the convenience of those who cannot get out during the day.

S. E. ALLEN.

Winter may be said to have set in in earnest.

Mr. George Shields died of brain fever at Deseronto on Tuesday.

The firemen were called out by a false alarm to Ward No 4, on Thursday.

Don't drive without bells, it is against the law. You can avoid all trouble by buying sleigh bells at Boyle & Son's.

Among all the men that are being pitched into the Senate the name of our worthy townsman has not been mentioned. Why this oversight?

Those lamps again. We have done fairly well but are not satisfied. We want to clear them out. Price dosen't count. Call at Boyle & Sons.

A. S. Kimmerly having purchased the bankrupt stock of Anderson Bros, grocers, is prepared to give bargains to all. See us. A large shipment of that celebrated 25 cent Tea just to hand Buy Keewatin Flour! none equal.

Speaks For Itself. MESSRS. T. MILBURN & Co, Toronto.

GENTS—Please send us four dozen Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion. We find it a genuine article. It knocks all others out in the first round. Several ladies here are loud in its praise, saying it has saved the lives of their children. CROGAN & CO.

Kouchibouguac. N.B.

Mr. U. M. Wilson has received a communication from the Athletic Life Publishing Company asking him to warn the public that the company has no agent in Eastern Ontario. A man calling himself Henry Brough, about November last succeeded in obtaining money from would be subscribers in all the important towns east of Toronto. This man was a fraud and proper steps have been taken to secure his arrest and punishment.

Know What You Chew

Is free from the injurious coloring. The more you use of it the better you like it.

THE GEO. E. TUCKETT & SON CO., LTD.
HAMILTON, ONT.

Dr. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE ASTHMA CURES so that you need NOT SIT UP all night gasping for breath for fear of suffocation. Send your name and address, we will mail trial bottle FREE
DR. TAFT BROS., 186 ADELAIDE ST., W. TORONTO, ONT.

Judge Price held Division Court here on Tuesday. Several unimportant cases were disposed off.

Muriel the little daughter of Mr. A. E, Paul fell off a lounge on Sunday and broke her arm. She is progressing as well as could be expected.

Skates for children, skates for middle aged—boys skates, all ages. In hockey skates and sticks we claim to have the best in town. Boyle & Son.

Thomas Murphy, of Newburgh, came up before Police Magistrate Daly on Monday and his case was adjourned until Tuesday. On Tuesday he was remanded to gaol until the Spring Assizes. He elected to be tried by jury. Bail will be accepted in $400.

Mr John J. Haines, sr. died at Belleville on Monday, aged 80 years. The cause of death was diabetes, with which he had been affected for several years. Deceased was the father of John J. Haines, jr., of Haines & Lockett. He was one of the best known business men in the Province and greatly beloved and respected.

Rubbing It In. Never use a liniment for rheumatism, says a high medical authority. Don't rub it in—drive it out. Take something that removes the acid poison from the blood—take something that will improve your digestion, and build up the body to the perfection of robust health. That "something" is Scott's Sarsaparilla, a remedy that obtains the best results in the shortest time. $1, of all druggists.

Miss Belle Joyce, of Deseronto, was married to Mr. John Dwyer, of Enterprise, on Wednesday. The ceremony was performed at the R. C. Church here by the Rev. Father Hogan. The bride is an ex-school teacher and a very popular young lady. We extend congratulations.

Hoarseness and Sore Throat.—DEAR SIRS—I highly recommend Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam as the best cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness and sore throat ever used.

WILBUR ASHBY
Havelock, Ont.

"The Common People," As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple, honest statement, "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine, and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

On Monday evening some of the band boys decided to serenade the successful candidates for the town council. They intended to give them a regular surprise and quietly repaired to the town hall, but to their dissapointment the building that but such a short while before rung with the impassioned words of the defeated and successful aspirants, was empty and silence reigned supreme. Nothing daunted the musicians decided to serenade the councillors at their homes. They accordingly lined up in front of a mansion on East st. They arranged their music and attempted to toot but judge of their dismay when the instruments refused to respond. Jack Frost had got in his work—their horns were frozen. The disappointed players stole quietly back to the band hall, and faithfully determined to keep their non successful surprise party a secret.

Open Your Eyes

and inspect my goods. They are convincing that I am the only tailor in town that can sell such goods for the money. Only one more week and those $3.50 pants will have to be sold at their regular price $5.00.

Give me a call and make a note of my prices.

ED. HUFF,

The Cash Tailor, Opposite Campbell House.

ALL WORK GUARANTEED.

THE NAPANEE

Vol. XXXV] No 7—JNO. POLLARD, Editor and Publisher. NAPANEE, ONT.

BREAKFAST FOODS.

That idea of thinking that all Breakfast Cereal Foods are alike is a mistake as they are not. I keep none but "The Ireland National Food Co's." and "The Tillson Co's." both of which have the name of being the finest in the market both for quality and cheapness. Try them,

I have now on hand in packages Self Rising Buckwheat Flour, Dessicated Rolled Wheat, Dessicated Wheat and Rolled White Wheat.

In Bulk

Rolled Oats, Rolled Wheat, Molina Rolled Wheat, Rolled Buckwheat Flour and Gold Dust Cornmeal.

W. COXALL.

Timothy Seed...

We have secured a supply of the cleanest Seeds from the largest growers in the Counties. We are sure we can recommend this seed.

We carry in stock at all times a full line of our Famous Flour, and the fact that we have an increasing demand for them bespeaks their excellence and popularity. The prices are always right, and the quality too.

We have a full line of grain, all kinds of Cracked Grain, Bran, and Shorts.

When you want Salt for the table, for butter or cheese making, or for salting your pork, remember that the "Windsor" brand is the purest and the best, and while it is the cheapest it is also the saltiest.

Try one of our little Cheese. They weigh about 8lbs. each. A nice size for the family.

Rolled Oats, Rolled Wheat, and Oatmeal

Best 25 Cent TEA in Town.

The Rathbun Co'y

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A MONEY SAVING OPPORTUNITY

Great reductions in prices from now till February 1st, when we begin stock taking. The following lines to be sold at greatly reduced prices.

Men's Youths and Boy's Ulsters.
Men's and Boy's pure Overcoats, Peacoats.
Men's, Youth's, Boy's or Children's Suits.
Mens' and Boy's pants. Youth's all Wool Tweed Vests, at 75c.

Underwear, Top Shirts, Fine and White Shirts, Cuffs and Collars, Neckwear, Cardigan Jackets, Mitts, Gloves and Socks.
37 dozen Sealette Caps, from 50c. up. Fur Capes away down.

Note the place

A. M. VINEBERG,

The Wonderful Cheap Clothier, Dundas st., Henry Block, Napanee

Xmas and Holiday Goods

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY.
Barristers, Solicitors, etc.
Solicitors for the Merchant's Bank of Canada, etc., etc.
Dundas Street, Napanee.
G. F. RUTTAN. ARTHUR W. MORPHY
Private funds to loan at five per cent.

THE - MERCHANTS - BANK
OF CANADA
Head Office, — Montreal
Capital paid up, $6,000,000
Surplus, $3,000,000
INTEREST AT CURRENT RATES PAID ON DEPOSITS.
A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.
W. A. BELLHOUSE,
Manager, Napanee Branch

McROSSIE'S FOOTWEAR
Large Supplies of Latest Styles.
Boots, Shoes, Overshoes and Rubbers. being opened daily at
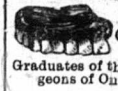
McROSSIES old Stand.
Call and get prices. The lowest quoted on New Goods,



DENTISTS
C. D. WARTMAN, L.D.S.
C. H. WARTMAN, D.D.S.
Graduates of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduate of Toronto University.
OFFICE—LEONARD BLOCK,
Visits made to Tamworth the first Monday in each month, remaining over Tuesday. Rooms at Wheeler's Hotel.
All other Mondays C. D. Wartman will be in Yark er.
Napanee office open every day.

A. R. DAVIS,
Ontario Land Surveyor and Civil Engineer.
Office with T. G. Davis, Insurance Agent, 39 Coates Block

Assessment System Reserve Principle.
HOME LIFE.
Association of Canada
72 King St. East., Toronto.
Hon. Rich Harcourt, Treas. Prov. Ont. President.
A. J. Pattison, Toronto, Gen. Manager.
Geo. B. Woods, Toronto, Supt. of Agencies.
SPECIAL FEATURES.
Incorporated by special act of Dominion Parliament under the supervision and inspection of the Superintendent of Insurance for the Dominion of Canada. Pure Life Insurance at cost. Policy incontestible after three years for any cause whatever, except from non-payment of annual rates.
Profits divided to Policy holders every five years.
W. SYDNEY DETLOR,
Inspector, Central Ontario.
Office in Napanee, Albert Block.
Good reliable agents wanted in unrepresented districts.

WANTED RELIABLE MEN to sell our IMPROVED FARM SEEDS. Paying side line HIGHEST SALARY OR COMMISION PAID WEEKLY. Outfit free. Can be carried in the pocket. Experience not necessary. BIG PAY ASSURED WORKERS. Write at once and secure exclusive and choice of territory to 48 4m
FARMERS SEED CO.
(INCORPORATED)
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

NOTICE OF MEETING.

The County Council

of Lennox and Addington, will meet for the transaction of general business on Tuesday, Jan. 28th, 1896,

at 2 o'clock p.m.

Members of Council must bring with them the certificates and declarations required by section 65, Con. Municipal Act.

All accounts must be in the hands of the undersigned not later than Tuesday 28th inst. in order that they may be considered.

W. G. WILSON,
County Clerk.

Dressed Hogs Wanted.

I will ship dressed hogs on Thursday next, 23rd inst., and will pay 4½ for all first-class hogs of any weight. Hogs must be killed not later than Tuesday, the 21st, and delivered on Thursday, the 23rd. I do not want large rough, half fatted hogs. Do not be afraid to bring in your hogs without seeing me, as I can take any quantity. Take home a load of my scranton coal with you, you will be pleased with it. Office at coal yard, foot Centre st.

C. E. BARTLETT.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Council met in special session on Thursday evening pursuant to a requisition by Mayor Stevens. Present—Mayor Stevens, Reeve Carson, Deputy-Reeve Symington and Councillors Alexander, Madole, Lowry, Leonard, Miller.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

A communication from the Kingston General Hospital re grant for 1896 was laid over for new council to consider.

A petition from R. J. Smith, asking that the taxes for 1895 against the property of the late John G. Smith be remitted. As the family are dependent upon the charity of neighbors the amount of taxes, $.00, was ordered to be refunded.

A communication from the Single Tax Association was laid over.

The Finance Committee reported: that Mr. U. Wilson refused to pay any portion of the costs incurred in defence of suit brought by Mr. Hudgins, and that it had given an order on the treasurer for the full amount to Messrs. Herrington & Warner, $13.20.

In reference to Rev. Shorey's tax on income, advised taking legal advice before further action.

On motion all the members of the council were granted $20 each for services on committees during the year, with the exception of Mr. Fennell, who, as he had only attended six meetings of the board, was only granted $10.

The balance of the contingent fund was ordered placed to the credit of the Street Committee.

A number of accounts were ordered to be paid.

On motion of Symington and Carson a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mayor Stevens for the able impartial manner in which he had presided over the board for the past two years.

Mayor Stevens responded to the motion.

On motion of Stevens and Burns a vote of thanks was tendered to the municipal clerk and the treasurer for the efficient manner in which they had performed the duties of their respective offices.

Council adjourned sine die.

Dancing.

The promised sermon on dancing, will be given on Sunday evening next in the Western church by the pastor Rev. D O Crossley.

Read—Remember—What.

That the Empey Hill Tea Meeting takes place on Wednesday, Jan. 22nd. Tea at 7 p.m sharp. Programme as follows: addresses by Revs. Crossley, Taylor, Butler and Garbutt, recitations by Miss. Stratton, duets, solos, etc., plentiful and good. Everybody come sure and enjoy a good time.

Fire at Odessa.

The old hotel at Odessa owned by Mr. John Storms, was completely consumed by fire on Tuesday night. The inmates were in bed when the fire broke out and barely escaped with their lives. The building was insured for $600, and Mr. Schovel, the tenant, who recently moved to Odessa from Kingston, had an insurance of $300 on the contents, which will fall far short of covering the loss. Mr. John Storms, and Mr. Schovel and family lost all their wearing apparel, with the exception of what few articles they were able to secure in their hurried exit. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

J. E. Toole.

Killarney and the Rhine was the attraction at the opera house on Tuesday night, and it proved one of the best companies that are useful at all times. An Elegant Lamp is a suitable gift at any time, and is useful as well as beautiful. We have a large and well assorted stock of Lamps of various styles, shapes, and colors, fancy Silk Shades, Shade Frames, Fancy Paper Shades, Globes, Reflectors, Chimnies, Lamp wick, Lanterns, etc., in fact almost all kinds of Lamp goods and Lamp Fixtures, American and Canadian Coal Oil the best brands.

We also invite your attention to our stock of Purses, Ladies' and Gent's Pocket Books, Card Cases, Shaving Sets, Hair Brushes, Hand Mirrors, English, French and American Perfumes, Florida Waters, Fancy Soaps, Toilet and Castile Soaps. Eighty different kinds of Soap are here, and many other useful articles.

Prices Were Never More in Your Favor.

Your patronage most respectfully Solicited.

MEDICAL HALL, W. S. DETLOR,

THE HIGHEST AWARDS
WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION

BY THE WROUGHT IRON RANGE CO., ON

HOME COMFORT STEEL HOTEL AND FAMILY RANGES.

CARVING AND STEAM TABLES, BROILERS, MALLEABLE WATERBACKS, etc., etc.

This style Family Range is sold by our Travelling Salesmen from our own wagons at one uniform price throughout Canada and the United States.

Made of Malleable Iron and Wrought Steel and will last a lifetime if properly used.

SALES TO JANUARY 1st, 1894, 277,188.

Made only by the Wrought Iron Range Co. manufacturers of Hotel Steel ranges, Kitchen outfittings and Home comfort Hot-air Steel Furnaces.

The above named company have located at Napanee, with Headquarters at the Campbell House.

DEROCHE & MADDEN,
Barristers,
torneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.
Office—Grange block.
Money to Loan at "lower than the lowest" rates
DEROCHE, Q. C. 5.1y J. H. MADDEN

R. A. LEONARD, M.D., C.P.S.
Physician, Surgeon, etc.
Late House Surgeon of the Kingston General Hospital.
Office—North side of Dundas Street, between West and Robert Streets, Napanee. 5:1y

---

THE ROYAL HOTEL.
Dundas Street, Napanee.
H. HUNTER, Prop.
This commodious hotel is centrally situated having every convenience for the travelling and business public. Large yard and sheds for farmers.
Good table, best of wines liquors, and cigars
The comfort of guests is made a first con-

HERRINGTON & WARNER,
Barristers, etc.
MONEY TO LOAN AT LOW RATES
Office—Warner Block, East-st. Napanee. 5y

A. S. ASHLEY,
DENTIST
16 Years in Napanee.
34 Years Experience.
Rooms, - Albert Block, - Napanee

JAS. AYLESWORTH,
General Business Agent.
POLICE MAGISTRATE for the Provincial Electoral District of Addington.
Conveyancer,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses,
Commissioner, etc., in H.C.J.
Clerk, 7th Division Court. of the County of Lennox & Addington
Grand Trunk Railway Ticket Agent
TAMWORTH.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in Packets, by Grocers, labelled thus:
JAMES EPPS & CO., Ltd., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.
45 35—W.

NOTICE.

The ANNUAL MEETING of the share and lot holders in the Napanee Cemetery Co., for the purpose of electing Directors, and for the transaction of general business will be held in the Council Room in Napanee on MONDAY, JANUARY 20th, 1896, at half past two o'clock p.m.

By order of the President.

JOHN WEBSTER, Secretary.
Napanee, Jan. 13th, 1896.

BEAUTIFUL FARM FOR SALE.

One of the choicest in Prince Edward County overlooking the Town of Picton, and within ten minutes drive of the corporation, and one of the best markets in Ontario. The Town contains two of the largest pea growing industries in Canada, two of the largest canning factories, and two large evaporators, furnishing employment to a large number of hands, a fine market for the produce of the Farm, and fruit of every description facilities for shipping to all points by cars and boat can't be excelled. The farm consists of about sixty three acres, soil a rich loam with a clay subsoil, every acre a garden spot, no stumps or stones, fences principally post and wire, building nearly new, two large barns a dwelling and outhouses all painted, fine orchard of choice apples and pears. It is a beautiful home and a snap for any man wanting a farm. It will be sold on easy terms and part of the purchase money can remain unpaid bearing interest at five per cent. Come and see the property or write for particulars to the undersigned.

W. T. CRANDALL,
Picton, P.O.

ANNUAL MEETING,

Of the Policy Holders of the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Co'y. will be held at the Town Hall Napanee on Saturday 25th January 1896, at one p.m. for the purpose of receiving the annual report and transacting general business of the company, and every policy holder is strongly urged to be present and take part in the proceedings as most important business is to be transacted.

M. C. BOGART,
Sect. Treas.

REFORM MEETING!

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE

REFORM ASSOCIATION

OF LENNOX

WILL BE HELD IN THE

TOWN HALL,

in the

TOWN OF NAPANEE,

—ON—

Saturday February 1st. 1896

at the hour of 1.30 in the afternoon.

It is important that there should be a good attendance from all parts of the Riding as at this meeting delegates may be chosen to select a candidate to contest the Riding for the Commons in the Liberal interest at the approaching election.

Thos. E. Anderson, Secretary. Thos. Symington, President.

TENDERS WANTED.

Sealed Tenders for the supply of wood for the schools of the Town will be received by the undersigned until

Tuesday, January 21st, 1896

The wood must be green body hardwood, Beech and Maple, free from logs and limbs and sawed four feet long. About one hundred cords will be required.

J. F. HALL,
Secty.-Treas.
Bd. of Education.

Dated at Napanee Jan. 15th, 1896.

Severe Headache Cured. DEAR SIRS,—I had severe headache for the past two years and used all kinds of medicine without finding a cure until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, when relief and cure quickly followed. I think there is no better medicine in the world.

MISS MINNIE DRYSDALE,
Berlin Ont.

---

genuine Irish drama, the introduction of a German comedian being a decided and pleasant novelty. J. E. Toole is at home in his delineation of a funny, simple Dutchman and kept the audience in good humor throughout. His "song of the nighting gale" was delightful, and won for him an enthusiastic encore. In fact he was treated to an ovation after every song. The other members of the company are first-class, the ladies being worthy of special mention.

Napanee Markets.

Wheat 60 to 65c. Oats 25 to 27c. Barley 30 to 35c. Rye 40c. Peas 50c. Buckwheat 30 to 35c. Bran $5. per ton. Red Clover $4.25 per bush. Straw $5 per ton. Hay $13. Pork $4.50 per cwt. Pork 8c. per lb. Beef 8c. Beef by the quarter $3.50 per cwt. Mutton 8c. per lb. Veal scarce Lard 9c. Tallow 5c. Butter roll 18c. Butter tub 15c. Eggs 15c. per doz. Fowls 30c. per pair. Ducks 50 to 75c. per pair. Fish scarce. Potatoes 25c. a bag. Apples $1 a bag. Dried Apples 3c. a lb. Celery. Cabbage 40c. a doz. Beets 60c. Carrots 50c. per bag. Parsnips.

Farmer's Institute.

The Farmer's Institute, of Lennox has arranged for a series of meetings in this district to be addressed by J. A. Qavitz, B.S.A., C.A.C., of Guelph Ont, on the following subjects: "The science and the practice of underdraining," "Practical Methods for improving the fertility of our farms," "Improvements of the plants of the farm," "The Improvement of fodder crops in the production of meat and milk," "The cultivation of corn, potatoes and field roots," "The best varieties of wheat, barley, peas and oats in seven years experiments." Evening subjects: "The influence of the Ontario Agricultural College," "Co-operative experiments in agriculture throughout Ontario for ten years." F. H. Mason, Straffordville, Ont., will deliver addresses on "hog raising," "butter making," "care and food of dairy cattle," "shall sheep raising be abandoned in Ontario." Evening subjects: "The outlook for the Ontario farmer in butter making." Meetings will be held in the town hall, Odessa, on Jan. 28th, and in the town hall, Napanee, on Jan. 31st. The afternoon meeting will be held at 1.30 p.m., and the evening meetings at 7.30 p.m. Local talent will assist at each meeting. All welcome.

HENRY FILSON, Stella, H. AYLSWORTH,
President. Secretary.

Think First

And you will not need to waste your time and money, Come direct to us if you want a good

Ulster

Take a Look at our Ready Made Frieze Coats and see the stock in them. We are clearing them out at reduced prices along with a lot of Boy's Heavy Suits Special Values.

D. J. Hogan, & SON.

NAPANEE

EE EXPRESS.

T. CANADA—FRIDAY, JAN. 17, 1896. $1 per Year in advance; $1.50 if not so paid.

THE NEW NATIONAL POLICY.

SIR CHAS. TUPPER'S LATEST SCHEME.

To the Editor of THE EXPRESS.

I had been imbibing rather freely with a few friends in Ottawa about the close of the year 1895, and in some way or other had wandered off by myself and laid down to sleep in a room off the main corridor in the parliament building. Loud talking was the first sound that attracted my befuddled senses. My curiosity being aroused I listened to the babble of voices that came from the next room. Having a fine knowledge of short hand writting and from the tone of the several speakers I concluded that something spicy was going on. For the sake of this Canada of ours and the honor of the electorate I herewith send you the result of the meeting as near a correct report as I could get under the circumstances.

Hon Mr Foster—Order gentlemen come to order gentlemen, let us hear from our dear old friend, Sir Chas Tupper, who has come all the way from the old land, and permit me gentlemen to say from that dear old land we all love so fondly and under that flag we have the proud honor to belong. (Great cheering) Without any further remarks allow me to introduce Sir Charles Tupper, Bart K.C.B.G.B.R O.W.

Sir Chas—Gentlemen, friends and fellow conspirators, no—no—no—gentlemen, I don't mean conspirators in the sense you take it. I came here at the earnest solicitation of my friend Mr. Foster to help the grand old party out of the ho'e, and gentlemen, out of that hole with God's help I will pull you. (Great cheering) Permit me gentlemen to say that you have forgot the first principle of the grand old party; you have forgot to give the people the proper food. When you first begun to discover that the N.P. had lost its charms you should have done what our late friend Sir John A. Macdonald (of sainted memory) would have done, bring some other fake into print, (the more ridiculous the better.) All my experience goes to prove that the people of Canada can stand a lot of fooling, the more you rub it in the better. (Immense cheering.) I see by the hearty response my remarks have called forth that you have not quite forgotten the glorious deeds of the grand old party, and I may say gentlemen allow me to impress this on your minds, that we rule by divine right. (Great cheering.) And now I shall proceed to unfold my scheme, and I will stake my political life that it will keep the Grits out of office for at least five hundred years That length of time surely will satisfy the most ardent Tory. (Cheers.) I herewith hand you each a copy of the bill which I will introduce in the house, and after you have heard my explanations you will clearly see the grandour, and I may say the most patriotic scheme ever introduced in the House of Commons.

My scheme is simply this, let us build a wall, say fifty feet high extending all along our borders from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, the wall to be about 20 feet thick and protected on the out side by a casing of steel ten feet through, from the ground to the top of wall, the remainder solid masonry. Every five miles have gates protected by guns of the latest make, (cheers) we can vote say fifty million dollars yearly and keep the work going steadily on care being taken not to build any part of the said wall through a grit constituency until such times that they "The Grits" see the error of their ways and return a true and loyal tory, (great cheering) this is simply an outline of my scheme but you can easily see the great advantages of my project, first, it would stimulate the iron and steel industries employing over one million of men, our farmers will have a market at their doors and at high prices for what they sell. Imigrants would pour in from the whole world. Manitoba will have wheat to export and to be within the mark about one thousand billions of bushels of wheat yearly. Think of it gentlemen the patronage we will have, every one would be rich, of course will always vote for us, and another strong card for us, what a grand work of defence this wall will be in case of war with the d—d yanks. This scheme the people from one end of Canada

PERSONALS.

Did it ever occur to you that you could assist us greatly to keep up the interest of this column. If you have friends visiting you, or intend leaving town for even a few days kindly let us know by personal call or a post card. Your friends both in the neighborhood and at a distance are interested in your movements. Don't think we should know where you are: tell us.

Mr. Thos. York, of Newburgh, favored us with a call on Saturday.

Mr. J. M. Smith, of Tamworth, was in town on Saturday and favored us with a call.

Mr. Wm. Wood is spending his holidays at his home in Newburgh. He will return to Kingston to resume his position in a few days.

Mr. D. Schermerhorn, Selby, favoured us with a call on Saturday.

Mr. W. C. Asselstine, of Roblin, was a caller on THE EXPRESS on Saturday.

Miss Ruby Patterson, of Cheapside millinery department, left on Friday last for her home in Peterboro, where she will spend her holidays.

Mr. Boyce of Chicago, spent Wednesday in town the guest of Rev. G. S. White Piety Hill.

Mr. J. J. Johnston, of Bath, was in town on Saturday and favored us with a call.

Miss Effie Vanalstine spent last week in Gretna the guest of Mrs. Thomas Walmsley and Mrs. John Yates.

Miss Ida Fields of Gretna is visiting her cousin Miss Effie Vanalastine.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reynolds of Deseronto, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Huffman, Napanee.

Mr. D. W. Allison was in town on Thursday.

Mr. Bowen E. Aylsworth, of Bath, was a caller on THE EXPRESS on Wednesday.

Miss Grace Carscallen, of Tamworth, is the guest of her friend Miss Loretta Brown, Dundas st.

Miss Briggs, of Napanee, has been visiting Miss Aylesworth of Bath.

Mr. H. E. Hughes of Camden East, favored us with a call last week.

Mrs. Wm. O'Hare, of Forest Mills, spent Saturday in town.

Mr. Geo. Fox, of Forest Mills, favored us with a call on Saturday.

Mr. Chas. Kayler, Morven, favored us with a call on Monday.

Two ladies rooming at the residence of E. K. Bowen are down with diptheria.

Mr. Wm. Madden is 91 years of age and reads the paper with avidity. He is as well posted on political subjects as the best informed man in town.

Misses Edith and Ella Kimmerly were in Belleville on Monday.

Mr. Thos. Grant Fraser, of Elizabethtown, formerly of Napanee, died at the residence of his son, Dr. J. B. Fraser, Toronto.

Messrs. W. T. Gibbard and H. Meng attended the poultry show at Port Hope.

Mrs. Dr. Vrooman and daughter Mary, were visiting, Mrs. J. D. Ham, on Wednesday and Thursday.

E. W. Benjamin Esq. of Yarker was in town Wednesday on business.

Mr. W. S. Herrington was attending court this week in Newburgh and Tamworth.

Miss Gertrude Madole has been visiting Mr. and Mrs, H. Taylor, Belleville.

Mr. Wm. Maybee is visiting in Toronto.

Misss Minnie Atkins leaves to-day for Toronto where she will visit friends.

J. R. Dafoe was in Kingston on Wednesday.

Miss A. E. Scobell, of Odessa, who has been seriou ly ill is recovering.

Rev. W. W. Peck returned from Burlington last Saturday evening.

Mr. A. E. Lang was out for a short walk on Tuesday. He is gaining strength rapidly.

Miss Louise Daly, of Montreal, gave a solo in E. M. church Sunday morning which delighted the congregation.

Mrs. John Ham and daughter are recovering from an attack of diptheria.

Miss Nellie Killorin and Miss O'Hare were the guests of Mrs. R. Adams, Deseronto on Sunday.

Judge Price of Kingston was attending court this week in Newburgh, Tamworth, and Centreville.

Mr. W. A. Rockwell visited Picton on Tuesday delivering pianos.

Mr. Clarence M. Warner returned from New York on Monday evening.

Mr. Ferd Rockwell took an organ to Bell Rock on Tuesday.

Mr. Teddie Elloitt the S. A. drummer of their corps, spent Sunday at Deseronto.

Mr. Wm. Boyd, of Chatham, the celebrated sprinter, arrived in town last night to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Sophia Boyd.

His Honor Judge Wilkison has been confined to the house with a heavy cold but we are pleased to say he is now about recovered.

BORN.

SILLS—At Sophiasburgh, on Jan. 10th, inst. the wife of Mr. Edgbert Sills of a son.

MARRIED.

SAGAR—SMART—On Tuesday, the 7th of January, 1896, by the Reverend G. A. Anderson, M. A., Robert Sagar, of Shannonville, to Adeline, eldest daughter of Isaac Smart, of the Reserve.

MARACLE—WALKER—At the Mohawk Parsonage, on Thursday the 9th Jan., 1896, by the Rev. G. A. Anderson, M. A., Missionary, Nelson Seymour Maracle to Susan, eldest daughter of Charles Walker, all of the Reserve.

HAMBLY—DENNISON—By Rev. D. O. Crossley at the residence of Mr. John Dennison of Richmond on Wednesday Jan. 15th, Mr. S. J. Hambly of North Fredericksburgh to Miss Laura Dennison of Richmond.

DIED.

ROE—At Montreal on Wednesday Jan. 15th, entered into Rest, Isabella, daughter of the Ven. Henry Roe, ArchDeacon of Quebec and only surviving sister of Mrs. Arthur Jarvis.

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY

CENTREVILLE WEST.

The warm breezes have ceased and very cold weather prevails.

Elections are over and everything has assumed a new attitude. The new council is somewhat different to that of last year. They may be able to do better and yet still do a lot worse than their predecessors. One thing is certain they need not have any interest to pay, as there is surplus enough on hand to bear all expenses for the coming year.

James Doreen and a number of young ladies from Shannonville were visiting at Mr. M. Ingoldsby's last week. Come again Jimmy.

A number of our young men appear to be melancholy just now. They talk of travelling to distant lands

There has been no teacher engaged for this school yet.

Wood bees are raging.

Several in this vicinity are down with la grippe.

Weddings are scarce.

HAY BAY.

The funeral of the late Alexander Quackenbush, who died on Tuesday, the 7th of January, took place on Thursday. Owing to the inclemency of the weather it was not very well attended. The deceased has been sick for the past year so his death was not unexpected. He leaves an aged mother and a loving wife and three little children to mourn his loss. He was at one time a member of the I.O.F. and carried a policy of $1000 on his life, and by some unknown cause he gave it up. The Foresters of Court Hay Bay turned out in force on the day of his funeral and showed every respect for their late member.

At the business meeting held in the church on Wednesday evening last it was decided to hold the annual tea meeting on the evening of January the 30th. Come one and all and secure your fill, and also enjoy the programme, which will be highly interesting.

It is with regret we have to state the very severe illness of Miss Eliza Brown. She was taken on Sunday evening last with a sore throat, it kept on for the worse till it was found necessary to call in Dr. Ward, of Napanee. He pronounced it diphtheria She is at present writing, we are glad to say, a little better.

Mr. C. Kellar is also on the sick list.

The merry jingle of dem bells are again heard on the roads, but I think we need a little more snow to make the drive comfortable.

PINE GROVE.

Mr. Editor—By your permission (seeing our former correspondent has forsaken us) I will write a few notes from here, hoping in the future some abler pen than mine may report us frequently When we say Pine Grove, we inlude all that stretch of country lying between Gretna's eastern boundary and Napanee. Not so small a place you see.

Well the festive season and elections are over. Our veteran, Mr. John Carscallen, who has won many battles, and lost but few has retired from public life and will be found in the future at his undertaking establishment, Napanee. Mr. Allen Wagar represents us now in the council.

Miss Gala has charge of our school. I think she will be a good teacher.

Everything is quiet just now. We want more snow, still the boys will be merry.

A small party from not a great way off came to Mr. Hugh Lowry's on Monday night and had a good time, it has leaked out however as things will sometimes that one gentleman not as young as the rest got the G. B. in the middle of a set (some one said by the belle of the ball) but experience counts for something. The breach was quickly filled and was finished in excellent style and no hearts broken. Music was furnished by local talent. (After tea next time Charlie do not leave home so soon.)

Gardening seems to pay well here, Mr. Ed. Baird is cashing it.

ing some bales of hay from a waggon, the upper door of the barn struck him, throwing him with great force to the ground, bruising him badly and inflicting a severe blow upon the back of his head causing unconciousness. Medical aid was soon summoned and we are happy to say he is improving nicely.

Mr. George Haddon is Mayor of Picton.

Quite a large number of Prince Edward boys are attending the Business College, Belleville.

Birth—On Friday, Jan. 10th, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Edgbert Sills, Sophiasburgh. Mr. and Mrs. Sills are well known in Napanee and vicinity.

Mrs. Bert Davis, Sophiasburgh, is very low with constipation.

The [illegible] Band realized $36 at an entertain[illegible] given by them in the town hall, Milford, long since.

Hilde[illegible]d Valleau, J. P., High Shore, has be[illegible]ffering, the past week, with rheum[illegible]out.

A [illegible]uccessful revival has been held in the M[illegible]odist church, Cressy, under the able man[illegible]ement of evangelist, Rev. J. W. McCallu[illegible]

WILTON.

Jas. Thompson has been quite ill.

Miss Nora West, Yarker, [illegible] visiting Miss Rose Shibley.

Wm, Storms and bride, Yarker, spent last week visiting his mother Mrs. R. Storms.

W. T. Hodge gave a concert in the Grange hall last Thursday evening. Messrs Tooker and Dawson, Yarker, assisted him. It was well patronized, the hall being filled; Mr. Hodge's ventriloquism and sleight-of-hand work cannot be beaten While the concert was going on O. C. Storms' team broke loose and ran away, smashing a cart belonging to Henry Stover, Lapum's, that was standing in the road by Wm, Scott's blacksmith shop and breaking down some of Wm Oven's fence. The sleigh they were attached to was not broken in the least and with the exception of a few scratches the horses escaped unhurt.

MILL HAVEN.

The bay is frozen over once more and the road is bushed across. We have quite a lot of snow, enough to make fairly good sleighing.

Mrs. W. Clement still continues quite low.

Mr. A. Venton has been renewing acquaintances in our midst after an absence of fourteen years.

Miss T. Urquhart, of Big Creek, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. Miller.

Mr Wesley Parrott is still very ill.

Miss Maggie Reid, of Amherst Island, is spending a few days at Mr. Ed. Milligan's.

Mr. and Mrs. George Miller left on Friday last for Rawdon, where they will attend the wedding of their niece, Miss Maggie Maybee.

The happy couple, Mr. and Mrs Ruport, intend spending part of their honeymoon in Mill Haven.

Mrs. D. Hinton and daughter, Gertie of Amherst Island, spent a few days with her mother, Mrs. J. Fleming.

BATH.

The telephone accomodation is much appreciated though it does at times convey unwelcome news. The sad news reached us on Monday 13th, of the sudden death of Arnold P. Booth, of Odessa, of heart failure causing a great shock to the community by whom he was so generally and favorably known.

Among the many enterprises of the village none is more noticable than the comfortable conveyance of our enterprising mail carrier, C Mills.

We know of no man who has met with greater success than Mr. Wm. Savage, of Ottawa, who on Wednesday last captured one of the most esteemed young ladies of our village, in the person of Miss Frankie Cunningham. Our best wishes follow them.

The ticking of the telegraph is heard in the store of D. T. Rowse, Mr. Miles Vallean, operator.

Mr. F. H. Priest, of Toronto, was gladly received by his many friends, last week.

to the other will take it up, no doubt of it. Oh! dear, dear, old friends this will be the crowning act of my life, I will die happy in the thought of having saved my country and the name of Tupper will live while time lasts. This is my scheme gentlemen, accept it and you are out of the hole, reject it and you will be buried ten feet down never to raise.

At the termination of this very great speech, which only a Tupper can give, the cheering was something that no pen or man can describe. Montague was almost daft with excitement. The rest of the ministers were so much carried away with excitement that it took them all the next day to get calmed down.

Mr. Editor when will the electors of this Canada of ours put their thinking caps on.

This latest scheme of Tupper's may not be introduced, but something equally as absured will be brought forward, and it remains to be seen whether the electors will as in 78, swallow the bait, God forbid.

I am, Yours truly,
DUNCAN McFARLANE,
Deseronto.

Jan. 15th, 1896. Ont.

We have a few boxes of raisins left at $1.00 per box of 28 lbs. Our 25c tea is the best in town, sold on its merit. 4 lbs of ginger snaps for 25c. We are in the market for clover seed, for which we pay market price in cash. JOY & PERRY.

A New Butcher Shop.

Mr. Jake Smith, the enterprising east end grocer, has opened up a Butcher Shop in the rear of his store, and already has on hand a fine stock of fresh meats, at prices as cheap as the cheapest. An EXPRESS representative visited the store on Thursday and was shown through the new department by Mr. J. W. Anderson, the manager, a butcher of many years experience, and well known to the people of Napanee and vicinity. The butcher shop is not quite finished yet, but when completed, it will be without doubt one of the handsomest meat markets in this district. It is to be fitted out with all the latest improvements, and Mr. Smith is having put in a handsome plate glass refrigerator that will be one of the finest things of its kind in town. Mr. Smith intends to deal in all kinds of fresh and cured meats, and is fully determined to have one of the best stocked and equipped butcher shops in this district. We predict success for Mr. Smith in his new venture.

AROUND TOWN.

The attempt that is being made to disqualify several of the Councillors elect, seems to us a picayune piece of business. Dr. Meng who was elected as Councillor for Centre Ward at the head of the poll, has sent in a disclaimer. While morally qualified to sit at the council board his opponents taking advantage of the technicalities of the law, have entered a protest, and as the position is purely an honorary one, the doctor dosn't feel disposed to throw away good money in a law suit. We understand that objections are made to several other members of the new council taking seats at the board, on the ground that they have not sufficient property qualification. All the members of the new council are responsible, honorable men, in whom the ratepayers have by their votes reposed confidence and it will be too bad if on some little technicality the wishes of the ratepayers are defeated, and some men in whom they have not reposed confidence are allowed to come into the council through the back door, so to speak.

A prominent citizen said to us in the course of a conversation the other day that "if everything was run in strict accordance with the law this would be a devil of a country to live in." The law is all right, but it is not always good policy to demand your full pound of flesh. The law, we are informed, says that no man is qualified to run for office or is entitled to a vote until he has paid his taxes. Here is a law, but it is not enforced. It is a good job it isn't, too, or at the time of holding the municipal elections about half the ratepayers would be disfranchised.

The Greenway Government had everything pretty much their own way in the Provincial elections in Manitoba on Tuesday. The opposition has been practically wiped out. There are 40 constituencies in the Province. Nine of them elected Liberal candidates by acclamation. In four of the 30 constituencies in which elections were held Tuesday, there were no Liberal candidates; Of the other 26 constituencies at least 20 have returned Liberals. This makes 26 Liberals elected, 7 Conservatives and 4 Independents. The election in Dauphin does not take place for a week.

KINGSFORD.

A great many of the people from this place attended the Marysville ball, and all were well pleased with the good time they had.

Mrs. Thos. Dafoe is very ill and her recovery is doutful.

Mr. Thos. Winter was in town on Saturday.

Miss Bella O'Hara spent last week visiting friends in the 7th concession.

Mr. Daniel McNiel returned from Deseronto on Saturday, where he has been under the care of Dr. Newton. His hand is much better.

It is reported that one of our fair damsels is to be married in the near future. The saying is a January bride will be a prudent house-keeper and very good tempered.

Mr. Stewart Tullock has resumed his studies in the Deseronto high school.

Mrs. Mary Doyle is on the sick list.

Mrs. John Walker, of Carman, Man., is renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. Cornelius McVany was married to Miss Kate McGuinness, of Tyendinaga.

Charles and Frank Brenan are guests at Mr. James McHenry's.

ODESSA.

The community was shocked Monday morning to learn of the sudden demise of Arnold P. Booth, one of our best known and highly respected residents. On Sunday night he retired to his room at the Queen's hotel, where he was boarding, apparently in his usual health. About five o'clock in the morning it was learned that he was ill. Dr. Mabee was summoned, but to no avail, as death took place within half an hour. Paralysis of the heart was the cause. Deceased was fifty two years of age. His wife and two daughters, who re side in Boston, have arrived home. The funeral takes place to-day.

J. M. Denyes has returned to Toronto to resume his studies at the school of pedagogy.

Miss Wilson, Miss Minnie Meacham, and Miss Nellie Fraser are visiting friends at Albert College, Belleville.

Mrs. Charles Lowry, Brooklyn, N. Y., has arrived at the bedside of her husband who is seriously ill of consumption at the home of his mother, Mrs. Chadwick. She brought with her her two children.

Nelson E. Booth has returned from a few weeks sojourn in New York city.

There was no service in St. Alban's church last evening, as the Rev. Mr. Dibb is away on missionary deputation work in North Addington.

Russell Howard has moved into the house owned by P. S. Timmerman, adjoining the drug store.

A ten cent social was held at the Methodist parsonage on Monday evening, the proceeds to be devoted to putting storm windows on the parsonage.

The pupils of Miss Wilson's Sunday school class presented their teacher with a bamboo easel and a silver whisk holder as a New Year's gift.

SALEM.

Mr. Editor, here I am again after the very cold weather, I was nearly frozen up but am thawed out again

Mrs. Phillips is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Will Conger.

Miss Maggie Fairburn was a guest at her sister's, Mrs. John Vine, on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley Conger, of Deseronto road, were guests at David Frisken's on Sunday.

Charlie Lowry and Miss Franc Richardson paid Salem a flying call on Friday evening last.

Daisy McCabe is spending this week visiting friends at Hay Bay.

James Vine and family, of Switzerville, were the guests of his brother, Will. Vine, on Sunday.

I know a horse that had a rest on Sunday owing to the snow flurry in the morning. Wait until next Sunday young man.

We have some "would be pugilists" living in our little hamlet. Anyone wishing to "leave their measure for a sore nose" would do well to call.

On Tuesday evening, at the hour of eight o'clock, by the Rev. W.W. Peck, Mr. Dorland Pennell and Miss Lizzie Logan were happily joined together for life. The bride was assisted by Miss Helen Emberson, while Mr. Byron Pennell acted as best man. The young couple are both very popular and highly esteemed. May their days of married life be both many and joyful.

George Spencer and wife, of Hay Bay, were here on Tuesday evening to attend the wedding of her daughter, Miss Logan.

There is still another wedding on the way. How is this for Salem? Leap year accounts for it.

Oh where is that black horse with the white stockings. I have not seen him lately.

Miss Stella Wagar is critically ill at present. We hope to hear of her speedy recovery.

Here is a copy of a clipping from a Manitoba paper. Can it be true? "A hugging society has been formed in Brandon. The rates are as follows.—For a straight hug, girls under 16 20c. each hug lasting two minutes. From 16 to 25 75c, School mams 4c. Another man's wife $1. Widows 20c to $2. according to plumpness, Old maids 3c or two for a nickle, with no limit to time. Sales ladies and waitresses 10c.

I would suggest, Mr. Editor, they raise the standard of education out there. Perhaps they will after the Ottawa government fixes things up for them.

PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY.

A Happy New Year to Editor and Staff of the EXPRESS. We are a little late perhaps, but nevertheless the wish is sincere.

On Monday morning the thermometer registered 20 degrees below zero. Pretty cold for election, but then we did not mind it beside the stove and were very glad we were not a "new woman," and therefore had no ballot to worry over.

Richard VanBlaricom (of whom we wrote you some few weeks ago, as having returned to the paternal roof after spending the summer at Prince Edward Island) started Monday morning last for California where he has secured a situation in a cheesefactory in the Sacramento Valley.

In a letter just received from a friend at Herkimer, N. Y. we read:—"What about the Monroe doctrine." If John Bull and uncle Sam think it necessary to measure swords, cannot we arrange it in some way so that should we happen to meet we would not feel obliged to attempt to murder one-another."

Meetings of the Farmers Institute will be held at Bloomfield Jan. 14th, and Demorestville Jan. 15th. Good programmes have been arranged for both afternoon and evening sessions.

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 7th, as Mr. Josiah Benson, Sophiasburgh, was remov-

Miss Jennie Briggs, of Napanee, is visiting Miss Aylesworth, Upper Main Street.

Miss Susie Young who has been renewing acquaintances at Bath for the past few weeks, has returned to her studies at the Ladies' College, Kingston.

VIOLET

Getting married seems to be all the rage these days.

Our popular miller, Mr. Harry Dash, was married on the 11th inst. Miss Maggie, the youngest daughter of the late Mathew Brandon, at the parsonage, Morven, by the Rev. Mr. Dunkley. The happy couple we believe will reside in the future at the residence of the bride on Victoria avenue. The Editor of the Violet Budget wishes you success Harry, may your life be a long and happy one and all your troubles small ones.

Our school is progressing very nicely under the efficient management of our popular teacher, Miss Grange.

Say, Mr. Cheesemaker, what about that celebrated bribery case? Can you give us any information concerning it.

Mr. Arch Close brought his engine home on Monday from Bath, having decided to give up running his grist mill.

Mr. Peter Foot is the guest of his brother, Benjamin Foot on Western Avenue. Mr. Foot has been living in Michigan for several years. His many friends here were pleased to see him and glad to hear of his success in the U. S.

Mr. Snider, of Switzerville, conducted the church service Sunday evening.

Mr. Isaac Robinson is still very low. His friends have no hopes for his recovery.

Mrs. Miles Robinson is also very ill

The young people of our village are talking of organizing a society of Christian Endeavor.

Master H. Asselstine is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennison.

Hood's Pills cure liver ills, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, sick headache.

M. S. Plumley, Past Noble Grand, of Argyll lodge, No. 212, I.O.O.F., presented Mr Jake Robinson with a handsome, gold recognition pin, as a reward for bringing in the most canditates for membership during his term in the N. G's. chair.

A MARVELLOUS STATEMENT.

The Oldest Merchant of Niagara-on-the Lake, Ont., Speaks of Paine's Celery Compound.

An Astonishing Victory Over Disease.

Every man, woman and child in and around the pretty town of Niagara on the Lake, Ont., knows Mr. H. W. Crysler, the deserving and successful merchant. Hundreds of families in the district are already aware of the fact that by the use of Paine's Celery Compound, Mr. Crysler was raised up from a condition of utter helplessness, misery and weakness to a new life, and is now in such a healthful condition, that he is perfectly able to look after the details of his flourishing business.

Mr. Crysler's story of his long fight with the worst form of Rheumatism, his failures with useless medicines, and his grand triumph with Paine's Celery Compound, are given to the public as follows:

"About four years since, I had a severe attack of grippe, followed by rheumatism, for which the local physician prescribed the usual remedies, which helped me at the time, but did not eliminate the disease. Becoming gradually worse, I finally became discouraged and began using 'proprietary' medicines without any benefit. Then I went to 'Clifton Springs,' took the treatment, and felt somewhat better; but after coming back I became very much worse, and was confined to bed for a time. I then went to 'Preston Springs,' and really improved; but after returning home I got worse, and was a perfect martyr for more than two years, often confined to bed, and gradually became worse.

"I was then induced to try Paine's Celery Compound, and have gained in health and strength up to the present writing. I now walk from my house to the store, a distance of one quarter of a mile, daily, and to church Sundays. Paine's Celery Compound has done all this for me. My friends are surprised and astonished to see me able to attend to business again. I might add that I have been in business in Niagara for 41 years, and was 70 years old on 7th January last.

"Believing that it is my duty to let other sufferers know of the great benefit I have received from Paine's Celery Compound, I cheerfully send this letter.

The Dominion Bank

ESTABLISHED 1871.

CAPITAL — $1,500,000.00
RESERVE FUND — $1,450,000.00

Deposits received and interest allowed. Drafts on all parts of Great Britain and United States bought and sold.

E. H. BAINES, Agent.

J. L. BOYES

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY Ticket Agent

DUNDAS STREET,

NAPANEE, - ONT.

Consumption.

Valuable treatise and two bottles of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. T. A. SLOCUM CHEMICAL CO., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

FOR

CHRISTMAS and NEW YEARS

HOLIDAYS

Will Make Special Rates For All

Single First Class Fare

Going Dec. 24th and 25th, Returning Dec 26, 1895
Going Dec. 31st and Jan 1 Returning Jan. 2, 1896

Single First Class Fare and One-Third

Going Dec. 21st to 25th, Returning until Jan. 7th, 1896.
Going Dec. 28th to Jan. 1st,

Special Rates for Students and Teachers.

Single First Class fare and One-Third

Going Dec. 13 to 24, Returning until Jan 13th '96.

Special Rates for Commercial Travellers.

Single First Class fare

Going Dec. 20 to 25, Returning until Jan. 7th '96.

E. McLAUGHLIN,
Agent at Napanee.

C. H. FINKLE.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER, Newburgh, Ont. Orders left with Ewart and Vanluven, Yarker, will have prompt attention. Telephone communication.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

CURES

DYSPEPSIA,
BAD BLOOD,
CONSTIPATION,
KIDNEY TROUBLES,
HEADACHE,
BILIOUSNESS.

B.B.B. unlocks all the secretions and expels all impurities from the system from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

BURDOCK PILLS act promptly yet thoroughly on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

WANTED SALESMEN We want one or two GOOD MEN in each County to take orders for a choice

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, JAN. 17, 1896.

As a stretcher the giraffe isn't in it with the Elder Tupper.

HARMONY has been restored in the Ottawa cabinet with a club.

THE cats have come back and the war talk is abating in Europe.

THE Kilkenny cats aren't a comparison to the hoboes at Ottawa.

LIKE Alexander the Liberals are sighing for more constituencies to conquer.

MALCOLM Canmore Cameron, M. P., West Huron—majority 257. Come on McDuff.

Judging from the bye-elections the Tories will not have a corporal's guard in the next parliament.

THE veneer has fallen off Bowell's cabinet and the bad spots in its construction stand revealed.

So completely has Sir Charles H. Tupper left the cabinet that he hasn't even left a vacancy behind him.

IT's only a question of time—and a short time at that—when a Liberal Government will be installed at Ottawa.

IT looks now as if the people were anxious for an opportunity to throw off the incubus which has enthralled them for the past fifteen years.

Talk about the dishonest and dishonorable tactics of Tammany. The aggregation at Ottawa can give pointers to the New York bosses.

IF the members of the re-constructed cabinet have to go back to their constituencies for re-election the Grits will soon have a majority in the house.

IF the worst comes to the worst the Hon. Geo. Foster can return to his old allegiance, and who knows but he may eventually become leader of the Prohibition party.

THE peace of Europe hangs by a slender thread, when the precipitate action of the crack brained Emperor of Germany threatens to involve the continent in war.

CAN men who will conspire and hatch plots to undermine their leader be entrusted with the affairs of the Dominion? Would you entrust them with your private affairs?

BY the death of C. W. Bunting, managing director of the Toronto Mail and Empire, a prominent figure in the social and political life of Canada has been removed.

THE Dominion Government would have been defeated on the trade question, despite the remedial order. The present embroglio at Ottawa only makes its defeat doubly certain.

WHILE Mackenzie Bowell is reconstructing his cabinet we would respectfully suggest our own Uriah Wilson, M.P., as minister of Fisheries. He is a good man to secure information from.

The National Policy has hung like a mill stone around the necks of the farmers of Canada for the last fifteen years. It has been championed by a government that has been unblushingly corrupt, vacillating and dishonorable. Will you vote for its and their overthrow?

SIR Charles Hibbert Tupper has

FERTILIZATION BY POLLEN.

[A paper read by Mr. John Pollard at the annual meeting of the Napanee Horticultural Society. Published by request.]

It may be as well to state in the beginning of this paper what pollen is. It is that yellow powdery substance produced in abundance on the stamens of plants, and which many of us have no doubt seen adhering to the legs and heads of bees after leaving some of our flowers. Pollen is produced in great abundance, 999 particles of it are probably wasted. Nature has been particularly lavish in this direction to secure the reproduction of plants, as without pollen there can be no seed. It has been observed that nature multiplies her resources to an even greater degree than here mentioned when the pollen bearing plant is separated by a long distance from the fruit or seed bearing flower. Hence the peculiarity often observed by those living near pine forests, where the pollen falls from the trees in such abundance as to cause what is termed "a sulphur rain." In some of our lakes also in the month of July there occurs a peculiar phenomenon. Take Hay Bay for example, as it is near by, and the fact as here stated can be verified if anyone doubt its accuracy. This great body of water becomes, during the month mentioned, literally suffused with yellowish dust. This is called by many residents on its banks "the lake purifying itself," others say "the water is in blow." A peculiarity of this "blow" or blossom, lies in the fact that where the phenomenon takes place there are a great—a very great number of weeds. The peculiar sulphurous appearance of the water in Hay Bay extends in part to the Bay of Quinte, but to that part only where weeds are plentiful, while in parts where there is a stony bottom and shores the "bloom" is not apparant. What more probable than that this peculiar appearance of the water is due to the weeds liberating their pollen? and is in fact only a watery repetition of the sulphur rain.

A word or two will not be out of place now as to that part of flowers which receive the pollen namely the pistils. At the time of impregnation, or when the pollen dust is utilized, the ends of the pistils become slightly moist, and the grains of pollen adhering thereto sprout and send down a minute tube to the embryo seeds which are placed at the lower end of the pistils. The seed becomes fertilized and begins to develop, and where fruit or vegetables form the outside covering of the seed, these begin to grow.

This is in brief, "Fertilization by Pollen."

But this paper would fall very far short of the object aimed at by the writer if a halt were now made.

What we call a flower is somewhat difficult of description. We notice with great gratification the beauty of the envelope, the calyx and corolla, which surround the true floral apparatus, and but seldom seek to enquire furthur. Enough that the flower is chastely beautiful or gloriously gorgeous, or that it gives forth a very pleasant fragrance. In the eyes of the botanist however the true flower is found in and among the little filaments growing in the centre. Here the stamen grows and here also generally are found the pistils, upon which some of the pollen from the stamens naturally falls and fertilizes the plant so that seed may be produced. This only happens however in what is called "the perfect flower." Some plants have two very distinct kinds of flowers, one bearing stamens and producing pollen the other bearing pistils and the seed in embryo. This is exemplified in the case of the homely pumpkin and squash, cucumber, etc. Here may be found the "false" and "true" blossoms, popularly so called; but unless the pollen from the false blossom is by some means con-is not necessary to the enjoyment of perfect health, yet strong, healthy organs and faculties give rise to the most delightful sensations of existence.

GREAT PHYSICAL STRENGTH

Exercise, common sense and ordinary precaution and you need never be very sick. When you find your stomach troublesome, your bowels inactive, your nerves sensitive—look out! When your weight is decreasing, when your energy is waning, when exertion seems impossible and sleep does not give rest—look out!

Serious illness has its beginning in neglected little things. Even dread consumption comes on by degrees, and may begin with a very slight derangement. Taken in time, 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption can be cured. Taken in time, no disease need be really serious. The best safeguard against disease is an active, healthy liver. That means good blood and good blood means good solid healthy flesh.

The germs of disease seek out the weak spots in the body. Don't have any weak spots. If you have them now, clear them out, tone them up, make them strong. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will do it. It searches out all poisonous matter and disease-germs of whatever character. It regulates the action of the organs of the whole body. It forces out impure matter, makes the blood rich and puts new life into every fiber. It makes good, firm, healthy flesh—doesn't make fat. It gives you flesh that you can work with—the flesh that means health, but a reasonable plumpness is essential to the best bodily condition.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is pleasant to take and you don't have to take an ocean of it to get well either.

Apple trees are supposed to produce perfect flowers, that is flowers which will become pollenised without aid from another tree. Such is found by experiments recently conducted not to be quite correct. While some apple trees will bear fruit plentifully without fertilization other than is given by pollen produced in its own flowers, others will not, and require to be planted in mixed groups to secure good results.

Apples require five distinct pollenisations. Often we see apples pretty well developed on one side, while the other is shrunken away. This defect is caused by insufficient impregnation.

Many apple trees have been recently discovered to be self sterile, among them being such well-known varieties as the Northern Spy, King, Red Astrachan and Tolman Sweet; while among the self fertile may be numbered the Baldwin and Rhode Island Greening.

A Mr. George Fisher has a block of four hundred Northern Spy apple trees, now 18 years old, and which have not borne fruit. When he again plants an apple orchard he will likely put 20 varieties into a four hundred tree block and keep a colony of bees quite handy.

In pears, while there is a large list which are self fertile there is still a larger list of trees which are not so. Among the self fertile are the well known Flemish Beauty and the Seckel, while among those which require pollen from other sources are the Bartlett and Clapp's Favorite.

For many years grapes of all kinds were considered self fertile, but recent investigations have disclosed a very different state of affairs.

Pears will fully develop when supplied with apple pollen. Currants will fruit abundantly from gooseberry pollen, and peach trees will do well if within reach of cherry pollen. A cross of pollen sometimes however produces seedless fruit. But all fruits pollenised cost you nothing to give it a trial. State which writing which you prefer to sell. Address

THE HAWKS NURSERY CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

EVERY FAMILY
SHOULD KNOW THAT

Is a very remarkable remedy, both for INTERNAL and EXTERNAL use, and wonderful in its quick action to relieve distress.

PAIN-KILLER is a sure cure for Sore Throat, Coughs, Colds, Chills, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cramps, Cholera, and all Bowel Complaints.

PAIN-KILLER is THE BEST remedy known for Seasickness, Sick Headache, Pain in the Back or Side, Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

PAIN-KILLER is unquestionably the BEST LINIMENT made. It helps speedy and permanent relief in all cases of Bruises, Cuts, Sprains, Severe Burns, etc.

PAIN-KILLER is the well tried and trusted friend of the Mechanic, Farmer, Planter, Sailor, and in fact of all who want a reliable medicine always at hand, and one that is ready at all times for prompt and certain relief.

[illegible]

UNDERTAKING!

Having added a full line of Undertaker's Goods, consisting of Caskets, Coffins, Robes, etc.

to my stock of Furniture, I am prepared to supply and attend funerals on the shortest notice, and in the most modern style. Having had twenty years experience in the business, perfect satisfaction may be relied on.

Embalming a Specialty.

JAS. WILSON,
DUNDAS STREET.

N.B.—Residence next door west (opposite Dr. Leonard's). Open at all hours.

FARMERS ATTENTION.

Insure your property in the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

Because it is a Home Company.
Because it is a Safe Company.
Because it is the cheapest and best.
Because it affords the most liberal policies to patrons.
Because it insures only risks of non hazardous risks, as farm property, county churches halls and school houses.
Because it is the Farmer's Company managed by Farmers in the interest of farmers of the Counties of Lennox and Addington, Hastings Frontenac, Lanark and Leeds

Officers—J. B. Aylsworth President; B. C. Lloyd, Vice-President. Directors—A. C. Parks, U. C. Sills, W. R. Gordanier, L. F. Aylesworth. Honorary Directors—Jas. Bird M.P.P. A. V. Price, Camden. C. R. Allison, Wm. Chesters, Fredericksburgh, D. W. Allison ex-M.P. Adolphustown; F. B. Guess, Col. Geo. Hunter Kingston; Allan Pringle, Ira B. Hudgins, Richmond. The board meets at the Secretarie's office in the first Saturday of every month at one p.m.

J. N. McKim, Napanee.
W. W. Lapum, Wilton, Agents
M. Burns, Gananoque,
M. C. BOGART, Secy.-Treas.

CEDAR.

What do you want? I will tell you.

GOOD FENCES

made of sound Yellow Cedar. The subscriber has a quantity of CEDAR POSTS, STAKES, BINDERS and BUILDING TIMBER, of any length and size, which he will dispose of at more reasonable rates than can be obtained elsewhere.

DENIS DALY.
NAPANEE.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Pushing, trustworthy men to represent us in the sale of our Choice Nursery Stock. Specialties controlled by us. Highest Salary or Commission paid weekly. Steady employment the year round. Outfit free; exclusive territory; experience not necessary; big pay assured workers; special inducements to beginners. Write at once for particulars to swelling until it has got so abnormally large that the young man has somehow become possessed of the idea that the country can't possibly get along without him. He is no doubt one of the originators of the great coup d'etat that was to "floor" Mackenzie Bowell and give him and his fellow conspirators full swing and a free hand. It looks as if the little plot was going to react and that Sir Charles H. is to be the "floored" not the "floorer." No doubt the country will manage to hobble along much as usual without the assistance of this great mind of the new school of statesmen. The man who thought he ran the earth died a few years ago, but as far as we have been able to ascertain, the big wheel hasn't even slipped a cog since.

ALLEN NURSERY CO.,
ROCHESTER, N.Y.

As soon as the bolters perceived that Mackenzie Bowell would be able to form a cabinet without them they were all willing to return. It is now stated that they have all gone back into the cabinet with the exception of Sir. Charles H. Tupper, whose place is to be filled by his Pa. The elder Tupper has resigned his position as High Commissioner and will devote himself entirely to weaving romance dealing with the unbounded prosperity of Canada, and the tall chimneys that are bound to loom up with the advent to power of the Tory party and the elevation of himself to the premiership. The rosy pictures so ably painted by the Elder Tupper in days gone by, are hardly approvable at present, but the old gentleman can dwell on the benefits of a four million dollar deficit, the large increase in our public debt and the unity of the Tory party. The Tay Canal, the Sheiks Island Dam, the Connolly-McGrievy deals, and a host of other jobs can be put in as evidence that the Tories have always been in favor of giving the contractors their due, always providing they come down heavily for the election fund. But all this by the way. Will Sir Mackenzie Bowell stultify himself by taking back the treacherous and dishonorable gang, who under the guise of friendship, plotted for his downfall? Will the Governor-General consent to accept as advisers of the crown men who have shown that they are unworthy of dependence.

M. C. Cameron, the Reform War Horse, was elected in West Huron on Tuesday by a majority reaching up in the hundreds. He had opposed to him Mr. Wesmiller, a straight Conservative, and the Tory pluggers of Goderich, the county town of Huron, who will stop at nothing to gain their ends. No man is so thoroughly hated by his opponents as M. C. Cameron. He is a fighter and strikes out from the shoulder. The Tories have never forgiven him for a famous speech he made in the House of Commons exposing the mismanagement, abuse and corruption that characterized the administration of Indian affairs in the Northwest. His charges were all made from the blue books, and as his opponents could not refute them, they christened him Annanias, to weaken their effect. He has been subjected to more persecution and abuse than any man in public life in Canada to-day. A few years ago a plot was hatched in Goderich to filch from him his good name. Had it worked successfully it would have ruined and driven him from public life. The tables were turned on the conspirators, however. One of the ringleaders was landed in gaol, and would have undoubtedly been sent down for a term of years for criminal libel, had not Mr. Cameron generously accepted the very humble apology he was pleased to offer. We are glad to see the old War Horse back in Parliament again. He has fought under the banner of Liberalism for a life time, and deserves well at the hands of his friends.

blossoms, that is the blossom with the fruit at the end, so that neither bee, insect, fly, nor wind can carry pollen to it. Watch the flower expand and gradually decay. Then take notice of the fruit or vegetable, and observe that decay has also commenced here at the point of junction with the flower. A nurseryman who grows a large number of early cucumbers under glass actually introduced a colony of bees into his green house to fertilize the growing plants, being a much easier method than doing so by hand although the pollen from the false flower is easily transferred to the true.

There is again another family of plants where the pollen producer and the fruit bearer are entirely separate, and in this case to insure a crop two plants or trees must be grown. This is the case with the date. The first travellers among the Orientals tell of the custom prevalent among them of planting the fruit producing date tree to the leeward of the stamen producing variety, in order that the prolific dust might be the easier conveyed by the wind. A story is also told of a famous German living at Berlin who owned a fruit growing palm, which each year bore numerous flowers but fruit did not result. Having learned of the existence of a stamen bearing palm at Dresden, he sent for some of the pollen dust, in order to artificially impregnate the one in his possession. The pollen was immediately sent to him and in a short time after he had sprinkled it upon the flowers of his tree, he had the gratification of seeing a number of fruit develop.

Insects, bees particularly, play a great part in vegetable life. While working their way from flower to flower the pollen from the stamens is carried to the pistils. Farmers on the banks of the Rhine have remarked that the orchards in which bees are reared are more productive than those where there are none.

Science, says Pouchet, religiously preserves the history of two palm trees which were grown in Italy. One of them grew in the vicinity of Otranto, it was a fruit bearing tree and annually covered with luxuriant flowers, yet for years it remained sterile. Every year saw the large number of flowers and the hope that fruit would appear, but bitter disappointment succeeded bitter disappointment. It may then be imagined how general was the astonishment when the palm tree of Otranto was at last, after so many delusive promises, seen laden with fruit. It was then learned upon enquiry being made that another palm tree a pollen producer had that year blossomed for the first time at Brindisi. There could be no doubt about the matter the wind carrying away the pollen from the latter had impregnated the flowers of the other with it, conveying thus the life-giving dust a distance of fifteen leagues.

It is a fact well known to most fruit growers that the same kind of tree planted in different locations varies very much in yield of fruit. This may be accounted for partly by different conditions in cultivation, or by variety of soil. But often even though these conditions are the same the result varies still. Another way of accounting for this peculiarity has recently arisen, In the one locality fertilization by pollen is an assured fact, while in the other the bee is not very prevalent.

A block of Baldwin apples, 50 or more acres in extent, was set out some years ago by an enterprising fruit grower, the trees being planted 30 feet distant each way. These trees have failed to fruit, save sparingly along the outside margins. The reason why seems to have puzzled the owner, although it is fair to suppose the wind does not move the pollen in the centre of the block, and the bee is probably not kept on the premises.

er near Hay Bay planting a few acres of strawberry plants and naturally inquired as to what varieties of strawberries were found to be the most profitable. The answer was to the effect that four rows of plants were being set out whose distinguishing characteristic was size and flavour. A fifth row was then introduced of a kind which was celebrated for its prolific bearing. The bees we very fairly suppose do the rest, or the wind and the bees together for not a doubt can be entertained, but that the whole field will blend.

In conclusion it may not be out of place to say a word about that industrious distributor of pollen, the bee. The wind is sufficient in many cases to secure a wide distribution of pollen, but in orchards the wind is hardly felt at the time when the fruit is forming, the new foliage certainly obstructing a free play of the breeze. Boreas, rude though he be, certainly does not force his way into many places where the bee has full access. The honey bee is therefore the best to be depended upon to fertilize the fruit and flower.

After all man's skill in planting, in searching the earth for new varieties, in hybridising, grafting, and careful cultivation, he must rely mainly on nature's own method of fructification. The busy bee and the favoring wind are necessary to the dissemination of the pollen to fertilize the blossom, without which there can be no harvest of seed or fruit. It has been calculated by observant horticulturists that for one-third of our fruit crop we are indebted to the bee. The drop of honey in the flower is really of no use so far as the fruit or flower is concerned, but it entices the bee to enter and as the honey is so placed that to get it the bee must brush against the stamen or the pistils, fertilization is secured. But if the pollen is essential to the flower that is to be succeeded by fruit so is it also essential to the bee in furnishing proper food for its young. So horticulturist and bee keeper can march along hand in hand each helping the other to the wished for success, and gathering in of the shekels, which mercenary result seems to be nearly the only object in view with too many of us to-day. This is not so much the case with the cultivator of flowers who gardens to excite the purest emotions and never looks for profit. 'Tis his pleasure to have beautiful things around him, and what more beautiful and chaste than the flowers. Of such the writer believes the Napanee Horticultural Society to be composed, and hopes this paper may not be deemed out of place, even though some words

Nervous Prostration.

Cured effectually by Scott's Sarsaparilla.

His heart was affected.

"Overwork as a student at college brought on an attack of nervous prostration," says Mr. Gilbert, a railway missionary. "I was exceedingly nervous and if I exerted myself my heart commenced to flutter violently, and I was warned that even ordinary exercise endangered my life. But thanks to Scott's Sarsaparilla I feel better than I ever expected to feel, for I can now address a meeting without effort, can walk a brisk pace for two hours or more without exhaustion and am free from that distressing palpitation. In my work I have oftentime recommended Scott's Sarsaparilla, and have seen many cases where its effects have been most marked."

Scott's Sarsaparilla acts like magic in restoring shattered nerves because it rebuilds the nerve centres. Nervous headache, nervous dyspepsia and all nerve derangements wear on the system. Scott's Sarsaparilla makes new blood and muscles and strong nerves. Of all druggists, $1 per bottle. Dose from half to

The Year 1896
Is upon us

WE know our citizens and customers did not go bare-footed during the past year. Neither do we expect them to do so in this New Year 1896, when they find we are still selling

Good Boots at Low Prices!

HAINES & LOCKETT

Season Tickets for Dimond's Skating Rink may be had here.

Cash Saved

By ordering your Suits from DAVIS & Co. Entire new stock at bottom prices to select from.

Call and see our prices before ordering.

Davis & Co.

T. G. DAVIS. R FORD.

Before Taking.

Wood's Phosphodine.—The Great English Remedy.

Is the result of over 25 years treating thousands of cases with all known drugs, until at last we have discovered the true remedy and treatment—a combination that will effect a prompt and permanent cure in all stages of Sexual Debility, Abuse or Excesses, Nervous Weakness, Emissions, Mental Worry, Excessive Use of Opium, Tobacco, or Alcoholic Stimulants, all of which soon lead to Insanity, Consumption and an early grave. Wood's Phosphodine has been used successfully by hundreds of cases that seemed almost hopeless—cases that had been treated by the most talented physicians—cases that were on the verge of despair and insanity—cases that were tottering over the grave—but with the continued and persevering use of Wood's Phosphodine, these cases that had been given up to die, were restored to manly vigor and health—Reader you need not despair—no matter who has given you up as incurable—the remedy is now within your reach, by its use you can be restored to a life of usefulness and happiness.

Price, one package, $1; six packages, $5; by mail free of postage.

One will please, six guaranteed to cure. Pamphlet free to any address.

The Wood Company, Windsor, Ont., Canada.

After Taking.

Wood's Phosphodine is sold by responsible wholesale and retail druggists in the Dominion.

have been devoted to incidents which may be thought a trifle foreign to the matter written upon.

[NOTE.—For some of the information here given, the writer is indebted to the Canadian Horticulturist and Pouchet's "The Universe."

FOR DAINTY GOWNS.

ACCESSORIES THAT ADD BEAUTY AND ARTISTIC EFFECT.

Some Unique Designs—A Remodeled Waist Illustrated and Described—Stylish Princess Gown—Demi-Evening Toilette—Some Dressy Fronts and a Lot of the on the plait. Square epaulettes pointed at the outward corner are set under the side plait, and passing over the shoulder are shaped in the back as in the front. The crush collar fastens on one side, having two frilled ends meeting on each side. The crush belt ties on the left side in a handkerchief knot, which consists of two pointed ends tied in a knot, with one up and the other down diagonally against the wearer. A perfectly plain waist may be remodeled by adding a crush collar and belt of fancy silk, also a wide, double box-plait down the centre, allowing it to drop a little over the belt. On each side of the plait place a fan of lace eight inches deep, one long edge running under the plait

THE STYLISH PRINCESS.

the stripe, and shows to the waist-line. The sleeves are in a full puff to the elbow and close in fit below. The skirt of mixed blue, brown and black, has the usual close-fitting front and side that are fitted with a few gathers in place of darts; it is five yards wide, interlined ten inches deep with stiffening and laid in two box-plaits at the top that flare toward the lower edge.

Long or one-piece effects are creeping in more and more, to the delight of stout figures. Under the name of redingote and princesse gowns some very pretty costumes are evolved. The princesse consists of a round or pointed waist of silk, finely striped or plain woolen goods, with long shoulder seams and drooping leg-of-mutton sleeves, which are more becoming than puffed ones to a stout person. The skirt part is of plain or narrow-striped woolen material made with a narrow gored front that continues in one piece up

The biggest dollar's worth ever offered. THE NAPANEE EXPRESS and the Toronto Globe, the two papers one year for one dollar. The balance of the year free.

How the Hair Grows.

All the early writers on the make-up of the human frame and its adornments invariably referred to the hair as being an "excrement," and most of them held that it was fed on substances similar to itself. The odd notions of the early anatomists and philosophers, respecting the growth and functions of the hair were the basis of many old-time superstitions regarding that constituent of the human body. The ancient philosophers declared that the hair, "generated in the fuliginous parts of the blood," and that it was "exhaled by the heat of the body," and that it "becomes firm and fibrous on exposure to the atmosphere," presumably in the same manner that the fluid ejected by the spider becomes a "web" as soon as the air strikes it. In modern times, however, every idea respecting the character and growth of hair has changed. The scientists now universally agree that the hair properly and truly lives and receives its nourishment from the scalp and adjoining tissues. It is true, however, that they take upon themselves the nature of parasitic plants.

They grow, as vegetation does, and each separate filament has a distinct life and economy. That they derive their nourishment and owe their existence to the juices taken up from the flesh and blood there is no doubt. However, after all, it cannot be that this food is taken up from what the physiologists term "nutritive juices," for we know that hair will live and thrive, even though the body starves or be wasted by disease. In many instances, in truth, the hair thrives and becomes most luxuriant when the body is most shrunken and shriveled from wasting ailments. And, furthermore, in rare instances, it has been known to flourish after animal life in the body had ceased to exist, and even after decay had set in in the skin and flesh to which it was attached.—London Spectator.

At the Jugville "Weekly Grip"

Other Suggestions.

Crush or stock collars will continue in style made of velvet, silk or satin, as woolen goods are usually too heavy to lie in loose folds. Rosettes at the sides are rather passe, but points of the same or a contrasting material form a pretty finish. These points are named after the Parisian modiste Paquin. One point is turned over on each side, being an inch and a half wide at the top and a sharp point at the bottom where it is even with the lower edge of the straight or crush collar. Another style has a crush collar with two pointed tabs and a tiny knot on each side fairing out like a pair of bird's wings. For a demi-evening dress a collar that is very becoming to a short, full neck is of velvet, forming a deep point. The ends meet in front under two small rosettes, and the back is three inches deep. To the edge of this is sewed ten-inch lace, which is shown its full length front and back, while around the points it is only three inches below the velvet. By adding this collar and a belt, crushed or shaped in a point, of velvet, a house dress may be wonderfully freshened. Pretty collars and belts of number 12 fancy figured or striped ribbon are made by shaping the centre front with a V or darts. At the back the hooks and eyes are concealed by four loops on each side; two long ones project sidewise and two shorter loops are thrust straight out backward. Then for further decoration, straps of the ribbon may be added over the shoulders, ending half-way to the belt back and front under a small bow which may hold a fancy buckle.

A REMODELED WAIST.

A DEMI-EVENING TOILET.

Plaid or striped silk may be used to advantage on a round waist laid in a wide centre box-plait and a narrower plait on each side. The narrow plait is studded with three small steel buttons just below the shoulder and three more half-way to the belt. Then a second cluster is placed in front of the

NEW WAIST DESIGN.

and the other hanging loose. At the top of this lace fan have a rosette of ribbon or of the silk. Add three large fancy Rhinestone or steel buttons to the centre of the plait. Use the lace points that are sold for 10 to 20 cents apiece for one on each wrist and one on each side of the front of the collar.

There is a tendency among tailors and dressmakers affecting tailor bodes to bring out a basque having a double-breasted pointed front with a V neck, and flat basques added on the hips and back in coat style. The collar and tiny vest are then of cloth or silk, with a rolled collar and revers of the dress goods. Such a suit has the full leg-of-mutton sleeve, but never the round puff to the elbow. Six or eight large buttons are on the double front and smaller ones to match on the vest and up the outside of the sleeve nearly to the elbow. Plaid and mixed goods are worn for skirts, with a waist or basque of plain material matching one of the prominent colors of the mixture.

The sleeves are of either fabric, though preferred of the plain. In following this idea two old dresses may be remodeled into one with economy and style as well. A round waist of brown Henrietta may be fitted to the bottom of the waist-line all around, leaving the centre front open so as to form a V and narrow space below. The fronts cut to fasten with a pointed end and buckled at the waist-line and three inches above, leaving a triangle between. Three buttons are placed on each edge above the straps or ends and buckles, and above them are large revers and a rolling collar of brown and blue striped silk cut on the bias so as to bring the stripes diagonal. A crush collar and plastron shirred at the neck are of plain blue silk matching

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

The greatest offer ever made—THE NAPANEE EXPRESS and the Toronto Weekly Globe, the two papers one year for one dollar. The balance of the year free.

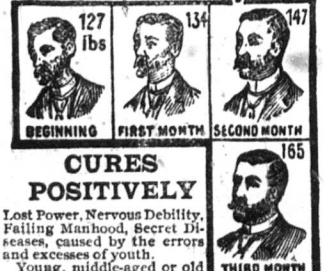
Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Worth $5.00 A Bottle. SIRS,—For five years I have been troubled with neuralgia and tried everything I could see or hear of. At last I was advised to try a bottle of Yellow Oil and refused because I thought it was like all the rest—a failure. A half bottle was given me, however, and I found it helped me, and bought a bottle which cured me. If it cost five dollars a bottle I would not be without it.

THOS. QUINN,
Gravenhurst, Ont.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Old Dr. Gordon's Remedy for Men



CURES POSITIVELY

Lost Power, Nervous Debility, Failing Manhood, Secret Diseases, caused by the errors and excesses of youth.

Young, middle-aged or old men, suffering from the effects of follies and excesses, restored to health, manhood and vigor.

Price $1.00, 6 boxes for $5.00. Sent by mail, securely sealed. Write for our book, "Startling Facts," for Men only, tells you how to get well and stay well.

Address, QUEEN MEDICINE CO., Box 947, MONTREAL.

A DRESSY WAIST.

over the waist front as a bib plastron. This has a rounded neck and ends in narrow straps on the shoulders, showing the other goods above as a yoke. The skirt is five yards wide, has three godets at the back and is sewed to a belt, except the front width. The bib piece is edged with passementerie and narrowed at the waist-line so as to fit without darts. If very full-busted a dart must be taken in the centre of this piece reaching both above and below the waist-line. For ladies' cloth or velveteen, lovely qualities of the latter selling for a dollar a yard, the redingote is handsome for a full or slender figure. A skirt front should be of figured silk, with three small, bias overlapping ruffles at the edge. The redingote is fitted plainly, with three or five godets at the back and leg-of-mutton or puff sleeves. A crush belt from the side seams fastening in a bow on the right side is of the silk, as is the crush collar having a similar bow at the back. Three large buttons are on each side. The fichu comes from the shoulder seams and is of silk. With such a gown a hat trimmed with ostrich feathers should be worn.

NEW YORK WRITERS.

Those Who Have Work and Those That Can't Get It.

An observant newspaper man of long and varied experience spoke yesterday of the article which appeared in last Sunday's Sun, in which the author, who represented himself as a competent and well-tried newspaper writer, described the sufferings and hardships which he had undergone in his attempts to obtain work at his profession in New York.

"I read that article carefully," said the old newspaper man, "and it interested me because it bore on its face evidence of its genuineness. At the same time I could not help seeing why it was that that man failed to obtain work in New York. It was because he was never really fitted for the profession which he claims as his own. He tells us how long he has been engaged in it and mentions the good places which he has held, and yet he shows in this very article that he is destitute of the qualities which are absolutely essential to success on Park Row. To begin with, I see no indication of the humorous sense, and I can tell you that I would not myself give employment to a man who did not possess it in a high degree. Then just think of the experiences that that man has had here in the city and of which, according to his own account, he has made absolutely no sort of use. For my own part, I fail to see how a man could stay in a hospital as long as he did without getting material for scores of articles—provided he were capable of writing them—which almost any New York newspaper would be glad to use. In a New York hospital there's a story in every bed. Now there have been great changes in newspaper men and methods during the last ten years, and the effect of many of these changes has been to crowd out the hack writers who are without either style or perceptions of any sort, and increase the earnings of the men at the top. There are hundreds of men in New York to-day, however, who are starving, pen in hand, and wondering why they do not get ahead. They are honest, sober and capable, and would do well in commercial pursuits, perhaps, but they will never succeed as writers unless they possess certain gifts which come to us principally by inheritance."—New York Sun.

Fur trimmings from one to three inches wide are more in demand than ever, and they are in combination with lace, chiffon, and dainty embroideries on the most dressy gowns. Stock collars, revers, wide belts, and bretelles of fur are seen in cloth gowns, and an entire bodice of fur is not unusual. Persian lamb, with cream lace on the waist of a black satin gown, makes a very elegant costume.

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Tightness of the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Summer coughs are more dangerous than Winter coughs

"Is the editor in?"

"You kin bet yer store teeth he is! Why, his aunt died las' night an' left him $10, a ol' oak bedstead, a good cher wood an' a merlodian, an' he jes' won 79 cents offen the foreman matchin' pennies! Is he in? Wa-al, sumthin'!"

The best time to change from poor stock to good is always now. It will not pay to feed grain to poor stock. Prices of good stock have advanced, and will advance more another year, but in all such rises the best stock makes more advance than any other, and sooner. Breed from the best.

THE BEST MOUTH TONIC IN THE WORLD

Odoroma

THE PERFECT TOOTH POWDER.

IT LEAVES THE MOUTH IN A MOST DELICIOUS STATE OF FRESHNESS. DRUGGISTS 25 cts

Back-Ache, Face-Ache, Sciatic Pains, Neuralgic Pains, Pain in the side, etc.

Promptly Relieved and Cured by

The "D. & L." Menthol Plaster

Having used your D. & L. Menthol Plaster for severe pain in the back with success, I do unhesitatingly recommend same as a safe, sure and rapid remedy. (Mr.) [illegible] this 1st day of March, 1895.—A. LAMARCHE, Elizabethtown, Ont.

Price 25c.

DAVIS & LAWRENCE CO., Ltd.
Proprietors, Montreal.

DR HOWARD'S ELECTRIC PILLS

BLOOD FOR BRAIN BUILDER BODY

POSITIVELY CURE all Weakness and Pain, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Paralysis, St. Vitus' Dance, Loss of Power, Female Weakness and Impurity, and all Diseases caused by Bad Blood and Shattered Nerves. Skin Beautifier. One trial proves it. In large boxes, 50c.; 6 for $2.50. The Dr. Howard Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Morristown, N.Y.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS cure Fever, Worms, Teething, Diarrhœa, Etc. 25c. No taste.

Scranton Coal

In order to meet the wishes of a number of our Customers who enquired for SCRANTON Coal, we have put some in stock this season.

We carry as well a full line of the Celebrated LACKAWANNA variety which we have handled for a number of years with great general satisfaction.

We shall be pleased to receive your order which will have our best attention.

All coal under cover and thoroughly screened before delivery.

The Rathbun Co.

It May Puzzle You

t discover this old gentleman's three daughters but there should be no difficulty in your finding the Express Bookstore, nor in your learning that this shop is the right place to buy your school supplies, such as

Readers, Scribblers,

and a complete Scholar's outfit.

☞ Try the unbreakable Slate.

THE POLLARD CO'Y

EXPRESS BOOKSTORE, NAPANEE.

the doctors

approve of Scott's Emulsion. For whom? For men and women who are weak, when they should be strong; for babies and children who are thin, when they should be fat; for all who get no nourishment from their food. Poor blood is starved blood. Consumption and Scrofula never come without this starvation. And nothing is better for starved blood than cod-liver oil. Scott's Emulsion is cod liver oil with the fish-fat taste taken out.

Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00

SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville, Ont.

DR. WOOD'S

Norway Pine Syrup.

...ich is the healing virtues of the Pine ...ined with the soothing and expectorant ... other pectoral herbs and barks.

A PERFECT CURE FOR

COLDS AND COLDS

...Asthma, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, ...BRONCHIAL and ...Coughs which ... promptly to this

...PER BOTTLE.

I CURE FITS!

CHAPTER XXXVII.

"You did not write this?" repeated Vane, looking at her in astonishment.

She shook her head, with a puzzled frown on her face.

"No; where did you get it from?"

"From Sen," he replied. "He has been the best, the kindest friend a man ever had. It's true that he made an awful mistake in thinking that—that you didn't care for me."

"He told you that?" in a low voice.

"Yes," he said. "He was wrong; I know that now; but I believed him. And yet, somehow, whenever I remembered the look in your face when I told you that I loved you, I doubted his judgment. Yes, he was wrong, but he meant it for the best. He kept your letter from me for some time. You see, I was half mazed by your loss."

Her eyes beamed a wealth of love and pity upon him.

"And you say you did not write it? Why—why," he laughed, "you must have written it and forgotten it!"

"Do you think so," she said. "But I did not write it, all the same.

He looked at her, amazed.

"But—but how—how did Sen come by it?" he demanded.

She handed him the note without glancing at it again.

"Give me a piece of paper and a pencil," she said, very quietly.

He tore a leaf out of his pocket-book, and hand it, with a pencil to her.

She wrote a few lines, in sense as nearly like those of the note as possible, and gave the paper to him

"Compare them," she said, simply.

Vane stared. The writing of the notes was quite dissimilar, palpably so.

"You see?" she said.

Vane looked from the notes to her and back again. He was not so quick, mentally, as Nora, and could not jump comfort you," she said, with white lips. "Listen, now, to me!" Broken and husky with emotion as her voice was, there was a note of womanly dignity and suffering in it that awed him into silence. "We are parted forever!"

"No!" he breathed, with an oath.

"Forever! I can see it all. I can see how you have been drawn, driven to her. I do not blame you— Hush! Let me speak; it is for the last time. It is not you I blame, but Senley Tyers. He is a traitor—a devil! He has done it. But it is done. I would not take you from her if I could. You must go to her, marry her. You must forget me"—her voice broke—"as I shall forget you. It it too late now to alter thing, even if I wished them altered; but I do not. She is better fitted to be your wife—"

He broke in passionately:

"I have heard you; I will hear no more! I will go to her—yes—but not to marry her. I will tell her the whole story—the truth—and she will release me. It is not her fault, but his—his! I will deal with him. I will—" He choked and put his hand to his throat. "Wait. I will go to her and tell her how I loved you; how you were lost—the whole truth—and that I have found you again. You hear, Nora? Give you up—now that I know you love me!" He laughed in wild mockery. "But there is no need. Florence is too proud to marry a man who is in love with another woman. I will tell her all."

Nora looked at him—a strange look.

"Will you abide by her decision?" she asked.

He leaped at the suggestion—at the concession.

"Yes!" he cried. "You will see! She will understand, release, and forgive me. As for him—"

His face worked and his hands clinched.

Nora stood a moment with downcast

"Florence, to-day, scarcely an hour ago, I met her—"

"The—the woman you love?"

He met her wild gaze steadily.

"Yes, the woman I still love. All was cleared up between us. He—this devil—had wronged and deceived us both. I should wrong you even more than he wronged us if I concealed the truth from you and let you marry me. I cannot do it. Florence, forgive me the pain I am giving you. Forgive me, and—and let us part."

She clutched the chair still more tightly.

"Part! Part!" she murmured; then she looked at him with a sudden flame in her eyes. "Who is she—this woman?"

"No one you know," he said. "Do not ask me."

Her face flushed and her lips curled with scorn.

"Some woman you are ashamed of?"

He started, and the veins stood out on his forehead.

"It is true," she said, between her teeth. "I can see it in your face. And you would jilt, desert me for her? Do it at your peril!"

He started. She rose and stretched out her hand.

"Do it at your per—" Then her mood changed, and she flung herself upon him and strained him to her. "Vane! Vane! I cannot give you up, I cannot let you go—I cannot!"

He strove to unclasp her hands gently.

"Florence, Florence! for God's sake! This is madness. I have told you—I could not help but tell you! I have only just seen her to-day—"

"It was she for whom you were grieving. It was the loss of her that made you ill!" she panted, with quick intuition, and with a shudder.

He hung his head.

"Don't ask me any more questions. For Heaven's sake, let me go—let us part now!"

"Never!" she cried, hoarsely. "You are mine, mine! You belong to me, not to her! Who is she that she should come between us? I am almost your wife. A few hours—Vane, you will not leave me! You shall not!"

He groaned, and tried to soothe her.

"You shall decide, Florence," he said, hoarsely. "I have promised that you shall decide. I would not marry you with a lie on my soul, my lips. I have wronged you. I know that. I wish I were dead! I have wronged you, but she—she has been wronged more cruelly than you have, and my first thought—forgive me—must be of her."

Robert Light

Manufacturer and Dealer in

Rough and Dressed Lumber

Screen Doors,
Mouldings,
Bee Hives,
Stairs, Blinds,
Turned Work,
Wood Drapery,
Sash,
and Interior Finish for Buildings.

NAPANEE · · ONT

Break Up a Cold in Time
BY USING
PYNY-PECTORAL

The Quick Cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, HOARSENESS, etc.

Mrs. Joseph Norwick, of 66 Sorauren Ave., Toronto, writes: "Pyny-Pectoral has never failed to cure my children of croup after a few doses. It cured myself of a long standing cough after several other remedies had failed. It has also proved an excellent cough cure for my family. I prefer it to any other medicine for coughs, croup or hoarseness."

H. O. Bannour, of Little Rocher, N.B., writes: "As a cure for coughs Pyny-Pectoral is the best selling medicine I have; my customers all have no other."

Large Bottle, 25 Cts.

DAVIS & LAWRENCE CO., Ltd.
Proprietors, Montreal

M. STORMS,
MOSCOW

has been over fifty years in the undertaking business in the county, and can turn out work equal to any in the Dominion.

A large stock of Coffins, Caskets, Robes, Crape Gloves and Badges, constantly on hand, and sold at reasonable prices.

Embalming a Specialty. Every facility on hand for doing the work.

25 per cent cheaper than any in the trade. Give me a call at Moscow.

M. STORMS, Prop.

Carscallen & Bro.,

Low Priced, No Combination

Undertaking Establishment.

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of all the latest designs to be found in which we are prepared to sell 25 per cent. cheaper than any house in the county. We use the best deodorizer, thus obviating all unpleasant odors. Embalming a Specialty. Having purchased one of the Handsomest Hearses at the Toronto exhibition we are prepared to attend personally funerals in the most satisfactory manner. The public will do well to call and examine our stock, and be convinced that ours is the place to buy.

COFFINS, CASKETS, ROBES, Etc.

We have also added a full line of the newest things in Wall Paper, Ceiling Decorations, Window Shades and Picture Railing. Paints and Oils Ready Mixed. Persons wanting anything in this line will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere. Remember the place, Centre-street is false, and—and—"

"And a forgery," she finished.

Vane turned pale and looked straight before him. Forgery is an ugly word, especially when it is used to describe the act of a friend.

"But why—why should he do it?"

Nora's breath came fast.

"Why did he tell you that I—I did not love you?" she asked. "Why did he tell you that I had gone to London—if it was he who told you—for he wanted, directed me to go to Canada."

Vane started.

"Why has he come between us from the beginning? Why did he tell me that in playing the part of Ernest Mortimer I had brought shame and disgrace on myself and you?"

"He—Sen—told you this?" said Vane, hoarsely.

Nora laid her hand gently on his arm.

"Yes. I cannot keep it from you, Vane; not now. Senley Tyers—your friend—has done all this. The question is: why? He did not want you to marry me; but whom did he want you to marry?"

At the question back came the remembrance of Lady Florence and the wedding.

Great heavens! his wedding. He started to his feet, white as death, an expression of horror and despair in his eyes.

Nora uttered a faint cry of alarm.

"What is it, Vane? Oh, what is it?"

"Florence!" he breathed, hoarsely, scarcely knowing that he was audible.

"Florence?" she repeated. "Lady Florence? Oh, it was she, perhaps, whom he wanted you to marry"—she laughed, but faintly—"but it does not matter—not now. Don't look so—so horrified. Don't be angry, Vane. He has not separated us, after all. You are not married to Lady Florence, are you?" and she laughed and laid her cheek against his sleeve.

Vane shook like a leaf. Not even yet did he see clearly; but this at least was plain: that Senley Tyers—Senley Tyers, his friend!—had plotted to separate him from Nora, and schemed to marry him to Lady Florence.

Heaven! it was incredible! It was too monstrous to be possible. And yet, the forged note, the lies he had told respecting Nora's feeling towards him, Vane.

All lies, lies! His brain whirled, his heart burned with the agony of a fierce rage, and Nora's last words drove him mad. All unconscious that he was speaking aloud, he groaned out:

"And we are to be married to-morrow!"

Nora shrunk back and looked up at him, as with white, distorted face he gazed into vacancy, then she rose and drew away.

"Going to be married to-morrow, Vane! To whom? Ah!"—she uttered a low cry and drew back still further—"to Lady Florence!"

"Hear me, Nora! Don't speak; don't shrink from me. It is true—it was true—but it shall not be. I will not marry her. It is you I love and will marry. Senley Tyers do this? Sen—" He clasped his brow, then struck his clinched hand on the rock, tearing the skin from his knuckles and covering them with blood. "He must be a devil of treachery and falsehood. Oh! it can't be true! Speak to me, Nora. Have I gone mad? Why do you look at me as if you had ceased to care for me?"

She put up her hand as he made a step toward her.

"Don't—don't touch me!" she said, hoarsely. "You have no right! You are Lady Florence's, not—not mine. Go to her—go!"

Almost beside himself, Vane caught her arm.

"Nora, listen to me. You must, you shall—"

"I will not!" she said, passionately. "You tell me that you are going to marry her. Why should I listen to you? Let me go. You never loved me! How could you have loved me and—and loved her, too? Let me go!"

She wrenched her arm from his grasp and sprang from him. Vane sank on to the rock and covered his face with his hands. Rage, disappointed love, tore at him in different directions, and left him well-night distracted.

He rose and appealed to her with outstretched hands.

"Listen to me, Nora, I implore you—I demand! I thought you had left me, that you did not, could not love me. I was ill, wretched, half stupefied, and—" or fear stole over him suddenly. "You will not run away from me again—you will not do that, Nora?"

"No," she said, gravely. "Why should I? I have your word. Our fate hangs upon Lady Florence's decision. You have promised to abide by it, and—and so also will I. Go, now—ah, go!"

He took her hand. He would have taken her in his arms, but she drew back firmly, shaking her head, and he had to be content with kissing her hand again and again. He sprang up the path, and at the top turned and waved his hand to her.

"Remember your promise!"

She raised her head and looked at him with a repetition of the strange expression in her eyes, then turned away and looked out to sea.

He leaped on his horse and rode away at the risk of his neck. His soul was in a tumult; the thought of the risk he was running, of Nora restored to him only to be snatched away again, filled him with sorrow and aprehension one moment; the realization of Senley Tyers' vile treachery drove him half mad the next. As he reached the high-road he saw a drover, and inquired of him the way to the Grange, and made for it at racing speed.

When he pulled up at the entrance to the house the horse was covered with foam-flecked sweat; his clothes were spattered with mud, some of which had fallen on his face, which was white and drawn. He flung the reins to a groom and went quickly up the steps and into the hall. Several persons were there; the bride-maids and visitors asked down for the wedding; and they stared, with good reason, at his appearance. A pretty kind of bridegroom he looked "Florence—Lady Florence!" he said, and his voice sounded hoarse as a raven's.

They gathered round him in astonishment and alarm.

"Has anything happened?" asked some one.

Before he could answer, Lady Florence looked over the stairs and called to him:

"Vane!"

He fought hard for composure, and forced a smile.

"Nothing has happened," he said. "I—I have been kept. An accident—I mean—"

He strode up the stairs with the gait and the air of a man repressing a terrible excitement.

She looked at him and uttered a faint cry.

"Vane, something is the matter!" And her face went white.

"No, no!" he said. "I want to speak to you. Don't be frightened, Florence. Yes, something has happened. I must tell you without the loss of a moment."

She led him by the hand she still held into a small room, a kind of boudoir, and stood trembling before him. Had he discovered the hand Senley Tyers had had in promoting the marriage? had he discovered the shameful wager she had made? If so—if so, all was over. She knew Vane too well to hope that he would forgive such an unwomanly, immodest act.

"What—what is it?" she demanded. "Tell me, tell me quickly!" and her hand went to her heart.

"Yes," he said; "I can't do otherwise. I have come to you at once. It is right you should know the truth. Florence, pity me if you can; try not to hate me. This marriage must not take place."

She sank into a chair and her lips moved.

"Not—take—place! Our marriage!"

"Yes," he said, his eyes on the ground, for he could not endure the look of fear and pain in hers. "Florence, before—before I asked you to be my wife I had met and loved—"

She gasped and half rose, but sank down again and clutched the chair.

"She was to have been my wife, but a villain came between us, and with lying treachery separated us."

"His name?" she panted.

"Senley Tyers," he groaned out between his teeth. "Do you know—"

Her lips trembled with fear.

"I know nothing—nothing!" she asseverated.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

She pushed the hair from her forehead, and looked at him vacantly.

"I—I never heard of her. She is a nobody—some girl beneath you? And you would leave me—me—for her?" She drew herself to her full height and looked at him in all her imperial beauty. "Vane, you must be mad! It must be the fever again. I will not believe it. You shall tell me no more—until after the wedding!"

He started.

"Then—then—you hold me to my honor?" he whispered huskily.

She laughed—a broken, terrible laugh.

"I save you from the consequences of your mad folly, in spite of yourself," she said. She drew nearer to him, and bent her head so that her face nearly met his. "Play the cur, as you threatened to do! and I will hold you up to the scorn of the whole civilized world! I will degrade you in the sight of every honest man. What! you dare—you dare—to dream of jilting me!"—she laughed—"and on the eve of our marriage!"

"Florence, for God's sake, listen to me!" he said, pleadingly. "I know I seem to deserve your scorn, your hate, but as there is light in heaven, you would pity me—ay, and her—if you knew all!"

"Pity!" She threw out the word with fierce gesture. "I should not pity her if she lay dead at my feet. I would to God she were there, dead! dead! Who is she, to come between us? But she shall not!" She raised her head and looked steadily at him. "Vane, you say the decision rests with me. I will not give you up. I will save you, in spite of yourself. I hold you to your promise—the pledged word of a man of honor."

He turned from her for a moment, and when he faced her again his face was set and rigid as if carved in stone.

"Very well," he said, gravely, sternly. "The decision rested with you; you have decided."

He moved away from her, and she sank into the chair, her head falling on the arm which hung over the side.

He went up to her, and let his hand fall on her head gently, pityingly, as it seemed.

"God forgive you! God forgive us both, Florence!" he said, hoarsely.

She did not look up, and he left her, opened the door, and passed down the corridor.

As he did so, the Earl of Warlock, mounting the stairs with his crutched stick, looked up at him.

"What the devil is the matter, Vane?" he demanded, irritably. "Have you fallen from your horse, or what?"

Vane laughed, and looked at him with unnatural calmness.

INDAPO
Made a Well Man of Me!"

INDAPO
THE GREAT
HINDOO REMEDY
PRODUCES THE ABOVE RESULTS in 30 DAYS. Cures all Nervous Diseases. Failing Memory, Paresis, Sleeplessness, Nightly Emissions, etc., caused by past abuses, gives vigor and size to shrunken organs, and quickly but surely restores Lost Manhood in old or young. Easily carried in vest pocket. Price $1.00 a package. Six for $5.00 with a written guarantee to cure or money refunded. Don't buy an imitation, but insist on having INDAPO. If your druggist has not it, we will send it prepaid. Oriental Medical Co., Props., Chicago, Ill., or our agents.
SOLD by W. S. Detlor, Medical Hall, NAPANEE, ONT., and leading druggists elsewhere.

MEN OF ALL AGES

may be cured. We treat all sexual disorders of men. Four out of five who suffer nervousness, mental worry, attacks of "the blues," are but paying the penalty of early excesses. The dread alarm of Impotency, the exhaustion of Spermatorrhœa, may be CURED in strict confidence at moderate expense.

Send for our free sealed book, "PERFECT MANHOOD."

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

A FAMOUS MAN!

What His Researches Have Done for the World.

DR. CHASE.

All successful and distinguished men have imitators, and Dr. Chase, the well-known author of Chase's Recipe Book, proved no exception to the rule. Dr. Chase's discoveries have many pretended rivals, but no equals.

Long scientific researches produced Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Chase's Ointment, the first a certain cure for all kidney, liver, stomach, bladder and rheumatic troubles; the latter an absolute specific for chronic and offensive skin diseases. Among his other discoveries were Chase's Catarrh Cure and Chase's Linseed and Turpentine for colds and bronchitis.

During 1895 the Canadian manufacturers, Edmanson, Bates & Co., 45 Lombard street, Toronto, gave away free 500,000 samples of Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and 100,000 samples of Chase's Ointment. The return they brought proved how much they were appreciated. The same free distribution of samples will be continued during 1896. Those at a distance should enclose a 5-cent stamp and also receive a sheet of the latest music in return.

"Nothing is the matter," he said.

There was a hectic spot on both cheeks and an absent, vacant look in his eyes.

Afternoon tea was going on in the hall below, and the sound of voices and laughter floated up to him.

"Where have you been?" said the earl, testily. "You are in a deuce of a state."

Vane looked down at his mud-bespattered clothes.

"Yes; I am going home to change."

"Can't you change here?"

"No," said Vane, as if he were speaking from a distance. "I forgot to tell them to send my things on. I shall not be long, but do not wait."

The earl grunted.

"You'd better let them drive you over," he said. "You've ridden the horse you came on to death almost. He's quite done up."

"Thanks," said Vane.

He went down the stairs and joined the group, and was introduced to the bride-maids and the other guests, and laughed and talked with them; but he seemed strangely "jerky" and pre-occupied, and they eyed him curiously now and again. But they made the allowance which is due to the unfortunate mortal who is cast for the part of bridegroom, and ascribed his manner to his sense of the nearness of his doom.

"A man going to be married always looks like that," said a young girl, as Vane, having been told that the dog-cart was waiting, nodded to them and strode down the hall. "He feels as if he were going to be hanged, you know."

Vane went out with the echo of their laughter in his ears.

It was an awful ride through the darkness. Florence had decided! He had lost Nora forever. Her face danced before him all the way, her voice rang in his ears. Yes, Florence had decided!

He reached the inn and told the groom to wait. But when he got to his room he knew that he could not go back that night. He went down-stairs and sent the groom back with a message.

"Tell her ladyship that I will be over in good time to-morrow," he said.

On his way back to his room the landlord intercepted him.

"The gentleman hasn't come yet, your honor," he said.

"What gentleman?" asked Vane, absently.

"Mr. Harold Tempest, the—the best man, sir."

"Oh, yes. No matter. He will be here presently," said Vane, mechanically; and he went upstairs. He paced up and down the room half stupefied. After a time the landlord knocked, and asked if his honor wouldn't have some dinner.

Vane said no; he would have some whiskey and water. The landlord brought up a bottle, and Vane filled a glass and drank it. He drank two or three such draughts, but they had no effect upon him. Intense mental anguish, like intense physical pain, declines to be deadened by alcohol. He paced and the blessed thing turned over on its side. Westleigh was pitched down among the horses—one of 'em was a young mare, and restless—and—and she kicked him. He must have been killed in an instant; it was right on the temple." He put his finger to the spot on his own head.

Vane shuddered.

"The coach was dragged for a distance," went on Harold Tempest, "and young Vernon appears to have been underneath it—"

"Young Vernon—Westleight's son?"

"Yes; didn't I tell you? He was with his father on the coach that morning, as luck would have it. They got him out after a time and carried him home, but he died soon after midday."

"Good Heaven!" Vane exclaimed, with horror and grief. "Both—you say both?"

"Yes, both—both on the same day. Awful, isn't it? I wish I'd broken it to you better, Vane; but, after all I'm better than one of those beastly, sharp telegrams that come upon you like a hundred of bricks."

"Yes. Thank you," said Vane, hoarsely, with his hand to his head.

"I'm glad I got down here in time to put the wedding off," said Harold Tempest. "It's an awful nuisance, a dreadful blow for you; but—but I suppose it wouldn't do to let it take place as if nothing had happened; though really, when you come to think of it, and how hard it is on you and Lady Florence—"

Vane started. Put off the wedding! The thought—alas! the hope—shot like a gleam of light athwart the gloom of this awful news.

"I—I don't know," he faltered. "We must go on to the Grange at once. You'll—you'll have some breakfast;" and he rang. But when the breakfast was brought in neither of them was equal to more than a cup of coffee, and it was drunk almost in silence. Vane stood and stared into the fire, apparently so lost that young Tempest took upon himself to order the carriage. They got into it and were driven toward the Grange.

"I'm afraid you'll have to go straight to Westleight," said Harold.

Vane looked up.

"What?"

"They'll want you at once, they are wanting you now, in fact, and the lawyer chap—what's his name?—told me to tell you that they could do nothing till you came. 'Tell the earl,' he said, 'that I'll send the carriage to meet each train.'"

"The earl—what earl?" asked Vane, confusedly.

Harold Tempest stared at him.

"Good Lord!" he exclaimed, "you can't have forgotten that young Vernon was the late earl's only son, and that, as he is dead, you have got the title, and are now the earl of Westleigh?"

Vane looked out of the window.

"I had forgotten that—yes, I had forgotten it," he said humbly. "Would to Heaven I were not! Yes," he added, after a pause, "I will go to Westleigh at once if—if the wedding does not take place."

"'Pon my word, I don't see how it can!" remarked Harold Tempest.

"We shall see," said Vane. "It rests with Lady Florence."

As they drove up to the Grange they could plainly observe the signs of the prevailing excitement. Footmen and grooms, with white favors, stood about waiting for the guests; a group of villagers, in their Sunday best, and with favors also, and huge bunches of primroses and violets, hung about the gates and clustered in groups on the roads leading to the church.

Vane and young Tempest entered the house, and were met by Lady Florence's maid. The bride, already attired in her white satin and Brussels lace, had watched for his coming and sent to greet him.

"Her ladyship's love, sir," said the maid; "and she will come down as soon as possible."

Vane nodded and passed into the library. As he crossed the hall, the servants noticed his haggard face, and the grave countenance of the best man, and exchanged glances and whispered comments.

"More like a funeral than a wedding," said one.

"Vane found the earl in the library. The old man was not in the best of humors. He hated a wedding, not only because of its attendant fuss, but be-

LADY ABERDEEN'S HARD TASK.

She Fails to Ingraft Her New Doctrines of Domestic Reform in Canada.

The wife of Canada's Governor-General has not, it appears, met with the cordial response she doubtless anticipated in her efforts to ingraft her doctrines of reform upon the Canadian domestic tree. The colonists have shown a most unflattering obstinacy in wishing their household affairs left to their own supervision, and have not taken at all in good part what is undoubtedly intended as the most friendly and conscientious, if often tactless and ill-judged, interference.

According to The Boston Journal, "It is said that hotels, as well as private households, have declined to entertain Lady Aberdeen, on account of her interference with domestic service in the interest of reform. One story relates that Lady Aberdeen was invited to dine at the home of a leader of society in Montreal. The maids in attendance were dressed in neat suits of black lustre, with dainty white caps. In passing into the dining-room, Lady Aberdeen glanced at these costumes with disapproving eyes. When one of these maids served her, she said, indicating the cap: 'My poor child, I see you still wear that unfortunate badge of servitude. Pray take it off, and do not put it on again while you serve me.' The maid at once complied, but the mistress of the house caught sight of her capless head, and, beckoning her, demanded the cause. The girl said she had taken off the cap by request of Lady Aberdeen.

The mistress told her to put it on at once, and the girl obeyed. It is said that after dinner, Lady Aberdeen disclaimed any intention of interference, and that the hostess politely but firmly explained that in her own house she had always been, and would continue to be, the mistress of her own servants.

Another story is to the effect that a couple well known in Ottawa society were invited to dine at Rideau hall. The absence of the husband from the city caused the wife to decline. Lady Aberdeen sent an invitation for her to dine "en famille," and on her arrival explained: "This is Haddo Hall night, when we all dine with the servants in their dining-room. Lord Aberdeen will take you in to dinner, and the butler will take me." Thereupon the visitor begged to decline the honor. She had not understood that the invitation to dine with the family included the servants.

At a meeting for the discussion of domestic service reform, Lady Aberdeen is reported to have said: "I have been informed that there are people in Canada who do not keep more than three servants; and more than that, that there are actually houses in which only two servants are employed! Think of the labor imposed on the unfortunate two!" A voice was heard from the body of the hall: "I actually keep only one!" Another exclaimed: "I do my own work. Think of the labor imposed on me!" A number were sent back because there was not sufficient accommodation for them.—

Cured by Sun Baths.

The liveliest passenger on board the steamship City of Peking was Humphrey Kendrick of Los Angeles. He had just returned from Japan, a country that he loves, because a few years ago it completely cured him of paralysis.

When Kendrick found that he had lost control of his limbs he determined to spend all the money he had to get relief. It was easy enough to tell what had brought the paralysis upon him, for the first stroke came soon after he had a bad tumble on horseback. The animal fell in such a way as to catch Kendrick squarely beneath it, severely wrenching and straining his spine. Kendrick found that he was much better in hot weather, and this led him to go to the Hawaiian Island. He was so much better there when it was hot that he concluded to go to a still warmer place. Somebody told him that the south coast of Japan in the summer was the place.

For many months during that hottest of hot summers Kendrick engaged in a most unique attempt to regain his health. For days at a time he would lie positively stripped to the skin in the hot sand on the seashore of Japan. He got so that he rather liked it. As the days passed he kept getting better. Then he took to seeking exercise. A donkey was secured, and Kendrick, stark naked, would ride the animal up and down the beach. It was almost too hot for the beast, but Kendrick did not seem to mind it. The result was complete recovery. Kendrick came back feeling like a schoolboy, and much infatuated with the country of the Japs.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Living in the Country.

The habit of living in the country, by the way, is based upon early life, as is shown by the many "commuters," as the people are called who live out of town and do business in this city.

The "commuter" nine times out of ten, is a country-born man. He is used to the inconveniences of country life, which to him are not inconveniences. A city man who had to put up with what the country man does would go crazy in a week. One never finds your real city man, born and bred in New York, who can ever be really happy in the country, even if the country is only a few miles away.

The elctric light, theaters, street cars, elevated railroads, and that steady, long-drawn, deep bass note which always can be heard in the city—the noise of its beating heart, possibly, the noise of its busy life, at all events—make up his daily life. He gets to love the roar of a big city, and the country stillness would drive him mad in a week.—New York Morning Journal.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

ward morning he fell asleep. The sound of bells awoke him. He started and looked round him with a bewildered air; then his face lighted up with joy. Of course. It was his wedding-morning; he was going to be married to Nora—to Nora. Then the truth broke in upon the delusion, and he let his head fall again and groaned.

No, not to Nora. He should never wed her. It was to Florence Heathcote!

He dragged himself to his feet and began to wash and dress. Some one knocked at the door, and with the towel in his hand he went and opened it.

"What is it?"

"The gentleman has come; he wants to see you," said the voice of the landlord.

"Very well," said Vane; "I shall be down directly."

He finished dressing and went downstairs into the parlor coffee-room. A young fellow in an ulster turned from drumming on the window-pane to greet him. At sight of Vane's face, white, haggard and drawn, as if he had only just recovered from a serious illness, the young fellow uttered an exclamation.

"You—you have heard the news, already?" he said, solemnly.

"News—what news?" said Vane, with callous indifference. "You are Harold Tempest—the"—his voice unconsciously grew bitter—"the best man?"

"Yes, yes," said the young fellow, nervously; "but I say, you know, are you sure you haven't heard? You look so devilish seedy and cut up."

"Heard what?" said Vane. "You are late, aren't you? We expected you earlier—yesterday." He spoke in cold, mechanical tones. The young fellow eyed him curiously.

"If you haven't heard, Tempest, prepare youself for—for—bad news."

Vane smiled a ghastly smile.

"Bad news? Fire away, man," he said, with stony indifference. "What is it?"

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

"Fire away," said Vane, coldly, recklessly.

What bad news, what news or a worse calamity could this young fellow bring him than had already befallen him? He had found Nora but to lose her again; this time indeed forever, and most hopelessly; for was he not going to marry Florence Heathcote?

The young fellow looked at him with increased surprise mingled with his solemnity. No doubt he thought Vane looked a miserable kind of of bridegroom enough.

"I—I thought you might have heard," he said, slowly. "News travels so jolly fast, nowadays; the telegraph and all that, don't you know."

"I've heard nothing. Have only just got out of bed," said Vane, impatiently. "How the deuce you have managed to get here at this unearthly hour in the morning I can't conceive. Won't your news keep till you've had some breakfast? You look seedy enough."

He went toward the bell as he spoke. Mr. Harold Tempest caught his arm.

"Wait a moment, Vane; don't call the servant in just yet till I've—I've told you. I came on by the day mail as far as it would bring me, and coached the rest. I've been travelling all night—"

"You look it."

"Yes; they wanted to telegraph, but I said that it would be awfully rough telegraphing to you, dropping on you so suddenly just before your wedding, and that I'd tell you when I reached you. I stayed with them as long as I could."

Vane started at him. Had the young fellow gone mad?

"What on earth are you talking about?" he demanded, almost angrily, "I can't make head or tail of it, or understand what it is you mean. Why didn't you come last night, and what was it you were going to telegraph to me—only you didn't?"

"Am I not telling you—breaking it to you? Westleigh's dead."

Vane started and looked at him.

"Westleight—dead?" he breathed.

Harold Tempest nodded gravely.

"Yes. I—I was trying to break it to you."

"When—how—did he—" stammered Vane.

"Yesterday morning," replied Harold Tempest. "At least, about midday. It was an accident. The coach—you know he had taken to tooling the coach from Newton Petrock to Westleigh? Well, something was wrong with the wheel, world was well aired.

"Oh, here you are!" he said, rather shortly. "Thank the Lord, it will soon be all over! I swear that if I were going to be married again—which Heaven forbid!—I'd take the woman on my arm and be married at a registrar's, with his clerk for witness. How do, Harold? Years since I've seen you—when you were in the chicken stage—all legs and wings. You're looking— No, I'm hanged if I can say you are looking well! Why, I'm dashed if you don't look as if you'd spent the night before the wedding as we used to in the good old times—three bottles a piece, and the bridegroom first under the table!"

"Well, Lord Warlock, we've—we've bad news," stammered Harold Tempest and then he told him.

The earl was terribly shocked and upset.

"I knew it would happen!" he declared. "I always told him he'd break his neck over that cursed coaching business! And the boy, too! Oh, Lord such a nice boy! But—" He started and looked at Vane, who stood by the window, haggard and silent. "Then you are the new earl, eh, Vane? Heavens! who'd have thought you'd ever get the title?"

Vane nodded gloomily. The old man leaned back in his chair, shading his eyes with his hand for a moment or two; then he looked up suddenly with a start.

"But what the devil are you doing here, Vane? You ought to be at Westleigh."

Vane colored.

"The—the wedding, sir," he said, in a low voice.

The earl stared at him aghast.

"Wedding—wedding! Why, you know there can't be any wedding to-day. What! Westleigh and his boy lying dead, and you talk of a wedding! it must be put off. Harold, go and tell them the news, and send down to the church to stop those confounded bells. Wedding! You must be out of your mind to talk about it on such a day as this. The marriage must be put off till after the funeral, at any rate."

Leather for dress waists is something unique in the winter fashions. It is tan in color, thin enough to be pliable, and is decorated with applique lace as if it were satin or velvet.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." MRS. C. CROMPTON, 77 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the Only

True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye today.

Hood's Pills easy to buy, easy to take, easy in effect. 25c.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.

ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

THE PERSON

that wants a good match and that knows a thing or two will remember that this brand is synonomous with everything desirable in fire-producing lucifers.

E. B. EDDY'S MATCHES.

Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company

GENERAL PASSENGER TIME TABLE,

Eastern Standard Time. No. 13. Taking effect Dec 2nd, 1895

Tweed and Tamworth to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2 A M	No.4 P M.	No.6 P M.
Lve	Tweed	0	6 50	....	3 00
	Stoco	3	....	....	3 10
	Larkins	7	7 10	....	3 2
	Marlbank	13	7 2	....	3 4
	Erinsville	17	7 40	....	3 5
	Tamworth	20	7 50	2 00	4 10
	Wilson*	24	....	....	....
	Enterprise	26	8 10	2 20	4 30
	Mudlake Bridge*	28	....	....	....
	Moscow	31	8 22	2 35	4 43
	Galbraith*...	33	....	....	....
Arr	Yarker	35	8 35	....	4 55
Lve	Yarker	35	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	39	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills	40	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	41	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	43	9 35	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	49	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee	49	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	54	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	58	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Tamworth and Tweed.

	Stations.	Miles
Lve	Deseronto	0	6 50
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 0
Arr	Napanee	9	7 15
Lve	Napanee	9	7 25	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 00	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 10	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 33	12 35	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 45	....	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	9 00	12 45	5 15
	Galbraith*..	25	....	....	....
	Moscow	27	9 15	1 00	5 27
	Mudlake Bridge*	30	....	....	....
	Enterprise	32	9 30	1 15	5 40
	Wilson*	34	....	....	....
	Tamworth	38	9 50	1 35	5 58
	Erinsville	41	10 05	....	6 10
	Marlbank	45	10 15	....	6 23
	Larkins	51	10 30	....	6 40
	Stoco	55	10 50	....	6 50
Arr	Tweed	58	11 00	....	7 05

Kingston and Sydenham to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2. A. M.	No.4. P.M.	No.6. P.M
Lve	Kingston	0	....	....	3 30
	G. T. R. Junction	2	....	....	3 40
	Glenvale*	10	....	....	4 00
	Murvale*		....	....	4 15
Arr	Harrowsmith	19	....	....	4 30
Lve	Sydenham	19	8 00	....	....
	Harrowsmith	19	8 20	....	4 30
	Frontenac*	22	8 32	....	4 40
Arr	Yarker	26	8 40	....	4 50
Lve	Yarker	26	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	30	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	31	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	32	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	34	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	40	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee, West End	40	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	45	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	49	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Sydenham and Kingston.

	Stations.	Miles.	No.1 A.M.	No.3, P.M	No.5 P.M
Lve	Deseronto	0	6 50	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 10	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 25	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 45	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 00	12 15	4 35
	Newburg	17	8 10	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 15	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 30	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 34	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 20
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 27
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 40
	Sydenham	34	....	....	5 55
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Murvale*	35	9 20	....	....
	Glenvale*	39	9 30	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 55	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

R. C. CARTER, Asst. Gen. Manager

G. A. BROWNE, Gen. Pass. Agent

H. B. SHERWOOD Superintendent.

The Napanee Express

$1.

The Weekly Globe.

BEST CLUBBING OFFER EVER MADE.

By paying one dollar in advance these two popular and reliable papers will be sent post free to the subscriber's address. Call at the "Express Office" and secure this bargain.

Keep Moving

This is an interesting store. No time for idleness here. Bad weather only makes us work the harder. We have lots to interest you this week but only room in the newspaper advertisement to tell you part of it.

Bargain Towel Sale.

This week we open about 100 dozen Towels bought at fifty cents on the dollar. If you want Towels this spring this is your opportunity.

Flannellettes.

25 pieces new Flannellettes just in, extra wide our famous 8c. line. At 9½ cents we show some Costume Flannellettes suitable for Wrappers or Waists in very pretty designs. We have sold a tremendous quantity of Flannellettes this season.

5c. Ginghams.

We are showing a new lot of patterns in Ginghams at 5c. per yd. that are worthy of your attention. The designs are very neat and pretty and the quality very good.

Men's Overcoats.

We must clear the balance of our Overcoats this month. For instance an Overcoat that was $4.25 we will sell now at $2.90. At such prices they can't last long, so come early.

Men's Single Vests.

We have just opened a job lot of Men's Single Vests to sell at 90c each. They are cheap.

Grey Cottons.

Two bales more of our famous 5c. Grey Cottons. We sell more Grey Cottons than all the other stores in Napanee put to-gether. It is no wonder when they are so cheap.

Millinery.

We are very anxious to clear the balance of our Winter Millinery and in consequence you can buy it very cheap.

Fancy Trimming Buttons.

The very newest things in the market. From 50c. to $3.00 per dozen. We will be pleased to have you see them.

Cottonades.

Our new Cottonades are proving great sellers. New patterns. Splendid values. We commence them at 12½ cents per yd. and can give you any price.

Dress Linings.

Dress makers will find our stock of linings up to date and the prices cheaper than most stores. We make a specialty of Dress Linings.

The Robinson Co'y.

Wood for Sale.

Wood delivered promptly to any part of the town at the lowest price for cash.
6c MILES S. PLUMLEY.

The Annual Convention of the Ontario Bee-keeper's Association.

Will be held this week in Brantford, Ont., commencing on Wednesday 15th and lasting three days. The programme includes papers and addresses by Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, Hon. A. S. Hardy, Allen Pringle, prominent apiarists from the U. S. and others.

An Unfounded Rumor.

I was called to see Mrs. Wm. Frizzell on the day following her marriage and found her suffering from mental excitement only. The report which has gained some credence that she suffered from any form of physical violence at the hands of her father or any one else, is altogether false. This statement is made in justice to all parties concerned. G. C. T. WARD, M.D.

Hymenial.

A pleasant event was solemnized at the residence of Mr. John Dennison, Richmond, on Wednesday last, when his daughter, Laura, was united in the bonds of wedlock with Mr. S. J. Hambly, of North Fredericksburgh. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. O. Crossley in the presence of a number of friends of both the contracting parties. Both the bride and groom are deservidly popular and THE EXPRESS joins with their many friends in extending congratulations and wishing them a happy voyage on the sea of matrimony.

Firemen's Election of Officers.

Captain, Seymour Lindsay; First Lieutenant, F. W. Hart; Second Lieutenant, Eb. McCabe; Sec., Jos. Bennett; Treas., H. Hunter; First Branchman, Jos. Woodcock; Second Branchman, Geo. Lewis; Third Branchman, S. Mix; Hose captain, Wm. Hall; Axe men, H. Hunter and Robt. Solmes; Finance Committee, F. Hart, J. Carr, J. Friskin. Henry Savage and Leslie Shannon were recommended to the Council Board as Chief and Assistant for the year 1896.

Honor Roll for December.

SELBY.

IV Class, sr—Vera Neely 370, Edith Robinson 369, John McKim 344, Ida Valleau 330, Bert Martin 292, Samie Anderson 271. IV Class, jr—Charlie Cleall 258, Joie Anderson 288, German Valleau 172. III Class, sr—Gertie Dafoe 305, Bertha Shaver 303, J B Anderson 274, Harry Dean 271, George Valleau 198, Gertie Weese 144, III Class, jr—Cora Bradshaw 257, Lillie Wood 226, Willie Ballance 220, Olive Robinson 110. II Class—Myrtle Schermerhorn 269, Claude McKim 241. Pt II—Elmer Bradshaw 257, Myrtle Ballance 248, Dora Bowen 229, Myra Valleau 100. Pt I—Mackenzie Shaver, Lottie Robinson, Kenneth Cleall. F. M. GALEY, Teacher.

Creighton vs. Wrought Iron Range Co.

Mr. W. G. Wilson has been employed to defend this case. The company say that the Range purchased by Mr. Creighton is as it was represented to be, and that Mr. Creighton has no just cause of complaint. We would refer our readers to some local references regarding the "Home Comfort" Range.

WROUGHT IRON RANGE CO:

Gents.—Your "Home Comfort" Range gives entire satisfaction,

Joseph Ward, Camden East P.O.
William Lane, Wilton P.O.
J. W. Amey, Camden East P.O.
H. J. Lennox, Shannonville P.O.

Your "Home Comfort" Range uses less wood by one-third than any other stove, and is a splendid baker and a good heater.
C. W. AMEY, Camden East P.O.

I am well pleased with my investment in a "Home Comfort" Range. It is a first-class baker and a good heater, and uses only about one-third of the fuel that it required to run my No. 9 stove.
SOLOMON PETERS, Thorpe P.O.

My Range is a perfect baker and a good heater. I find it fully up to all it was recommended to me to be in every respect.
GEORGE PETERS, Thorpe P.O.

Disqualified on a Technicality.

Mr. Editor—In justice to my numerous friends who at the recent municipal election did me the honor to return me at the head of the poll, I feel it my duty to explain through your columns the reasons that lead me to disclaim my seat at the council board. A few days after the election I was notified through a solicitor of the town that my election was complained of on the

STOVES AT COST.

Range No. 9. Range with tank, $24.00.
Wood Cook, $10. Wood Cook with Tank, $13.00.
T. H. WALLER.

Seeing is Believing.

New instruments, new goods and improvements in our optical rooms make our optical department complete in every particular. The busy holiday season is over and our optician can give your eyes a thorough examination, having taken the best course in ocular refraction obtainable in the city of New York. He has had three years experience. It is knowledge, nothing succeeds like success, and his success has been marvelous in the testing of eyes and prescribing spectacles. Cross eyes or muscular weakness scientifically treated. Examination of eyes free of charge at
SMITH'S JEWELRY STORE.

Annual Church Meeting.

The annnal meeting of the congregation of the Presbyterian church was held in the basement of the church on Wednesday evening. The following officers were elected: Thomas Johnston, treasurer; Robert Mill, secretary; managing committee, Wm Dey, D. E. Friskin, E. McLaughlin, Wm. Norris, James Birrell and Thomas Craig. The church is clear of debt, so the present board of management start with a clean sheet. Several improvements and alterations in the church were suggested relative to the seating of the church and repairs to the gallery. After tendering a hearty vote of thanks to the choir the meeting dispersed.

A Very Mixed Case.

On Friday a very complicated case was argued before Judge Wilkison at Sharbot Lake. Some time ago two farmers lost a pair of steers each. Subsequently a pair was found and taken possession of by one of the losers named Cronk. Kennedy the other loser, heard of the cattle and claimed them, suing Cronk for their possession. The case was heard on Friday last. Each side had twenty witnesses and every one swore to certain marks on the animals. The ears of the cattle owned by Cronk had been cut off, and the ears of Kennedy's cattle had been frozen off. The case was so complicated that the judge could not decide as to the ownership and reserved his decision.—Whig.

Asphyxiated While She Slept.

It is with regret we are called upon to chronicle the death of Mrs. Sophia Boyd, who was asphyxiated by escaping gas from a coal stove, sometime between Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning. One of her neighbors, Mr. Thos. Fox, becoming alarmed at the unusual quiet pervading her house on Thomas street, and suspecting that all was not right, communicated his fears to Mr. Donald McLiver, and together they repaired to her residence. On breaking open the door they were horrified to find the dead body of Mrs Boyd, which showed every evidence of death by asphyxiation. She was laying in her bed, as she had retired the evening before, and the state of the room indicated that she had been very much indisposed during the night. It was about two o'clock p.m. when the remains were discovered, and the body was still warm in death. James Boyd, her son, who slept not over six feet from the stove, while his mother slept in an adjoining room, was discovered in a dazed and semi-conscious condition, but on being removed to the open air soon recovered. He would undoubtedly have succumbed, too, had not aid arrived. As it was, he was not rescued a moment too soon. He owes his life to the fact that he slept with the bed clothes over his head. The cook stove and the coal stove are both in the same room. The pipes of the coal stove run into those from the cook stove. It is thought that one stove took the draft from the other, thus allowing the gas to escape. Mrs. Boyd was an honest, industrious resident, and well thought of by the people for whom she worked, and those who were acquainted with her. Deceased was a widow, and leaves a family of 7 children, four daughters, Annie, Jennie, Aggie and Mary, all of Chicago, and three sons, William, of Chatham, John, supposed to be at the coast, and James, of Napanee. The girls were notified of their mother's sudden death by telegraph, but the boys could not be located. They are expected home to-day, when arrangments for the funeral will be perfected. Mrs. Boyd was about 60 years of age.

A Happy Event.

Wednesday evening, the 15th, Jan., the

COAL! COAL!!

The best grades mined in Scranton District. I have about completed my stock of coal for the season and am now prepared to receive and deliver orders with promptness. Coal all new stock. Under cover and in first class shape. Price $4.00 to $5.00 according to size.

Grain Wanted.

I want all kinds of grain for which I will pay the highest market price. I have no man on the market buying. You will find it to your advantage to call at the 'Big Mill' and get prices before selling elsewhere.

J. R. DAFOE.

CARLETON WOODS.
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
1y Roblin, Ont.

JOHN POLLARD,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Express Office. Napanee.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, JAN. 17, 1896

All local reading notices or notices announcing entertainments at which a fee is charged for admission, will be charged 5c per line for each insertion, if in ordinary type. In black type the price will be 10c per line each insertion.

Two cows and two horses for sale on easy terms. Miles S. Plumley. 6c

Man is somewhat like a sausage,
Fair enough upon the skin;
But you never know exactly
How much hog there is within.

Rev. H. J. Spence, Flinton, has received notice from the archbishop of Ontario that a grant of £25 has been given by the S. P. C. K. towards the erection of a new Anglican church in that village.

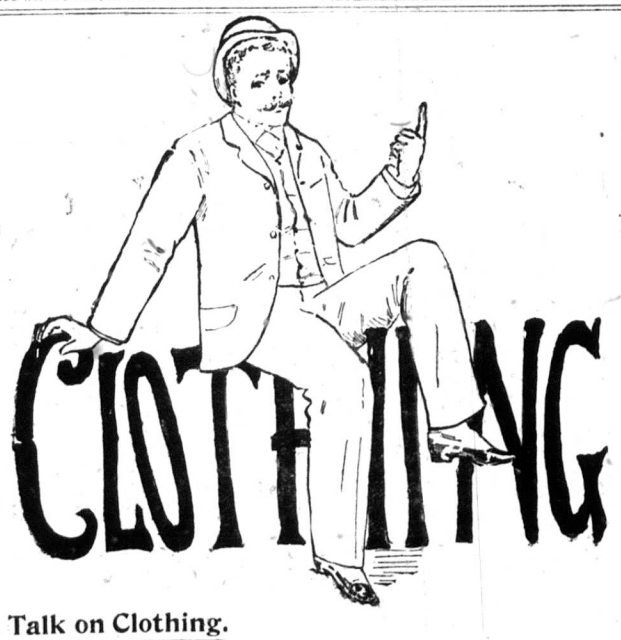
She Ought To Know. Having used Burdock Blood Bitters for 15 years I cannot keep from recommending it to others. I have sold hundreds of bottles from my store, and as I keep other medicines I ought to know which sells best. It is a wonderful medicine.
Yours very sincerely,
MRS. DONALD KENNEDY,
Caledonia, Ont.

The oil of the Norwegian Cod Liver is nature's grand restorative, and is only found in its entirety and purity in Miller's Emulsion, "the kind that cures" colds, coughs, bronchitis and all affections of the throat and lungs. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at druggists.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

DAFOE & PAUL,
Undertakers

EVERYTHING NEW AND FIRST-CLASS.



A Talk on Clothing.

When you read of Overcoats sold at less than cost you ought not to believe it. Clothing dealers are not giving money away any more than you would want to.

When we say we sell at a

Close Margin of Profit.

You can rely on it as perfect truth, and when we say we will refund the money to you if you are not perfectly satisfied the truth is made plainer.

Our clothing is sold at the same price that many dealers own the same kind for.

MEN'S OVERCOATS $2.60 and $3.25.

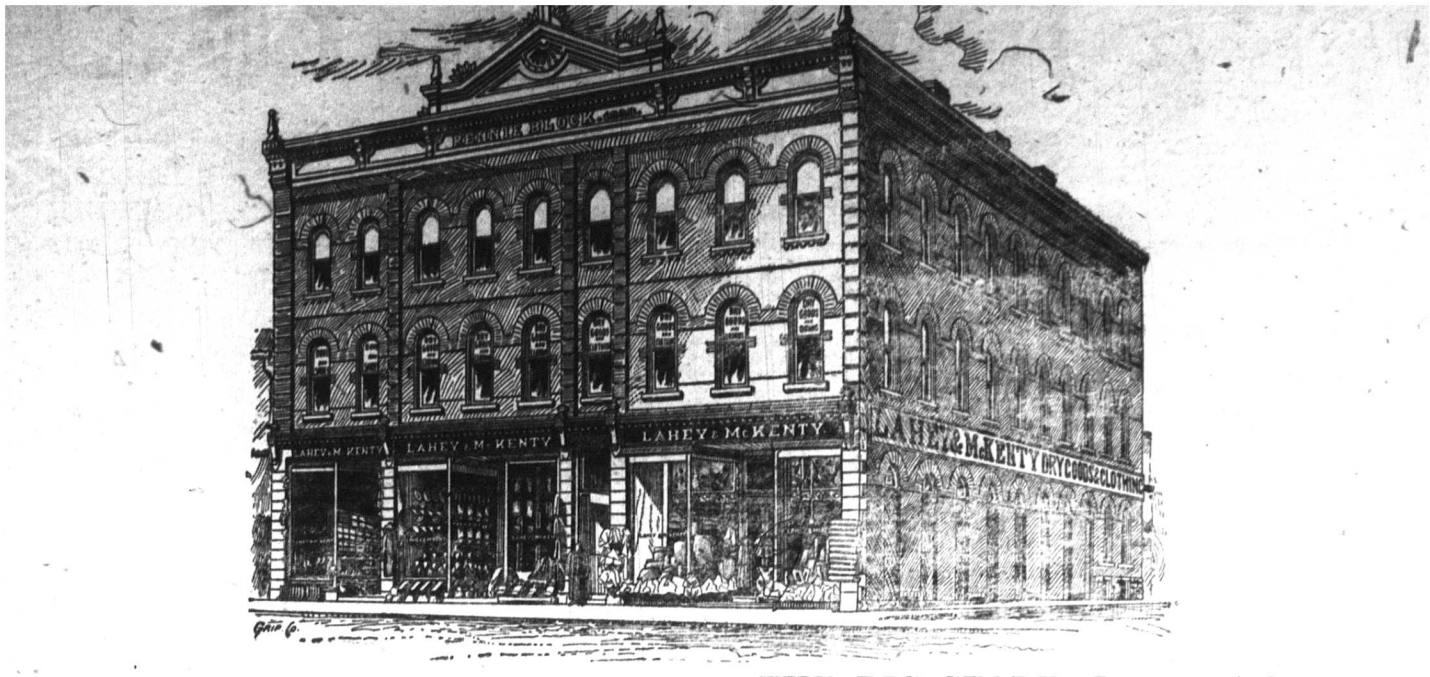
Radford & Son

The Great Outfitters.

Fire!

Fire broke out in the residence of Mr. Wm. Hall, Napanee, on Wednesday afternoon, but was extinguished before much damage was done.



THE BIG STORE, January 17th, 1896.

MID-WINTER SALE.

On tomorrow, Saturday, Jan. 18th, at nine o'clock sharp, we shall place on our front tables at Dry Goods entrance the balance of our last season's stock of Prints, some 1400 yards of the 12½c. line, and shall sell them as in former seasons at a yard, ten yards only to each purchaser. Please to remember that we have only a limited quantity of these goods, that we give you all we have, and have endeavored to give an early notice so that people from a distance may have an equal chance at them. Also that it is not possible to let one customer have more than 10 yards.

Five Cents!

Another Table.

Is loaded with a line of Dress Ginghams, no old musty patterns, but fresh, bright goods right up to date, if it was warmer weather. There are 20 Patterns of them and the sale price is 4c.

A Little Lot

Is some four or five pieces Cotton Crinkles, extremely pretty and fine goods, but too fine. The price was a lot more, but they are 12½c.

Here's a Sweep

Some 500 yards of Dress Cloths, double fold, goods, 40 and 42 inch, fancy Tweed, Shot Serges, etc. They have been good sellers all season at 25c, but for our winter sale the price is 12½c.

The Clothing Store.

Has some of the best things to offer you, but newspaper space costs money, and one or two must suffice for to-day.

At Twenty-Nine Cents

Each garment, a lot of Men's ALL-WOOL Ribbed Shirts and Drawers in Grey and Flesh Colors, sound, first-class goods every way, the retail price is 50c.

At Fifteen Cents

Each garment, Boy's Shirts and Drawers, plain and ribbed, a mixed lot worth 25c and 35c.

At Seventy-Seven Cents

Men's Heavy Tweed Pants, stout and strong, no shoddy.

At One Twenty-Five

season at 25c, but for our winter sale the price is 12½c.

The Remnant Counter.

Has had fresh and final contributions from all departments and is rich with winter bargains. Price in every case exactly Half Selling Price

A good Tale is none the worse for being twice told.

It is about those reversible Molleton Flannelettes at 12½c. There is another bale of them in, It is only the other day since we advised you of the last one, but we have been sold out since. To be had only from us at the price.

At One Twenty-Five

a pair, Men's Canadian Frieze Pants, in all sizes, small clothiers charge $1.75.

At Three Fifty,

A mixed lot of Men's Overcoats worth from $5 to $8, odd sizes.

The Shoe Store

Is "in it" with its quota of bargain lots. They are odd lines, two and three or more pairs of each kind. We have put them on tables. Prices as under :

Table 1—Your choice of the lot for 35c.
Table 2—Your choice of the lot for 50c.
Table 3—Your choice of the lot for 75c.
Table 4—Your choice of the lot for $1.00.

LAHEY & McKENTY

Church of England Notes.

S. Mary Magdalene.

Church of S. Mary Magdalene, Napanee. Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., each Sunday. Holy Communion at 11 a.m. on 1 and III Sundays of the month, and at 8 a.m. on all other Sundays. Strangers supplied with leaflets having service printed in full at evening services.

Parish of Adolphustown.

Services next Sunday: Sandhurst, St. Paul's, at 11 o'clock; Adolphustown, St. Alban's, at 3 o'clock; Gosport, St. Jude's, at 7 o'clock.

Yarker Circuit.

The Rev. W. B. Seccombe of Odessa who has labored on the Missionary field in Newfoundland, British Columbia and in our own Home Mission work, will preach Missionary Sermons on the Yarker Circuit, on Sunday, Jan. 19th inst

Parish of Camden.

St. Luke, Camden East, Morning Prayer Sermon, 11 o'clock; St. Anthony, Yarker, 3 o'clock; St. John, Newburgh, Holy Communion, 8 a.m.; St. Jude, Napanee Mills, 7 o'clock; Centreville, 3 o'clock.

Selby Circuit.

Services in Selby circuit next Sunday as follows: At Empey Hill, 10;45. Subject, the Intermediate State. Mount Pleasant, 2:30, and Selby, 7 p.m. Subject, The Armenian, Transvaal and other National Difficulties, to be conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. B. Stratton. At the hall, 10.30, and Bethel, 2.30, by Bro. W Perry.

Parish of Selby.

The incumbent was last Tuesday the recipient of a quantity of grain, etc., from the Kingsford portion of the mission. A similar gift was made by the Selby people in the fall.

There will be divine service at St. Jude's church next Sunday at 2.45 p.m., and at St. John's, Selby, at 7.30 p.m. All invited.

Sunday was a red letter day in the history of the Anglican church in the village of Yarker, for on that day their new church, a gift from the O'Loughlin family, was solemnly opened and dedicated for divine worship.

Mr. Geo. Parrott left for Hungerford on Wednesday afternoon where he has a case against Mr. Kimit in the Division Court, over the purchase of sheep. Mr. Parrott bought some sheep of Mr. Kimet, and paid him a certain amount of money down to bind the bargain. Mr. Kimet delivered the sheep, and at the expiration of three days, as the balance of his money was not forthcoming took them away. Hence the action.

Mr. Geo. Parrott was up before P. M. Daly on Friday last on a charge of illegal detention of pigs. As it was pretty plainly brought out that Mr. Parrot had no intention of defrauding the man of whom he had purchased the pigs, out of his money, but had simply bought them on a cash basis, but hadn't the money at the time, the charge was not pressed. The magistrate desired Mr. Parrott to give bonds that he would not mislead the public in this way in future.

Mr. Conger, of Napanee, is hauling wood from the ninth concession for the Rathbun Company.

A movement is on foot to unseat Reeve elect McRae, of Wolfe Island, on the grounds of bribery, and being an American citizen.

A dispatch from Perth says that Geo. E. Brushy, of Tweed, was accidentally killed while making a coupling between two flat cars in the yard.

Mr. Jas. Barber, sr., of Shannonville, died Tuesday night. The deceased was about 83 years old and had long resided in Shannonville. He leaves a wife and a number of grown up children to mourn his loss.

Everybody In King's Co. Everybody in King Co., N. B., knows Mr. Geo. S. Dryden, of Mitchell & Dryden, Sussex, N. B. He says: "Norway Pine Syrup is the best cough remedy I have ever used. My wife had a very bad cough that was most distressing for ten days. I tried the Norway Pine Syrup and one bottle cured her. I never found its equal.

GEO. S. DRYDEN.

At a meeting of the general board of management of Albert College, which was held in the reception room of the college yesterday afternoon, Mr. W. H. Gordon was appointed secretary of the board in the place of the late A. L. Morden, Esq., of Napanee.—Belleville Sun

The Deseronto correspondent of the Belleville Sun says that Ex Deputy Reeve, A. S. Valleau is mentioned as a likely candidate to represent the Reform interests for the riding of East Hastings at the on-coming general elections. Councillor Stoddart's name is also mentioned in this connection.

Tramps have been making their headquarters in the East Ward school of late. They are in the habit of climbing in through the window, building on a good fire, and enjoying themselves by it. The amount of tobacco juice on the floor led the caretaker to believe something was wrong. A close watch will be kept in the future.

Joe Kavanagh, operator and ticket clerk for the G. T. R. who was stationed at Trenton during Xmas week has skipped out, after embezzling about $800 of the Co's funds. Before going Kavanagh robbed the till, and left this sarcastic note behind: "I wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. I am leaving the country. It is not for the country's welfare, however, but for my own."

Somebody wrote to an editor of a country paper and asked how he would "break an ox." The editor answers as follows: "If only one ox, a good way would be to hoist him by means of a chain attached to his tail to the top of a pole forty feet from the ground. Then hoist him by a rope tied to the horns to another pole. Then let fall on his back a five ton pile driver and if that doesn't break him let him start a country newspaper and trust people for subscriptions. One of the two will do it sure."

Hoarseness and Sore Throat.—DEAR SIRS—I highly recommend Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam as the best cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness and sore throat ever used.

WILBUR ASHBY
Hemlock, Ont.

Clearing Sale of Fancy Goods.

Commencing on Thursday 2nd January. We will offer genuine bargains to all who inspect and select any of the following list of articles.

To-day's space will not permit of any lengthy reference to prices, so would ask the Ladies of Napanee and vicinity to call at once as we do not intend to carry Fancy Goods in future and will dispose of Linens, Felts, Embroidery, Silks, Crochet cottons, Dolls, Toys, Table Drapes, Tea Cosies, Sofa Pillows, Baby Jackets, Pompons, Cords, Berlin Wools, Pearl Buttons, Tissue Paper, Crepe Paper, Picture Scarfs, Whisk Holders, Albums, Toilet Sets, Cups and Saucers. Glove and Handkerchief sets, Embroideries, Laces and many other nick nacks which need not be mentioned all of which will be sold at a sacrifice.

We have lots left of the large stock we had at the commencement of the season. These we will dispose of at prices to suit the times rather than carry them to next season.

This sale is genuine, With these facts before you we look for you on and after January 2nd, and have made every preparation for your coming.

Store open till 9 o'clock p.m. for the convenience of those who cannot get out during the day.

S. E. ALLEN.

Nervous women will find relief in Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it enriches the blood and thus strengthens the nerves.

Royal Canadian Clothes Wringers, 11 inch roll, the best wringer made, only three more, at $2.25. Boyle & Son.

Burglars entered Wm. Lott's office at Belleville on Monday and blew open the safe. The safe was empty, so the burglars got nothing for their pains.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Denmore and family of Belleville, narrowly escaped asphyxiation by escaping gas from a defective main, on Monday

Make Yourself Strong. If you would resist pneumonia, bronchitis, typhoid fever, and persistent coughs and colds. These ills attack the weak and run down system. They can find no foothold where the blood is kept pure, rich and full of vitality, the appetite good and digestion vigorous, with Hood's Sarsaparilla, the one true blood purifier.

Rubbing It In. Never use a liniment for rheumatism, says a high medical authority. Don't rub it in—drive it out. Take something that removes the acid poison from the blood—take something that will improve your digestion, and build up the body to the perfection of robust health. That "something" is Scott's Sarsaparilla, a remedy that obtains the best results in the shortest time. $1, of all druggists.

Patronize the skating rink; healthy exercise, good ice, roomy rink. Get a pair of skates, hockey stick or puck from Boyle & Son.

Butchers and farmers who do butchering you should see the new lines of cleavers, skinning splitters, ripping steak knives. Every knife warranted. Boyle & Son.

A young man named William Knight, of Newport, was shot and mortally wounded by Mr. Hugh Addy, whose place he visited with a number of other young men on a charivari frolic.

A. S. Kimmerly having purchased the bankrupt stock of Anderson Bros, grocers, is prepared to give bargains to all. See us. A large shipment of that celebrated 25 cent Tea just to hand. Buy Keewatin Flour! none equal.

Handsome Features. Sometimes unsightly blotches, pimples or sallow opaque skin, destroys the attractiveness of handsome features. In all such cases Scott's Emulsion will build up the system and impart freshness and beauty.

Speaks For Itself. MESSRS. T. MILBURN & Co., Toronto.

GENTS—Please send us four dozen Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion. We find it a genuine article. It knocks all others out in the first round. Several ladies here are loud in its praise, saying it has saved the lives of their children. CROGAN & CO.

Kouchibouguac, N.B.

Open Your Eyes

and inspect my goods. They are convincing that I am the only tailor in town that can sell such goods for the money. Only one more week and those $3.50 pants will have to be sold at their regular price $5.00.

Give me a call and make a note of my prices.

ED. HUFF,

The Cash Tailor, Opposite Campbell House.

ALL WORK GUARANTEED

THE NAPAN

Vol. XXXV] No 8—JNO. POLLARD, Editor and Publisher. NAPANEE, ONT.

BREAKFAST FOODS.

That idea of thinking that all Breakfast Cereal Foods are alike is a mistake as they are not. I keep none but "The Ireland National Food Co's." and "The Tillson Co's." both of which have the name of being the finest in the market both for quality and cheapness. Try them.

I have now on hand in packages Self Rising Buckwheat Flour, Dessicated Rolled Wheat, Dessicated Wheat and Rolled White Wheat.

In Bulk

Rolled Oats, Rolled Wheat, Molina Rolled Wheat, Rolled Buckwheat Flour and Gold Dust Cornmeal.

W. COXALL.

Timothy Seed...

We have secured a supply of the cleanest Seeds from the largest growers in the Counties. We are sure we can recommend this seed.

We carry in stock at all times a full line of our Famous Flour, and the fact that we have an increasing demand for them bespeaks their excellence and popularity. The prices are always right, and the quality too.

We have a full line of grain, all kinds of Cracked Grain, Bran, and Shorts.

When you want Salt for the table, for butter or cheese making, or for salting your pork, remember that the "Windsor" brand is the purest and the best, and while it is the cheapest it is also the saltiest.

Try one of our little Cheese. They weigh about 8lbs. each. A nice size for the family.

Rolled Oats, Rolled Wheat, and Oatmeal

Best 25 Cent TEA in Town.

The Rathbun Co'y

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

A MONEY SAVING OPPORTUNITY

Great reductions in prices from now till February 1st, when we begin stock taking. The following lines to be sold at greatly reduced prices.

Men's Youths and Boy's Ulsters.
Men's and Boy's Fine Overcoats, Peacoats.
Men's, Youth's, Boy's or Children's Suits.
Mens' and Boy's pants. Youth's all Wool Tweed Vests, at 45c.

Underwear, Top Shirts, Fine and White Shirts, Cuffs and Collars, Neckwear, Cardigan Jackets, Mitts, Gloves and Socks.
37 dozen Sealette Caps, from 50c. up. Fur Caps away down.

Note the place

A. M. VINEBERG,

The Wonderful Cheap Clothier, Dundas st., Henry Block, Napanee

THE HIGHEST AWARDS

MORDEN, RUTTAN & MORPHY.
Barristers, Solicitors, etc.
Solicitors for the Merchant's Bank of Canada, etc., etc.
Dundas Street, Napanee.
G. F. RUTTAN, ARTHUR W. MORPHY
Private funds to loan at five per cent.

A. S. ASHLEY,
DENTIST
16 Years in Napanee.
34 Years Experience.
Rooms, - Albert Block, - Napanee

A. R. DAVIS,
Ontario Land Surveyor and Civil Engineer.
Office with T. G. Davis, Insurance Agent, 39 Coates Block

THE - MERCHANTS - BANK
OF CANADA
Head Office, — Montreal
Capital paid up, $6,000,000
Surplus, $3,000,000
INTEREST AT CURRENT RATES PAID ON DEPOSITS.
A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.
W. A. BELLHOUSE,
Manager, Napanee Branch

MORTGAGE SALE OF VALUABLE FARM.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Mortgage which will be produced at the time of sale there will be sold by public Auction at the Court House in the Town of Napanee on Wednesday, Feb. 19th, 1896.

at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon all and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate lying and being in the Township of Fredericksburgh in the County of Lennox and Addingtan and Province of Ontario being composed of all that part of the West half of lot number fourteen in the fourth concession of the said Township of Fredericksburgh lying north of Big Creek and containing eighty acres more or less. This farm is about five miles from Napanee and has erected thereon a frame house and Barn.

For furthur particulars and conditions of sale apply to ENGLISH & PERRY.
Vendor's Solicitors.

Dated at Napanee, January 15th 1896. 8d

Lost.

Somewhere in Napanee, a gold brooch, in the shape of a wish-bone. Finder will be suitably rewarded on leaving the same at this office.

Quebec Carnival.

January 27th to February 1st. Return tickets at Single Fare from January 25th to 28th, and good to return February 3rd.

J. L. BOYES,
Grand Trunk Ticket Agent, Napanee.

Oyster Dinner.

A grand oyster dinner was held at the residence of Mr. John Milling, Reeve of South Fredericksburgh, on January 22nd. Dinner was served from 1 to 3 o'clock. After all present had done ample justice to the grand spread an adjournment was made to the parlor where several hours were spent in speeches, songs, and games. After wishing the Reeve and his most excellent wife a hearty vote of thanks all returned home well pleased with the Reeve's dinner.

Annual Convention

The Second Annual Convention of the workers in the Napanee District will be held in the Western M. Church, Napanee, on Wednesday and Thursday next, Jan. 29th and 30th. The Rev. A. C. Crewe, Toronto, General Sec'y. of Epworth Leagues, will be present. The pastors, leaders and societies are requested to fully announce the same, and urge attendance of workers. Let every Young Peoples' Society in our church of whatever name be prepared to report through an elected representative on Thursday Morning, Jan. 30th. The general public are cordially invited to FUN AT THE COUNCIL.

A DEADLOCK WAS THE RESULT

Of a motion to appoint a committee to strike the standing committees—Some lively cross firing—Coun. Madole will fight the Protest—Reeve Symington submits but objects to the Mayor's Ruling.

The new council elect has been having quite a lively time and the end is not yet. Since the municipal election protests and disclaimers have been the rule not the exception, and no one can say what a week or a day may bring forth. Dr. Ming and W. T. Gibbard have disclaimed their seats, the former because he hadn't the requisite property qualification and the latter is disqualified by reason of an existing contract with the town. E. S. Lapum comes into Dr. Ming's seat, and W. H. Perry takes Mr. Gibbard's place at the Board. Mr. Perry is in turn protested against on the ground that he has not sufficient property qualification, and protests are also pending against couns. Alexander and Madole.

The ball was set in motion on Monday forenoon when the following gentlemen assembled at the council chamber, and after taking the declaration of office were duly installed and confirmed in their respective positions by the town clerk, Mr. Jas. Herring: — Mayor — John Carson; Reeve—Thomas Symington; Deputy-reeve, W. D. Madden. Councillors—Dr. Leonard, S. R. Miller, A. Alexander, M. S. Madole, J. Aylsworth, W. Boyle, John Lowry, W. H. Perry, E. S. Lapum

It is customary at this meeting to appoint anditors, and a committee to strike the standing committees, and then adjourn until evening, to allow the committee to prepare and submit their report for the consideration of the council.

On a motion that Mayor Carson, Reeve Symington, Couns. Aylsworth, Leonard, and Lowry be a committee to strike the standing committees for the year, the vote stood six to five in favor of it. The Mayor, using his perogative, caused a deadlock by voting with the opponents of the motion.

After considerable discussion the council adjourned until 7.30 p.m.

EVENING SESSION.

Before half past seven o'clock, the hour for meeting had arrived, the council chamber was literally packed with ratepayers, who congregated in anticipation of the fun. It was the best attended meeting of the town council in years, and let us hope that the interest stimulated by the present difficulty will be kept up, and that the taxpayers will continue to attend the meetings of the council, and watch what their representatives are doing for them.

At half past seven, pursuant to adjournment, the council came to order, Mayor Carson presiding, all the members present.

Reeve Symington rose to enquire if the Mayor intended to count the votes of Couns Alexander and Madole until the action against them was either decided or abandoned.

The Mayor replied that he had already counted their votes in division and intended to do so.

By-law No. 532 for the appointment of auditors was introduced by Coun. Lapum.

The Mayor appointed J. T. Grange as his auditor, and the remaining blank was filled in with the name of R. G. Wright. The salary was fixed at $15. The by-law was read a first, second and third time, signed, sealed and finally passed.

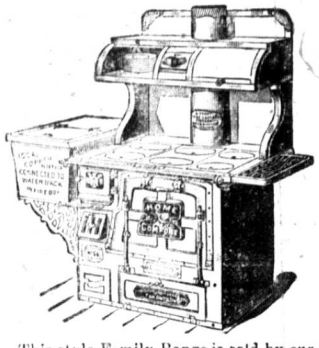
Moved by Reeve Symington, seconded by Coun. Alysworth, that council re-consider the motion declared lost at the morning meeting, viz: to appoint a committee to strike the standing committees for the year. The Mayor declared the motion lost.

Reeve Symington took objection to Mayor Carson's ruling In former years it had been customary for the Mayor to vote only on a tie or when the yeas and nays were called for. The vote on the motion stood 6 for and 5 against. The Mayor by his vote declared the motion lost. He could not do so, as his vote made it a tie. He could annul the motion, but could not declare it lost.

WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION

BY THE WROUGHT IRON RANGE CO., ON

HOME COMFORT



STEEL

HOTEL AND FAMILY

RANGES.

CARVING AND STEAM TABLES,
BROILERS, MALLEABLE
WATERBACKS, etc., etc.

This style Family Range is sold by our Travelling Salesmen from our own wagons at a uniform price throughout Canada and the United States.

Made of Malleable Iron and Wrought Steel and will last a lifetime if properly used.

SALES TO JANUARY 1st, 1894, 277,188.

Made only by the Wrought Iron Range Co. manufacturers of Hotel Steel ranges, Kitchen outfittings and Home comfort Hot-air Steel Furnaces.

The above named company have located at Napanee, with Headquarters at the Campbell House.

DEROCHE & MADDEN,

Barristers,

Barristers-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.

Office—Grange Block.

Money to Loan at "lower than the lowest" rates

DEROCHE, Q. C. 5.1y J. H. MADDEN

R. A. LEONARD, M.D., C.P.S.

Physician, Surgeon, etc.

Late House Surgeon of the Kingston General Hospital.

Office—North side of Dundas Street, between West and Robert Streets, Napanee. 5:1y

THE ROYAL HOTEL.

Dundas Street, Napanee.

H. HUNTER, Prop.

This commodious hotel is centrally situated having every convenience for the travelling and business public. Large yard and sheds for farmers.

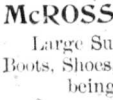
Good table, best of wines liquors, and cigars The comfort of guests is made a first consideration.

McROSSIE'S FOOTWEAR

Large Supplies of Latest Styles, Boots, Shoes, Overshoes and Rubbers, being opened daily at

McROSSIES old Stand.

Call and get prices. The lowest quoted on New Goods,



DENTISTS

C. D. WARTMAN, L.D.S.
C. H. WARTMAN, D.D.S.

Graduates of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduate of Toronto University.

OFFICE—LEONARD BLOCK,

☞ Visits made to Tamworth the first Monday in each month, remaining over Tuesday. Rooms at Wheeler's Hotel.

All other Mondays C. D. Wartman will be in Yarker.

Napanee office open every day.

WANTED RELIABLE MEN to sell our IMPROVED FARM SEEDS. Paying side line HIGHEST SALARY OR COMMISION PAID WEEKLY. Outfit free. Can be carried in the pocket. Experience not necessary. BIG PAY ASSURED WORKERS. Write at once and secure exclusive and choice of territory to 48 4m

FARMERS SEED CO.

(INCORPORATED.)

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

HERRINGTON & WARNER,

Barristers, etc.

MONEY TO LOAN AT LOW RATES

Office—Warner Block, East-st, Napanee. 5y

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in Packets, by Grocers, labelled thus: JAMES EPPS & CO., Ltd., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.

45 35—W.

JAS. AYLESWORTH,

General Business Agent.

POLICE MAGISTRATE for the Provincial Electoral District of Addington.

Conveyancer,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses,

Commissioner, etc., in H.C.J.

Clerk, 7th Division Court, of the County of Lennox & Addington

Grand Trunk Railway Ticket Agent

TAMWORTH.

NOTICE OF MEETING.

The County Council

of Lennox and Addington, will meet for the transaction of general business on Tuesday, Jan. 28th, 1896,

at 2 o'clock p.m.

Members of Council must bring with them the certificates and declarations required by Section 65, Con. Municipal Act.

All accounts must be in the hands of the undersigned not later than Tuesday 28th inst. in order that they may be considered.

W. G. WILSON,
County Clerk,

A Quiet Wedding.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. Wm. Brown, near Tamworth, on Wednesday, when his eldest daughter, Miss Libby, was united in wedlock to the Rev. R. L. Ballantyne, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Tamworth.

The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. Gandier, of Newburgh, in the presence of only a few of the intimate friends of both the contracting parties. In the evening the happy couple drove to the manse where they were accorded a reception by the members of the congregation, by whom they are held in high esteem. That excellent musical organisation, the Tamworth band, turned out inforce and serenaded the new unit. The bride and groom are deserved popular and esteemed, and THE EXPRESS joins with their many friends in extending congratulations.

He is Missed.

Tamworth has been in a state of excitement over the outcome of an alleged joke which resulted in the death of Frank Tyner, the adopted son of John Tyner, of Balahack, a small settlement a short distance from Tamworth. On Christmas night at a party held at the residence of John Tyner, a glass of whiskey containing a condition powder, intended for a horse, was given to Frank Tyner, by way of a joke. The young man was taken ill the same night, and grew gradually worse, until death overtook him on the 11th inst. The symptoms of the case were such that led the attendant physician, Dr Clark, to the conclusion that young Tyner had been poisoned. He communicated his suspicions to others, and as a result Coroner Carscallen decided to hold an inquest. A jury was empanelled on Saturday, but adjourned until Monday to allow of a post mortem examination of the remains. The stomach was empty, but the kidneys were found to be badly diseased. The jury sitting on the case brought in a verdict that deceased came to his death from inflammation of the stomach caused by a mixture administered at the hands of Jas Coughlin. Mr Williams, whose name was associated with the case was acquitted, as there was no evidence forthcoming to implicate him in the matter excepting common street talk. Young Coughlin is missing, and his whereabouts cannot be ascertained. D H Preston, of Napanee, appeared on behalf of Mr Williams at the inquest.

If You Have Them

from us they are all right.

Our line of Boy's Suits and Overcoats deserve your careful attention.

We are clearing all Winter Goods from $1.75 up.

D. J. Hogan,

& SON.

NAPANEE

right to vote as any man at the Board.

Reeve Symington, while objecting to the ruling, said he supposed he must submit to it.

Moved by Leonard and Miller that Mayor Carson, Reeve Symington, Deputy-reeve Madden, Couns Aylsworth and Leonard be a committee to strike the standing committees for the year. Lost.

Coun. Leonard called for the yeas and nays. Yeas—Alexander, Aylsworth, Leonard, Miller, Symington, Madole—6. Nays—Boyle, Carson, Lapum, Lowry, Perry, Madden—6.

Moved by Reeve Symington, seconded by Coun. Aylsworth, that the council adjourn until 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Reeve Symington in speaking to the motion said that the men who were blocking the business of the council must have some ulterior object in view. It was a shame that the business of the town should be allowed to suffer to gratify personal animus. These committees had always been struck at this meeting, and it was necessary that they should be in the interest of the town's affairs.

Coun. Aylsworth said in all his experience in municipal affairs he had never seen the council in such a miserable fix. This was not the manner in which things had been run heretofore. Older heads than any at this board had not managed things in times gone by in this way. This haggling and wire pulling was not business. It was child's play—it was worse than child's play. He was not a wire puller, and did not know what actuated some of the gentlemen to obstruct business as they were doing. It looked to him as if there was something behind the scenes — as if the whole thing had been prearranged. He hoped they would not get down to the low level of Kingston aldermen. Of course the men at the Board had a perfect right to their opinions, but they had no right to block the business of the town—to practically stop the whole machine. He was surprised at the course adopted, it had not been so when he sat at the council in former years. But perhaps they were older, wiser and smarter now.

It was moved in amendment by Couns. Lapum and Boyle that council adjourn till the next regular meeting night.

Coun. Lapum said there need be no hurry to appoint committees. The affairs of the town could be got along with until next regular meeting. The council would then know where they were at, and the protests against some of the members would probably be disposed off.

The amendment and the motion were both put and declared lost.

Coun. Aylsworth said they had better take up the next order of business and proceed to consider the communications But he was struck with the absurdity of this, "what will you do with them, Mr. Mayor, we have no committees to refer them to."

Reeve Symington moved that the council go on with the regular order of business.

Coun. Madole said he believed that all this obstruction was occasioned because he was at the Board, and was aimed at him. He was prepared to fight the protest that had been entered against him to the bitter end. He could assure the electors of Centre Ward, a number of whom were present, that he was there to look after their interests, and that no man who was not elected by their votes would sit in his place. He was elected by the votes of the taxpayers of Centre Ward by a good majority, and was not going to be cowed off the track by litigation. He would leave the council only when the majority of the votes of the electors were recorded against him. All this little petty annoyance was to satisfy some personal spite against him. He could assure the electors of Centre Ward that he would stand by to guard their interests even if the committees were not formed till the autumn of the year.

Coun. Lapum was in favor of adjourning until the next regular meeting night.

Coun. Leonard seconded Reeve Symington's motion to go on with the regular order of business. He submitted it was in the interests of the ratepayers to go on with the regular business and not to trifle with the affairs of the town as Coun. Lapum advocated.

The motion to go on with the regular business was carried. The yeas and nays being called for, 10 voted for and two against it, viz: Lapum and Madden.

A communication from the Kingston General Hospital was read giving a financial statement of that institution, showing that there was a deficiency in the funds for the year of $2,000, and solicited the council's help.

On motion Mayor Carson, Reeve Symington, Deputy-reeve Madden, Couns Lapum and Leonard were appointed a committee to get up an entertainment for the Kingston Hospital.

NEE EXPRESS.

T. CANADA—FRIDAY, JAN. 24, 1896. $1 per Year in advance; $1.50 if not so paid.

The clerk was instructed to renew the subscription to the Municipal World.

A communication from W. C. Scott of the Bell Telephone Co., re the renewal of the fire alarm contract, was laid on the table until a committee was appointed to attend to it.

A communication from J. Bennett, sec. of the Fire Co'y, was read stating that at the last meeting of the Excelsior Fire Brigade it was the unanimous voice of the brigade that Mr. Henry Savage be re-appointed chief of the brigade, and Mr. L. Shannon assistant chief for the year 1896.

The report of the special committee appointed to report on the account of Morden, Ruttan & Morphy, recommended the payment of $62 in full of account. Adopted.

Coun Miller asked for a report of the special committee re the proposed canning factory.

Coun Leonard, as one of the committee, said that Mr. Miller had changed his proposition re a free building site, to free water privilege, and the company would locate and furnish the land themselves.

On motion the matter was left in abeyance until the council received a definite proposition from the Canning Co.

Coun Alexander presented the report of the Poor and Sanitary committee, showing an expenditure of $27.45 since last report. It was read and adopted.

Coun Leonard introduced a by-law for the appointment of a High school trustee. The blank was filled in with the name of J. P. Hanley, and the by-law was read a first, second and third time, numbered, signed, sealed and finally passed.

Coun Lapum nominated Dr. Meng for the position, so on the motion to adopt the report he called for the yeas and nays.

YEAS—Carson, Symington, Alexander, Boyle, Madole, Leonard, Aylsworth, Miller, Lowry,—9.

NAYS—Perry, Lapum, Madden—3.

Coun Miller introduced a by-law for the appointment of a Sanitary Inspector. E. B. Perry was appointed to the position at a salary of $50, according to the statutory requirements.

Reeve Symington introduced a by-law for the appointment of a chief fire engineer and an assistant.

The by-law received its first reading and on a motion to fill in the blank for Chief Engineer with name of Henry Savage a discussion arose.

Coun. Lapum objected to Henry Savage. The people had some difference with the Chief Engineer and wanted a change. He moved in amendment that the blank be filled in with the name of Richard Dinner.

Coun. Aylsworth had no objection to laying the matter over if any differences existed in the Fire Brigade, so that it could be enquired into.

On motion J. Bennett, secretary of the brigade was heard in reference to the matter.

Mr. Bennett said there had not been one word of disagreement in the Brigade since the inauguration of the new company. Everything worked harmoniously, and it was the unanimous wish of the Fire Brigade that Messrs Savage and Shannon be re-appointed. Where Mr. Lapum got his information re the alleged difference in the Fire Brigade, he didn't know, unless there was a Judas in the company.

Coun. Leonard said they had received an official communication from the Fire Brigade recommending those two men and asking that they be re-appointed. He didn't see how the council could interfere in the matter without getting themselves in a mess, and in bad odor with the brigade.

Mayor Carson favored waiting until they could secure further information.

Coun. Aylsworth didn't see how postponing the appointment would make things any better. They had heard from the Fire Brigade and it was their wish that these men be appointed. Where were they going to get further information — from street talk.

Mr. Madden wanted to know if the Fire Company was up to the full standard as required by the Fire Underwriters Association?

Mr. Bennett said the Co'y now numbered eighteen, two of the members, Messrs. Sproule and Oliver having resigned at the

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY

HAY BAY.

Snow is very much needed here. We all hope to receive it soon.

Quite a crowd from here attended the tea meeting at Gretna. They all report a good time.

The Brown family, who were all down with diphtheria, are all on the mend and will soon be able to be out again.

One of Deseronto's very popular young men gave an excellent party on Monday evening last. All the invited persons from here attended. They all report a good time although daylight caught them before they reached home.

Mr. Johnston Wagar, of Sillsville, was through our midst renewing old acquaintances on Tuesday last.

Mr. Perry Brown has secured a situation with John Rennie, and has gone to the high shore to haul timber.

Miss Daisy McCabe, of Napanee, is spending a week with her cousin, Miss Mabel McCabe, at this place.

WILTON.

Ezra Clark is sufferiug from rheumatism.

Miss Edith Lake, Murvale, has been visiting Miss Rose Shibley.

Quarterly meeting was held in the Free Methodist church last Sunday.

Mordy Storms started attending High School, Sydenham, last Monday.

The Sunday school convention for the Ernestown district, held in the Methodist church last Monday afternoon and evening, was very successful. Delegates from most of the Sunday schools in the district were present. Dr. Meacham, president, occupied the chair. Others who assisted with the programme were: Mrs. Dr. Meacham, Odessa; Miss Deborah Hawley, Bath; A. Bell, Mo rven; S. D. Clark, Odessa; Wm. Ovens, Wilton; Revs. Tucker, Bath; Seccombe, Odessa; Fleming, Harrowsmith; and Coombe, of Wilton. Besides music furnished by the choir, H. Smith and sister, Westbrooke, gave a couple of songs. The officers elected were: President, Dr. Meacham, Odessa; Sec., L. L. Gallagher, Wilton; Treas., Miss Deborah Hawley, Bath.

PINE GROVE.

Mr. Wm. Edgar, east end trustee,—what is wrong down your way? There are very few scholars coming to school. The roads are good, weather mild and a good teacher. Perhaps they want the school house moved down. Please find out and report to the Board.

Mr. Geo. Richardson and wife were visiting at Mrs. Fields' and Mr. Geo. Hambly's last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowry spent a very pleasant evening at Mr. R. Johnson's Monday evening.

Mr. George and Misses Ida and Edith Johnson called on Mr. Geo. Hambly.

Miss Dunwoodie made a few short calls on Friday afternoon. Call again Mary.

Mr. Charlie Lowry and Mr. Geo. Johnson are drawing logs for Mr. Platt.

I saw a girl knitting mitts the other evening. Look out for colder weather.

Miss Stella Wagar is improving very fast.

Mr. Alex Cummings and Mr. Kennedy were visiting at Mr. R. Johnson's.

SALEM.

Well, Mr. Editor, we have a little more snow. Every little helps and we are anxiously waiting for more, as there is not good sleighing yet.

We are sorry to chronicle the illness of Mrs. (Rev.) Arthur Jarvis. We hope for her speedy recovery.

Mrs. Chas. Chapman is again ill. She has faint spells and owing to her extreme old age her recovery is doubtful.

Harry Morgan, late of the Gibbard Furniture Co., has resigned his situation.

Cassie Sedore is spending this week at West Plain visiting friends.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Baker passed through here on Tuesday and was well attended.

Misses Shannon, of Napanee Mills, were

It is reported that James McCullough's family are down with diptheria.

Mr. Wilson of Camden, passed through here on Wednesday.

Mrs. Wm. Hayes is visiting her brother in Arden, Kinnebec.

Thos. Doyle spent Sunday in Reed. What attraction back there?

It has been said that a Union Stock Factory is to be erected on the boundary near Henry Abbott's

Miss Jennie Sexsmith and Fred Weese were married on the 15th inst.

YARKER.

The saddest death which has occurred in some time startled our village in the person of Mrs. Max Vanluven, who died on the 16th inst. Much sympathy is expressed towards the family.

The missionary sermons on the Yarker Circuit have been postponed until Sunday next, January 26th. The Rev. W. B Seccombe, of Odessa, will be the preacher.

The Rev. A. C. Crews, Toronto, Gen-Secy. of S. Schools and Epworth Leagues of the Methodist church will deliver a lecture in the Methodist church, Yarker, on Friday evening, January 31st inst The subject will be "The great League Convention of Chateauaga.

MILL HAVEN.

Boys get out yoor cutters, the sleighing is good now.

A number of our young people enjoyed an oyster supper at the residence of Mr. F. Snyder on Monday evening last.

Miss G. Stover of Deseronto is visiting her uncle Mr. C. Nicholson.

Rev. G. W Whyte will deliver one of his popular lectures in the church at Beulah to-night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruport, of Rawdon, are spending their honeymoon in our midst.

We hear some talk of a leap-year party. Don't let it be all talk girls.

Remember church on Thursday evening.

Martha and Willie have left for a long visit to his sister at McIntyre's Corners.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, of Wilton, and Mr. and Mrs. Rose were visiting at F. Snyder's.

As Miss Patterson cannot take her school on account of her mother's illness, Miss Asselstine, of Moscow, has taken her place for a time.

Miss G. Moxley, of Kingston, is the guest of Miss Ethel Fleming this week.

We are glad to be able to again announce a wedding—Mr. Charlie Collins, one of our most popular young men, to Miss Helen Demorest, of Empey Hill. The happy couple will drive to the residence of Mrs. Collins for tea, after which they will go to their own home.

CONWAY.

Roads have been very bad for the past few days as there has been too much snow for wheeling and not enough for sleighing.

Mr. J. T. Hill who spent a few days at his parents after his return from England has returned to his former position in Napanee.

Mr. D. Brooks, shoemaker, reports things booming since the snow has fallen. He intends taking an apprentice soon.

The bay has frozen over and the people of Prince Ed. Co. have bushed a road across.

Don't forget the concert that is to be held in the Town Hall, Sillsville on Jan. 29th. This concert is got up by the Presbyterian Church, Sandhurst. This promises to be one of the greatest entertainments ever held in the town hall. The celebrated Mr. George Fax accompanied by a number of Belleville's best talent will occupy the platform. If you wish to hear one of Ontario's greatest elocutionists you will do well to secure your seats early. Everything possible will be done for the accommodation of the people. Come

"National vs Separate Schools."

Anything in the nature of a free entertainment always brings out a large crowd, and a few hundred hand bills announcing a free public lecture in the town hall, scattered promiscously about, was sufficient to fill the hall to overflowing on Tuesday evening. The chair was taken by Mr. Chas. Stevens, who in a few brief remarks introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Alex. Karr, of Toronto. Mr. Karr is a racy entertaining speaker, and fully conversant with his subject. His remarks were listened to with evident interest and frequent applause. Mr. Karr interspersed his lecture with some very funny stories which put the audience in right good humor.

Death of Mrs. Nelson Baker.

There passed away at her home in Napanee on Sunday, Alicia Hosey, relict of the late Nelson Baker. Deceased was a highly respected resident, and a consistent christian. The funeral took place from the residence of Mrs Jas. E. Bartels, on Tuesday afternoon to the Eastern Cemetery, where the remains were deposited in the vault. Deceased was about 75 years of age and a life long resident. She had been ailing since last May. She leaves six children, five sons, Charles, of Napanee, George, Alex. and Guy, of Ottawa, and James, of the States, and one daughter, Mrs. Clark, of New York. They were all in attendance at the mother's funeral with the exception of James.

True Love's Rugged Way.

Simeon Palmateer, lime burner of Belleville, a gentleman who had the misfortune to lose both feet and is forced to travel around on stumps, loved and married Edith May Stopley, a young damsel of 14 years. He swore to the man who issued the marriage license that Edith was 18 years of age. The girl's father had Simeon arrested for abduction and perjury. In the police court docket at Belleville, Simeon sat with his arm around his wife, the expression on both faces plainly showing they had no sympathy with the cruel law that perhaps might separate them from each other. He was acquitted on the charge of perjury, but was fined $15 or six months in gaol for abduction.

Maple Leafs vs Scarlets.

A decidedly interesting game of hockey took place at Diamond's skating rink on Friday afternoon last, between teams chosen from the East and West Wards of the town. The East enders termed themselves the Maple Leafs, and they didn't allow the name of Canada's national emblem which they had adopted to suffer by defeat. The West enders called themselves the Scarlets, the name under which our foot ball club distinguished itself last year. The game started about 4 o'clock. The teams lined up as follows:

Maple Leafs.	Positions.	Scarlets.
McNeil,	goal	Leamy
Roblin,	point	Wagar
Meagher,	cover point	Preston
Lafferty,	centre	Haines
Ball,	rover	Trimble
Ham, Normile,	wings	Carson, Nixon
Macdonald,	Umpires	Maybee

Referee, E. Vanalstine

From the start it was apparent that the Scarlets were out matched On the whole the teams played very good hockey, although at times considerable shinning was indulged in. The game was distinguished by the absence of rough play, and from the two clubs a first-class hockey team could be selected. The Maple Leafs won by a score of 3 goals to 0. Mr Vanalstine made an impartial referee and his decisions gave general satisfaction.

Missionary Work.

Selby auxiliary of W. M. S. is still alive in the interests of the missionary cause. When we look back over the past three years and see the advancement our auxiliary has made, we feel able to sing, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow" for surely our meetings are a source of blessing within themselves. Many thanks do we owe to the early members of this auxiliary who by their persistent efforts, assisted by Divine grace, have wrought such life and Sproule and Oliver having resigned at the last meeting, and the Brigade was waiting till the committee from the council met and appointed two men in their places.

Coun. Madole thought if the Fire Company recommended these men there was nothing left for the council to do but appoint them.

On motion the committee rose to report progress and asked leave to sit again.

Coun. Leonard introduced a by-law for the appointment of an assessor.

Messrs. Geo. A Cliff and J. C. Huffman were nominated.

Coun. Lapum thought this matter ought to be deferred. There was no hurry. He was not in favor of rushing things. The council should have time to consider them.

Coun. Aylsworth felt sorry that Coun. Lapum was so nervous. He was so afraid the council was rushing things. At the morning session Coun. Lapum was only exercised by a desire to get through the business in a hurry. With all due consideration for his nervousness, be believed the council should go on and make the appointments.

Deputy-Reeve Madden thought Coun Lapum was in the right in asking that these appointments be left over until the next regular meeting. The seats of two of the members at the Board were under protest. Perhaps it would be shown that these members had no right to vote and the appointments would not be legal.

Coun. Madole rose to a point of order, and claimed the protection of the council while he sat at the Board

Coun. Leonard, who was in the chair, while he was inclined to think the Deputy-reeve was within his right in giving the reasons why he opposed the appointments, he thought Mr. Madden's remarks were not in good taste.

Deputy-reeve Madden continued to reiterate his statements about the legality of the votes of the members whose seats were under protest.

Coun. Madole called on Deputy-reeve Madden to give his authority or retract his words.

Mr. Madden said he had no authority but simply made the statement for what it was worth.

Coun. Alexander—It isn't worth much.

Coun Madole said he was legally elected by the votes of the electors. He was assessed for the requisite amount of property. He had taken the declaration of office and had been installed by the clerk. He was doing business in his own name, not behind the petticoats of any woman.

The by-law was then taken up and J. C Huffman appointed assessor at a salary of $100 in full of all claims.

Coun Miller introduced a by-law to appoint a town solicitor. The names of S. C. Warner and W. G. Wilson were proposed.

S. C. Warner was appointed to the position at a salary of $50 per annum.

Coun Lapum called for the yeas and nays.

YEAS—Symington, Alexander, Boyle, Madole, Leonard, Aylsworth, Miller—7.

NAYS—Lapum, Perry, Madden, Carson—4.

Coun Lowry didn't desire to vote and was excused.

The following were appointed members of the Board of Health by by-law: Robert Boyce for 3 years; Dr. Edwards for 2 years; Geo. A. Cliff for 1 year. These with the Mayor and Clerk constitute the Board.

On motion Coun Alexander in conjunction with Couns Lowry and Boyle were appointed to look after the business of the Poor and Sanitary committee until some new arrangement is made.

Coun Leonard moved, seconded by Coun Boyle, that the request of the Horticultural Society to hold their meetings in the council chamber be granted. Carried.

Accounts:—Jas. Meagher, 15 loads of stone, $6.70; T. H. Waller, tile for drain.

Adjourned.

To Let.

In Salem, a comfortable house.

8b WILDER JOY.

Hay Bay Methodist Church.

The congregation of the new brick church, Hay bay, intend having a tea meeting on Tuesday night, Jan. 28th. The arrangements are in the hands of an efficient committee. There will be first-class speakers, readings, good music by the choir. Tea and coffee served from 7 to 8. Admission 25 cents.

Missionary Day.

Sunday next is missionary day in the Eastern and Western Methodist churches in Napanee. Rev. Drs. Carman and Eby will preach in the two churches as follows: Dr. Carman in the Eastern in the morning and in the Western in the evening. Dr. Eby in the Western in the morning and in the Eastern in the evening. Collections

Misses Ellanton, of Ragglee Mills, were in our midst on Saturday afternoon last.

John Conger, of the Brisco House, spent Sunday the guest of his daughter, Mrs David Frisken.

Mrs. Charles Lowry, of Clarksville, was in our midst on Tuesday.

Mrs. Sydney Dryden, of South Napanee, was a guest at her mother's, Mrs. P. M. McCabe, on Tuesday afternoon.

If I am not wrongly informed there was a large party at Jas. Birrell's on Friday night. Dancing was engaged in until the wee small hours and all evidently enjoyed themselves.

Rumor has it that our much talked of wedding has blown over for a while. I wonder what is the matter?

Some envious people have been putting out poison, and in consequence two of our neighbors have each lost a cat. I hope they will be found out.

One young man is heard singing "Darling I am growing old." Next will be the fatal wedding.

NAPANEE MILLS.

Though the sleighing is very poor the farmers and those who have teaming to do are making the best of it, and endeavoring to get their work done while it lasts.

Anna Dunn, daughter of P. Duun, of this village, died Friday, January 10th, of consumption. About two years ago Mr. Dunn lost his oldest daughter with the same disease. They have the sympathy of all in their affliction and trouble.

The entertainment in connection with the Church of England Sabbath School took place Tuesday evening in the Orange Hall, and was a great success. The hall was literally packed. The programme was good and the children rendered their parts well. The dialogue, "A cure for obstinacy" was well rendered, Miss Dunlap, Mr. Hopper and Mr. Roy Lott being the principal actors. Miss McGuire and Mr. Crabtree gave a duet which was much admired. The Choral Society rendered a chorus, which Bert. declared, "brought down the house." The only drawback to the enjoyment of the evening was the non-appearance of the presehts for the children which had been ordered but had not arrived.

Mr. Arthur Connelly, late of Manitoba, whose home is at Cataraqui, is visiting Mrs Miller at West Grove Hall,

Mr. Fred Robinson has returned home after visiting friends in Belleville and Madoc.

Mr. Patrick Madigan is seriously ill.

Neil McNeil, Esq., died at his residence, 4th con. Camden East, January 15th, 1896, aged 84 years, after a few weeks illness. He was widely known and highly respected. It has been truly said that "an honest man is the noblest work of God." Truly he was an honest man in every sense of the word. He lived a good citizen, a thorough, earnest christian; surely the world is better for his having lived in it. He had many sorrows in this life. He saw four of his children laid in the grave, three sons, young men, and a daughter, a young woman. All these terrible afflictions he endured with christian patience and fortitude. His wife, two sons and two daughters, survive him. The funeral took place on Friday, 17th, at the R. C. Church, Centreville, and was attended by a large concourse of friends.

KINGSFORD.

One of the oldest residents of this neighborhood, Mr. James Medcalfe, died Friday morning. Deceased was 81 years of age, and had been ailing for some time, but died suddenly. He leaves a widow, three sons and five daughters to mourn his loss. He was a staunch member of the Church of England.

Misses Sexsmith and Murphy of Lonsdale, spent Tuesday of last week the guests of Mrs. Daniel O'Hara.

Mr. G. W. Valleau was in town on Saturday.

The members of the church presented the incumbent, Rev. Robt. Atkinson, on Tuesday with a quantity of grain.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCullough still continue very low.

Miss Ellen Byrnes of Deseronto, was the guest of her aunt Mrs. Peter Doyle.

Walter Perry school teacher of No. 5 conducted church at Bethel on Sunday.

The community was shocked on Tuesday afternoon to learn of the sudden death of Mr. Archibald McNeil, a former resident of here. But for the last few years has lived in Camden. The funeral was largely attended by friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. James Doyle left on Saturday to spend a week with her cousin at Ernestown Station.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather some one was not in our midst on Sunday. Can any person tell what happened.

one accommodation of the people. Come everyone and enjoy a good laugh. Tickets only 25c.

Mr. W. Wright is busily engaged breaking colts. He handles nothing but thoroughbred horses. Will says they seem to prefer the ditch to the road.

Miss Amelia Bongard, of Watertown, was the guest of her sister Miss Nellie Bongard.

There are a number of fast horses in this village and also surrounding neighborhoods. Would it not be well to form a trotting ring now as the ice is in good shape, and settle all disputes.

Mr. Hugh Hill has secured his position as horse trainer. He has a number of fine colts on hand which he is training and getting ready for the English market. Any one having unmanageable colts would do well to give him a trial. Horses well cared for. Prices as low as the lowest.

A pretty wedding took place at the residence of Mr. M. Loyst, Hay Bay, on Wednesday, when his daughter, Miss Getta, was joined in Hymen's holy bonds to George Ostram, of Rednersville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. S. Forneri, of Adolphustown. We extend congratulations.

We have received a communication criticising the sermon on dancing preached by the Rev D. O Crossley in the Western church on Sunday evening last. It gives the other sides of the question, and demonstrates that "there are others" who do not believe like Mr. Crossley, that dancing is either wrong or sinful. As the article was not signed with the name of the writer, we were obliged to withhold it. It is a cast iron rule that all articles intended for publication must be accompanied with the name of the writer, not for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Divine grace, have wrought such life and activity in our midst, for women once careless and indifferent have caught up the missionary spirit and their deepest sympathies as well as their contributions are extended to the relief of the suffering.

Last year we sent $95 to branch treasurer, being $8 more than the amount sent the year previous.

Upon the Sunday set apart by General Conference to W. M. S., Mrs. Platt, of Picton, addressed the congregation. She dwelt upon the aim and object of our Society and the various means devised by energetic women to help on the missionary work. She proved herself an efficient speaker and all who listened to her were not only pleased but largely benefitted.

At our October meeting the election of officers took place. Our former officers were re-installed as it was thought prudent not to dispense with officers so aptly fitted to their places. They are as follows: President, Mrs. H. Wilson; Vice President, Mrs. J. McKim; Fin. Sec., Mrs. T. V. Sexsmith; Treas., Mrs. Wm. Hassard; Rec. Sec., Mrs. Wm. Valleau; Leaf Dis., Mrs. Wm. Robinson.

In December a box of clothing was sent to be distributed with discrimination among the deserving poor in Muskoka. We are now getting in readiness a box of clothing to be disposed of at some future date. Blocks for two quilts have already been handed in. The donors being Mrs. J McKim and Young Peoples' Association (now extinct.) One member of our auxiliary contributed a scripture text bedspread as a suitable donation to some institute. The French Institute, Montreal the recipient of this gift. May the inscriptions upon it be stamped permanently upon the hearts and minds of all who read them and be instrumental in guiding them in the way of Light and Truth.

At our last meeting each member present consecrated herself anew to work in the Mater's service, to obey His mandates, and to assist in establishing His Kingdom on earth as it is established in Heaven.

J. S. D.

A YOUNG LADY'S SUCCESS.

Miss McBrine's Experience Given for the Benefit of All Weak and Nervous Men and Women.

She Specially Recommends Paine's Celery Compound.

Miss Minnie McBrine, of Bethany, Ont., positively declares that Paine's Celery Compound is worth its weight in gold for sick people. This statement, coming from one who was raised up to health and vigor, commands the closest attention. Past failures with worthless medicines and perfect success with Paine's Celery Compound, is a strong and clear demonstration that the popular compound can be trusted in every case.

Read the following letter written by Miss McBrine, and then honestly decide whether Paine's Celery Compound is worthy of a trial as far as your case is concerned:

"It is with the greatest pleasure that I add my testimony to the volumes you have already on fyle in favor of Paine's Celery Compound. After suffering for a length of time, and having met with many disappointments in the use of medicines in general, I commenced to use Paine's Celery Compound which proved a complete success in my case. Your medicine cured me completely, and I feel as well as ever before in my life.

"Paine's Celery Compound is worth its weight in gold for sick people; I would specially recommend it to all weak and nervous people."

The Dominion Bank

ESTABLISHED 1871.

CAPITAL — $1,500,000.00
RESERVE FUND — $1,450,000.00

Deposits received and interest allowed. Drafts on all parts of Great Britain and United States bought and sold.

E. H. BAINES, Agent.

J. L. BOYES

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY Ticket Agent

DUNDAS STREET,

NAPANEE, - ONT.

Consumption.

Valuable treatise and two bottles of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. T. A. SLOCUM CHEMICAL CO., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

FOR

CHRISTMAS and NEW YEARS HOLIDAYS

Will Make Special Rates For All

Single First Class Fare

going Dec. 24th and 25th, Returning Dec 26, 1895
Going Dec. 31st and Jan 1 Returning Jan. 2, 1896

Single First Class Fare and One-Third

Going Dec. 21st to 25th, Going Dec. 28th to Jan. 1st / Returning until Jan. 7th, 1896

Special Rates for Students and Teachers.

Single First Class fare and One-Third

Going Dec. 13 to 24, Returning until Jan 13th '96.

Special Rates for Commercial Travellers.

Single First Class fare

Going Dec. 20 to 25, Returning until Jan. 7th '96.

E. McLAUGHLIN,
Agent at Napanee.

1y

C. H. FINKLE.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER, Newburgh, Ont. Orders left with Ewart and Vanluven, Yarker, will have prompt attention. Telephone communication.

WANTED SALESMEN We want one or two GOOD MEN In each County to take orders for a choice line of NURSERY STOCK or SEED POTATOES Stock and Seed guaranteed. We can give you STEADY EMPLOYMENT with Good Pay. It will cost you nothing to give it a trial. State when

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, JAN. 24, 1896.

THINK of the men whom their leader characterized as "a nest of traitors" prating about their loyalty.

WITH an incompetent pilot and a mutinous crew the leaky old ship of state is drifting on the rocks.

IT seems that the Tories intend to use the "loyalty" cry at the next general election. Loyalty is the last resort of a scoundrel.

THE "old flag," the "old brag" and the "old gag" with a few million dollars appropriated towards arming the militia will probably be the policy of the "High Priest of corruption," Sir Chas. Tupper, who is expected to lead the demoralized "old gang" to victory, or the cemetery.

"OF the system which Mr. Blake deplores Sir Charles Tupper has notoriously been the chief agent; all that is worst in it and has tended most to debase the national character is familiarly connected with his name, which may be said to be a household word of corruption."—Toronto Mail of March 9th, 1891.

ON the death of Sir John Macdonald Sir Charles Tupper was mentioned for the premiership, but the idea was not entertained by the party. This is what the Mail said of him at that period, March 9th, 1891: "His word unhappily is that of a man whose veracity is much impugned and who does not scruple to use stolen letters. It is too evident what sort of scene would be opened by his accession to power. He is the prince of political cracksmen, no doubt, but we cannot afford to purchase ability even of so rare a kind at such a price as that of continued and increased demoralization."

MR. Kenny, from down by the sea, opened his mouth in the House of Commons on Friday and put his foot in it. He attacked Mr. Laurier in language that was not only unparliamentary but ungentlemanly. He was called to order by the speaker, and after he had been raked over the coals by the members of the Opposition and a few Conservatives as well, he became so uncomfortable that he arose to explain that he didn't say what they thought he had said, or that he didn't mean to say what he had said. Finding this wouldn't do he retracted what he did say and sat down a much discomfited man.

SIR Charles H. Tupper's share in the debate in the House of Commons on Friday was confined to maligning the character of Sir Richard Cartwright's grandfather. The old gentleman is dead. His chief crime in the eyes of young Tupper seemed to be that he was one of a score of men who were ordered to be placed without the American lines, during the Revolutionary war, as "neutral" and "equivocal" persons who might conspire against American liberty in favor of the British crown. Sir Richard's grandfather was 18 years of age at the time mentioned and serving at the risk of his life in Butler's corps. What possible bearing Sir Richard's grandfather had on the fact that the Hon. A. W. McLennan, who afterwards occupied a place in the same cabinet as Sir Chas. Tupper, had said that the elder Tupper was the "High Priest of boodling and corruption," is hard to see.

THE wisdom of Mr. Laurier's policy on the Manitoba school question is becoming recognized by his opponents. Mr. McNeil, the member for North Bruce, and a Tory of the Tories, said in the House of Commons on Friday: General should break through this cruel prohibition and give him the forbidden information. If you are an honest man, woman or school boy, Mr. "Another Overseer," produce your authority for your assertion. "Mr. Sills like every other Overseer is strictly prohibited by the Fishery Department from furnishing the press or other enquirers with the very class of information they have been, apparently so anxious to get published." No more dodging, no more equivocating, no more hysterics or crocodile's tears, but get right down to business and either furnish us with the names of the persons Mr. Sills got this money from or the authority for not making it public. The EXPRESS challenges you to make good your statement, and you need not try to sneak out of it by producing an authority which approves of Mr. Sills declining to furnish the names of the people who inform on the law breakers. Now don't have another fit, but sit right down first and cool off, then give us your authority. If you wish to lecture the EXPRESS a little at the same time and give Mr. Sills another coat of white-wash why all right. We don't mind that. We're not hysterical. Give us your authority. Anyone who can bring such influence to bear upon the Auditor General as to induce him to break through a cast iron rule should have no difficulty in getting it.

In the meantime Mr. Sills will you give us the names of the persons from whom your collected license fees? Out with it like a man and tell us how much you collected from each. Surely you won't be foolish enough to say that you are strictly forbidden from furnishing such information. If you are forbidden why we'll forgive you if you only furnish the authority containing such a silly prohibition.

We would like also to have our own Uriah Wilson to look into the matter at Ottawa. Surely he can get us those names. Just try and if you are prohibited too, kindly give us your authority for saying so, as we have a poor foolish fellow up here who signs himself "Another Overseer," and who in a moment of weakness when his keeper was away ventured the assertion that your so-called Government down there prohibits the publication of the names of the individuals obtaining fishery licenses.

BRITAIN'S STRENGTH FROM AN AMERICAN VIEWPOINT.

In an article on the Venezuelan question in the Brooklyn Eagle, Clarence Herbert New, a well-known New York newspaper man, says:

A well planned, nervy bluff, when the other players are profoundly ignorant of the real strength of one's hand, may be sometimes a very valuable piece of diplomacy, but a bluff on weak cards, when the the bluffer sits with his back to a mirror which tells the whole story, is arrant stupidity and childishness. President Cleveland, in his official capacity as supreme head of the American nation, has declared to the British Government, through his recent message to Congress, that unless England abides by the decisions of a partisan commission, selected by him, including no English representation whatever and strongly swayed by Venezuelan coloring, the United States Government will compel it to do so, by force of arms if necessary, this upon a question which solely concerns England and Venezuela, and in which the United States has neither national nor monetary interest. In the event that England ignores this manifesto and calmly proceeds with her own affairs there is but one way in which the President could possibly make good his threat—by transporting an army of volunteers to Venezuela and forcing the British troops out of the disputed territory. There are three ways in which such an army could be transported in the event that it is possible to secure volunteers for such service.

One by despatching sections from the Atlantic and gulf ports in United States war vessels to the scene of hostilities (coast steamships in the merchant service would have to be bought outright from their companies before they could be used for such transportation, and it is doubtful if

One of the wrong things in this world is that a woman has to wait for a man to speak. Her happiness may depend upon him, but she is not permitted to tell him so, as he would be to tell her. She must depend upon her ability to create and foster in him a favorable and ardent feeling. To do this, she must depend much upon her appearance. No man admires a sallow skin, dull and sunken and circled eyes, bloodless lips, sunken cheeks. No man wants to marry an invalid. Very few invalds are attractive to either sex. It isn't natural that they should be. Many a woman's heart's happiness has been wrecked because of a crop of pimples or because of a foul breath, or because of some other unpleasant symptom of an irregularity in the performance of her natural functions.

Health in a woman brings clear complexion, red lips, vivacity, sparkle of eyes and intellect. Eternal watchfulness is the price of health. The downward road to disease is fatally easy to travel. Little disorders, little irregularities, little drains, lead to the most serious consequences. Put a stop to them! Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do it without the embarrassment of examinations and "local treatment" so much dreaded by modest women. In nine cases in ten, there is absolutely no need of them. The "Favorite Prescription" has been prescribed by Dr. Pierce for over 30 years and has cured the very worst forms of female troubles.

A book of 1000 pages, profusely illustrated, written by him containing much valuable information and letters from hundreds of grateful women, will be sent absolutely free on receipt of thirty-one cents, in one-penny stamps, to prepay postage and duty only, by WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

goes, and tends to hold the country together. There are other citizens, who pour into our sea ports at the rate of 250,000 a year from every other nation on earth, who incorporate into their naturalization papers a mental reservation concerning their old world nations, and consider such naturalization privileges as primarily a cat's paw to serve their own end. There is an army of unemployed desperate from the struggle for existence, which eagerly welcome any change in the existing order of things—even a prolonged and terrible war—in the hope that it may win all by some daring stroke or lose every thing and so wind up the struggle. There are vast numbers of unscrupulous politicians who play with the diplomatic relations between friendly and estranged countries as powerful opponents play chess to further their own ends, to curry popularity, to dazzle unthinking voters into giving them power without counting the cost. These classes are always the first to be moved by a popular sentiment—to lose their heads in an ecstacy of excitement. But they do not represent the vast body of sober thinking citizens who constitute the backbone and conservative strength of the country. This vast and usually silent legion of citizens have been doing a heap of thinking since President Cleveland evolved himself from that unknown land in which he lost himself and dazzled the world with his borrowed patriotic fireworks.

And they are now saying through the columns of the daily press, in muttering which grows more ominous day by day, that to insult a friendly nation which buys more than one half of our total exports, which holds millions of American securities, which, by withdrawing its steamship lines to this country and using them against us, could blockade every port we have, and all this in times of more bitter financial stringency than we have known since the civil war, is a mistake which the American people should repudiate without delay. A war with England means bankruptcy for the United States in both money and human life. Shall we undertake it for no better reason than a boundary dispute between two other countries, which is no more an affair of ours than was the Corinto affair last summer—or the present dispute between France and Brazil? And if we do, where is the matter to end? War with England does not mean merely a defence of our own country. We are ready and willing to defend our homes when attacked, and could do so successfully. But the head of our nation has declared that he will force

THE HAWKS NURSERY CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

ONE THING IS CERTAIN
PAIN-KILLER
KILLS PAIN

PAIN-KILLER

THE GREAT
Family Medicine of the Age.
Taken Internally, It Cures
Diarrhœa, Cramp, and Pain In the Stomach, Sore Throat, Sudden Colds, Coughs, etc., etc.
Used Externally, It Cures
Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Sprains, Toothache, Pain In the Face, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Frosted Feet.

No article ever attained to such unbounded popularity.—Salem Observer.
We can bear testimony to the efficacy of the Pain-Killer. We have seen its magic effects in soothing the severest pain, and know it to be a good article.—Cincinnati Dispatch.
Nothing has yet surpassed the Pain-Killer, which is the most valuable family medicine now in use.—Tennessee Organ.
It has real merit; as a means of removing pain, no medicine has acquired a reputation equal to Perry Davis' Pain-Killer.—National Spirit.
Beware of imitations. Buy only the genuine "PERRY DAVIS." Sold everywhere; 25c bottles, 50c.

UNDERTAKING!

Having added a full line of Undertaker's Goods, consisting of Caskets, Coffins, Robes, etc.

to my stock of Furniture, I am prepared to supply and attend funerals on the shortest notice, and in the most modern style. Having had twenty years experience in the business, perfect satisfaction may be relied on.

Embalming a Specialty.

JAS WILSON,
DUNDAS STREET.

N.B.—Residence next door west (opposite Dr. Leonard's). Open at all hours.

FARMERS ATTENTION.

Insure your property in the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Company.
Because it is a Home Company.
Because it is a Safe Company.
Because it is the cheapest and best.
Because it affords the most liberal policies to patrons.
Because it insures only (isolated) non-hazardous risks, as farm property, county churches hall and school houses.
Because it is the Farmer's Company managed by Farmers in the interest of farmers of the Counties of Lennox and Addington, Hastings Frontenac, Lena k and Leeds
Officers—J. B. Ayl-worth President; B. C. Lloyd, Vice-President. Directors—A. C. Parks, U. C. Sills, W. R. Gordanier, I. F. Aylesworth. Honarary Directors—Jas. Ried M.P.P., A. V. Price, Camden. C. R. Allison, Wm. Chesters, Fredericksburgh. D. W. Allison ex-M.P. Adolphustown; F. B. Guess, Col. Geo. Hunter Kingston; Allan Pringle, Ira B. Hudgins, Richmond. The board meets at the Secretaria's office in the first Saturday of every month at one p.m.

J. N. McKim, Napanee.
W. W. Lapum, Wilton } Agents
M. Burns, Gananoque,
M. C. BOGART, Sec'y.-Treas.

CEDAR.

What do you want? I will tell you.

GOOD FENCES

made of sound Yellow Cedar. The subscriber has a quantity of CEDAR POSTS, STAKES, BINDERS and BUILDING TIMBER, of any length and size, which he will dispose of at more reasonable rates than can be obtained elsewhere.

DENIS DALY.
NAPANEE.

SALESMEN WANTED.

Pushing, trustworthy men to represent us in the sale of our Choice Nursery Stock. Specialties controlled by us. Highest Salary or Commission paid weekly. Steady employment the year round. Outfit free; exclusive territory; experience not necessary; big pay assured workers; special inducements to beginners. Write at once for particulars to has at last found the right policy. The right policy is the statesmanlike policy of conciliation, and not the un-British policy of coercion and compulsion, as I fear we must describe the policy which has been announced from these benches to this House. The Government of Manitoba has invited investigation, and have opened wide the doors to a friendly settlement of the question. If this Government try to force upon that Province legislation which they disapprove of, it will land us in difficulties, the end of which no man can tell." Mr. Wilson, our own member, we are informed, admitted in the town hall here last Saturday, that Laurier's policy on the school question was the right one. The Hamilton Spectator, one of the most partisan Tory papers in Ontario, advises the Conservative party to adopt Mr. Laurier's policy on the school question. It thinks the purlioning of the Liberal leader's policy by his opponents would be rather a clever move. The Toronto World has come out flat footed against the remedial order. The electorate, in the bye elections, both in Quebec and Ontario, have in unmistakable terms, voiced their approval of Mr. Laurier's policy on this much vexed question. Only a few months ago Tory organs were informing their readers in double leaded articles that the Reform leader had no policy on the school question. Now some of these same organs are clamoring on their leaders to "scoop" Mr. Laurier by adopting his policy on the Manitoba school question. Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery; time has and is demonstrating that the Liberal leader's policy is the right one, and that he is the proper man to grapple with and settle this perplexing question.

ALLEN NURSERY CO.,

THE SYMPTOMS ARE ALARMING.

"Another Overseer" has had another attack and this time the symptoms are quite alarming. He sheds copious tears over poor Mr. Sills, who he says is being advertised as a scoundrel and thief by the insinuations in the articles in the EXPRESS in reference to the fishery report. He rushes to the rescue with some new information for the EXPRESS. He has discovered that the department does not permit the Overseers to disclose the names of the licensees who pay for their licenses. If "Another Overseer" were not driven into the corner and forced to use some argument to help Mr. Sills out of his present predicament, we would dispair of the fit ever passing over. Such utter home-made trash and nonsense never appeared in print before as a substitute for argument. A man pays $10 for a license and it must be published in the public accounts; another man pays $1 for a lesser privilege and the strictest secrecy must be maintained respecting the payment of this lesser sum. This is the sum and substance of the defence put forward on behalf of Mr. Sills. If this be true why has Mr. Sills not said so before. Why didn't he tell the Beaver's correspondent so before he worked himself into this fit of hysterics. Now Mr. "Another Overseer" we will give you a chance to prove that you are an honest man, if you are a man at all. Judging from the manner in which you whimper and cry over the reputation of Mr. Sills, you might from your writings be mistaken for an over-grown school boy or an hysterical old maid. The EXPRESS has repeatedly asked for the names of the individuals from whom Mr. Sills collected the money and the amount he collected from each. This information "Another Overseer" states is strictly guarded, and that Mr. Sills is strictly prohibited from furnishing this very class of information. Notwithstanding this strict prohibition he got this very information himself from the Auditor General. What an influential person he must be that this non-partisan Auditor the companies would sell upon anything but a cash basis); a second, by despatching troops from the Pacific ports to the Isthmus of Panama and marching them through the mountains and forests of Columbia, and last, by shipping them over Mexican railroads as far as they go and then marching them through Central America and Columbia. Even in the total absence of opposition from a hostile force, but one of these ways is practical, as more than three fourths of the contingent would die or be disabled by fever or dysentery before reaching their destination via the Pacific or Central American routes. This would leave the transportation from Atlantic ports the only one worthy of consideration. Between the United States and Venezuela lie the islands of Bermuda, Bahama, Jamaica, Turks and Caicos, Cayman, Barbados, St. Lucia, and several of both the Windward and Leeward group, all British, as well as the countries of British Guiana and British Honduras. At Bermuda and St. Lucia are two of the most powerful naval stations in the world, with extensive dry docks, munitions of war, food supplies and armed forces. Scattered through the West Indies and along the Atlantic coast are powerful British warships of latest model and armament, exceeding in size and strength the entire available American navy.

"In the Mediterranean, the English Channel, South American, Australian and Chinese waters are still more powerful war ships, and forces which could be mobilized in the gulf and in Panama Bay inside of two weeks. In addition to the British navy there and the swift and mammoth steamships of the Cunard line (with a tonnage exceeding 180,000), White Star line (tonnage exceeding 50,000), Anchor line, (tonnage exceeding 115,000), Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company (110 ships, 175,000 tons), Orient Steam Navigation Company (12 ships, 60,000 tons) Pacific Steam Ngvigation Company (8 ships. 25,000 tons), Castle line (21 ships, 65,000 tons), Union South African line (22 ships, 70,000 tons), Royal Mail Steam Packet Company (33 ships, 90,000 tons) and two or three hundred belonging to the Glen, Japan, China, Mutual, Maciver, City, Bibby, Ocean, Ben, Clan, Henderson, Wilson, Lamport & Holt, Shaw, Sayville and Albion, New Zealand Shipping Company, Union Steamship Company, of New Zealand, etc., a large proportion of which are entered in the Royal Navy reserve and built especially for cruisers. The British Empire in all parts of the world has a total area of 9,436,471 square miles, and a total population of 313,950,968. The British army, ready for instant service, numbers about 1,039,000 fighting men; the British navy about 564 ships, and the British heavy armament about 6750 or 6800 guns. The United States, including Alaska, has an area of about 3,800,000 square miles and a total population of not exceeding 68,000,000.

The United States army numbers about 28,000 men in active fighting condition with a state guard contingent, which might bring the number up to 500,000 armed, equipped and ready to take the field, but not subject to service outside of the United States, and only volunteer service outside of separate states. The United States navy has at the outside 71 ships, and our total heavy armament is 760 guns. The above figures may vary slightly from year to year, but they give a fair idea of the proportionate strength of the two countries. In view of these facts and the further one that none of our citizens are accustomed to campaigning in pestilential tropic countries, the President should know and every sober thinking citizen of the United States does know that to land United States troops upon the soil of Venezuela and successfully defeat the force which Great Britain could pour inside of a fortnight—especially when opposed by the cordon of fortifications and war ships already referred to—is as utter an impossibility as it would be for the entire American nation to swim to Venezuela unaided. For the Chief Magistrate of the United States, is his official capacity, to make such a threat to a friendly nation in terms which are equivalent to a slap in the face, when the whole world knows that it is a sheer impossibility for him or this country to carry them out, is to first invite ridicule, which is death to our dignity as a nation, and then to seriously disturb the commerce and industries of the entire English speaking world. There is in every American citizen, especially the younger and irresponsible one, a patriotic fallacy that the United States can easily whip all creation, regardless of the size, strength and territorial advantages of all other countries, which might have occasion to try it.

This idea is an excellent one as far as it

"And the band plays on."
CLARENCE HERBERT NEW.
Brooklyn, December 23rd, 1895.

Farmer's Institute.

The Farmer's Institute, of Lennox has arranged for a series of meetings in this district to be addressed by J. A. Qavitz, B.S.A., C.A.C., of Guelph Ont, on the following subjects: "The science and the practice of underdraining," "Practical Methods for improving the fertility of our farms," "Improvements of the plants of the farm," "The Improvement of fodder crops in the production of meat and milk," "The cultivation of corn, potatoes and field roots," "The best varieties of wheat, barley, peas and oats in seven years experiments." Evening subjects: "The influence of the Ontario Agricultural College," "Co-operative experiments in agriculture throughout Ontario for ten years." F. H. Mason, Straffordville, Ont., will deliver addresses on "hog raising," "butter making," "care and food of dairy cattle," "shall sheep raising be abandoned in Ontario." Evening subjects: "The outlook for the Ontario farmer in butter making." Meetings will be held in the town hall, Odessa, on Jan. 28th, and in the town hall, Napanee, on Jan. 31st. The afternoon meeting will be held at 1.30 p.m., and the evening meetings at 7.30 p.m. Local talent will assist at each meeting. All welcome,
HENRY FILSON, Stella, H. AYLSWORTH,
President. Secretary.

A Narrow Escape.

"Ah," he sighed, "I fear you know not what love is."

With her eyes she reproached him.

"Love!" she exclaimed. "I not know what love is? Well, you just ought to see me eating a porterhouse smothered in onions! Love? Say, rather, a soul-burning, a heart-consuming adoration!"

She stood as one transfigured, while he ran 17 blocks without turning his head.—Detroit Tribune.

A Forecast.

"There, I think this is the best way to put it: 'Dear Mrs. McCullrub, we are very sorry we cannot accept your kind invitation for Wednesday evening, as our grandpapa is dying and will be buried on Saturday.'"—Judge.

Both research and experience have led to the conclusion that Southern New Mexico comes nearer to fulfilling what is required for the advantageous treatment of pulmonary complaints and especially to be mentioned is the high plateau southeast of Silver City, partly across which runs the little mountain stream Mimbres, until it loses itself in the dry, sandy plains. This plateau, about 4,500 to 5,000 feet in altitude, about 50 miles long and 40 wide, is sheltered on every side by high mountain ranges and peaks, and has constant winds from the northwest and west, its maximum temperature is 90 degrees, and here an invalid may be out of doors 330 days in the year.—Philadelphia Record.

RHEUMATISM

Its Cause and Cure.

A poisonous Acid in the Blood, which needs removal.

Only one means for a radical cure.

Rheumatism is a blood disease, due to the presence of uric acid—a poison—in the system, and it is only by the removal of this pain-producing poison, that a radical cure can be effected. Acute rheumatism is hereditary, and thus it is that young children are often victims to this torture. The use of liniments, embrocations and outward applications, may give temporary relief, but can never cure, for the poison is in the blood, and until it is expelled, rheumatism, sciatica and neuraligic pains will continue. Scotts' Sarsaparilla cures rheumatism by removing the cause—by neutralizing and expelling this poisonous acid. In chronic cases, this medicine reaches the source of the disease as no other medicine can. It gives renewed energy to the organs that sustain life, the forces that make the blood. For the nervous troubles of youth, for the debility that precedes old age, for ladies in their severe ordeals, it is without a compeer.

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a concentrated compound of the finest medicines known to modern medical science—The dose is from one half to one teaspoonful and during its use the ordinary vocations are

The Year 1896
Is upon us

WE know our citizens and customers did not go barefooted during the past year. Neither do we expect them to do so in this New Year 1896, when they find we are still selling

Good Boots at Low Prices!

HAINES & LOCKETT

Season Tickets for Dimond's Skating Rink may be had here.

Cash Saved

By ordering your Suits from DAVIS & Co. Entire new stock at bottom prices to select from.

Call and see our prices before ordering.

Davis & Co.

T. G. DAVIS. R FORD.

CORRECT ATTIRE.

DRESS AS YOU ARE ADVISED HERE AND YOU SHALL BE HAPPY.

How to Choose Your Hat—Clothes Will Fit More Snugly This Season—The New Collar Will Stay—Here's a Nightmare in Cuffs.

Solomon in all his glory had no need to exercise his deep wisdom in thinking about what he was going to wear. He was the pantata of fashions as well as of everything else in his kingdom, so that all he had to do was to wear things, and lo! they became fashionable.

But the average man who reads this column has no such good luck. He must watch and wait and be sure he's right before going ahead to lay in new supplies for his wardrobe. Therefore the writer of this story has consulted the mystic authorities who rule men's dress, and so he is able to give valuable information to his fellows. Know, then, as most important, that clothes will fit more snugly this fall and winter. Really, that sums up the whole tion, "Where did you get that hat?" No weak pretence of flattery can disguise the purport of that deadly query. The one who hears it will fight forthwith if he is a brave man; or if he be a coward he will turn hot and cold in streaks and run away. You can't argue about a hat.

The variety in shapes of hats this year gives every one of us a chance to get just the right sort. Here are simple rules, which, if followed faithfully, will fill your days with peace:

If you have a long face, like the horse, wear a small crowned derby, with as small a brim as your age will allow. In silk hats, ignore the bell shape. Thus you will not look like a plucked spring chicken.

FULL DRESS WALKING STICKS.

If your face is round and jolly as the rising sun, wear a bell derby, with plenty of brim and a straight sided, big silk hat. These will keep you from looking like a balloon.

In nothing for men's wear has there been a greater seeking for novelty than in collars. Pictures of the three leader, like the monstrosity shown in the picture? It is printed here as a warning. Observe the dainty ribbon with which it it tied. Behold the lavish display of useless linen in the cuff itself. The man who would wear cuffs like that ought to be wrapped in pink cotton batting and locked up in a camphor chest. He is too gentle for this wicked, cruel world, and he ought to be kept where the moths can't get at him.

WATER ON THE FARM

A SUPPLY OF AQUA PURA A PRIME NECESSITY.

Water From a Running Spring Is the Best and Most Reliable—Different Water Systems for the Farm Detailed.

Hardly second in importance to plenty of good feed is an abundant supply of pure water on the farm. Be the feed ever so abundant and the supply of water scant or poor, the animals cannot do their best. Animals giving milk need a large amount of water, as any farmer will notice. It is bad to be short in supply in summer, but worse in winter, when it is usually so much more difficult repairing water lines or obtaining a new supply.

It will pay the farmer to be at some expense to obtain a good supply of water. That from a running spring is the best and most reliable, if it can be had. In the more hilly parts of our country this is generally the case, but the springs are not always located where they can be made available, at least without more or less expense; yet with a little management this difficulty can often be overcome.

In the pastures the water from springs should be conveyed to tanks where the animals can drink readily without contaminating it, as would otherwise be the case.

On some farms where there are no available springs, water can be obtained by laying tile in wet ground of proper conformation, so as to conduct the water into a reservoir or tank, thus securing two objects, the drainage of the land and a supply of water. Mr. Thomas Graham, Bell's Corners, Ont., has adopted this plan with splendid results. For the past seven years he has supplied his house and outbuildings with a plentiful supply of water brought from a wet corner of a field, in ordinary drain tiles laid in concrete.

The biggest dollar's worth ever offered. THE NAPANEE EXPRESS and the Toronto Globe, the two papers one year for one dollar. The balance of the year free.

Wouldn't Take the Risk.

A traveling photographer had arrived at a village at the base of the Cumberland Mountains, and two of his first callers were a mountaineer and his wife, who wanted their tintypes taken. The husband thought it well to have a fair understanding of the matter at the beginning, and so he entered the gallery on wheels and asked:

"How much fur two pictures?"

"Fifty cents," was the reply.

"Will yo' take a prime coonskin in payment?"

"Yes."

"Will we look nateral?"

"You will."

"Kin I stand with my knife in my hand, as if ready to tackle a b'ar?"

"You can."

"Kin the old woman hev her hands clasped and her eyes rolled up, like some of them rich folks?"

"If she wants to."

"And yo' take all the risks?"

"What risks do you mean?"

"Waal, I hain't purty nor proud, but the old woman is, and yo'll hev to take a twist out o' her nose, and shorten up her chin a leetle or she'll git right up after seein' the pictur' and light onto yo' like a turkey on a 'tater bug. The last feller that was here only survived two days after takin' her pictur' and I thought it was only squar' to tell yo' 'bout it."

The artist declined to take the risks, and the man picked up his coonskin and went out, saying:

"Can't blame yo', stranger—can't blame yo' a bit. Yo' don't want to be tore all to pieces and hev this wagon wrecked fur the sake of one coonskin. I'll git the old woman seven yards of kaliker, and she'll hev to roll up her eyes at that and let the pictur' go."—Detroit Free Press.

Necklets made of a band of fur four or five inches wide, finished in front with little beads and at the back with a big bow of velvet, are among the novelties in neck protectors, while others have lace ends or velvet tabs with velvet rosettes at the sides.

Ruffs of black chiffon larger than any we have had before, are made very pretty with tiny bits of ostrich situation. Trousers cling closer, to the woe of all good fellows who have rowed in shells or played football. Muscle below the waistline is not a good thing to own this season. One must have smallish feet, too, for the ends of the trousers legs diminish in girth somewhat after the fashion of the choke-bore gun.

THE LATEST CUFF.

Men will wear evening coats a trifle shorter this year, and the peaked lapels are attached to much longer collars. The peaked lapel is worn more than the shawl collar style, though both are good form. The waistcoat may be of white silk or marseilles. The collar of the dress shirt stands straight and high. The only bend in it is at the front, where the pomum adami thrusts the slightly overlapping ends apart from time to time. The shirt sleeves end in square cuffs, fastened with links. There is the law. Whose deviates therefrom does so at his peril.

Just as in evening clothes, which are the most important, so in all the outer garments you will find but little difference between this year's styles and last. As to hats, no great deviation from the conventional has been aimed at. The silk hat has a slight bell and the derby has a somewhat sounder crown. The differences, after all, are largely a matter of makers' whims. For whereas one inclines to a rounder topped derby, another of equal authority runs rather to a peaked top. One great hat builder shows almost straight lines in the sides of the silk hat.

THE PROPER SCARF THIS WINTER.

Now all this is cheerful news. Every man can have a proper hat. Dr. Holmes said truly that the hat is the most vulnerable part of man's attire. The unknown philosopher, also, who said it isn't the coat that makes the man was a deep thinker. He knew his business, and he knew well it is the hat that makes the man. Consider. If you ask your nearest friend who made that coat or suit or overcoat he answers readily and affably. Even if you find fault he will argue with you pleasantly enough. But where is the man so brave that he can hear without alarm the simple quesing varieties show a high standing collar, with a broad corner, turned back at each end; a high, straight stander, of the evening variety, and that newest of collars, the turn down, with a high band. Like all novelties, this last was avoided by conservative men last summer, both because it was warm and because it was startling in its newness and unconventionality. But no man need fear it now. It is firmly established. It is here to stay. It is respectable. One can enjoy in it the sense of novelty and variety in attire that poor, weak men so seldom attains without the loss of his self-respect.

THE NEW COLLARS.

If you would see the newest four-in-hand scarf, look at the picture in the next column. The newest sticks are whampoa and clouded rattan. They come from Africa. The whampoa's handle bends over in almost a circle, but the clouded rattan handle stands out at right angles. They are both beautiful.

Did you ever see cuffs, gentle read-

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

The greatest offer ever made—THE NAPANEE EXPRESS and the Toronto Weekly Globe, the two papers one year for one dollar. The balance of the year free.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Worth $5.00 A Bottle. SIRS,—For five years I have been troubled with neuralgia and tried everything I could see or hear of. At last I was advised to try a bottle of Yellow Oil and refused because I thought it was like all the rest—a failure. A half bottle was given me, however, and I found it helped me, and bought a bottle which cured me. It cost five dollars a bottle I would not be without it.

THOS. QUINN,
Gravenhurst, ONT.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Ladies' Favorite

Cook's Cotton Root Compound

Manufactured by The Cook Co., Windsor, Ont., and Detroit, Mich., is the only known safe, reliable monthly medicine on which ladies can depend in "the hour and time of need." Every lady who reads this is requested to inclose two postage stamps, with her address, for and full particulars, which we will send by return mail in plain, sealed envelope.

Free Sample

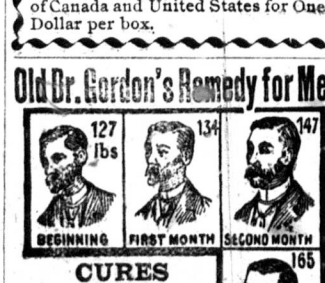
An old physician, 35 years continued practice treating diseases of women, has charge of the office, and can be consulted by letter or in person. Address our main office

THE COOK COMPANY,
Room 3—No. 253 Woodward Ave.,
Detroit, Mich.

☞ Cook's Cotton Root Compound is sold by all responsible wholesale and retail druggists in the Dominion of Canada and United States for One Dollar per box.

Old Dr. Gordon's Remedy for Men



CURES POSITIVELY

Lost Power, Nervous Debility, Failing Manhood, Secret Diseases, caused by the errors and excesses of youth.

Young, middle-aged or old men, suffering from the effects of follies and excesses, restored to health, manhood and vigor.

Price $1.00, 6 boxes for $5.00. Sent by mail, securely sealed. Write for our book, "Startling Facts," for Men only, tells you how to get well and stay well.

Address, QUEEN MEDICINE CO., Box 947, MONTREAL.

greatly increased the value of the farm. Mr. Pell will give full particulars to any who write him.

Of course this supply came from a springy formation, but the query is, why was it not found before?

On the farm of the writer, that does not contain a living surface spring, a year ago last spring a little pool of pure cold water was found on the surface of the ground, beside a large stone in the pasture.

A shallow well was dug, into which the water made its way and was conveyed down the hill a few rods into a trough. This comes very near being living water. In some of these ways water may often be obtained.

Again there may be excellent springs but located where they cannot be made available, at least without a good deal of management and expense. With a spring or reservoir affording a sufficient supply of water with a few feet of fall direct from the spring, water can be carried a long distance and up a considerable incline by means of a hydraulic ram. This can be successfully done when the conditions are right, but the matter should be carefully considered before making the attempt.

In many parts of the Province, particularly at the west, recourse is had to wells with wind mills for pumping the water. This power can be also used for pumping water a considerable distance, and in some cases may be preferable to the hydraulic ram.

A farmer years ago in Vermont hit upon an ingenious method for supplying his building with running water from a well. There was a hill of ledgy formation directly back of his buildings; and from the top of this he had a well bored, I think 100 feet deep, which afforded a good supply of water. He then built a large reservoir underground near the well, sufficient to hold water for a week's use. This was filled by means of a wind mill, which would only be kept running when needed for this purpose. From this reservoir the water was conducted in pipes to the sheep barns, horse barns, and house, guaging the supply to amount needed, still, I think, kept running all the time. Of course this arrangement cost a good deal at first, but was highly appreciated by the owner.

There must be a plentiful supply of water for winter. The nearer to the barn this can be located the better it will be. Whether it shall be in the stables will best be determined by the owner. Since the tuberculosis scare it is thought by many to be safer and better to have it outside the stables.

But if out of doors it should be well protected from the weather. The stock should have as comfortable a place in which to drink in inclement weather as it is possible to furnish. It may sometimes be necessary to drive quite a little distance for water, but if the drinking place is well protected with plenty of good water, not too cold, there will be little trouble or loss; but to be obliged to go a long way and then drink from freezing water in a bleak place, any one could see would be bad for milch cows, and must materially diminish their usefulness.

Whether water should be warmed artificially will depend on circumstances. If there is a good stream of water that does not freeze, there will be little necessity for warming, but if the supply is so small that it cannot otherwise be kept from freezing in ordinary cold weather, then it will be found profitable to warm it.

E. P. TOWLE.

The newest models in capes are shaped to show the outline of the shoulder, which is not completely disguised by fluffy frills as it was in the spring; and the very daintiest things on the list are short capes for evening, made of white velvet patterned all over with shadowy roses.

Black satin ribbon, four or five inches wide and elaborately jetted, is used for trimming silk and velvet capes. It is sewn lengthwise at intervals all around, and the upper ends fold over in loops and are gathered in to partially form the ruche.

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cures Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis. Tightness of the Chest, and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Summer coughs are more dangerous than Winter coughs feathers on the edge like a ring, and in addition to these are neck ruches of innumerable loops of velvet ribbon, a little more than an inch wide, or gauze ribbon with a satin edge sewn to a satin ribbon two inches wide, which ties in a bow in front.

Short double-breasted coats of black, brown, or green velvet, faced on the revers and collar with fur, or white cloth edged with fur, are one of the novelties in outside garments. Large fancy buttons decorate the front. For more common wear there are coats of similar style with strapped seams and melon-shaped sleeves.

Another variety of the much trimmed collar band is gained by tying the bow in front instead of at the back. If ribbon is used, one yard and a half is the necessary quantity. This passes around the back through a buttonhole, made in the ribbon at the back, and ties in front.

THE BEST MOUTH TONIC IN THE WORLD

Odoroma

THE PERFECT TOOTH POWDER

IT LEAVES THE MOUTH IN A MOST DELICIOUS STATE OF FRESHNESS. DRUGGISTS 25 Cts.

"D. & L." MENTHOL PLASTER

I have prescribed Menthol Plasters in a number of cases of neuralgic and rheumatic pains, and am very much pleased with the effect. And I am also using them in my own family.—W. Hastings, M.D., Hot Springs, Ark.

I have used Menthol Plasters in several cases of muscular rheumatism, and find it to be all that is claimed for them.—J. R. Mosher, M.D., Washington, D.C.

It Cures Sciatica, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Pains in Back or Side, or any Muscular Pains.

Price 25c. | Davis & Lawrence Co., Ltd, Sole Proprietors, MONTREAL.

DR HOWARD'S ELECTRIC PILLS

BLOOD BUILDER FOR BRAIN AND BODY

POSITIVELY CURE all Weakness and Pain, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Paralysis, St. Vitus' Dance, Loss of Power, Female Weakness and Irregularity, and all Diseases caused by Bad Blood and Shattered Nerves. Skin Beautifier. One trial proves it. In large boxes, 50c.; 6 for $2.50. The Dr. Howard Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Morristown, N.Y.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS cure Fever, Worms, Teething, Diarrhœa, Etc. 25c. No taste.

Scranton Coal

In order to meet the wishes of a number of our Customers who enquired for SCRANTON Coal, we have put some in stock this season

We carry as well a full line of the Celebrated LACKAWANNA variety which we have handled for a number of years with great general satisfaction.

We shall be pleased to receive your order which will have our best attention.

All coal under cover and thoroughly screened before delivery.

The Rathbun Co.

IF ANYTHING WILL STIR UP TRADE

—— OUR LARGE RANGE OF LOW PRICED ——

WALL PAPERS, CEILINGS, AND BORDERS TO MATCH

will do it. Call and inspect the many samples of Wall Paper we offer at 5c per roll.

Just to Hand at 7c. Per Roll A FINE LINE OF PAPERS and CEILINGS. Borders to Match Cheaper than ever.

THE POLLARD CO'Y

EXPRESS BOOKSTORE, NAPANEE.

the doctors

approve of Scott's Emulsion. For whom? For men and women who are weak, when they should be strong; for babies and children who are thin, when they should be fat; for all who get no nourishment from their food. Poor blood is starved blood. Consumption and Scrofula never come without this starvation. And nothing is better for starved blood than cod-liver oil. Scott's Emulsion is cod-liver oil with the fish-fat taste taken out.

Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00

SCOTT & BOWNE, Belleville, Ont.

The most prompt pleasant and perfect cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Croup, Whooping Cough, Quinsy, Pain in the Chest and all Throat, Bronchial and Lung Diseases.

The healing anticonsumptive virtues of the Norway Pine are combined in this medicine with Wild Cherry and other pectoral Herbs and Balsams to make a true specific for all forms of disease originating from colds.

Price 25c. and 50c.

I CURE FITS!

Valuable treatise and bottle of medicine sent Free to any Sufferer. Give Express and Post Office address. H. G. ROOT, M.C., 186 West Adelaide Street, Toronto, Ont.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

As Lord Warlock spoke, Lady Florence entered. She was fully dressed, and looked like a queen in her nuptial splendor. It is said that a beautiful bride is an anomaly; that the dead white suits no complexion, and that a woman never looks to worse advantage than when she stands at the altar in her spotless satin and costly lace; but if it be so, then Lady Florence was the exception which proves the rule. Harold Tempest started. He thought that he had never seen a more lovely woman. She was pale—as becomes a bride—and she looked at Vane questioningly, as if she were uncertain how he would receive her after the scene of last night; and when he came forward she grasped his hand with one of hers and covered it with the other. She took no notice whatever of Harold Tempest; it seemed as if, for her, there were only one man in the world.

"Vane," she said, "what is it papa is saying? What does he mean by saying that the wedding must be put off?"

"You shall judge," said Vane. Harold Tempest, considering himself de trop, stole out of the room. "Florence, my dearest, Lord Westleigh, and his son [illegible] yesterday."

[illegible] breath.

[illegible] are the earl now. [illegible] so glad?"

[illegible] look with something like horror in his face.

"Florence, Florence!" he said, hurriedly, "you cannot know what you are saying; you—you do not understand—realize."

"Yes, I do," she responded, almost fiercely. "What are he and his son to me? I am sorry that they should die, but—oh, Vane, you are all the world to me—your are my world, and I can only be glad or sorry on your account!"

His heart sank, ached.

"And what about the wedding being put off?"

Florence, now that he was wealthy and did not need her money? Would he go back to this wretched girl, this peasant wench, seamstress, dairy-maid, or whatever she was?

The thought drove her almost mad. She rose at last, suddenly, as if she could not endure the silence, the solitude any longer, and with feverish haste tore off the wedding-dress, slitting the lace—at so many guineas a yard—into tatters. A costume lay on the bed, a tailor-made travelling gown, the gown in which she was to have started on her wedding-tour—her honeymoon with Vane. She put it on, scarcely seeing what it was, heedlessly put on her hat, and went down the stairs. The house seemed to stifle her; she felt as if the walls were closing in upon her and crushing her, as if she must escape into the fresh air or die.

There was no one in the hall as she passed through; every servant, Jack and Jill, was down in the servants' hall talking his and and her head off, and—quite properly—consuming the marriage feast. She opened the door, and passed out unseen. The air was growing colder, the light and heat of the February sun beginning to wane, and as she stood on the steps and looked round her with restless, vacant eyes she shivered slightly. A chill of presentiment struck to her heart as she gazed down the road on which Vane had been borne away from her. Absently, mechanically, she walked down the drive and into the avenue. She had got half-way down it, walking with her head bent, her hands clinched at her sides, when the figure of a man stepped out from the sidewalk under the trees and stopped before her. She did not start, though, before she actually recognized him she knew who it was.

His presence in the hour of her suspence and dread seemed so fitting. It was Senley Tyers. He raised his hat and looked at her with an expectant, half-mocking smile.

"Lady Florence!" he said

cident—that unconsidered insult—turned your future happiness. It was the moment of your life."

She looked at him with a dull, cold stare.

"I do not understand; I have no wish to understand—"

"Pardon me, but you will understand presently. Lady Florence, that day you little guessed that the quiet, respectful artist who so nearly dropped your delicately scented handkerchief upon the table was possessed by an almost irresistible desire to wind it round your throat and stifle the proud, contemptuous voice forever."

She did not start or make the slightest sign of fear, but her gaze fixed itself upon his face more directly and intently.

He smiled slightly as if he were looking back upon that afternoon, as if he were still writhing under her patrician insolence.

"One thing only kept me from obeying that murderous impulse, which, like love, they say, comes at least once in every man's life. Lady Florence, I hated you at that moment; but keen, fierce as my hatred was, I loved you still more keenly, more fiercely."

She did start slightly, but only very slightly, and her eyes wavered in their intense regard an instant, then looked at him fixedly, watchfully.

"You loved me?" she said in a low voice, without a trace of emotion in it.

He inclined his head, his face a little paler, if that were possible, his lips trembling slightly.

"Yes, I dared to love you—I, the struggling artist, the man of the people, the man from the ranks, one of the 'lower order,' I think you call us—had dared to love Lady Florence Heathcote, the daughter of an earl, the proud, immovable beauty who, probably, had the sons of dukes for her suitors. And why not? Do you think that because I was born in the gutter, God withheld a heart from me—a heart to love? He had given me the artist's passion for beauty, the artist's eye to detect it, the artist's soul with which to worship it. And you were, you are so beautiful, you see."

She dropped her lids for a moment, then raised them with cold, impassive hauteur.

"Have you nearly finished?" she asked, slowly, with languid insilence. "I am tired of standing; I fear that I must return to the house."

There was a rustic seat near; he motioned to it with sardonic courtesy.

"I am afraid I must detain you a few minutes longer. Will you not be seated?"

With a slight shrug of her shoulders she sank to the bench.

"I loved you, I think, the first moment

Robert Light

Manufacturer and Dealer in

Rough and Dressed Lumber

Screen Doors,
Mouldings,
Bee Hives,
Stairs, Blinds,
Turned Work,
Wood Drapery,
Sash,
and Interior Finish for Buildings.

NAPANEE - - ONT

[illegible] PECTORAL

Positively Cures
COUGHS and COLDS

[illegible]

M. STORMS,
MOSCOW

has been over fifty years in the undertaking business in the county, and can turn out work equal to any in the Dominion.

A large stock of Coffins, Caskets, Robes, Crape Gloves and Badges, constantly on hand, and sold at reasonable prices.

Embalming a Specialty. Every facility on hand for doing the work.

25 per cent cheaper than any in the trade. Give me a call at Moscow.

M. STORMS, Prop.

Carscallen & Bro.,

Low Priced, No Combination

Undertaking Establishment.

Keep constantly on hand a complete stock of all the latest designs to be found in

COFFINS, CASKETS, ROBES, Etc,

which we are prepared to sell 25 per cent. cheaper than any house in the county. We use the best deodorizer, thus obviating all unpleasant odors. Embalming a Specialty. Having purchased one of the Handsomest Hearses at the Toronto exhibition we are prepared to attend personally funerals in the most satisfactory manner. The public will do well to call and examine our stock, and be convinced that ours is the place to buy.

We have also added a full line of the newest things in Wall Paper, Ceiling Decorations, Window Shades and Picture Railing, Paints and Oils Paint Mixed. Persons wanting anything in this line will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere. Remember the place, Centre-street one block south of Main with something like a muttered oath.

CARSCALLEN & BRO.

"Florence, you are beyond all conscience! Your—your selfishness is—is simply— Confound it all! I say the wedding shall not take place. If you haven't any sense of decency, I have, and I—I won't permit it! Why, at this moment he ought to be on his way to Westleigh. Go to your room, take off that finery and look out a black dress, and—and tell the servants to tell the people who are coming what has happened, and that the wedding is postponed."

She turned upon him almost fiercely.

"No," she cried in a low voice; "it shall not be! What are they to me?" Then her voice broke. "Oh, papa, papa! do not let it be put off. You know—you know what they say—that a wedding postponed will never take place."

"Superstitious nonsense!" grunted the earl. "I tell you I won't have it!"

She clung to Vane's hand and appealed to him with a white face and eyes distended, as it seemed, with superstitious fear.

"Vane! Vane—"

"I am ready," he said, pressing her hand. "I will go to the church with you now—we need not wait—and catch the next train after the ceremony."

"Yes!" she panted, eagerly. "Papa—"

But the earl was in a fairly royal blaze by this time. With an oath, he rang the bell.

"Lady Florence's maid!" he thundered. Then he turned upon Lady Florence. "Go to your room! I say it shall not be! After the funeral, as soon as you like. And you be off, Vane. Here!"—he stamped to the door and called a footman—"order the phaeton and pair, and drive Mr. Tempest—I mean the Earl of Westleigh—to the station, and drive like the devil."

Florence clung to Vane's hand for another moment, then she let it fall, and turned away with half-closed eyes.

"If—if it must be!" she said, almost inaudibly; "but"—facing her father, still bubbling over with wrath and gout—"but if anything happens to separate me and him, remember it is your doing!"

"Now, don't be a fool, Florence!" he muttered. "What can happen? He'll come back after the funeral."

She drew nearer to Vane, and held up her white face, with the singular look of dread in her eyes.

"Good-bye!" she said. "Kiss me again!"

He kissed her twice—his lips were cold upon her burning ones—and she turned, and with a long look at him, left the room.

"You were rough with her, sir," Vane could not help saying.

"Rough be d——d!" retorted the old man. "The fact is—well, humph!—I ought not to say it to your face, though it's too palpable—Florence is infatuated. I only hope it will last. If it does, I suppose you'll ill-treat her. Men always ill-treat a woman who gives herself away so completely."

"God forbid!" said Vane, sadly.

"For Heaven's sake, be off!" said the earl, impatiently. "I shall have a deuce of a fit of gout after all this fuss. I wish to Heaven you were both married and out of my sight. There—there, I don't mean it, of course, only— The phaeton? Thank God!"

So Vane the bridegroom and his best man were driven swiftly to the station and away from the church, and his bride was left in her chamber to mourn alone.

Her maid had offered to remove the bridal-dress but Lady Florence had repulsed her and sent her away, and sinking into a chair, sat with her face buried in her hands, the costly satin and dainty lace all crushed and tumbled.

She heard the carriages roll up, and, after a short interval, roll away again, not empty, but with the amazed guests. The bells ceased ringing, and the bustle of excitement in the house lulled and sank into what seemed to her foreboding quietude. The wedding-day was passing away, but she was not Vane's wife. He had gone away; the wedding was postponed. "A wedding postponed will never come to pass!" The burden rang in her ears like a knell.

Would he desert her? She knew that he did not love her, that he loved this unknown woman of whom he had told her last night. Would he desert her, spoke.

"It is Lady Florence—here and alone?" he said, with surprise, as if he had not been watching her for the last ten minutes.

"When did you come?" she asked, coldly.

"This moment," he said. "I lost my train, unfortunately, or I should have been in time for the ceremony—"

She started, and her lips opened as if she were about to tell him that there had been no ceremony, but she checked herself.

"It was a great disappointment to me, as you may imagine; so old and dear a friend as Vane is, and, may I add, as Lady Florence Tempest is, also."

She stood silent, watching his sallow, inscrutable face flecked by the shadows of the leafless branches thrown by the blood-red sun.

"But though I am too late for the ceremony, I am rejoiced that I am not too late to offer my sincere, my most earnest wishes for your unite! happiness; and I do so, I do so."

"Thank you," she said, coldly.

She shrunk from telling him that the marriage had not taken place. Why should she? No, she would let him go and discover the fact in the village. How was it he had not already discovered it?

"You drove from the station?" she said, in a dull voice.

"No," he said; "I came down as far as the last junction, and walked from there. The train did not stop here."

She drew a slight breath of relief.

"Will you go into the house?" she said.

"Thank you," he said, suavely. "Vane is there, I suppose?" Why was she wandering about the grounds alone? he asked himself.

She inclined her head.

"Then I think I will not," he said. "As a matter of fact, I came to see you, Lady Florence."

She made a scornful gesture with her hand.

"You have come for—for your money?" she said.

His face paled, but the smile did not leave it.

"Well, no; I can afford to wait. I can trust you, Lady Florence, as the tradespeople say. No; I came to answer a question you put me—with your eyes, if not in so many words—some months ago; the night we made our little bargain, if you remember. You asked me why I was so anxious that you should marry Vane Tempest. I have come to tell you."

He drew a little nearer and leaned against the trunk of a tree, his arms folded, his head bent, his eyes fixed on her face.

"Lady Florence"—she looked backward at the house—"I will not keep you more than a moment or two; but, perhaps, after that moment or two, you will be willing enough to remain; but let that pass for the present. Lady Florence, do you remember refusing to take your handkerchief from my hand? You remember; in my studio, when I was painting the portrait which will make such a stir, for several reasons, when it is exhibited in the Academy this year?"

She looked at him with as much of surprise as her already absorbed senses were capable of.

"Well?" she said coldly, haughtily.

"Ah, yes; I see you do," he went on blandly. "Why should you not refuse? I was only an artist, a workman just a degree or two higher than the men who painted your father's, the earl's, house-front. I ought not to have touched your dainty handkerchief with my common, plebeian fingers, but have summoned your maid."

Lady Florence glanced up the avenue with a kind of weary impatience. His manner, one of suppressed excitement, was as curious as his words; and yet she felt little interest. She thought he come to get his money; to endeavor, perhaps, to increase the sum she had promised him.

"You thought nothing of it; the incident was too trivial a one to be remembered; and yet, Lady Florence, upon the pivot of that very trivial in-

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR SIZE
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

that hauteur which is insolence carried to sublimity, took my soul captive. They fascinated me. I said: 'Here, if you had but wealth and rank, is one to match you, Sen. Here is one who, linked with you, would help you to climb to heights beyond most men's ambition.' And that was all. You were as the stars above me. I could only love you in secret, with as little hope of winning you—bah! with as little thought of telling you of my love as—as the house-painter who last year painted your father's house-front. Then came the episode of the handkerchief. It was the spark, the fuse. It set my soul on fire, and from fire sprang, full-grown, the desire to secure you, the determination to win you—by fair means, if possible, by foul means if they should be necessary. You little dreamed, Lady Florence, as you reclined with proud, contemptuous ease, that the brain of the man—the mere artist who was painting you so quietly, so humbly, so reverently—was plotting, planning your subjugation. One scheme after another presented itself to me, only to be rejected. Then in a flash I saw my way—the beginning of the thread which I should spin into a net with which I should insnare you. You remember Vane Tempest's portrait? Your emotion when I threatened to destroy it gave me the idea. It was through your love for him that I meant to reach you. That afternoon I laid my plans. You shall judge for yourself whether they are successful or not."

She glanced at his sallow face, now slightly flushed, and then looked down.

"You are fond of melodrama, Mr. Tyers," she said, as quietly as before; "but I scarcely see how you are going to secure even the temporary triumph which every villain on the stage is permitted to gain. You forget—"

"That you are safe, that you have attained the desire of your life, that you are married to Vane Tempest, the man you have loved for so long, and for so long hopelessly!" he broke in.

She looked at him with calm disdain, and did not contradict him, did not even exclaim, as most women would have done, "I am not married, the wedding is put off!" She felt that it was war between them—a war of wits—and she kept her counsel and waited.

"You wonder why I, loving you as I did—and do—should help on your marriage—and I don't think, Lady Florence, you will ever know how much I have helped it on. You will say: 'When you married me to Vane Tepest, you lost me forever;' but you will see that I have not done so, if you will favor me with a few moments longer." He paused and passed his handkerchief across his lips.

INDAPO
THE GREAT
HINDOO REMEDY
PRODUCES THE ABOVE
RESULTS in 30 DAYS. Cures all Nervous Diseases. Failing Memory, Paresis, Sleeplessness, Nightly Emissions, etc., caused by past abuses, gives vigor and size to shrunken organs, and quickly but surely restores Lost Manhood in old or young. Easily carried in vest pockets. Price $1.00 a package. Six for $5.00 with a written guarantee to cure or money refunded. Don't buy an imitation, but insist on having INDAPO. If your druggist has not got it, we will send it prepaid. Oriental Medical Co., Props., Chicago, Ill., or our agents. SOLD by W. S. Detlor, Medical Hall, NAPANEE, ONT., and leading druggists elsewhere.

VIGOR OF MEN

Easily, Quickly, Permanently Restored.

Weakness, Nervousness, Debility, and all the train of evils from early errors or later excesses, the results of overwork, sickness, worry, etc. Full strength, development and tone given to every organ and portion of the body. Simple, natural methods. Immediate improvement seen. Failure impossible. 2,000 references. Book, explanation and proofs mailed (sealed) free.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N.Y.

HAD INDIGESTION!

For a Matter of Some Forty Years or More.

Joseph Gardner, stove dealer, of Bath, Ontario, is a great believer in Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, Bright's disease, rheumatism, and kidney, liver and stomach troubles generally.

"I was troubled for over forty years with indigestion and constipation," he writes. "At intervals I suffered from severe headache. I spent dollars and dollars without result until Mr. Ball, our druggist, advised me to try Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and must say that they are the only remedy that gave me relief. I would not be without them for anything."

Many people suffer from rheumatism. Bad blood and diseased kidneys bring it on. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will remedy all this and cure rheumatism, sciatica and all kindred complaints. Here is a sample case:

"My boy was all crippled up and suffered awfully with rheumatism," writes Mrs. H. Wills, of Chesley, Ont. "He also had a touch of diabetes. The doctors could do him no good, but Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills completely cured him."

Sold by all dealers and Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 25c.

When all other remedies fail Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine will cure the worst chronic cold. 25 cents.

"Lady Florence, if you had known, if I had told you that I loved you, I do not think you would have married me; would you?"

She lifted her face with a smile of such scorn on it that it struck him like a blow.

He inclined his head.

"Quite so. You would have smiled exactly as you smile now. I knew that, and so I waited until you were married to poor Vane—and in my power."

"In your power?" She put the words with calm, cold incredulity.

"Even so," he said, quite as calmly. "What!"—he laughed with fine derision—"did you think that night you signed my little paper that I was only desirous of making a paltry sum of money out of you? Oh, surely, you who are so intelligent, so keen-witted, cannot have so misread, underestimated me? No, no! It was not the money I wanted, as you will see." He paused. "But there, why should I explain my modus operandi, my little scheme to you? It will only offend you, while, Heaven knows, I desire no triumph over you save that which my love for you shall win. Florence—"

She shrunk slightly at the direct use of her Christian name, but recovered her impassive self-possession instantly.

"Florence, I love you with all my heart and soul! I love you with a passion of which Vane, poor fellow, is incapable. If you will trust yourself to me, I will stake my soul upon your happiness; if you will fly with me and leave your future in my hands—"

She rose with a cruel smile which grew into a laugh.

"Will you not come up to the house and let my husband and the rest share in the amusement your really clever performance affords me, Mr. Tyers?" she said.

He bit his lip—she saw the thin streak of blood follow the snap of the white teeth, and nodded.

"Good! You refuse, spurn me," he said, his eyes fixed on hers. "You will force me to use my power?"

"I refuse to listen to this ranting absurdity any longer, Mr. Tyers," she said. "For the sake of my husband's old and alas! mistaken friendship for and belief in you, I will conceal this madness of yours from him; and that is a greater concession than you deserve. Now, please, we will go up to the house; or, if you would rather not—"

"Pardon me," he said, with a smile; "I will go with you. I wish to hand this little paper to Vane."

She started slightly.

"To—to Vane?" she said.

"Yes." He smiled, and twisted his mustache. "It will interest him; but I venture to think that it will not interest him one half so much as my account of the way in which it got into my possession. But there; it will not need telling. Even Vane will understand that you would not have given me a thousand pounds and signed this unaccountable you too clever to attempt to deluge me with such an improbable story."

She half turned to leave him as she spoke, but he made no movement to arrest her, and, probably because he did not, she paused and looked over her shoulder at him.

"What induced you to venture on so absurd a falsehood?" she said, with cold contempt.

He laughed again, his eyes fixed on her with sinister intensity.

"I quite expected you to take it in this way," he said, coolly. "I did not want to tell you, but you forced my hand. Candidly, Florence—"

"Be good enough to remember, Mr. Tyers, that I am only addressed by my Christian name alone by my friends and—equals," she put in.

He smiled.

"Pardon me. You are Florence in my thoughts. And when are you not in my thoughts? Well, 'Lady' Florence, as you desire it, I say I expected you to take my news like this. Candidly, I should have preferred to retain it until a later moment, but it is out now, and you know that it is true."

"It is false! It is a clumsy lie!" she said; but he detected the slight falter in her scornful voice.

"You do me an injustice," he said. "You insult my intelligence. Believe me, I may be the villain, the scoundrel you no doubt deem me, but I am not a fool—not fool enough to attempt to palm off upon one so cute as Lady Florence Heathcote—forgive me; in courtesy, I suppose I must say Lady Florence Tempest."

An evil sneer curled his lip at the studied insult, and though she was not yet married to Vane, it stung her.

"Coward!" she breathed between her teeth.

"No; neither fool nor coward," he said, calmly. "Try me. There is nothing I would not do to win you. I have proved it. You do not believe that I am married, and that you have been deceived? Good! I offer you—it is your due—irrefutable proof."

She panted, her eyes fixed on his as his on hers. It was like a duel between two expert swordsmen, each dreading the other's skill, and each expecting a fatal lunge from his opponent.

"Proof?"

Her lips formed the word.

He inclined his head, took a cigarette from his case, and with a murmured "Permit me," lighted it, and smoked with an exaggerated serenity.

"Yes. I am not so foolish as to make such a statement without good evidence to prove it."

She smiled scornfully.

"Oh, I know the whole proceeding!" she said. "You will produce a forged marriage certificate."

"Oh, no, no! You wrong me. That would indeed be clumsy," he said, almost sweetly. "I will do better than that, Lady Florence; I will take you to the lady who has the honor of being Vane Tempest's wife."

"Vane Tempest's wife?"

The words seemed to ring in her ears and confuse her.

"Yes," he said, calmly, with an insolence, beyond all description, "Vane Tempest's wife. You are, if anything, his mistress."

She put up her hand to her heart, and a faint cry escaped her lips. He sprang to her side.

"Florence! Florence! Why do you force me into torturing you? Don't you know—can't you guess—that it is still greater torture for me? I love you! I love you! and yet you compel me to wound you! Why will you not yield? Why will you not acknowledge that I am not only your lover, but your master?"

He caught her arm. She was too stunned by the violence of his passionate appeal to throw off his hand.

"Florence," he went on, "give in now. Believe me—oh, believe me, you cannot resist me! Sooner or later you must throw down your arms, and own yourself vanquished. I have surrounded you in a net from which you cannot escape. Month by month I have spun it round you. There is no weak place in it—none. Vane Tempest, the man you think is your husband, was married before this morning. His wife is living. He loves her—loves her—not you. Do you think that you can keep him by your side long? That this farce of a marriage can be played for more than a few days—weeks? Why, you know that if you refuse to give yourself to me, I shall make the first marriage this case—that if you bring him with you, I will shoot him like a dog."

"No," she said, calmly, "I will not bring him; I promise. I exact a promise from you: You will remain here, you will not move until I return, will speak to no one, answer no questions, be absolutely silent."

"I promise," he said. "Go now, and be quick. Every moment is precious. If Vane should see you enter the house, stop you, prevent you rejoining me, he is a lost man. Remember, one word to him, and he is ruined!"

"I shall not see him," she said, steadily; and she passed swiftly along the side path under the trees.

Senley Tyers dropped on to the seat and wiped the sweat from his face. It had been a terrible struggle, but he knew that he had won; he knew that her desire to see her rival face to face would bring Lady Florence back to him at any cost in spite of any obstacles.

It had been a terrible struggle, and, notwithstanding his assumption of coolness and sang-froid, it had tired him. He took a small vial from his pocket and drank a few drops; then he drew out a revolver and examined it. His threat had not been an empty one. If Vane should accompany Florence, he, Senley Tyers, would shoot him.

Presently he heard footsteps—the steps of two persons. She had deceived him. Vane was coming. He shrunk behind a tree and levelled the revolver; then, as the two female figures came into the light, he lowered the weapon, with a murmur of annoyance and impatience.

"I am a fool!" he muttered. "Of course, she would bring her maid."

He came from behind the tree to meet them. Lady Florence was thickly veiled. She made a gesture with her hand to signify that she was ready to proceed, and, with an answering nod, he led the way down the avenue. The gates had been left open for the wedding carriages, and the three figures passed out unseen.

Senley Tyers led them to the narrow lane, and at the sound of his footsteps a carriage and pair drove up sharply to meet him.

He opened the door. Lady Florence entered, and as she did so, caught the arm of her maid.

"You prefer to ride outside, you say?" she said, looking him full in the eyes.

He bit his lip, but inclined his head assentingly.

"Yes. It is a lovely night, and I can smoke."

Then, as he leaped to the box, he said to the coachman:

"Drive on, and fast; and don't stop for anything or any one!"

The Facetious Boarder.

Dumley (to landlady)—Do you know, Mrs. Hendricks, why your table reminds me of Mrs. Micawber's undying devotion to her husband?

Mrs. Hendricks—No, Mr. Dumley; why?

Dumley—Because you will never desert us.—New York Times.

NOT FOR HER.

The Proof He Gave of His Devotion Was Not Sufficient.

"Mine is no common love."

It was in the evening in the Twilling Mansion, and in the parlor the flickering rays from the suppressed gas-jet but half revealed the outlines of two forms on the sofa, one of them that of a fair young girl, who, with head bent down, and with her wondrous dark eyes fixed upon the floor, was listening intently to the impassioned utterances of the young man at her side.

"No, Mildred," he continued, "when I first attempted to convey to you in my feeble and imperfect way the depth of this great love, which, like a flood, had crept into every crevice of my heart and filled it to its uttermost, I could not at that time realize how deep, how lasting, it was to be. But now a full sense of its permanence, its power, its lasting quality, has been revealed to me, and I rejoice that I can say to you, ere we have taken the final and irrevocable step, that you need have no fear of the quality of the passion which I feel for the one being who is and ever will be the dearest and best in all the world to me. And so, my darling, I repeat to you that mine is no common love. Well do I know what the love of the average man is. At first a fierce flame, it gradually grows lower and lower, perhaps dying out altogether. Absorbed in his ambitions, more and more occupied with the thought of gaining wealth, of adding little by little to his income, he loses sight of the sweetest sentiments of life; he forgets the trifling endearments that mean so much to a woman. But with me all this is different. Day by day my love will grow stronger. No matter where I am, the thought of you will always be uppermost in my mind. I shall be with you as much as I can, and when I am away during my hours of toil your face shall ever be before me, effacing all other impressions."

"Are you sure," she murmured, half doubtfully—"are you sure, dear, that this will be so? Will you always consider your love before your business?"

"Always," he replied, his face undaunted, his rich voice betraying no tone of uncertainty—"Always, my darling."

The girl at his side rose swiftly from her seat, and as she mechanically moved toward the chandelier and turned on the gas to its full height, she replied:

"Then, I'm afraid, George, that you won't do. The man I marry has got to double his income every other y."—Harper's Bazar.

Russian collars with broad revers and high Medici collars, of fur, with narrow capes, are more fashionable than boas for those who can afford the luxury of such a trifle.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing.

It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.

Castoria allays Feverishness.

Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.

Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.

Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.

Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

dertaking with the name you would bear as his wife, unless it was as hush-money."

"Hush-money," she echoed, in a low voice.

He raised his brows, as if surprised that she should not understand.

"Why, certainly. Hush-money paid to one lover to buy his silence, and to bribe him into permitting you to marry another."

She understood. Her face went whiter than before, and she stood with distended eyes glaring at him, her writhing lips trying to form a smile.

"It—it is ridiculous!" she said. "He—he would not believe—"

Senley Tyers shrugged his shoulders.

"Pardon me; he could not help but believe. There is the evidence!" He tapped the paper with his long forefinger. "He knows that you and I have been together a great deal; he will remember that you have passed hours in my studio; he will recall the night—and I shall help him to recall it—the night at your house when you signed the paper. I will prove it up to the hilt; and if he will not believe it, the world will. Here in my pocket-book I have a plainly written account of the whole business; it will be in the hands of the editors of the society papers to-morrow, unless"—he paused—"unless you will accept my love and leave England with me."

She put her hand to her lips, as if bewildered, overwhelmed by the completeness of the plot for her subjugation; and he saw the terror, dread, which possessed her, and drank it in as a man dying of thirst drinks the water which alone can give him life.

"Now you see why I have waited until you were Vane's wife," he said slowly, deliberately. "If I had—well, yes, threatened you with this yesterday, it would not have been too late to set me at defiance; there would have been a scandal—yes, but a very poor and colorless one compared with that which awaits you if now, being married, Vane casts you off. And believe me—but indeed you know as well, better than I—that cast you off he will."

There was a pause. He stood watching her, as mentally she struggled in the meshes of the net he had so skilfully woven around her. Then he bent down and whispered:

"But why do you hesitate, Florence? How can you, who are Pride itself personified, so cling to a man who married you for rank and wealth alone, whose heart, whose love, are given wholly and entirely to another woman?"

He expected to see her start, but though she winced, he saw that he had told her no news.

"You know that?" he said, watching her intently.

She breathed hard.

"You—you are not so astute as one would think, Mr. Tyers," she said, painfully. "That last argument of yours has lost your case. I defy you—and her, whoever she may be." She looked at him with scornful defiance. "Go to him and do your worst—"

He caught her arm and bent forward so that his face was close to hers.

"Florence," he said, thickly, "don't, for your own sake, defy me; don't force me to play my last card!"

She twisted her arm from his grasp and drew herself to full height.

"You dare, dare to touch me!" she panted with scorn and loathing in her voice, her blazing eyes. "You—you madman! Go!" she raised her hand and pointed down the avenue. "I give you five minutes to escape—yes, escape! In five minutes I will send my grooms to whip you off the place!"

He gnawed at his lips, his eyes fixed on her.

"You will send your grooms—" He laughed. "Ah, well, you cannot say that I did not try and spare you! Florence"—he drew near her again and bent his head and whispered—"Florence, your marriage with Vane Tempest is a sham. He is married already. You are not his wife!"

CHAPTER XL.

"Married already!" Lady Florence repeated the words mechanically, as if she failed to grasp their meaning. When the significance of Senley Tyers' assertion bore down upon her, she uttered a faint cry and pressed her hand to her heart.

He laughed as he saw the effect he had created, and the laugh stung her into self-possession again.

"You are a cowardly liar, Mr. Tyers!" [illegible] make the first marriage known."

"I cannot believe it," she breathed. The major part of his passionate appeal had gone by her, unheeded. "You—you say that you will take me to her?"

The desire to see this woman, if she existed—to put the doubt which tortured her to the test—had got full possession of her.

"I will take you to her," he said. "Listen. Be calm. Summon all your strength of mind and soul. You have been deceived, Florence, and by the man who pretended to love you. Obey me, and I will show you the way to punish him—to avenge yourself. This woman—Vane Tempest's wife—is living not far from here. Come with me, and I will take you to her. You are not afraid?"

"Afraid?" she turned upon him with unspeakable scorn; "afraid of you? No!"

"Good! I want your love, not your fear. Listen;" he whispered in her ear, slowly, carefully—"I have a carriage waiting in the lane outside the gate."

She started. He smiled.

"Yes, I knew you would come. I have everything prepared. Even our berths in the P. & O. are booked." She shuddered. "I knew that you could not withstand me. Come with me now—"

She seemed to consider for a moment; then, with averted face, she said, almost inaudibly;

"Yes, I will come. Swear to me—" She paused in a kind of a despair.

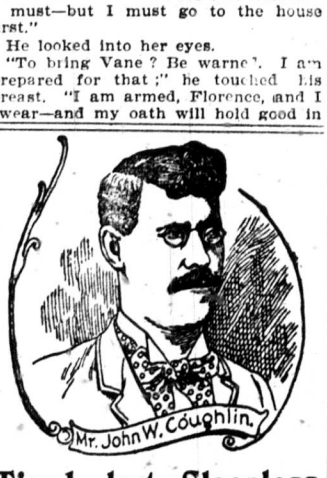
"You are right not to ask me," he said. "You know that I should hold no oath sacred where you were concerned. But though it is useless to swear, I give you my simple word that I will still hold myself as your slave. You, yourself, of your own free will, shall turn to me and fully grant me the right to protect you, to make you my wife. Yes, Florence, my wife. That shall be our compact. I will prove your marriage with Vane void and of no effect, and you, yourself, shall reward me. Come!"

She drew her arm away.

"I will go," she said, her face white and strained. "I will see this woman—I must—but I must go to the house first."

He looked into her eyes.

"To bring Vane? Be warned. I am prepared for that;" he touched his breast. "I am armed, Florence, and I swear—and my oath will hold good in



Tired but Sleepless

Is a condition which gradually wears away the strength. Let the blood be purified and enriched by Hood's Sarsaparilla and this condition will cease.

"For two or three years I was subject to poor spells. I always felt tired, could not sleep at night and the little I could eat did not do me any good. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before I had finished two bottles I began to feel better and in a short time I felt all right and had gained 21 pounds in weight. I am stronger and healthier than I have ever been in my life." JOHN W. COUGHLIN, Wallaceburg, Ontario.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Is the Only True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye today. Be sure to get Hood's and only Hood's. Do not be induced to buy and other.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, biliousness, headache. 25c.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.

Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.

Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bul

Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."

See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE PERSON

that wants a good match and that knows a thing or two will remember that this brand is synonomous with everything desirable in fire-producing lucifers.

E. B. EDDY'S MATCHES.

Bay of Quinte Railway and Navigation Company

GENERAL PASSENGER TIME TABLE,

Eastern Standard Time. No. 13. Taking effect Dec. 2nd, 1895

Tweed and Tamworth to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2 A.M.	No.4 P.M.	No.6 P.M.
Lve	Tweed	0	6 50	....	3 00
	Stoco	3	6	....	3 10
	Larkins	7	7 10	....	3 25
	Maribank	13	7 2	....	3 40
	Erinsville	17	7 40	....	3 55
	Tamworth	20	7 50	2 00	4 10
	Wilson*	24	....	....	....
	Enterprise	26	8 10	2 20	4 30
	Mudlake Bridge*	28	....	....	....
	Moscow	31	8 22	2 35	4 43
	Galbraith*	33	....	....	....
Arr	Yarker	35	8 35	....	4 55
Lve	Yarker	35	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	39	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills	40	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	41	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	43	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	49	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee	49	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	54	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	58	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Tamworth and Tweed.

	Stations.	Miles	No.1 A.M.	No.3. P.M.	No.5 P.M.
Lve	Deseronto	0	6 50	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 10	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 25	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 45	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 00	12 15	4 35
	Newburgh	17	8 10	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 20	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 33	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 43	....	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	9 00	12 45	5 15
	Galbraith*	25	....	....	....
	Moscow	27	9 15	1 00	5 27
	Mudlake Bridge*	30	....	....	....
	Enterprise	32	9 30	1 15	5 40
	Wilson*	34	....	....	....
	Tamworth	36	9 50	1 35	5 58
	Erinsville	41	10 09	....	6 10
	Maribank	45	10 15	....	6 23
	Larkins	51	10 30	....	6 40
	Stoco	55	10 50	....	6 50
Arr	Tweed	58	11 00	....	7 05

Kingston and Sydenham to Napanee and Deseronto.

	Stations.	Miles	No.2. A. M.	No.4. P.M.	No.6. P M
Lve	Kingston	0	....	....	3 30
	G. T. R. Junction	2	....	....	3 40
	Glenvale*	10	....	....	4 00
	Murvale*		....	....	4 15
Arr	Harrowsmith	19	....	....	4 30
Lve	Sydenham	23	8 00	....	....
	Harrowsmith	19	8 20	....	4 30
	Frontenac*	22	8 32	....	4 40
Arr	Yarker	26	8 40	....	4 50
Lve	Yarker	26	9 00	2 50	5 10
	Camden East	30	9 13	3 02	5 23
	Thomson's Mills*	31	9 18	....	....
	Newburgh	32	9 23	3 15	5 30
	Napanee Mills	34	9 33	3 25	5 40
Arr	Napanee	40	9 50	3 40	5 55
Lve	Napanee, West End	40	....	....	6 15
	Deseronto Junction	45	....	....	6 30
Arr	Deseronto	49	....	....	6 45

Deseronto and Napanee to Sydenham and Kingston.

	Stations.	Miles.	No.1 A.M.	No.3, P.M.	No.5 P.M
Lve	Deseronto	0	6 50	....	....
	Deseronto Junction	4	7 10	....	....
Arr	Napanee	9	7 25	....	....
Lve	Napanee	9	7 45	12 00	4 20
	Napanee Mills	15	8 00	12 15	4 35
	Newburg	17	8 10	12 23	4 42
	Thomson's Mills*	18	8 15	....	....
	Camden East	19	8 20	12 30	4 50
Arr	Yarker	23	8 33	12 45	5 00
Lve	Yarker	23	8 50	....	5 20
	Frontenac*	27	9 00	....	5 27
Arr	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	5 40
	Sydenham	34	....	....	5 55
Lve	Harrowsmith	30	9 05	....	....
	Murvale*	35	9 20	....	....
	Glenvale*	39	9 30	....	....
	G. T. R. Junction	47	9 55	....	....
Arr	Kingston	49	10 00	....	....

B. C. CARTER, Asst. Gen. Manager. G. A. BROWNE, Gen. Pass. Agent. H. B. SHERWOOD, Superintendent.

The Napanee Express
$1.
The Weekly Globe.

BEST CLUBBING OFFER EVER MADE.

By paying one dollar in advance these two popular and reliable papers will be sent post free to the subscriber's address. Call at the "Express Office" and secure this bargain

Busy, Busy, BUSY!

This has been a busy week in the store. January bids fair to rival December Sales. Its wonderful the strides this store is making. The values are away ahead of all our competitors. We have never sold so many goods in January. You may draw your own conclusions, but one thing is certain. You will save money on every dollar's worth of goods you by in this store this year.

New Prints.

The first lot of our new Prints are here, about 200 pieces new Patterns, new Styles, and the best Values ia Canada. No old Prints carried over from last year. The prices are 5, 7½, 8, 9½, 10, 12½, 14 and 15c.

New Tickings.

Twenty pieces new Tickings just in. Prices, 10, 12½, 13, 16, 19c. When we tell you our Ticking at 19c. is the same quality as other people charge you 25c. and that the others are all in the same proportion you will know that you can save money by buying Tickings at this Store.

Grey Cottons.

We sell more Cotton now in one day than we used to sell in two weeks. Why? See the value and you will know. Your money back if you can equal them let alone better them in any other Store.

New Sheetings and Pillow Cottons.

Sheetings, bleached and unbleached, twilled and plain, in all widths. Pillow Cottons in circular and plain in heavy and light weights. Your money back if you can equal our values.

New Kid Gloves.

We are showing a new Laced Kid Glove in blacks and Colors. Price 75c special. They are equal to any Glove sold at $1.00.

New Velveteens.
New Hose Supporters.
New Garters, Elastic.
New Fancy Handkerchiefs.
New Cashmere Hose.
New Towels and Towellings.
New Dress Linings.
New Shirtings.
New Cottonades.
New Blankets, 98c.
New Grass Cloths.
New Ginghams, 5c.

The Robinson Co'y.

Wood for Sale.

Wood delivered promptly to any part of the town at the lowest price for cash. 6c MILES S. PLUMLEY

To Let.

An improved farm 200 acres, with good orchard etc. Will make the rent reasonable to to the right man. For full particulars address

J. S. HULETT, Photographer,
8b Nanaimo.

Annual Meeting Palace Road Cheese Factory.

The annual meeting of the patrons of the Palace Road Cheese Factory will be held in the factory on Monday, Jan. 27th, at 2 o'clock p.m. For the purpose of electing officers and the transaction of general business.

W. F. GEROW, Prop.
8ap M. N. EMPEY, Sec.

Sudden Death.

We regret to be called upon to chronicle the terribly sudden death of Mrs. Mac Vanluven, who passed away at her home in Yarker last week, from a stroke of apoplexy. Deceased was in her usual health and about tending to her work on the day of her death. She had gone upstairs, and only a few minutes afterwards was found in an unconscious condition from which she never rallied. Deceased was only twenty-five years of age, and a daughter of Mr. A. McCarthy. She was greatly beloved and respected by her large circle of acquaintances, and her husband, who is a member of the firm of Ewart & Vanluven, has the sympathy of all in his deep bereavement.

Annual Meeting of Lennox Conservatives.

The annual meeting of the Lennox Conservative Association was held in the town hall here on Saturday afternoon last. There was a large and representative attendance. Motions of condolence were passed to the families of the following late members of the association, Messrs. Robert Filson, A. P. Booth, George Gordanier. Uriah Wilson, M.P., was endorsed and selected as the standard bearer in the next general election. The following officers were elected for 1896: President, J. C. Carscallen; vice-president, J. E. Chalmers; treasurer, D. C. McLiver; secretary, T. D. Pruyn. Advising committee—Alex. Henry, T. G. Carscallen, Allan Oliver, J. D. Pruyn, Dr. Meacham. Addresses were delivered by Mr. Wilson and Dr. Meacham.

A Good Move.

The Napanee Shakespeare Club is an institution of some eight years standing. So far the work of the Club has been limited to its members, who number only fifteen or twenty. It is now proposed to give the citizens also the benefit of its efforts in the form of a lecture on the play of Macbeth on Tuesday the 4th of February next, to which all are cordially invited. The lecturer of the evening will be Mr. David Arthur Hughes, late of Cornell University. He comes bearing the highest testimonials from his late professors and will no doubt prove himself master of his subject. The club is especially desirous that the people of the town should cultivate a taste for the great dramatist, and in order that the lecture may be the better appreciated, it is requested that so far as practicable the play be read by all who intend going. The Collegiate Institute Hall has been secured for the occasion. No admission will be charged but a collection will be taken at the door to defray the expenses.

In Memory

Of the late John W. Spencer, sr., who died at Hay Bay, on Sunday, Nov. 3rd, '95.

My father dear we miss thee,
Thou art gone forever to rest,
Thou art gone to join thy loved ones
And be forever blest.

He was patient, even jovial,
Waiting for the time to come
When Christ would send his angel
To bear him safely home.

O how he has toiled at his favorite work,
Toiled both day and night;
They will miss him, yes they will miss him
Though he has gone forever from their [sight.

They watched him late and early
Listening for the call,
And the little feet so swift to fly
To save him from a fall.

God bless you all for what you did,
Not missing one, father thou knowest best;
We will lay him by his loved one
And Christ will do the rest.

Farewell, farewell my father dear
'Twas hard to part with thee,
Farewell until we meet again
On that delightful shore.

Will You Win?

The Napanee Horticultural Society are

STOVES AT COST.

Range No. 9. Range with tank, $24.00.
Wood Cook, $10. Wood Cook with Tank, $13.00.
T. H. WALLER.

A Nobby Turnout.

Napanee has long been noted for fine horses and nobby turnouts. Mr. Edward Francisco, of the Royal, drives a span that for appearance, speed, and action are away up at the top of the heap. They are well matched, clean limbed and well bred, and when "Ed" deposits his portly frame in his spick and span cutter, grasps the ribbons and does the grand on Dundas street, he is the observed of all observers. The genial "Ed" possesses more than a rudimentary knowledge of horseflesh, and knows when he has a good thing.

Seeing is Believing.

New instruments, new goods and improvements in our optical rooms make our optical department complete in every particular. The busy holiday season is over and our optician can give your eyes a thorough examination, having taken the best course in ocular refraction obtainable in the city of New York. He has had three years experience. It is knowledge, nothing succeeds like success, and his success has been marvelous in the testing of eyes and prescribing spectacles. Cross eyes or muscular weakness scientifically treated. Examination of eyes free of charge at

SMITH'S JEWELRY STORE.

Removing to Another Field of Labor.

The Rev. Robert Atkinson of Selby, having accepted a charge in the diocese of Algoma, intends to take leave of his congregations on Sunday next. Much regret is expressed at Mr. Atkinson's decision to leave Selby as much thorough work has been the outcome of the Rev. gentleman's incumbrency accomplished in spite of unusual diffulties Mr. Atkinson's numerous friends are pleased to learn that their loss is likely to be his gain as the field of labor to which he is about to remove is regarded as a very hopeful one. As Mr. Atkinson has by his true catholicity of spirit won many friends in all sections of the community, it is expected that large congregations will assemble next Sunday to listen to the farewell words of this minister of Christ.

Bee-Keepers.

The annual meeting of the Bee Keep association was held in Brantford last week and was well attended and great interest evinced in the proceedings. The Brantford Expositor has the following to say of the part taken by Mr. Pringle in the proceedings:—Allan Pringle followed with a review of the papers read at the annual meeting of the O. B. K. A. He took up the various papers in rotation. His criticisms were pointed and showed a keen appreciation of matters and suggested reforms of interest to the trade. They were couched in terse and humorous terms and he was listened to with evident interest and pleasure by the assembled beekeepers. Mr. Darling moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Pringle for his resume. The motion was carried enthusiastically. An animated discussion followed. A number of members spoke on the subject and approval of the paper was generally expressed.

Dedication of the Church of S. Anthony

Sunday, the 12th of January, 1896, will go down as a red letter day in the annals of the history of the Anglican church of the village of Yarker. On this day their beautiful church erected by the sons of the late Rev. A. J. O'Laughlin, for many years a faithful priest in the diocese of Ontario, and the son and son-in-law of Michael O'Laughlin, of Yarker, was dedicated to the worship of God. The cost was about $3,000. The congregation and friends in the neighborhood, outside of the two families, subscribed towards the furnace and surroundings of the church. The ground was purchased by the ladies of the congregation, and the furniture given by many friends of the above families in New York. The pulpit, altar and reredos were built and donated by Michael O'Loughlin, and are fine pieces of workmanship from interested and loving hands. To the building, Mr. O'Loughlin, besides being one of the two largest subscribers, devoted almost his whole time to it from its inception to its completion with the aid of A. W. Benjamin, as clerk of work. The new church is in the form of a cross and occupies a commanding position in the centre of the village. It is called St. Anthony's out of respect to the name of the priest for whom

COAL ! COAL ! !

The best grades mined in Scranton District. I have about completed my stock of coal for the season and am now prepared to receive and deliver orders with promptness. Coal all new stock. Under cover and in first class shape. Price $4.00 to $5.00 according to size.

Grain Wanted.

I want all kinds of grain for which I will pay the highest market price. I have no man on the market buying. You will find it to your advantage to call at the 'Big Mill' and get prices before selling elsewhere.

J. R. DAFOE.

CARLETON WOODS.
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
1y Roblin, Ont.

JOHN POLLARD,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.
Express Office. Napanee.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, JAN. 24, 1896.

All local reading notices or notices announcing entertainments at which a fee is charged for admission, will be charged 5c per line for each insertion, if in ordinary type. In black type the price will be 10c per line each insertion.

Hood's Pills for liver and bowels, act promptly, easily and effectively.

There is good sleighing on the Napanee road between Odessa and Kingston, but the roads are bad between Odessa and Napanee.

Fred R. Lingham, arrested by the Boer government in the Transvaal in connection with the recent crisis in that republic, is a Belleville man.

On Jan 9th a man named W. A. Glen, Ameliasburg, disappeared from home, and eight days later his wife received a note from him dated at Toronto, Jan. 10th. This is the note: "Gone out of this world." W. A. Glen.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

local matter this week.

Two cows and two horses for sale on easy terms. Miles S. Plumley. 6c

Mr. P. D. Pruyn won the bicycle put up by Clark Botting last week.

The attempt to inaugurate a minstrel club in Napanee has fallen through.

Napanee Lodge, No. 86, I.O.O.F., contemplate starting a club room in connection with their lodge room.

Mr. B. Derbyshire, of Odessa, bought a 50 acre farm from James L. Hegadorn, in Quobin, on Saturday, Jan. 18th.

Blood and nerves are closely related. Keep the blood pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla and you will not be nervous.

Mr. James L. Hegadorn bought a farm near Odessa of 100 acres, part of the Armitage property, on Saturday, Jan. 18th, at auction for about $1500.

That Pale Face. For Nervous Prostration and Anæmia there is no medicine that will so promptly and infalibly restore vigor and strength as Scott's Emulsion.

Master Herbert Gibson had a narrow escape from drowning on Saturday. While skating he fell in a hole in the ice and was in the water sometime before rescued.

A christening service was held in the church of S. Mary Magdalene on Thursday of last week, when a number were baptized. There was a large crowd in attendance. The Rev. Woodcock delivered an interesting address.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Boyd, who was asphyxiated by coal gas, took place on Friday last to the Napanee cemetery, where the remains were placed in the vault. The body will be removed to Chatham in the spring and interred.

We are requested to state that the article which appeared in the Beaver last week stating that John Wesley McCumber had been united in wedlock to Miss Susan Pearson is entirely erroneous. John Wesley is still heart whole and fancy free.

The greatest flesh and blood maker in existence and a life-saver to consumptives is Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, "the kind that cures" bronchitis, coughs, colds and all lung troubles. Every bottle warranted. No oily taste like others. In big bottles, 50c. and $1.00, at druggists.

THE EXPRESS staff were agreeably surprised by being treated to an oyster supper recently by the enterprising firm of confectioners, Fanning & Stevens. Little incidents like the above light up the life of the hard worked printer and make it worth the living. The staff, from the devil up, wishes to convey their hearty thanks to Fanning & Stevens.

DAFOE & PAUL,

Undertakers

EVERYTHING NEW AND FIRST-CLASS.

deserving of commendation for their efforts in endeavoring to stimulate in the people of Napanee an interest in the cultivation of flowers, which not only add to the beauty but conduces to the health of the community. The society has been fruitful of good since its inception here, and by the way they are starting out their efforts will be crowned with even greater success this year. The secretary of the society has handed us the following which explains itself:

The Directors of the Napanee Horticultural Society offers the following prizes:

1 Three prizes of
- (1) $6.00 in books.
- (2) $4.00 in books.
- (3) Free membership in the society for the year 1897.

For the best collection of classified, complete botanical specimens of plants growing wild or commonly cultivated in Canada.

2 Three prizes of
- (1) $2.00 in books.
- (2) $1.00 in books.
- (3) Free membership in the society for the year 1897.

For the best essays on some botanical subject.

The prizes are offered to all competitors on the following conditions:

1 That the collections and essays be the result of the candidate's own labor.

2 That competitors have their work in the hands of the judges appointed by the society not later than November 1st, 1896.

3 That any or all of such prizes may not be awarded, if in the opinion of the judges the excellence of the work does not justify it.

4 That the collection of specimens shall be donated to the herbarium of the Napanee Collegiate Institute.

5 That the specimens be mounted on heavy white paper (11½"x17.") Silver burn linen is suggested.

6 That the successful competitors for 1st and 2nd prizes in each case shall have the right to make their own selection of books.

A Fatal Accident.

Last Friday evening about six o'clock a dreadful accident occurred to Edward Mabbet, of Napanee, which resulted in the young man's death. On the evening in question he met his brother, who resides near Selby, and having nothing else to do at the time took a ride out with him on the Selby road to the other side of the railway crossing. On his way back a train passed him moving very slowly. He grasped the brakesman's ladder on one of the cars, intending to ride down as far as the station, when in some unaccountable manner he was swung under the car, the wheels passing over both legs, a little above the ankle of the right and the knee of the left, crushing them terribly. The injured man was removed to the station, and Doctors Bisonnette and Ruttan quickly summoned, who did everything in their power to alleviate the poor fellow's suffering. His wounds were bandaged up temporarily and he was removed to the Kingston General Hospital. The hospital surgeons found that both legs were badly crushed, and it was found necessary to amputate them, one at the knee and the other just below the knee. The shock proved too great for his not over robust constitution and he died on Sunday. The hospital authorities aver that he was one of the pluckiest men ever under surgical operation in that institution. Deceased was an Englishman and has been in this country for about 25 years. He has worked in this district as a farm laborer for a number of years, and was an industrous, respectable and trustworthy man. He was in the employ of Mrs. Brindley, of Napanee, at the time the accident occurred, and his remains were taken to her residence on Monday, and the funeral took place from the church of S. Mary Magdalene on Tuesday to the Vandebogart cemetery. It was under the auspices of the Canadian Order of Oddfellows, of which deceased was a member. The impressive funeral service of the English church was performed by the Rev. Arthur Jarvis, assisted by the Rev. Atkinson, of Selby. The choir of the church was in attendance and contributed several appropriate numbers. The crowd that followed the cortege to the cemetery was very large, testifying to the esteem in which deceased was held. Edward Mabbet was an orphant, and from the Belleville Orphan's Home. As intimated above he has a brother residing at Selby, who is deeply affected by the sad event.

You Can Believe the testimonials published in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla. They are written by honest people, who have actually found in their own experience that Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, creates an appetite, strengthens the system and absolutely and permanently cures all diseases caused by impure or deficient blood.

it is a memorial. The edifice is a gem. Building and furnishings are, undoubtedly, the most complete and tasteful in Eastern Ontario. The architecture is gothic, with old English tower, finished with battlements of rock-faced stone. The walls are of Deseronto pressed brick with gothic windows, rock arches and sills; the windows are of cathedral glass, each having within a text or ecclesiastical device. All the furnishings are in keeping. The services on Sunday were well rendered. Rev. E. H. M. Baker, Rural Dean, offered the beautiful prayers of dedication, naming the church St. Anthony. Rev. F. D. Woodcock, read morning prayer, D. A. Hughes, lay reader, reading the lessons. The Rural Dean preached a powerful sermon from Psalms XCVI. The Holy Communion followed. The singing was under the leadership of Dr. Oldham, Miss Gertrude Connolly presiding at the organ. Mrs. Bascombe, of Kemptville, sang a beautiful solo during the offertory. In the afternoon the church was quite full to witness the baptism of the babies of Mrs. Dr. Vrooman and Mrs. A. W. Benjamin, and to hear a short address by the Rev. Woodcock. In the evening the Rural Dean and E. J. B. Pense, of Kingston delivered interesting addresses, and a solo was contributed by Mrs. Bascombe. The collections during the day were liberal. Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon the Rev. Mr. Woodcock for the zeal with which he has pushed church work in Camden East, where now stand as monuments of his zeal and efficiency, not only the beautiful and well appointed church of St. Anthony, at Yarker, but another equally beautiful, that of St. Jude, Napanee Mills. The erection of two such churches in the same parish within one year is doubtless without precedent in our Canadian Dioceses.

Rubbing It In. Never use a liniment for rheumatism, says a high medical authority. Don't rub it in—drive it out. Take something that removes the acid poison from the blood—take something that will improve your digestion, and build up the body to the perfection of robust health. That "something" is Scott's Sarsaparilla, a remedy that obtains the best results in the shortest time. $1, of all druggists.

Can be Made New!

Your Husband and Children Will Rejoice and be Glad.

Have you ever tried to renew and recreate your husband's and children's cast-off clothing? Why, this work is done easily by thousands of women, every day of the year. They are successful in the work, because they use the wonderful, strong and never-fading Diamond Dyes. Old and faded dresses, jackets, capes, coats, pants and vests can be made to look like new garments, at a cost of ten cents. When you decide upon doing dyeing work, be particularly careful to use only the Diamond Dyes. See that your dealer does not offer you substitutes or imitations. If you are unfortunate enough to be deceived, your work is in vain, and your garments are ruined is free from the injurious coloring. The more you use of it the better you like it,

Know What You Chew

THE GEO. E. TUCKETT & SON CO., LTD.
HAMILTON, ONT.

Dr. TAFT'S ASTHMALENE CURES ASTHMA so that you need NOT SIT UP all night gasping for breath for fear of suffocation. Send your name and address, we will mail trial bottle FREE
DR. TAFT BROS., 186 ADELAIDE ST. W., TORONTO, ONT.

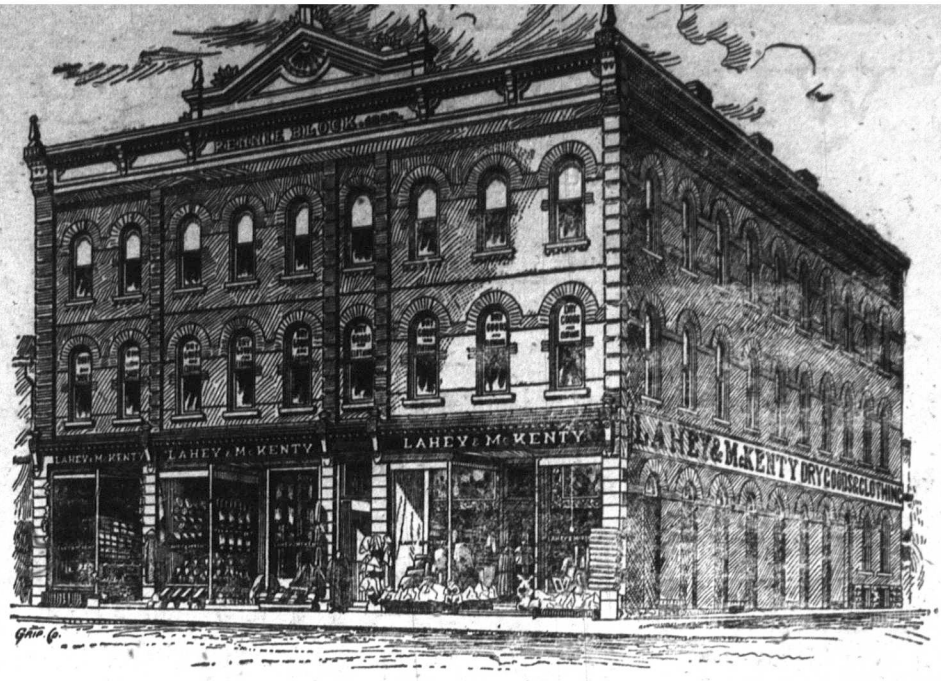
IF MONEY

Grew on trees and everybody owned an orchard it wouldn't make much difference how it was spent. But being as it is, it makes an all fired difference whether you buy where ysu can buy for least money or not.

Mens' Good Winter Caps, 25c.
Mens' All Wool ½ hose, 10c.
Mens' Heavy Knit Shirts, 49c.
} Any saving for you here?

Radford & Son

The Great Outfitters



THE BIG STORE, January 24th, 1896.

MID-WINTER SALE!

The Fun Goes Merrily on.
This Week we add

One Table of Muffs

Some twenty-five or thirty that we have left. Never mind what the prices were, the price NOW is, for your choice $1.00.

A Few Fur Capes

are left, also one or two Fur Lined Wraps. If you can afford to pay as much for them as we did bring along your money. Three or four Capes will be cleared out at $5.00, were three times that.

Also a few Mantles of the higher priced lines. If more than your money's worth will tempt you to buy one see them. We won't let the price stand in the way of a sale if we can fit you.

The 4c. Ginghams are still to the fore. we were forehanded enough to secure a second lot. Be forewarned and secure your ten yards NOW, there's danger in delay.

The Best
IS BEST CHEAPEST

Heavy Winter Tweeds, a mixed lot that would be too warm next Spring. They were 65c to 80c, you will see them in our window marked 50c.
Another lot of 3 or 4 pieces worth 50c now 35c.

The Child is
FATHER TO THE MAN.

Unless she's a girl in which case she is usually nearer to the man. If he's a boy, we will sell you an Overcoat for him at $1.50 or a neat little Reefer at same price.

Three for a Dollar.

Is our price for a specially nice make of White Unlaundried Dress Shirts for men. Not a very uncommon price but the goods are uncommon at that price.

Seventy-five Cents.

Will buy an extra nice Man's Night Shirt. If you ask your wife to buy it you can qualify as an extra nice man.

The race is not always to the swift.

The fastest colors are those that won't run. You will find them in our famous 12½c. Flannelettes every time.

The Shoe Store.

Has a row of tables filled with shoes of various kinds. One price for each.

Table 1—Your choice of the lot for 35c.

Better Late Than Ever.

Men's All-Wool Ribbed Shirts and Drawers in Grey and Flesh Colors, worth 50c anywhere to-day. Winter sale price while they last 29c.

Table 2—Your choice of the lot for 50c.
Table 3—Your choice of the lot for 75c.
Table 4—Your choice of the lot for $1.00.

You will find them all cheaper than usual prices, decidedly so.

LAHEY & McKENTY

Church of England Notes.

S. Mary Magdalene.

Church of S. Mary Magdalene, Napanee. Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m, each Sunday. Holy Communion at 11 a.m. on 1 and III Sundays of the month, and at 8 a.m. on all other Sundays. Strangers supplied with leaflets having service printed in full at evening services.

The Annual Missionary Meeting will be held in S. Mary Magdalene's church on Friday evening, 31st January at 7.30.

Deputation, Rev. R. S. Forneri, and Rev. H. J. Spencer, Missionary at North Addington. The service will consist of Choral Litany and it is hoped that several of our local clergy will be present.

A liberal offering on behalf of the fund is requested.

Selby.

The Rev. Robt. Atkinson will preach his farewell sermons on Sunday next as follows:—St. Jude's Kingsford, at 2,30 p.m. and St. John's Selby at 7.30 p.m.

Parish of Camden.

Services Sunday next. St. Luke Camden East, Morning Prayer, Holy Communion 11 a.m; St. John, Newburgh, 3 o'clock; Hinch P. O., 8 o'clock; St. Anthony, Yarker, 7 o'clock; St. Jude, Napanee Mills, Holy Communion, 8 a.m., Evening Prayer, 7 p m.

Parish of Bath.

Thursday, 30th Jan., promises to be a red letter day here, as on that date the congregation of St. John's church purpose giving their annual winter entertainment. This time it takes the form of a grand concert. Unusual pains are being taken to make it the event of the season. It will consist of solos, duets, quartettes, choruses, readings, recitations, etc. Mr. Mike Wemp, a special favorite on the platform in Bath in old times, has kindly consented to assist and will amuse the audience by rendering some of the latest New York "hits." No one should miss this evening's enjoyment. At the close of the performance the prize winners and other children of the Sunday school, sixty two in number, will receive the silver medals, prizes and presents awarded them. Admission only 15 cents.

Parish of Adolphustown.

Missionary meetings—Wednesday, Jan. 29th, at S. Jude's, Gosport; Tuesday, the 28th, at S. Alban's, Adolphustown; Thursday, the 30th, at S. Paul's, Sandhurst. Meetings at 7 o'clock p.m. The Rev. Arthur Jarvis and Rev. Hugh Spencer will deliver addresses. Collections at all meetings.

A. O. U. W. Sermon.

Napanee Lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen, will attend Divine service in a body at the church of S. Mary Magdalene at 11 o'clock a.m. on Sunday next. The Brethren will meet at their lodge room at 10.15 and march to the church.

Don't fail to read the article in our inside page, "Britain's Strength from an American Viewpoint."

Quite a number from Napanee attended the tea meeting at Gretna on Tuesday night. It proved a highly enjoyable affair.

A. S. Kimmerly is selling the best potatoes, 25c per bag; 6 lbs raisins, 25c; 6 lbs currants, 25c. Our 25c tea beats all others in strength and fine flavor. Keewatin flour has no equal.

Mr. E. B. Gallagher, travelling agent for F P Douglas & Co, started out on his winter trip this week. Douglas & Co turn out the best, snuggest and handsomest patent medicine rig in Ontario. In Egyptian Liniment they have a good thing, and in Gallagher a man that knows how to push it. Let her go Gallagher, you handle the best liniment on the market.

PERSONALS.

Miss Nellie Whelan left on Sunday afternoon for her new school at Hayburn.

Miss Carrie Benn of Newburgh spent a week in town the guest of Mrs. Wm. Jones and Miss Effie Vanalstine.

Mrs. Stephen Gibson was called away on Tuesday to the bedside of her aunt who is dangerously ill at Brighton. She is quite an aged lady, and with her sister who was visiting Mrs. Gibson over Xmas live at Brighton, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fuller, of Tamworth, were visiting their daughter, Mrs. F. P. Douglass for a few days this week.

Miss Marsh, of Dundas, has been the guest of Mrs. F. Hawley, Graham st.

Mr. Wm. McFarlane, of Tamworth, was in town on Saturday and favored us with a call.

The Misses Pollard, Napanee, were the guests of Miss Kate Asselstine, Alfred st. Kingston, for a few days this week.

Mr. Henry Knowles, of Dakota is the guest of Mr. John Pollard.

Mr A. V. Prise of Newburgh favored us with a call on Wednesday.

Mrs. Wier and Miss Davy, of Napanee Mills, were in town on Wednesday, selling tickets for a Poverty Social to be given by the unmarried people of the Methodist church on the 7th, of February.

Mrs. J. L. Quest, Mrs. C. T. Patterson and Miss M. Boyd, who were here attending the funeral of their mother returned to Chicago on Saturday evening. Their brother James accompanied them.

Mr. Wm. Boyd returned to his home in Chatham on Saturday.

Miss Rose Duckworth, of Belleville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Dr. Ming.

Mr. J. Geo. Corran and daughter Miss Alice of Colborne have been on a visit to friends in town and also at Tamworth for the past week.

Mr. U. Wilson M. P. who has been spending a few days in town, returned to Ottawa on Tuesday.

Mrs. Dr. Youmans of Mount Forest, who was here attending the funeral of her brother A. P. Booth, has been called upon to mourn the death of husband, mother, father, and only sister and brother within a few years.

Mr. J. J. Johnston, of Bath, was in town on Saturday.

Invitations are out for the wedding of a prominent musical man to one of Napanee's leading young ladies.

Miss Lillian Hall leaves on Monday for Olean, N. Y. where she gives an organ recital.

Mr. A. E. Lang is now almost completely recovered from his recent illness. He was out for a spin behind the greys this week.

Miss Bay McDonald left on Tuesday for Toronto to attend the ladies German School.

Dr. D. L. Smith, of Kingston, was visiting friends in Napanee over Sunday.

Mr. Ferd Rockwell made a business trip to Bell Rock this week.

Mr. C. M. and H. Warner spent last Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. Eakins in Belleville.

Wm. A. Warner, of Trenton was visiting friends in Napanee on Friday.

Mr. J. N. Switzer, of Desmond, was a caller on THE EXPRESS on Thursday.

Mr. S. J. Miller of Bardolph favored us with a call on Wednesday.

Mr. Robt. Brown, of the Collegiate, attended his sister's wedding at Tamworth on Wednesday.

DIED.

HOSEY—At Napanee on Sunday Jan. 19th, 1896, Alicia Hosey relict of the late Nelson Baker.

In Tamworth, on Jan 1st, Bruce Richardson and Miss Emma Watters were united in marriage. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Watters.

Walter Pope, Tyendinaga, was arrested for stealing letters; but the evidence was not satisfactory and he was honorably acquitted.

Butchers and farmers who do butchering you should see the new lines of cleavers, skinning splitters, ripping steak knives. Every knife warranted. Boyle & Son.

Florence Ockerman is the same irresistibly funny Topsy as heretofore, and she appears here with Stowe & Co's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company at the opera house on Feb. 14th.

The choir of the Western Methodist church gave a very successful entertainment in the lecture room of the church on Friday evening last. It was well attended and an interesting programme rendered. The proceeds go to retire the organ debt.

The residence of Charles Lochhead, Centreville, was the scene of a happy event on Jan 15th, the marriage of Albert Franklin, eldest son of R J Reid, to Addie Mabel, only daughter of the late Robert Lochhead. The bride was charmingly attired in fawn and was assisted by Miss May Reid, and James Lochhead jr.

A Loss to the Profession.

By the death of Dr. Kenneth N. Fenwick, of Kingston, the medical profession of Canada loses one of her ablest and most distinguished members. He died a martyr to duty, contracting the disease which resulted in his death while performing an operation on a child patient in the General Hospital, on Thursday of last week. The child was suffering from an abscess, and when the doctor lanced it some of the matter spread over his hands. Deceased had a small scratch on his left hand, but as he washed his hands thoroughly after the operation thought nothing of it. Blood poisioning ensued. On Sunday the case was not considered serious, but on Monday the symptoms became alarming when the inflammation extended up to the elbow. A number of city physicians were called in and a consultation held. Deep incisions were made to arrest the poison, but to no avail. The arm was gangrened as far as the elbow and the patient's condition grew worse, so much so that it was resolved to summon Dr. Roddick from Montreal by special train. When he arrived Tuesday afternoon he immediately examined Dr. Fenwick's condition. He reported that an operation would be useless and made the sad announcement that the patient was beyond recovery, remarking that a few hours would end his sufferings. He died at 10:45 p.m., Tuesday, after three days illness. Dr. Kenneth N. Fenwick was about 45 years of age and a practitioner in the city of Kingston for twenty years. He was Professor in Queen's Medical College, a member of the General Hospital professional staff, and had an extensive practice throughout the city. He was three times married. His third wife, a daughter of Mr. Pennington Macpherson, Ottawa, whom he married not a year ago, survives him, together with four children. He was estimated to be worth $100,000. Few men have risen to the eminence in their profession that Dr Fenwick attained. His success is all the more remarkable when his age is considered. As a surgeon he was recognized as one of the first in the profession. He was well-known in Napanee, and his services were often called into requisition in critical cases.

The special train that brought Dr. Roddick to Kingston established a record. It consisted of an engine and one car. It left Montreal at 12.40 and reached Brockville at 3.10, doing the total distance of 125 miles in 2 hours and 40 minutes. At Brockville a halt was made, and engines changed. At 3.28 the engine pulled out of Brockville, arriving at Kingston at 4 10, covering the distance of 47 miles in 42 minutes.

Royal Canadian Clothes Wringers, 11 inch roll, the best wringer made, only three more, at $2.25. Boyle & Son.

Patronize the skating rink; healhty exercise, good ice, roomy rink. Get a pair of skates, hockey stick or puck from Boyle & Son.

Wore Greased Gloves Seven Years

John Siron, mason, Aultsville, Ont., had Salt Rheum so severe that for seven years he wore greased gloves. He writes: "I used a quarter of a box of Chase's Ointment. It cured me. No trace of Salt Rheum now." Chases Ointment cures every irritant disease of the skin, allays itching instantly, and is a sterling remedy for piles. Avoid imitations. 60c. per box.

Cheese Meeting Notice.

I will hold the annual meeting of the Croydon, Napanee and Union cheese factories on the following dates: Croydon, Friday, Jan 31st; Napanee, Monday, Feb 3rd; Union, Tuesday, Feb 4th, at the factories. I would be pleased to have a full attendance of the patrons at all these meetings, as it is largely their business that is to be transacted and would like to see them taking an interest in it. C. E. BARTLETT.

Hoarseness and Sore Throat.—DEAR SIRS—I highly recommend Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam as the best cure for coughs, colds, hoarseness and sore throat ever used.
WILBUR ASHBY,
Havelock Ont.

REFORM MEETING!

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE

REFORM ASSOCIATION

OF LENNOX

WILL BE HELD IN THE

TOWN HALL,
in the
TOWN OF NAPANEE,
—ON—

Saturday February 1st. 1896

at the hour of 1.30 in the afternoon.

It is important that there should be a good attendance from all parts of the Riding as at this meeting delegates may be chosen to select a candidate to contest the Riding for the Commons in the Liberal interest at the approaching election.

Thos. E. Anderson, Secretary. Thos. Symington, President.

BEAUTIFUL FARM FOR SALE.

One of the choicest in Prince Edward County overlooking the Town of Picton, and within ten minutes drive of the corporation, and one of the best markets in Ontario. The Town contains two of the largest pea growing industries in Canada, two of the largest canning factories, and two large evaporators, furnishing employment to a large number of hands, a fine market for the produce of the Farm, and fruit of every description, facilities for shipping to all points by cars and boat can't be excelled. The farm consists of about sixty three acres, soil a rich loam with a clay subsoil, every acre a garden spot, no stumps or stones, fences principally post and wire, building nearly new, two large barns a dwelling and outhouses all painted, fine orchard of choice apples and pears. It is a beautiful home and a snap for any man wanting a farm. It will be sold on easy terms and part of the purchase money can remain unpaid bearing interest at five per cent. Come and see the property or write for particulars to the undersigned.

W. T. CRANDALL,
Picton, P.O.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Of the Policy Holders o the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Co'y. will be held at the Town Hall Napanee on Saturday 25th January 1896, at one p.m. for the purpose of receiving the annual report and transacting general business of the company, and every policy holder is strongly urged to be present and take part in the proceedings as most important business is to be transacted. M. C. BOGART,
Sect. Treas.

WHEN IN TOWN

Don't forget that now is the time to buy Ordered Clothing.
30 Per Cent. Discount on Ordered Clothing for two weeks.
You can get a lovely Frieze Ulster made to order, good Trimmings, from $10 up. Now is your chance.
Suits from $10 up, All work guaranteed.

ED. HUFF,
The Cash Tailor, Opposite Campbell House.

ALL WORK GUARANTEED

THE NAPAN

Vol. XXXV] No. 14—JNO. POLLARD, Editor and Publisher. NAPANEE, ONT.

BREAKFAST FOODS.

That idea of thinking that all Breakfast Cereal Foods are alike is a mistake as they are not. I keep none but "The Ireland National Food Co's." and "The Tillson Co's." both of which have the name of being the finest in the market both for quality and cheapness. Try them.

I have now on hand in packages Self Rising Buckwheat Flour, Dessicated Rolled Wheat, Dessicated Wheat and Rolled White Wheat.

In Bulk

Rolled Oats, Rolled Wheat, Molina Rolled Wheat, Rolled Buckwheat Flour and Gold Dust Cornmeal.

W. COXALL.

Seeds ! Seeds !

A little early to talk about seeds, but we do not wish you to forget that when the time comes we shall have all the most desirable kinds.

It is the flour question we want you to consider to-day. Those who have been using our flour know its good qualities, so that it is you who are strangers to it that we want to talk to.

Ask your neighbor about it. Then come buy and prove his word.

We have it in all qualities and at all prices, to suit all sizes in purses, and all kinds of stomachs.

Our trade is growing all the while.

We handle Bran, Shorts and all kinds of Grain, Cracked and Whole. Rock bottom prices for all new process Buckwheat Flour, Rolled Oats and Wheats and Corn Meal.

Use Windsor Salt, best for all purposes.

The Rathbun Co'y

DUNDAS STREET, NAPANEE.

Opening of New Goods.

Our spring stock of Ready Made Clothing is mostly in and we assure you it is the best bargains ever offered in Napanee.

Men's Suits in different colors worth $6.50 for $4.50.

Men's Suits in English and Scotch Tweeds worth $11.00 for $7.50.

Young Men's Suits all Wool Goods worth $7.50 for $4.25.

Boy's 3 piece Suits in 5 different colors from $2.65 up.

Men's Pants from 75c. to $4 00.

63 pairs of pants at $1.50 worth $2.50.

Our entire stock of Winter Goods to be cleared at cost.

Our assortment is large and prices very low. Will be sure to suit you when you call.

A. M. VINEBERG,

The Wonderful Cheap Clothier, Dundas st., Henry Block, Napanee

THE HIGHEST AWARDS

MORDEN, RUTTAN & FERGUSON.
Barristers, Solicitors, etc.
Solicitors for the Merchant's Bank of Canada, etc., etc.
Dundas Street, Napanee.
G. F. RUTTAN. T. R. FERGUSON.
Private funds to loan at five per cent.

THE - MERCHANTS - BANK
OF CANADA
Head Office, — Montreal
Capital paid up, $6,000,000
Surplus, $3,000,000
INTEREST AT CURRENT RATES PAID ON DEPOSITS.
A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.
W. A. BELLHOUSE,
Manager, Napanee Branch

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of the Township of Sheffield intends, at the session to be held in the Town Hall, Tamworth, at 10 o'clock a.m., on to pass a by-law to enter upon, break up, take and use that part of lots twelve and thirteen in the seventh concession of Sheffield which consists of a strip of land forty feet wide lying just north of the fence now extending from the corner of the travelled road leading from Tamworth to Kennebec, just south of Mr. Johnson's dwelling house, on the south half of the s. e. quarter of said lot thirteen, easterly across said lots twelve and thirteen to the eighth concession, for a public road, to afford ingress and egress to William Lacy, living upon parts of lots 12 and 13 in the eighth concession of Sheffield aforesaid, in accordance with the provisions of a by-law passed by the County Council in reference thereto.

Monday, March 9th, A.D.'96

Dated at Tamworth this third day of February, A. D., 1896.

By order of the Council.

10d JAMES AYLSWORTH, Clerk.

MORTGAGE SALE OF VALUABLE VILLAGE PROPERTY.

Under and by virtue of the powers contained in a certain mortgage which will be produced at the time of sale, their will be offered for sale by public auction, on the premises in the village of Croydon on at the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon the following valuable property, namely: All and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate lying and being in the village of Croydon, in the township of Camden, in the County of Lennox and Addington and Province of Ontario, containing by admeasurement one quarter of an acre of land be the same more or less, being composed of part of lot number fourteen in the eighth concession of Camden, and better known as Village Lot Number Nine, and also one quarter of an acre composed of part of Farm Lot Number thirteen, in the eighth concession of said township of Camden, being bounded as follows: Commencing at a post planted on the east side next to the travelled road running south ten rods, thence west 4 rods, thence north ten rods, thence to the place of beginning. Upon the said property is a large frame house, frame barn and frame sheds originally erected and used for an hotel, but now occupied as a private dwelling. For Terms and Conditions of sale apply to THOS. E. ANDERSON No. 60 John St., Napanee, or to JOHN ENGLISH Vendors Solicitor.

Monday, March 9th, 1896,

Dated at Napanee Feb. 13th, 1896.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE MATTER OF HAWLEY EBENEZER THORNTON, OF THE VILLAGE OF TAMWORTH, IN THE COUNTY OF LENNOX AND ADDINGTON, MERCHANT.

The above named Insolvent has made an assignment to me of his estate and effects in pursuance of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, Chapter 124, in trust for the benefit of his creditors.

A meeting of the Creditors of the said Hawley Ebenezer Thornton will be held at my office, No. 60 John Street, in the

TOWN OF NAPANEE,
—ON—
Wednesday March 11th, 1896,

at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon for the appointment of Inspectors and the giving of directions for the disposal of the estate.

Creditors are required to file their claims against the estate with me, duly verified by affidavit, on or before the day of such meeting as provided by the said Statutes.

THOS. E. ANDERSON, Assignee.

Dated at Napanee 28th February, 1896.

OUR W

All of our Ads with the public. As bi contracts. Advertisem great drawback, the t ones look just alike. plated ware until th wear tells the story. Y goods just as advertise

New Spring Dres

Dress Patterns very pretty just in. ourselves. The pri early and get first ch all-wool Serge wort defy competition. A Serge worth 75c. our line of figured Frenc Beautiful new goods in black and colors. Dress Goods.

Corset Bargains.

We can show yo 42c. but would rathe 75c. and 98c. We Corsets in Napanee.

A short story of Handsc which came to search in city store somer ones. The instance a splendid C The other prices are

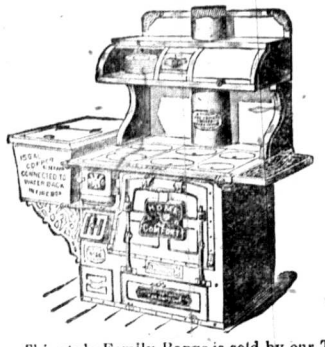
Boys' Suits our

For fit, for wear, neatness, and for che thing to equal our them this year at $1.

WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION

BY THE WROUGHT IRON RANGE CO., ON

HOME COMFORT



STEEL

HOTEL AND FAMILY

RANGES.

CARVING AND STEAM TABLES,
BROILERS, MALLEABLE
WATERBACKS, etc., etc.

This style Family Range is sold by our Travelling Salesmen from our own wagons at uniform price throughout Canada and the United States.

Made of Malleable Iron and Wrought Steel and will last a lifetime if properly used.

SALES TO JANUARY 1st, 1894, 277,188.

Made only by the Wrought Iron Range Co. manufacturers of Hotel Steel ranges, Kitchen outfittings and Home comfort Hot-air Steel Furnaces.

The above named company have located at Napanee, with Headquarters at the Campbell House.

DEROCHE & MADDEN,

Barristers,

Attorneys-at-Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, Notaries Public, etc.

Office—Grange block.

Money to Loan at "lower than the lowest" rates
H. M. DEROCHE, Q. C 5.1y J. H. MADDEN

R. A. LEONARD, M.D., C.P.S.

Physician, Surgeon, etc.

Late House Surgeon of the Kingston General Hospital.

Office—North side of Dundas Street, between West and Robert Streets, Napanee. 5:1y

---

THE ROYAL HOTEL.

Dundas Street, Napanee.

H. HUNTER, Prop.

This commodious hotel is centrally situated having every convenience for the travelling and business public. Large yard and sheds for farmers.

Good table, best of wines liquors, and cigars

The comfort of guests is made a first consideration.

TRUNKS VALISES
CLUB BAGS.

A Large Supply just received at McROSSIE'S Shoe Store.

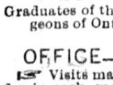
South Side.



DENTISTS

C. D. WARTMAN, L.D.S.
C. H. WARTMAN, D.D.S.

Graduates of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and graduate of Toronto University.

OFFICE—LEONARD BLOCK,

☞ Visits made to Tamworth the first Monday in each month, remaining over Tuesday. Rooms at Wheeler's Hotel.

All other Mondays C. D. Wartman will be in Yarker.

Napanee office open every day.

WANTED RELIABLE MEN to sell our IMPROVED FARM SEEDS. Paying side line HIGHEST SALARY OR COMMISION PAID WEEKLY. Outfit free. Can be carried in the pocket. Experience not necessary. BIG PAY ASSURED WORKERS. Write at once and secure exclusive and choice of territory to 48 4m

FARMERS SEED CO.

(INCORPORATED.)

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

HERRINGTON & WARNER,

Barristers, etc.

MONEY TO LOAN AT LOW RATES

Office—Warner Block, East-st. Napanee. 5y

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in Packets, by Grocers, labelled thus:

JAMES EPPS & CO., Ltd., Homœopathic Chemists, London, England.

45 35—W.

JAS. AYLESWORTH,

General Business Agent.

POLICE MAGISTRATE for the Provincial Electoral District of Addington.

Conveyancer,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Commissioner, etc., in H.C.J.

Clerk, 7th Division Court, of the County of Lennox & Addington

Grand Trunk Railway Ticket Agent

TAMWORTH.

A. S. ASHLEY,

DENTIST

16 Years in Napanee.
34 Years Experience.

Rooms, - Albert Block, - Napanee

WANTED

Farmer's Sons

or other industrious persons of fair education to whom $75.00 a month would be an inducement. Write me with references. Could also engage a few ladies at their own homes.

T. H. LINSCOTT
155 Bay Street,
Toronto.

Dated at Napanee 28th February, 1896.

JUDICIAL SALE.

IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE
COMMON PLEAS DIVISION.

Sills vs. Warner and Walker vs. Ovens

Pursuant to the Judgment made in this action on the 3rd day of January A.D. 1896, there will be sold by public Auction with the approbation of the Local Master at Napanee at his Chambers in the

COURT HOUSE,

in the

TOWN OF NAPANEE

—ON—

Friday, April 3rd, A.D. 1896

at two o'clock p.m.

the following property, situate at WILTON, in the Township of Ernesttown.

PARCEL No. 1:— All and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Ernesttown, in the County of Lennox and Addington in the Province of Ontario, containing by admeasurement 100 acres of land, being the North one quarter and the Easterly one third part of the South three quarters of Lot number 40 in the 6th concession of the said Township of Ernesttown, subject to the life estate therein of William H. Neilson and Jane A. Neilson, his wife. The premises are well cultivated, with good buildings, first class access to water and convenient to church and school. They are better known as the homestead of the late Henry Pultz.

PARCEL No. 2:— All and singular that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Ernesttown, in the County of Lennox and Addington, in the Province of Ontario, containing one quarter of an acre, more or less, part of Lot number 40 in the 6th concession, being bounded by the Wilton Cemetery on the east and south, and by the travelled road on the west and north.

This is a small vacant parcel of land lying immediately in front of Wilton Cemetry.

This property will be sold subject to a reserve bid fixed by the Master. The purchaser shall pay down a deposit in a proportion of ten dollars for every hundred dollors of the purchase money and the balance in one month without interest.

In all other respects the terms and conditions of the sale will be the standing conditions of sale of this Court.

For further particulars apply to the law offices of Messrs. Herrington & Warner, W. G Wilson, D H. Preston, U. M. Wilson, Der che & Madden, S. Gibson, and Morden, Ruttan and Ferguson, Napanee, Ont.

(Sgd.) S. S. LAZIER,
Local Master.

Dated at Napanee the 28th February, 1896.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR CREDITORS.

Pursuant to a judgment of the High Court of Justice, Common Pleas Division, made in a cause of Sills vs. Warner, the creditors of the late Henry Pultz, Esquire late of the Township of Ernesttown, in the County of Lennox and Addington Province of Ontario, who died on the 30th day of June A.D. 1894, and all persons holding general or special liens upon his estate or upon the interest of the parties entitled therein are on or before

Wednesday, April 1st, 1896 to send by post prepaid to Herrington & Warner of the Town of Napanee, Solicitors, their christian and surnames addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their securities, (if any) held by them. In default thereof they will be peremtorily excluded from the benefit of the said judgment.

Every Creditor holding any security is to produce the same before me at my chambers in the Court House in the Town of Napanee on Friday the 3rd day of April, A.D. 1896 at 2 p.m. being the time appointed for adjudication on the claims.

S. S. LAZIER.

Dated this 28th day of February, A.D. 1896.

Oh, bear with me, my sweet, my sweet,
While I my banjo play;
Plunky-te-plunk.
My heart is lying 'neath your feet,
Trample it not, I do entreat,
There's love for you in every beat,
So cast it not away,
Plunky-te-plunk.

Bear in bushes (softo voce)—
I'll bear with you, my sweet, my sweet,
And on your banjo play;
Plunky-te-plunk.
My work I'll make both quick and neat,
And chew you both to sausage meat,
To those who love 'tis such a treat,
To watch each other stay,
Plunky-te-plunk (please omit flowers.)
—TRUTH.

---

liners at $1.90 $2.00
Single Pants from 25c.

Belt Buckles and

This is a new dep and you will be surpr small amount of money
Prices, 5c. 10c. 15c. 25c

Fine Ordered Clot

Jas. W

We have a splen
partment and Mr. Wa
Central Ontario. We that will fit you for $10
$16.00, and $17.00 &c
Ordered Clothing.

Men's Ready-mad

We keep u very sizes. Men's Pants at Pants at $1.25 worth $ at $2.75 which are sol

New Spring Milli

Our Milliners durin been in Montreal and goods. You will find this season well up to
Will give you notice
date.

Cotton, Steam La

Shirtings, Cottonades

and Pillow

We defy anyone t
as cheap as we do. D
you can buy them as c will be glad to send sa
out of Napanee.

Men's Ties, Shirts

We have a fine line worth 20c. each. Me
19c. each. Men's Lau and $1.00. extra value
the celebrated "King

The Robinso

NEE EXPRESS.

T. CANADA—FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1896. $1 per Year in advance; $1.50 if not so paid.

WAY

ds are verbal contracts binding as legally sealed ments as a rule have one true ones and the false
So do solid silver and they are worn. The
You will always find our sed.

ess Goods.

s very new, very stylish and
n. These goods are confined to prices are the lowest. Come choice. All shades in a new orth 35c. our price 24c. We All shades in an extra wide our price 48c All shades in a nch Dress Goods, special at 24c.
ds in Mohairs and Brilliantines
rs. We make a specialty of 's.

you good Corsets at 24c. and her sell you our extra value at
We sell the cheapest and best e.

of some some New Capes

to us this week. A season's ores would not disclose hand-e prices are very low. For d Cape in three colors for $1.50.
are just as good values.

Specialty.

ear, for style. for comfort, for cheapness you cannot find any-ur Boy's Suits. We commence
$1.50. We have some splendid

PERSONALS.

Did it ever occur to you that you could assist us greatly to keep up the interest of this column. If you have friends visiting you, or intend leaving town for even a few days kindly let us know by personal call or a post card. Your friends both in the neighborhood and at a distance are interested in your movements. Don't think we should know where you are: tell us.

Mrs. Warner and Mrs. Ferdinand Sperry Rockwell, of "Raeburn Place" will be "At Home" to their friends on March the 9th, 10th. and 11th., from two to five o'clock.

Mrs. James Fairburn was greatly surprised the other day when she went to the post office and found a handsome present from Mr. John McKee, of New York. The compliment was a book called "free at last." It speaks on slavery. This gentleman comes often to Napanee.

Miss Beatrice Gilbert, of Picton, who has been visiting friends in Deseronto, is now spending a week with her sister Miss Jennie Gilbert, teacher of S. S. No. 6 Richmond, after which she goes to Belleville to visit friends there.

The Rev. R. S. Forneri since the death of his wife has been seriously ill. He has suffered excruciatingly from a carbuncle on the back of his neck. Drs. Young and Kidd have been attending him. The parishoners have been wonderfully kind and attentive through all the trouble.

Mr. A. W. Miles, of Johannesburg, South Africa, was in town on Monday the guest of Mr. Frank Trimble. Mr. Miles left South Africa for his home in Toronto on Dec. 8th, shortly before the recent trouble culminating in Jamieson's raid. He is well acquainted with Mr. Trimble and says he is doing well in Africa. He does not anticipate any further trouble with the Boers. Mr. Miles is going back to Johannesburg this month.

Mr. Brock Meredith, of the Kingston Business College, is in town this week getting up a guarantee list for the appearance in the opera house here of the talented elocutionist and humorist, Mr. J. B. McKay, at an early nate.

Mr. Fred Maybee, of Toronto, arrived in town on Wednesday evening. Fred has been on the sick list for a few days and is home for repairs.

Mrs. W. S. Herrington and daughter have been visiting in Belleville this week, the guest of her father-in-law, Mr. S. M. Herrington, Bridge st.

Mr. J.J. Taylor daving resigned his position as manager of the Rathbun Co's. agency here, Mr. Byard Young will from this date take charge of that department.

Mr. M. A. Granger, of Watertown, N. Y, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Granger, of Napanee Mills, who is 84 years of age.

Mr. R. S. Cadman, of Parma, was in town on Tuesday and favored us with a call.

Mr. Bowen E. Aylesworth, of Bath, was in town on Tuesday.

Miss Lena Phillips of South Napanee, was taken quite ill with peritonitis on Wednesday evening.

The Misses Davey's Deseronto Road, are visiting friends in town this week.

Mrs, Wm. Francisco and Master Harry of Kingston, were guests of Mrs. N. Vanalstine, and Miss Effie.

Miss Carrie Benn, of Newburgh, is visiting Miss Effie Vanalstine and Mrs. Wm. Jones this week.

Mr. Anson Thompson, of Selby, spent a few days with friends in Napanee this week.

Miss Effie Vanalstine has returned home after a weeks visit with friend4 in Selby,

Mr. A. D. Moore, of Chicago, has been visiting his brother, Mr. Levi Moore, during the past and present week. He left on Tuesday to visit friends in Prince Edward County.

Miss Theresa Rendell, of McDonald, is spending a few days at Wm German's, South Napanee.

Mr. J. H. Patterson and daughter, of Newburgh, were in town on Saturday.

Mr. Anson Aylsworth, of Newburgh, was in town on Saturday and favored us with a call.

Mr. H. S. Davey License Commissioner, Odessa, was in town on Friday and favored us with a call.

Sir. Richard Cartwright was in town on Saturday.

U. Wilson came down from Ottawa on Saturday.

Miss Annie Lafferty was "at home" to a few friends last Wednesday evening.

Miss Marjie Barrett left on Monday for a two weeks visit in the Queen city.

Miss Jarvis, of Montreal, is visiting in town, the guest of Miss Mowat.

Mrs. J. W. Fuller, of Tamworth, Mrs. J. Brickwood, of Kingston, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Douglas from Friday of last week until Tuesday.

Miss Marion McCabe returned on Thursday from a six weeks visit with her aunt, Mrs. M. Williams, of Croydon.

Captain and Mrs. O'Brien, of Picton, have been the guests of Mrs. A. McNeill, "Fountain Hall" for the past few days.

Mr. Jack O'Brien, of Tamworth, is the guest of Miss Eva Neville, Thomas st.

Mr F. Wiskin's little girl is much recovered her recent illness as to be pronounced out of danger.

Mr. and Mrs. Byard Shibley, of Wilton, were visiting friends in Napanee on Wednesday and Thursday.

Miss Dorland, school teacher, of Adolphustown was calling on friends in Napanee this week.

NEWS FROM THE COUNTRY

WILTON.

A. E. Gallagher is drawing ice from Odessa.

Miss Ada Patterson spent Sunday in Harrowsmith.

Miss Rose Shibley is visiting friends in Napanee.

Mrs. Jas. Miller has been on the sick list.

Mrs. R. Stormes fell last Sunday morning and broke her wrist. Dr. Mabee, Odessa, is attending it.

Visitors: Miss Emma Irish, Camden East, at Jas. Davy's; Mrs. Vanluven, Murvale, at her daughter's, Mrs. Ovens'; Wm. Jordan and wife, Campbellford, and Miss L. Lewis, Newburgh, at Thos. Mills'; Mordy Storms, Desert Lake, at his father's, R. Storms.

SALEM.

Holy, Wholey, Holey, pitch-holes and slump-holes, our roads ar full of them.

Miss Ida Vine is visiting friends in Camden East. We miss you Ida.

Robert Walker has secured a situation at the Paisley House.

Miss Gertie Conger, and cousin Maggie, spent Saturday night and part of Sunday with their anut, Mrs. Manley Conger, Deseronto Road.

Mrs. Edward Vine, Sr. is a victim of La Grippe. Dr. Leonard has been attending her, Mrs. J. E Emberson and daughter have been suffering from a very severe cold.

Mr Norris is confined to his bed through an attack of the shingles.

A number from here attended the carnival at Deseronto on Tuesday evening, and report a fine time.

Mrs. Kent and daughter Lena, have recovered from an attack of Influenza.

Who broke their cutter dash on Sunday?

John Vine and wife spent Friday last the guests of her brother, Archie Fairbairn, of the Kingston Road.

Miss Kate Roach is working for Mrs. (Rev.) Arthur Jarvis at present.

March Fair passed off very quietly, a few horse trades and also a few head-aches and fights. Our fair ground which reaches from Starvation Street to Seldom-seen Avenue, was litterally thatched with old hides. Anyone wishing to buy or exchange horses would have done well to give us a call.

PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY.

Roads have been almost impassable for the past two weeks.

Mrs Edward Plews, Cressy, has been very ill for some time past.

La Grippe and pneumonia are doing terrible work in the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Slater, Yerexville, are visiting friends at Cressy, this week.

Thieves entered the barn of Mr. Bruce E. Johnson, of the Pleasant View Jersey Stock Farm, some few nights ago, and carried away six or seven bags of oats. They left behind a lot of burnt matches lying about the floor of the barn. Too bad they cannot be found out.

Mr. Jerome Osborn, who has for the past month been visiting friends in this county, intends returning to his home at Herkimer, N. Y., one day this week. Mr. Osborn is well known in the vicinity of Napanee.

The whole community was shocked to hear of the sudden death of Samuel J. Doney, reeve of Sophiasburgh, which occurred on Sunday, Feb 16th Mr. Doney was ill six days and was a victim of pneumonia.

Another sad event, (since our last communication) was the death of Mrs. Bert Davis, Sophiasburgh. Mrs. Davis was very young, seventeen years and eleven months, and saddest of all, leaves a baby girl, about a year old, to learn the loss of a mother's loving care.

Dr Karn, of Woodstock, has secured the practice of Dr. Stirling, Picton. Dr. Stirling goes to Kingston to take place of the late Dr. Fenwick. The many friends of Dr. Stirling in this county, especially at Cressy, where he used formerally to reside, are loath to part with him.

Mrs. (Capt.) Waynne Hersally, of Sault

KINGSFORD.

Mrs. Maggie Anderson, of Selby spent Saturday and Sunday the guest of her mother, Mrs. A. J. Ballance.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. V. Sexsmith spent Wednesday evening at Mr. Craig Carscallen's, Forest Mills.

Miss Laura Woodcock spent Saturday in town.

We are called upon to chronicle this week the exceedingly sad death of Mrs. John Wilson (nee Miss Caroline Barker, of Prince Edward county). Deceased was about 62 years of age, and was esteemed by all who knew her. Her pleasant smile and the warm clasp of her hand will be remembered for a long time. She leaves a loving husband and two sons to mourn the loss of an affectionate mother. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. F. B. Stratton, of Selby, and was well attended by friends and acquaintances.

Miss Rachael Jordan returned to her duties in Kingston on Wednesday last.

Mr. Robert Longmore, of Bicknell's Corner, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Thos. Sexsmith, Forest Mills.

Mr. George McKnight is under the care of Messrs. Ruttan and Leonard. His case is doubtful.

Mr. David Doyle was renewing old acquaintances in Roslin last week.

One of our young ladies saw seven robins sitting in an apple tree near the house one morning last week. If all signs are true it is a sign of spring.

TAMWORTH.

We had another accident here on Saturday. A farmer by the name of Quinn, while driving over the lower bridge with a load of wood, broke one of the timbers crossing the span of the river, causing his load to fall off and then the other span gave way and sleigh, team and man went down to the bottom or bed of the river. There was not much water running at the time or they would most undoubtedly have been drowned. The horses were badly cut and bruised. The pole was broken. One of the horses fell on the man at the bottom. He is badly bruised and it cannot yet be learned how bad he is hurt. Three loads went from here to their rescue, as soon as the word came, and got them out. There is a good deal of traffic in wood over the bridge drawing logs, timber, and wood to and from the lower saw mill. Owing to the great distance of the fall it is a great wonder he was not killed outright.

Mr. James Smith of our village bought a fine colt from John Shire, but as it has not been a good colt to break to drive it has made some bad breaks with cutter and sleighs. It generally runs near from all it is hitched to before it stops. Yesterday it put a hole through the dash of the cutter and left it on the fence. A bad showing for a new colt.

We had a Grand Supper given in Shield's Hotel in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kennedy who leave shortly for Dresden, for their new home. About 160 assembled for the occasion. The rooms were beautifully decorated and the tables fairly groaned with eatables on the best of which Mrs. Shields is noted. Speeches and toasts were plentiful, interspersed with music from Mr. F. W. Hart, agent for the Karn Piano Co. who had one of their beautiful pianos on hand for the occasion.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Council met in regular session, Mayor Carson in the chair, present, Symington, Boyle, Madole, Madden, Lapum, Miller, Perry, Lowry.

Minutes of last regular meeting read and confirmed.

A communication from J. W. Blevins, City Clerk of Toronto was read asking the co-operation of the council in obtaining from the Ontario Legislature such legislation as will enable municipalities to enjoy the right to establish Municipal Fire Insurance Bureaus. A copy of the bill now before the Ontario Legislature was also enclosed, looking towards the right of establishing such Bureaus. The matter was referred to the Fire, Water & Light committee to report.

.00 $2.25 &c. We sell Boys' 25c. up.

d Beltings.

departure with us this season, urprised to find that such a oney will buy such good goods. . 25c. 30c. 45c. 50c.

lothing.

Walters, Cutter.

splendid Ordered Clothing De- Walters is the best cutter in We can make you a good suit $10.00, $12.00, $14.00, $15.00 &c &c. Try us this year for aae Pants.

ery large assortment in all s at 98c. worth $1.25. Men's th $1.75. A splendid fine line sold everywhere at $3.50.

llinery.

aring the last two weeks have nd Toronto selecting our new find our Millinery Department to date in every particular. ice of our opening at a later

Looms,

ades, Tickings, Sheetings,

illow Cottons,

ne to sell you any of these lines Don't be foolish and think as cheap in other stores. We d samples to customers living rts and Collars.

ine of Men's Ties, 2 for 25c. Men's Ties worth 25c. for Laundried Shirts at 50c. 75c. alue. We are sole agents for ng Dress Shirt."

son Company.

Miss Rosa Shibley, of Wilton, visiting Mrs. John Anderson, left for her home on Thursday.

Mrs. A. E. Lang, and Mr. Clarence M. Warner, left for Belleville Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ovens, of Wilton, were visiting Mrs. Thos. Johnston over Sunday.

Robert Miller and L. L. Gallagher, of Wilton, were attending Court in Napanee this week.

Mrs. William Osburn and son Herbert, of Belleville, are the guest of her aunt' Mrs. G. E. Maybee, Plety Hill

On Friday evening of last week Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dey celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding by entertaining a number of friends at their residence. A most enjoyable time was spent.

Rev. Mr. Serson, of Tamworth, was in town on Wednesday and favored us with a call.

Mr. D. F. Fretts and family took up their residence in town on Tuesday. Mr. Fretts comes from near Newburgh.

Miss Edith Whitmarsh, Plety Hill, was "At Home" to a number of her friends on Tuesday evening.

Miss Nellie Ferguson, of Napanee, is visiting in Deseronto.

Mrs. Lester Shannon was "at home" to a number of friends on Wednesday evening. A pleasant time was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Vanluven and child, of Moscow, spent Sunday in town the guest of Governor Vanluven.

Miss Mary Fairburn, of Teeswater, left here on Saturday for her home after an extended visit in town with her aunt Mrs. Wm. Tilley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Rockwell returned from their wedding trip on Sunday morning March 1st.

Clark Walker, of Wilton, Nelson of Florida, Wilton P. O, were in Napanee on Saturday last on business.

Miss Jessie Hope, of Newburgh, is visiting her friend, Miss Brandon, Plety Hill.

Mr. Charles Kellar left town on Thursday to look after his farming interests in Hamilton, North Dakota.

Dr. Clarke, of Tamworth, was in town this week attending the assizes.

Mr. Hiram Keech, Reeve of Sheffield, was in town this week looking after the interests of the township in the case at the assizes, Parks vs. Sheffield.

Dr. Wilson, of Tamworth, was in attendance at the assizes this week.

MARRIED.

By Rev. D. O. Crossley, on March, 2nd, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Harry E. Smith of Napanee, to Miss. Olive E. Blanchard, youngest daughter of J. Blanchard Esq. of North Fredericksburgh.

DIED.

MILLING—At Napanee on Sunday, March 1st, 1896, Stewart Milling, aged 70 years, 4 months and 26 days.

WILLIAMS—On Saturday Feb. 29th, at Camden East, Edna Earl, youngest daughter of L. D. Williams. Esq. aged 15 years, 4 months and 4 days.

Leap Year.

Dear miss, you ask me to be yours,
You say you love me true.
How can I know that I dare trust
My happiness to you?
They tell me that poor careless heart
Is cold and callous too;
And, if unfaithful you should be,
Ah me, what should I do?

Nay, do not squeeze my hand, nor kneel,
Entreatingly to me,
My heart you've won, I must confess,
And yet it cannot be.
For I've been told you wayward are,
And love not faithfully,
So I must bid you go, fair maid,
'Tis best, you will agree.

You gamble, miss, and drink and smoke,
I've even heard you swear,
I am too timid, I'm afraid,
Too fragile and too fair
To be the mate of such an one,
My life would be all care;
Your faithlessness and cold neglect
I would not, would not bear.

So let us speak no more of love,
It pains me, as you see,
For, though you swear you're constant, yet
I fear you'd tire of me.
But we may still be honest friends,
You shake your head, mais oui!
Come, take my hand, I promise that,
I will a brother be.

MILL HAVEN.

The skating is good on the bay for the first time this winter. The roads are also excellent. The changes in the weather have caused a great many severe colds.

Miss Maud Kemp has gone to join her mother in Chatham.

Mr. Lyn, of Rawdon, is visiting friends in this vicinity.

Mrs. D. Hinton, of Stella, has been taking care of her mother, who was ill with the grippe.

Miss Ethel Fleming has been spending a few days with her sisters in Kingston.

Mr, and Mrs. Leslie, of Deseronto, spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Charlie Collins.

The lecture delivered by Rev. G. S. White in Beulah church last week was a decided success.

Mr. W. Parrott still continues very low.

Mr. Spoward is stopping at Mr. Fred. Wemp's.

Miss Edith Demorest, of Empey Hill, is spending a couple of weeks with her sister.

Mrs. Frank Collins is visiting her parents in Napanee.

Mrs. (Capt.) Wayline Hersaly, of Sault St Marie, Mich., is in attendance at the sickbed of her mother, Mrs. Sarah Jordon, Waupoos.

CENTREVILLE WEST.

Since the thaw on Sunday the roads are nearly impassable.

Crows, the harbinger of spring, have made their appearance. Robins have also been seen

Perry Bros. have finished their ice contracts and have resumed their wood operations again.

Donnelly & Co. have nearly finished their contracts drawing hay.

Mr. C. H Lochhead has returned home from Toronto, where he was as a delegate attending the Grand Lodge of United Workmen.

Mr. E. H. Perry returned from Perth on Saturday, where he was for a few days visiting friends.

Mrs. M. Ingoldsby returned home on Friday after spending a week visiting friends in Newburgh.

Miss M. McConnell, of Railton, has been engaged as teacher for the remainder of the year.

It is said we have some experts at lithography, so say some of our villagers. By the use of chalk and blacking they are able to produce more than mere "Shadowgraphs."

D. McNeil talks of renting his farm and going to California, or some other land of "Perpetual Bloom."

James A. Weese, deputy-reeve, spends most of his time at Croydon, helping to attend to his store there.

James M. Lochhead has given the contract for the erection of a new house.

Messrs J. and D. Quinn, of Erinsville, were visiting friends here on Sunday.

It is said that bachelors do not make good officers. Perhaps as they grow older they will grow wiser as their ancestors did.

"Melancholy" seems to be prevalent here at present but fortunately this time on the opposite "sex."

Bicycles handled by Boyle & Son are creating quite a favor, they seem to have the favorities. Go and see them.

Mr. C. H. Ross has arrived from Detroit and taken charge of the tailoring department of J. L. Boyes clothing store. If you went a nice stylish Spring Suit, Mr. Ross can make it.

Your Choice

Of any Tie in our window this week for

25 Cents.

D. J. Hogan,

& SON.

NAPANEE

mittee to report.

The matter of the fire alarm system was then taken up, the contract with the Bell Telephone Company having expired. The Bell Telephone Company submitted a new contract

Coun. Leonard entered.

Mr. W. C Scott was heard in reference to the new contract, and explained its provisions. The contract is identical with the one that just expired, and is entered into for a term of five years.

On motion of couns. Lowry and Madden the contract was accepted, and the Mayor authorized to sign it.

A communication from E. Duncan and Wm. Loucks was read offering to furnish broken gravel to the council at $2 per toise providing they would be allowed to break it on Roblin's Hill on the corporation's property and be allowed to start to work at once. Referred to the Street Committee with power to act.

A communication from David York was ordered laid on the table.

A communication from the Treasurer re land in arrears for taxes was referred to the Finance committe to report.

The Treasurer's monthly statement, showing the amount at credit of the corporation to be $328.63, was read and ordered filed.

The chairman of the Finance Committe submitted a report, in the matter referred to them at the last regular meeting of the council, recommending the payment of J. J. Perry's account, $8 75. In the matter of the statement of the Gibbard Furniture Co. re hands employed and wages paid out during the year the committee recommended that the statement be [illegible] if found in accordance and [illegible] in reference to the by-law the [illegible] clerk the tax exemptions be [illegible] report was adopted clause by clause. [illegible]oun. Lapum called for the yeas and nays. Lapum, Madden and Low [illegible] the rest yeas. yeas 7, nays.

The following report was [illegible] by Reeve Symington and accepted by the council.

To the Mayor and council,

GENTLEMEN: we your special committee appointed to examine and report on the auditors reports beg leave to report and recommend that the clerk be instructed to refer the Auditors report to the School Board and respectfully draw their attention to the report in reference to the manner of admitting foreign pupils, the School Board Sec-Treas. securities, and the apparent extravagant nature of the expenditures on our schools:

THOS. SYMINGTON,
W. D MADDEN,
JOHN CARSON
DR. LEONARD.

The referred account of Wm. Templeton of $10 was ordered to be paid

Coun. Lowry, in the absence of Coun. Alexander, chairman of Poor and Sanitary Committee, called the attention of the council to some extreme cases of destitution. The Poor and Sanitary Committe were delegated to investigate the cases referred to and report at next meeting, and were empowered to grant assistance in the meantime if they deemed it advisable, and necessary.

On motion the Street Committee was authorized to advertise for tenders for materials for streets.

ACCOUNTS.

Bell Telephone, $10; J. Storms, $3; Gas Co., $8 82; John T. Grange, Auditor, $15; R. G. Wright, Auditor, $15;

The Treasurer was granted a vouchers for $1,000 paid the Board of Education.

The following account was referred; Electric Light Co, 3 months lighting $339.-15.

Council adjourned.

AVOID DANGER AND TROUBLE.

Beware of Substitutes When Buying Package Dyes.

When danger and deception threaten to disturb the peace and happiness of wives and mothers, it is but right that they should be warned and advised.

Crude and worthless imitations of Diamond Dyes are put up by some manufacturers for the sake of profit only. It matters little to them if women have their materials spoiled in the dyeing operation, their tempers ruffled, or soul worried, as long as their common products are sold.

For easy and profitable home dyeing, the Diamond Dyes to-day command the admiration of the civilized world. Insist, therefore, that your dealer provide you with the "Diamond" that are always a success. The Diamond Dyes are the favorites with all wise women.

The Dominion Bank

ESTABLISHED 1871.

CAPITAL — $1,500,000.00
RESERVE FUND — $1,450,000.00

Deposits received and interest allowed
Drafts on all parts of Great Britain and United States bought and sold,

E. H. BAINES, Agent.

J. L. BOYES

having purchased

$3,000.00 Worth of Stock of McAlister & Co. at a a very low figure, and having thoroughly replenished the stock with a full line of

New Goods for Spring bought at close cash prices will enable us to offer special value in Clothing, Tweeds, Furnishings, Hats and Caps.

C. H. FINKLE.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER, Newburgh, Ont. Orders left with Ewart and Vanluven, Yarker, will have prompt attention. Telephone communication.

WANTED SALESMEN We want one or two GOOD MEN in each County to take orders for a choice line of NURSERY STOCK or SEED POTATOES Stock and Seed guaranteed. We can give you STEADY EMPLOYMENT with Good Pay. It will cost you nothing to give it a trial. State when writing which you prefer to sell. Address

THE HAWKS NURSERY CO.,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

ONE THING IS CERTAIN PAIN-KILLER KILLS PAIN

PAIN-KILLER

THE GREAT

Family Medicine of the Age.

Taken Internally, It Cures

Diarrhœa, Cramp, and Pain in the Stomach, Sore Throat, Sudden Colds, Coughs, etc., etc.

Used Externally, It Cures

Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Sprains, Toothache, Pain in the Face, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Frosted Feet.

No article ever attained to such unbounded popularity.—Salem Observer.

We can bear testimony to the efficacy of the Pain-Killer. We have seen its magic effects in soothing the severest pain, and know it to be a good article.—Cincinnati Dispatch.

Nothing has yet surpassed the Pain-Killer, which is the most valuable family medicine now in use.—Tennessee Organ.

It has real merit; as a means of removing pain, no medicine has acquired a reputation equal to Perry Davis' Pain-Killer.—Newport News.

Beware of imitations. Buy only the genuine "PERRY DAVIS." Sold everywhere; large bottles 25c.

too urgently impressed on the people. The reforesting of Ontario is a move that cannot be taken too soon, and we are glad to perceive that the Ontario Legislature are becoming interested in it.

THE Blue Books issued by the Government from year to year, and giving concise information of the expenditures, revenues, workings, etc., of the various departments with which they deal, are interestiug reading and should be in the hands of every taxpayer in the country. Unfortunately a large percentage of our people never see a blue book from one year's end to the other. If they are made easy of access to the farmers, we feel that the information they contain will be a revelation to them, and when they perceive how the funds of the country are squandered they will come to the conclusion that it is about time for them to take steps towards helping to stop the drain on our resources. THE EXPRESS is in possession of the blue books issued by the Dominion Government, and they are at the disposal at all times of any ratepayer of Lennox, who desires to examine them. Call in and have a look at them. It is well worth the trouble.

A SERIOUS OUTLOOK.

That the N.P. has failed to benefit Napanee is patent to every intelligent observer. That it has been injurious to the county of Lennox and has unduly hampered the farmer is equally as transparent. The extreme partisan may give evidence of the faith that is in him by specious reasoning and citing causes other than our fiscal policy as the result of the widespread depression, business stagnation and lack of development in the country, but to the unprejudiced and intelligent seeker after the true cause it is apparent that all our woes and lack of growth is directly traceable to the workings of the National Policy, and the era of corruption and mismanagement ushered in with it.

The Saturday Globe of the 15th inst., contained a very able and impartial summing up of the effects of the N.P. on Napanee and the county of Lennox, by a special correspondent delegated to make the investigation. The facts as stated by him are disheartening enough, but unfortunately they are much worse than he has painted them. He has taken a wide and moderate view of the situation. The depths to which the farmers of this county have been plunged and the burdens they are struggling under are appalling. Our farmers are frugal, intelligent and industrious. Their wives and daughters are self-denying, and painstaking. As a class of hard-working, God fearing and law abiding men and women, they will bear favorable comparison with any people in the world. In spite of their toil and patience, however, they find the burdens every year becoming more excessive, the struggle for very existence more unequal, and their labors more unremunerative. The parents see their sons and daughters forced to leave home, to migrate, not, alas, to the fertile fields of Manitoba and the Northwest, but to an alien land. In Manitoba and the Northwest, as here, the N.P. has proved a stumbling block against the interests of the people. It is fast developing our farmers into a class, not of land owners, but tenants; serfs to the Loan Company and the money lender. The number of renters in Lennox are increasing every day, and an intelligent observer informs us that it is no exaggeration to say that the farmers in this county are not worth within 70 per cent. of what they were 15 or 20 years ago.

With all our varied resources, with the thousands of dollars spent annually to induce emigrants to settle in Canada, the country has not, according to the census, retained its natural increase in population. The population

BEES.

Richmond, Feb. 3rd, 1896.

R. A. FOWLER, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,—In answer to your kind invitation, on behalf of your Farmer's Institute, to attend the approaching meeting and give an address on "Bees," I beg to express my regret that I cannot make it convenient to attend. I shall, however, put a few thoughts and facts on the subject to paper, which, if you choose, you may read to the meeting.

First, it is a fact that the honey-bee is, perhaps, the most useful and industrious insect in existence—"most useful" because honey has no rival in dietetic as a luxury, and because the bee performs an inestimable service to agriculture and horticulture in fertilizing flowers; and "most industrious" because "the little busy bee" will work as long as there is anything to do or any room to store the nectar. With such qualities it is small wonder that the bee is in such high favor among apiarists, if not among the people generally. Its unpopularity with outsiders is doubtless due to that POINTED "business end", which it has a way of presenting on provocation (and sometimes without provocation) to intruders and interlopers.

There are three kinds of bees in a colony—the queen, the workers, and the drones. There is no place for the traditional "old King Bee" in the modern hive. Nor is the queen a "King," either sexually or governmentally; as she is of the feminine persuasion, and exercises none of the functions of government in the hive. She is simply the mother of the whole family which compose the colony; but, unlike most mothers, never nurses or cares for her own offspring. Under normal conditions the queen deposits all the eggs, and the workers do all the nursing and other work in and out of the hive. The queen bee will lay as many as 2,000 eggs daily for weeks in succession; and it is a wonderful fact that her daily deposit of eggs will weigh twice or thrice as much as her whole body. She will lay eggs in sixty days equal in weight to 180 queens like herself. This extraordinary fact is explained by the richness of the food given her by the workers, and its immediate availability, being partially, if not wholly, digested before given to her.

Now, what a fine thing it would be for the farmers if the chemists and physiologists would set themselves about some experiment to hit on a food for our cows which would enable them to come up to the queen bee and give three times their own weight in milk in a day! What a veritable god-send that would be to the farmers these hard times; and I hereby commend the matter to the serious consideration of Prof. Robertson and the Chemist and Biologist of the Experimental Farm. Another singular fact about the queen bee is that she determines the sex of her offspring at will; and another fact equally strange is that as a virgin queen she is capable of becoming the mother of MALE OFFSPRING PREVIOUS TO ANY SEXUAL CONNECTION. She cannot however become the mother of a female offspring without copulation with the drone, and impregnation—the one copulative act serving for life. Before copulation she deposits drone (male eggs): after copulation she deposits at will either male or female eggs. The ability of the virgin queen to produce male offspring is not, however, an isolated case, as natural history furnishes a few other examples. Another strange fact in the bee-hive is that the workers can take these female eggs, deposited by the queen after impregnation, and rear either workers or queens from them at will; and, of course, the difference is great between the queen and worker. They accomplish this by a variation in the nursing—by constructing different cells for Foul breath is a discourager of affection. There are more reasons than one for this. Foul breath is always an indication of poor health—bad digestion. To bad digestion is traceable almost all human ills. It is the starting point of many very serious maladies. Upon the healthy action of the digestive organs, the blood depends for its richness and purity. If digestion stops, poisonous matter accumulates and is forced into the blood—there is no place else for it to go. Before this, the fermented, putrid matter has indicated its presence by making the breath foul, the complexion sallow and muddy, the eyes dull and the head heavy. By and by, the germ infected poisonous matter in the blood causes weakness or inflammation in some part of the body. Then comes rheumatism, scrofula, consumption, liver complaint, kidney trouble and a half a hundred other ills.

The bad breath is a danger signal. Look out for it! If you have it, or any other symptom of indigestion, take a bottle or two of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will straighten out the trouble, make your blood pure and healthy and full of nutriment for the tissues. It is a strong statement, but a true one that the "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption if it is taken in the early stages. It will relieve even the most obstinate cases of long standing.

Send thirty-one cents in one-penny stamps to prepay postage and duty only and you will receive from the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y., a large book of 1000 pages profusely illustrated, telling all about the "Golden Medical Discovery" and containing portraits, testimonials and addresses of hundreds of those cured by it. It is a complete Family Doctor Book.

colony of bees, whether such colony occupy a tree in the woods, a "gum" in the door-yard, an "old box hive" or a modern movable-frame hive with all its mechanical conveniences and appliances.

That bee-culture has become a science and an art is hardly to be wondered at in these days of the marvelous progress of all the arts and sciences. But, unfortunately, just as apiculture has developed into this status a most serious obstacle threatens its existence as a specialty. This obstacle is the disappearance of the nectar yielding flora. Over the whole civilized face of North America the great forests have been for half a century rapidly disappearing. With them have gone some of the chief sources of our choicest honey — the basswood, the maple, the willow, etc. The vast areas which used to yield vegetable flora and wild flowers in abundance are turned into cultivated fields by modern machinery. Moreover, with the disappearance of the forests have come the severe and prolonged droughts which militate against every branch of agriculture—apiculture included. And right here allow me to urge upon farmers the desirability of planting trees and preserving their woods and the scattering trees over their farms, except where they actually interfere with cultivation. This rapid destruction of trees and forests over the whole country is a most serious matter. The farmer is, of course, mainly responsible, and he will be the chief sufferer. I say to the farmers and others, PLANT TREES—plant wherever and whenever practicable. For myself, I practice my own preaching, and have done my share in this matter—having planted during the last ten or twelve years about a thousand trees — basswood, maple, etc. Our governments, local and general, ought to encourage tree planting much more than they do; and they ought to take proper steps for the preservation of what we have left as far as possible, consistent, of course,

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address, MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

FARMERS ATTENTION.

Insure your property in the Lennox and Addington Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

Because it is a Home Company.
Because it is a Safe Company.
Because it is the cheapest and best.
Because it affords the most liberal policies to patrons.
Because it insures only (isolated) non-hazardous risks, as farm property, county churches halls and school houses.

Because it is the Farmer's Company managed by Farmers in the interest of farmers of the Counties of Lennox and Addington, Hastings Frontenac, Lanark and Leed.

Officers—J. B. Aylsworth President; R. C. Lloyd, Vice President. Directors—A. C. Parks, U. C. Sills, W. S. Gordanier, I. F. Aylesworth. Honorary Directors—Jas. Reid, M.P.P., A. V. Price, Camden; C. R. Allison, Wm. Chesters Fredericksburgh; D. W. Allison, ex-M.P., Adolphustown; F. B. Guess, Cod, Geo. Hooper Kingston; Allan Pringle, Ira B. Hudgins, Richmond. The board meets at the Secretary's office in the first Saturday of every month at one p.m.

J. N. McKim, Napanee.
W. W. Lapum, Wilton } Agents
M. Burns, Gananoque.
M. C. BOGART, Sec'y.-Treas.

Provincial Building and Loan Association, Toronto.

Local Advisory Board at Napanee.

President, M. S. Madole Esq; Vice Pres., G. W. Gibbard Esq, F. W. Morris, T. D. Pruyn, J. J. Taylor, Chas. Frizzell, Dr. G. W. Edwards, W. P. Deroche. Solicitors Messrs. Deroche and Madden. Valuator, W. Embury; Sect. Treasurer and Agent, Irvine Parks.

from whom all information can be obtained. Money received on investment at good interest, and money loaned on easy terms of repayment.

Apply to I. Parks, Agent.

Assessment System Reserve Principle.

HOME LIFE.
Association of Canada
72 King St. East., Toronto.

Hon. Rich Harcourt, Treas. Prov. Ont. President
A. J. Pattison, Toronto, Gen. Manager
Geo. B. Woods, Toronto, Supt. of Agencies.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

Incorporated by special act of Dominion Parliament under the supervision and inspection of the Superintendent of Insurance for the Dominion of Canada. Pure Life Insurance at cost. Policy incontestible after three years for any cause whatever, except from non-payment of annual rates.

Profits divided to Policy holders every five years.

W. SYDNEY DETLOR,
Inspector, Central Ontario.

Office in Napanee, Albert Block.
Good reliable agents wanted in unrepresented districts.

The Napanee Express

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, MAR. 6, 1896.

IN the Auditor General's Report, year ending 30th of June, 1895, we see that the Napanee Beaver received $341.18, E. H. Sills, $366.69, Chas. Perry, $500, G. M. Elliott, $1,250, John Hearns, $400, or all told about $600, A. F. Holmes, $2,222.20. The Napanee post office allowance was $1,973.20.

THE paper on "Bees" in another column from the pen of the well-known aparian, Mr. Allan Pringle, will well repay perusal. Mr. Pringle is recognized as one of the best posted men in Canada on this subject, and he handles it in a very entertaining manner. His advice, in passing, on the necessity of the tree planting is one that cannot be of Lennox has decreased since 1886 some 1400, and Napanee has lost a large number of her inhabitants since that period. This is a serious outlook for the people of Napanee. This is a typical agricultural town, depending almost entirely on the farmers. The N.P. instead of creating any new industries here, has robbed us of many that flourished prior to its inauguration. If the farmers are prosperous the townspeople will share in that prosperity, but if the farmer is not prosperous his purchasing power will be decreased and Napanee will suffer in consequence. Our citizens have therefore a selfish interest in his prosperity and should assist him to secure the removal of the restrictions and burdens that unduly hamper him.

Why Spraying Failed.

People sometimes write us that spraying for apple scab has not been effective, and in some instances we have ascertained, upon investigation, that the spraying was not thorough enough. The tree should be thoroughly drenched with the Bordeaux mixture.—Farmer's Voice.

MAKES THEM WELL!

Paine's Celery Compound Woman's Tower of Safety in the Spring Season.

IT HAS A MARVELOUS RECORD

Cures When all Other Medicines Fail.

The Home Friend of Half a Million Canadian Families.

The world has never heard of a medicine so highly recommended as Paine's Celery Compound. It has a world-wide reputation, because it "makes people well."

Paine's Celery Compound is known as "Woman's Tower of Safety." As the seasons come with trying and varied weather, women of all conditions find in Paine's Celery Compound a life-giver and health-preserver. It establishes that perfect condition of health that keeps the user far above any depressing influence of variable weather. It feeds the great nervous system and keeps the blood pure and fresh. For weakness, prostration, nervousness, rheumatism, dyspepsia, indigestion, headache and neuralgia, this marvellous discovery of Prof. Phelps has no equal. It always cures when other medicines prove useless, and to-day Paine's Celery Compound is the chosen medicine in half a million of Canadian homes. Miss Bridges, of Montreal, says:

"I consider it a pleasure as well as a duty to put on record what Paine's Celery Compound has done for me. I suffered for years from indigestion, headache, pains in the back and side, and from a nervous, tired feeling. I used many patent medicines without any good results. I was always attended by one of the best doctors and used his medicines, but could not get cured.

"I saw Paine's Celery Compound advertised, and decided to try a bottle. It gave me such good results that I used six bottles, and found myself altogether a new person. I have now used it for some time, and can say with pleasure that all my troubles are banished; and my nerves are strong, my sleep is good, and appetite splendid.

"I would therefore stongly recommend Paine's Celery Compound to all who suffer as I did; they are sure and certain of good results."

the young queens and giving different food to them. When they wish to raise a queen from an ordinary worker egg they prepare a special cell more than twice as large as the worker cell, and hanging downwards instead of standing out at right angles to the septum of the comb as the worker cells do; and they feed the young larva in these queen cells on a special preparation of food called "Royal Jelly," richer in nitrogen than the food of the worker, and which has the effect of fully developing the sexual apparatus. The result is that a perfect female bee—a queen—hatches from her commodious and well-provisioned cell in about sixteen days from the time the egg is laid. The queen bee, like the worker, has a sting, but is above using it on ordinary mortals. On state occasions she brings it into requisition on rival queens, the royal combat ending in the death of one of the combatants. The queen lives, if allowed, from three to five years. Her wonderful fecundity fails her, however, about the second or third year, when she is either "superseded" by the workers themselves or by the apiarist. So much for the queen-bee and her wonderful capabilities and peculiarities.

The workers come next. They are females not fully developed, and are much smaller than the queen. They are well named "WORKERS." They do about everything that is done IN the hive and OUT—including the rearing of the brood, the secretion of wax (which is made from honey,) the building of comb, and the gathering of honey. Sometimes when the colony becomes queenless with no eggs present from which to rear another, certain of the workers, without copulation, develop into layers called "fertile workers."

In the desperate extremity of the colony without a queen, these "fertile workers" begin to deposit eggs in the cells in the hope of perpetuating the family. But as these spurious queens can only lay drone eggs they are worse than useless, and the colony soon comes to an end without a fertile queen. The natural term of the worker's life is but a few weeks in activity in the honey season, and a few months when inactive as in winter quarters.

We now come to the DRONES, and these fellows are well named, and are, in many respects, very like the human drones and tramps, inasmuch as they "toil not, neither do they spin," but are splendid eaters, with fine digestion and robust constitution. The drone also goes from house to house like the tramp—a sort of free-commoner—a privilege not enjoyed by the workers or queen who are promptly ejected from strange premises unless they can show their credentials, which, in this case, consist in a BIG LOAD OF HONEY or pollen to take IN with them. The drone, however, like the tramp, may go to his neighbor or a stranger hungry, and get in and be filled. Being minus a sting, the drone is a poor fighter, and readily succumbs. His sole, useful function in life is to become the father of the workers, while, strange to say, he himself is fatherless, as may be inferred from what has been already stated. Copulation is fatal to the drone. In the one act he surrenders his life. Barring that fatal contingency, he lives several months if allowed to do so by the workers, who are supreme and rule the drone as well as the queen. When the flowers fail to yield nectar the drones are no longer tolerated by the workers unless the colony is without a fertile queen. One great advantage of the movable comb hive over the "old box hive" is that the number of drones can be controlled and their undue multiplication kept down. When not so controlled they multiply, and consume great quantities of honey.

These, then, are the denizens, ranging in number from 30 to 50 thousands, which go to make up a normal with the rights and liberties of the subject. This, however, is a digression, but one justifiable because of its vital importance.

While, therefore, owing to these causes, bee-culture as a specialty or exclusive business, is certainly doomed in most parts of the U. S. and Canada, yet there is ample room and justfication for its expansion as a subsidiary pursuit. As the specialists are forced out of the field the amateurs may safely multiply, and farmers generally may keep a few colonies of bees, while those more expert may combine bee-keeping on a larger scale with some other business, such as horticulture, gardening, poultry-raising, etc., and thus make it profitable all around. And while the ordinary farmer or gardener may keep a few colonies of bees to advantage in a primitive style without much aptitude for or technical knowledge of the subject, to do much with bees requires both aptitude and knowledge.

In Ontario, as yet, there is but one colony to about 1½ square miles, while Holland (the highest I know of) has 18 colonies to the square mile; Belgium comes next with 17; Austria 13; Germany 9, etc. Of late years, in an average honey season, Canada produces from one to two million pounds of honey. We do not export honey because their is not yet enough produced for home consumption. Pure honey is the most palatable and wholesome sweet, and is rapidly superseding the various inferior syrups and sugars in the dietary of the people. Honey, too, is more easily digested than any of the sugars or syrups of commerce, and hence ought to take precedence over them for that reason alone. The general substitution of honey for pork on the tables of the people would be a step in the direction of hygienic living, and would doubtless improve the public health. ALLEN PRINGLE.

Discounting the Season.

The other evening Toddletums called his papa to tell him that he couldn't get to sleep for the mosquitoes.

"Never mind, Toddle; just put your head under the clothes, where they can't get at you."

Toddletums did so, but in a little while he peered from under the clothing. A firefly happening along at the moment set him yelling:

"It's no use, papa. I hid under the clothes, and now they've gone off and got lanterns to find me with."—Harper's Round Table.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

TO HEAL MANKIND.

It is as a healing medicine for all outward sores, ulcers, blotches, skin diseases, cancer, scrofulous sores, etc., that Burdock Blood Bitters has won some of its most signal victories over disease. In every case where it has been faithfully tried a clear bright skin and sound whole flesh have resulted.

Here is what Miss Lillie V. Doyle, of Strader's Hill, Ont., says:

For three years I had a very bad breaking out all over my face and went to a doctor who gave me a bottle of medicine which I used but got no benefit. I then went to another doctor who gave me medicine, but as my face kept getting worse I asked him to change the medicine, which he did, but it also failed to do any good and he told me he could do no more for me.

About three months ago I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and began using it; I soon found my face getting much better, so I got another bottle and used it, and on using the third bottle found my face completely cured. Several others who have followed my advice to try B. B. B. have been cured of similar troubles.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

HARSH COUGHS, Heavy Colds, Hoarseness, Asthma and Bronchitis are cured by Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The best lung remedy in the world.

COUGHING LEADS TO COFFIN unless stopped by Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, the safest and best cure for Coughs, Colds and Lung Troubles. Price 25c., all druggists.

NO REMEDY cures Coughs, Colds, Croup, Hoarseness, Asthma, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, etc., so well as Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It heals, soothes and strengthens the lungs and throat.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Have You Felt Slippers!

Inquired an old lady in a Shoe Store.

The clerk who was new at the business and young, answered, "Yes, Ma'm, many a time."

We have Felt Slippers, Felt Overshoes, Women's Felt Buttoned and Gaiter Boots, Moccasins, etc.

A Reduction of 10 per cent off all winter goods.

HAINES & LOCKETT

No Credit. One Price.

ANATOMY OF A BEE.

The Most Wonderfully Constructed of All Useful Insects.

A bee is divided into three sections—head, thorax and abdomen. It has five eyes—three in the form of a triangle in the centre of the forehead, and one on each side of the head. These, looked at under a microscope, are very beautiful. The autennae are the two flexible black horns on the head; with these bees recognize each other, and in them are supposed to be located the extremely sensitive organs of smelling and hearing. They are to the bee very much what the brain is to man. A bee deprived of her antennae loses her power of movement.

In the head and thorax of the worker bee are the nursing glands, which secrete a milky food fed to the larvae. These glands are very large in the young worker, while they act as nurses, but reduced in the old bees of a broodless colony. In the old bees they wither, more and more till they become shrunken and seemingly withered up. The queen, when egg-laying, is also fed from these glands. When honey is coming freely, and the queen is well fed, she has a very wonderful power of producing eggs, laying over 3000 per day, or more than three times her own weight.

In bees, as in all insects, the skeleton that supports the body is not internal as in animals, but mostly external, and is formed of a horny substance called chitine, which is flexible and capable of being molded into every conceivable shape and appearance. It forms the hard back of the repulsive cockroach, the beautiful scale-like feathers of the gaudy butterfly, the delicate membrane which supports the lace-wing in mid-air, and the black and yellow wings of our native and imported bees, besides internal braces, tendons and ducts innumerable.

The internal skeleton, hard for the most part, and varied in thickness in beautiful adaptation to the strain to which it may be exposed, gives consistency of form to the little wearer; but it needs, wherever movement is necessary, to have delicate extension joining the edges of the unyielding plates. Here the thick coat is reduced to a thin, easily-creased membrane, where by flexion one part is made to press over the other.—Cable.

WASTING MANURE.

DEVELOPMENT OF WOMAN.

